The women in our organization know and feel that they are workers and are not like the capitalist class who produce nothing and take everything. We chet do everything have nothing. It is up to us to show them that we will fight, women and men together until we win all that belongs to us.

Women, wake up and stay awake for we are on the road to emancipation and victory.

"INDIVIDUALIST"—OR ORGANIZED?

By FRED BOLAN.

DETROIT, Oct. 12.—What is to be done? Many workers know their condition while others have an instinctive feeling that they are getting the worst of it. The question these workers may ask is, "What are we going to do about it?" Some prefer to take what they think is the easiest way and stick along like another "best" of a bad job. When asked to organize in the struggle of their class they want to know why they should pay to keep labor leaders and union buildings.

Are "Individualists."

They prefer to "spend their own money." They are individualists and tell us that they are capable of fighting their own battles. That is just exactly what the employing class want them to think. The employer has no fear of an individual worker. He has him where he wants him so long as he is unorganized.

Some individual workers get in ahead by allowing themselves to be used as tools against the others. The individual worker, however, who becomes militant and goes to the boss with his demands, if he is able to reach the boss at all, usually gets turned down and sometimes fired from the job altogether. When the workers act indifferently to the employer, hat in hand, trembling, they are met with the sharp language: "What do you want?" A tongue-lashing is often their reward for their individual efforts. When the workers go as an organized body to demand an increase or better working conditions, they go hy proxy. The representatives are not in the employ of the master, but in the employ of the workers themselves. They do not have to fear the boss of the job or a tongue-lashing.

Turn Tables.

It is more often the other way about when the workers bargain collectively, when the representatives of the workers enter the inner office of the capitalist they are not met with "what can I do for you? Sit down. Let's talk it over." Negotiate, temporize, arbitrate, compromise These are the weapons the capitalists are obliged to resort to. They know that the workers have one thing that they cannot take away from them—that is their numbers.

Organization is the greatest weapon that the workers have at their disposal. All that the workers have ever gained has been thru the power of organization.

ROCHESTER LABOR IN BIG DRIVE FOR PASSAIC RELIEF

Is Stirred by Slur at A. F. of L.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Oct. 17.— Organized labor in Rochester has entered the struggle of the Passaic strikers in New Jersey textile industry with a determination to resist to the bitter end the employers' refusal to recognize the American Federation of Labor, so it was declared at a meeting of the Rochester Relief Conference last night in Carpenters' Hall.

Will Present Facts.

Chairman W. A. Denison, delegate of the Central Trades and Labor Council, appointed committees to reach all the local unions and fraternal organizations and place before them the autocratic methods of the mill barons in refusing to consider the demands of the 16,000 textile strikers, now out eight months, for better wages and the right to have their own union.

Relief Conference Augmented.

The representatives of 26 organizations, who came together at the conference call, were augmented last night by the Bakers' Union, Joseph Stenglein, delegate, the Metal Polishers, A. Heaphy and George Scott, and the Arbeiter Saenger band. Mr. Stenglein reported the bakers had adopted a weekly assessment in support of the strikers. Reports by John Flynn, M. Hartnett, Samuel Eaman, George Malcolm, Belle Rudin and Sol Horowitz showed a live interest in the relief work by many bodies.

Clothing Workers to Open Lecture Series

Local 39, Amalgamated Clothing Workers, will open its educational season on October 19 at the Douglas Park Auditorium, Kedzie and Ogden avenues. Prof. Jacob Wetzer of Chicago University, will be the first speaker. His subject is "The Political Status of This Country With Relation to the Labor Movement."

All members of the A. C. W. of A. are urged to attend this and following lectures.

LOW WAGES PAID MOTHERS MEANS DEATH TO BABES

Tragic Relation Between Pay and Death Rate

KATONAH, N. Y., Oct. 17.—(FP)—Women's Trade Union League delegates from New York, Philadelphia, Washington, Jersey City and Worcester met in a two-day conference at Brookwood Labor College on the problems affecting women in industry.

Maud Schwartz, of New York pointed to the 60 per cent increase of married women in the textile industry from 1910 to 1920, and the results of this. In the town of Manchester, N. H., dominated by the Amoskeag Manufacturing company, the infant death rate for factory mothers is given by the women's bureau survey as 227 per thousand, as compared with but 135 per thousand for non-working mothers.

Wages are very low in Manchester but in other towns where wages are higher and there is purer milk, better housing nurseries and better care for mothers and children the death rate was far lower.

A. J. Muste discussed the industrial welfare movement and its effect on trade unionism. Rose Schneiderman presided.

Milwaukee Workers Await Showing of Passaic Picture

The thrilling film is to be shown at the Columbia theater, Eleventh and Walnut streets. There will be two shows, 7 o'clock and 9 o'clock in the evening. The admission is 25 cents.

All proceeds go direct to the Passaic strike relief, and will be forwarded by the Milwaukee Relief Committee.

SPEECH FREEDOM DENIED WORKERS OF FALL RIVER

Police Chief Puts Ban on Discussion

FALL RIVER, Mass., Oct. 17.—The reactionary regime in Massachusetts is typified most strongly by the situation in Fall River where Chief of Police Martin Feeney has declared that the streets may not be used for public meetings.

The situation in Fall River developed thru a series of letters exchanged by the city authorities and the Workers Party of America. In response to a letter addressed by Bert Miller, district organizer, to Edmund P. Talgot, mayor of Fall River, the latter replied: "That there is no ordinance against speaking in the public streets and the right of free speech is guaranteed under the constitution of the United States." However, police regulations in Fall River are in charge of the chief of police and under the control of a state appointed commission.

Appeal to Governor.

A letter was then addressed to Governor Fuller of Massachusetts, who is running for re-election, as to his attitude on the question, and no definite reply was received. District Organizer Miller then addressed a letter to the chief of police. The letter quotes Section 20, Page 196 of the city ordinances of the necessary authority to stop street meetings. This section reads, "No person shall stand with, or near to, two or more persons upon any sidewalk or public place so as to obstruct or inconvenience traffic thereon." This section can be interpreted as to place in the hands of the city authorities the most high-handed authority to prohibit free speech.

Control All Meetings.

The chief of police said that there is no objection to holding meetings in buildings. "Unless things are said which ought not to be said." When asked what things ought not be said the chief of police replied, "Anarchistic statements advocating the overthrow of government or indecent, profane or insulting language."

According to the chief, common sense should dictate as to what things ought to and ought not to be said in such meetings.

Every effort will be made to break down the free speech barriers existing in Fall River, which are undoubtedly instituted on behalf of the mill owners of that city.

Fine Ladies Wait for Fine Clothes Because Working Girls Strike

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—(FP)—Stern York's "400"—or whatever figure more adequately represents the fashionable patrons of custom tailoring establishments—must wait for their fine clothes because the 400 striking members of Local 38, Intl. Ladies' Garment Workers' Union, are striking.

The cutters are winning additional numbers to the strike from the ranks of poorly paid girls who assist in the fine dressmaking and from the unorganized trimmers, furriers and milliners employed in these exclusive and expensive establishments.

More than 40 pickets were arrested the morning of the walk-out from the Fifth Ave. and 57th St. shops.

The workers demand a 40-hour week, 44 weeks per year guaranteed, 10 per cent to 25 per cent wage increase, and restriction of overtime. Negotiations with the Couturiers' Association were carried on for a number of weeks and the first strike order delayed to continue discussions, but all without avail. The total number of workers expected to join the strike is about 1500.

Finkelstein Suing the A. C. W. for $250,000 Damages for Striking

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—(FP)—Damages of $250,000 are sought from the Amalgamated Clothing Workers union by Sam Finkelstein and company, a large men's clothing manufacturing shop which the union has struck in an endeavor to bring it into contractual relations. The firm secured a temporary injunction barring union officers and the cutters' union from efforts to picket and persuade workers at the factory.

The employer charges union members with assaults and various illegal acts which the pickets deny emphatically. The case had over 200 witnesses.

FARMERS ARE JOINING HANDS WITH WORKERS

Wolfe Finds Interested Farmer Audience

By BERTRAM D. WOLFE.

MT. VERNON, Wash.—(By Mail.)—The farmers of Skagit county, Washington, that gathered in this little town, which is the county seat, last Sunday afternoon provided one of the best and, certainly the most interesting of the audiences that I have addressed in my national tour for the Workers Party electoral campaign. They came from all over the surrounding country and promptly on the stroke of 2, the very minute advertised, Chairman Elbe opened the meeting. Yeoman's hall was well-filled and very few farmers drifted in late. It was the first meeting I ever addressed that started on time.

"100 Per Cent American."

The audience was as near to "100 per cent American" as any I have ever seen gathered anywhere for any purpose, farmers with generations of American farming blood behind them, nurtured in the traditions of "old-fashioned Americanism," and keenly awake to the fact that ours has become "a government of the corporations, for the corporations and by the corporations."

The Workers Party is surprisingly strong in this rural district. It has a central core of industrial workers from the big canning factory and a few miscellaneous industries of the county seat, casual laborers, etc., and the rest of its membership consists of small farmers, struggling under the handicap of mortgage and tenantry and with manifold experiences as workers in industry acquired when driven off the land or before starting their farming.

Exact county cast 25 per cent of its total vote in the last elections for the Washington Farmer-Labor Party in spite of the rival LaFollette candidacy and the state of Washington as a whole, thanks chiefly to the rural districts cast over 40,000 votes for the Farmer-Labor Party in the same election. The Workers Party forms the backbone of the Farmer-Labor Party in Skagit county.

Expect Large Vote.

This year they expect to poll a much larger vote than they did two years ago. If their expectations are fulfilled election is within the realm of practical possibility. They have nominated G. C. Morrison, a teacher, for state senator; G. R. Bever of Sedro-Wooley, Hollis Abbott of Mt. Vernon, and William Fisher of Mt. Vernon, all farmers, for representatives in the state legislature.

The head of the state ticket is J. L. Freeman, a farmer who formerly was active in the Western Federation of Miners, of Tonasket. He is running for the United States senate against Jones, republican, and Bullitt, democrat.

Farmers Are Workers.

There is a constant interchange of worker and farmer here so that the small farmers are forever being driven off their land and back into industry or getting odd jobs for the winter and in the summer between planting and harvest time. They have been miners, loggers, worked in canning factories, on state roads, on construction work and as casuals. Their farms range in size from about 5 or 6 acres to 160 acres altho the average farm runs from 30 to 40 acres. Their land is the old timber land after the lumber companies have gotten thru with it and they have a hard and bitter battle with the stumps a higher price because of the clear-their "clearings."

Have Hard Struggle.

A hundred or two hundred dollars down gives them possession of the land and then the long weary toasts begins. Stumps are dynamited and plowed at and tugged on by teams and a bit of the land is slowly and painfully cleared for planting. In the meanwhile payments fall due on the purchase price, capital is needed for the long waits from spring to fall and for the implements and seeds. If they do dairying the big canning factory (in Skagit county it is the Carnation Condansed Milk company) dictates the terms and if it is apple raising (this is an apple country) then they sell apples to the big fruit packing companies often for less than the cost of growing them only to learn later that they are selling for five cents apiece and more in the big cities. If they cannot meet the payments on their land when they come due the land is taken from them partly cleared, they get nothing for their long uphill battle but a few debts and the land is sold again at of such farmers has a wide range of interest extending far beyond the limits of their community and their own work. They asked questions about the Canton "Red" army, when Russia would be recognized, why the P. I. (Seattle Post-Intelligencer) was printing news more friendly to Russia now, who would succeed Mussolini, how soon our ruling class would plunge us into a new war, whether the ku klux klan was weakening in the country, why it is still fairly strong in Skagit county) and many similar questions. They also asked me my opinion of single tax, and what I thot of the Communist position of the international Bible Students. The adherent of the International Bible students remained with his organization but, needless to say, without their authorization, pledged their support to the Workers Party "in destroying the iniquitous powers that be in this world and clearing the ground for the world to come" whereas the single taxer, long prominent in the Farmer-Labor Party, professed himself satisfied with my criticism of the single tax philosophy and, when I appealed for members, joined the Workers Party

Armour's "Castile" Soap Fake, Says U. S.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—So-called "castile" soaps made by Armour & Co. of Delaware, owned by Armour & Co. of Chicago, are known in fact not castile soaps because animal fats including tallow are used in place of olive oil in their manufacture, says a complaint made public by the Federal Trade Commission. It quotes their advertisements as false statements.

Political Program

1. Relief from the evils of the mortgages and tenantry evil thru the adoption of a land tenure system which will secure the land to the users.

2. The nationalization of the railroads, the most packing plants, grain elevator combines and the control and management of these marketing organizations by the representatives of working farmers in co-operation with the organizations of city industrial workers who are employed in these industries.

3. The control and operation of the farm credit system by the organizations of working farmers, in place of thru capitalist banking institutions which now use this, the farm credit system, for their enrichment.

4. Relief for the farmers from the excessive burden of taxation thru levying higher income taxes, and inheritance taxes on the swollen fortunes of great capitalist exploiters and higher taxes on the profits of the railroads and great industrial combines.

5. Against the expenditures for a big army and navy, which serve no other purpose than to support the imperialist adventures of the great financial houses of Wall Street in other countries.

6. Fight against Wall Street Dollar Diplomacy" and expenditure of the wealth produced by the farmers and industrial workers to support the capitalist exploiters in their effort to make profits out of the people of Cuba, the South American countries, China and the Philippines. Freedom for the Philippines. Self-determination for Porto Rico, Hawaii With drawal of all American soldiers and marines from the Central and South American countries. No intervention in China.

7. Against the Dawes plan, thru which the American banking houses are securing control of European industries and paving the way for a new war.

8. Close co-operation with the farmers of other countries and particularly the farmers of Russia, who are the important factors in the world market. The recognition and establishment of economic relations with the first workers' and farmers' government—the Union of Socialist Soviet Republics.

9. The alliance of the working farmers and city industrial workers to establish a workers' and farmers' government of the United States. Only a united struggle of all working farmers, together with the city industrial workers, in support of this program will win relief for the farmers from the conditions under which they now suffer.

STRIKE-BREAKING COAL SHIPS HURT U. S. FARM PRICES

Wheat and Cotton Both Affected by Strike

The British coal strike is having its effect even upon the American farmers, according to grain exporters of Chicago. The demand for ocean tonnages to carry scab coal to Great Britain and the markets previously supplied by British coal, is a part of the reason grain exportation is stumping.

Prices for grain are much lower and cotton is off more than 50 per cent, causing a depression to some degree in many lines of capitalist speculation. The closing for lack of coal of the British cotton mills is hitting cotton prices severely.

The prohibitive rates asked for ocean shipping, due to the coal carrying to break the British strike, has made it impossible for grain exporters to get shipping and on the other hand made it possible for the Soviet Union to market its 72,000,000 bushels of surplus wheat to advantage in European markets.

If the strike of the miners continues much longer, the South American wheat exporters will also be involved in the same trouble, and in both North and South America the accumulation of supplies and a restricted demand will further affect the prices.

Cotton Growers of Texas Forced to Stop Producing

By M. L.

FORT WORTH, Tex., Oct. 17. — There are plenty of long faced people in Texas. Why? Because the cotton growers got hit very bad this year. Many of them raised cotton on the halves and now, as the prices have dropped so low that only a very small margin is left, many will not stay and pick their crops. Why? Just listen. To pick a bale of cotton costs $18 bauling costs. $4.50, ginning costs, $8.75 making a total of $36.25 for production. The farmer gets $71 for the bale and sees, but he must give the landlord half of the bearing him a profit of 75 cents.

Those conditions are causing the farmers to quit, move off their land, and leave their year's work behind them. And it is beginning to look as if much cotton will be left in the fields, unpicked, next winter.

Piece-Work and the A. C. W. in Montreal

Some time ago, following the Montreal strike of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers, THE DAILY WORKER published a news article by Victor Frank, charging, at least by inference, that the A. C. W. officials were trying to compel the members to agree to piece-work.

H. Schneid, a general organiser of the A. C. W., resented the charge and sent us a very lengthy letter challenging us for proof. He cited Maurice Spector, editor of the Worker of Canada, as one who would vouch for his claims. In conclusion he said:

"Yes—piece-work, week-work, standard of production maximum and minimum, are the problems that is facing us and we cannot by mere resolution do away with it. It must be faced and will be faced; not thru high-handed manners to choke down the rank and file, but thru consulting and soliciting the opinions of the membership. We will install a system that will safeguard the jobs of the workers for which they have and are now and will in the future have to struggle.—H. Schneid."

From Maurice Spector we received a letter from which we quote the following essential paragraphs:

"This strike in Montreal was an organization strike. Its' demands were for the recognition of the union. The outcome was that the union signed up between twenty and thirty new shops. It goes without saying that the left wing fought valiantly for the organization objectives of the strike.

"Immediately following the strike, however, there were rumors among the membership that piece-work was under discussion by the 'higher-ups' of the Amalgamated. And the presence in Montreal of Weinstein of Chicago, the Amalgamated's production expert who surveyed one shop, Kellerts, seemed to give countenance to these rumors.

"While no official openly urged the members to accept piece-work, neither did the general officers deny that there was a danger of the introduction of piece-work.

"Finally the pressers' local adopted a strongly worded resolution denouncing the piece-work idea and 'those who were silent' about it, which resolution was published in the Freiheit. Since then the talk of piece-work died down and there is apparently no suggestion of introducing this system into shops organized previous to the strike.

"I SAY 'APPARENTLY,' BECAUSE NOWHERE IN SCHNEID'S OPEN LETTER IS THERE A CATEGORIC REJECTION OF THE IDEA OF PIECE-WORK, AND WHAT DOES HE REALLY MEAN BY HIS PERORATION THAT 'WE WILL INSTALL A SYSTEM THAT WILL SAFEGUARD THE JOBS OF THE WORKERS,' ETC.? WHAT DOES THIS MEAN?" (Emphasis ours.)

We, too, are in the dark as to Brother Schneid's enigmatic utterance, and we, too, cannot see why, if he is opposed to piece-work as a settlement of the problem, he does not come out and say so in plain words. This would assure the workers that his indignation at the charge of Victor Frank was not founded upon a post-mortem expediency, but upon principle.

Why the Open Shop Changed its Tune

The American Federation of Labor opened with a blast from the "open shop" organization of Detroit, telling the A. F. of L. to keep its hands off that city and its huge auto industry.

The convention closed with the same open shoppers singing peans of praise of the Green Wolf bureaucracy of the A. F. of L. Particularly do the open shoppers show their affinity with the reactionary officials of the A. F. of L. in the latter's attack on the Soviet Union, and their refusal even to investigate the first workers' and farmers' republic.

But this is not all.

While the open shop organs, which savagely attacked the labor movement when the convention began, voicing a bitter opposition to even a suggestion that the 700,000 workers in the auto industry should be unionized, their silence on this particular subject as the convention closes, together with their enthusiastic laudation of the Green administration on the attack against the Soviet Union, proves that the Detroit open shoppers feel assured that so far as Green and the A. F. of L. officials are concerned, they were mistaken in fearing any serious drive to unionize the auto industry of Detroit.

The Green officialdom has, by its evasion of the challenge of the open shoppers, given this assurance.

The organization of the workers of the auto industry was taken up by the convention of the Metal Trades Department. But it referred the matter to the A. F. of L. convention.

The A. F. of L. convention, in turn, referred the matter to the executive council.

The executive council met directly after the convention, but took no action. The council will not meet again until January in St. Petersburg, Florida—far from the disturbing roar of the machines in the open shop auto factories of Detroit where 700,000 workers still await organization.

The Detroit open shoppers quite naturally feel assured that the "anti-red" talk of the convention was merely for public consumption, that it don't mean anything.

It is up to the left wing in the A. F. of L., particularly in the metal trades, to force the organization of the auto industry.

ADMINISTRATION STANDS CHANCE OF LOSING BOTH HOUSES IN CONGRESSIONAL ELECTIONS

G. O. P. leaders are becoming worried over the progress of the party's fortunes in a number of states in which the outcome of the elections is doubtful so far as the re-election of White House stand-patters is concerned. Map (with key at lower left) shows political situation in various states. Below are the campaign leaders. Left to right: Chairman Lawrence Phipps of Republican senatorial campaign committee; Rep. Wm. R. Wood of the republican congressional committee; Chairman Peter G. Garry of the democratic senate committee, and Wm. A. Oldfield of the democratic congressional committee.

How the Soviet Union Deals With Strikes

By ANNA LOUISE STRONG.

CRIMEA, Oct. 11—Some folks think there are never any strikes in the Soviet Union,—that these are suppressed with an iron hand. It is true that there are infinitely fewer than in most places—but none the less they occur, in the past two days there have been two of them in the newspapers.

The first was a little strike of boot and shoe workers in eight workshops in the town of Beezeran, which refused to grant the demands of the union for increase of pay. The central committee of the boot makers' union sanctioned the strike, which was completely successful. The undertaking signed a collective agreement granting the demands, and the strike-days were paid wages like ordinary work-days, since the strike was considered the fault of the management. That's a typical strike in a private establishment.

More Serious Affair.

BUT here is a more serious strike. On a government railroad, under conditions which sound like an I. W. W. description of construction work in the Imperial Valley of California. It is a pretty bad situation, on the far borders of Afghanistan in central Asia, a railroad is being built across a hot, sandy desert, shortening the old caravan route by many days. "It is hard, very hard," writes the soviet journalist describing the strike, "to lay steel rails across shifting sands on a waterless waste, with temperatures from 120 to 140 degrees. One would think that the knights of spade and mattock, called upon to conquer this desert, might count on some attention to their needs.

"But the affair proceeded thus: They sent the workers to the desert, gave them some tools, and some dozens of technical bosses and only, "Get busy . . ." Of human dwellings not a trace. Under canvas tents on the glowing sands, hot enough to cook eggs, the building workers must sleep.

Private Menager.

"The food provision was let on contract to a private manager. This fellow greased his hands at the cost of the workers' bellies . . . A bitter complaint was the water 'supply.' The administrator was obliged to supply the workers with water. And they 'supplied' it, muddy and warm, in old kerosene and oil barrels. In the matter of wood for boiling this water, the 'regime of economy' was strictly observed.

"From dirty unboiled water and rotten food many got sick. There was a doctor on the pay roll but no real medical attention . . . The technical bosses in their attitude towards the workers revived all the mean practices of the old regime . . . For a long time the diggers actually did not know what pay they were getting. There was a collective agreement, all right—two of them; one signed by the administration of the construction with the representatives of the artel (working gang) without knowledge of the union, and the other signed by the officials of the building workers' union, without knowledge of the first agreement and without consulting the workers on the job. The actual situation first became clear to many of the workers when on casting up accounts for provisions and other conveniences, they were told they owed the railroad money."

THE district attorney came down and the workers committee went away and did nothing. Many other little bureaucrats behaved likewise. Finally the workers lost all faith in the "local authorities" and struck to the number of 700.

From Samarcand and Tashkent there came down a highly authoritative commission. It was enough for them to come to the construction camp, to hear the complaints of the workers, to satisfy them within reason, to set up a court of arbitration—and literal is within a few hours the strike was over and the workers resumed work.

Like Wobbly incident.

So far except perhaps for the last sentence one might be reading the complaint of an I. W. W. construction gang in the sands of the Mohave desert. Construction gangs reclaiming wilderness are much alike and have much the same problems. Even the rare problem recurs. Just as a construction gang on the Rio Grande would have a large majority of Mexicans, unorganized, ignorant of the laws of America so this gang of casual laborers on the edge of Afghanistan was not Russian, but made up of the backward unorganized tribes of central Asia, probably largely illiterate, peculiarly unprotected As for the problems of the manager, the technical and financial, no doubt these also existed, but the Soviet journalist does not mention them.

SO far, then, it might have been anywhere. But now comes the difference. Who was punished for this strike? The Soviet placing of responsibility and the various relations between various organizations—government, unions, Communist Party—is strikingly shown by the resolution adopted by the Central Asiatic Bureau of the Communist Party:

"The bureau entrusts to the department of labor (government) and to the Asiatic section of the Central Trade Unions—the legal prosecution of the technical and administrative personnel, who engaged and sent out workers under such conditions.

"We remind the Communist Party of Uzbekistan (the minor nationality under which this occurred) that they have failed to carry out the orders of the party regarding work among casual construction workers . . . We call attention also to the absence of any kind of work among these workers on the part of the construction workers' union.

Drastic Action.

"The facts of such neglect towards workers' conditions, the facts of such a criminally bureaucratic attitude by the construction workers' union towards the needs of these casual workers, form grounds for a special reelection. In the organizations of the nearby local union there will be carried out new elections of the controlling committees. Thereafter, in the nearest future there will be held a special regional congress of construction workers. In the trade union from the bottom and up thru to the top there will take place a thoro shake-up.

"The county committee of the Communist Party in this region of the strike, is herewith dismissed, and its members called to account before the party; and there is ordered a special party conference for the election of a new county committee . . . (for having failed in their duty of protecting the workers.")

U. S. Compared.

ANY worker used to American conditions will have to read this resolution two or three times to get his feet to the approach to a strike in the Soviet Union. Imagine a strike of unorganized construction workers, most- ly Mexicans in the Mojave desert, And imagine a high commission from Los Angeles and Stockton setting forth to the scene of the trouble, hearing complaints, satisfying them . . .

So far, perhaps, you can imagine, under some reform administration. Even, perhaps, might be imagined, under some remarkably liberal state department of labor, a prosecution of the employment agencies and management which sent workers to such conditions it would be rare, but it might conceivably happen.

But then imagine—no, you can't—a meeting of the republican party committee for the southwest—ordering its county committee disbanded and held to account and a new election held for failing to care for the needs of Mexican workers in its vicinity. Imagine furthermore, a re-election from top to bottom in the appropriate district union of the A. F. of L. on the ground that they had criminally failed in their duty towards these casual unorganized workers—had failed to send organizers among them or to protect them in any way.

HOW simple it would be for an anti-Soviet propagandist, using nine-tenths of the above facts, to point out that when an unauthorized strike occurred in Russia because of rotten conditions, the trade union officials were punished for allowing the strike. Quite true. Strikes in Soviet government undertakings are considered a disgrace to somebody. Not only to the bosses who have disregarded the needs of the workers, but to the appropriate trade union officers, who were asleep at their posts and allowed workers' conditions to reach such a disgraceful state that there was left as recourse to the terrible

We have been pounding away in our appeals to get $10,000 by October 18. The readers, friends and supporters of The DAILY WORKER have not responded to this hurry call. Obviously, it's our fault. We have not been able to bring the point home.

The situation we are in is very far from good. There would be no use in throwing sand into your eyes. We must from today on double the rate of our income in the drive to KEEP THE DAILY WORKER.

Up to Monday, October 16, the total received in the campaign to KEEP THE DAILY WORKER was $6,504.32. This is good work, but not good enough, in view of the demands and difficulties The DAILY WORKER is facing.

We are sure our appeal is not going to fall and has not fallen on deaf ears. The last week's income has shown a surprising improvement. The KEEP THE DAILY WORKER army is certainly rallying and delivering results.

All one has to do to see that The DAILY WORKER has a real place in the hearts of thousands of our working men and working women is to look at the leap in the money turned in to us in the last week to KEEP THE DAILY WORKER:

| Date | Sum |
|---|---|
| October 11 | $ 552.21 |
| October 12 and 13 | 2,004.06 |
| October 14 | 381.83 |
| October 15 | 272.00 |
| Oct. 16 | 623.00 |
| October 17 | 919.00 |

In the last week The KEEP THE DAILY WORKER army has brought in nearly four thousand dollars—$3,667.89 to be exact.

Indeed this is an achievement worthy of genuine proletarian pride. What better proof could one look for to find that The DAILY WORKER really has an urgent need to fulfil and that it is meeting the need to the satisfaction of the class conscious workers?

At this pace we will have the fifty thousand dollars in ten weeks more of campaigning to KEEP THE DAILY WORKER. But we surely can and will improve as the drive gains momentum.

Let's hurry up and get our first ten thousand dollars without a loss of another day. We have fallen somewhat behind our estimates and far behind our needs. This should only spur us on to better results. More and bigger donations are the remedy for the crisis.

Let's go ahead! Let's leave the ten thousand dollar line away behind. Let's go forward to a speedy and successful campaign.

Do you want to KEEP THE DAILY WORKER? OF COURSE!

WILL YOU KEEP THE DAILY WORKER? YOU BET!

Then let's hear from you today, by check, money order, wire, or cash.

Tried to Buy Off Smith With Appointment

MAGILL BACKERS OFFERED BRIBE TO INSULL MAN

Rosenwald, of Sears & Roebuck, Behind Deal

A political deal by which Frank L. Smith, Samuel Insull's republican nominee for senator in Illinois, would be tendered a federal appointment by President Coolidge's administration if he withdrew from the senatorial campaign was told to the senate slush fund committee today by Geo. B. Safford, state superintendent of the Anti-saloon League at the re-opening of the slush fund inquiry into the Illinois "million dollar" primary.

The deal was revealed to him, Safford said, by Rev. Robert O'Brien, a Chicago Presbyterian minister. It had been through Safford added, that O'Brien later supported the Republican candidacy of Hiram E. Magill. Safford also testified O'Brien told him that Major L. Lake had raised a campaign fund between $300,000 and $400,000 for the senatorial race.

The witness added that O'Brien thought this money would be spent through loopholes in the federal corrupt practices act.

Julius Rosenwald Behind Deal.

The alleged deal to give Col. Smith a federal appointment was arranged by Julius Rosenwald, multi-millionaire head of Sears Roebuck," Safford said O'Brien had told him. The witness added that O'Brien said Rosenwald made a special trip to Washington to arrange the appointment with "The Coolidge administration."

Safford first told of "discussing the Illinois senatorial race" with Rev. Robert O'Brien, the Chicago minister. Safford said O'Brien was interested in getting an independent candidate to run in place of Frank L. Smith, the republican nominee.

Rev. O'Brien told me he represented Julius Rosenwald, Harold L. Ickes and Col. A. V. Smith of Washington," said Safford. The object was to get Smith to withdraw and to get an independent to run in his place.

Safford added that Rev. O'Brien had hinted that Frank L. Smith would withdraw.

"How," asked Reed.

"He said some kind and an appointment would be tendered him," said Safford.

"By whom?"

"By the administration at Washington," said Safford.

"The Coolidge administration?" asked Reed.

"Yes," said Safford.

Arranged With Col.

"He said Julius Rosenwald had just returned from a conference in Washington and that it was all arranged for Col. Smith to be given a federal appointment."

"Who did Rosenwald confer with?"

"He didn't say."

Safford then testified that he had told O'Brien that the anti-saloon league would not support anybody else in the senatorial race unless Col. Smith withdrew.

"I told him his race couldn't win because it was so late in the campaign and he would need a huge campaign fund," said Safford.

"He said they were ready to spend between $300,000 and $400,000 for Magill's election. I told him he couldn't raise the money and he hammered his fist on the table and said, "We have the money now!" When I asked him how he would spend so much money without violating the law, he said

Max Eastman Again Attacks the Russian Soviet Revolution

By MAX BEDACHT

THE Russian Revolution has torn the mask of revolutionary integrity off many a petty bourgeois Philistine. In the storm of a revolution the sanctimonious sermons of "inalienable rights of humans" are buried under the inalienable rights of the revolutionary class.

The parlor revolutionists of old saw in the problem of the bohame the problems of the whole world. And now, when the problems of the whole world are accentuated in a real and unadulterated revolution the bohema is aghast for finding its own problems buried beneath the barrage of the struggle of the proletariat with capitalism.

American capitalism also has made its contribution to the world of la boheme. One of the outstanding figures of that bohemian world was Max Eastman.

MAX EASTMAN was a liberal, petty bourgeois who saw in his own little conflicts with the American big bourgeoisie and its government the conflict of the ages. Max Eastman went to Russia. He hoped to appeal to the Russian Revolution against the big bourgeoisie which had wronged him. But Eastman came back appealing to the big bourgeoisie of the world against the Russian Revolution. Eastman not only appeals. He also cashes in on the appeal. He "produces" evidence against the Russian Revolution. But he also produces evidence against the appellant and against the court of appeals. To prove its bias the court, the capitalist press, pays a fat fee to the appellant for the "evidence." And to prove his own rascality the appellant pockets the fee.

Thus it comes about that the New York Times could syndicate an article by Max Eastman, reproduced in the Chicago Tribune and a host of other kept dailies, which purports to contain:

First, the last will and testament of Lenin.

Second, confessions of Zinoviev.

Third, a statement by Trotsky on the Russian Party controversy.

FIRST of all, let us make it clear that Max Eastman does not care a continental about the "justice of injustice of any of the sides in the Russian Party controversy.

He is against the Russian Revolution. He uses the controversy:

First, to "earn" his thirty pieces of silver. (Of course, the price of traitors has considerably gone up

CAPITALIST LACKEYS BOW KNEE TO ROYALTY AS LABOR SHOWS DISAPPROVAL OF AUTOCRACY

(Special to The Daily Worker)

NEW YORK, Oct. 18. — Representatives of Tammany Hall, Wall Street and Washington joined today in bowing Queen Marie and her royal party an obsequious welcome to the "greatest democracy in the world." Guarded by contingents of United States marines and soldiers, accompanied by generals and admirals in full dress, the Queen's procession into New York was marked by all the pomp and circumstance of a triumphant entry into a captured city.

The prostration of politicians and plutocrats before a representative of one of the most tyrannical royal families in Europe, however, was marred by the staging of a huge workers' demonstration in Union Square against the reception of the Queen. It was the only relief from a well planned program of suppression of all America's vaunted democratic traditions in the presence of a member of a ruling family.

20,000 CHEER DEFIANCE OF POLICE RULE

Back I. L. G. Strikers at Huge Meeting

(Special to The Daily Worker)

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—Labor, defiant, delivered another blow against the use of the injunction and arrests in New York Saturday afternoon when a mass estimated at 20,000 gathered at Union Square and cheered their approval of the speakers' demands that the use of the courts to break strikes be discontinued.

Militancy stalked thru the gathering. Shouts of approval broke out at the suggestion of labor vigorously fighting the use of political power against the workers. Every suggestion of the necessity of aggressiveness and fight on the part of the workingclass to change their conditions was greeted with sweeping applause.

Tammany Labor Official Backs Out.

The success of the demonstration was accomplished despite the sabotage of the officials of the Central Labor Council. In spite of the fact that this body was represented in the Emergency Labor Conference where the program of a demonstration and march on the city hall was promulgated, their support was withdrawn Friday night.

Destructive tactics were also employed by Abe Beckerman, manager of the New York Joint Board of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers, who declared that the name of his organization had been used without authorization as there had as yet been no action taken. This was said despite the fact that his union was also represented in the Emergency Labor Conference which decided upon the demonstration.

The fact that the demonstration was to march on the city hall and make demands on Mayor Walker against the injunction is believed to be the cause of the defection of the Trades and Labor Council officials, who are associated with Tammany Hall. These officials agreed to speak at the Union Square meeting but would oppose everything if the march to city hall took place.

Speakers, who spoke from half a dozen stands simultaneously, denounced the use of political power against the workers in their struggles. Among the speakers were Benjamin Gitlow, Norman Thomas and William Weinstone who have been regularly addressing strike meetings.

Other speakers were: J. J. Cronhlin, secretary of the Central Trades and Labor Council; J. M. Budish, sec-

"Harmony and Cooperation" Triumph in Communist Party of the Soviet Union as the Opposition Leaders Accept the Conditions that are Presented to Them

By JOHN PEPPER.

(Special to The Daily Worker)

MOSCOW, U. S. S. R. Oct. 18. — The Pravda, official organ of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union, published a statement today concerning the situation within the party. Among other things, the statement deals with the minimum demands of the Central Committee to the opposition.

Thase demands were made in reply to the opposition statament to the committee regarding the expediency of restoring "harmony and co-operation." It also contained declarations signed by Zinoviav, Trotsky, Kamenev, Piatakoff, Sokolnikoff, Evdokimoff, accepting the conditions presented to them. The signatories of the statement declare that they will unconditionally abide by all decisions of the 14th Party Congress, all decisions of the Central Committee, as well as all decisions of the Central Control Commission.

THEY agree to carry out all obligations put upon them by these committees and to call upon their followers to do the same. They reject catagorically the theory and practice of "freedom of fractions and groupings." The leaders of the opposition declare resolutely to give up all factional methods in the defense of their views and call upon their adherents to dissolve immediately all factional groupings formed around the opposition. The signatories of the declaration recognize that their actions in Moscow and in Leningrad violated the decision of the Central Committee concerning the inadmissibility of discussion.

They also recognize that they have done wrong in mantioning at the 14th Congress about the Stockholm conference because altho Krupskaya certainly did not have it in her mind, yet mantioning it could be interpreted as a threat to split. The signatorios further declare that they consider the views of Osovsky, Madvedeff (advocating the liquidation of the Comintern and the Profintern, attempting to unite with the socialdamocracy, extanding the polioy of concessions beyond the limit set by Lenin, etc.) as basically wrong and completely contrary to their views.

THEY further subscribe completely to the astimation given by Lenin to the platform of Shilapnikoff and Madvedoff. The signatories further declare that they consider absolutely inadmissible any support direct or indirect of any factional groups within any of the sections of the Comintern whether it be the group of Ruth Fisher, Maslolf, Urbane and Weber in Germany, Souvarine in France or Bordiga in Italy.

Assuming political responsibility for the actions of those of their adherents who were expelled from the party on account of their break of discipline by indulging in factional methods of struggle the signatories express their hope of a complete cessation of the factional struggle on the part of those expelled oppositionists, which would provide the possibility for all of the repenting members of the opposition to be reaccepted in the party. In conclusion, the signatories declare that they will undertake the obligations to assist the party by all means in the liquidation of the factional strife and in the prevention of a recurrence of a violation of party discipline.

THE statement of the Central Committee points out that the declaration of the opposition may be considered as the minimum prerequisites guaranteeing the party unity. It declares further that the next task consists of continuing the ideological struggle against the mistakes in principle of the opposition which were not repudiated, and in taking all measures to put into affect the minimum of understanding reached, thus giving life to the agreement and assuring the party unity.

LEWIS FRIEND OF OPERATORS, BROPHY SHOWS

Coyle Replies to His "Flagrant Falsehood"

(Special to The Daily Worker)

CLEARFIELD, Pa., Oct. 18. — The miners' union must clean out the corruptionists who are more friendly to the coal operators than to the men, says John Brophy, president of the central Pennsylvania miners and candidate for international president of the United Mine Workers of America, in a press statement, replying to John L. Lewis' accusations of a Bolshevik plot. Lewis' charge that outside influences were behind the Brophy candidacy are branded as a "smoke screen" to hide the failure of the present administration to save the union. The statement follows:

"My attention has just been called to an article in the New York Times of October 13, relating to a letter alleged to have been read by one of the delegates at the American Federation of Labor convention. This letter, purporting to have been written by Albert Coyle, editor, Locomotive Engineers Journal, to Powers Hapgood, a coal miner of District No. 2, United Mine Workers of America, is concerned with plans for a labor paper and also with my candidacy for international president of the mine workers.

Candidacy Based on Program.

"This letter has never reached Powers Hapgood, and neither he nor I know anything of it until it was made public by President Lewis at Detroit. It (the article) is evidently an attempt to discredit my candidacy of the United Mine Workers of America, and the labor movement is responsible for my candidacy. In this matter I wish to state that I have become a candidate for international president of the miners' union in response to a desire on the part of a large group of our membership who believe in the principles I have advocated.

Must Organize Non-Union Fields.

"I feel convinced that in order to save the union from the perilous situation it is facing at the present time, we must adopt stronger policies than the present administration is willing to endorse. We must not only stand firmly against reductions of our present wage scale, but in order to do this effectually we must organize the non-union fields. This can only be done by means of forcing the big coal companies to sign up for their non-union mines, where the miners wish to belong to the union, if they

POLICE CHIEF SUED FOR HIS ILLEGAL ACTS

Needed no Warrant" to Arrest Workers

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 18.—(FP)—Suit for $30,000 damages for false arrest has been filed against Chief of Police Hamilton Brown, of Aliquippa, Pa., a company town of the Jones & Laughlin steel interests, by 3 men arrested without a warrant while conducting a labor study class in Marxian economics, and later realleed.

The American Civil Liberties Union and the International Labor Defense are pressing the suit thru attorneys George Shaffer of Pittsburgh and Henry A. Wilson, of Beaver, Pa.

Bootleggers Welcome, Radicals Barred.

Aliquippa is one of the steel towns in the Pittsburgh district where bootlegging prospers and freedom of speech and assemblage are unknown. For some time the town police and the special Jones & Laughlin guards have been keeping an eye on the barber shop of Peter Musolin, one of the elected men, and it is charged, warning customers away from his bedrestting and shaving trade.

Musolin has been having friends from the steel mills at his home of evenings reading radical literature and discussing the problems of the unorganized steel workers, the police say.

"Ham" Raids The Place

July 28 a dozen men and women were assembled in the large room at the rear of the barbershop when the police rushed in. With his hand on his revolver Chief "Ham", as he is called, shouted that they were a lot of laborite and undor arrest.

Musolin, Thomas Zima and Milan Kmetz, the three men now filling cells were among several of the group. They were taken to the police station in handcuffs. There they were detained two hours about their racial and labor views and studies and creed.

Veterans Have No "Reputation"

Chief "Ham" sneered that he needed no warrants. Later when the workers' attorney pressed their case, his lawyer argued that the men had no case because as "disloyal citizens" they "have no reputation to be injured by being placed under arrest."

Hat and Cap Makers of Chicago Holding Big Meeting Tonight

A mass meeting will be held by all the locals of the United Cloth, Cap and Millinery Workers union of Chicago on Tuesday, October 19th, 1926, at Douglas Park Auditorium, Ogden and Sacramento Ave., at 8:00 p.m. Brother John Fitzpatrick, president of the Chicago Federation of Labor will address the meeting.

The General Officers of the International union who attended the American Federation of Labor convention, will be in Chicago in time for this big meeting. Brothers M. Zucker, secretary treasurer, I. H. Goldberg, general executive board member, Percy Ginsburg, general organizer and member of the general executive board will be the speakers.

SOCIALIST VISITOR IS GUEST OF JUDGE GARY, STEEL TRUST HEAD

Miss Tony Sender, German socialist, now visiting the United States and touring the country under the auspices of the Socialist Party, accepted an invitation to visit Gary's steel mills from Judge Elbert H. Gary, chairman of the board of directors of the United States Steel corporation and outstanding open-shopper and union-buster in the United States.

In a speech delivered before a typical socialist audience of doctors, lawyers, druggists, second-hand clothing vendors and half a dozen workers, Miss Sender devoted most of her time to assuring American capitalists that their European investments were safe.

GARY STEEL MILLS USING EFFICIENCY

Makes Many Jobless; Speed the Rest

GARY, Ind., Oct. 18.—So-called efficiency men are put on the job in all departments of the Illinois Steel company. The mission of these efficiency men is to eliminate all "superfluous" help and devise more efficient ways of carrying on production.

The steel workers, even before the introduction of the efficiency men, were driven at top speed. This last measure of the steel trust will drain the last remnants of energy that remain in the men.

Puts Scores on the Street.

The new efficiency scheme as applied to the machine shop of the Illinois Steel company works as follows: Out of the 120 men comprising the night shift, 40 were laid off. —

The remaining force is neatly told by the foreman who explains to them that the mills are in a hurry for the work given out to the men and the result is that the same amount of work is turned out by the four-fifths of the men formerly employed in the machine shop.

Goes Ford One Better.

Henry Ford conceived the scheme of having his men turn out the same amount of work in a five-day week, as they formerly turned out in six days. Judge Gary goes him one better, and has the men speeded up without allowing them one additional day of rest.

Strike "Settled," But Firms Lock Out Union Tailors in New York

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—(FP)—Two hundred ladies' tailors in the fashionable garment making establishments of Teppe, Bendel, Thurm and Hickson found the strike that was supposedly settled in victory a lockout when they attempted to return to their work benches.

The employers said they had no work, tried to stall that this is not a busy season altho the society names are just stocking up for winter affairs, and some said they hadn't heard the strike was settled.

The union signed an agreement with the Contractors Association which includes 18 Fifth Ave. and nearby fashion shops. Edwin Goodman, president of the employers' association, is supposed to be striving to have all strikers taken back into the shops.

want to operate their mines in the solidly organized districts.

"We must educate our membership on the necessity of the nationalization of mines, the six-hour day and the five day week and a Labor Party, in order to hold our organization together.

Must Clean Out Corruptionists.

"Furthermore, we must have honest elections and clean out the corruptionists in our union who are more friendly to the coal operators than to the miners.

"It is because of my firm belief that the above named principles are the desire of a large part of our membership, and because of the wide demand for someone to stand for these issues, that I have become a candidate and it should be self evident that I am in no way influenced by those who are alleged by my opponent to be working to destroy the miners' union. The fact that certain progressives outside the miners' union may be sympathetic or write letters to their friends inside the miners' union does not prove that those friends need or take advice on policies that might be given.

Membership Wants Action.

"The fact is that my campaign is based entirely on the desire of that part of the membership who wish that the principles that have been endorsed time after time at our international conventions be carried out. The principles recommended above and in my circular of September 24, accepting my nomination, are based on resolutions frequently passed by the delegates of the rank and file at conventions. It is because of this program and this only that I am a candidate.

"I hope the minds of the members will not be confused, that the real issues will not be covered under the smoke screen of outside influences put out by my opponents to hide their failure to strengthen and preserve our union."

Coyle's Reply to Lewis.

CLEVELAND, O., Oct. 18. — Concerning the statements of John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, at the Detroit convention of the American Federation of Labor, in which Lewis raised a great hue and cry against his opposing candidate, John Brophy, and sought to connect Brophy with others whom he labelled "reds," including Albert F. Coyle, editor of the Locomotive Engineers' Journal, Coyle has issued the following reply:

Lewis Lies.

"Mr. Lewis' allegations that I am in any way connected with the Communist Party is a flagrant falsehood, all the more contemptible because he made it knowing that I was not present to refute it.

"His assertion that the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers owns the Coal River collieries or any other mines is equally untrue. I can say emphatically that this brotherhood has no connection whatever with the collieries and does not have one penny in them. Neither the brotherhood nor its bank has any investment in that company or any interest in its management.

Does Not Control Delegation.

"Mr. Lewis' statement that the delegation of labor union executives who contemplate a visit to Europe, including Russia, next summer has any connection with the Soviet government or Communist Party is wholly and unqualifiedly false.

"It is likewise untrue that I am running this party, since it is under the responsible chairmanship of L. E. Sheppard, president of the Order of Railway Conductors, and it will include reputable executives of several of the brotherhoods as well as of unions affiliated with the A. F. of L.

Lewis on the Defensive.

"While I have no right or desire to comment in any way on the internal politics of the A. F. of L. since the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers is not connected with that organization, it is perfectly obvious that Mr. Lewis' violent and untruthful attack was motivated by partisan reasons to bolster up his own political fortunes in his own organization.

"I am confident that I speak with the approval of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers when I say that this organization would scrupulously avoid taking any part whatever in a bitter political contest that is rending another organization."

U. S. UNIVERSITY STUDENTS VISIT RUSSIAN SCHOOLS

Brookwood Representative Describes Trip

(BLISS)—The following letter has been written from Moscow, Russia, by Thomas L. Dabney, a graduate of Brookwood Labor College last year. Dabney is a member of the American student delegation to Russia. Other colleges and universities represented by the 13 members of the delegation include Columbia, University of Pittsburgh, Occidental College and Washington University.

Moscow, July 9.

The members of the American student delegation to Soviet Russia were most cordially received on our arrival at Moscow Saturday, July 2. A large reception committee of students met us at the station with cars and accompanied us to our hotel. We were confronted with cameras on every side. Pravda and other Moscow papers have carried news stories about the delegation every day since our arrival.

Russian Students Eager.

The students whom we have met are not interested in the educational problems of Russia but they are eager to get all the information they can on the problems of education in America. I have never seen so many serious forward-looking students anywhere as I have seen in the three schools in Moscow which we have visited.

Our delegation has visited the first Moscow State University, the Transport Engineers' College and the Timiriazeff Agricultural Academy. At each of these schools we were given a warm reception by an official of the school. Altho it is vacation time, a considerable number of students are still at these schools—some helping in repair work or general construction and some doing special school work. Questions covering the whole range of education were fired at us by students in each school that we visited. They are particularly interested in the fortunes of women students, the amount of technical training given in American schools, the attitude of American colleges to Negro students, the extent to which scholarships are awarded to students and the progress of workers' education.

Can't Savvy U. S. Schools.

Almost every group of students whom we have met asked us if we were from trade union schools. At the Transport Engineers' College the students were particularly anxious to know whether students in America had the opportunity of sharing the government of the colleges with the faculty. When I told the group that students at Brookwood were active members of trade unions and that they assisted in the strikes of their locals, one comrade asked the rest of our delegation: "How long will it be before your colleges will become schools like your comrade's?" Again and again I saved our delegation embarrassment by mentioning Brookwood and other labor schools.

Bridging Gap.

Russian students are eager to do what they can to bridge the present gap between themselves and the American students. They would welcome the opportunity to exchange students with American colleges. After we paid a visit to Lunacharsky, a student told me that plans were on to send a student to Brookwood and they were glad to meet a representative from Brookwood and find out something about the school. Whenever possible I have assured Russian students that the few liberal students in America are interested in the progress of education in the Soviet Union and regard themselves as a part of the great movement of liberal students in all countries.—Thomas L. Dabney.

Truth Is Trickling Thru in Spite of Every Effort of the New England Gang

By J. LOUIS ENGDAHL.

"FOR Christ's sake, tell him the truth!"

This appeal, in the dark of the Dedham, Mass., jail to the self-confessed payroll bandit, Celestino Madeiros, came instinctively from the lips of Nicola Sacco.

Sacco evidently thought that it was the only kind of an appeal that would get across to the convicted youth, Madeiros, who, at the age of 26, stands in the shadow of death because of his part in the Wrentham, Mass., National Bank robbery.

Madeiros has confessed to his part in the South Braintree holdup and robbery that is charged against Sacco and Vanzetti and for which they have been convicted and sentenced to death. Madeiros says Sacco and Vanzetti are not involved in the crime. But Madeiros has so far refused to give the full names of those associated with him in the crime.

William G. Thompson, attorney for Sacco and Vanzetti in their demands for a new trial, signs the affidavit telling of the visit with Madeiros on May 20, this year. The visit was secured thru permission granted by Prosecuting Attorney Ranney. Thompson urged upon Madeiros the importance of disclosing the full names of his associates in the South Braintree affair. This Madeiros still steadfastly declined to do. The morality of the underworld, that forbids one criminal to "peach" upon another, held as adamant.

Thompson did the talking to Madeiros. The sole purpose of having Sacco present, said Thompson, was that he thought that Madeiros might be willing to make a full disclosure if he were in the actual presence of the man, Sacco, in danger of suffering from the South Braintree affair, with which Madeiros knew Sacco had had absolutely no connection.

Thompson, in his affidavit, now on file with Judge Webster Thayer, who has the power to grant a new trial, declares that the only contribution that Sacco made to his talk with Madeiros was a remark, frequently repeated by Sacco to Madeiros: "For Christ's sake, tell him the truth!"

But the appeal to "the Christ" is a common one, bantered hither and thither in murky places in jails and prisons, often spat upon. It fell with no effect upon the calloused Madeiros, who evidently thought he had already done enough to help Sacco and Vanzetti escape the electric chair.

Yet the convicted criminal, Madeiros, who made clear for himself so much more certain because of the aid he has already given Sacco and Vanzetti in their fight for their lives, stands out sky-high against the groveling politician, John Gambaldi Sargent, attorney-general of the United States government, member of Coolidge's cabinet, who even refuses to answer letters requesting that the government reveal secrets it has in its possession that would prove the innocence of the two Italian worker victims of New England greed.

Yet in spite of the New England gang,—Senator Butler, Attorney-General Sargent and Cal Coolidge himself—the truth is trickling thru.

Thus the conscience-stricken, Feri Felixus Weiss, department of justice agent, writes to the Boston Globe, as reported in The DAILY WORKER yesterday, verifying the affidavit of John Russamanti, to the effect that the latter was to be used as a spy against Sacco. Thus the not tightens about the department of justice as it loosens about Sacco and Vanzetti.

Thus Attorney Thompson also tells of an interview he had with the late Captain William H. Proctor, in which the latter revealed details of the manner in which the Sacco-Vanzetti frame-up had been prepared.

Proctor said that a number of the government's identification witnesses who subsequently identified Sacco as doing the shooting, had previously, in his office, identified the photograph of another man as being the murderer.

PROCTOR DECLARED THAT HE WAS SATISFIED THAT THE GOVERNMENT HAD GOTTEN THE WRONG MEN, AND HE HAD SO NOTIFIED THE DISTRICT ATTORNEY BEFORE THE TRIAL.

Proctor had declined to put this statement into his affidavit, but said he would be obliged to make it if put on the witness stand and examined orally. It is just such testimony as this that the Sacco-Vanzetti defense forces wish to drive into the open at the new trial that is being demanded.

Of course, the alliance of the Sergent-Butler-Coolidge department of justice with the shoe factory-textile mill owned local prosecutors, strives just as energetically to prevent the new trial because the promised revelations will do more than anything else to expose before the whole American workingclass the real nature of the criminal capitalist system.

Attorney Thompson also reported to Judge Thayer on original statement by a Pinkerton operative that Miss Splaine, who testified at the Sacco-Vanzetti trial as a government witness, had previously identified a picture of "Tony the Wop," alias Anthony Palmisani, as the man she saw in the automobile; that Albert Prince also thought "Tony the Wop" was the man she saw; that Messrs. Wade and Hens Behrisin selected a picture of Palmisani, that the witness Bostock selected the same picture.

Thus even the government's witnesses had failed to identify either Sacco or Vanzetti as members of the bandit party that got the payroll after committing murder at South Braintree.

But the framed-up squad of the New England gang, by various methods best known to themselves, got witnesses to perjure themselves in order to secure the conviction of Sacco and Vanzetti. The courts still have the power to make this wholesale perjury stink and to send both Sacco and Vanzetti to their doom. Only the power of protest of labor can save them.

Tomorrow — Government agents sent to interview Celestino Madeiros are told by him that his statement absolving Sacco and Vanzetti from any part in the South Braintree shooting and robbery is true.

FLORIDA STORM DAMAGED POOR PERSONS MOST

Rich Homes are O. K., Plutes are Assured

BALTIMORE, Oct. 18.—How the poor bore the brunt of suffering in Florida's great hurricane disaster is graphically told by the Seaboard Air Line railway management in a full-page advertisement in the Baltimore Sun, urging tourists to come back to the Florida hotels in December.

Hides Red Cross Exposure.

"It is regrettable," says the Seaboard Air Line, "that the good faith of certain public officials in Florida has been questioned by a high official of the American Red Cross because of their statements limiting the storm damage to actual conditions . . . It is unfortunate that calls for money for helping those in distress were not confined to the directions in which relief was required."

With this rebuke to John Barton Payne and the Red Cross national convention for exposing the attempt of the real estate and railroad and hotel interests to stop collection of funds for families whose little homes had been destroyed, because it "hurt business," the railroad makes these assertions of fact:

"Only" Poor Hurt.

1. At Miami, dwellings and other buildings of flimsy construction were damaged to the extent of 70 per cent. Hotels and other modern built structures were damaged only slightly, at the 85 per cent of them sustained some injury.

2. "The storm fell hardest on the poorer classes of the communities" and on 125 automobile camps in the storm area.

3. Rehabilitation is going forward rapidly, and the principal streets of Miami and Coral Gables now give little outward evidences of the storm.

4. Polo, golf, tennis and other amusement grounds will be ready for the coming season including the race tracks.

With these assurances, the railroad invites the prosperous classes to return to the "world's winter playground."

Goodyear Company in Legal War Over Finance Juggling

AKRON, Ohio, Oct. 18.—On October 19, before Judge Kenfield in common pleas court, the common stockholders and the officials of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company will begin a battle over the future of the company. The question to be determined is whether the refinancing plans of the Goodyear Company made in 1921 are valid.

Suits that were begun by Lamra Weiss and which attacked the legality of the re-financing plan are to be reopened. At that time the management of Goodyear was taken out of the hands of stockholders and put into the control of bankers who furnished capital when Goodyear was ready in need of it.

A few days ago, Paul Litchfield, president of the Goodyear Company, offered a compromise plan whereby $50,000,000 worth of bonds maturing in 1941, and bearing 8% interest, would be converted into bonds maturing in 1956 and bearing 5½% interest. Frank Seiberling, chairman of the voting trustees, and their spokesman —and also head of the Seiberling Rubber and Tire Company, a competing concern—led the assault that brought about the rejection of the offer.

Miners' Front Holds Against Heavy Assaults

NOTE.—This Article on Pennsylvania is one of a series on the bituminous fields distributed by The Federated Press.)

ART SHIELDS, Federated Press.

CLEARFIELD, Pa. — (FP) — The miners' union in the 14 bill counties of central Pennsylvania that form a solid, United Mine Workers, is standing up under a terrific hammering from openshop operators. Half its members are gone of the 43,000 of July 1, 1925, and exhausting local funds are being carried on along many scattered fronts. But still the union is a going concern, able in the words of Clymer explosion to pay out its benefits and donations within a day's delay.

The established section of the union is more exposed than Dist. 2. It lies inside the central competitive field of western Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois that usually retains first consideration in the national policy of the organization. And it lies directly north of West Virginia in the path of the nonunion gains from that lost field.

Here the union stands as by a miracle. After 3½ years of ruthless attack and siege with the lockouts that followed the Jacksonville agreement of 1923, by one the big operators have been violating the pact until now only New York Central interests and a group of independents are paying the wage scale and checking off dues and assessments according to written contract. Most of the remaining union mines are situated along or near the main line of the Pennsylvania in the section that connects Altoona and Pittsburgh. North and west are the large coal fields running towards the Ohio state line and here most of the contract-breaking took place.

Here the local officers combined for the Erie, against the Buffalo & Susquehanna Coal Co., closely related to Rockefeller's Davis Coal & Coke of Maryland and West Virginia and Somerset county; against the Imperial and Irvona companies and against many smaller concerns.

John Brophy, president of the district union, saw that the only hope of inducing costly punishment on the contract-breakers and making an example that would deter others was to use new tactics.

The Labor chautauquas did the trick. They went into the annually isolated mountain valleys. They gave them an understanding of union problems and a jovial 3 days to a week of fun that created a spirit on which the operators had not reckoned. Paul W. Fuller, director of workers' education for the district, took charge.

Into dreary mining villages, half dead from unemployment, where the operators were about to start the mines in violation of the contract, Fuller went with his speakers and entertainers. Gay layer of dancing and song, of recitation and band music from the volunteer entertainers that Fuller has mobilized from all over the district sandwich the speeches that tell the disaster of nonunionism; of the faithlessness of operators' promises and of the union hope of nationalization and high wages.

In the Buffalo & Susquehanna strikes at Sagamore, Fuller became supply preacher at the Presbyterian church and got the church choir all winter long out on the picket line, singing songs to the scabs, after a judge enjoined conventional picketing.

The problem is to hold till the expiration of the Jacksonville agreement April 1 promises a more affective fight than possible by local strikes. The little flurry of extra work brought by the British lockout cannot last. But the British lockout cannot last.

20,000 Cheer Defiance of Police Rule

retary of the Emergency Labor Conference; Ben Gold, manager Joint Board of the Furriers' Union; Jim Van and Ed. Lavin, leaders of the recent interborough Rapid Transit strike; Pascal Cosgrovo, former organizer of the Shoeworkers' Protective Union; James Van Prat of the Amalgamated Cigar Makers' Union; S. Potash and Fannie Warshavsky of the Furriers; Rose Wortis, George Tristman and G. Taft of the I. L. G. W. U.

The leading strike officials were detained in a settlement conference.

Thousands of pamphlets denouncing Governor Smith as a strikebreaker were distributed.

A remarkable feature of the affair was the movement of five thousand from the square to the offices of the Freiheit and DAILY WORKER singing the International and other militant songs, where an enthusiastic and spontaneous demonstration was conducted. This was done despite the rather bold attempts of the police to move the crowd on.

Defy Injunctions Is Appeal to Workers

By ART SHIELDS, Federated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—Disregard injunctions! Fight on! This message to the striking cloakmakers by John Coughlin, secretary of the Central Trades and Labor Assembly of New York; Morris Sigman, international president of the Ladies' Garment Workers' Union; Ed Lavin, and James Walsh, leaders of the late subway strike; Ben Gold, manager of the New York fur workers' joint board; Ben Gitlow and J. M. Budish, editor of the Headgear Worker, and others, was cheered to the echo by an immense audience that packed the 17th street plaza of Union Square Park in the heart of the city.

This demonstration, pledging anew the support of the other trade unionists of New York, had been called by the emergency committee, selected at a recent conference of the central trades officers and leaders of more than sixty local unions, for the purpose of aiding the 40,000 striking cloakmakers.

Adopt Protest to Walker.

Police brutality was under a sharp fire as well as Justice Goy's injunction against picketing. The mass action of strikers, sometimes amounting to hundreds a day, was fiercely attacked by all the speakers and the mass meeting adopted a formal protest to be lodged before Mayor Walker on his return to the city.

This mass indictment of Mayor Walker's police is a challenge to the mayor's claims to be reformed of labor. The active support of some prominent trade union leaders had contributed to his choice by the city over his opponents at the last election. But only less directly, as to favor Governor Al Smith, Welker's political backer.

Mayor "Out of Town."

The demonstration was to have ended in a march to city hall to interview the mayor, but his absence from the city caused that part of the program to be withdrawn.

At the close of the mass meeting, strike leaders resumed conferences with representatives of the Cloak, Suit and Skirt Manufacturers' Industrial Council. These conferences continued thru the afternoon and talk of an early settlement of the strike has been given impetus by the additional evidence that the labor movement is standing firmly behind the cloakmakers and has adopted the policy of militant action of the injunction on which the employers depended.

UNION TEACHERS OF MANY LANDS MEET AT VIENNA

Russian Delegates Give Report on Schools

By DOROTHY GARY, Fed. Press.

VIENNA—(FP)—Union teachers from 18 countries attended the 4th congress of the Education Workers' International, which met last summer in Vienna. Many delegates had come without passports because their governments, being aggressively opposed to unionism, had refused them permission to attend.

The English section, the Teachers' Labor league, reported on its activities during the general strike. Some of its most militant members lost their teaching licenses, and received short prison sentences. Its active participation in the strike gained the league prestige, solidarity and membership.

Teachers from Greece, Roumania and Bulgaria told of the white terror there, following the recent revolutionary attempts. Many teachers have been imprisoned, exiled or shot. Scores have been forced into other trades. All real unions, including teacher unions, are now illegal in Bulgaria and Roumania.

The Italian delegates reported anonymously. Under fascism genuine trade unionism has been almost destroyed. Some unions still meet, but in secret. The Austrian and German delegates told of the growing unemployment among teachers. The Indo-Chinese delegate described French imperialism, and its drastic effect on schools and teachers.

The reports of the Russian delegates presented a striking contrast. There the education workers are building a new education system. Their industrial union, which includes over 600,000 members, 98% of the trade, reported a new national agreement which gives an increase in wages ranging from 5 to 30%.

Other reports revealed the ruthless aggression of imperialism in Latin America and the orient. The consequent economic and political pressure on the workers has been proletarianizing the teachers and swept this usually backward section of the working class into union activity on an international scale.

The Education Workers' International was organized in 1922, on the initiative of the French and Italian unions. It is a pioneer organization in the field of modern labor. It is the first actual functioning international of union teachers. It is the only international since the world war that has been able to achieve the united front. Within its membership are included national sections affiliated to Amsterdam and others to Moscow. Rights and Lefts have united on the following basis:

"(1) Class struggle for the liberation of the workers; (2) world struggle against imperialism and war, and against world fascism; (3) acceptance of international discipline."

Dutch Labor Protest Aids Troops' Mutiny

THE HAGUE, Oct. 18.—Demanding national disarmament such as Denmark has begun, more than 85,000 workers assembled in The Hague in the most imposing anti-war demonstration that Holland has ever witnessed.

This gathering had the effect of upholding the soldiers who recently mutinied in protest against the attempts of the Dutch imperialists to force a heavy increase in taxation of necessaries of life in order to increase the military and naval establishment.

Brief Labor News From Australia

SYDNEY—(FP)— Following statements in the British press that there was an acute shortage of boilermakers in New South Wales, a cable has been forwarded to John Hill, secretary British Boilermakers' union, pointing out that while there was fair work in Sydney the situation in the other states is not encouraging.

The New South Wales Labor government has sent a cable to England warning miners intending to immigrate that there is much unemployment.

MELBOURNE—(FP)—During 1925, the tendency of wages was upwards, the net average increase for all workers being 6c per week. The greatest increase was in the Labor state of Queensland, where 184,595 workers received an average weekly increase of $1.14. Working hours of men during the year averaged 46 hours per week (all workers), while for women the average number was 45¾ per week.

WELLINGTON— (FP)— The New Zealand parliament has passed the family allowances bill, which provides for a bonus of 50c per week for each child in a family after the third child. The Labor party urged that the amount be $1.25 per week, but the government contended it had too little money. The parents of approximately 60,000 children will benefit.

BULGARIAN GOVERNMENT LAUNCHES NEW "WAVE OF TERROR" AGAINST THE WORKERS, WHOLESALE ARRESTS MADE

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Oct. 15.—The bourgeois press recently reported that in Bulgaria a new "conspiracy" had been revealed, that arrests had taken place and that the imapcent people among the arrested had been released again.

In truth, however, these arrests were only a pretext in order to strengthen the white terror in Bulgaria. Even the newspaper Slowo had to admit that the so-called "conspiracy" had been a perfectly harmless affair.

The semi-official and official press, however, still reports that a Bolshevik center in Vienna had maintained connections with the robber gangs in Bulgaria. This report, together with the "conspiracy" serve as occasions for new campaigns of the government, first for wholesale arrests in the towns and second for punishment expeditions into the villages.

Send Murder Squads.

The latter were actually nothing else but troops for wholesale murder. In the province of Trojanshi 15 villages were terrorized. The cattle were driven away, the fields were destroyed, and a terrible bloodbath created among the peasants. Over 100 people were executed and everywhere the dead bodies can be found, carelessly buried. Apart from these punishment exhibitions the fairy tale of the robber gangs is utilized for a campaign against the Roumanian emigrants from the Dobrudja. Twenty of these emigrants were already delivered to the Roumanian government by Liaptchev, among them Joch Michailov and Dotchev, two untiring fighters for the independence of the Dobrudja, who were killed together with two of their comrades. In this way the Bulgarian government tries to gain the friendship of Great Britain, Roumania and Italy.

Wholesale Arrests.

Meanwhile wholesale arrests take place in the town. Thus, for instance, the Viennese Social Democratic "Arbeiterzeitung reports: "The arrests which took place some days ago on account of an alleged conspiracy of young workers and peasants, are now followed by further arrests of workers, trade union officials, journalists and intellectuals. The Social Democratic organ 'Narod,' reports that numerous protest telegrams have been received by the editors."

Among the arrested people is the general council of the Ukrainian Trade Unions and several other members of the Unitarian Trade unions, furthermore the editor of the paper, Novini, Fordan Grantcharov and the well-known poet, Antot Strachimirov. The latter, whose brother was murdered some time ago in the open street by "irresponsible elements," has fought in his books energetically against the white terror in Bulgaria, in order to assist the victims of white terror he sold his library and gave the money to the relief committee for the victims of terror. The poet, whom the hangmen did not dare to touch until now, is at present also in the claws of "public safety." His life and that of the other prisoners is seriously in danger and they receive every day menacing letters by "irresponsible elements." Also the trade union secretary, Jordan Milv, is among the arrested.

Issue Appeal.

The Independent Trade Unions of Bulgaria have issued an appeal in the democratic paper Znamo, in which they protest energetically against the terror and the mass arrests. They demand the liberation of the prisoners, the re-establishment of the right of free assembly for the trade unions, the abolition of white terror and the legalisation of the labor movement.

FIGHT PROTOCOL PREVENTING USE OF POISON GAS

Militarists Launch Big Press Campaign

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—(FP)—Concealing its identity behind the name of a professional publicity agent, a group of chemical warfare enthusiasts whose names are not disclosed has begun an attack on the Geneva protocol, now awaiting ratification by the senate, abolishing the use of poison gas in war.

Inquiry by the Federated Press brought from the publicity office the statement that the American Association for Chemical Defense is paying for this propaganda, and that among its members are some former officers of the Chemical Warfare Service But the name of no officer of the association was forthcoming.

This press barrage carries quotations from John Thomas Taylor, legislative agent in Washington for the American Legion, and from General Pershing and the legion's legislative committee.

Pershing is quoted as telling Senator Fletcher that America must not give up the use of poison gas because "we cannot trust the other fellow."

Taylor is credited with the declaration that: "We get back to the necessity of accepting any weapon which has been shown to be effective in war and to the necessity of acknowledging that all nations must be prepared to use this effective weapon."

Representative Burton of Ohio, close friend of President Coolidge, was one of the chief instigators and authors of the pending treaty, which Senator Borah says he will urge for ratification in the senate this winter.

"One of the chief causes of the world war was the fact that the nations of Europe were heavily armed," said Borah. "The possession of armaments is a temptation to use them.

Soviet Consults Akron University.

AKRON, Oct. 18.—The Soviet government has approached the Akron University asking for material on programs and plans of study of the Akron institution. The Soviet government evidently is accumulating material from all possible sources in order to compose the best system for training the students in the schools and universities of the Soviet state.

SOCIALIST PARTY OF SPAIN IN CRISIS OVER COLLABORATION OF LEADERS WITH PRIMO DE RIVERA

MADRID.—(By Mail.)—All over Spain a secretly circulated pamphlet is being read, written by the socialist ex-deputy Indalecio Prieto, in which he explains his differences with the Socialist Party's central committee and accuses them of collaborating with the military dictatorship.

This position of the socialist Prieto, who is very popular among some elements of the working class and democrats, shows the actual crisis at present affecting the socialist party.

Since 1923, the socialist party and the Union General de Trabajadores (General Workers' Union), have collaborated secretly and indirectly with the military directory. Lately, this collaboration has been done publicly.

The National Assembly.

To create a substitute for parliament, Primo de Rivera has planned to convoke a "professional" as he calls it, national assembly. The presidents of chambers of commerce and industry, the leaders of the Union Patriotica (Primo de Rivera's own party), the Spanish catholic bishops, and forty members of the Union General de Trabajadores (Federation of Labor, as mentioned above), will be elected as representatives.

The idea of such assembly has from the very first brought opposition of all Spanish political parties, with the exception of the socialist party, who—controlling the Federation of Labor mentioned above—are willing to accept the forty seats offered the U. G. T.

In order to have the approval of all the party sections, the leading socialist officials are travelling thruout Spain holding meetings and speaking in favor of the national assembly, with Primo de Rivera's government giving them full protection. The censorship has allowed the press to publish all the articles and speeches in favor of the assembly that come from the socialists at meetings and has forbidden the publication of anything against them.

Socialist Split.

Indalecio Prieto has made public declarations against the policy of the socialist party. He is followed by many sections of the party and the Union General de Trabajadores, who are demanding a congress in order to clear up this question.

La Nacion, the organ of Primo de Rivera, is defending the head leaders of the socialist party and a few days ago it said in its columns the following words:

"The socialists have faithfully collaborated with the directorate and there can be no fear of them."

In Prieto's letters to the socialist party central committee, he threatens to leave the official party if members of the party attend the assembly. To avoid this, the government will permit the party to hold a convention and favors a campaign of any kind which will mean the triumph of the central committee.

But it is also clear that if the convention is held, a split may appear, and a new socialist-republican party with Prieto at its head may be formed.

The socialist party crisis favors the approach of the Communist Party to the masses. The workingclass is beginning to realise that the Communist Party criticism of the socialists is true.

WORKERS AND PEASANTS WELCOME CANTON TROOPS; BUT BOURGEOIS CHINESE SEEK FOREIGN SHELTER

PEKING, Sept. 23.—(By Mail)—With regard to the situation in Hankow, it is reported that the workers, peasants and the middle classes are on the most friendly terms with the Canton troops. The possessing classes treat the Cantonese with reserve. Numerous bourgeois are transferring their residences to the foreign concessions.

The American and Japanese marine units have left Hankow. The British and French forces still remain.

The situation in Hankow itself is perfectly normal. Business is proceeding as usual.

According to orders of the Canton authorities, the entrance of foreign vessels into the harbor of Hankow without a previous examination is prohibited. Such ships may only then enter by daylight.

Foreign Ships Make Trouble.

In consequence of various incidents between foreign warships and Canton troops, Tchang Kai Tchi has addressed a request thru the local commissar for foreign affairs to all foreign consulates for the withdrawing of all foreign warships from the military zone around the towns of the Tchang district and their dispatch down stream.

Tchang points to the possibility of further differences and conflicts which could be avoided if the foreign ships would leave Hankow harbor. According to reports from foreign sources, the consulates are not prepared to fulfill the demand for Tchang. They declare that the presence of foreign warships is necessary for the protection of foreigners in case of disturbances.

4,000 Casualties.

Further reports containing details of the bloodbath in Wenhsien have arrived in Peking from Ichang. The number of casualties upon the Chinese side are estimated at 4,000. Twelve streets were reduced to ashes. Amongst the destroyed buildings were many schools. The damage to property amounts to several million dollars.

The "Union for the Salvation of China" has held a meeting which adopted a resolution in support of the general demand for compensation for the victims and the punishment of the guilty. At the same time a decision was made to form a special union for the struggle against Great Britain and for the continuation of the anti-British propaganda until a complete economic break with Great Britain has been achieved.

Twenty organizations in Shanghai have held a meeting which adopted a resolution in support of these general demands and pointing out the necessity of immediately abolishing the unequal treaties.

R. R. Men Oppose British.

The All-Chinese railway men's Federation has published an appeal for a struggle against British imperialism declaring that Great Britain treats China like a colony.

The Canton government has decided to intensify the political work amongst the national troops. Feng Yhisiang has been appointed as the representative of the Kuomintang for the national armies. Li Shi Tsen has been appointed head of the political department of the national army. A decision has been made to form political departments in the divisions, brigades, regiments, batallions and other military units.

Tory Government Shuts Its Eyes and Sees Red

LONDON—(FP)—That the Tory party is seeing red is evident in the agenda for their annual convention in October. Their government will be urged to restrict picketing, protect scabs, supervise trade union funds, to make a general strike impossible and to make illegal any strike called without a secret ballot. Attacks on Russia for the assistance given to the miners occupy several resolutions.

"After the experience of the general strike," states the officers' report, "it is unreasonable to assume that a few socialist trade union leaders are to be allowed to combine to possess the power to hold up the industrial and social life of the country at their will. The general strike has produced a situation which will have the effect of making it impossible for them again to plunge into a class war." The report goes on to say that "there is no intention to attack legitimate trade unionism."

That the attack on the trade unions is instigated by organised capital is evident from the presidential address before the Association of British Chambers of Commerce. Delegates were told, "We feel that the laws relating to trade unions and trade disputes must be brought up to date, and must provide against any possibility of a holdup of the country by a stoppage of national services."

The Tories show their fear of the Labor party by asking that the political levy by the trade unions to the

WICKS INVADES STEEL CENTER IN PENN. DRIVE

Party Campaign Now in Full Swing

(Special to The Daily Worker)

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Oct. 18.—The Workers (Communist) Party election campaign is now in full swing in the Pittsburgh district with H. M. Wicks, candidate for governor of Pennsylvania, speaking every night before large audiences in this industrial hell where Garyism reigns supreme.

The campaign in this part of the state opened with an enthusiastic meeting in the North Side Carnegie Music Hall, Pittsburgh. The following night Wicks entered the soft coal region to the south of the city, speaking at the Miners' Hall in Coverdale, where a good audience listened to his presentation of the issues of the campaign, with particular emphasis upon the problems confronting the miners. He exposed the role of the state as the instrument of terror in the hands of the capitalist class and told the miners that a workers' government would destroy the infamous state cossack system as it is now constituted. "If a constabulary is needed," declared Wicks, "we will supply it from the ranks of tried and true fighters for the working class. The capitalist state militia will be abolished and in its place we will organize a workers' militia—disarm the capitalists and arm the workers the moment we come into power."

The speaker also dealt with the question of workmen's compensation, exposing its fake application by capitalist agents; severely attacked child labor in the state, and dealt with the crisis in coal mining, proving that only the Communists have a practical solution.

Invades Steel Town.

The following day he invaded the town of Ambridge (so named because it is the realm of the American Bridge corporation, a part of the United States Steel combine). Altho there are but twelve party members in that town, which is absolutely dominated by the hirelings of the steel trust, they succeeded in getting out an audience that equalled the Pittsburgh meeting and for an hour and a half Wicks talked to the Communist candidate for governor assail the Coolidge administration and the Mellon political domination of the state of Pennsylvania. Wicks flayed "Bill" Vare, the notorious hoodlum and vice boss of Philadelphia, who succeeded in corrupting more republican voters and buffalo and steering them to defeat than Andrew W. Mellon's favorite, George Wharton Pepper, the polished servant of capitalism who lost to Vare in the recent senatorial primary contest.

Assails Wm. B. Wilson.

Wicks also exposed to the workers the record of the democratic candidate, William B. Wilson, pointing out that he was the secretary of labor Wilson, who as secretary of labor during the Woodrow Wilson-A. Mitchell Palmer reign of terror deported thousands upon thousands of workers in 1919-20.

Paying his compliments to his republican opponent for governor, John S. Fosher, the Gary-Mellon lackey, Wicks showed how this creature of the corporations had boosted the game of the banking combine while acting as head of the bank commission in the Pinchot administration.

Shows Up Socialists.

Stating the position of the Workers (Communist) Party in favor of a united labor ticket in this election, Wicks exposed the socialists for sabotaging such a ticket and drew salvos of applause from the workers at all the meetings in the great industriel centers of this region when he declared the Workers Party is the only party fighting for the elementary interests of the working class and the only party under whose leadership the workers can ever attain their emancipation from Garyism—the meltenant form taken by rapacious capitalism in this state.

This Saturday, October 27, at the Workers House, 1902 W. Division St., the Novy Mir worker correspondents will give a concert and dance for the benefit of the only Russian Communist paper in the United States, the Novy Mir. Some of the best talents in the colony will participate. Details will be announced later. Reserve the date, Saturday, October 27.

Klan King from Call May Blast Robinson's Race for U. S. Senate

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18. — Democratic accounts of the "inside story" of the klan scandal in Indiana, as transmitted to campaign directors in Washington, are to the effect that D. C. Stevenson, former grand dragon, is going to reveal the whole picture of his super-government of the state when he ruled 400,000 klansmen in their raid on political power in 1924.

In his cell in the state penitentiary where he is serving a life sentence for the murder of Madge Oberholtzer, a schoolteacher, Stevenson has become embittered toward Governor Ed Jackson for not pardoning him. Jackson was one of his many pawns who did not rapidiate Stevenson when the revolting details of his treatment of Miss Oberholtzer were proven in court.

The democrats say that because Jackson failed to "come thru" with a pardon for his boss, Stevenson has decided to bring retribution on Jackson and all of his associates by confession.

In the Jackson machine one of the conspicuous figures was and is Senator Robinson. Jackson appointed him as senator when Senator Ralston died. He is now seeking re-election. The democrats believe that Jackson can not prevent Stevenson from telling his story before election day, to the destruction of Robinson's chances of coming back to Washington.

WATSON BRANDS TRIBUNE LIAR IN KLAN PROBE

Denies He Will Oppose Investigation

Senator James E. Watson of Indiana has denied published statements that he would oppose an investigation of the Indiana klan scandal by Senator Reed's political slush fund investigating committee.—Tribune is Liar.

An article was prominently displayed in the Chicago Tribune declaring that Watson would oppose such an investigation. Watson, in a formal statement, branded the Tribune story as a falsehood made up of the whole cloth.

"I have made no such statement to any one at any time," Watson stated. "Nor did I direct any person to make any such statement for me. Insofar as I am concerned, the Senator Reed committee is welcome to Indiana to make any investigation it sees fit and I shall be glad to aid it."

Being in Illinois.

Senator Reed's committee is now occupied with gathering up final evidence in the Illinois slush fund probe and as soon as this is completed, the committee will launch into the Indiana klan mess. It is indicated.

Subpoenaes have been issued for prominent Chicagoans to appear in the Illinois hearing. They include James Simpson, president of Marshall Field's; Clement Studebaker, representative of public utilities; Mrs. James J. Morrison, E. J. Davis of the "Better Government" association, and George B. Safford of the Illinois Anti-Saloon League.

Cline Will Talk to Grand Rapids I. L. D. on Thursday, Oct. 21

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Oct. 18.—Charles Cline, famous class-war prisoner, recently released from a Texas prison where he was held 13 years for his part in a Mexican revolution, will speak here on Thursday, October 21, under auspices of the International Labor Defense.

The meeting will be held at 211 Monroe Ave., Room 209.

IRONWOOD MINE WAS KNOWN TO BE DANGEROUS

Company Power Prevents Investigation

ASHLAND, Wis., Oct. 18.—A sworn statement signed by a committee of seven of the miners who were entombed in the Pabst mine at Ironwood, Mich., for more than five days, was filed with a notary public here charging that the G shaft of the mine was known to have been in a dangerous condition when the workers were sent into it.

Pressure Against Probe.

The miners declared in the statement that they feel an effort has been made to prevent an investigation into the cave-in, the company realising its criminal liability in the disaster.

The statement, which was sworn to in the offices of the Daily Press here, which has raged an investigation, follows:

"To Whom It May Concern:

"We, the undersigned who were entombed in the recent cave-in of the G shaft Pabst mine of the Oliver Iron Mining Co., and representing the rest of the miners who were entombed, ask the opportunity to testify to the fact that the G shaft was in dangerous condition previous to the cave-in and was generally known by the men working in it not to be safe.

"We feel that an effort has been made to smother any investigation of this accident, and we commend the Ashland Daily Press for its efforts to bring about a federal or other inquiry into the disaster.

"We are timber dumpers, shaft repairmen, who have been employed in the G shaft for periods ranging from a few months up to fifteen years."

Fear Violence.

Names of the signers are being withheld to prevent possible violence against them by company agents, it is announced. They represent, however, practically all of the entombed miners.

Senator Couzens of Michigan has been asked to use his influence toward an investigation, also by A. J. Noll, U. S. meat inspector, who had a relative entombed in the mine.

Noll wrote: "It appears to be the shame of Michigan that all interests here, business, professional, civic and social, have not the initiative to demand a proper investigation of the cave-in. . . . Will Michigan be satisfied to let this go down in history as unsolved mystery because there appear to exists within her powers an great that justice becomes a mockery and truth a lost virtue? Nothing more than an honest investigation is the plea, that the facts may be revealed and the truth be established, and in the hope that thereby justice will be done to those who suffered and those who must continue to earn their livelihood thru this hazardous occupation."

N. Y. Ukrainians Form Conference for Passaic Aid

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—The Ukrainians in New York City have organized a committee for the relief of the Passaic strikers, which is composed of 24 different organizations, including all elements on the issue of relief to Passaic strikers.

The existence of this organization is only several weeks. To the present time it has collected much good clothing, also it has sent to the general relief committee $270 in cash. Every organization is selling "Milk and Meal" tickets.

On October 24 the conference is giving a concert for the benefit of the strikers. We have secured many talented artists who have agreed to serve the Passaic strikers in their professions.

By Upton Sinclair

(Copyright, 1928, by Upton Sinclair)

As for the Angel City "Evening Booster" and "Evening Howler" and "Evening Roarer," the situation confronting them was this: if they could connect the Bolshevik conspiracy in Southern Pacific University with the bomb explosion in Wall Street, they would have several hundred dollars' additional sales; while if they failed to make the connection, they would lose this amount to some more clever rival. This being the case, it took the "Evening Howler" about one hour to remember that "The Investigator" had featured Harry Seager, and to ascertain from the agents of the American Defense League that at a recent mass meeting this Seager had fiercely denounced the firm of Morgan and Company, and predicted a dire fate for them. So, in its third edition, on the streets about one o'clock, the "Evening Howler" told the world:

BOMB FORETOLD BY RED AID
Police Seek Soviet Agent Here

That was taking a chance, as the headline writer of the "Evening Howler" would have admitted with a grin; but he knew his business, and sure enough, before the day was by, a war veteran came into the editorial office with confirmation. Two days ago he had ridden on a public stage with Harry Seager, and had got into conversation and heard the sentence: "You mark my words and watch the papers, within three days you will read that the House of Morgan has paid for its crimes in this war." It is only fair to the shell-shocked soldier to add that he may have been sincere in his statement, for it happened that the two men in their conversation had touched upon the Polish invasion of Russia, then at its height, and Seager had uttered the sentence, "You mark my words and watch the papers, within three days you will read that the Poles are back of where they are now."

Prior to this incident, the office door of the Seager Business College had been chewed to a ragged edge by the chisels of detectives and other patriots breaking their way in at night; but on the night after this "bomb expose" they used an axe, and when Seager arrived in the morning he found every desk-drawer in the place not merely his own, but the students', dumped onto the floor, and trampled beneath the hob-nailed boots of patriotism. They had carted off, not merely Seager's notes for his orations, but likewise the typewriting exercises of his students—and most damaging evidence they afforded, too, for Seager did not make his students write, "The quick brown fox jumps over the lazy dog,"—no, siree, he gave them revolutionary propaganda that would send shivers down the spine of any patriot: "All men are created free and equal," or, more desperate yet, "Give me liberty or give me death!"

X

Not many in Southern Pacific University seriously believed that their "student reds" had any responsibility for or even guilty knowledge of the Wall Street bomb explosion. But they knew that these silly fools had been misled by sinister men who quite possibly did have part in the plot, or anyhow were bad enough to have it. Also they knew that the fools had got the university in for a lot of hideous publicity. So the fools were badgered and browbeaten on every hand; they were summoned to the Dean's office one by one and there racked and cross-questioned—and not merely by President Cowper and Dean Squirge, but by various stern gentlemen representing the district attorney and the city prosecutor and the federal secret service and the district newspapers and the defense societies and the information service of the once-upon-a-time ambassador of a no-longer-existing Russian government.

When Bunny Ross realized that this was happening, there was another explosion. Being a rich man's son, he was accustomed to having his rights, and more. So of the first of his questioners he demanded, "Who are you, and what brings you into this?"

"Now, Ross," said Dean Squirge, "if there are evil men threatening our country's welfare, you certainly do not wish to protect them."

"It depends on what you mean by evil," retorted Bunny. "If you mean men who are trying to tell the truth, I wish to protect them all I can."

"All we want to know is, what you know about a man called Paul Watkins."

So there it was; either Bunny must submit to being cross-questioned by detectives, or else he must have everybody decide that he was hiding some dark secrets about Paul. Said he: "Paul Watkins is my best friend. I have known him for seven or eight years. He is the straightest man I have ever known, bar none. He has come home sick, after a year and a half in the army in Siberia. He could claim an allowance from the government if he wasn't too proud. What he did to me was to tell me what he saw with his own eyes, and I believe every word of it. And I am going to tell it to other people, inside the university or out, and no one is going to stop me."

So that was that, and Bunny was excused for the present. They would tackle the less wealthy conspirators—beginning with Peter Nagle, most guilty of all, because his name had appeared on the paper as editor. Peter was commanded forthwith to recant his impoliteness to God, and he swore by God that he wouldn't; so the "Evening Howler" carried a two-column head:

Student Red Let Out

And Peter grinned and said for the rest of the bunch not to worry, he was going into the plumbing business and pay his revenge on society; and when he had made some money he would publish a paper of his own and kid the life out of God every week.

And then came the turn of Rachel Menzies. She had been warned by Bunny as to the secret agents, and had promised to give them a piece of her mind; but then had a way to break her nerve. Just what had been her father's share in this conspiracy? They had ascertained that Papa Menzies had been born in Poland, and under the new deportation laws it didn't matter what you believed or what you had done, they could cancel your naturalization papers, and grab you and ship you away, leaving your family behind to starve, if it so happened. You had no trial, and no recourse of any sort. And furthermore, if a man was dumped into Poland with the red tag on him these days no trial was held and no questions were asked—he was stood against a wall and shot.

So there was Rachel, bursting into tears before three strangers and declaring that her father was a Socialist and not a Communist—as if that meant anything to any patriot! Hadn't the Socialists been opposing the war right along? And wasn't it a fact that the country had an attorney-general who was intriguing to get the nomination for president at the next Democratic convention, and was basing his claim to that distinction upon his valiant campaign to put down the red menace?

CLOTHING UNION WINS FIGHT ON WAUKEGAN FIRM

Walkout Brings Bowing to Demands

WAUKEGAN, Ill., Oct. 18. — The strike against the runaway Granert & Rothschild Co. clothing firm in Waukegan ended with a victory for the workers.

Just three weeks after the walkout in protest against the discharge of eight workers for union activity, the firm capitulated and signed an agreement for a preferential union shop with the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America.

No Prejudice.

The agreement calls for the return to work without prejudice of all the strikers, recognition of the union in the shop, collective bargaining and arbitration of grievances for the union members and the 44-hour week.

The victory of the strikers, in winning every demand made on the employers during the strike, in a hearing two weeks ago before Secretary Frank Fowler of the chamber of commerce and local labor leaders, is of great significance to Waukegan workers in other trades.

Blaw at Injunction.

The victory of the strikers is significant in another respect. It came not on the heels of a sweeping injunction granted by circuit Judge Edgar D. Shurtleff, sitting in the absence of Judge Claire E. Edwards, the injunction prohibited all picketing, soliciting support to the strike, visiting at the homes of employes of the firm and even watching the scabs on their way to the shop, in addition to the usual injunctional prohibitions.

The local organized labor movement aided greatly in the victorious strike. Its leaders were on the picket line and publicly declared their position in supporting the strike. In addition to the support of organized labor the strikers are deeply indebted for moral support and active work on the picket line to the local Finnish cooperative organizations and the Slovenic Benedt Association.

Danbury Hatter is Bankrupt; Union Still Goes Strong

NEW YORK, October 18.—(FP)—"Loewe, Danbury hatter, declared bankrupt," reports the Women's Trade Union League.

"Twenty-three years ago he was a rich and arrogant manufacturer of hats. He attempted to disrupt the Hatters' Union.

In retaliation, the union advertised him as an enemy of organized labor and placed a boycott on his product.

He went to court, secured a judgment of $240,000 levied attachments on the workers' homes and their savings.

American labor raised $214,911.20 toward that judgment.

Now, Mr. Loewe has lost it all.

The Hatters' Union is still doing business successfully.

Workers Don't Strike Any More, Says Judge; Fines Laundry Picket

On Oct. 24 the conference is giving Laundry Workers' International Union, which is conducting several single strikes in "Columbia Heights," between 110th and 120th street, Broadway, Judge Goodheimer stated that "workers do not strike any more—they are just a tool in the hands of the business agents," and fined the picket $10.

In answer to this statement the workers doubled their pickets and are determined to fight till the bosses stop sending out the shirts to the machines where they are manned by scabs and fool the public by giving them machine-ironed shirts instead of hand work.

POSTOFFICE CLERKS AND GARMENT WORKERS SUFFER MOST FROM EYE STRAIN AND DEFECTIVE VISION

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—Postoffice and garment workers show the highest percentages of defective vision in a federal health study covering 10 industries, the Eye Sight Conservation Council of America states. Ten thousand men and 3000 woman workers were examined by U. S. Public Health Service officials in these industries: pottery, postoffice, glass, gas, foundry, steel, chemical, cement, cigar, and garment.

Racial differences could not be distinguished in eye variations, Rollo H. Britten, associate statistician, and L. R. Thompson, surgeon, in federal health service, determined by statistical analysis of the study.

Hard on the Eyes.

Letter separators have the most eye defects and poorest sight in the postoffices. Finishers showed poorest vision among the garment workers. The analysis points out that both these groups do work which makes severe demands on the eyes.

Age was found to have a considerable effect on the number of workers with defective vision, the number of normal-sighted steadily declining with increasing years of work in all trades.

One Good as Two.

Workers with normal vision in only one eye were included in the test, "as it is felt that a worker with one good eye can, generally speaking, do as effective work as a worker with two good eyes."

The simple visual acuity test was used, ofitho the Eye Sight Conservation Council believes it an approximation at best, admitting of detections only of cases most seriously handicapped by defective vision.

HAMMOND COOKS, WAITERS FORM STRONG UNION

Greeks Join Yanks in Struggle

HAMMOND, Ind., Oct. 18.—Organization of cooks and waiters, Greeks as well as Americans, started here two weeks ago. The restaurants in this town are almost all operated by Greeks.

A week ago a group of men were seen in front of a restaurant with signs in the front, "This restaurant is unfair to organized labor." I asked to know what it was all about, and was informed that some of the Greek owners would not recognise the union so the picket line was put in front of their restaurants.

The bosses saw the effectiveness of this picket line, called a meeting and collected a lot of money to fight the unionists.

In this union joined quite a few Greek workers and especially one, Christos Anilos, who is always to the forefront of a fight. I asked him many questions and explained to him my views, that if they stick together the bosses' manipulations would not harm them a bit.

His answer was that they would rather starve than go back to work without a union. They he preferred jail rather than the bosses' terms.

And indeed, the strikers stood so firm in this struggle that the bosses had to give in, except the owners of the Indiana restaurant, who tried to get an injunction against the union. But he did not succeed and the picketing is still going on, and he will be forced to give in, as did the rest.

Stereotypers Win Wages Increase in Four Orleans Papers

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 18.—(FP)—A contract for three years with an increase of 25 cents a day each year with back pay from June 1 has been secured by the local stereotypers' union from the four union news papers of this city, making the daily rate for this year $6.75 for 8 hours with price and a half for overtime.

The composing rooms of the four newspapers are still nonunion with a nonnion pressroom in the Times-Picayuna, one of the largest papers in the south.

Despite the fact that an organizer from the International Typographical union has been on the ground for the past six months no progress has been made enrolling the various employes of the newspapers, owing mainly to the anti-secrecy law which compels each labor organization to report names of members to the secretary of state, which is open to the inspection of the public.

Henry Fuqua, elected to the governorship on this platform by the manufacturers' association, was in the main responsible for the placing of this law on the statute books, under pretense of killing the klan.

New York Painting Contractor Forced to Obey Union Rule

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 18.—(FP)—A painting contractor who accepts a job in another city must pay the higher rate of wages prevailing between the cities, the United States circuit court of appeals ruled upholding the painters' union.

The Barker Painting company of New York took a contract for Philadelphia work and decided to pay the Philadelphia rate, which is less than the New York rate. The Philadelphia painters struck in support of their union regulation. The federal district court refused the company an injunction against the strike and the appellate court upheld the decision.

N. Y. WORKMEN'S CIRCLE VOTES STRIKE RELIEF

Will Send $25,000 to Cloakmakers

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—At an enthusiastic meeting here, the New York Workmen's Circle conference, attended by delegates from 170 branches, voted unanimously to give financial support to the 40,000 members of the International Ladies' Garment Workers who have been on strike for the past 12 weeks.

Will Give $25,000.

The conference voted to assess each member of the circle 50 cents immediately, and another 50 cents in April. This means that the conference, which represents 50,000 workers in New York City, will immediately contribute $25,000 to the relief fund.

A resolution was also passed protesting the issuing of injunctions by New York judges against the cloak makers.

Heated discussions occurred in the meeting when the assessment resolution was brought up as the "right wing" opposed the proposal of the "left wing" that each member be taxed $1 for the strikers. D. Chanin, secretary of the Socialist Perband, a leader of the "rights," protested the $1 assessment, declaring the country branches would not stand for it.

Chanin Boxed Down.

He was hooted down, however, from this stand with the announcement that many of the country branches had already moved for taxing of $1, and he then proposed that the assessment be made in two installments. This was seen by the "left" as being an effort to really only tax the membership 50 cents, as the strike would probably be over by April when the next installment would come due.

Right Vote Wins.

A vote was taken on the two motions. On a standing vote, the $1 tax was declared victorious, but when a roll-call vote was demanded, the official counters "rights," declared the vote was against the larger tax.

Abrams led the fight for the $1 tax.

COAL COMPANIES PAY $85,000 A YEAR TO JUDGE; HE DECIDES FOR OPEN SHOP IN THEIR COAL MINES

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Oct. 18.—Unanimous demand for the impeachment of Circuit Court Judge Grant I. Lazelle was made by the convention of the West Virginia Federation of Labor, that demand for the removal of the injunctious judge will be lodged before the state legislature.

The federation's indictment, contained in the following clauses of the resolution, bares Lazelle's financial connection with the Paisley mining interests whom he issues injunctions for. It reads:

Gave Decision to Companies.

"Whereas, in the recent litigation in Monongalia County, West Virginia, between the United Mina Workers of America and the Paisley and Pursglove Coal Mining interests, a most dastardly decision was rendered by Judge Grant I. Lazelle against the interests of the men, women and children of West Virginia and in favor of the foreign coal mining corporations who so disgracefully abrogated their wage agreements with the United Mine Workers of America, and Gets $85,000 a Year.

"Whereas, the record of Monnugalie County show beyond question of doubt that Judge I. Grant Lazelle and his near relatives are receiving the extraordinary sum of $85,000 per year from the Paisley and Pursglove Coal Mining interests. This action of Judge Lazelle, sitting on this case, acting as judge and jury while receiving this enormous amount of money from the contract abrogating coal operators, stamps him as a man and official devoid of honor, and dangerous to our American institutions, a violator of the laws of the United States and the constitution and the statuss of the state of West Virginia." The impeachment demand follows.

2,500 Families Need Relief.

Delegates were instructed to solicit funds for the 2,000 miners' families idle in northern West Virginia because of strike conditions—on the delegates' return to the local unions. A petition to the governor was authorized, asking the repeal of the pistol toting law, to the end that the use of armed guards by the coal operators might be ended.

John B. Easton was reelected state federation president, and Clarence L. Jarrett, general business agent of the Charleston building trades council, secretary. Parkersburg will be the 1927 convention city.

PEABODY COAL GIVES UP TILT WITH UNIONISTS

Brophy's District Wins Important Victory

CLEARFIELD, Pa., Oct. 18.—(FP)—The attempt of the Peabody Coal company to break a strike at the big Cramar shaft mine in Jefferson county has been given up and the mine has shut down and laid off its few strikebreakers, mostly farmers from neighboring communities.

The strike began three months ago and has been effectively fought by the district union under the leadership of President John Brophy.

Turns Tide.

Winning this first round in the battle turns the open shop tide for the first time. Several other mines which the Peabodys similarly operate for the Northwestern Mining and Exchange company, a subsidiary of the Erie R. R. have been idle while the management awaited the outcome of the test fight at Cramar. The eight mines closed down in April and May with the announcement by the management that they would not operate under the Jacksonville agreement and the Chamer shaft opened in July on the scab 1917 scale in violation of the signed contract.

Farrington's "Employer."

The Peabody Coal company came into the limelight recently when Frank Farrington, late president of the Illinois union district, admitted that he was going on the company payroll at $25,000 a year. This concern is one of the biggest operating companies in the bituminous industry, having an annual capacity of 18,000,000 tons. Its Illinois mines are union but it has scab mines in Kentucky and Oklahoma.

May Sign Contract.

The general revival in the Pennsylvania bituminous industry since the British strike enhanced the market values in it near Portage that reopened two months after the management had announced that it would not and could not operate under the Jacksonville scale is still humming with activity. Last June when it made its threat not to resume again at the union scale it offered the workers a compromise scale of $6.30 and $6.00 a day, midway between the Jacksonville $7.50 rate and the $5.00 of 1917. But the union refused to consider this and as the market revived under the British spur, the company yielded and resumed under the old contract.

MIGRATORY FRUIT PACKERS FEEL PERSECUTION OF GOVERNMENT AND FARMERS; TREATED LIKE ANIMALS

By Winnie A. Little, Worker Correspondent.

BARKER, N. Y., By Mail.—Yesterday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock, 49 fruit pickers were arrested by two deputy sheriffs from Lockport, a railroad detective and two Barker constables. A complaint had been lodged against the men by some of the Barker residents because of alleged disorderly conduct on the part of two or three of the men last Saturday night.

Practically every fruit pickar in the town was picked up. And it was probably lucky for me that I hurt my back and went home.

Highway Robbery by Officers.

One man was stood up behind a boxcar and a gold watch, chain and gold penknife taken away from him. Nearly every man was forced to remove his shoes (in the search for money) and some were stripped. It was a kangaroo court of the rawest character with little semblance to law and order. Four men had been paid off one job that morning and were waiting for other jobs. Some of them had rooms, but they were fined just the same.

One man, an ex-service man injured in the war, was picked up in front of his boarding-house. This man has brains and courage and knows the law. They asked him what business he had wearing a white collar. He slammed back: "What business have you guys got to wear white collars?"

Ex-Soldier Talks Back.

They thoroly searched him and found $60 on his person.

They were going to take half of it as they were doing with every man, no matter what his roll. He told them to leave his money on the table and he would take care of it himself. He told them if necessary he would get a lawyer to fight his case. They accused him of gambling and taking away from the other men all their earnings. "You did not catch me gambling, did you?" They dismissed him.

The railroad detective whispered to the judge and the judge carried out his orders. Such procedure is entirely against the rules in court proceedings.

As Plan to Beat Down Wages.

The alleged disorderly conduct of two or three of the men was the excuse for the arrests. But the real underlying reason is a conspiracy on the part of the farmers and small business men of the town (the latter, if they do not own farms depend upon the farmers as buyers of their merchandise), and their political interests (fifa with the farmers) to force the fruit pickers to work for low wages.

One farmer even told some of the men after they were arrested that if they had accepted the six hours of work at 50 cents per hour without board, which he had offered, he would not have helped in causing the arrest of them. He knows details of the trial which I will not mention here, but which would prove the utter rottenness of those conducting the trial. Yet they could find no other charge they were arrested for trespassing on railroad property.

It's a Free Country?

Now today, December 30, another chapter has unfolded itself. This morning ten state troopers stood guard in Barker and every fruit picker or hobo who hit town was promptly driven out. So this town is rid of hobos. I asked the reason for their being driven out. "They went on strike," was the answer. "And what were their demands?" "Four dollars and fifty cents per day and board."

So you see the farmers themselves have driven out the fruit pickers, because they are men enough to demand a living wage. The reactionary farmers do not see that they are cutting off their noses. They think the fruit picker who moves and climbs ladders all day with a heavy bag of fruit on his back and who does the hardest kind of physical labor is robbing them. They do not stop to consider that the real robber is the buyer of his fruit.

Why Not Fight the Buyers?

The buyers pay the farmer a low price for his fruit, but when the worker in the city buys this fruit he pays a fancy price for it. Just now the farmer is offered 50 cents per bushel for peaches. In the cities the workers must pay from $1.25 to $1.75 per bushel.

If the reactionary and individualistic farmer would use the energy that he is now using to beat down the wages of the fruit picker and organize more effectively, he would be in a position to get what his fruit was worth.

Some Thrown Fruit Belt.

The trouble at Barker is only a parallel of what is transpiring in practically every town in the fruit belt. The deluded farmer, when he comes to the realization that his salvation lies in casting his lot with the very outcasts who gives his best to the farmers each year for a mere pittance, then and only then will conditions become better for both farmer and worker.

Fine the Panhandlers.

I later learned that these same men were first driven out of Lockport. They went to Barker and when they were driven from there they went to Bart. A farmer offered a couple of them $1.25 and board, and when they refused (they were holding out for $4.50) the sheriff was sent after them and they were arrested and fined.

'RED' CRY CAUSES ARIZONA LABOR TO DESERT WORKERS

Council Leaders Shake Porto Ricans

By a Worker Correspondent.

PHOENIX, Ariz., Oct. 18.—The Phoenix Central Labor Council voted to cease feeding the Porto Ricans at Fair Grounds.

Secretary Flynn of the council and also chairman of the relief committee, reported that a radical of some kind made a speech to them in their own language and that they gathered around him and cheered him. Flynn said he warned the Porto Ricans not to listen to those kind of agitators and if they continued the council wouldn't have anything to do with them.

He didn't say whether they complied with his request or not, but recommended to the Central Trades Council that they let them look out for themselves.

Mr. Carpenter, editor of the state labor journal (whose report at last A. F. of L. convention showed the paper receiving about $450 for subs and about $11,000 for advertising), said he knew positively the radical was an I. W. W. as Mr. Jones of the U. S. Dept. of Labor had informed him so, therefore he was also in favor of quitting.

Flynn had taken an active part in the Porto Ricans' troubles and fought the old heads pretty well till they won him over. He is also part of the Hunt political machine which guides the destinies of the Central Trades Council.

The papers printed articles showing how radicals in the council were preventing the farmers from marketing their cotton and "The Republican" blames it on the Hunt administration evidently knowing that about 60 per cent of the delegates are employed in different state works.

The fact was, the Hunt machine started the play at feeding the Porto Ricans thinking that public sentiment would come this way, but they didn't know the power of the press. Now that no one pays any attention except those interested in seeing the Porto Ricans eat (which are very few) they want to ship them as early as possible.

This bad "wobbly" who got the blame for the Porto Ricans going without breakfast in the morning was reported drinking at the Fair Grounds by U. S. Dept. of Labor agent.

The Porto Ricans said that as soon as they got to work they were all going to join the federation. Practically all the delegates who spoke were afraid to do anything which might hinder the cotton growers from picking their cotton, fearing they may be holding back the wheels of industry.

The result is: One of the finest stands ever taken by a group of workers in this state to better their conditions, broken by the leadership of the Arizona labor body to whom the workers looked to for help.

There are 4 or 5 reds among the strikers at the Fair Grounds today, there will probably be 25 tomorrow.

Los Angeles Stove Factory Exploits Workers to Limit

By a Worker Correspondent.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 18.—It is already more than a year since I am slaving in the O'Keefe and Merritt stove factory, and all the time I have been working for the same starvation wages of 40 cents an hour, and this wage is not only for me or somebody else, but is a fixed wage for years for all the young and for a great many of the adult workers. The same rule holds strong even when we work overtime. We never get paid time and one-half for overtime, no matter how late we work at night, Saturdays all day or Sundays.

Compulsory Overtime.

For the last months we were compelled to work till 9 o'clock in the evening almost every night in the week and Saturday till 3 o'clock.

Many young and adult workers have worked as much as 70 hours a week and get paid only for straight time. At the same time the bosses have made thousands of dollars. Is that to be continued?

Will the workers in our shop tolerate such conditions?

The first development of the campaign the Young Workers' League is conducting around our shop shows that the workers have realized their rotten conditions and are beginning to revolt to better them. There is another device by means of which the bosses are trying to exploit the workers to the utmost capacity, and that is the piecework system. Suppose a worker is given a certain price for a certain piece of work. The workers, thinking if they'll work hard they'll make more, work like hell, but soon they find out that they have been cut in wages. Why? Because they are told they make a little "too much." Sometimes the wage cuts go as high as 25 and 50 per cent and even more. Every worker in the shop is disgusted with the maneuvers of the bosses. But one by himself can accomplish nothing. It is only thru organization that we will accomplish something.

Young Workers' Campaign.

The Young Workers' League has started a campaign to organize the shop, which is composed mostly of young workers. We have already published three bulletins which were enthusiastically received by the young and adult workers of the factory. The following slogans were put in: "Fight for the 44-hour week! Time and one-half for overtime! Double time for Saturday afternoons and Sundays! A fixed wage for piecework! A 25 per cent increase in wages for a stove factory dub!"

I hope when we will accomplish in organizing some kind of an organization in our factory the rest will be later easier.

On to the organization of O'Keefe and Merritt stove factory!

Something New—Negro Women Strikers

The strike of some 150 or 200 Negro women employed by a Chicago confectionary concern in protest against a wage-cut is one of the encouraging signs of movement among unorganized workers in low-paid and unskilled occupations.

The number of workers involved in this struggle is insignificant, but the strike is important first, because it is a strike of cant, but the strike is important first, because it is a strike of Negro women workers and second, because it is a strike of Negroes and second, because it is a strike of Negro women workers —the most exploited and harassed section of the Negro masses.

Able to make a maximum of $14 per week only by the most intensive and sustained labor at piece-work, an attempt to reduce this miserable wage still further resulted in the strike. Unorganized, these women secured aid from the American Negro Labor Congress, set up a temporary organization and have now the support of the Chicago Federation of Labor and the Women's Trade Union League.

The manner in which the labor movement has responded to the appeal of these workers makes one of the few bright spots in recent labor history here.

There are rumors that similar revolts of underpaid Negro women workers may be expected in other lines of industry and there is no reason why, with these workers proving their desire for organization and their will to struggle, the Chicago trade unions should not be able to undertake a successful organizing campaign which would bring thousands of Negro men and women into the ranks of organized labor.

The Chicago Federation of Labor unanimously pledged its support at its Sunday meeting and this support must not be allowed to dissipate itself in the passing of resolutions but be expressed in concrete organizational steps.

In the meantime financial aid for the present strike is needed and it should be given generously. If it is it will pay huge dividends to the trade union movement in Chicago and result in immense progress towards breaking down the racial bars which still divide the working class in and out of the unions.

Chinese Masses on the March

In what is undoubtedly one of the most remarkable military movements of all time, the Chinese armies of national liberation sweeping down the valley of the Yang-tze, cleaning out the allies of imperialism as they go, consolidating behind the victorious forces solid trade unions, peasant organizations and units of the Kuomingtang, have arrived in front of Shanghai at the mouth of the Yang-tze and the imperialist press can no longer conceal the fact that in southern and central China there is powerful government backed by the Chinese masses.

The defeat of Wu Peifu and the collapse of the government of Sun Chuan Fang, his ally, in the five provinces he was supposed to control, the capture of the cities of Hankow, Wuchang and Hanjang—the industrial center of China—all in a period of less than three months following the retreat of the northern national army from Pekin, and the capture of Shanghai which will certainly occur unless there is armed intervention on a major scale by the imperialist powers, upsets completely the theory that the Chinese people are constitutionally, and therefore incurably, pacifist.

China is a nation in arms, a nation of 440,000,000 people, 400,000,000 of whom are workers and peasants. The weakness of China has been the internal divisions encouraged and capitalized by the would-be conquerors of China. Today the alignment is that of the nationalist movement under the leadership of the Kuomingtang against Chang Tso-lin—the sole remaining effective military force opposing the armies of liberation.

Sun Chuan Fang has no mass support and must retreat to Shanghai or surrender.

In this manner have all the theories about the inability of the Chinese people to understand or maintain national unity been proven fallacious—as all such theories must fall which view history statically and fail to take into account the influence of industrial development and such epoch-making events as the Russian revolution and the establishment of the workers' and peasants' government of the Soviet Union as a beacon light marking for all the oppressed peoples the way they must travel.

The Chinese workers have built one of the most militant trade union movements in the world, the peasants now have their organizations embracing hundreds of thousands, an army has been organized and its recent victories are a tribute to its modern efficiency, schools have sprung up by the hundreds, the peoples party (Kuomingtang) co-operating with the Communist Party, leads all the struggles.

Most of these great developments have taken place since the strike of the Hongkong seamen in 1922.

What of the "static character of the Chicago civilization"—the favorite phrase of the apologists of imperialism?

Jarecki Assailed for Denying Vote to War Veterans

County Judge Edmund H. Jarecki, democratic nominee for re-election, is being assailed by his republican opponent, Joseph Savage, for his decision, according to Savage, that wounded war veterans at the Speedway Hospital here are paupers and hence cannot vote.

Savage, who was in the army, claims that Jarecki made this ruling to prevent the soldiers voting for "their buddy," as Savage styles himself.

"The county judge has more arbitrary power vested in him than any other judicial or executive officer," Savage told a meeting of veterans Sunday. "The present judge has never hesitated to use this power to his own advantage."

Washington Labor to Back Move to Oust Anti-Labor Governor

SEATTLE, Wash., Oct. 18. — The executive council of the Washington State Federation of Labor has decided that the federation will back the recall movement against Gov. Hartley. The recall was instituted following Hartley's dismissal of the president of the University of Washington several weeks ago. Hartley, who is a lumber "boss," is notoriously anti-labor.

Rumor Brazil Revolt.

BUENOS AIRES, Oct. 18.—A series of cryptic messages received here today indicated that there may be grave political disorders in Brazil. Altho the messages were vague and without confirmation, in some quarters they were interpreted as indicating that a new revolution may have been attempted.

CHICAGO UNIONS BACK RELIEF OF PASSAIC STRIKE

Federation Votes Full Support to U. T. W.

The final hour of Sunday's session of the Chicago Federation of Labor was enlivened by an appeal for the support of the Passaic textile strikers, made by Rebecca Grecht of the United Textile Workers.

The speaker told of the marvelous courage of the 16,000 strikers, previously unorganized and of many races, in their nine months of battle against starvation wages.

Bitter Struggle.

"If," said the speaker, "you could have seen firemen, in the bitter cold of winter, drench crowds of men, women and children strikers with icy water from their fire hoses; if you could have seen tear gas bombs thrown among the girl pickets, choking and strangling them with its poison fumes; if you could have seen mounted police ride down crowds of strikers' children; then, you would know how their struggle must arouse the sympathy of every worker who has a spark of humanity in him.

A Fight Against Company Unions.

"But there is more than a humanitarian interest at stake," said Grecht. She told how the fight was not only against cold, hunger and police brutality, but was a fight to protect the union. Local 1603 of the United Textile Workers. The mill owners are trying to destroy the new union, and all trade unionists must protect it from the mill owners' attempt to force the workers to accept a company union in place of a real trade union.

Terror Increased.

Since the A. F. of L. had taken charge of the strike the mill barons had increased their terrorism. Two bomb plots have been framed up. Four strikers are held on enormously excessive bail. The strikers look to the whole labor movement for support. Without it they would never have been able to stand up so far. Now a strong boost from the labor movement would force the mill owners to negotiate and settle on the union terms.

A Unanimous Vote.

The speaker suggested that the federation empower the executive to give whatever aid it could. By a unanimous vote this was approved, with the understanding that credentials will be issued by the executive for soliciting relief from affiliated unions. Edward N. Doyle announced that arrangements would be made to give a Passaic talk over WCFL, the federation air station.

Aids I. L. G. Conference.

On request of the Joint Board of the I. L. G. W., a committee was authorized to work with the conference called for next Sunday to work out plans for support of the New York garment strikers.

'BATTLEFRONT' OF GANG WAR ACTIVE AGAIN

Another Is Slain and Four Arrested

The "battlefront" of Chicago's gang war became active again over the week end, with another victim claimed by the gangsters, and four others jailed by police.

A man believed to be John Dano, Sicilian, was slain Sunday. He body, punctured by five bullets, was found lying at the edge of the Manheim road, outskirts of the city. The theory is that Dano was taken for a ride, shot to death in the car and then flung from the speeding vehicle.

Druggist Taken.

The four arrested by police are Vincent Druccl, known as "The Schemer," who was partner of Earl Weiss, also slain; Vincent McErlane, brother of Frank McErlane, the south side gang leader; Julian Kaufman and Harry Sorg, both of the Weiss-Druccl-Moran combine.

Arrest of the quartet was made by the police before the body of the latest victim was discovered.

Jersey Trade Unions Fight Weyerhauser on Wages Paid to Laborers

PORT NEWARK, N. J., Oct. 17.—(F. P.)—One hundred workers employed at the construction of Weyerhauser Timber company plant, are striking with the support of the New Jersey State Federation of Labor because the contractor is not paying the prevailing union scale of wages throughout. He hired laborers at 37½ cents below the minimum hourly wage. Carpenters, electricians, crane operators, and steam shovel men walked out. The Weyerhouser company is from Baltimore and claims it will replace the Jersey strikers with southern non-unionists. The Weyerhauser interests are among the most powerful in the lumber business.

"SILK HAT" LAWYERS WOULD FRIST COSSACK TRIBE ON MISSOURI

ST. LOUIS—(FP)—The Missouri Association for Criminal Justice, composed of silk hat lawyers, has just completed an alleged survey of crime conditions and drafted a program of proposed legislation which will be urged upon the next state legislature.

Sweeping changes in court procedure are recommended, but the one in which labor is most vitally interested is a state constabulary.

The Missouri State Federation of Labor is preparing its line of attack when the cossack proposal raises its head in the legislature.

Since the constabulary recommendation was made public, numerous new affiliations have been received by the state federation.

ANARCHISTS ARE GRANTED STAY OF DEPORTATION

Habeas Corpus Hearing on November 8

(Special to The Daily Worker)

BOSTON, Mass., Oct. 17.— A stay of deportation was today secured by attorneys for International Labor Defense in the case of the three Fall River anarchist workers, Antonio Pereira, Diamillo Tezeira and Antonio da Costa. Hearings on a writ of habeas corpus will be argued in court on November 8, and bail set for the defendants at six thousand dollars.

The three workers, editors of a Portuguese labor paper, "A Luta," were arrested a few months ago for agitating among their countrymen in Fall River to organize against the rotten conditions that prevail in the textile mills there. They were held on a charge of violating the Volstead act, but the case was so flimsy that the prosecution was forced to drop this point early in the game.

The prosecution then changed its tack and proceeded to charge them with sedition with the threat of deportation to Portugal. International Labor Defense assumed charge of the case, providing attorneys for the defense.

"These Portuguese workers are guilty of no crime," said Robert Zelms, district organiser of International Labor Defense for New England, "unless it be the crime of loyalty to the working class. They have incurred the enmity of the local reactionary forces because of their devotion to the interests of labor, and the mill owners have combined with the local Portuguese church interests to have the three agitators deported.

"In their activities these workers have merely fought for the interests of the shamelessly exploited Portuguese workers in the textile mills, and in the Cape Cod fishing fleets and on the cranberry bogs and farms. The I. L. D." continued Zelms, "will utilize every means at its disposal to prevent the persecution of these three workers and the attempts of the immigration authorities to deport them to the reactionary country of Portugal."

Work is being carried on actively to secure the money necessary to maintain the bail in the case and finance the defense.

VARE POSES AS LABOR FRIEND IN CAMPAIGN

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 18.—William S. Vare, republican candidate for United States senator and central figure in the Pennsylvania graft exposé, is attempting to win the votes of the workers by preaching that unless the tariff goes up wages will go down, and that he is "their champion for higher tariff."

Vare is traveling up and down the state selling at the top of his voice his tariff slogan.

Attacks Radicals.

"Southern democrats and western radicals are plotting to tear down our great protective tariff wall," wails Vare to his audiences. "What would happen if that were done," he rea sons, "is shown by what is happening now under a tariff which is not high enough to keep out a flood of imports that sell on the American market for less than the cost of production in Pennsylvania factories."

Vare promised that he is elected he will help put this tariff higher in order to "keep wages untouched."

He did not say that wages would be increased if this happens, or that he has a very great personal interest in seeing a higher tariff.

Perth Amboy to See Picture on Passaic

PERTH AMBOY, N. J. Oct. 18.—"The Passaic Textile Strike," a seven-reel motion picture of the Passaic strike, will be shown in Perth Amboy Thursday evening, October 21, at the Washington Hall, 176 Fayette street, Perth Amboy, N. J.

LAWYERS FIGHT WITH FISTS IN AIMEE'S TRIAL

Court in Turmoil When Lie is Passed

(Special to The Daily Worker)

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 17.—The air of Judge Blake's court was still charged with excitement today as the preliminary hearing of Mrs. Aimee Semple McPherson, evangelist, her mother, Mrs. Minnie Kennady, and Mrs. Lorraine Wineman-Sielaff, all charged with conspiracy, got under way today.

Attorneys Fight it Out.

After a week of dickering, a fist fight between W. J. Gilbert, chief counsel for Mrs. McPherson, and S. S. Hahn, attorney for Mrs. Sielaff, threw the court into a turmoil yesterday.

Gilbert and Hahn exchanged blows when the latter accused Gilbert of telling the press that his client, Mrs. Sielaff was a liar.

Gilbert then slapped Hahn across the face with his open hand and Hahn retaliated with a similar blow.

Court attaches separated the two men after which Judge Blake admonished both of them for their actions.

Seek to Remove Juror.

Attorneys for the defense again lost a move to have Mrs. Sielaff declared incompetent upon the grounds that she was once an inmate of an insane asylum.

Her sister has stated that Mrs. Sielaff was placed in a Utah institution a number of years ago, not because she was mentally deranged but because she was incorrigible.

Repeat "Key X" Testimony.

Mrs. Sielaff reiterated yesterday that Mrs. McPherson offered her a sum of money to produce a "Miss X" to assume the role of companion to Kenneth G. Ormiston at a cottage at Carmel, and she said the woman she picked to play the role was Miss Rachel Wells of Philadelphia. She declared she did not know the whereabouts of Miss Wells at present but that she was in New Orleans.

The prosecution is attempting to prove that Mrs. McPherson was really the companion of her former radio operator, Ormiston, at Carmel, that she conspired to produce false evidence in connection with the incident and that her story of being kidnapped and held captive in Mexico, while her followers thot her drowned, was nothing but a hoax.

Workers in New York Protest the Queen's Coming

your autocracy and feudalism in this country."

"Down with Queen Marie, the oppressor of Bessarabia."

"Release the Roumanian Political Prisoners."

These were some of the slogans on the banners carried by the demonstrators at the Union Square meeting.

I. L. D. Meeting.

The mass meeting was arranged by International Labor Defense. The speakers were Elizabeth Gurley Flynn, Bishop Paul Jones, Robt W. Dunn, Forrest Bailey, McAllister Coleman, Capt. Paxton Hibben, Ben Gitlow, Louis Boudin and Carlo Tresca. All of them decried the blood-thirsty rule of the Roumanian land-owners, the stealing and sacking of the province of Bessarabia, the holding of thousands of political prisoners in the jails of Roumania and the murder of hundreds of workers and peasants during the reign of white terror.

Castigate Officials.

The huge crowd cheered to the echo when the speakers castigated the city, state and government officials who took part in the shameful welcoming of a queen upon whose dynasty responsibility for so much blood-letting rests.

Mayor Walker received the queen and her family at City Hall early in the afternoon and presented her with a medal "as a token of New York's love and esteem." The queen then read a prepared speech from the balcony, in which she referred to the "great people of America."

Police Use Clubs.

The trip up lower Broadway from the pier occurred during the lunch hour and of course the streets were jammed with the customary noon crowd in addition to the curious bystanders who watched the procession. In places the crowd was very dense and members of "New York's finest," who opened the way for the queen's car, were free in using their night sticks on heads.

MAX EASTMAN, AGAIN ATTACKS THE RUSSIAN SOVIET REVOLUTION

since the time of Judas Iscariot, and Eastman pocketed thousands of pieces of silver for his kiss of betrayal.)

Second, to make an attack on the Russian Revolution, sufficiently disguised to fool even friends.

It is not the first time that Max Eastman has manipulated with this material. Year and a half ago he was already on the rampage—"to help Trotsky against the conspiracy of the central committee of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union." The thanks he received from Trotsky for this "service" should have warned him against further campaigns of that sort. But Eastman seems to be very hard-up for money and the capitalist press seems to be very hard up for material against Russia so that both were willing to disregard entirely what Trotsky had said of Eastman's material of a year and a half ago.

TROTSKY at that time repudiated Eastman and declared among other things: "Eastman asserts in several places that the central committee has 'concealed' from the party a large number of documents of extraordinary importance written by Lenin during the last period of his life. (The documents in question are letters on the national question, the famous 'will,' etc.) This is a pure slander against the central committee of our party. Eastman's words conveyed the impression that these letters, which are of an advisory character and deal with the party organization, were intended by Lenin for publication. This is not at all in accordance with the facts. During the time of his illness Lenin repeatedly addressed letters and proposals to the leading bodies and congresses of the party. It must be definitely stated that all these letters and suggestions were invariably delivered to their destination and they were all brought to the knowledge of the delegates of the 12th and 13th congresses and have inveriably exercised their influence on the decisions of the party. Comrade Lenin has not left said 'will.' The bourgeois and Menshevist press generally understands under the designation of 'will' one of Comrade Lenin's letters (which is so much altered as to be almost illegible) in which he gives the party some organisational advice. The 13th Party Congress devoted the greatest attention to it and the other letters, and drew the conclusions corresponding to the existing situation. All talk with regard to a concealed or mutilated 'will' is nothing but a despicable lie, directed against the real will of Comrade Lenin and against the interests of the party created by him."

In another part of Comrade Trotsky's refutation of Eastman we find a very fitting characterization of Eastman's present outburst. Comrade Trotsky declares, "that Eastman has attempted to erect his construction on completely rotten foundation. He seizes upon isolated incidents occurring within our party in the course of some discussion in order by means of distorting the meaning of the facts and exaggerating the relations in a ridiculous manner to slander our party and undermine the confidence in it."

COMRADE KRUPSKAYA, whose party interest Eastman pretended to defend a year and a half ago, and whose interest he is now again pretending to defend in an attempt to cover up his real mercenary interests in the matter, declared of Eastman's use of Comrade Lenin's "will:"

"Eastman invents various fictions about Lenin's letters to the party congresses — calling them 'testaments.' Eastman fails absolutely to understand the spirit of our party . . . The real testament of Lenin is contained in the last articles he wrote and relates to the fundamental questions of party and Soviet work. All his articles have been published. But Eastman finds nothing of interest in them. He is too busy helping the enemies of the Russian Communist Party to calumniate and discredit the central committee by alleging that the 'testament' has been suppressed." Comrade Krupskaya characterizes Eastman's revings as follows:

"The author is only concerned to gather up and smack his lips over every scrap of gossip and odor if with his petty bourgeois anarchist leaninga."

THE capitalist world is hard up for material to slander the Russian Revolution. The facts of revolutionary reconstruction in Russia speak so loud that the proletariat of the world is gradually becoming convinced that of all the national groups of the working class of Europe the Russian workers have solved the most real out of the utter economic and political bankruptcy in which the rest of the bourgeoisie had led mankind. The standard of living of the Russian worker is constantly going up. The economic security of the Soviet Union is increasing hourly. Even the capitalist governments themselves have lost all hope of a successful counter revolution. They have reconciled themselves to the existence of a workers' government. But they cannot reconcile themselves to the fact that such a workers' government should stand out as a perpetual irritation to the downtrodden millions workers of other capitalist countries to overthrow the rule of their bourgeoisie and to take the construction of a future socialist society into their own hands. Thus, while they carry on relations with the hated soviet government they continue belittling and slandering it in the eyes of the workers. The need of the bourgeoisie for "evidence" against the Russian Revolution brought Eastman the needed money and at the same time afforded Eastman's desire to attack Russia

Central Delegates of I. L. D. Hear Cline, Progress Reported

Chas. Cline was the invited speaker at the Local Chicago I. L. D. central delegate meeting for October. The body of delegates were impressed by his enthusiasm for I. L. D. and his spirit after 13 years in prison. He spoke on organizational matters briefly, and made a plea for greater zeal in spreading the labor defense message. He also stressed the importance and meaning to prisoners, of regular monthly relief and frequent correspondence.

He urged all workingclass organizations to pledge for the prisoners' relief fund and to see that every prisoner gets plenty letters by seeing to it that each organization "takes care of," in these ways, at least one prisoner.

Growth of the International Labor Defense.

The secretary reported that twelve Chicago branches have pledged for specific prisoners—Hilings, Schmidt, Mooney, Barnett, House, Dawes, Childs, Nash, Smith, Russell, Drew and Powell (the last nine being I. W. W. men). The recent affiliation of four organizations was announced. International Ladies' Garment Workers' Local Union No. 5, Independent Workmen's Circle Branch No. 96, I. W. W. A. No. 43 (a woman's organization), and A. L. W. L. S. No. 104 (a workers' educational society).

Increased Labor Defender circulation was reported, as well as the addition of new members in various branches, and actions on behalf of a number of general class prisoners in Poland and in behalf of Sacco and Vanzetti.

The central body of this meeting laid plans for winter activities in the way of affairs, a campaign to add 2,000 to the circulation in Chicago of the Labor Defender and to increase the membership along with these other activities. This is to be further set by special "organization," "Labor Defender" and "booster" committees which were elected, and by enlarged city central conference on November 10 and on the second Wednesdays of the following months. The special committees will meet Wednesday, October 26, at 768 W. Van Buren St. and frequently thereafter.

National Chairman of I. L. D. Speaks at Party Here, Nov. 24

The new national chairman of the International Labor Defense, Elizabeth Gurley Flynn of New York, will be the speaker of the evening at an extraordinary supper party and entertainment on Thanksgiving evening, Wednesday, November 24, for which the fine Mirror Hall Western Ave. near Division St., has been engaged.

A program of unusual attractiveness is announced. The Chicago I. L. D. will hold a party for the benefit of political prisoners at Xmas time, a bazaar between the dates of February 17 and March 6, and a Paris Commune commemoration meeting on March 19th.

The I. L. D. has called on all workers' organizations to support these affairs, and to avoid conflicts of dates. To advance the work speakers will visit union meetings, and language groups will be sent the message to workers' organizations of their tongue and also run affairs in that language to help I. L. D. financially and in its organization.

Baltimore Republican City Employes Insist on Helping Democrats

BALTIMORE, Oct. 8. (FP) — In an ironical editorial the Baltimore Sun describes the bleeding of city employees and watchmen of $2 and $5 respectively by the democratic campaign committee, on "voluntary" basis.

"What can Howard Bruce chairman of the democratic committee do in the circumstances?" it asks. "He does not wish these poor people to contribute—even on the very installment plan; more, he insists that he will not countenance such contributions . . . But the chairwomen, and the little republican jobholders, and the aged republican watchmen, are irresistible in their passion to give to the funds of the democratic party . . . (the collectors should seriously resist, doubtless each collector would be knocked flat on his back by some 9-year-old chairwoman who would then stuff the money into his pocket."

Current Events

By T. J. O'FLAHERTY

THE slush fund probe is with us again and it came in just the right time to comfort the democratic candidate for the United States senatorship for Illinois for the discomfort of Ilyng in an hospital while the political battle is raging outside. "Look forth from thee window again fair Rebecca," he may say to one of his nurses, "and see if you can see approaching the foaming beer-stein of democracy or the furtive eye-opener of the republicans." You have read Ivanhoe, have you not?

FRANK L. SMITH, the favorite of Samuel Insull and George E. Brennan, also a favorite, are the chief contenders for the senatorship in Illinois. The "pure" republicans who happen to be both wet and dry, inject an independent candidate into the arena who is as dry as dust and is supported by the multi-millionaire head of the Sears-Roebuck mail order house. Thus the destinies of the masses are being decided while the labor fakers favor, now one, now another of the capitalist lackeys.

THE American Federation of Labor convention has come to a close and if anybody could tell where it differed from a convention of pawnbrokers, that person must have an agile mind. There was no sign of progress at this convention. The "left" were simply left out. A few relics of bygone days like Max Hayes, send up a puny prayer for a labor party and the leaders laughed because they knew there is nothing behind Max's voice except his larynx.

AND the same is true of the few so-called near-radicals that are left to us. They blest like lonely sheep on a bleak mountain. Unfortunately for them, they have developed a hunger for radical thrills, but they can never forget the feel of a hot meal, so they keep one eye on the flesh pots of Haul and another on the mental cafeteria of radicalism. They usually manage to get their fill of both, because they happen to live in the right historical period for such political conjuring.

THERE seems to be little left of the old progressivism in the American Federation of Labor. But a new class of progressives is arising. This class is coming from the YOUTH. Old people seldom amount to anything except that they may be useful as progressors. Of course there are exceptions. But in general the young provide the dynamite for revolutionary movements and old people are usually found devising excuses for applying the brakes. Whatever progressivism there is now in the A. F. of L. of the Max Hayes' type is standing on an over-ripe banana peel and might as well look around for a political undertaker.

BUT the workingclass movement always goes forwards even when the superficial eyes think it is going backwards. Labor leaders may wear tuxedos at conventions that might make the queen of Roumania throw an envious fit, but back in the constituencies of those labor fakers are workers who have to worry about where the next meal is coming from. Necessity is a great propulsive force, and the fat labor feker, like the proverbial dog, has his day. And in my opinion, the day is not far distant, even the American capitalism is just now on the top of the heap, but world capitalism is declining and a capitalist-less pool cannot long survive in a revolutionary oasis.

NEGOTIATIONS BROKEN UP BY BOSSES' STAND

I. L. G. Continues Big Cloakmakers' Strike

(Special to The Daily Worker)

NEW YORK CITY, Oct. 19.—Negotiations between the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union, representing 40,000 cloakmakers who have been on strike since July 1, and the bosses organized in the Industrial Council, have broken down because of the unyielding attitude of the employers and plans are being laid to renew and intensify the struggle.

Bosses Cause Break.

The tentative plan which was used as the basis of discussion struck a snag when the employers flatly refused the essentially vital demands of the union guaranteeing 26 weeks of work per year, and the bosses' insistence upon a provision allowing them to discharge 10 per cent of the shop personnel.

The conference broke up without plans for reconvening and the union, which is determined to carry the strike thru to victory, issued the following statement:

No Further Meeting.

"The conference has definitely broken up without any errangement for any other meeting or expectation of meeting again.

"The reason for the breaking up was the refusal on the part of the employers to state their position on all disputed points except on the subject of reorganization rights and hours. These were the only two subjects discussed.

"Substantial mutual concessions were made by both sides, but points of difference still remain on both questions. In this deadlock, the union proposed that the remaining questions be considered with a view of reopening discussion of the disputed points of reorganization and hours, if agreement was reached on other subjects, such as wage increases for certain crafts, specific provisions for the limitation of sub-manufacturers, unionization of examiners and other minor matters.

"The Industrial Council refused to consider these questions unless the union first conceded disputed points of reorganization and hours, which the union refused to do."

Bosses Wanted No Settlement.

It was evident that the bosses came to the meeting with no desire to reach a settlement, and that they took advantage of every concession made by the union to press the workers further, becoming bolder at every retreat of the union negotiators.

Young Boosters Come Together And Plan.

A meeting of the Young Worker Booster Club will be held on Thursday, Oct. 21, at 1902 W. Division St., 8 p. m. Everybody interested is invited.

WORKER IS NOT GETTING ANY MORE DESPITE INCREASED PRODUCTION ADMITS WALL STREET JOURNALIST

The failure of capitalist industrialism in recent years to provide the people of the United States with the means to a constant improvement in the general standard of living is indicated in an analysis of the national income by H. H. Ingalls in the Annalist.

Ingalls estimates a national income of $73,900,000,000 in 1925, but shows that this is just enough to provide the average worker with the same quantity of goods as he enjoyed in 1913.

The gain in the country's total productive has only just kept pace with the gain in population. The income per capita in 1925 was the same in correspond with the purchasing power of the 1913 dollar is no larger than in 1913. Somewhere in the devious ways of the profit system all the gains

Eastman Drops His Mask

By MAX BEDACHT.

MAX EASTMAN has finally dropped his mask. Last year, in the controversy arising over his book, "Since Lenin Died," he partially succeeded in fooling some friends of the Russian Soviet Revolution. He was at least given the benefit of doubt. The all agreed that he had selected impermissible methods of fighting, yet some still refused to question his motives. But now even the blindest of his friends must be disillusioned; and those of them who are genuine friends of the Russian Revolution must tell and show Eastman that he has forfeited the right to be tolerated in a society of man who value faithfulness towards the working class.

The late differences of opinion and disagreements within the Communist Party of the Soviet Union caused the hopes of the enemies of the Russian Bolshevik Revolution to rise high for an early disintegration of the leader of this revolution, the Bolshevik Party. All the vultures of capitalism gathered expecting that the

POLAND GIRDS FOR WAR UPON ITS NEIGHBORS

Lithuania and Soviet Union Aimed at

WARSAW, Oct. 19. — Overriding the Polish parliament, which refused to vote for the budget demanded by the cabinet, the council of ministers, sitting with Marshal Pilsudski, has declared for the budget as rejected by parliament, carrying a considerably higher estimate for war purposes.

What the political outcome of this will be remains to be seen. But this again accents the fact that Pilsudski is preparing for war against Lithuania and probably against the Soviet Union.

A full Polish army corps is ready for action at Vilna, which was seized by Poland in defiance of treaties and even of the boundary settlements outlined by the Versailles treaty, but this open robbery of Lithuania was approved after it was made, by the league of nations.

The Polish-Roumanian alliance binds Roumania to come to the aid of Poland "if attacked," and Pilsudski is aiming to twist facts sufficiently to appear innocent of aggression while carrying on a violent attack, as Polish troops do daily on the Lithuanian border.

MEXICAN LAW FIXES NUMBER OF PREACHERS

Ninety of Each Sect for Mexico City

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 19.—President Calles has submitted for the approval of congress regulations limiting the number of catholic priests and ministers of every denomination in the Federal District to ninety for each denomination. Eighteen of each denomination would be permitted to carry on their ministries in the Territory of Lower California and three in the territory of Quintana Roo.

Catholics here will hold a meeting to consider what measures to use to fight the projected law.

General Calles' proposals also provide that any clergymen wishing to exercise his ministry in the districts effected must first register with the president of his municipality. The latter would then notify the governor who would grant the clergyman permission to function provided the limit for his denomination had not been exceeded.

Officials who disobeyed the proposed law would be fined $50 pesos on the first conviction and dismissed from office on the second. Clergymen who function without registering would be fined $50 pesos and sentenced to 36 hours in jail.

IMPERIALISTS FEAR REVOLT IN SHANGHAI

Threaten Massacre of Chinese Students

(Special to The Daily Worker)

SHANGHAI, Oct. 19.—Shanghai is an armed camp as reactionary and renegade native commanders working hand in hand with foreign imperialist forces strive to prevent an uprising of workers and students seeking to overthrow the reactionaries and turn the city over to the Cantonese armies advancing down the Yangtze.

Reactionary Mayor.

Dr. V. K. Ting, mayor of Greater Shanghai, has suppressed the students' attempt to hold a monster meeting in protest against the British imperialist slaughter of Chinese at Wanhsien. This reactionary mayor declared martial law and threatened to fire without warning on any meeting.

The 3,000 or 4,000 Chekiang troops south of Shanghai have fallen back and the reactionary commanders are rushing troops south along the railway to prevent their re-advance. These Chekiang troops are apparently not sure of the support of the Chekiang governor.

Hela Chao in Doubt.

The Chekiang governor, Hela Chao, was reported to have several relations with General Sun Chuan-fang, but his position is now indefinite, since he has come out, or so it is reported.

DEBS SINKING RAPIDLY; END IS EXPECTED MOMENTARILY

The life of Eugene V. Debs, for almost a half a century a militant fighter in the cause of the American working class, hangs in the balance. The veteran warrior is failing rapidly at Lindlahr Sanitarium at Elmhurst, Ill., where he went a month ago to recuperate from a nervous breakdown complicated by kidney trouble.

The attending physician at two o'clock Tuesday afternoon said death was only a matter of hours, and perhaps minutes. His wife and his brother Theodore were in attendance at the bedside. Debs has been unconscious since early in the morning.

Debs has been in very bad health ever since his commitment to Atlanta penitentiary in April 1919 for an anti-war speech at Canton, Ohio, from which he was not released until 1921. He never regained his normal health after his prison experience. He is seventy-one years old.

U. S. POSTAL DEPARTMENT HEADS AT WASHINGTON PUT OUR VIEWS OF "ROMANY MARIE" UNDER PROBE

That the Post Office Department at Washington, D. C., is carefully scrutinizing everything being published in The DAILY WORKER concerning the visit of Queen Marie, of Roumania, became known today as the result of news dispatches carried by the United Press, a national news association.

The Chicago dailies did not carry the news item. It first came to the attention of the editorial department of The DAILY WORKER thru publication in prominent first page position in the Gary, Indiana, Post-Tribune, a steel trust sheet.

According to the Post-Tribune version, the postal department was considering the suspension of The DAILY WORKER, special emphasis being put on an editorial appearing last week, entitled "Romany Marie—American Imperialism's Hetaira."

No Objection Locally.

Such investigations usually originate with the local postal officials. Inquiry at the second class department of the Chicago post office, however, brot forth the information that altho The DAILY WORKER was being carefully read locally, nevertheless, the opinion was that the editorial in question was not sufficient grounds for instituting proceedings.

"We let the issue pass," said a spokesman for the local department in Chicago. "We did not consider there was any basis for holding up the issue. We do not believe that the material printed about the queen of Roumania in The DAILY WORKER can be touched by any rules or regulations of the post office department. All the news can do is to sue your paper for personal libel if she feels that she has a grievance."

In Class With Almas.

Readers of The DAILY WORKER, who do not agree with its policies, often send copies to the postal department at Washington, demanding that action be taken against the paper. This is probably what has happened in this instance. Much criticism was evoked by The DAILY WORKER recently because of its handling of the Almee McPherson case in California.

BANKERS OF WORLD ISSUE A MANIFESTO

'Economic Freedom' for Capitalists Urged

BERLIN, Oct. 19.—Forecasts of the anticipated international financiers' and industrialists' manifesto, as reported in news dispatches from London, meet with a cool reception at the hands of the press here.

Germania, the mouthpiece for the chancellor, Dr. Luther, today issued a warning that optimism regarding the pact may be premature. The paper says that unless the problems of reparations and war debts are included in the discussion its chances for success are small.

Stresemann Pleads Ignorance.

Taegliche Rundschau, foreign minister, Stresemann's organ, declared the union of German industrialists, the most powerful economic body in Germany, knows nothing regarding the forthcoming manifesto.

The Berliner Lokalanzeiger, which is nationalistic in views, declared the manifesto is a new impulse for the revision of the Dawes plan, which it claimed is the first visible success growing out of the Lokalanzeiger's campaign against the economic oppression of Germany.

Propaganda for Conference.

The manifesto which is to be issued on Wednesday is the forerunner of an international economic and financial conference, according to other interpretations.

The manifesto, which is understood to have the signatures of Dr. Schact and other German leaders as well as the great financiers of other nations, is known to be directed against tariff barriers and appeals for a greater measure of free trade.

The document is said to have been discreetly drawn and does not specifically mention the war debts of reparations.

Bankers Want "Economic Freedom."

LONDON, Oct 19. The manifesto to be issued tomorrow by leading international bankers and industrialists will urge the removal of all tariff barriers and urge the substitution of "economic freedom for a revival of world trade," it was learned here today.

More than 40 British signatures are affixed to the manifesto, including that of Reginald McKenna, Sir Montagu Norman and Lord Bradbury, it is understood.

The manifesto will bear nearly 200 signatures it is understood and 16 nations will be represented.

Morgan Speaks for U. S.

NEW YORK, Oct 19 American signers to the manifesto which is to be issued tomorrow are reported here to be J. P. Morgan of New York, Bates McGarragh of New York, J. J. Mitchell of Chicago, Thomas N. Perkins of the reparations commission, Melvina A. Traylor, president of the First National Bank of Chicago and Albert Wiggin president of the Chase National Bank.

Among the nations represented as signatories to the manifesto are Austria, Belgium, Czecho-Slovakia, Denmark, France, Germany, Holland, Hungary, Italy, Norway, Poland, Roumania, Sweden and Switzerland.

GIRL OFFICE WORKERS GET BAD TREATMENT

Los Angeles Girl Tells of Conditions

By EDITH BERKMAN.
(Worker Correspondent.)

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 19.—A girl, speaking to me about conditions in Los Angeles, told me how the workers are mistreated in the shop in which she works on an addressograph machine.

When they first begin they are paid $13 a week. After working 6 months they get a raise of $3 and sometimes not when it is very busy, which makes seven that only the minimum wage as laid down by the state of sunshine and open shop.

The girls are allowed one-half hour for lunch and if they are 15 minutes late three times in one week they are docked $1 from their wages.

During working hours none of the girls except the secretary, who happens to be on friendly terms with the big boss, is permitted to go to the rest room even when most necessary. On account of this rule most of the girls suffer from all kinds of stomach troubles.

The place is small and full of dust from the paper but if the worker can stand it all for one year she gets paid $20 per week. The only trouble is that the management seldom keeps a girl for more than a year and a half. They are always training new girls and when they learn the work, the old ones who are getting $20 are exchanged for girls getting $12 or $14 a week.

The girl who told this story to me was fired from the place last week. When she asked why she was told because she went to the rest room twice that day. But the real reason was because she was getting $20 and some of the new girls who had learned the work fairly well under her supervision were willing to work for less and did not go to the rest room even once a day.

Such are the conditions in most Los Angeles shops today.

Worker Tells of a Subdivision Graft Deal in Washington

By CHAS. MILLWARD
(Worker Correspondent.)

BAYVIEW, Wash., Oct. 19.—My last letter told of the loss of life and injury to employes of the English Logging Co. They are tearing out the rotten bridges. To save life? No, to save their $20,000 locomotives.

This time my letter is about the small farmers and would-be farmers.

A short distance from the City of Anacortes is Padilla Bay, four miles across, east and west, and about 9 or 10 miles north and south. High tide in this bay is 12 feet 6 inches except when a gale blows down the Georgia straits when it is 2 to 6 feet higher.

This bay is called tide flats for the tide runs out of a part of it at low tide, except several deep sloughs. A few years ago some exploiters got this bay from the state and then commenced a campaign of misrepresentation, such as, "Get you a small home and be independent."

Even the Union Record of Seattle, a so-called labor paper, aided by a full page ad. Well, it sold all right and after several years, work started a year ago. The dyke was to be from 350 to 500 feet on the bottom, 16 feet high and 25 feet or more on the top, I-inked with several poor men and women who invested their savings and they said it had cost them more than they can buy improved land for on the LaConner flats. Anyway for a month or so the two dredges have been idle. The men working on them quit, as they were back two payments on wages, but they have just started up again. Most have found more muckers for "Barnum was right." But with less than one-sixth of the work done the small investor (even if it is ever finished) will be froze out and their savings gone forever.

HOW PAINTERS ARE SPEEDED UP

By DAVE RAPO
(Worker Correspondent, Student L. A. Class)

One of the greatest evils of the building trades workers is the speed-up system. Especially is this true of the painters. He who has most chances to stay on the job is the one who is the most speedy. You come up on a building and you see how the painters drive themselves like automatons. The paint chemicals and the lead smell terrible in the room and poison the air.

Pile on Work.

The painter in his dirty overalls, with a heavy brush in his hand is seeking to throw quicker and start another room. He is sweating, the air is hard to breathe and he is rushing. A few years ago, if a painter painted two kitchens in a day it was a fairly good days' work. Now he paints three and four kitchens in a day and sometimes even more.

Hire a Hustler.

The bosses hire one hustler, who receives fifty cents or a dollar a day more than the union scale, and he is rushing and the other men have to run after him. Sometimes we discuss this speed-up problem of the trade at the local union meetings, but nothing definite has been done yet.

What we need is to establish by the union a scale of production, and this is the only way that we can do away with the most inhuman evil in the trade: the speed-up system—which drives the workers out of the jobs into the hospitals. Another evil in the trade is the poisonous chemicals, which can be done away with and the sprayer, but of this another time.

Deport Eight from Russian Colony in Angeles After Raid

By L. P. RINDAL
(Worker Correspondent.)

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Oct. 19.—The local Russian colony, "Little Russia," was gripped with terror the other day. A squad of uniformed immigration inspectors, led by Alfred Dick and Frank Ellis, swooped down on the unsuspecting workers from Sovietland, surrounded the colony in military style and took eight prisoners. Everybody and everything came in for inspection. The search for "illegal entrants" was on in earnest. Those who escaped the raiders—and many did—are now on their way back to the Russian co-operative colony near Guadalupe, Mexico, a check at the port of entry revealed today.

John Kurbutoff, a colonizer of his people, who entered the United States legally in 1920, is the most colorful of the prisoners. Later on he went to Canada, South America and European countries with his colonization work. Then back to his homeland, Soviet Russia, where he met his present wife, Anna Popoff. After a trip to Turkey and France, the pair entered Mexico in April, 1925. Two years later, 1927, they were granted a permit to "visit" America, god's country. Now the government's dicks claim that the couple has "overstayed the permit by three years." That "overstay" will cause their deportation," inspectors say.

Coolidge Clock "Crocked."

It is hard to figure out, however, how there can be three years "overstay" in one year. Time on Coolidge's political clock is running too fast. The apparatus is due for a complete breakdown—soon. Their kick over these workers' form of marriage is also a "fishy" affair. What about the style of Aimee, the evangelist, in this respect? The government men of Coolidge does not even care to take action concerning her two fake ransom letters. Why not deport her?

A few days ago, the federal grand jury indicted 15 foreigners for violation of immigration laws, so the workers from "Little Russia" will have pleasant company when they leave the land of the free.

Tenant Farmers in California Suffer From Cotton Prices

(Special to The Daily Worker)

RIPLEY, Cal., Oct. 19.—The low price of cotton is bankrupting many tenant-farmers and share-croppers in the cotton-belts of California. Due to high taxation and the high cost of irrigation water, together with excessive rentals demanded by the land barons, make it impossible for the working farmer to earn a living for himself and family after the state and landlords get their shares in taxes and rents.

California cotton, which usually sells to local buyers at about one cent above New York market quotations, is now selling for about 12.50 to 12.50 points. This low price, of necessity, decides the possibility of the tenant making other than a bare living since the contracts usually secure the owner one-third of the crop absolutely free of expenses.

This means that the tenant must pay for the picking and ginning of the owners' share.

These factors are mitigating to reduce the wages of the pickers to the starvation point. Many ranchers, backed up by local chambers of commerce and bankers, are forcing agricultural workers to pick for $1.25 in the field. In many instances the pickers are forced to accept gin weights, which further reduces their meager earnings. Whole families, father, mother, end two or three children, pick from sunup to sundown, and together earn the princely sum of $18 to $25 for a full week's work.

DULUTH LABOR'S LOT CALLS FOR MASS ACTIVITY

Discontent Grows in Lake Port

By a Worker Correspondent.

DULUTH, Minn., Oct. 19.—Conditions in this city are far from ideal, despite claims to the contrary by the local press. Were all is peaceful business places in a row. It would resemble a deserted boom town. During the past six months changes took place in all lines, with the eliminating of many and bankrupting more.

Workers Bear Burden.

The workers are bearing the burden, of course. There is a strong undercurrent of discontent growing. Wages are low and unions not near strong enough to put up a fight.

The state railroad and warehouse commission granted the local traction company an increase in its fares from six to eight cents. For years the people of Duluth defeated this greedy corporation by voting down their raise in fares. The Brooks-Coleman law was passed in the legislature and it left the local voters high and dry as far as the street car fares are concerned.

These experiences certainly ought to drive home to the workers of this city the necessity of their taking political action. Local farmer-laborites and members of the Trades and Labor Assembly are calling a mass meeting to protest this brazen act of the traction trust and state railroad and warehouse commission. All workers should attend this meeting and see to it that the movement doesn't die being born.

If the sponsors do not do so hopeful they can create a weapon that will endanger the coupon-clippers. But it must be a mass movement and aim to get results, not a stepping stone for a few ambitious politicians.

College Student, Son of Poor Worker, Forced to Slave in the Summer

By M. PERLIN
(Worker Correspondent.)

Angela is a clever boy. He is not 18 yet and is already a student of the Northwestern University.

Angela's parents are very poor and he has one brother and two sisters younger than him. His father is a tailor, and most of the time he is out of work. Therefore, the young student is forced to help out his father. No one can tell Angela that he should give up school.

Loves School.

When some times he starts a conversation with his father and mother, and the parents start to tell him how hard it is for them to make a living, Angela answers them that he does make as much as he can in his spare time. Then his parents answer him that it doesn't amount to much, but, if you would quit school and get a steady job, you would surely bring in about $20 a week, and that would help us very much.

When Angela hears his parents tell him to quit school, he becomes very sad, and he gets up as if from a terrible error.

He takes around his mother and father and with tears in his eyes he begs of his mother and father, not to force him to give up his education, because education means more than the world to him.

As an Ice-Helper.

When vacation came, he began to look for a job. He couldn't find anything better, than a job as a helper on an ice-wagon. He received three dollars a day and he worked from 7 a. m. to 7 p. m.

He carried pieces of ice, ranging from 50 to 100 pounds, to the houses. In hot days he carried to the buildings from 10 to 12 cakes of ice per day. A cake of ice weighs 300 lbs.

Once on a very hot day, when it was 96 degrees in the shade, I stood and watched how this poor boy carried the ice on his back. The water was dripping from him as much as it was from the ice, and I thought to myself, what kind of pleasure this poor boy got out of his college education.

CAL RELIEVED AT NEW QUIET OF KLAN HEAD

Stephenson's Mumness Causes Conjectures

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—(FP) — White House spokesmen are very mum indeed when the Klan-Stephenson scandal affecting the republican state administration in Indiana is mentioned.

To a well-known spokesman of the White House this question was put:

"Will the president inquire into the reason for the visit of an agent of the Department of Justice to D. C. Stephenson in the Indiana state prison just before Stephenson appeared before the grand jury? This question is asked in view of the seeming suggestion by the Washington Post that 'national politics' was responsible for the visit and Stephenson's silence thereafter."

Sargent Is Ignorant.

There was no sign from the spokesman that he could even read the question. Attorney General Sargent had previously professed that he knew nothing of the activity of his subordinate. He did not offer to make an inquiry.

Speculation was rife as to whether the "national politics" in this prison interview was to be found in the sending of the agent of the Department of Justice by Senator Jim Watson of the republican senatorial campaign committee, and whether the detective carried a message to Stephenson from Governor Jackson regarding possible parole or pardon.

In any case, Stephenson's sudden decision to refuse to talk gave great relief to the national administration's fear that it would lose two senators in Indiana.

PLOT TO DEPORT SORMENTI; HELD AT ELLIS' ISLAND

Arrested at Anti-Fascist Meeting in N. Y.

(Special to The Daily Worker)

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—Enea Sormenti, secretary of the Italian bureau of Workers (Communist) Party, and one of the most active fighters against fascism in this country, was today arrested at an anti-fascist meeting in Tenmeny Hall. He is being detained at Ellis Island on a charge of having illegally entered the country. Bail is set at $1,000.

Attempt to Deport.

An attempt will undoubtedly be made to deport Sormenti with dispatch, before sufficient protest can be organized against sending him back to Italy to be murdered or imprisoned by the bloody fascist regime.

A test case recently, with another noted anti-fascist, Vincenzo Vacirca, resulted in the labor department being forced to permit him to remain in this country as a political refugee.

Test Case inconclusive.

That this case was not conclusive is shown by the arrest of Sormenti. The right of political asylum in this country is being prostituted to the bloodthirsty demands of Mussolini's agents in the United States.

U. S. Naval Dictator of Samoa in Trouble for Ousting Civilian

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—United States naval administration of Samoa will come into court with the hearing of a suit for $50,000 damages brought by Samuel Ripley of Richmond, Cal., against Captain Waldo Evans, commandant Great Lakes Naval Training Station.

The Chicago federal district court is the scene, states the American Civil Liberties Union, which is supporting the case.

Ripley charges he was "practically shanghaied" from Samoa in 1921 on Captain Evans' order—Evans then naval commandant at Pago Pago.

Ripley helped Samoan chiefs draw up a statement of their grievances against the U. S. naval administration for presentation at Washington.

Upon his second visit to Samoa, he charges, Evans prevented him from landing, which he declares no naval commander has authority to do.

MOSCOW, Oct. 12.—(By Mail) — According to a decision of the central committee of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union, the 16th Party Conference, which was arranged to commence on the 10th of October, has been postponed until the 25th of October.

Net of Guilt Is Holding Strong Against Efforts of New England Gang

By J. LOUIS ENGDAHL

EVERY move made by the defense in the fight to secure a new trial for Sacco and Vanzetti, has been counter-moved by the forces of the prosecution, that now have these two Italian workers within the shadow of death in the electric chair.

Every effort to save the lives of Sacco and Vanzetti confronts some counter-move of the world-be capitalist assassins.

This is best shown by the strenuous efforts made to break down the testimony of Celestino Madeiros, who absolves Sacco and Vanzetti from any part in the South Braintree robbery and murder. But all these efforts have failed miserably.

Thus we find Dr. Albert C. Thompson, superintendent of the state hospital for the insane at Foxboro, made an affidavit as to his examination of Madeiros on April 8, 1926, in company with Dr. Elijah H. Cohoon.

Madeiros was asked why he had made a confession, and he said he would rather not talk about it, BUT IT WAS TRUE: that he had not known until shortly before his confession that Sacco and Vanzetti had been convicted of the crime that he had committed.

Madeiros told the doctor that he got no money, that he did no shooting, that shortly after the South Braintree crime he was arrested himself. Dr. Cohoon made an affidavit in which he corroborates everything that Dr. Thompson testified to.

Even the keeper of the Providence, R. I., county jail, Charles E. Llanoott, is forced to help give strength to the affidavit of Madeiros. He showed from his records that Joseph Morelli, Pasquale Morelli, Paul Rosati, Joseph Imundi, Raymond McDevitt and Frank Morelli were none of them in jail on April 15, 1920. This is the date of the South Braintree crime, which the Morelli gang is charged with having committed.

Many affidavits introduced, signed by Mary Splaine, Frank J. Burke, Frank A. Wade and five other witnesses, reveal that all these individuals picked out the picture of Joe Morelli as the man seen doing the shooting.

Then there is another affidavit of Officer Oliver J. Curtis, deputy sheriff of Norfolk County and deputy keeper of Dedham jail, where on that on Nov. 16, 1925, two days before Madeiros made his confession to Sacco, that the runner, Edward Miller, came with the request that Madeiros be allowed to read the financial report of the Sacco-Vanzetti Defense Committee; that Madeiros kept the pamphlet 30 or 40 minutes, and then sent it back with a statement duplicating his confession of two days later, addressed to the news editor of the Boston American.

Not only Winfield M. Wilbar, district attorney of Norfolk County, but also his assistant, Dudley P. Ransey, told how they made a trip to the Rhode Island metropolis and talked to members of the Morelli gang, including Frank Morelli, Pasquale Morelli and Fred Wilson, at the Providence, R. I., police headquarters. Police inspectors and counsel for the Morelli brothers were present.

It can easily be surmised just what the Morelli brothers would have to say to the Massachusetts prosecutors. They resorted to the usual refuge of criminals, denying everything.

The Morellis said that no one of the five brothers ever lived on North or South Main Street, in Providence, but that their home in 1920 was at 63 Marietta Street; that they did not know, nor had ever known, Celestino Madeiros. Each one, in monotonous repetition, declared he had never seen a person who resembled in any way the person pictured.

Frank and Pasquale went a little farther. They declared that they were in Providence during the entire month of April, 1920; that they did not come to South Braintree on any day of April; that they did not know where South Braintree was located, and that they had never at any time gone to South Braintree.

Frank and Pasquale thus confess themselves just as absent-minded as Joe, now confined at the Leavenworth Federal Prison. Joe had declared that he, too, was ignorant of South Braintree, especially of the Rice and Hutchins shoe company at that place; until he was reminded that one of the counts in the indictment under which he was convicted charged that he was guilty of thefts of the goods of this company in interstate commerce.

The prosecutor's forces even went so far as to send one of its staff, Assistant District Attorney William F. Kelley, for the southeastern district of Massachusetts, to visit James F. Weeks in his cell in an effort to get Weeks to repudiate his testimony. It will be remembered that Weeks, who was involved in the Wrentham National Bank robbery, gave testimony supporting much that Madeiros had admitted concerning the South Braintree affair. Kelley denies that Weeks ever said to him, "You have just offered me this cigarette, and not so much as this cigarette has been offered to me by anyone concerned in the Sacco-Vanzetti defense." It is, of course, the word of Weeks against Kelly. Since the government forces have admitted that any methods are justifiable in their struggle to get their victims, the reader can easily reject Kelley's piece of fiction, and believe the original story as told by Weeks, himself, who has nothing to gain by giving aid to the Sacco-Vanzetti defense.

Thus the New England gang meets with little success in resisting the test of guilt that the exposures in the Sacco-Vanzetti case are weaving about capitalist justice as it is dispensed by the United States government.

Tomorrow:—A member of the Massachusetts state police visits Joe Morelli at the Leavenworth Prison, and of course Joe denies everything.

CHILD LABOR LEGISLATION AGAIN STRUCK BY CAPITALIST COURTS; DECLARE LAW UNCONSTITUTIONAL

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—(FP)—State child labor legislation is given two most serious setbacks by the decisions rendered by Attorney General Gentry of Missouri holding unconstitutional certain features of the Missouri Child Labor Committee, of New York.

The first decision holds unconstitutional the law which prohibits employment of children under 16 years of age in any occupation that is declared by the state industrial commissioner to be dangerous to health and morals.

The Excuse.

The ground given by the attorney general for his decision is that the legislature has no power to delegate to a state officer the right to say what occupations are injurious or dangerous. This is in direct opposition to the present trend of legislation against the U. S. naval administration for presentation at Washington.

Upon his second visit to Samoa, he charges, Evans prevented him from landing, which he declares no naval commander has authority to do.

Many Children Injured.

One of the most serious indictments of child labor is its heavy accident toll. From two to three times as many children as adults in proportion to the number employed are killed or injured in industry. A recent study made in Wisconsin, Massachusetts and New York by the U. S. Children's Bureau reveals that in one year there were 7,478 accidents to minors of which 38 were fatal, 920 resulted in permanent disabilities and 6,520 in temporary disablement.

Second Constitutional Quibble.

The second opinion holds unconstitutional the provision that no child under 16 years of age shall be employed except under a permit from the board of education and then only upon certificate of a reputable physician and an affidavit of parent or guardian.

The ground given here is that it is an attempt upon the part of the legislature to vest in other persons a discretionary power which is vested alone in the legislature. This is even more out of line with modern state child labor legislation, declares Swift.

The aim of The DAILY WORKER is to publish a real labor paper, and a real labor paper it will be.

KAISER IN AIR ABOUT GOING TO HIS 'FATHERLAND'

Law Banishing Him to Expire Soon

(Special to The Daily Worker)

BERLIN, Oct. 19.—While rumor is rife that the ex-kaiser intends to return to Germany when the law banishing him expires next June, the former emperor is not ready to definitely commit himself on the matter.

In response to a telegram inquiring about the ex-kaiser's return to Germany the following telegram was received from Doorn:

"Regarding an event which his majesty the kaiser has placed in the hands of providence, it is, of course, impossible to give any information. Signed at the all highest orders, Count von Schmettow."

Holland Worried.

Amsterdem reports received here state that Dr. Kan, minister of the interior for the Netherlands, has conferred with the ex-kaiser and discussed his plans for the future. One report states the Dutch officials have notified the ex-kaiser they cannot countenance a return to Germany, lest it be construed as a violation of their agreement with the allies.

THE QUEEN OF TERRORLAND

Marie, Royal Consort of Ferdinand of Hohenzollern-Sigmaringen, is Representative of One of the Cruelest Dynasties in Europe.—Thousands of Murdered Peasants and Imprisoned Workers are Mute Testimonials to the Pitiless Despotism of the Rumanian Boyars and Capitalists.

ROUMANIA IS PREPARING FOR WAR ON A SCALE BEFITTING A FIRST CLASS POWER. THE COUNTRY WAS AN ARMY LARGER THAN THAT OF THE UNITED STATES—HER WAR PREPARATIONS ARE DIRECTED AGAINST THE SOVIET UNION.

By THURBER LEWIS.

QUEEN MARIE has come to the United States to save her husband's throne. That is the hard fact hiding beneath the ballyhoo and trumpeting of the royal consort's journey to the land of the almighty dollar.

A harder fact is that her husband's throne drips with blood. For nine years, under the rule of King Ferdinand and the Rumanian workers and peasants have been submitted to a systematic and pitiless White Terror to be equaled only by the notorious excesses that curse Bulgaria and Poland.

A third fact is that Roumania is preparing for war on a scale befitting a first-class power. Turned down in both London and Paris for further loans to continue its ambitious program of militarization, Roumania now turns to the United States for credit. It was Queen Marie who went to London and Paris in a vain effort to get large loans and it is Queen Marie who comes to knock at Wall Street's door for the same purpose.

But against whom is Roumania preparing? Why must she maintain an army larger than that of the United States? Roumania makes no secret of the fact that her war-like preparations are directed against Soviet Russia. In addition to this the military manner in which the country is governed makes a large force necessary for internal service against the peasants and workers and the national minorities. All this requires money and the queen has come to the right place to get it.

I.

FERDINAND'S throne is by no means secure. It is threatened, in two ways. First, the rulers and exploiters of Roumania

KING FERDINAND

are themselves divided. The Roumanian bankers and commercial interests under the leadership of the powerful Bratianu brothers desire to keep Roumania a "closed shop" economically to be exploited principally by Roumanian bankers, that is, the Bratianu brothers. They are the head of the "Liberal Party." It is only within the last few months that General Averescu, by threatening open military revolt, succeeded in becoming premier. He is the leader of the nationalist party and represents the Boyars (large landowners) and the military clique who are in favor of the introduction of foreign capital into the country on a large scale. Between the two the king and queen are in the position of being between the devil and the deep sea. Both the Bratianus and Averescu are prepared to sacrifice the throne if that becomes necessary to the maintenance of their respective positions.

King Is Worried.

THE crown inclines towards the views of Averescu, that is, he is in favor of foreign capital coming into the country in unlimited quantities. But while Averescu has temporarily succeeded in winning the government, the Bratianu brothers are by no means out of the running. There are three of them. In the last government, one was premier, one the minister of finance, and the third, the leader of the majority in the parliament. Their father was the first premier of Roumania. He put Charles, Ferdinand's predecessor, on the throne. Since his death, his sons have been the virtual dictators of Roumania.

The struggle between these two camps in the ruling class of Roumania make the position of the king and queen a little difficult, to say the least. The division is intensified by the extreme economic instability of the country. The country needs credit and lots of it. Marie is in the United States looking for it.

Then there is the possibility of a revolt of the populace. A predominately agricultural country ruled by an extremely top-heavy bureaucratic system and existing, economically, only with great difficulty is always ripe for an internal explosion. Like Hungary and similarly hard-pressed nations ruled by a military system constantly in need of funds, Roumania now offers itself for sale to the highest imperialist bidder as the only hope.

Roumania Has Oil.

ROUMANIA has oil. The Bratianu brothers [illegible]

Marie Gets Cold Shoulder.

IN 1924, Marie and Ferdinand were notified that their visits to Rome and Madrid had best be cancelled. In both that year and the year following the Roumanian royal couple made journeys to London and Paris. They overstayed their visits in both places in a last effort to secure the loans they came to get. Instead they got a cold shoulder. They made their plea on the basis of defending the stolen province of Bessarabia against the "Soviet dictators." But it was just at that time that the best interests of both French and British capital were being served by resuming trade and diplomatic relations with the Soviet Union. That, together with the fact that they did not like the Bratianu funeral legislation, caused the money-changers of the Thames and the Seine to allow the charms of the devastating Marie to go unheeded.

Much Press-Agented Trip.

SO now comes Maria to the United States. She is being press-agented to a fare-well. Personally, the queen is in a class with Peggy Hopkins Joyce, Mrs. Jean Nash and "Peaches" Browning. She revels, like them, in publicity. And, like them, she is getting it. But aside from her rather overrated personal charms (the lady is in her fifties and is a grandmother) and her willingness to turn an honest penny by allowing newspaper syndicates to write and release stories to which she attaches her sign manual, she is of the blood-royal. In this respect she has rather an edge on Peggy and is making the best of it. But the fan-fare and pomp accompanying the blue-blooded madame's trip to this country must not be allowed to conceal the real object of her coming. If it were social diversion she were after, there is plenty of it on the other side of the water. She is here in search of American dollars to bolster up the threatened dynasty of Hohenzollern-Sigmarengen of which she is the female member.

II.

"The Russian rod was frightful, but it was as nothing compared with the lash which is now swung over Bessarabia."—The ex-Prime Minister, Walda-Woyevod, on the 10th of November, 1924, in the Roumanian Parliament.

IT is by no means an overestimation to say, as we have said, that Ferdinand's throne drips with blood. Ferdinand is a Hohenzollern and the blood that runs in his veins is of a kind to make him entirely fitted to countenance the bestial accesses that have taken place under his eyes and under the aegis of his coat of arms. And his consort, Marie of the British lion's blood, a grand-daughter of the Imperial Victoria, duchess royal of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha, can scarcely be expected to show qualms at the mere mass murder of thousands of peasants.

And mass murder it was. The very ground of the blood-soaked province of Bessarabia cries out against the merciless Roumanian Boyars and the equally guilty dynasty before whose throne they bow.

The division between the Bratianus and Averescu does not interfere with the terror. They are both experienced in suppression and are united in the attack upon the workers and peasants.

Here are the facts.

Prior to the World War, Roumania was a country of some 9,000,000 inhabitants composed of the two former Danubian principedoms of Walechia and Moldavia. Bessarabia was part of the Russian Empire. When the revolution swept the land of the czars in 1917, Roumania taking advantage of the confusion resulting from the revolution, moved her troops into Bessarabia. By sheer force of arms, the invaders disbanded the Soviets that had been formed by the peasants and took control of the Bessarabian national assembly. With the aid of a clique of renegade peasant leaders and the bayonets of soldiers, the national assembly was persuaded to "vote" to "affiliate" with Roumania.

Later, certain western powers confirmed the annexation of the territory and also the addition of Transylvania, formerly part of Hungary, which brought the population of Roumania to 17,000,000. But Russia has never recognized the right of Roumania to Bessarabia. And neither has the mass of the Bessarabian peasantry.

Map shows the comparative sizes of the old and new Roumania. The additions of Transylvania, Banat and Bessarabia have almost doubled the size of the original kingdom. Roumanian jingoes call it "Greater Roumania" in the name of which thousands of peasants in Bessarabia were murdered.

Bessarabian Tradition.

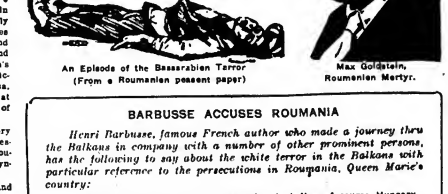
THE Bessarabian peasants and the workers of the central city of Kishinev have had a long tradition of struggle against absolutism. In 1903, and again in 1905, Kishinev was the scene of valiant struggles of the workers against their czarist oppressors. Both revolts were drowned in blood. In 1917, during the Roumanian occupation the Boyars outstripped their czarist predecessors. Jon Bratianu, at that time Prime Minister, was the Galliffet. It was under his direction that the massacre in Bessarabia was conducted. It was under his regime in 1916 in Galicia that many workers lost their lives for protesting against the insanity of the war. And upon his head rests the guilt for the shooting down of 120 workers in Theater Square in Bucharest during a strike demonstration in 1918.

It was only last year in Kishinev that the farcical trial of the five hundred peasants of Tatar-Bunar was held. All of them were sentenced to savagely long terms of imprisonment aggregating thousands of years.

These five hundred peasants were arrested after an insurrection in the territory surrounding the village of Tatar-Bunar in September, 1924. The peasants were driven to desperation. Their land was stolen, they had no tools, taxes were unbearable, their harvest was bad, they were forced to suffer the worst kind of indignities and abuses at the hands of the gendarmes. The country was overrun with spies—members of the Siguranza, the Roumanian secret police. There was nothing else left to do but revolt.



An Episode of the Bessarabian Terror (From a Roumanian peasant paper)

Max Goldstein, Roumanian Martyr.

The Slaughter of Tatar-Bunar.

WITHIN three days whole villages were laid to waste. The Dniester River was a seething coffin. No less than three thousand peasants were massacred by Roumanian troops who bombarded the villages. Then, afterward, the trial. It was a comedy. The defendants were foredoomed to their fate. As their defendant there stepped forth one of the greatest men in Roumania, Costa-Foru, a venerable old attorney. He led the defense. But to no avail. He was not allowed to introduce evidence. He was abused by the prosecution and the defense silly. In the end, the peasants were marched off to prison.

Barbusse Testifies.

WE have the word of Henri Barbusse, noted French author who, in company with Vernochet, chairman of the international Teachers' Union and Mademoiselle Lamy, a women attorney, visited the trial room during the Kishinev trial:

"We were in Kishinev and were present at the trial," writes Barbusse. "We were not allowed to speak with the accused altho we had been assured we would be allowed to do so. We were not allowed to visit their prisons, altho this also had been promised us. On the day on which we attended the trial there was preserved the outward appearance of publicity regarding the proceedings, altho on all other occasions the public was excluded. When, however, Costa-Foru, a prominent lawyer and one of the defenders of the accused peasants, wished to speak of the tortures which they suffered, the president endeavored to prevent him, indicating to him at the same time that foreigners were present."

Piles of protocols in the hands of Costa-Foru and Henri Barbusse testify to the pitiless persecutions of the Roumanian. Arrests by the agents of this institution of terror is synonimous with torture. The jails of Roumania, Bessarabia and Transylvania are crowded with "enemies of the state": trade union leaders, editors of national minority and working class papers, members of the proscribed Communist Party, peasants and workers who made the mistake of expressing opinions.

Arrest Trade Unionists.

LAST year the entire executive committee of the Unitarian Federation of Labor was placed under arrest in Bucharest. Thus even trade unions are made illegal in Roumania. While there is terrific exploitation in the oil fields, the salt mines and the factories of Bucharest, Constanza and other large centers, the workers have been unable to organize adequate resistance because the terror is invoked against them. On the occasion of the arrest of the Trade Union Executive, however, a general strike was called and supported by large numbers of workers. This shows that the Roumanian working class has the fighting spirit and the courage—but the odds against them are a huge spy system and an overmanned gendarmerie.

Such, in brief, and only too inadequately, is the white terror as conducted in the land of Queen Marie. Thousands of massacred peasants, hundreds of workers who died in prison, thousands more in the bastiles of Bragsova together with the robes of "her majesty" with their blood. Many are the martyrs of Roumania. Only this year added two new and prominent fighters for freedom to the list. Pavel Tkachenko was murdered in the terrible Dofiana prison and Boris Stefenov, a former member of parliament, also in prison, is faced with the same fate at any moment. Last year the workers of Roumania mourned the passing of Max Goldstein, a Communist, who despite his extreme weakness from months of torture in the Bucharest jail, went on a hunger strike from the effects of which he did not survive. Queen Marie knows only too well of these murders. Even tha high walls

BARBUSSE ACCUSES ROUMANIA

Henri Barbusse, famous French author who made a journey thru the Balkans in company with a number of other prominent persons, has the following to say about the white terror in the Balkans with particular reference to the persecutions in Roumania, Queen Marie's country:

The governments of all these countries, including of course Hungary and even Jugoslavia, are not at a loss for a pretext for their persecutions and measures of suppression, tortures, acts of murder, etc.; everywhere it is the alleged Bolshevik danger; everywhere it is the alleged emissaries of Soviet Russia who render these methods necessary.

We were able to observe these methods of the government in the concrete example afforded by the Tatar-Bunar trial. The Foreign Minister, Duca, and the Under-Secretary of State, Tatarescu, attempted to explain at length their thesis of the "Bolshevist influence from abroad" by means of the example of Bessarabia. As they persisted in this story we demanded documentary proofs from them. They promised to furnish the same, but in spite of our repeated reminders they have not been forthcoming.

We have become convinced that in the case of the peasant revolt of Tatar-Bunar there was, of course, no foreign influence, no "Bolshevism" as the government asserts, but that it was simply and solely an outburst of desperation on the part of the peasants in Bessarabia, who are suffering the most extreme misery and oppression.

As regards the mishandlings, torturings and acts of murder in Roumania and also in Bulgaria, we have collected authentic materials, photographs, etc., which we shall publish and which will speak for themselves.

Protest Against the Roumanian Terror!

An Appeal to American Workers by International Labor Defense

THE arrival of Queen Marie of Roumania in this country must be the signal for a concerted movement of protest against the frightful persecutions of workers and peasants that exist in the murder regime which she represents.

The workers and peasants of Roumania, in their brave struggle for liberty from oppression, have had hundreds of their best workers and fighters snatched from their ranks by the Roumanian "Siguranza" and put to a terrible death or to torturing imprisonment. The bestial crimes of the Roumanian ruling class have made it the [illegible]

ing class struggles for better conditions are mercilessly suppressed. Freedom of press, speech, assembly and organization have become a tragic joke for the workers and peasants of Roumania. The recent murder of Pavel Tkatschenko, a splendid working class leader, is only one of the numerous crimes committed by the Roumanian oligarchy.

QUEEN MARIE is an envoy in this country of this regime. She represents a government whose claws are dripping with working class blood. She represents a government whose prisons are crowded with government which has brought ruin and desolation to the oppressed nationalities who fought for their independent existence.

The capitalist press conceals these notorious facts. Each newspaper, in typical "democratic" style, seeks to outdo the other in servility to this representative of a bloodthirsty nobility. Altho this is supposed to be a private visit, all the machinery of the government is put at the disposal of the queen.

THE workers of America look with horror and protest upon the representative of the Roumanian terror, Queen Marie. Inter-

[illegible] in the name of the

it is the United States, urges all workers to meet the queen, wherever she goes, with demonstrations of protest.

WE demand an immediate, general, unconditional amnesty for the political prisoners in Roumania's dungeons!

WE demand the immediate cessation of the regime of terror and ferocious persecution of our brothers in Roumania!

WORKERS of America! Unite in great demonstrations of protest! Let this envoy of capitalist terrorism feel the voice of American labor!

of her stately and luxurious palace [illegible] not keep out the cries of the dying.

U. S. Lackeys Bow to Queen.

AND this crimson-stained monarch [illegible] to the United States to receive a welcome, well planned and prepared, such as would scarcely be accorded to her own land. Mayors, governors, admirals, millionaires and presidents make their bows to "her highness" and kiss her hand.

The plutocrats, the jingoes, the politicians of this "land of the free" prostrate themselves before and pay homage to a [illegible] whose throne is propped up by the bayonets of a military despotism. And yet, there is a certain community of interest between the two after all—that must be conceded.

But the workers who learn the truth about Roumania are not taken in by the frivolity and limelight that blazes the queen's regal procession across the continent. For the very day she landed in New York a great demonstration of workers greeted her with banners inscribed with the horrible facts about her country and speakers told the painful story of the Roumanian white terror.

III.

ROUMANIA maintains a standing army of larger than that of the United States. Last year, the Bratianu government concluded an agreement with Armstrong, British aircraft manufacturers, for the building of factories in Roumania to construct military planes. Also in 1925 a conference to discuss war materials attended by war minister and leading generals of the army decided upon the construction of a new base at Braila to be developed for the construction of tanks and chemicals for warfare. A new hydroplane and submarine base is being built at Mangalia, on the Black Sea. Two warships were bought from Italy.

We pointed out that Bessarabia is a stolen province. Russia has never recognized Roumania's right to it. Roumania made a military alliance with Poland against the Soviet Union. It is a [illegible] ordinary occurrence for Roumanian [illegible] men to speak of the Soviet Union as a common enemy. The reason that Marie Ferdinand were turned down on their application for loans in Paris and London in 1924 and 1925 was because the latter countries feared that Roumania would be catapulted into a war with Russia at a time when the western powers were resuming relations with Russia.

The remainder of Baron Wrangel's [illegible] ter-revolutionary army is still in Roumania waiting for a chance to march into Ukraine.

Country Is Desperate.

THE expense of all these military preparations is enormous. Roumania is a country. Eighty per cent of the population is peasant. The national debt [illegible] at about 200 to the dollar. Her peasantry is impoverished. Even the resources of her oil wells have fallen far short of living up the dollar credit secured by an additional large military machine. Roumania has got to have money if the present regime is to survive.

So the Roumanian oligarchy seeks a charmer into new fields.

Perhaps Marie's plea for funds to "ward off the Bolshevik menace" will fall on sympathetic ears in Wall Street. Perhaps the temptation of virgin oil fields will be too much for our dollar imperialists. Perhaps the chance of putting another Dawes plan into operation in Roumania will prove very enticing.

She Will Get Blood Money.

MARIE would not have been sent, all elaborate preparations would not have been undertaken, if there were not to be a show. Then there is the precedent of $75,000,000 investment that Standard Oil already has in Roumania and there is the guarantee of Averescu that foreign capital will have a free hand under his regime. All likelihood Roumania will be given the already long list of nations which pay tribute to American imperialism.

And if ever there was blood money, this will be. It will mean giving money for the maintenance of one of the most brutal regimes in the world. But the United States has already given money to Poland, Hungary, to Mussolini's fascist clique. Why not to Roumania?

Such is the story of the visit of Queen Marie of Terror Land to the Land of Dollars. It is a story that every worker [illegible]

CENTRAL COMMITTEE WELCOMES BACK FORMER MEMBERS OF THE BOSTON ARMENIAN FRACTION

The Armenian fraction of the Workers (Communist) Party held its national conference in Boston, Sept. 18 and 19. At this conference there were representatives not only of the Armenian members of the party who were affiliated with the bureau of the Armenian fraction, but of those groups which hitherto have not worked as part of the Armenian fraction.

The Boston Conference considered the situation among those workers who were formerly members of the Armenian Section of the Workers (Communist) Party and the Armenian Workers Party, and came to the conclusion that it was necessary to end the factional struggle which has divided the Armenian Communist workers in this country and to unite all the revolutionary workers as members of the Workers (Communist) Party, for united work among the Armenian masses in the United States.

Adopt Resolution.

The Boston Conference unanimously adopted the following resolution expressing this viewpoint:

"The Second Annual Conference of the Armenian Fraction of the Workers (Communist) Party of America, in its second session, considering that the internal fights (in the class struggle front) that the Armenian radical workers in America went thru has gradually disorganized and weakened their ranks, it therefore considers it its duty to request the Central committee of the Workers (Communist) Party, in case there are no other serious or prohibitive reasons, to give effect to the following wishes of the conference:

1. Whereas, those comrades (now out of the party) here during the past three years realized more deeply the revolutionary value of the economic and political battles of the Workers (Communist) Party is waging, and the necessery discipline therein.

2. Whereas, the economic and political struggle of the revolutionary proletariat urges and demands categorically the strengthening and preservation at all costs of the united front of the proletariat.

3. Whereas, the Armenian Fraction of the Workers (Communist) Party must fulfill in the life of the Armenian masses in America very important and immediate tasks in the above stated direction. Therefore, be it,

Resolved: That (a) This conference asks the central committee of the Workers (Communist) Party to invite by an official appeal all those comrades who have been isolated and have committed themselves to activity, to hasten into the ranks of the party and of the Armenian Fraction in order to carry on active work, and that

(b) The central committee also proposes to the comrades expelled from the party in consequence of the internal fights, to return to the ranks of the party and to prove in practice their devotion to the Comintern as well as to the Workers (Communist) Party of America."

Resolution Welcomed.

The central committee of the Workers (Communist) Party welcomes this resolution of the conference of the Armenian Fraction.

It calls upon all the members of the former Armenian Workers Party who are not now members of the Workers (Communist) Party and its Armenian Fraction to at once take their places in the party and join in the work of winning the Armenian masses in this country for the revolutionary class struggle under the leadership of the Workers (Communist) Party.

The central committee further extends to Comrade Sunarian, Demirjian and Gahanian, and any other comrades who were expelled from the party during the course of the struggle within the Armenian Section, the right to rejoin the party with full rights of membership.

A Great Step.

The central committee is of the opinion that the unanimous resolution of the Boston conference marks a great step forward for the unity of the revolutionary Armenian workers. It urges all the Armenian workers who were formerly members of the Workers (Communist) Party or who are ready to join in an uncompromising revolutionary struggle against capitalism, to at once take their places in the Workers (Communist) Party and its Armenian Fraction.

Forward to the building of a strong section of the Workers (Communist) Party among the Armenian workers.

Forward to the winning of the Armenian working masses in the United States for the revolutionary struggle against capitalism.

Central Committee
Workers (Communist) Party.
C. E. Ruthenberg, General Secty.

Bulgarian Language Fraction Urges Aid to Keep Our Daily

DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 19.—The following resolution was passed by the Bulgarian Language Fraction Bureau of the Workers (Communist) Party of America, on the drive to keep The DAILY WORKER at its regular meeting of Oct. 10, 1926, in Detroit, Mich.

"We wholeheartedly support the campaign to keep The DAILY WORKER.

Is Best Weapon.

"The DAILY WORKER is our central organ. Without The DAILY WORKER our party would be deprived of its most efficient weapon in the class struggle. Without The DAILY WORKER our party would be deprived of the best means it has at its command to speak to the membership and sympathizers of our party's policies, campaigns, organizational work, etc.

"It is the most important task, before everything else, for every party member not only to support the campaign to keep The DAILY WORKER but to contribute as much as possible to the $50,000 fund to keep The DAILY WORKER.

Supports Foreign-Born.

"The DAILY WORKER is the only English daily paper that has always given its unreserved support to the cause of the foreign-born workers in this country. Before its foundation, The DAILY WORKER has not only supported but actually organized and lead the major campaigns for the protection of the rights of the foreign-born workers.

"When, last year, the Wall Street servants with Coolidge at their head, wanted to photograph, register, and fingerprint like animals all the foreign-born workers, The DAILY WORKER was the first and the only English daily that inaugurated a real campaign and fight against this czarist "ukas" of the gallows of the government.

"The services that The DAILY WORKER has rendered to all the foreign-born workers, and especially to the workers of our nationality, cannot be rapaid. So we call upon all class-conscious workers and progressive elements among our immigrants, to give its wholehearted support to the campaign to keep The DAILY WORKER, to give and contributs to the fund for keeping The DAILY WORKER.

(Signed) Bulgarian Bureau of the Workers (Communist) Party of America.

Largest Class.

The class is the largest in the school, and the comrades were very enthusiastic about the work. Comrade Bittelman assigned the following questions to be answered for the next lesson, either orally or in written form:

2. In what sense do we speak of our final aim as scientific?

3. What is political education?

4. What is the value of political education for a Communist?

5. What shall be the instructor's role in our class?

6. What are the advantages of the study method in our class as compared with the pure lecture method?

7. What is self-imposed discipline?

8. Wherein does the discipline established for our class differ from the discipline imposed upon the workers in capitalist factories or capitalist army, and what are the advantages of our system?

Students who have not yet enrolled are welcome to come to the next class, Friday, October 22nd.

GITLOW FLAYS A. F. L. ACTION ON 'AL' SMITH

Convention Endorsement Is Gross Error

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—"The A. F. of L. convention has made a serious error in endorsing Governor Alfred E. Smith as a so-called 'friend of labor' in its national convention," declared Benjamin Gitlow, Workers (Communist) Party candidate for governor, in a statement to Workers (Communist) Party members in the state today.

Pardoning Is Only Claim.

"Outside of his pardoning of various Communists convicted for their opinions under the antiquated criminal-anarchy law after overwhelming pressure from the New York labor unions," continued Mr. Gitlow (he was one of the convicted men so pardoned by Gov. Smith), "he has absolutely nothing of a character friendly to labor to show from his long administration.

Against All Else.

"For the rest, Governor Smith's record includes the vetoing of the teachers' salary bill, the proposal for the strengthening of the state constabulary and the further removal of the state government from responsibility to the people of the state.

"The Smith-Hughes state reorganization plan would make of the governor a supreme autocrat, and of the New York state government something approximating a one-man dictatorship. He has increased the size of the national guard and of the state police. Under his administration the milk grafters go unpunished, altho they are tampering with, adulterating and profiteering in this most essential of the people's needs.

Recent Attacks.

"The most flagrant of all are the attacks of Smith upon labor in recent months, now that he is trying to prove to big business that he will make as good a strikebreaker president as has Mr. Coolidge; his brutal attacks upon the striking garment workers thru the Smith-man, Moskowitz; the recent clubbing of the I. L. T. strikers; the arrests of garment workers in numbers as high as 400 in a single day, with a total of 1,000 thus rounded up; the passing of the 3,000 mark for arrests of pickets in the garment strike; and, most vicious of all, his attempt to force a compulsory arbitration scheme upon the New York garment workers, which is intended as evidence of his powerful financial backers for the national presidency that he would make a good enforcer of the Watson-Parker bill forbidding railway strikes and of a similar arbitration measure in the coal fields—such is the anti-labor record of Governor Smith.

Has History Also.

"I do not want to give the impression that his anti-labor activities are of recent origin. I remember how in 1919 by his refusal to the milk drivers who were on strike to go back to work pending an investigation and then never did anything on their behalf. In 1922 he tried the same trick in the public utilities strike in Buffalo, and in the garment workers' threatened strike in New York he succeeded in persuading the then leaders of the garment workers' union to accept his fine promises and then appointed the governor's commission on the garment industry, which dilly-dallied for two years and then made a report adverse to the interests of the garment workers on all the essential points of dispute. This is Governor Smith's favorite trick for fooling labor. When labor is in a fight and likely to win he gets them back to work and then gives them a commission. The commission takes its time, ignoring the true issues, or reports unfavorably or forgets to report at all.

Director of E. T. C.

"Mr. Smith is a director of the Electric Transport Co., which is tied up, thru interlocking directorates, with the New York Central, etc. He is the candidate of Owen D. Young of the General Electric Co. and of the House of Morgan for the presidency of the United States and wishes to use his governorship and the backs of the New York labor movement as stepping stones to that high office.

"The action of the A. F. of L. convention is just one more product of their mistaken policy of their so-called 'non-partisan political action.'

"This business of 'rewarding the friends and punishing the enemies' of labor only results in rewarding labor's enemies, supporting the capitalist parties, ignoring the true champions of labor and preventing the labor movement from creating a labor party of its own. The Workers (Communist) Party, in the final weeks of the campaign, will redouble its efforts to expose to the New York workers the true record of Governor Smith in labor matters. It is a record of constant opposition to the militant activities of labor and consistent service to the big business interests."

Chicago Conference for Passaic Relief meets Thursday, Oct. 21, 8 p. m., at Room 301, 30 North Wells Street. Delegates please take note.

WIN THE YOUNG WORKERS

CONDUCTED BY THE YOUNG WORKERS LEAGUE

WEEK IN SPORTS

SERIES NETS MILLION AND A HALF.

The recent world's series for baseball supremacy, held between New York and St. Louis was the juiciest from the point of view of finance in the history of the game. A cool million and a half dollars were left at the gates by the enthusiastic customers. Some of them even stood in line nights for the privilege of ponying up. Other paid scalpers as high as $20 for $2 seats.

Football on same level as pre-baseball.

So high were the profits made out of professional baseball this season, that well founded reports are going round that a third major league is to be launched. It is calculated that this would require a capital of 15 million dollars but the reports have it some New York millionaires are willing to come across. Many of the sports writers are boosting the new league as an attempt by real sportsmen to boost baseball. That's the bunk. It is a pure and simple attempt by real business men to dig what promises to be, a profitable business.

SCANDAL RUMORS FLOAT 'ROUND WORLD'S SERIES.

Colyer's, an outlaw sports journal, has come out with a sensational story purporting to give the inside dope on an alleged fixing of the world's series. It points out that betting on the series was extraordinarily heavy—and in many places very one-sided—and that some known gamblers who are reported to be on the inside made some tremendous "killings." The writer is not naturally a gullible person, but he is inclined to give credence to the rumors. Ever since the "Black World's Series" of 1919, professional baseball has been regarded as another fixed sport—and that despite the fact that Judge Landis is paid $52,000 per year to keep it clean.

WILLS DEFEATED BY SHARKEY IN "QUEER" FIGHT.

Are they already starting to build up an opponent for a bout with Gene Tunney? The answer to this question also explains the why and wherefore of the defeat last Tuesday, of Harry Wills, by the second-rate New England boxer, Jack Sharkey. All accounts of the fight are unanimous in reporting that in the early rounds, it looked as the Wills could have fattened Sharkey at any time he wanted to. Possessing a weight advantage of 7 pounds, and an advantage in height and reach, besides being the better and more experienced boxer, Wills should have been an easy winner. Instead he just pawed around, overlooked easy openings, and let Sharkey take the offensive. The bout was stopped in the 13th round, and the decision handed to Sharkey because of a foul blow by Wills.

The only explanation for the outcome of this fight, is that it was more profitable for Wills to lose than to win. Tunney had declared, immediately after winning the championship, that he would not give Wills a fight. Besides this, six years of futile attempts to get a crack at the crown when Dempsey was wearing it, (and which he would probably have won) had just convinced him that he was out of luck insofar as a championship fight was concerned. Accordingly, he was willing to "lay down" in the Sharkey fight providing that the financial inducements were large enough. Evidently they were.

SPENDS $250,000 FOR COMPANY SPORTS.

What will ho the biggest gymnasium, boasted by any industrial plant in the world, is being built at the Hawthorne plant of the Western Electric. Figures given out by the company, place the number of workers who last year participated in company athletics at 6,000. Over 100,000 spectators watched the various games and contests—most of them being employes of the company.

Company sports, like its more famous relative, company unions, has been developed by the bosses to keep the workers from taking up the struggle for better pay and conditions and shorter working hours. This form of boss control is primarily aimed at keeping the young workers, passive and satisfied. Company sports has been developed on a national scale, and is increasingly making its appearance in the large plants and factories. It constitutes a real menace to the interests of the workers, and as such has not been given sufficient attention by the militant labor movement.

Tennis Now a Frank Business Proposition

Suzanne Lenglen, French tennis star, has left the ranks of the amateurs for that of the professionals. In capitalist amateur sports there is just as much commercialism as in professional capitalist sports and Suzanne would rather be bought and paid for in the open.

Young Workers of L. A. Plan a Danee for British Miners

WORKER IS NOT GETTING PART OF BIG PRODUCTION

Wall Street Journalist Makes Confession

due to improved machinery and methods have been lost.

Admits False Propaganda.

Ingalls notes this striking contradiction to the generally accepted propaganda. He says: "I confess that I have been unable to see in these data the evidence of increased productivity per worker that propaganda has practically made a matter of general belief. Rather, it is clear that the increasing national income is correlated with increasing population and general price level. It is undeniable that in many industries there have been great strides in efficiency during the last five years, but the questions in my mind are whether these have not been over magnified and really bulk relatively little in our great total of 45,000,000 workers."

Gives Figures.

Ingalls' figures for total national incomes and income per worker since are:

| National Income | Total | Per Worker |
|---|---|---|
| 1913 | $33,600,000,000 | $665 |
| 1914 | 34,400,000,000 | 362 |
| 1915 | 36,200,000,000 | 901 |
| 1916 | 44,800,000,000 | 1,100 |
| 1917 | 55,100,000,000 | 1,334 |
| 1918 | 63,200,000,000 | 1,516 |
| 1919 | 65,400,000,000 | 1,557 |
| 1920 | 71,900,000,000 | 1,689 |
| 1931 | 54,900,000,000 | 1,365 |
| 1922 | 60,500,000,000 | 1,375 |
| 1923 | 71,900,000,000 | 1,613 |
| 1924 | 69,500,000,000 | 1,521 |
| 1925 | 72,900,000,000 | 1,584 |

Same as 1912.

The country's total income has increased 117 per cent. But the income per worker has increased only 58 per cent, or just enough to cover the increase in the level of prices. This means that the quantity produced per worker in 1925 was just the same as in 1913.

Here is clear evidence of capitalist waste, due to the unfair distribution of the country's income. The people as a whole do not get the added purchasing power necessary to create a demand for the additional goods they could produce as a result of technical progress.

So gains in the production of certain goods must be balanced by reduced production of other goods. In the end much of the new productive power is squandered in an increasing amount of unproductive labor.

WALL STREET JOURNAL REVEALS LOW WAGES PAID INDUSTRIAL WORKERS IN MASSACHUSETTS FACTORIES

By LELAND OLDS, Federated Press.

The low wages paid thousands of workers in the openshop manufacturing towns of New England are reflected in a Wall Street Journal report on conditions in the two neighboring cities of Springfield and Chicopee, Mass. The statement shows that in 1924 workers in the Springfield electrical industry averaged $1,278 while in Chicopee the average wage paid by all the industries was only $1,242.

Springfield, the journal says, is a place of diversified industry built up by the ability of its skilled workmen. Starting with the government armory it has spread out to include such well known concerns as Rolls-Royce, American Bosch Magneto, U. S. Envelope, Indian Motorcycle, Westinghouse Electric, Smith & Wesson, Wason Car and Diamond Match.

Payrolls Given.

The journal gives payroll data only for the electrical apparatus industry for the years 1913 and 1924. For this industry the total payroll, the number of workers and the value of their products by years were:

Springfield Electrical Industry.

| | Total wages | Av. No. workers | Value of products |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1913 | $1,674,340 | 1,438 | $7,276,769 |
| 1920 | 4,689,137 | 3,374 | 13,782,761 |
| 1921 | 787,396 | 550 | 3,358,287 |
| 1922 | 1,472,531 | 1,244 | 6,022,174 |
| 1923 | 5,006,156 | 3,843 | 16,725,407 |
| 1924 | 4,365,330 | 3,514 | 18,104,678 |

Aside from the evidence which they give of wages which at the highest point in 1921 averaged only $1,450, the outstanding fact in these figures is the tremendous drop in employment from 1920 to 1921. About five-eighths of the workers on the payrolls in 1920 were out of a job in 1921 and the majority of them did not get their jobs back until 1923.

Chicopee Figures.

Chicopee's principal products, according to the journal, include rubber products, cotton goods, sporting and athletic goods, iron and steel forgings, firearms and plumbers' supplies. The Fisk rubber plant is the biggest industrial unit followed by Dwight Manufacturing Company and A. G. Spalding Bros.

Payroll figures for this city for the years 1913 to 1924 are:

Chicopee Industries.

| | Total wages | Av. No. workers | Value of products |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1919 | $12,892,043 | 10,069 | $39,772,534 |
| 1920 | 14,992,666 | 10,973 | 32,113,261 |
| 1921 | 9,731,393 | 8,332 | 43,525,443 |
| 1922 | 12,199,345 | 10,251 | 64,914,209 |
| 1923 | 12,882,206 | 10,118 | 63,851,366 |
| 1924 | 11,454,340 | 9,218 | 69,661,125 |

Apparently this city, engaged largely in the production of rubber tires and sporting goods, has not so hard hit by the 1921 depression as the electrical industry in Springfield. The total number of workers was reduced about 25 per cent and almost regained the 1920 level in 1922.

Wages Low.

Wages averaged low thruout the period, starting at $1,250 in 1919 and reaching a peak of $1,367 in 1923. In 1924 the average was $1,242 or about 9 per cent under 1923. Remember these low wages paid in one of the most equable manufacturing towns of the country when you next look into a window containing high-priced Spalding sporting goods.

CLAIMS UNION WOMEN ARE NOT ACTIVE ENOUGH

Must Develop Spirit of Mass Cooperation

By DICK SHAFTER, Federated Press.

DETROIT, Oct. 18.—That working women do not seek sufficient representation in the state and central organizations is the opinion of two women delegates attending the 46th annual convention of the American Federation of Labor in Detroit, which closed October 14.

Need Recognition.

"The reason is," explained Anna Fitzgerald of the Women's Label League, "that the constitution of the A. F. of L. recognizes only bona fide wage earners. This excludes many a wife, mother or sister of trade unionists. Of course our organization and the women's auxiliaries partly remedy this situation. The Women's Trade Union Leagues is represented in many city and state labor bodies and all unions co-operate in our task, which is to educate the women to the significance of the union label and to induce them to buy union-made goods.

Union Papers Hit.

"Our organization counts 10,000 members in over 100 cities. Labor papers could give us a lot of help by running notices of the women's organizations on their woman's page instead of filling it with the syndicated stuff handed out to them by the foes of labor."

A new slant on organizing women was given by Fannie M. Cohen of the education department, International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union. She said the biggest obstacle is psychological.

Lack Proper Attitude.

"Women already organized, as well as the unorganized," she said, "lack interest in woman's cause. The average working woman still is an individualist. All the fundamentals of group psychology are just beginning to dawn on her. Group understanding is what makes the organizations of middle-class women so much more effective than those of labor women. Working women have yet to develop a spirit of co-operation and co-ordination."

PHILADELPHIA IN SCAB COAL TRADE WITH 50 CARGOES

September Shipments Given in Detail

By GORDON CASCADEN.
(Special to The Daily Worker)

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Oct. 19.—Philadelphia entered the list of scab coal shipping ports during September with shipments to various parts of the world. Many ships carried part cargoes.

While its shipments are much smaller than those of either Hampton Roads or Baltimore, the total amount sent out from here last month shows the problem before those who favor organization of America's workers for the stoppage of manufacture or mining and of transportation of any product that will injure the cause of strikers in other lands.

Much of this coal goes to Queenstown, Ireland, "for orders." This means that the captain of a ship gets a wireless message to proceed from there to a British port to unload his scab cargo.

Several of the ships fly the United States flag.

The autobiography of an Idea.

"Bishop Brown's book will do much to open the minds of those who still accept the doctrines of supernaturalism. ## DWORKIN FIRM HIT BY STRIKE AT SPRINGFIELD

Hartford Upholsterers' Walkout Spreading

HARTFORD, Conn., Oct. 19.—The upholsterers' strike here, now going on over a week, has taken a stronger hold with the announcement of a 100 per cent walkout of the workers in the Dworkin plant in Springfield.

This encourages the strikers, mostly young workers, as the strike will tie up the Dworkin company completely, both in Hartford and Springfield. The company has been pushed to the wall and must either settle or go out of business.

It was reported by I. Geller of Springfield that Dworkin used to be a scab cloak manufacturer, but was put out of that business by the union.

The rank and file of the young strikers are strong for struggle. "We will fight till victory," says Morris Wolberg, the youthful president of the union. "Nothing can stop us."

Hyme Wolfson, special organizer of the International Upholsterers' Union, and old-time unionist, says: "It gives me great pleasure to fight with such courageous young workers."

EXPLAIN ACTION AGAINST GROUPS IN FUR WORKERS

No Room for Parties, says Hebrew Trades

A special meeting of the Chicago Fur Workers' Union, Local 45, was held Friday, October 15, for the purpose of electing the balance of officers for the union and to hear an explanation from I. Israelson, business agent, as to his action in calling for aid of the United Hebrew Trades to settle inner trouble in the organization. The meeting was also addressed by M. Schachtman and B. Gold.

A report was read of the delegates on the United Hebrew Trades election of officers.

Vota Strike Aid.

The meeting voted a special assessment of the membership to aid striking fur workers in Montreal, New ark and New York, and the garment workers, in New York. After some discussion it was voted to tax each member 5 per cent of his wages.

Israelson introduced the delegates from the Hebrew Trades, declaring that the delegates would explain the meaning of a paper that was signed by himself, Robert Goldstein and J. Milstein. The delegates included Novack, Solvak, Silkin and Green.

Disband "Groups."

They read the document providing for the disbanding of the progressive group and of the so-called Furriers' Civic Club. They explained that this action was taken because they felt there was only room for one union in Chicago, and that the United Hebrew Trades would take action in the event that any other group existed among the fur workers in Chicago. The committee also said that some members were being "initiated to" by outsiders, and that this must stop. The Prelheit and The DAILY WORKER were attacked by the delegates.

A motion to dismiss all charges against progressives who were forbidden from speaking in the union was carried.

Goldberg was elected vice-president of the union. He is a progressive.

Passaic Frameup Ways Are Stupid and Crude

PASSAIC, N. J.—(FP)—Details of the latest crude bombing frameup attempts of Passaic police are coming to light as the strikers are securing release from jail. Michael Elasik, of Local 1602, United Textile Workers of America, and strike committeeman, was freed on $5,000 bail after 5 days incommunicado in jail. He tells how he was forced to "confess" that he assaulted two mill foremen.

He repudiated the confession at once upon his release. He was shown a group of strike prisoners with faces black and blue and swollen and was told he would get worse if he did not confess. He was also shown a bloody stretcher and told he would become more familiar with it if he did not tell the police what they demanded. The police failed to implicate him in the alleged bombing.

Seven union strikers are still held on exorbitant bail at Passaic county jail in Paterson. Two are held without bail and the others on a total of $250,000. Tony Pochno, charged with being in the bomb plot, is held on $100,000. Five more men are held at the Bergen county jail in Hackensack without bail. The old case of Norman Thomas, director League of Industrial Democracy, has been dismissed and Thomas threatens suit for false arrest.

Steeplejack Overcome by Chimney Fumes and Is in a Serious State

IRVINGTON, N. J., October 19.—A young steeplejack was overcome by fumes of sulphuric acid while working on the chimney of the Irvington Smelting and Refining Co. plant.

The worker slumped unconscious across the top of the chimney, fortunately not falling into it nor down 220 feet to the street. Police and fire department aid was brought but it took over two hours to lower the worker's body since they began with too short a rope.

The steeplejack, Walter Carver, 33 years old, is in the Irvington hospital in a serious condition, altho he is expected to recover.

A NEW NOVEL By Upton Sinclair

Rachel telephoned to Bunny, and he hopped into his car and paid a call on President Alonzo T. Cowper, D.D., Ph.D., LL.D., at that worthy's private residence in the evening, contrary to the established etiquette of the university. He began by stating his own decision—he was willing to agree to make no more public "propaganda" during his stay in the university; but he wanted to add this, if the authorities permitted Mr. Menzies to suffer deportation as punishment for his daughter's having written a review of a lecture—then he, Bunny Ross, was going on the warpath, and use some of his father's money to blow things wide open before he quit Southern Pacific.

The reverend doctor's round clerical face had grown rosy to the roots of his snow-white hair as he listened to this scarcely veiled blackmail. "Young man," said he, "you seem to overlook the fact that the university authorities have nothing to do with the decisions of the United States government."

"Dr. Cowper," responded the young man, "I learned from my father to go to headquarters when I want things done. I know that if you tell these defense idiots that you want this matter dropped, they will drop it. And I want to say that while I have never met Mr. Menzies, I know his daughter, and she brought us his ideas at different times, and he believes in democracy and in educating the people—every bit of advice he sent us was along that line. He belongs to the right wing group among the Socialists, and is opposing the Bolsheviks in the movement. You must know enough about the situation to realize that that is not the sort of people you are supposed to be deporting."

It turned out that Dr. Cowper really didn't know that much, but was willing to learn. It was rather comical; underneath the indignation he was officially obliged to feel, the old gentleman had an unholy curiosity about these new ideas that had seduced his prize millionaire sophomore. So here was Bunny telling him about Paul Watkins, and about Harry Seager, what sort of people they were, and what they had seen in Siberia, and what they thought about it, and what Bunny thought. The doctor asked the most naïve and childish questions, but he did try to understand, and Bunny gave him a complete lecture on Bolshevism versus Socialism lasting two hours. At the end the prize millionaire sophomore was sent away with a pat on the back, and the assurance that Papa Menzies would not be deported so long as he behaved himself; plus a solemn warning that whereas mature minds such as Dr. Cowper's were equipped to deal with these dangerous new thoughts, the immature minds of the students were not to be trusted with them!

XI

There was an interview to be had with Henrietta Ashleigh. It was not so painful as Bunny had feared, because she hid her grief under a cloak of dignity. "I am sorry, Arnold, but I am beginning to fear there is something in you that enjoys this crude notoriety." Bunny tried to be humble and accept this rebuke, but he couldn't; there was something in him that was bored by Henrietta's ideas; and when you are bored, you can no longer keep up romantic imaginings about a girl.

And then the folks at home! First, Aunt Emma, horrified, tearful, and completely muddled. Bunny had not got that prize after all! Aunt Emma had somehow got it fixed in her head that there had been a prize, and that Bunny might have got it if it had not been for the reds. This awful peril of Bolshevik agents, right in one's home! Aunt Emma had heard hair-raising stories from lectures to her club-ladies, but had never dreamed that these emissaries of Satan might be seducing her darling nephew! "Watch out, aunties!" said the new Bunny. "You may be next!"

And then Bertie. Bertie was just wild. She had been invited to a house-party of the very desirable Atherton-Stewarts, but now she would be ashamed to show her face among decent people. That was the way every time, no sooner did she achieve a social triumph, than Bunny came along and made one of his stinks. It was the most disgusting things that could have happened, it showed his tastes were naturally low. Bertie and Bunny were quite fond of each other, and called each other violent names with true brotherly and sisterly frankness.

Finally Dad, who was a perfect brick, never said a word, nor asked a question, and when Bunny started to explain, he said, "That's all right, son, I know just how it happened." And that was true; he knew Paul and Harry Seager, he had been inside his boy's mind. And he knew the tragedy of life, that each generation has to make its own mistakes.

The uproar died away surprisingly soon. In a few days Bunny's classmates were "joshing" him, it was all a joke. There was only one serious consequence, that Mr. Daniel Webster Irving received a letter from President Cowper, advising him in advance, as a matter of courtesy, that his contract with Southern Pacific University would not be renewed for next year. The instructor showed it to Bunny, with a dry smile; and Bunny was enraged, and wanted to blackmail the reverend doctor a second time. But Mr. Irving said to forget it, there were too many ways to make life miserable for a teacher who wasn't wanted. He would file his references with the employment agencies, and write a lot of letters, and move on to pastures new. "That is," he added, "assuming I can get something. They have a pretty tight organization, and I may find I'm blacklisted for good."

"How do you suppose they got on to you, Mr. Irving?"

"It was bound to happen," said the other. "They have so many spies."

"But we have been so careful! We've never mentioned your name, except among our own little group!"

"They've probably got a spy right among you."

"A student, you mean?"

"Of course." And smiling at Bunny's incredulity, Mr. Irving reached into his desk and pulled out a mimeographed sheet of paper. "This was handed to me by a business friend of mine," he said.

EASTMAN DROPS HIS MASK

revolution is at the point of death and that their insatiable appetites could soon feed on its carcass.

Here the dangers of such internal fights as that of the Trotsky-Zinoviev opposition against the central committee of their party are demonstrated by an undeniable example. Comrades Trotsky and Zinoviev, as the leaders of the struggle against the leading committee of the Bolshevik Party, were the force upon which counter-revolution within and without Russia pinned its hope for a defeat of that party and consequently of the proletarian revolution. This was not the decision of Comrades Trotsky and Zinoviev, but it is the result of the objective situation.

Comrades Trotsky and Zinoviev saw their error. They gave up their destructive struggle. And on the very day when the long-expected and welcomed news arrived of Trotsky's and Zinoviev's submission to the revolutionary discipline of their party Eastman explodes his stench bomb of "revelations." Arm in arm with the New York Times and the United Press. Eastman challenges the leaders of Soviet Russia to give justice. Justice to whom? Justice to the capitalist world which the Times and the United Press represent? Or justice to the Russian revolutionists, whom the New York Times and the United Press covered, and to this day cover, with the mud and slime of their continuous slanders and attacks? Justice to Trotsky and Zinoviev, who declare on the same day that they have done wrong in organising their fight against the central committee of their party? Or justice to Eastman, who played the most contemptible role in all social movements, that of a spy and a Judas?

Either Forger or Spy.

Eastman is either a forger or a spy. He either made up his "documents" out of whole cloth—or he obtained them under false pretenses of friendship to make money out of them by selling them to the enemy.

Eastman's "revelations" are partly purported documents, partly Eastmanite commentary on them. Some of these documents are supposed to be internal papers of the central committee of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union. Eastman vouches for their genuineness. We doubt their genuineness, because we know Eastman.

We have no desire to protect the New York Times and the United Press from a forger and his products. But we desire to warn the consumers of these products, the readers.

Eastman Pestered Trotsky.

Eastman is introduced by the Times as the official biographer of Trotsky. Trotsky, however, denied that Eastman was his biographer more than a year ago. Trotsky declared that Eastman pestered the life out of him for material and even wanted him to read Eastman's manuscripts. But Trotsky refused in unmistakable terms and declared that Eastman alone must carry the responsibility for his writings. Eastman's book on Trotsky was refused publication by the state printing establishment in Russia on Trotsky's own recommendation. But now, to bolster up Eastman's credibility as a witness against the Russian revolution, he is all of a sudden introduced as an official biographer of Trotsky.

To show Eastman as a liar we can present better testimony. Eastman claims that he took up arms for the opposition in the Communist Party of the Soviet Union. Let us hear what members of this opposition have to say about St. George Eastman.

Eastman, the Monstrous.

Krupskaya, writing about Eastman's "defense" of Trotsky last year, says: "Eastman writes monstrous things." "Eastman knows nothing." "Eastman invents fiction." "Eastman's writings insult Trotsky." "Eastmen perverts the truth."

And Trotsky declares of Eastman's "defense" of him: "Eastman's assertions are untrue." "Eastman's assertions are based on fantastic rumors." "Eastman is wrong." "Eastmen sneers with vulgar aplomb." "Eastman commits calumnies on the leaders of our party." "No sincere worker will believe Eastman."

Let us go further into Eastman's motives. He is activated, he says, by his love for democracy. It is for this love that he appeals to the New York Times and the United Press. It is for this love that he accepts the fee for which he received for his mental excrements on the Russian Communist Party. But the Russian Communist Party has overwhelmingly repudiated Trotsky and Zinoviev. In the exercise of their inner party democracy the workers organised in the Russian party have declared in overwhelming numbers that they stand with the central committee of their party. This makes it clear that Eastman is not appealing to democracy in the Russian party against the central committee. He is appealing to the capitalists of the world against the democratic will of the Russian party to retain this central committee. He is appealing for counter-revolution against the Russian revolution.

Revealed in Full Glory.

The readers of Eastman's ephiles are not fools. In his very articles they see Eastman revealed in the full glory of his real self: that of a paid hireling of the capitalist class caught in the attempt to undermine what is most sacred to the workers of the world at present, the Russian revolution.

COMMUNIST INTERNATIONAL AND YOUTH INTERNATIONAL PROTEST BULGARIAN WHITE TERROR RULE

MOSCOW, Oct. 2—(By Mail.)—The Executive Committee of the Communist International, and the Executive Committee of the Young Communist International, have issued the following joint appeal to the working men and women and the working class youth of the world:

"The blood-stained government of Bulgaria has added another crime to its account. On the eve of the 12th International Day of Youth hundreds of young workers and peasants were arrested by the Bulgarian gendarmerie and flung into prison.

"This blow had been prepared by the government a long time previously. Its aim is to destroy the Young Communist League of Bulgaria by mass arrests and executions.

"Despite the mediaeval terror, however, the Y. C. L. of Bulgaria has never ceased its struggle for the emancipation of the enslaved proletarian youth of Bulgaria.

"Comrades! Bulgarian prisons are resounding to the groans of the tortured victims of the Bulgarian capitalists and landlords. Hundreds of young workers and peasants are calling to you for assistance. Hundreds of young workers have only death to expect unless the workers of the world stay the hand of the hangmen.

"Down with the blood-stained ruling class of Bulgaria!

"Fight for the right to organize the Young Communist League of Bulgaria!"

SENATOR REED TO INVESTIGATE INDIANA SLUSH

K. K. K. Control May be Dug Into, Too

The senate slush fund committee will investigate the Indiana senatorial campaign, it was announced here yesterday by Senator James A. Reed, democrat of Missouri, chairman.

The hearing will be held in Chicago and witnesses summoned here from Indiana.

Say Go Deeper.

Senator Reed intimated that the guns into Indiana irregularities would go no deeper than charges of irregularities into the senatorial and congressional elections, but reporters snickered and suggested that anything could be looked into under Reed's definition of irregularities.

Despite the fact that recently Senator Reed was mentioned by the grand wizard of the K. K. K. as one of those who would make a good president, the Missourian is too well lined up with the Irish-American politicians to allow him to jeopardize his political career by showing any favors to the hooded knights.

In all probability Reed will dig his teeth into the political anatomy of the Indiana klan and chaw a juicy publicity morsel out of the carcass. Be it understood that a modern American politician thinks first of himself and the whole wide world afterwards.

The Stephenson Riddle.

One of the mysteries that Reed may try to solve is why D. C. Stephenson, rapist and murderer now serving a life term in an Indiana prison, first promised to open his head, meaning to tell everything he knew, and then shut up like a clam just when the Indiana "outs" got ready had the "ins" by the boots. Perhaps this angle of the investigation may be outside the range of Reed's power but there are many ways of killing a dog besides shooting him with hot air.

Locally the chief interest in yesterday's quiz was in the sweating process administered to leaders of the anti-saloon league, tough-looking birds they were, who would seem to be more at home, on the saw-dusted floor of a barroom than in the tabernacle of an evangelist.

Looks Like Young Horse.

There was F. Scott McBride for instance, with the tip of his tongue playing with both his lips at the same time, creating the impression of a young foal just dropped by its mother, with that perforated tongue which serves as an air pump for him, protruding from his mouth. Pat of head and heart of girth, McBride watched the proceedings wondering where he could horn in in case this investigation and the subsequent elections restored light wines and beers and threw thousands of consequential stool pigeons on the slave market.

Men Everybody Knows.

There was the Rev. Robert O'Brien a methodist episcopalian, or anything else you care for, who tried to fight Magill's chief press agent for the illnote U. S. senatorship, against Frank L. Smith, the man everybody knows unlike the Jesus that Bruce Barton wrote of. O'Brien might be anything from a hose salesmen to a real estate subdivider. He is a go-getter and fell out with the heads of the anti-saloon league, to which he belongs mentally and undoubtedly will physically after the votes are counted and each battler for purity in politics asks for his hank balance.

A Practical Lot.

The Rev. O'Brien testified that the anti-saloon league endorsed Smith even tho they found his record embarrassing. Still, they are a practical lot and know that sin is only a relative term. O'Brien testified that the heads of the anti-saloon league would like to have Smith look at things in a reasonable way and take a job as ambassador to the queen of Roumania, or something in his line, but apparently Smith was hull-headed and having a hold on the anti-saloon leaguers in a delicate place, he made them open their months and endorse him.

O'Brien Was Angry.

O'Brien's competitors in the anti-saloon league charged that Hugh S. Magill, Julius Rosenwald's candidate against Samuel Insull's candidate, had a slush fund of $400,000 to make the great Illinois voter do the right thing by our Hugh. This made O'Brien exceedingly angry, just about as angry internally as when some of his ancestors forsook the sacred shin bones of the pope for the meat pots of protestantism. Indeed it is good to watch those lads and see them strut their stuff.

The Conclusions.

Out of the assertions, denials and counter-denials that issued from the rival witnesses, this much stands forth, that Frank L. Smith got a bag of money from Samuel Insull and other utility magnates; that Hugh Magill, his republican opponent, got a barrelfull from Julius Rosenwald, and that George E Brennan is depending on the general thirst and a secret fund for victory.

It is a good show and Senator Reed is a good democrat the nobody could call it by looking at him.

NO, CLARENCE, ROBERT MORRIS WASN'T HERO, HE WAS A "SUBDIVIDER"

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—The history book fable that Robert Morris went broke financing George Washington's army in the American Revolution was burst by the department of justice here when it revealed that records show that Morris was really what would be called today a "subdivider," and lost his money playing the real estate game.

Morris, according to the records, engaged heavily in lands in Washington and in neighboring states, making extensive improvements on the theory that squatters would pay heavily to secure clear titles on their land. But Morris bought too much land and became bankrupt because of it.

"EMPIRE" MEET IS FEARED BY BRITISH RULERS

Dominions Demanding More Freedom

(Special to The Daily Worker)

LONDON, Oct. 19.—What was predicted as the most momentous conference in the history of the British empire opened here today in Westminster Abbey with the Prince of Wales in the chair. The prince's function was to unveil a flag to the hundreds of thousands of soldiers who had laid down their lives to save the empire for the prince and his fellow parasites.

There were twenty-five delegates present from eight dominions. Among those present were Stanley Baldwin of Great Britain; W. L. McKenzie King of Canada S. M. Bruce of Australia, J. G. Coates of New Zealand, J. B. M. Hertzog of South Africa, W. S. Monroe of New Foundland, and Sir Bijay Chand Mahtab of Burdwan

Prince Opens the Session.

It is difficult to see what joy President Cosgrave of the Irish Free State or General Hertzog of South Africa should have in this ceremony. Both fought against the empire during the war. Both are now drawn into the net of the empire.

May See the King.

The conference, at which members of all the British dominions are represented will last two months. While the representatives of Canada, South Africa and Ireland, are expected to raise questions that are unpalatable to the lords of the empire, it is more than likely that the Downing Street diplomats will manage to dissipate the proceedings in futile discussions and royal receptions.

Canada, South Africa and Ireland want more freedom. It is likely that they will take what they want and talk about it afterwards. The envoys from the governments of the countries must look to the political situation at home. Ireland is decidedly anti-British. So is South Africa. The French Canadians that elected McKenzie King have no love for the empire. With British prestige going down all over the world those countries no longer have a serious material reason to profess devotion to the motherland.

While nothing concrete may come out of the conference, it adds still more evidence to the decline of British imperial power. The old lion talked with cannon. The present-day lion talks like a panhandler.

Imperialists Fear Revolt in Shanghai

with a fervent declaration of support to Sun.

Sun's position is not at all equivocal. He has been thoroly whipped in Kiangsi province and had to flee for his life. He is reported to be in the Poyang lake region, while his remaining troops, not yet gone over to the Cantonese in the Shanghai district, are split up between trying to guard against the Canton troops' advance thru Kiangsu province and stopping the Chekiang troops from the south.

General May Lose His Army.

If Hale Chao of Chekiang has really gone over to the Cantonese the great port of Shanghai is immediately likely to be taken and Sun put completely to rout.

Even if Hsia himself is still faithful to General Sun, however, his troops are not, as their revolt at Nanking and Shanghai shows. But in any case the capture of Shanghai seems certain ultimately, unless foreign imperialism intervenes in force.

Dry Vote is Close.

COPENHAGEN, Oct. 19.—The latest returns of the Norwegian prohibition referendum, as reported here, are 297,910 in favor of prohibition and 296,188 opposed to prohibition.

Returns from Oslo and Bergen are not included in these figures.

DEMONSTRATION REMINDS QUEEN OF TERRORISM

Thousands Gather to Protest Welcome

(Special to The Daily Worker)

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—Despite a dawnfall of rain thousands of workers are gathered after working hours in Union Square to demonstrate against the landing of Queen Marie and her official reception by city, state and national governments. Slogans protesting against the White Terror in Roumania, demanding the release of the thousands of prisoners in the queen's unhappy land and excoriating the toadying of government officials to the monarchism represented by the Roumanian royal party.

Ben Gitlow, Bishop Paul Jones, Capt. Parton Hilsben, Louis Hudenz and Robt. W. Dunn spoke to the cheering workers under the chairmanship of Rose Baron, secretary of the New York International Labor Defense which arranged the demonstration.

Tell of Terror.

The speakers told the workers that Queen Marie was sent here by her imperialist government for the purpose of attempting to raise a loan. This credit is needed to maintain a military machine both for the suppression of the workers and peasants in Roumania and the recently added provinces of Transylvania and Bessarabia as well as for a projected war against the Soviet Union, they said.

The story of the brutal persecution of workers, peasants and the national minorities in the land of the Boyar drew jeers from the crowd who join ed lustily in the speaker's condemnation of the patronising of royalty by Mayor Walker and President Coolidge.

Pass Resolution.

The following resolution of protest was passed with great enthusiasm:

WHEREAS, there are at present more than 2,500 workers held in Roumanian jails for political offenses; AND WHEREAS, these workers have suffered the most brutal persecution by the Roumanian authorities, and many of their brothers have been tortured and murdered;

BE IT RESOLVED, that we workers of New York City hereby denounce the representative of this Roumanian government, Queen Marie, who now visits our country; and we hereby pledge ourselves to do all in our power to free our fellow-workers in Roumania and help them in their struggle for better conditions.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—All formalities were observed at the White House in the official reception of Queen Marie and her party by President Coolidge who acknowledged the official status of a reigning monarch in extending his hand in the capacity of president to the Queen of Roumania, a member of a Hohenzollern dynasty. Calvacades of troops accompanied the royal party to the White House and on a visit the queen made in the afternoon accompanied by generals of the United States army.

ratives about affairs in Russia into the cash box before Trotsky, for the second time, pulled the string on him. Apparently, Eastman thot that the Russian workers were flocking in great throngs to Trotsky's banner but the facts speak otherwise. On the very day that Trotsky capitulated to the Central Committee of the Russian Communist Party, admitting that he was wrong, Max broke into the New York Times with the "whole, sole and true account" of the struggle between Trotsky—whom he turns into a pink Horatio Alger—and the political cannibal, Stalin, at the head of a murderous central committee.

LET us hope Max got his fee in good time, else the New York Times might withhold it on the ground that Max was a false prophet. No doubt the average American reader would expect that no party could withstand an attack from such a group of prominent leaders, as Trotsky and his followers represented. But it appears that the Russian party of over a million does its own thinking and will not follow a leader merely because he has done noble service in the past. This should be the last time Max will get money from the capitalist press for "explaining" the course of events in Russia.

Queen Marie, Standard Oil Kellogg Want to Stop The DAILY WORKER—

What Are YOU Doing To Keep The DAILY WORKER?

By JAY LOVESTONE.

SECRETARY OF STATE FRANKLIN B. KELLOGG has instructed the post office department to take action against The DAILY WORKER. We get the secretary's goat by telling the Roumanian Queen Marie where to get off at. Mr. Kellogg and the bankers and the manufacturers whom he serves wouldn't stand our telling the American workers the truth about the queen whose hands are dripping with the blood of the executioner of the Roumanian workers and peasants.

While the entire capitalist press is singing hymns of praise for the Queen of Terrorism, The DAILY WORKER is showing how the queen has been serving as mistress of the infamous butchery of the Roumanian masses.

The DAILY WORKER stories about the queen interfere with the plans of the American investment bankers to perpetuate the slavery in which the Roumanian workers and peasants now find themselves.

The DAILY WORKER "greetings" to the queen will make it harder for Wall Street to throw millions of American workers and farmers into a war in defense of our ruling class investments in Roumania, Poland, Bulgaria and other white terror countries.

That's why Coolidge has it in for The DAILY WORKER.

That's why The DAILY WORKER got Standard Oil Kellogg's number.

That's why the post office is being ordered to stop The DAILY WORKER.

That's why all the American capitalists and their agents—WITHOUT A SINGLE EXCEPTION—hate The DAILY WORKER with unbounded viciousness and fury.

And that's why you—every working man, every working woman—every impoverished farmer—must stand by The DAILY WORKER—must give everything to KEEP THE DAILY WORKER.

Now that the reactionary secretary of state of our much-vaunted democratic republic is falling at the feet of the Roumanian hooligan monarch, it is the best time for you to show special solidarity with The DAILY WORKER.

Now that the capitalists are preparing to STOP THE DAILY WORKER, it is absolutely necessary for you to beat back the bourgeois watch dogs by tripling your efforts to KEEP THE DAILY WORKER.

Can you think of a better opportunity to hit the exploiters in the face with a substantial donation to KEEP THE DAILY WORKER?

Can you think of a more fitting manner and moment to tell the hangman queen and her American capitalist protectors and worshippers what you think of them, then by giving today more than you ever did before to KEEP THE DAILY WORKER?

Remember—that the cost of perhaps one chair in the queen's bedroom in New York is enough to KEEP THE DAILY WORKER for one year.

Not for Queen Marie's sake, not for Standard Oil Kellogg's sake, not for your bosses' sake—BUT FOR YOUR OWN SAKE, send us your biggest contribution immediately to KEEP THE DAILY WORKER.

Let this be your answer to the united front of Queen Marie and Secretary of State Kellogg against The DAILY WORKER.

KLAN SUPPORTED INDIANA REPUBLICANS

Current Events

By T. J. O'FLAHERTY

THE queen of Roumania is here and doing well. At least the lady and her many attendants are being entertained with "all found" in the language of the boarding house. An afternoon paper was kind enuf to print the queen's menu for one day. There were anuf items there to keep an average person busy for a week and keeping it off for a month. But the queen has been doing nothing else all her life except exercising her gastric organs and her wits so she had no trouble in overcoming the ordeal.

MAYOR JIMMY WALKER of New York got out the red carpet for the queen and he said his little speech in royal style. It used to be said that the British loved a king but it seems they have nothing on our Americans. This royal panhandler who is living in luxury at the expense of the most exploited people in Europe arrived in this country without an effective protest being made, that would bring the plight of her unfortunate subjects—many of them in jail for political activity—to the attention of the masses. Five banners at the dock would be more effective than 5,000 somewhere else after the queen was on her way to Washington.

APPROPRIATELY enuf the slogan of the Indiana republican committee is: "All for each and each for all." It seems that each wants to get all and all want to get each. Clyde A. Walb, chairman of the republican committee and a klansman, sent out a circular letter to the voters of Indiana after the recent exposures of klan domination of Indiana politics took place. Among the startling statements made in this circular was one that stands forth. "Any man who wants to work can have a job at good pay." The thousands of workers who flock to the employment agencies for an advertised job would like to believe it.

COOLIDGE TO RENEW THREAT UPON MEXICO

Coincides With a New Catholic Attack

(Special to The Daily Worker)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—The Coolidge administration will insist that Mexican land and oil laws are "confiscatory" and demand their repeal in a new note soon to be sent to the Mexican government, it is disclosed here, in spite of the recent note from the Mexican government pointing out clearly and point by point that such was not the case.

Ambassador Sheffield, known to ha the champion of a "stronger" policy toward Mexico in aid of the United States oil and mining corporations, yesterday spent several hours with Secretary Kellogg on the Mexican situation.

At the White House it is cynically expressed that the recent note of the Mexican government made no impression on Coolidge.

The announcement that the United States is to resume its bull-dosing of Mexico in behalf of oil and mining corporations, comes on the same day in which the National Council of Catholic Men, in session at Cleveland, Ohio, asked Coolidge to prevent "propaganda in this country of theories of government sponsored by the Mexican government."

The Catholic resolution charges that the Mexican ambassador and consuls are abusing their diplomatic privileges by spreading their propaganda in the United States.

PLAY, BANQUET AND DANCE NEXT SUNDAY FOR THE DAILY WORKER

The theater performance for the benefit of The DAILY WORKER, which will take place next Sunday at 4 p. m., at the Douglas Park Auditorium, 3202 S. Ogden avenue, is looked forward to with keen anticipation by Chicago radicals.

The feature of the entertainment will be a presentation of "The Adding Machine," a radical play, which will be put on the boards by the Studio Players, of North Clark street. This play, considered by many one of the best of its kind ever presented in the United States, is the story of a white collar slave, his experiences on earth, in heaven and in hell. It seems he could not fit in anywhere. You should see what the devil did to him.

The Toastmaster.

After the performance a banquet will be held. Aside from the eats there will be unusual amusement under the direction of the noted humorist and after-dinner impressario William F. Dunne, who will introduce certain comrades who are very much in the public eye and some of them in the public ear, "public" in this case meaning radicals.

When the eating and the speaking ends, the revolters, not to be done out of a day's fun will trip the light fantastic to the strains of a snappy orchestra.

Eat and Drink for Daily.

All this will be for the benefit of The DAILY WORKER. We all eat and drink, and youth insistent on having its fling will dance. Most of us see plays occasionally. Why not on next Sunday? Do all those things together for the sake of The DAILY WORKER whose demise is anxiously looked forward to by the enamies of the labor movement. But we dare say that every true rebel in Chicago would give at least the price of five square meals to keep it going.

Next Sunday, October 24, at Douglas Park Auditorium, 3202 South Ogden avenue! Something doing from 4 p. m. until such time as the lights go out on the dance hall floor. Admission 50 cents with extra charge for eating and dancing.

Who Is Secretary of State Kellogg?

SECRETARY of State Frank B. Kellogg has ordered the Post Office Department to find some basis on which to suppress The DAILY WORKER because of its exposure of the bloody terror invoked against the Roumanian workers and peasants, under the "Versailles Peace," and because of its revelation of the real meaning of the visit to this country of Queen Marie, of Roumania.

The DAILY WORKER stands by every word it has published and intends to continue, with all the power it can muster, to enlighten the workers and farmers of America as to the murderous anti-labor regime that rules in Roumania, under the direction of the Paris Allies. It is this hangman's rule that is now being blessed by the American Wall Street tyranny, thru the attentions showered upon the visiting Roumanian queen.

* * * *

Kellogg, the subservient lackey of the international bankers, thrusts himself into the arena as defender, not only of Queen Marie, but of the American financial interests whose favor he sought in support of the tottering throne upon which she sits, back in Bucharest, with Ferdinand, the puppet king.

It was only a short time before Kellogg joined the rest of Coolidge's dinner party on Tuesday afternoon, at the White House, when "Silent Cal" on behalf of the American plunderbund officially received the visiting Marie, that the secretary of state sent his decree to the postal department demanding an investigation of what The DAILY WORKER had published.

* * * *

Kellogg's record has been one of unswerving loyalty to dollar rule in this country. He comes from St. Paul, Minn., where he served for years as legal adviser of the greatest profit-taking interests, the railroads, food speculators, bankers and landlords. As a reward, Kellogg was sent to the U. S. senate. He failed of re-election, however, due to the unity of the workers and farmers of Minnesota thru their own Farmer-Labor Party.

While a member of the United States senate, and seated on the Senate Committee on Privileges and Elections, Kellogg objected strenuously to the investigation of the corruption used to elect Truman H. Newberry, senator from Michigan. In spite of the subsequent revelations, showing the expenditure of $195,000 to win a senate place for this multi-millionaire

MARIE FLAUNTS CZARIST JEWELS IN WASHINGTON

"Cal" Sits in Light of Romanoff Diamonds

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—Aflame with the priceless jewels inherited from her Romanoff mother, decorated with the insignia of her Hohenzollern throne, Queen Marie of Roumania deigned to sup with the common clay of Washington officialdom at a state dinner in her honor Tuesday night.

In the very dining room in which Abraham Lincoln often made pointedly clear to his cabinet members his hatred of royalty and autocracy, Cal Coolidge, president of the same United States, meekly conversed with "her royal highness" whose blazing monarchial robes were flaunted in the chair on his right hand. The entire official family of Washington fauned upon the royal cortezan and in the polite way of diplomats fought with each other for a share in her royal conversation.

Flaunts With Riches.

It was a sad commentary on "the greatest democracy in the world." The queen of one of the worst military despotisms in Europe, where thousands of peasants want for the most elementary necessaries of life, flaunts ropes of matchless pearls, set off by a diamond tiara of unknown value in the very faces of the heads of a government that is supposed to be a friend of all oppressed people.

The tiara that she wore was the same headpiece that was carried thru the gloomy walls of the Kremlin of the czars on the head of Grand Duchess Maria, daughter of Czar Alexander and mother of Marie.

Only the Highest.

The official dinner reception of the queen was attended only by the highest state officials. Andrew W. Mellon, the treasury watch-dog of American imperialism, the real power in Washington, seemed to consider it a pleasure to go into dinner with Princess Ileana on his arm, slated to be the queen of some as yet unknown European throne. Chas. G. Dawes, the Chicago banker, was entirely pleased to go with his wife to the scene of a so-called democracy bowing officially to the ground before a consort of the brutal Balkans.

On Wednesday, Queen Marie went

MOSCOW, Oct. 20.—The Central Council of Labor Unions of the Union of Socialist Soviet Republics has transferred to the Miners' Federation of Great Britain, another remittance of five hundred thousand roubles (approximately $250,000), collected among the trade unionists by means of a one per cent contribution from their monthly wages.

CHARTER 1,000 SHIPS TO HELP BREAK STRIKE

Great Fleets Coming to Five U. S. Ports

By GORDON CASCADEN.

(Special to The Daily Worker)

NORFOLK, Va., October 20.—One thousand ships have been chartered to load coal at Hampton Roads, Baltimore, Philadelphia, New York and Charleston.

Eight hundred of them will carry coal to the British isles to help Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin, commander-in-chief of capital's army, deliver a smashing blow to the striking miners.

Most of the other cargoes go to countries formerly supplied by British mines. They, also, are scab cargoes.

The strike, of course, may stop suddenly, once a decision is made. But these ships will continue to "carry coal to Newcastle" and other British and foreign ports until February or March of next year. So that a quick settlement would not mean a stoppage in transportation from these ports.

Strike Affects Many Nations.

Refusal of Britain's miners to surrender to the profiteers has affected the life of many countries.

Britain itself is in desperate need of coal. With winter approaching and heavy, foggy weather already upon them, coal is being rationed for use in homes. Only 100 pounds is

HOODED ORDER CLAIMS BOTH U. S. SENATORS

Witness Says He Was Threatened

The Ku Klux Klan of Indiana had an inning at the senate slush fund investigation yesterday afternoon, when Hugh Pat Emmons, klan lecturer of South Bend, Indiana, took the stand and testified that Senator James Watson and Senator Robinson, both republicans, were supported by the Indiana klan, and were considered members of the hooded order.

Emmons revealed how the klan organization was forced to "go down the line" for Watson and Robinson; and declared that first he was bribed and later threatened with death for refusing to support Watson's candidacy.

He told of the disaffection in the klan when Imperial Wizard Hiram W. Evens threw the grand dragon of Indiana, Walter Bossert, out of office, and named W. Lee Smith in his stead, "because Bossert would not support Watson."

Little Black Bag.

A "little black bag" figured in the case, Emmons testified. He said that Smith offered him a bribe of $10,000, which was in a black bag in an automobile, to support Watson. Emmons said that when he refused the money, he was told that the same thing that happened to Glenn Young in Herrin would happen to him.

Run Watson for Praaident.

Emmons told another amazing story of how the klan planned to make Watson its presidential candidate in 1928 if he should be re-elected by a big majority this year. This plan was revealed to Emmons by Hiram W. Evans, Imperial wizard, he testified.

Evans also told him that the klan was "deeply" indebted to Watson because the Indiana senator had arranged for the seating of Senator Mayfield, democrat of Texas, in 1922. In this senate contest, Emmons said, Watson interested Senator Moses, New Hampshire republican, in Mayfield's behalf.

SEEK IDEOLOGICAL AS WELL AS ORGANIZATIONAL UNITY FOR THE PARTY ON THE BASIS OF LENINISM

By JOHN PEPPER

(Special Cable to The Daily Worker.)

MOSCOW, U. S. S. R., Oct. 20. — The resolution of the Planum of the Moscow committee of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union on the inner party situation points out that the retreat of the opposition was due to the powerful solidarity of the whole party. It emphasizes that the opposition has not yet repudiated its views whereas the party needs not merely organizational but also ideological unity on the basis of Leninism. Therefore the Planum considers it necessary to continue the steady work of explaining to the members of the party the ideological substance of the opposition and of their views. Adhering to the decisions of the Central Committee for the further consolidation and the safeguarding of party unity, the Planum recommends, with a view to securing effective future work of the Central Committee in the leadership of the party, the country, and the international labor movement, that the Central Committee undertake the proper organizational measures in regard to the members of the Central Committee who violated party discipline.

...TERS ASK RECOGNITION OF THE UNION

U. S. Rail Board Asked to Give Decision

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—Invoking the aid of the railway mediation board, the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters today began an intensive campaign to gain recognition from the Pullman Company, which has ignored the repeated requests of the brotherhood for a wage conference.

In a letter addressed to the railway mediation board, A. Philip Randolph, general organizer of the brotherhood, today requested the services of the board in securing a conference on wages and hours with the Pullman Company, declaring that more than 5,000 porters, or the $1 per cent required by law, belong to the organization.

Company Ignores Union.

Altho railway legislation makes it the duty of employers to meet their employes in a representative union when requested to do so, the Pullman Company has refused even to acknowledge the letters of the brotherhood requesting a conference, according to brotherhood officials.

The railway mediation board, to which the brotherhood has applied for aid, was created by the Watson-Parker bill of the last session of congress and received the support not only of the transportation brotherhoods, but of the Railway Executives' Council, of which the Pullman Company is a member. The bill provides that the two parties to a railway labor dispute shall meet each other before the board if either applies for a conference.

Fight a Company Union.

If the two parties fail to agree, adjustment, mediation and arbitration boards may be set up to settle the dispute. One of the principle demands of the union is its recognition by the Pullman Company as the authorized representative of the men, supplanting the employe representation plan of the company. A conference before the board will compel that recognition.

Object—Co-operation.

The objects of the organization were outlined in a letter written to F. E. Carry, president of the Pullman Company, on September 29, by Philip A. Randolph, organizer, and made public by him today. They are, according to the letter, to "develop and employ initiative, intelligence and responsibility to the end of creating helpful and constructive co-operation for the building up and maintenance of a high standard of service as well as merit the approval of yourself as the chief executive of our principal employers in the industry, the great public and those officials charged with the regulation of the transportation industry in state and nation, as well as amicably, efficiently and satisfactorily to adjust grievances that may arise from time to time between the Pullman Company and the members of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters."

San Francisco Tailors Force Boss to Change His Mind; Get a Raise

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 20.—The boss says, "I hire you individually and will deal with you as individuals," and refused to deal with workers' committees. The workers of Ohlsen and Holmes' custom tailoring shop answered by giving the boss one week's time, during which time they demanded an increase of $1 on every coat made.

On the last day they refused to begin to work and within two hours the boss conceded to all their demands.

Although the immediate gain was only $1, yet the result of this action by the workers has given new courage and confidence in fighting for better conditions.

It has shown concretely what organization by the workers can do. Most of the twenty-five workers in the shop belong to the Journeymen Tailors' Union, and as a result of this a strong drive is being made to get all of the workers into the union.

Charter 1,000 Ships to Break Strike

allowed each householder every two weeks. Londoners are plotting a dark, chilly winter with little or no fire in fireplaces. Ireland is burning peat instead of coal.

Italy and other continental countries which, in normal times, get coal from Britain are rationing it.

Brazil Gets Rail Traffic.

Even countries as far from England as Brazil are feeling the effect of this strike. The Central Brazil, one of the most important railroads in South America, has suspended all freight trains except those transporting food to Rio de Janeiro. Lack of coal for their locomotives, formerly supplied by British miners, is the reason. Reports from other Brazilian railroads as well as those of other Latin-American countries say that the British miners' strike is hitting their services hard.

One thousand different ships, of course, will not be used to haul North American coal to fill orders already placed. A number will make two and three different trips.

But it is safe to say that at least six hundred different ships will visit the five ports from which coal is being shipped to break the British strike.

Great Fleets in Harbor.

Many Sunday visitors are attracted to the waterfront both here in Norfolk and Newport News, the twin Hampton Roads ports, and in Baltimore. Before them are scores of ships flying the flags of nearly all the maritime nations. Row on row of these vessels at anchor await chances to load coal. Their skippers do not relish the delay. Cursing captains and damning shipping agents bewail the fact that tollers in America's mines and on her railroads are not supermen—able to work without sleep or rest. As it is the mines are working full speed and the railroads using all the coal cars available.

Two hundred and thirty-three ships are expected here within the next ten days. They will merely swell the total now awaiting cargoes.

Almost half this number of vessels is due to load coal in Baltimore within the next two weeks. That port is also congested with boats awaiting cargoes.

Hampton Roads, Baltimore, Philadelphia, New York and Charleston expect to break world's records in October for export of coal.

Best New York City.

Business here here boast that more ships cleared from Hampton Roads during September for foreign ports than departed from New York City, the world's premier port. This figure, of course, does not include passenger steamers.

Four hundred and twenty ships cleared from Hampton Roads last month. Nearly all carried coal cargoes, most of them going to the British isles. Seventeen dumpings totalled 2,710,922 tons, and most of this coal went to help "Commander" Baldwin battle Britain's miners.

Baltimore's Record.

Baltimore's September coal exports passed those for August, with its additional day in which to ship. One hundred and twenty-four vessels carried 789,759 tons of bituminous coal to thirteen overseas' destinations. September bituminous exports from Baltimore were nearly four times the combined total for nine months of 1925. Eighty-six of these ships carried 565,322 tons of coal to England and Scotland, nine ships left with 14,560 tons for Ireland and two ships sailed with 11,089 tons for the mining sections of Wales. The other one-third of the coal exported from Baltimore went to other markets heretofore supplied by British mines.

For the first eight months of this year Baltimore exported 3,524,555 tons of coal on 404 vessels, as against 290,557 tons shipped on sixty-four vessels during the whole twelve months of last year.

Philadelphia and New York.

Philadelphia, which entered the list of scab coal shipping ports somewhat late, shipped 248,487 tons of coal to foreign ports during September.

New York City got into action rather late. But it will hold its record for "business" when the October figures are announced.

Charleston, South Carolina, a much smaller port and much farther south than any other coal-exporting port, is handicapped by lack of accomodation. But "open shoppers" and others proud of strike-breaking records assert that it will surprise its critics by its total October coal-export figures.

Not Satisfied.

Pot-bellied profiteers, however, are never satisfied with their dividends. It is not hard to rally them to back "Commander" Baldwin when it means more money for them. They want to ship more coal. Since more ships are not available they want the United States government to come to their support.

High mine prices, high railroad freight rates, high steamship boat charges, high wages paid to scab miners, scab railroad workers and scab seamen, do not satisfy these gluttons. So they have presented an ultimatum to the United States government.

U. S. Ships Carry Scab Coal.

The United States government owned a large number of ships built during the war. It also got a large number of ships from Germany as part of the victors' spoils in the late "war for democracy."

The government sold some; it leased others. Several of these United States Shipping Board vessels are now in the coal-carrying trade.

The Transmarine Corporation and McCormack, Consolidated Navigation and other lines with boats flying the stars and stripes are engaged in this shipment of scab coal.

Government Scabbing.

The Eastern Sea, the fourth ship with the stars and stripes, to carry scab coal from Baltimore since the strike began early in May, sailed for the west coast of Italy a few days ago. Moore and McCormack, as well as other Shipping Board liners, are also on the high seas with cargoes of scab coal loaded at Philadelphia and other ports.

But this satisfies neither the coal profiteers nor the British government and its economic master, the one big union of British industry.

Puts on Pressure.

O. E. Weller, a Baltimore politician seeking re-election to the United States senate, from Maryland, asked the United States Emergency Fleet Corporation to prepare several of these ships for the coal trade from Baltimore.

But the answer was not reassuring. The Emergency Fleet Corporation replied that consideration must be given to grain and cotton export altho shipment of those commodities does not pay nearly as well as transportation of scab coal to give aid to the British bosses' fight.

Fingy O'Connor for Scabbing.

The Emergency Fleet Corporation overruled the plea of T. V. O'Connor, chairman of the United States Shipping Board, that the government fit out more vessels to help transport scab coal. So influential industrial leaders are backing him up.

Sanders A. Wertheim, president of Burns' Bros., one of New York's largest coal companies, on his return from England and France the other day, demanded that the government give more ships for coal export.

His company, he says, has carried more than 150,000 tons of bituminous coal to England and France in the last two weeks. A score of boats flying the British, French and Belgian flags are now loading Burns' coal in New York City.

The Burns' company expects to ship nearly 1,000,000 tons of scab bituminous coal to England before the first of the new year to help defeat the British miners—if it can get the boats to carry it.

Mystery Explosion in Dupont Powder Mill Kills Worker

SCRANTON, Pa., Oct. 20.—One men was killed and property damage was heavy when the glaze mill of the Du Pont Powder Company, located at Moosic, Pa., near here, blew up today.

George F. Brown, 36, of Minooka, Pa. the only man employed at the mill was blown to pieces. He is survived by the widow and several children.

The mill, also known as the Belin mill, was leveled by the blast. It was one of a number of isolated mills owned by the Du Pont Company. Seldom is more than one men employed in each of the producing plants.

The cause of the explosion will never be known, it was said.

Republican Rally in Jamestown, N. Y., Is Flat Failure

By a Worker Correspondent.

JAMESTOWN, N. Y., Oct. 20.—Republicans held a scheduled mass meeting in the city streetcar barns here at which half of the seats were vacant. The Jamestown concert band rendered their services to go thru the town several times to draw crowds to the meeting, but met with no success.

Two small boys led the parade with placards, who, like the Republicans and democrats, did not know what they were doing.

Ogden L. Mills, republican candidate for governor of New York, painted a lovely picture of the Coolidge administration and somehow did not interest the crowd or, for some reason, did not even hold the crowd.

MARYHILL HOAX IS HILL TRICK TO SHINE MARIE

Railroad Magnate Plays Royalty Game

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—Now that Queen Marie of Roumania has confessed, at so much per word, that her dear people miss her when she is away, and that life for the Roumanians seems less worth while in her absence, the hard-boiled staff of the state department wonder just how much of the international record of her government she hopes to obscure by her American near-vaudeville tour.

Not so long ago an American minister came home from the Roumanian capital and told how the Bratiano cabinet, backers of the royal family, had enacted its confiscatory law affecting foreign oil companies in that country. In a confidential talk with the press he gave a most convincing description of the manner in which a Roumanian cabinet official is "convinced" that a foreign corporation is entitled to something it wants. The impression given was that the Roumanian government was a blackmailing institution to which American oil companies would have to pay tribute in cold coin, slipped under the table.

Debt Question.

At that time, too, the Bucharest authorities were ignoring every suggestion that they pay their debt to the American treasury and to various American companies that had sold them railroad equipment and other necessaries on credit. Later they found a way to settle, but they were among the last in all Europe to be willing to pay what they could.

At that time, too, King Ferdinand and Queen Marino were worried over the revolt of the peasants in Bessarabia. Prisons were filled with suspects, many of whom were tortured or killed "in trying to escape." From this peasant uprising there developed a public among the Roumanian ruling class, which led to wholesale arrests of trade union leaders and the virtual suppression of the trade unions for a while. When at last a trade union congress was permitted to meet its first demand was the restoration of the actual right to hold meetings and carry on trade activities, since the law guaranteeing this right was ignored by the police and military.

Jewish Persecution.

In the background of these anxieties on the royal head is always the Jewish persecution on which Roumanian royal power is based. When the Roumanian agents who came to Washington in 1917 to beg for loans were asked whether they would modernize their attitude toward minority peoples and give citizenship to the millions of Jews in their territory, they gruffly said they would. They got the money, but the Jews did not get liberty. Anti-semitism is still a prime tenet in the faith of the royalist party in Marie's realm.

The Maryhill Hoax.

Americans east of the Rockies never heard of Maryhill Wash., until Queen Marie's press agents began to trumpet that name abroad. She is to dedicate a Roumanian room in a museum at Maryhill, overlooking the Columbia river. Diplomats who have looked into the matter discover with plain citizens that Maryhill means the Jim Hill estate. A son of the late railroad magnate has entered into a social-promotion arrangement with Queen Marie whereby Marie has an excuse to go to the Pacific coast while Hill's family gets into certain fashionable circles from which they have thus far been excluded. Inasmuch as young Hill is no lightweight, it may be assumed that press agents' bills will be duly paid with railroad dividends.

This Hill scheme has made the deficit-laden promoters of the Sesqui exposition in Philadelphia envious. The Philadelphia papers print advertisements for the sale of seats in the stadium when Marie will positively appear, "morning and evening." Complaint is made by fight fans that hoses at this show cost $50, as against only $25 for the late Tunney-Dempsey combat.

Big Loag Looms.

Meanwhile the men in Washington who know most about the Roumanian queen and her Brazilian business backers are watching for evidence of her business errand. A big loan is the favorite guess as to what she has come for. Then there is anti-Soviet propaganda to be spread as a safeguard against future American neutrality on the demand of the Soviet Union for the return of Bessarabia.

All this while the political police in the Roumanian prison towns are taking horrible revenge on the peasants and workers for their gestures toward freedom.

New England Frame-up Gang Fights New Trial for Sacco and Vanzetti

By J. LOUIS ENGDAHL.

MORE than half way across the continent, from Dedham, the typical New England county seat of Norfolk county, Mass., to Leavenworth, Kas., once the frontier outpost of white "civilisation" advancing into the west, the lawyers for both sides in the Sacco-Vanzetti case have wended their respective ways to get testimony to strengthen their struggles in the legal tug-of-war for the lives of those two Italian workers.

There is a kinship, however, even in this present hour, between Dedham, Mass., and Leavenworth, Kas. For Dedham, the scene of the infamous prosecution and conviction of Nick Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti, is just as surely an outpost in the struggle for the abolition of wage slavery today, as is the Fort Leavenworth more then half a century ago that stood astride the developing struggle over chattel slavery in "Bleeding Kansas."

Leavenworth is now best known, however, as the location of one of the biggest of American capitalism's prisons. During the war, and long after, it caged many workers imprisoned because of their hostility to Morgan's war. It is now in the limelight again because it holds within its walls the convicted freight car thief, Joseph Morelli, chief of the Morelli gang of faraway Providence, R. I. Freight car thieves, however, are numerous over the land and no one would bother about Joe Morelli if he had not led the gang, as is charged by his fellow convict bandit, Celestino Madeiros, in committing the crime at South Braintree, Mass., April 15, 1920, that has been used in the frame-up of the United States government against the two workers, Sacco and Vanzetti, in an effort to put them to death, "to dispose of them."

Herbert B Ehrmann, an assistant of Attorney William G. Thompson, counsel for Sacco and Vanzetti, was the first to go to see Joe Morelli in Leavenworth prison. Joe is in for twelve years. The interview came to nothing. The stone walls of the prison hold Morelli just as securely as he insists on holding secret any connection he had with the South Braintree crime. In his anxiety to forget, he even denied knowledge of the existence of the Rice and Hutch factory, at South Braintree, that he had been convicted of robbing. He even pretended forgetting the name of his victim.

But the forces of the prosecution didn't get much more. It sent Joseph L. Ferrari of the Massachusetts state police to visit Morelli in the Kansas prison. Morelli claims in this interview that he did not know and never has known Celestino Madeiros, that he knew nothing about the South Braintree shooting except what was in the papers, and that he did not participate in it. Asked where he was on April 15, 1920, Morelli said, according to Ferrari, that he went from his home to his lawyer's office, then to Jones' restaurant, that he bung around and then drove home.

He could not name anybody who could say they saw him in Providence on April 15.

When the federal agent, Ferrari, showed him photographs of James F. Weeks, who is supposed to have been associated with Madeiros in the Wrentham National bank robbery, said also pictures of Sacco and Vanzetti, Morelli denied ever having seen any of them.

That is Morelli clinging to life, with six years of his twelve-year-sentence yet to serve. He hopes to get out again. He certainly is not anxious to face a murder charge growing out of the South Braintree shooting. Morelli is willing to make the effort to save his own life, tho he thus acts as an ally of the United States government in taking the lives of Sacco and Vanzetti.

It is different with Madeiros. He is sentenced to death. The capitalist state can do no more than take his life. This alone, no doubt, caused Madeiros to come to the front to help in the fight to save Sacco and Vanzetti. If Madeiros, like Morelli, had only been sentenced to twelve years' imprisonment, Madeiros' lips would also have been sealed and there would have been little basis for the demand for a new trial. Perhaps the electric chair in Massachusetts would already have completed its murderous work.

The government is ever active in its efforts to make its case stand up against the assaults of the defense forces.

It secured a statement, for instance, from Pauline Gray, of Providence, R. I., that during the entire month of April, 1920, she lived at 62 Marietta street, employed as Joseph Morelli's housekeeper; that she was at home every night in April before 12 o'clock, and that Joseph Morelli was at home every night in April before 12 o'clock; that he did not leave the house any day during April until 10 o'clock in the morning. She says that she saw Joseph Morelli in the house at different hours every morning during the month of April.

The government also got Pasquale Morelli, of Providence, to swear that he saw his brother, Joseph, almost hourly every day from June, 1919, until May, 1920.

Both of these declarations, by the housekeeper, Pauline Gray, and the brother, Pasquale Morelli, are so manifestly untrue that no one, not even a capitalist judge, could believe them.

But Judge Webster Thayer, who has it in his power to grant or refuse a new trial, can use even these affidavits to bolster up his refusal to grant a new trial.

It is, therefore, of the greatest importance, to impress upon the workers of America, and of the world, that the Sacco-Vanzetti case has not yet been turned into a victory for labor. It is merely entering another crucial stage. It is also not sufficient, merely to save Sacco and Vanzetti from the electric chair. The attack on the capitalist government, that seeks so strenuously even now to carry out its frame-up, must be so aggressive that even the agents of this governmental tyranny will hesitate in the future to attack militant workers.

Tomorrow: The role of Senator Butler, multi-millionaire textile mill owner, in the attack on Sacco and Vanzetti.

SERVANT ARMY IS TRAINED TO WAIT ON QUEEN MARIE

Federated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—American workers of many ranks are being marshalled into line for the minute service of Queen Marie, whose Roumanian government fiercely fights workers' efforts to organize. Already marine workers on the Leviathan, operated for the Emergency Fleet Corporation by the United States Lines, have been pressed into special service of the queen. A special protecting body of soldiers and sailors participates in the welcome by city and state governments of New York.

Everything Special.

Special police—secret service men—hotel detectives disguised as bell hops, waiters and what nots; special housekeeper aided by a dozen chambermaids; special elevator attendant, special telephone operator, special waiters, chafs (one at $35,000 a year) and the hotel's chief bell hop for the queen's special messenger.

Railroad workers carefully selected to run special trains carrying the royal bodies to Washington for federal welcome and on the extensive tour planned. Building trades workers wrecking old suites and fitting up new ones for the queen's party of 22. Garment workers rushing to duplicate the fashionable frocks the titled personages bring from Paris. Salesgirls striving with impatient society women who want copies of gowns and costumes and accessories worn by the queen and her daughter.

What of Persecutions?

Printing trades' workers setting up and running off the widespread advertisement of all but the queen's most intimate moves. How much news of the military courts sentencing workers to death or years of imprisonment in Roumania? No trial by jury in workers' cases, not free speech or free assemblage, hastings and torture by the military, 189 prisoners in one martial court sentenced to 711 years' total. The military council of Klausenburg imprisoning workers under 20 years for trying to organize labor. Roumanian farm workers oppressed and arrested like the industrial workers.

General Avarscu, premier saying: "Every attempt to disturb public order by whatever means or in whatever way will be suppressed not only with extreme energy, but mercilessly." And to organize a labor union might be "to disturb public order."

BRITISH TRADE SLUMP SHOWING STRIKE EFFECT

Coal, Cotton and Iron Exports Hit Hard

(Special to The Daily Worker)

LONDON, Oct. 20.—British exports fell off $68,250,000 in September, compared to September, 1925, according to the board of trade announcement.

Coal exports fell most, textile cotton exports next and iron and steel third, while re-exports fell about $12,000,000.

There were declines in imports of food, drink, tobacco, grain and meat, while raw material imports rose about $10,000,000 and manufactured articles by about $18,000,000.

Coal imports were, from almost nothing a year ago, increased to 2,320,000 tons in July this year, 2,970,442 tons in August, and 3,940,886 tons in September.

The nine months total foreign trade turnover was 163,000,000 pounds sterling below the corresponding period in the preceding two years.

MONARCHISTS OF GERMANY TRYING KAISER RETURN

Treason to Republic Rife in Government

BERLIN, Oct. 20.—Prussia's grant of property and enormous compensation to the kaiser's family has aroused Republican sentiment all over Germany, and other signs of monarchism are being exposed daily. It is discovered that under German law the kaiser will no longer be barred from Germany after July 1 next.

Government Aids Royalists.

A boycott is being started against the postage stamp bearing the portrait of Frederick the Great. Why the government, supposedly republican, should have used this picture, which is used habitually by the monarchists in propaganda, is not explained.

Von Hindenburg, the president of a republic, visited the funeral of General von Heeringen last week dressed in full regalia and colors of the old empire, while he sat next to Prince Oscar, the kaiser's son. Oscar recently delivered a speech at a Nuremburg royalist celebration attacking the republic.

Princess a Thief.

The former crown princess, Cecilia, is also accused of having stolen a Hohbeme picture with 300,000 marks from one of the old royal residences of Potsdam. The picture was the property of the Prussian government, but was sold by Cecilie to a wine dealer for 3,000 marks.

Little Red Box of Secret Documents Enters Klan Case

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Oct. 19.—A little red box, said to contain some of D. C. Stephenson's "secret" documents, has been taken into the Marion county grand jury room.

Shortly after Miss Mildred Meade, pretty former stenographer of the ex-grand dragon, appeared before the grand jury probing alleged political corruption in Indiana, she left the grand jury room in the company of Prosecuting Attorney William H. Remy.

The pair went to the Indiana National Bank and returned in a few minutes with a red safety deposit box said to have belonged to Stephenson.

Mexico to Enact Bill for Old Age Pensions

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 20.— Mexico's widely heralded labor bill, vitally affecting the interests of all employers in the republic, will be taken up by the senate next week and will be enacted promptly, providing old age pensions largely at the expense of the employers.

Senator Salcedo's declaration is regarded as assuring early enactment of the law, since he speaks both as chairman of the labor committee and as one of the leaders in the Labor Party.

PORTO RICAN WORKERS TRAPPED INTO ARIZONA COTTON GROWERS' HANDS BY LABOR OFFICIAL'S AID

By J. NEVARES SAGER.

(Secretary Porto Rican Section, All-American Anti-Imperialist League.)

SAN JUAN, P. R. (By Mail).—Regarding the Porto Rican workers stranded in Phoenix, Arizona, after finding that the Cotton Growers' Association had misrepresented wages and conditions under which they left their homes to go to Arizona, Santiago Iglesias is quoted from Washington as saying that the U. S. Department of Labor cannot stop immigrants.

The Free Federation of Workmen, completely controlled by an A. F. of L. officialdom headed by Santiago Iglesias, did nothing whatever beforehand to warn these workers of the fraud or expose the cotton growers' trick, altho it was known.

Fake Radical Helped Fraud.

One of these officials, who is fond of parading as a leftist and radical, Lino Padron Rivera, gave his public endorsement of the project. Now, because of pressure from workers here and in Arizona, Iglesias is beginning to admit things, and his tool, Rafael Alonso, is forced to cable inquiries to Washington.

Porto Rican Workers Trapped.

The Porto Rican section of the All-America Anti-Imperialist League is the only organization which has beforehand exposed this emigration fraud and warned the workers it could reach against it.

But there is another interesting point.

Wanted More Backward Workers.

Shortly after the Porto Rican workers left their native isle under the impression that they were superfluous population in their country, all Porto Rico was aroused with indignation by the discovery that the Guanica Central, the largest sugar mill in Porto Rico, is preparing to bring in negro workers from the Virgin Islands who have not as yet grasped the idea of labor organization as have the Porto Rican workers.

Aimee's Trial Still on While Kenneth Is Among the Missing

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 20.—Miss Bernice Morris, secretary to R. A. McKinley, a blind attorney who was alleged to have negotiated with Mrs. Aimee Semple McPherson to find a man and woman to pose as her kidnapers, today emphatically stated that her statements furnished to the district attorney's office were not made under duress.

Miss Morris occupied the witness stand practically all day yesterday. She testified that Mrs. McPherson offered her $500 if she would carry on plans of McKinley after the latter had been killed in an automobile accident.

The witness also said that Mrs. McPherson had offered $1,500 if McKinley could find a shack similar to the one that she said she had been held captive in.

Kenneth Missing.

Kenneth Ormiston, the radio operator who got Aimee into most of this trouble, the with Aimee's consent, is still at large.

There are still some people in Los Angeles, crazy for salvation, who believe that Aimee is a second coming.

AMERICAN CAPITALISTS INVEST THREE BILLION IN CANADIAN INDUSTRY

(Special to The Daily Worker)

QUEBEC, Oct. 20.—American capitalists have invested more then $2,500,000,000 in Canadian industry, E. W. Beatty, president of the Canadian Pacific railway, told the convention of the Investment Bankers' Association of America at its concluding session of the annual convention here.

American investments represent 55 per cent of the total foreign investments in Canada, he declared with great pride, declaring that thirteen years ago, the United States money man had only 17 per cent.

Beatty glowed when he told the bankers of the great profits made by his railroad. He said that its gross earnings had increased from $29,000,000 in 1899 to $183,000,000 in 1926, and its net earnings had increased from $12,000,000 to $40,000,000.

K. OF C. FOMENTED MEXICAN REVOLT SOLONS CHARGE

Evidence Shows Plotting of U. S. Catholics

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 20.—That the revolt of the Yaqui Indians in Sonora was founded by de la Huerta, former president, Peltz Diaz, son of the late President Diaz, the Catholic bishop of Sonora, with the aid of the American Knights of Columbus was the charge made in congress by Deputy Gonzalo Santos.

Is Authentic.

Many influential members of congress vouched for the authenticity of the charges, declaring that they have evidence to show that the K. of C. raised $4,000,000 to aid in attempting to overthrow the Calles government.

Certain oil interests aided the organization in raising the money, it was charged, being particularly interested in having the part in the constitution affecting oil ownership changed

Will Wipe Out Reaction.

Senator Santo declared that if the groups mentioned provoked a new revolution, the old revolutionists who fought for their ideals would rise again and wipe them out. "The homes of the reactionaries will be crapeless," he said, "because there will be none left to attend to the crape hanging. We intend to wipe them all out."

Who Is Secretary of State Kellogg?

aire, Kellogg voted to seat Newberry.

Kellogg brought to the senate the experience gained in cases involving the Standard Oil Company, the Harriman railroads and the United States Steel corporation.

In the settlement of the world war, Kellogg declared his belief in the imperialist league of nations.

When the workers and farmers of Minnesota, therefore, turned Kellogg into the street, his Wall Street friends came to his protection and sent him to London as ambassador to the court of St. James.

It was after an education received, close to the reigning dynasties of Europe that remained after the world war, that Kellogg returned to the United States and became secretary of state in Coolidge's cabinet. So loyal has he been in service rendered the predatory interests that he has become known, for instance, as "Standard Oil" Kellogg because of support given Rockefeller aggressions in the Near East and elsewhere over the globe.

During his regime the gates of the United States have been thrown open to every parasite royal nincompoop in Europe that chose to come this way. The Prince of Wales, the Swedish prince and others of their ilk, and now the Queen of Rournania, most revolting of them all, gets the homage of the American toe-kissing plutocracy.

The gates have been thrown open to them all. The doors of the dollar-worshipping United States have been closed in the faces of the wife of Michael Kalinin, the president of the Union of Socialist Soviet Republics, who wanted to come here two years ago on behalf of the children of Soviet Russia; of Shapurji Saklatvala, the Communist member of the British parliament, excluded last year, and more recently Katherine Karolyi, wife of Michael Karolyi former president of the Hungarian republic, who gave way to the short-lived Hungarian Soviet Republic. Proceedings were also instituted against Mary McSwiney when she came to this country to launch her attack on British rule in Ireland. All these have suffered under the Kellogg ban.

This is the same Kellogg who waits for an opportunity to strike another blow, on behalf of American imperialism, against Mexico, across the Rio Grande, and who holds the club of dollar diplomacy over the financial colonies of the United States in Latin and South America.

This is the Kellogg who admits to the United States, Countess Vera Cathcart, British honor guest at the "brotherhood of wine party" given by Earl Carroll at his New York theater, with one of his chorus girls as an undraped offering to give joy and delight to those present.

It is thru Secretary of State Kellogg, scavenger for the worst dregs of the disappearing European aristocracy, who has ordered the postal department to proceed against The DAILY WORKER. Let him proceed. The DAILY WORKER is ready for him and promises him the worst of it before the masses of America's workers and farmers.

STILL SEARCH FOR B. OF L. E. BANK SWINDLER

Brotherhood Officers' Bail Raised

(Special to The Daily Worker)

PITTSB'RGH, Oct. 20.—The search for Charles E. Knepp, missing bond salesmen and central figure in the Brotherhood Savings and Trust Company swindle, was extended today to Maryland.

The bond salesman is known to have left Pittsburgh immediately after getting possession of a bag containing $320,000 turned over to him by R. A. McCready, president of the labor bank, with the understanding that Knepp would take the bonds to McCready's office at once.

$50,000 Bond.

McCready, who with two other bank officials, was arrested as soon as it was learned that $102,000 of the $320,000 in the missing bag belonged to the bank, has posted $50,000 additional bond on embezzlement charges, filed late yesterday by the state banking department, which has charge of the bank's affairs.

Similar charges were filed against John L. Nelson, treasurer, and William Kelly, vice-president of the bank, who are in jail in default of heavy bond. Frank Guimario, alleged associate of Knepp, also is being held.

Counsel for the bank officials, in an effort to reduce bail, petitioned Judge Ambrose Reid in common pleas court for a writ of habeas corpus. A hearing on the petition will be held today

USE OF LABEL ON GRAND RAPIDS FURNITURE IS FORGERY, NO UNION CONDITIONS EXIST IN INDUSTRY

Use of the union label on furniture products made in Grand Rapids, Michigan, is forgery, the Grand Rapids district council of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America, warns all unions in the United States in a circular letter just issued. The council asks that if any Grand Rapids furniture bears the label, such forgery be brought to the attention of the council.

The letter follows:

To the District Councils of U. B. of C. and J. of America.

Greetings:—As you know, Grand Rapids is the furniture city of the United States and Canada. We have been informed that some of our products are sold all over the country carrying the union label and if this is so, it is a forgery. In fact, neither furniture, interior woodwork, showcases, school seats, nor refrigerators made in Grand Rapids should carry a union label as union conditions do not exist in any of our shops.

We are having a hard fight to exist, but we are doing our best to organize our workers, both carpenters and millmen. Will you assist us by asking for the label on furniture, interior material and everything that is made and used by the U. B. of C. and J. and communicate with your trade and labor council as to the delegates may take it to their locals, and kindly notify us if the union label is found on any Grand Rapids furniture.

Help us and in so doing you are helping our brotherhood and yourselves.

Hoping you will co-operate with us in this respect, we are,

Fraternally yours,
Grand Rapids District Council,
Grand Rapids, Michigan.

KUOMINTANG DECLARES ITS FOREIGN POLICY; TO UNIFY THE NATION

PEKING, Sept. 28—(By Mail)—The kuomintang party has published a manifesto concerning its national policy which declares that the party will use all means in its power to bring peace and unity to the country. This, however, can only be brought about after a victorious conclusion of the northern expedition of the Canton troops.

The kuomintang regards the calling of the national assembly as the basis for transformation of the country. A transitional period is, however, necessary in which the masses must learn their national duties.

NEW BEDFORD MILL WORKERS CALL STRIKE

Fight Wage Cuts And Owners' Despotism

(Special to The Daily Worker)

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Oct. 20.—Workers of the Dartmouth mill, New Bedford, are ordered to strike to fight for maintenance of the wage and working condition standards prevailing in this mill city. The New Bedford Textile Council voted the walkout of all Dartmouth workers. Normally the mill employs 2,000, but has been running with less.

The emergency board of the American Federation of Textile Operatives, an independent union in control of New Bedford mill unionists, approves the strike and other organizations involved and associated with the A. F. T. O. in the Federated Textile Unions of America are expected to follow suit.

Dartmouth weavers have long complained of the fining system, cutting of weaving prices and arbitrary treatment of workers by subordinate mill officials. Loom fixers complain that general standards are not kept up. Dartmouth's last strike was in 1920 and was chiefly on boardmen's grievances. Engineers and firemen at the mill struck in 1919. The loom fixers' fight became citywide. The other strikes at this mill were in 1912, over fining, and 1906 on mopping

Wall Street and the Franco-German Pact

One of the most important developments since the inauguration of the Dawes plan—the Franco-German combination—has deeply stirred the financial lords of the United States. A frantic London dispatch to the Chicago Tribune said: "It is almost openly admitted here that the Franco-German pact is the first step toward an organized revolt against the financial hegemony of New York and London."

The New York Times indicated editorially that the proposal to have Germany set the financial house of France in order by floating part of the German railway securities, amounting to $500,000,000, meant ultimately that the loan would have to be raised in the United States; and a news headline blared that New York bankers "Do Not Believe $500,000,000 Issue of Railway Securities Can Be Absorbed."

Nevertheless, the steps taken following the Thoiry conversations of Briand and Stresemann have clearly indicated the growing consolidation of the opposition by European bankers and industrials to the persistent and increasing American financial hegemony.

And Wall Street realizes the significance of this development also. It is known that Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, upon his return to Washington from his European trip, spoke to Coolidge upon the basis of this development and secured virtual agreement against permitting any part of the German railways securities to be floated in the United States for the purpose of stabilizing the franc, at least until France had agreed to ratify the Mellon-Berenger debt agreement.

Poincare, whose differences with Briand on the relations of France to Germany have been all but public, is, beyond a doubt, playing the game for more cards than that of Wall Street. His proposal is to ratify the debt funding arrangement, without any change in the text, but with the addition of a preamble which amounts to a reservation. Poincare desires to include somewhere a proviso for French payments to the United States in accordance with German payments to France, or else a less thin point to the decision of the chamber and have them adopt or reject the pact.

Such a reservation would be meaningless if the Germans were enabled to raise the $500,000,000 to rehabilitate French finances, and to secure for France the possibility of regular payments to Wall Street, and co-operation with Germany on the basis of equality instead of Dawes-vassalage to the United States.

That is why the question of a Franco-German alliance is so intimately bound up with the questions of America's financial and political relations with both Germany and France. This situation illuminates the sharp opposition in financial (and governmental) circles in this country to the floatation at the two billion marks loan on German railway securities. It is surely the cream of the jest to find the despised and downtrodden Germany, brutally occupied by Poincare's France in 1923, now offering to take the place of the rich and rapacious Uncle Sam as the good Samaritan that brings health and order to the decrepit finances of France and Belgium!

Irrespective of the outcome of this immediate struggle over the German securities, the line of development becomes increasingly clear. The Communist prediction concerning the Dawes plan is materializing in every respect: The stabilization in Germany is being accomplished at the expense of the working class (three millions unemployed and five million working part time); America has stabilized Germany, only to find in the revived Reich a living rival, the intensity of the conflict between debtor nations of Europe and the creditor Wall Street has been sharpened, and becomes constantly more insoluble within the framework of imperialist society. American financial penetration into Europe is being met with an ever-broader united opposition and there are clear indications that to show this, its stranglehold upon European industry and finance is being slowly but very consciously and appreciably loosened.

The ridiculing and besmirching of all things American, from tourists to toys, in Europe, especially in France, is a manifestation of the far profounder economic changes that have taken place in the last couple of years and which are proceeding with hastened tempo at this very moment.

Renwed Anglo-Italian Co-operation

It is clear that the basis for Anglo-Italian co-operation worked out by Chamberlain and Mussolini at Rapallo, which resulted in the division of Abyssinia between the two powers and the sharpening of Italy's demands in the Mediterranean, was interrupted only temporarily by the support Mussolini gave to Spain's Tangiers proposal—an act which aroused the swift and unmistakable opposition of British imperialism.

The recent visit of Chamberlain to Mussolini, aboard the English yacht Dolphin, enthusiastically greeted by the imperialist press of both countries, followed significantly after the conversations of Briand and Stresemann at Thoiry. It was acclaimed in both countries as the achievement of an Anglo-Italian entente, a joy which found its counterpart in the alarmed observations made by the French and German press.

The Anglo-Italian rapprochement is Britain's reply to the Franco-German steel trust and the conversations at Thoiry. The sharpening of the antagonisms between Britain and France happen to fall in quite well with Mussolini's lack of love for his nearest neighbor. Nor does the growing enmity between Germany and England fail to jibe with Mussolini's tyrannical rule over southern Tyrol.

The recurring of alliances—economic and political—which have characterized the developments in Europe for the last period are strongly reminiscent of the years immediately preceding August, 1914.

The events preceding and following the Chamberlain-Mussolini conversations up to the moment have been:

(1) The virtual organization of an all-European steel trust thru the recently formed alliance of France-Germany-Luxemburg-Belgium and the more recently formed Central European steel trust, also dominated by Germany, by means of the controlling interests held by the West German steel trust over the Alpine Mining Company, which in turn dominates the Austrian industry. The trust is all-European only in the sense that all of the steel industry, with the exception of the Italian and the British (of course, also, the steel trust of the Soviet Union) is included. The exceptions are highly significant. Italy and Britain will enter the bloc only when competition becomes too sharp, or for the purpose of forming a united front against the omnipresent American steel trust. (The market price for German iron and steel has just taken a swift jump upwards.)

(2) The dramatic appearance of Mussolini on the Chinese scene with the demand for the broadening of Italian influence in the provinces of Shensi and Kansu, the territory approximately between the Humboldt and Great Khinghan mountains, west of and equidistant from Peking and Hankow. This land is very rich in minerals, one of Italy's great weaknesses, a lack (of coal, in particular) which has obliged her to adopt first Germany's, then France's and now England's patronage. This demand of Mussolini in China comes significantly on the eve of the determination of Great Britain to intervene with armed forces in China to prevent the ultimate victory of the nationalist troops who are already marching on Shanghai.

Italian Intrigues

The race for the honor of the Grand Double Cross is undoubtedly finding Italy well towards the fore. While it is conducting the most friendly negotiations with England, and Mussolini swears undying fealty to Britania against French, Germans and the Soviet Union, Italy continues to play its very little game. First, after jointly committing a piece of grand larceny in the division of Abyssinia, Italy incited Spain to make demands for Tangiers, twisting the tail of the British lion with a vengeance, for Tangiers menaces Gibraltar, which dominates the western end of the road to India and China for Britain.

Now, at the same time that the two prime ministers are so cordially and confidentially discussing international affairs and prospects for amity on a yacht in the Ligurian sea, it is announced that Mussolini has consended a pact between Italy and Yemen, a south Arabian principality. Yemen (in Asia) controls, from the northeast, the eastern tail of the British route to India, i. e. the Strait of Bab el Mandab, between the Red Sea and the Gulf of Aden: the Italian colony of Eritea (in Africa) controls the strait from the southwest. Also the pact will oppose such a step, which will mean a virtual re-establishment of Germany's former eastern frontier.

In return for this Germany will undoubtedly support the bandit aims of Pilsudski against the Soviet Union and Lithuania. It is not without basis that the Lithuanian envoy of Paris, Klimas, says "that the rumors of an exchange of Danzig for Memel have ceased to be mere rumors." Such a proposal had already been made months before by the prophet of Franco-German co-operation, Arnold Rechberg, a German industrialist. A number of incidents give weight to this impending event:

The veto of Germany to grant Poland a semi-permanent seat in the league of nations' council.

The negotiations for a German-Polish trade treaty and the general flirtations between Stresemann and Pilsudski.

The redisposition of Polish troops, the lengthening of the armed forces in Vilna, military preparations of Poland on the Lithuanian border, and the intensification of Polish complaints to Lithuania, indicate that the attack of the bandit Polish itinerant Zeligowski on Vilna a few years ago may soon be repeated in an attack by Pilsudski on Memel, this time with active German support.

The Polish press continues to make rabid attacks on the Soviet Union, and a series of treaty recently signed, which, under the treaties of the imperialist powers, is intended for the securing of peace and co-operation in the Baltic. In the meantime, the intensification is not such as will result in increase the feeling of security of the Polish bluesterer and sword-rattler, Pilsudski.

PLAN OF THE DAILY WORKER TO INCREASE CIRCULATION PRAISED BY EXPERIENCED NEWSPAPER MAN

Here is an interesting letter from an experienced newspaper circulator in connection with the plans for greater and better distribution of The DAILY WORKER. As it has been announced, a campaign is being conducted to increase the circulation of our paper by direct canvassing, which is both a profitable task for the canvasser and a chance to build up the paper.

The letter follows:

Stillwater, Minnesota.

P. B. Cowdery:

Dear Friend: I here had some experience during carrier routes and getting subs for papers.

Your plan for The DAILY WORKER is the only right one. I would add this—when you get a route or more in a location started, you must have some older person to look after the carriers. If this is not done, the carriers will not look after the work properly.

Put On Unemployed.

We have hundreds, yes thousands, of friends and comrades who are out of work or on strike. Why not try and reach these friends and put them to work for The DAILY WORKER?

Put an advertisement in The DAILY WORKER and other friendly papers, telling them about it, once a week. Outline your plan. Let them read it. Start schools. Instruct them how to do it.

Print a little leaflet with your plan and send it to people who live in small towns.

Woman could be a great help in this work and could make a few dollars in so helping.

My work is such that I could not do that now.

Yours for Success,

R. D. S.

The writer of the letter above has the idea perfectly. A comrade of his type and training is necessary to handle this work both in and out of Chicago. I am sure that there is likely to be a perfect deluge of responses from persons wishing to take a hand in this work in every town and city, and even in the country districts. Delivery by mail can replace carriers, as a rule, outside of Chicago. All that this comrade suggests is being done, or will be done.

The plan as developed is, in brief:

Personal interview, selling a pamphlet (copy of DAILY WORKER included) for ten cents, with view to securing a DAILY WORKER subscription. It being necessary to follow up interview until subscription is obtained or refused.

In densely populated districts, many more orders can be obtained if the solicitor takes trial orders and personally delivers and collects weekly for trial time. Temporary or permanent assistants or carrier boys can be used both in delivering and collecting. Mail delivery can be substituted for carrier delivery as soon as desirable. Collections can then be made monthly, quarterly, half-yearly, or annually. As a DAILY WORKER agent, the canvasser, makes a living at it, presumably. It is necessary for each unit of territory to be suitable in size for one person to handle.

Pamphlet Being Prepared.

A pamphlet, explaining why the workers take The DAILY WORKER, giving statistics, etc., is being prepared. This pamphlet, with The DAILY WORKER, to sell in process of getting subscribers will be furnished at a price so low that any canvasser can make a living at his work from the very start, and make it a permanent occupation if desired.

All letters and inquiries will be answered and information in detail furnished to those interested for it.

Need Many Boys.

It is true that carrier boys will not function by themselves, but they are indispensable. The routes must be kept small and condensed, thus using plenty of boys to do the work. Too much must not be required or expected of them. They are our young comrades and this is a wonderful training for them.

Brownsville, Penn. Workers Hear Wicks

BROWNSVILLE, Pa., Oct. 20.—All arrangements have been completed for the Brownsville meeting of Comrade H. M. Wicks, Workers (Communist) Party candidate for governor. The meeting is to be held Saturday evening, Oct. 23, at Monongahasia Hall, South Brownsville, at 7:30 sharp. The Workers Party campaign in the western part of Pennsylvania has attracted large audiences everywhere and in all working class centers the numbers in attendance exceed those who listen to the speakers running for office on the republican and democratic tickets.

MILITARIZING YOUNG WORKERS

YOUTH LOOK AT THEIR PROBLEMS FOR COMING CONGRESSIONAL ELECTIONS

"AMERICA is no longer the 'Land of Opportunity.' The opportunities that were possible for the young people fifty and one hundred years ago when the land was obtainable free in the west, and the professions were not overcrowded, no longer exist," claims Young Workers' League of America in its election statement for the youth.

"Today an ever larger number of young people are thrown on the labor market and that at a very early age, because of the poor economic conditions of their parents. Out of a total of 42,000,000 workers in this country, 11,000,000 are young workers under the age of 25, working in factories, farms and mines under very bad conditions and even worse pay."

The Young Workers' League considers there are five basic problems facing the young workers in the coming congressional elections. These are:

1. Today in the industries there is a greater need for unskilled than skilled workers, because of the development of machinery, an ever supply of skilled workers, etc. Before the war, when immigrants were still flowing into the country, the industries had a full supply of unskilled labor and the local governments paid some attention to the vocational training of the youth in schools, etc. Now the local governments are reducing expenses by cutting the size of vocational courses, or abolishing them. This denies the youth the opportunities supposedly guaranteed them in our country and they are forced into the ranks of unskilled labor and work under miserable conditions. Therefore, the league raises the slogan of: More vocational training with trade union supervision.

2. The need of greater appropriations by the legislative bodies for educational purposes is the second big issue. The schools today are overcrowded and unable to accommodate the large number of entries. Over a billion dollars has been appropriated by the federal government alone for military purposes, as contrasted to the fact that almost no money has been spent by the federal government for educational purposes. This has resulted in a dire lack of schools in the rural sections and overcrowding in the city and town schools.

3. Child labor is on the increase. Whereas in the 1920 census there were slightly over a million young children below the age of 15 who worked in the factories, mills and farms thruout the country, we find in 1926 that this million has been trebled, thereby creating a dangerous situation. To merely demand the abolition of child labor is not sufficient; we must also demand that the government maintain the children and those who depend on their labor.

4. The growing danger of militarism is pointed out and the need for struggling against it. The appropriations for military purposes have steadily increased. The standing army has increased to about 175,000 men. The auxiliary military forces are increasing tremendously. The burden of taxation to support this military machine is crushing the already suffering working people. The youth is particularly effected by militarism and wars. The issue of reducing military expenditures and forces is therefore raised in the elections.

5. If, however, points out the statement, we are to accomplish these primary elementary tasks to better the conditions of the young workers, it becomes necessary that those of us who are engaged in productive work and are faced with the problems be given the right to vote. If we are old enough to work, we must be old enough to vote. The slogan, therefore, that all young workers and farmers over 18 must have the right to vote is raised.

SPECIAL YOUTH COURSES AT NEW YORK WORKERS' SCHOOL

THE Workers' School of New York City is offering special courses this year for members of the Young Workers' League and young workers generally. The school aims to help build up a strong movement among the young workers of New York that will be able to protect the interests of that section of young workers of the U. S. need leaders who understand their problems, who are capable of leadership. The Workers' School considers one of its main duties to be the training of Marxist-Leninists who will perform that task.

There will be a class in Youth Problems, instructor Sam Don. District Organizer Young Workers' League. District Two, beginning Tuesday, November 2, and will take up the problems arising from growing youth labor due to mechanization of industry and from ever-threatening imperialist wars and increasing militarism. In view of the need of "Americanizing" the League, of acquainting the members with the real characteristics and nature of youth problems in this country, the courses in American Economic and Political History and History of the American Working Class will be extremely valuable courses. The instructor for the former is D. Benjamin and begins on Nov. 2, and the instructor of the latter is Arthur C. Calhoun and begins on Nov. 1.

The school offers a course in Fundamentals of Communism to be given by Jack Stachel and which begins on Tuesday, November 2, also. Labor Journalism will train young workers to write for the Young Worker and the labor press in general. With an increase in the number of shop newspapers being issued by the Y. W. L. nuclei, the knowledge of technique of writing becomes more important. This course commences on Monday, Nov. 1, with Harvey O'Connor, assistant editor of Locomotive Engineers' Journal, as instructor. Elements of Marxian Economics, Modern Labor History and Marxism-Leninism are some of the other courses open to young workers.

A new course has been added this year to the curriculum, Problems of Working Class Children. This will deal with the environment and problems of children of workers; what the Boy Scouts and other bosses' organizations are doing to influence the children and what the working class must do in counteracting this influence. This subject will be valuable especially for Pioneer leaders, school teachers, working class parents and others interested in working among workers' children.

Fees are very low, class-room space has been doubled, and facilities have been increased and improved. There will be opportunity for real study this year at the school. Every member of the league should enroll and take at least two courses and every young worker should register.

For further information, and a catalog of all courses communicate with Bertram D. Wolfe, director of the Workers' School, 108-108 East 14th St., New York City.

Workers' Children to Run Chic Convention

Working class children engineering their own organization at a district convention is a sight for sore eyes. Such conventions held in New York, Philadelphia, Boston, etc., won the enthusiastic response of the militant labor movement. Now in the Illinois district (No 8) of the Young Pioneers there will be held the first district convention on November 26 to 28.

A statement issued by the local Pioneer leaders declares in part: "Conventions have been held in Chicago twice already, but never before on a district scale. Some three years ago the building of Pioneer groups was started in Chicago and today we have groups not only in Chicago but in six important cities outside of Chicago.

"Groups are allotted representation on the basis of one delegate for every ten members. Funds to send the delegates in must be raised locally and the Y. W. L. must help the Pioneers in this.

"Let us make this convention a 'start off' for more work in the schools, on the streets, in the playgrounds, everywhere where there are working class children to win for the cause."

District Pioneer Committee.
Minnie Lurye, Director.

JERSEY LABOR BACKS PASSAIC MILL STRIKERS

Reilly Says Strike Is 30 years Overdue

PASSAIC, N. J., Oct. 20.—Hugh V. Reilly, newly-elected secretary of the New Jersey Federation of Labor, speaking at two mass meetings of textile strikers, told the workers present that his state federation had sent out an appeal to local unions all over the state asking for financial aid for the strikers.

30 Years Behind Time.

"This struggle is already thirty years behind time," said Mr. Reilly. "It should have been fought to the finish years ago. There is no need to postpone it longer."

Assuring the strikers that organized labor of the whole country is in back of them, Mr. Reilly urged them to stick out their fight to the end.

John J. Connelly, general organizer for the International Machinists' Union, and Robert Dunn, of the American Civil Liberties Union, also addressed the strikers.

Gustav Deak, president of Local 1603, United Textile Workers, the strikers' organization, told how the relief committee had succeeded in beating mill owners' efforts to have their credit at wholesalers cut off. The mill owners' action would have seriously hampered the distribution of food and supplies to the strikers thru the relief committee's stores.

Passaic Authorities Continue Support to Brutal Strike Cops

PASSAIC, N. J., Oct. 20.—Taxpayers of Garfield, N. J., are still to be made to pay out their money to help break the textile strike, at a meeting of the Garfield city council held this week $17,500 was appropriated "for the added needs of the departments under the supervision of the safety committee, of which Jack More is chairman."

This extra appropriation, says the Passaic Daily News, "was necessary because of the increase in the police department since February, due to the strike and the disorders."

Councilman Joseph Quinlivan introduced a motion asking for the discharge of the special police officers, but the motion was lost. There are ten of these strike-breaking cops on the Garfield police force.

Missionaries Released.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—The three American missionaries, Karl Beck of Philadelphia, Misses Well of Philadelphia and Lydia Koehhe of Cleveland, held prisoners by Chinese bandits for 18 days, were released without payment of ransom, according to a dispatch to the state department from American Consul Vincent at Changsha.

"PEACEFUL REVOLUTION" THRU EMPLOYE STOCK OWNERSHIP SHOWN AS IMPOSSIBLE MYTH BY FIGURES

By LELAND OLDS, Federated Press.

In the 6 or 8 years since American corporations began pushing employe stock-ownership schemes the workers have purchased less than 1¼% of the outstanding stock of the country's corporations. At that rate how long before they purchase the 50% necessary for an equal share in control? The answer is, somewhat over 2 centuries provided there's no joker.

Workers have acquired thru these schemes stocks with a market value somewhat over $700,000,000, according to estimates compiled at Princeton university. The estimated value of the capital stock of all American corporations is about $65,000,000,000.

Same Exact Data.

The New York Trust Co. has made a study of 32 large corporations which have been pushing employe stock-ownership. It finds that $18,497 employes of these companies hold 4,388,470 shares of stock, with a market value of $364,982,823.

American Telephone & Telegraph Co. leads with 97,000 employes who have purchased stock. These 87,000 own 553,000 shares, with a market value of about $80,000,000. But this is less than 4% of the company's outstanding stock.

Gary May Be "An Employe."

Gary's big anti-union U. S. Steel Corp. reports 47,647 employes owning 785,801 shares (8.8%) with a market value of about $100,000,000. The steel trust does not state whether Gary himself is included among the employes.

The figures for the other 20 corporations are:

| Employe Stock-Ownership | Employe | Shares Held | Approx. Value | Approx. Pct. of Total Stock |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Armour & Co. | 40,000 | 70,000 | $ 6,562,500 | 4.4% |
| Brooklyn-Manh. Transit | 10,609 | 15,000 | 956,000 | 1.5 |
| Bethlehem Steel | 9,609 | 35,540 | 3,554,000 | 1.3 |
| Brooklyn Edison Co. | 910 | 9,112 | 1,389,500 | 1.2 |
| Elec. Storage Battery | 4,111 | 14,506 | 1,243,300 | 1.8 |
| Fleischmann, Co. (yeast) | 2,325 | 808,600 | 41,750,000 | 18.0 |
| General Motors Corp. | 6,919 | 24,998 | 3,000,000 | 0.5 |
| Doherty & Co. (utility) | 7,903 | ..... | 6,752,582 | ..... |
| Intl. Harvester Co. | 13,500 | 140,000 | 14,000,000 | 8.6 |
| Intl. Paper Co. | 2,000 | 5,000 | 720,000 | 1.4 |
| Lehigh Coal & Navig. | 282 | 2,388 | 119,400 | 0.4 |
| Lehigh Valley R. R. | 3,111 | 10,539 | 959,000 | 0.9 |
| New York Central | 37,915 | 64,430 | 6,443,000 | 1.7 |
| Pennsylvania R. R. | 19,062 | 88,885 | 4,856,300 | 0.9 |
| Pub. Serv. Corp. N. J. | 6,500 | 72,500 | 3,400,000 | 2.3 |
| Radio Corp. of America | 443 | 42,000 | 310,000 | 1.5 |
| Standard Oil of N. J. | 16,358 | 884,902 | 40,000,000 | 3.3 |
| Standard Oil of Ind. | 17,325 | 371,426 | 24,150,000 | 4.1 |
| Standard Oil of N. Y. | 7,063 | 126,683 | 4,212,200 | 1.1 |
| Swift & Co. | 15,500 | 200,000 | 20,000,000 | 13.3 |

Less Than Four Per Cent.

Altogether the employes of corporations which have made special efforts to sell stock to their workers hold less than 4% of the combined outstanding capital stock. In many instances there are stockholders of great wealth whose single holdings are larger than the combined holdings of the employes. And it is impossible to determine just how many of these employe shares belong to real wage earners since many companies like Standard Oil and General Motors make special efforts to sell stock to the high salaried officials to give them a sense of partnership.

"Peaceful Revolution" a Myth.

But the real joker in this scheme to get the worker's cooperation by giving him the illusion of sharing in ownership is something else again. In 1925 corporations added $1,310,976,000 to their outstanding capital stock. Thus in a single year the corporate stock expanded nearly twice the entire amount purchased by employes in all the years since the stockownership racket began.

At that rate not even our great great great grandchildren will catch up with the privileged owning class in order to complete Prof. Carver's dream of a peaceful revolution.

FORMER LEWIS STRONGHOLD WON BY OPPOSITION

Miners' Local Cheers Brophy's Message

(special to The Daily Worker)

BROWNSVILLE, Pa., Oct. 20.—At a meeting of Local Union No. 2230, United Mine Workers of America, District 5, an opposition slate has been nominated. Formerly this local was a stronghold of reaction but no more.

Fred Siders, opposition candidate, was nominated to run against Pat Fagan for district president. J. Sosenky is the opposition candidate for vice-president.

Andy Hornik was nominated for board member against Hains by a vote of 34 to 15.

A letter from John Brophy outlining his platform for his candidacy for president against John L. Lewis was read and applauded vigorously. The probability that Brophy and the entire slate will defeat Lewis in the coming election has instilled fresh enthusiasm into the miners here.

Cleveland to See Big Labor Movie of Famed Passaic Mill Strike

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Oct. 20.—The great textile strike of 1926, the struggles between the workers and the police, in which mounted and armed police rode into and fired on the crowds of strikers, and firemen turned fire-hoses full force on the picket lines; the suffering and privation that the strikers have endured, the splendid spirit of solidarity that they have displayed; the tremendous mass meetings of the strikers, the relief kitchens and relief headquarters which have dispensed aid daily to the workers in their nine-months' struggle, the picket lines of men, women, and children; all these pictures have been made into a graphic record of the most moving event in working class history of America in the last few years.

The "Passaic Textile Strike" is a thrilling moving picture showing conditions in the textile strike of the country. All Cleveland workers will be glad to learn that the film is to be shown in Cleveland on Friday, Oct. 22, at Engineers' Auditorium, Ontario and St. Clair Aves. All workers should see this picture, not only to learn the truth about the strike, but to be able to help the strikers in their fight. There will be two showings of the film, at 7:00 p. m. and 9:00 p. m. All workers are invited.

WCFL Radio Program

Chicago Federation of Labor radio broadcasting station WCFL is on the air with regular programs. It is broadcasting on a 491.5 wave length from the Municipal Pier.

NEW INJUNCTION ISSUED AGAINST HARTFORD UNION

Second Order of Court Against Upholsterers

HARTFORD, Conn., Oct. 17—(By Mail.)—Another injunction has been served on Upholsterers' Local 35 of Hartford. The Acme Upholstering company, following the example of the Dworkin company, has obtained an injunction against the strikers.

An Injunction Factory.

Judge Marvian of the superior court of Connecticut has opened a wholesale injunction factory, prohibiting the workers from organizing any of their supposed constitutional rights.

Altho the pickets have been continually insulted by the bosses, they have conducted themselves in an orderly manner.

Union a Conspiracy.

This last injunction states that the workers have been forced into the union and that the union is a conspiracy against the bosses. The fact appears that the conspiracy is between the capitalist courts and the bosses against the workers.

The injunction prohibits the workers or their associates from picketing, talking or visiting the workers at their homes, and is an open challenge to organized labor of Hartford.

The workers of Hartford and Springfield who gathered here last night pledged that they would stick solid and fight the injunction on the picket line—that being the place where strikes are won or lost.

The International Labor Defense is calling a meeting to protest the use of injunctions in this strike.

Following the meeting, the strikers held a dance and had a wonderful time while the bosses were worrying about their piled up orders.

Big K. C. Meeting for Anti-Imperialists Despite Opposition

By HUGH OEHLER.

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 20.—Over 400 Mexicans and Americans attended the meeting held here under the auspices of the Anti-Imperialist League to hear speakers discuss the controversy of the state and church in Mexico. L. Lopez Montero, Mexicon consul; Professor Ezequas Madrigal and Edwin Hankins spoke. The enthusiasm for the anti-imperialist program was rounded with loud applause.

The meeting was held at 234 and Summit, one block from the catholic church, where a lawn social was held with free ice cream. A Mexican orchestra promised to play for the meeting and when the hour was growing late and no orchestra appeared, one of the men connected with the orchestra left to see what had heppened to the music.

He returned to inform us that the orchestra, or most of the players, were at the church and two of the orchestra's leading players were drunk in the basement.

In spite of the opposition of the combination of the catholic church and local protestant papers, the meeting was a success, a real demonstration of nearly half a thousand men and women who were with the speakers from beginning to end.

Famous Detroit String Quartet to Play for Passaic Relief, Oct. 26

DETROIT, Mich., October 20.—The Detroit String Quartet will play at the concert arranged for Tuesday evening, October 26, at the Majestic Theater, Woodward near Willis, for the benefit of the Passaic textile strikers.

It is composed of the four leading musicians of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra, each of whom has been widely acclaimed.

Ilya Schkolnik, the leader of the quartet, has been hailed as one of the most notable of the younger violinists. New York critics have been unanimous in praise of his beautiful tone, large technical equipment, and poetic appreciation. He is now the first violinist of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra.

The other members of the quartet—William Graing King, second violin; Vaibert P. Coffey, viola; Georges Miquelle, cello—are all well-known musicians of distinction.

The quartet will play Beethoven's Quartette in G major, and several numbers by Russian composers.

The concert is held under the auspices of the Detroit Conference for the Relief of the Passaic Textile Strikers. Tickets may be obtained in advance at 55 Adelaide street and 1949 Grand River avenue, Detroit; also at Yemans Hall and Grayling Hall, Hamtramck.

POLITICAL WAR RAGES BETWEEN DEMS AND REPS

Both Sets of Plute Tools Talk Victory

BOSTON, Mass., Oct. 20.—The struggle between William M. Butler, right-hand man of Calvin Coolidge, and David I. Walsh for the United States senatorship for Massachusetts has now entered on its last lap.

Butler, a large mill owner, is basing his campaign on the alleged prosperity that the Coolidge administration has brought to the country.

Walsh, corporation lawyer and willing tool of the biggest interests in Massachusetts, expects to make the senate on the anti-prohibition issue.

Farmers Satisfied With Cidar.

The mealy-mouthing, cider-drinking citizens of the country are expected to vote for more and better moonshine while the city folk would like to bring back the old days when they could associate the polished mahogany and swat stories and schooners of beer.

Neither candidate mentions the issue between the capitalists and the workers.

Wild Cat Not So Wild.

DES MOINES, Iowa, Oct. 20.—All is harmony between Smith Wildman Brookhart, former wild man of the G. O. P. and the republican state committee in Iowa.

Brookhart is running for the senate against Claude R. Porter, democrat, and should be an easy winner unless there is dirty work done at the crossroads. Which is quite likely.

Republicans Uneasy.

Even tho the republicans have buried the hatchet of discord with Brookhart there are still uneasy tremors in the G. O. P. anatomy and it is not at all improbable that they prefer a steady democrat to the rather politically erratic Brookhart.

As in Massachusetts, Iowa labor in the country has never managed to send up anything stronger than a puny squeak.

Zimmerman Charged With Klanism.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Oct. 20.—The charge that Fred D. Zimmerman, candidate of the regular G. O. P. organization for governor is a member of the ku klux klan created a sensation in political quarters here yesterday.

It appears that Zimmerman in view of his victory over the LaFollette machine in the primaries has felt his way sufficiently to bare over the traces and try his hand at winning control of the state machine.

May Have Rough Going.

Governor John J. Blaine is the regular candidate for United States senator. It looked like easy sailing for the governor until it was announced that Zimmerman threw his support to the independent candidate, Charles D. Ross.

Zimmerman denies that he ever was a member of the K. K. K., but it is hard indeed to find a klansman who will testify in favor of Blaine has located two kluzers who have sworn to the necessary papers.

As in other states labor is almost silent in Wisconsin.

GARY MEET OPENS TOUR OF CHARLES CLINE FOR I. L. D.

GARY, Ind., Oct. 20.—The tour of Charles Cline, recently released from a 13-year prison term in Texas for participation in the Mexican revolutionary movement, opened with a successful meeting in the great steel center of Gary, Indiana. Over three hundred workers packed the hall to the walls to greet the liberated rebel and hear him tell the story of the struggle for Mexican freedom and of his years in a capitalist prison.

In his talk Cline related the history of the case in which he, Captain Jose M. Rangel and a number of other Mexican rebels were involved, and traced the steps in the persecution and prosecution of these men who had organized a group to carry on the fight against Mexican tyranny. He pointed out that only after they had served terms of thirteen years in prison did the governor finally release them, saying that they had committed no crime, but had done only what those fighters for Texan independence, Bowie, Travis and Crockett, were famous for doing.

The audience, in which there were numbers of Mexican workers, listened intently and cheered frequently.

Cline appealed to the workers to join with International Labor Defense, under those auspices the meeting was held, to secure the release of dozens of other class war prisoners still in prison. A good collection was taken up.

Another good meeting to welcome Charles Cline once more into the movement was held in the nearby city of Hammond, Ind.

The next meetings of Charles Cline, according to the national office of International Labor Defense, will be held in Racine, Grand Rapids and in Flint, Michigan. He then proceeds eastward toward New York. Enthusiastic meetings are being prepared in all the centers to welcome Cline.

By Upton Sinclair

(Copyright, 1926, by Upton Sinclair)

It was one of the weekly bulletins of the "Improve America League," a propaganda organization of the business men of Angel City. It explained how they had their agents at work in colleges and high schools, training students to watch their teachers and fellow students, and report any signs of the red menace. The league boasted its fund of a hundred and sixty thousand dollars a year for the next five-years. So here was another chunk of reality, falling with a dull sickening thud upon the head of a young idealist! Bunny sat, running over in his mind the members of the little group. "Who could it be?"

Said Mr. Irving: "Some one who was very 'red,' you can be sure. That is how it works—a man is looking for something to report, and when it's too slow making its appearance, he's tempted to help it along. So the spy almost always becomes a provocateur. You can tell him by the fact that he talks a lot and does nothing—he can't afford to have it said that he was a leader."

"By God!" cried Bunny. "He promised to help us sell those papers, and then he didn't show up!"

"Who is that?"

"Billy George. We never could be red enough to suit him! He was the cause of that fool poem of Peter Nagle's going into the paper. And now he's dropped clean out—he wasn't mentioned in the scandal."

Mr. Irving smiled. "Well, Ross, you've seen the white terror in action! You'll find it helps you to understand world history. Fortunately, you're rich, so it was just a joke. But don't forget—if you'd been a poor Russian Jew in the slums, you'd be in jail now, with ten thousand dollars bail, and ten or twenty years in state's prison for your destiny. If you had happened to live in Poland or Finland or Roumania, you and all your little bunch would have been buried in one muddy trench a week ago!"

CHAPTER XII
The Siren
I.

Springtime had come again, and Bunny was finishing his second year at Southern Pacific. But the bloom was now worn off the peach; he no longer took the great institution at its own valuation. He knew that the courses were dull, and that they taught you masses of facts of little importance, and were afraid of new and original thinking. The one thing he had got was a clue to some worthwhile books; he wanted to read them—but you could do that better at home. He was debating whether he would come back next year.

Things were freer at Paradise, it seemed. Paul had gone back to work as a boss carpenter for the company; he had recovered a part of his strength and was making good money—building labor was scarce, because the country was making up for the lost construction of war time. Ruth was happy again: at least three of the oil workers were in love with her, but she would think of no one but her wonderful brother. Paul was studying again; but not the biology books; all his money now went for magazines and pamphlets and books that dealt with the labor struggle. There were a good many returned soldiers with the company, some of whom had come to think about the war just as Paul did; twice a week they had regular classes, reading aloud a chapter from a book and discussing it.

So the Rascum cabin became what the Angel City newspapers were accustomed to describe as a "Bolshevik nest." Much as the hand-to-mouthmen might differ about tactics, they were a unit on the proposition that capital and labor had nothing in common but a fight. And they made no bones about saying it; they would start an argument on the job, or while a bunch of the men were eating their lunch; the echoes would spread all over the place. There were "wobblies" in the field also, you would find their literature in the bunk-houses. Dad must have known about it, but he did nothing; his men had always been free to say what they pleased, and he would take his chances. Indeed, he could hardly do anything else, while every man on the place knew that the discoverer and heir-apparent of the field was one of the "reddest" of the bunch!

Ever since the war, the union of the oil workers had been recognized and dealt with, as the government had decreed. But now the hand of Uncle Sam was beginning to relax; the idealistic President was a semi-invalid in Washington, and in Angel City the "open shop" crowd were getting ready to bring back the good old days. At least that was the rumor among the union officials, and how were they going to meet the employers' move? The wage agreements expired towards the end of the year, and this was the issue to which all the arguments of the oil workers led, whether among the "reds" in Paul's cabin, or among the rank and file. Over Bunny's head the prospect of another strike hung like a black shadow of doom.

Dad never gave up longing to have his son take an interest in the company and its growing activities. And Bunny, always aware of this loving bond, would study monthly reports of production, and cost sheets and price schedules, and go out to the wells that were drilling, and take part in long consultations with the foremen. Only a few years ago, an oil well had been to him the most interesting thing in the world; but now cruel fate had brought it about that one oil well seemed exactly like another oil well! Number 142 had brought in six hundred thousand dollars, whereas Number 143 had brought in only four hundred and fifty thousand. But what difference did it make, when all you would do with the extra hundred and fifty thousand was to drill another well?

Dad's answer was kept in stock on the shelves of his mind: "The world has got to have oil." But then, you looked at the world, and saw enormous crowds of people driving to places where they were no better off than at home! But it would annoy Dad to have you say that—it was a step outside the range of his thinking. To Bunny he now seemed like an old horse in a treadmill; he climbed and climbed, all day long, and at night he climbed in dreams. But if you should let him out of the treadmill, he would die—for lack of any reason for living.

So Bunny learned more and more to keep his traitor doubts to himself; those theories of the "class struggle" that he learned from Paul and his fellows, and the rumors of a strike that he read in the oil workers' journal. Instead, he would take Dad fishing, and they would pretend they were just as happy as of old in the bosom of their mother Nature—though the sad truth was that Dad was too heavy and too stiff in the joints to get much fun out of scrambling over the rocks.

We Stand by Our Guns

Secretary of State Kellogg, if news dispatches from Washington are to be credited, has requested the post office department to investigate THE DAILY WORKER'S treatment of the visit of Queen Marie.

THE DAILY WORKER has telegraphed to Kellogg and Postmaster New to find out upon what basis the investigation is to be made. We have, however, scarcely any doubt that the head dollar-diplomat, Mr. Kellogg, took offense at an editorial in THE DAILY WORKER entitled, "Romany Marie—American Imperialism's Hetaira," in which the queen of the ruling house of Roumania, a Hohenzollern dynasty spattered by the blood of thousands of murdered peasants and workers in old Roumania, Bessarabia and Transylvania is referred to as a "gory bitch."

THE DAILY WORKER informs both Secretary of State Kellogg and Postmaster-General New, off-hand, that it stands by this appellation. Let these lackeys of imperialism proceed against THE DAILY WORKER in defense of a representative of feudal monarchism. Let them duplicate the procedure that would most certainly be taken in the queen's country, where every working class editor stands at every hour not only to have his paper confiscated but his life menaced by the blood-thirsty "sfcuranza."

When Queen Marie landed in New York harbor, she was asked by a reporter about the persecutions of workers, peasants, and the national minorities in Roumania. The queen evaded answering this question by saying that she was not "an official personage" and could not answer political questions.

We therefore ask Secretary of State Kellogg why the Queen of Roumania is accorded the status of an "official personage" while she denies it and refuses to assume the responsibilities that ordinarily go with it? We ask Secretary of State Kellogg why he defends this representative of military despotism and white terror in the same way he would defend a foreign representative with full diplomatic standing when she refuses to accept a diplomatic status?

THE DAILY WORKER is not interested in Marie's moral character. We do not call for the bars of "mural turpitude" to be invoked against her as they were invoked against Countess Cathcart, who bears no comparison in this respect to the notorious Marie. The degeneration of King Ferdinand is a common-place in Roumania. We can think of no one who is more amendable to the charge of "moral turpitude" than a denizen of the courts of eastern Europe. But we let these things pass because THE DAILY WORKER is far more interested in the fate of thousands of suffering and persecuted workers and peasants in Roumania than it is in the personal affairs of a monarch.

THE DAILY WORKER'S interest in Queen Marie is bounded by her relationship to the people of Roumania and to the extent to which her visit here affects the activities of our own oppressors.

It is the opinion of THE DAILY WORKER that Queen Marie has come to the United States on official business of her country, despite the fact the press of the land has aided the Roumanian legation in suppressing this fact and covering it with pages of yokel-yanking publicity. In short, Queen Marie has been sent here by the Averescu government in the role of a charmer in an effort to raise money to carry Roumania thru its present economic crisis. We mention in passing that this crisis is in a large measure due to the over-militarization of Roumania.

It was because of her role as a political flirt sent to open the coffers of Wall Street with her charms that THE DAILY WORKER referred to her as "Romany Marie, American Imperialism's Hetaira," which latter word is a very succinct and apt ancient Greek expression for an idle lady of pleasure.

Before anything else, however, we have in our mind's eye the pitiful plight of the entire Roumanian population groaning under the burden of a merciless military regime; the thousands of peasant martyrs whose bodies littered the fields of Bessarabia; we hear the names of Max Goldstein and Pavel Tkatchenko, tortured to their death for their political views; and we are mindful of the thousands of political prisoners rotting in the bastiles of the Boyars. It is indeed a bloody regime that is responsible for these horrors. The titular head of this regime is Ferdinand of Hohenzollern-Sigmaringen and Marie, Duchess of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha, sits upon his left hand.

Thus THE DAILY WORKER holds Queen Marie to account for the the white terror in Roumania. In pointing the accusing finger at this female scion of autocracy, a careful search of a phrase that conveyed in the clearest and most unmistakable terms the opprobrium with which we wished to associate her name, resulted in "gory bitch." We stand by it. It's Kellogg's next move.

DEBS STILL CLINGING TO LIFE WITH NO CHANGE IN CONDITION

At 4:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon Eugene V. Debs, whose death is expected momentarily by attending physicians, was still clinging to life. The veteran fighter for the cause of the American worker has been lying unconscious in Lindlahr hospital, Elmhurst, Ill., for nearly 36 hours. There is no visible change in his condition from Tuesday, hospital officials report, but they feel that Debs has not many more hours to live.

He had been confined in the hospital for more than a week when attacked by a serious nervous breakdown. His health has been poor since his imprisonment at Atlanta in 1919 for delivering an anti-war speech.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—The tropical disturbance in the Caribbean sea is moving northwestward at the rate of 385 miles a day, the weather bureau declared today. It is of great intensity, hurricane warnings were ordered in all centers in the vicinity.

WIDOW OF PARTNER OF JOHN D. LEAVES ESTATE OF OVER $85,000,000

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—An estate valued at $86,000,000 was left by Mrs. Edward S. Harkness, widow of the late partner of John D. Rockefellar, when she died on March 27, it is revealed here in a petition filed in surrogate court.

Mrs. Harkness inherited originally $50,000,000, but her bond clippings netted $18,000,000 more.

It is estimated that the inheritance tax will be $16,000,000. Her son, Edward S. Harkness, will inherit the remainder.

HIDE TORN OFF AT SLUSH QUIZ

Agreed Anti-Salooners Are Lying Pack

according to Evans. Mayfield was a klansman, said Emmons.

Admits It is Political.

Emmons admitted, after questioning of Senator Reed, that it was the purpose of the klan to build up a huge political organization for the purpose of gaining control of the nation's political system.

Reeds Latter.

Emmons handed Senator Reed a circular letter sant to the leaders of local klans in Indiana by the grand dragon Smith early in the present campaign.

It recommended Watson as a "Protestant," a thirty-second degree Mason, and favorable to our organization program."

Reed read it aloud.

"He is dry," the letter continued.

"What does that mean?" Reed inquired.

"It meant they would go down the line for the klan," said Emmons, "and that the klan should go down the line for him."

The letter said Clarie Adams, the opponent of Watson in the republican senatorial primary, was "neutral" and ADD INDIANA KLAN 'unconvinced of our part in the life of America."

Emmons, at Reed's prompting, explained that the "neutral" meant the klansmen of Indiana should oppose Adams while supporting Watson in the republican primary.

"I notice many encomiums paid some of those men, who are called neutral'" Reed inquired. "They are called good citizens and good lawyers. Am I to understand that regardless of the fact that a man may be a high class citizen, moral, upright —and a Protestant, and he is regarded as neutral, some other man containing favorably should be supported'"

"Yes sir, we go down the line for the favorable men regardless of all other considerations," said Emmons.

Julius Rosenwald, who sat in front of Senator James A. Reed, chairman of the slush fund investigation, looked like the kind of a fellow one would offer his watch to, inside one of those emporiums with the three golden balls hanging over the entrance, and ask for a small loan to tide one over a financial crisis.

The day was yesterday in the federal building and the time was the forenoon.

Easy on Rosenwald.

The senator from Missouri had no acid verbal darts for the multi-millionaire head of the mail order house of Sears-Roebuck—though it was because he thot Julius was "rendering a public service" as those fellows say, or perhaps as some supporters of Frank L. Smith charged, he shot Rosenwald's philanthropy in supporting Hugh S. Magill, as an independent candidate for the United States senatorship from Illinois would not do George E. Brennan, democratic candidate, any harm.

There is no doubt but Mr. Rosenwald is a public spirited citizen. Just now he has the jump on Samuel Insull, another public spirited citizen. Rosenwald contributes much money to philanthropies. Insull subsidizes grand opera and builds theaters for his extress wife to star in.

Rosenwald is a little fellow, physically, and when the photographers went to "shoot" him he beamed with that kind of an attitude that said "Here is where the farmers in the wide open spaces will see my face and the house of Sears-Roebuck gets a lot of free advertising." None of this amashing of camera business for Mr. Rosenwald, the benevolent gentleman who employs thousands of workers at starvation wages.

Rosenwald Got Indignant.

The first time Rosenwald got his dander up against Frank L. Smith was when the first session of the slush investigation held in Chicago showed that Smith received such a boodle from Samuel Insull.

Now, Insull was born in England, and unless I am mistaken Rosenwald can trace his ancestry to Moses. But both are intensely patriotic and yet both see public duty in a different light.

Rosenwald recollected that Abraham Lincoln was born in the state of Illinois and decided to put in a blow for the honor of old Abe's native state. He went hunting for a candidate.

Finally he located Magill, who appears to be a man of parts with a political past. Magill is so full of public purity that he actually believes it. It took Rosenwald and many others quite a while to convince Magill that he should make the race in order to give public spirited rapublicans an opportunity to do the right thing by their consciences and by the most of them that George E. Brennen, insull's man to the tune of $15,000, may gain by their conduct.

Reed Was Amiable.

After Julius Rosenwald left the stand and was busy confronting several cameras, Hugh S. Magill was sworn. It was quite obvious that Senator Reed felt no animosity toward the Independent republican candidate for the United States senate. Magill began to talk and did it so well that it took the writer all his time to keep from getting excited

Magill is a stout man, but not too stout. The top of his head is devoid of hair like that of a monk. A natty pair of glasses from which hangs a black ribbon are perched on his nose. He wears a 22 inch collar or thereabouts. It is said that Grover Cleveland wore a twenty-two and a half inch collar and a number six hat. Small head, fat neck.

Another Henchman.

It appears that Magill was born somewhere in the vicinity of Abraham Lincoln's birthplace. Who was not? So Magill decided to run and his committee made all end sundry connected with the campaign understand that not more than $25,000 could be expended in the campaign.

"Of course," Mr. Magill hastened to assure Senator Reed, "this means exclusive of postage stamps and such expenses." The senator nodded affirmatively.

It seemed as if there was a general conspiracy at the investigation to hand the Baron Munchausen championship to George B. Setford, state chairman of the Anti-Saloon league. Everything this gentleman said was branded as a falsehood by everybody who took the witness stand. It is quite obvious that the Anti-Saloon league is not popular in Chicago. This organization has within its ranks the finest aggregation of stool pigeons in the United States.

O'Donnell on Guard.

Several Indiana politicians were present in the dingy little room on the eighth floor of the federal building where the investigation took place. There was also present P. H. O'Donnell, vataran of the Chicago bar and publisher of the now defunct anti-klan paper called Tolerance. O'Donnell was there to open his little black bag of anti-klan evidence in case the hooded order comes in for the same kind of drenching that was given to the Anti-Saloon league.

The Wooden-Legged Candidate.

As if by a miracle the name of George E. Brennan, democratic candidate, is kept out of the proceedings. George is nursing a sore wooden leg in a local hospital, while the gods under the direction of James A. Reed, senator from Missouri, are grinding out votes for him. Both Insull and Rosenwald have no reason to be sorry if Brennan is elected.

In the meanwhile the workers of Illinois are waiting for a repudiation of the candidacy of Frank L. Smith by John H. Walker, president of the Illinois Federation of Labor and his executive board.

to be fools. Not because a Santa Claus will leave brains in our socks some night but because necessity will compel us to organize our forces to get what we need and what we are entitled to. Can you, executive of an American workingclass, educated to their own interests, patting up with the nauseating adulation that is showered on Marie of Roumania, a woman who is so far beneath the most careless lady of easy virtue who solicits patronage of men of equally easy virtue, that to get to her would require the services of a diamond drill?

THIS is what is happening. Our labor leaders wear diamonds on their shirt fronts and keep real estate agents busy canvassing the possibilities of Florida, aves after the cyclone. They visit military training camps and massage their foreheads on the sidewalks when a gentleman of fortune approaches. An epic could be written about them if any of our professional liberal writers had an ounce of brains. They haven't. So it will not be written until a Communist novelist is delivered from the womb of the American workingclass movement. Nature only knows when he will appear but he is coming.

ALL these things happen in the United States and yet the course of human progress goes on its way. The man who believes capitalism will give him a job because he is a freeborn American is just the kind of a fellow who would say that the queen of Roumania deserves what is coming to her because she has the ability of a loan shark. Anybody who was ever compelled to pawn his furniture will remember with what an ingratiating smile the pawnbroker received him. But should he happen to drop behind in his payments watch that gentleman's lips. Marie wants money so she smiles for it.

EUGENE V. DEBS is dying—so the reports say. Every American workingman who has a spark of manhood in him should be sorry. Because there is nobody in this country whose name is so synonomous with rebellion against the capitalist system than the name of Gene Debs. As a Communist I have to say that Debs could not see eye to eye with the party but I do not think that anybody ever doubted the honesty of this valiant battler for the workingclass. We hope he survives his present illness. And we would like to see him live until the day the American workingclass began to show an indication that they were to break with the system he fought during his life.

ROCK BRITISH EMPIRE MEET

Hertzog of So. Africa Asks Independence

LONDON, Oct. 20.—The first article of many that are expected to rock the British empire conferences now in session in London was in evidence as Premier Hertzog of South Africa declared that his dominion insists upon an independence that will be recognized in unmistakable terms by not only England, but the other nations of the world.

Mackenzie King contributed his share to the difficulties of Foreign Minister Chamberlain and Premier Baldwin when he told the conference that it must not overlook the difference of outlook that characterized each of the dominions as apart from each other and England.

Imposing Delegations.

The heads of the dominion governments in attendance at the conference are accompanied by rather imposing delegations which seem to indicate that they mean business. The leaders of the various delegations are:

Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin of Great Britain, presiding; Mackenzie King of Canada; Bruce of Australia, Coates of New Zealand; Hertzog of South Africa; Monroe of Newfound land; William Cosgrave, president of the executive council of the Irish Free State, and the Maharajah of Burdwan for India.

Hertzog's Challenge.

Speaking for South Africa Premier Hertzog said: "We are anxious to promote good will, but we can only do so if we can feel implicit faith in full and free nationhood upon the basis of equality of every other member of the commonwealth South Africa does not possess that faith today, but she shall possess it the moment her independent status ceases to be a matter of dispute and has become internationally recognized."

The real fireworks are expected tomorrow when Chamberlain makes his report on the policies of the British foreign office with regard to the empire.

every effort will be made to augment the picket line, it is stated

Chairmen of settled shops, representing 10,000 workers who have returned to work on union terms, will meet within 24 hours to devise methods for additional aid to men and women still on strike. Those back at work are already contributing 20 per cent of their wages to the strike benefit fund.

Enlist All Labor.

The executive committee of the general strike committee discussed plans for enlisting actively 100 per cent the American labor movement which is already contributing to the support of the cloakmakers. It is felt that the action taken at the recent American Federation of Labor conference in Detroit calling on all international labor bodies to support the strike and protest against the cloakmakers' injunction will give impetus to this phase of the garment workers' efforts to win their strike.

Cops Invade Restaurants.

The police were charged by the union with invading restaurants in the garment zone and arresting strikers at breakfast in order to bring in a quota of pickets at the usual Monday morning picket demonstration. Seven pickets arrested in this fashion Monday were dismissed by Magistrate Wall in Jefferson Market Court. Ten other pickets were fined $10 each on charges of disorderly conduct.

The strikers' out of town committee yesterday announced the closing of the Victory Cloak Shop in New Brunswick, N. J., where 60 nonunion workers had been employed. The campaign to prevent nonunion production ont of town was renewed following the breakdown of peace negotiations.

to Annapolis and reviewed the cadets of the naval training academy. Protected by a canopy, the royal lady watched the "future admirals" of the navy of Wall Street parade in the rain and mud on review—the first occasion upon which a reigning foreign monarch has ever reviewed an American military unit on United States soil.

Baltimore, Maryland, is next expected to see the queen. She is bound back to New York, ostensibly to receive an "official" welcome, but actually to be near Wall Street, the real center of her interest on a journey that has as its main mission the raising of a loan for the poverty-stricken oligarchy of Roumania.

Eugene V. Debs—Hail and Farewell!

A Statement on His Death by the International Labor Defense

THE militant labor movement, of which the International Labor Defense is a part, mourne tday the death of Eugene V. Debs.

The cause of the class war prisoners suffers an especially heavy loss in the death of Comrade Debs. His name is linked with every labor defense struggle that took place during his life of activity in the labor movement. The prisoner of Woodstock and Atlanta was close kin to all persecuted and imprisoned workers. Comrade Debs was not one of those who shrug shoulders at the imprisonment of workers as tho it were a matter of small conodrn. He burned with indignation at every case of capitalist persecution and was always in the vanguard of the fight for its victims, whoever they might be and whatever their political views or affiliations.

He rose above the narrow partisanship that seeks to destroy the spirit of unity and solidarity in the labor defense movement. Althe a member of the socialist party, he had nothing in common with these elements represented by the Jewish Daily Forward who fire from ambush at the movement for united labor defense. He helped to build where they try to disrupt. His consistent stand for unity and solidarity on this issue is the strongest rebuke to them.

Comrade Debs rendered great service to the International Labor Defense. He hailed its formation as a big step forward towards unity of all forces in the fight for the class war prisoners and became a member of the National Committee, serving until his death. He responded generously to the many calls made upon him by the International Labor Defense, despite the constant sickness that harassed him, and frequently reiterated his endorsement of its work. His appeal to the American workers in behalf of Sacco and Vanzetti, his last public document, was written for the International Labor Defense during his last illness.

Eugene V. Debs left to the workers' movement a life record of unceasing struggle on the side of the oppressed, of dauntless spirit and careless disregard for personal rewards or hazards. It is a priceless heritage. That heritage belong to the revolutionary workers. Let them claim it for their own.

Today the grief of the militant workers is heavy indeed, but the grave of Comrade Debs is not the place for tears. He was a warrior and at his grave we raise a battle cry and begin again the forward march.

International Labor Defense,
James P. Cannon, Secretary.

Current Events

By T. J. O'FLAHERTY

BECAUSE The DAILY WORKER called Queen Marie of Roumania a "gory bitch" our secretary of state, Mr. Kellogg, called on the postoffice department to take appropriate action. Now this is interesting. It is generally known on the continent of Europe that Marie has kept the home fires burning for several years by playing at the oldest profession, in a highly proper and queenly manner. Of course this is nothing out of the ordinary for queens. So much so that the word worked itself into the vernacular in the United States.

BUT anyhow it is rather like Kellogg to swallow the queen of Roumania and her reputation at one release a visa to the perfectly decent Countess Karolyi on the ground that she was a moral turp. Her turpitude consisted in her opposition to the dictator, Horthy, who was the pet of one of the Vanderbilt girls, who married a Hungarian count without ever counting the cost in dollars. So it is not surprising that this hedge diplomat, Kellogg, should feel offended because we tell the truth about the parasite queen.

AN imperial conference is now taking place in London. Representatives of Canada, South Africa, Ireland, Australia, New Zealand and India are there. Perhaps more. The important feature of the gathering is that it should take place at all. It shows that the empire is weakening. The dominions are looking for more elbow space and they are going to get it. For the very good reason that the empire cannot avoid it.

IN all probability the representatives of the rebellious dominions will not push the issues at stake. They are what need to be called time-serving politicians. But the people who elected them will have something to say about, it and if they come back clutching empty pockets there will be the deuce to pay. England is fast losing her world commercial dominance and her present fondling of the dominions can be attributed to the necessity for her to make a family commercial affair of dominion trade. But there are reactions even in families, and people buy where they can get the best bargains.

EUGENE V. DEBS DIES AFTER LONG ILLNESS, AGE 70

A. R. U. Strike Veteran Is Mourned by Labor

Eugene V. Debs, national chairman of the socialist party, is dead as a result of the ravages of a disease of the heart that was intensified by over two years' imprisonment in a capitalist penitentiary.

Debs, his gaunt frame all but a shadow, a faint smile parting his lips, breathed his last Wednesday evening at Lindlahr Sanitarium, Elmhurst, Ill.

Debs had gone to Elmhurst several weeks ago for rest to recuperate from a nervous breakdown caused by a heart illness of long standing and a kidney disease. If he had lived he would have been 71 years old on November 5.

At his bedside when the end came were his wife, Katherine, his faithful partner and brother, Theodore and two sisters. Messages of condolence began pouring into the bereaved relatives from all over the country when the sad news became known.

Eugene Victor Debs was born at Terre Haute, Ind., November 5, 1855, a son of Daniel and Marguerite Bettedorf.

Mexican Presidents May Serve a Second Term if Law Passes

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 21.—A bill before the chamber of deputies provides that a former president may serve a second time if there is an interval of four years or more between terms.

This bill is backed by friends of General Obregon, who has served one term. It would make the present president, Plutarco F. Calles, also eligible for re-election in 1932. But the Obregonistas are most active behind the bill, which would counteract the law against re-election of presidents.

This law arose from bitter opposition to the custom of reactionary President Diaz to have himself reselected by control of elections. Obregon has so far not consented to run, and it is believed he will favor the candidacy of Francisco Serrano, former minister of war, now governor of the federal district.

NEW YORK, Oct. 21. —(FP) The A. F. of L.; the New York State Federation of Labor; the New York State Medical Society, the Associated Industries and the New York department of Labor will take part in the Tenth Annual Safety Congress that meets at Rochester, November 29, for four days' sessions.

The Congress will be faced with the rise of state industrial accidents to 48,653 last August, a gain of 10,000 over the preceding August and with the increase of building construction fatalities from 143, the first six months of 1924 to 220, the first six months of 1926.

Foster to Write for Daily Worker on— STRIKE STRATEGY!

THE DAILY WORKER announces that it will soon offer to its readers a series of articles by William Z. Foster, secretary of the Trade Union Educational League and famous strike leader, upon one of the subjects most vital and interesting to militant workers, the subject of strike strategy.

Never before has this subject been dealt with in a comprehensive manner. In fact it has never been dealt with as a subject in itself in a way to bring home to the leadership of the labor movement, the methods of strike direction which are effective in attack and defense, and in all the manifold circumstances surrounding strikes—the very heart and center of the class struggle.

The articles by Foster will be an invaluable contribution to the labor movement, and every DAILY WORKER booster should make a special argument for subscriptions to those who understand the value of a full exposition of strike strategy. These articles will begin in a few days. Rush in your subscriptions so as not to miss one of them.

150 PICKETS REFUSE FINE; CHOOSE JAIL

Fighting Cloakmakers Show Militancy

(Special to The Daily Worker)

NEW YORK CITY, Oct. 21.—The practice of the New York police and courts of herding hundreds of the striking garment workers into courts and draining the union treasury with fines, was met Tuesday by the militant spirit of 150 pickets rounded up by the police. These 150 men and women refused to pay fines, or to allow the union to pay them, and accepted the honor of one day in jail or the alternate penalty.

Mass meetings of the strikers are being held daily in several halls, and the cloakmakers are demonstrating their determination to stick to the picket lines until victory.

Close Scab Vest.

The out-of-town committee has announced the closing of a scab shop in Youngsville, N. Y., run by Reisman and Cant doing work for the Arden company, prominent jobbers of New York City. Reisman and Cant conduct two resort hotels at Youngsville to board the scabs.

General strike committee yesterday replied to the industrial Council, saying:

Bosses Never Intended to Settle.

"Before we came into the conference, we were informed by the mediators that the manufacturers had agreed to certain conditions made by the union. But they came, as we soon found out, with no intention of keeping to the agreement. The manufacturers, however, went thru the motions in order to keep in line a number of their members, who in place of a general settlement, are threatening to settle with us on their own. As a result of the failure of the conference, we predict that these manufacturers will soon break away and settle."

Grand Jury Probe Talked Of.

In reply to reports that the bosses were trying to get a grand jury investigation of the "illegal activities" of the 40,000 strikers, the strike committee declared:

"If there is to be a grand jury investigation of the strike, it may as well inquire into the underworld elements employed by the manufacturers who beat up our pickets. Incidentally, it might also inquire into circumstances under which beds have been fixed up in scab shops, in which men and women sleep in violation of the penal code and in flagrant violation of all conception of decency."

I. R. T. STRIKE LEADERS URGE N. Y. WORKERS TO REPUDIATE TAMMANYISM

(Special to The Daily Worker)

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—An appeal to all workers of New York to repudiate Tammany Hall for its action during the I. R. T. strike by shunning Tammany candidates—including Al Smith—was issued by the leaders of the strike, E. P. Lavin and Harry Bark.

"The subway strike should be a lesson to all workers that are supporting Tammany Hall," the statement read. "Every worker ought to shun Al Smith and Walker, and the rest of these democrats who pose as friends of labor. Are they?"

They recited the attempt of Smith to make the strikers accept a compromise, the brutal police attacks inspired by Tammany, the failure of Smith or Walker to listen to unionists' appeals.

The Post Office Replies

THE postal department is trying very hard to hide the basis on which it is proceeding against The DAILY WORKER. It refuses to state directly how it is carrying out the orders of Secretary of State Kellogg that grounds for the suppression of The DAILY WORKER be found, because of its attitude toward the visit to this country of Queen Marie, of Roumania.

When it was learned that Kellogg had ordered the postal department to proceed against The DAILY WORKER, a telegram was sent to Postmaster General New, at Washington, as follows:

"Newspapers here report that Secretary of State Kellogg has instructed you to investigate material published in The DAILY WORKER regarding visit to this country by Queen Marie, of Roumania. Wire immediately on what basis investigation is being made so that we will be able to take all necessary steps to combat any charges brought against our paper."

In response to this telegram we have received the following:

"Editor, DAILY WORKER:—Your telegram of today investigation by Post Office Department of matter appearing in any publication covers question of mailability under postal laws.

"W. Irving Glover, Acting Postmaster General."

We invite our readers to translate this telegram as best they can. It doubtless means that the tired acting postmaster general wants the editor to go thru all the postal regulations and hunt up our own particular law under which we may guess that the postoffice is proceeding against us. This we refuse to do. In the meantime, we await further developments from Washington.

QUEEN REIGNS AT PLUTE BALL IN HER HONOR

Loaded With Jewels, Sits on Throne

(Special to The Daily Worker)

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—New York's plutocracy got its chance to kiss the feet of a queen Wednesday night at a select fete held in the Ritz-Carlton hotel. The huge ballroom of the ultra-elite hostelry was remodelled after an autumn forest and on a raised dais was an improvised throne upon which sat Queen Marie, loaded down with priceless jewels and giving her hand to be kissed by the adulating throng of some eight hundred of New York's idle rich.

The queen glittered with the most costly of gems. Her dress gave the impression of being made of solid silver and was weighted down with clusters of sapphires and pearls, while the queen herself, a diamond flashed from her head. As the queen glided across the hall to her throne, the society folks fairly gasped with eagerness and packed into line like a subway crowd to be "received by her majesty."

Pershing Bows.

An orchestra played the Roumanian national anthem to the strains of which many peasants have been massacred in Bessarabia and the plutocrats lined up to pay their adulations to the Hohenzollern queen. General John J. Pershing, who led the army which was said to have "fought for democracy" was one of those who seemed to be glad of the chance to bow before the queen's throne.

The queen and her royal party went on Thursday to Philadelphia to visit the sesqui-centennial which was very badly in need of an attraction to avert what have so far been poor crowds.

HEARSES, LABEN WITH SCABS ARE USED IN STRIKE

By J. O. BENTALL.

(Special to The Daily Worker)

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Oct. 21.—The funeral wagons furnished at 260 a day to haul scabs to and from the Philadelphia Carpet company shops, where a strike is on, bumped up against the pickets this morning, when the strikers tackled the Heinal Bros., 3437 N. Broad street, who use the funeral busses for scabs and corpses, making it plain to them that their business hereafter would be limited to scabs, dead or alive, and that no decent worker will consent to be hauled in their black busses even to the grave.

The sentiment against the burial wagons is growing. The Heinal crew hides the scabs under black covers after they are huddled in and speeds to the shop to unload the miserable tools that help the bosses in their attempt to break the strike and the union.

The spy system in the shop over the scabs is getting on the nerves of even

WAR VETS OBJECT TO MEMORIAL URGING NO MORE WAR IN WORLD

(Special to The Daily Worker)

PLAINFIELD, N. J., Oct. 21.—The Central Board of Veterans and Military organizations here is up in arms over the design and inscription on a proposed memorial to the soldiers that died overseas. They charge it is pacific and will have nothing to do with it.

The memorial bears the inscription: "They shall beat their swords into ploughshares and their spears into pruning hooks—nation shall not lift up sword against nation, neither shall they learn war any more."

The patriots charge that the memorial is designed in praise for the Prophet Isaiah, and is pacifist propaganda. The city here appropriated $50,000 for the stone.

PLAN WAR ON SOVIET, SAYS VOROSHILOFF

World Capitalism Plots Attacks on U. S. S. R.

(Special to The Daily Worker)

MOSCOW, Oct. 21.—Declaring that information in the hands of the Soviet Union shows that the capitalist nations are secretly planning for war upon the workers' and peasants' republic, and that the armed attack on a broad scale is set by world capitalism to begin in the near future, Clementi Voroshiloff, Soviet commissar for war, urged 6,000 soldier-workman graduates from the Red Army academy here "to prepare to meet the future."

"We passionately desire peace," said Voroshiloff, "but we have no doubt that we are going to be attacked. The facts at our disposal prove that the war against us will be started with any small excuse.

Imperialist Rivalry a Factor.

"If until now we have NOT had a direct attack upon our workers' and peasants' republic, it can be explained by many reasons; by the existing differences between the imperialists themselves in general and in especial the differences between England and France on the one hand, and between England and America on the other.

An Insufficient Guarantee.

"There exists one important factor which hinders the imperialists from warring upon us. This is the workers' movement in the West, strengthened by the nationalist revolutionary movement in the East. But all that is an insufficient guarantee against the coming menace of a military conflict.

Communist Party United.

"Our enemies say that the Communist Party is disintegrating and that therefore the Soviet government will not be able to continue to exist, that the crash will come today or tomorrow. There is no necessity to pause long on these false and fantastic expectations. Our party was, is and will remain monolithic and united."

Commissar Voroshiloff praised the Red Army highly.

DRAGON DUMPED FOR NOT AIDING WATSON'S CROWD

Senator Claims That He Is Sick and in Bed

The Indiana slush fund hearing will be transferred to Indianapolis as a result of a telegraphic appeal from Senator James E. Watson, republican, of Indiana, for a personal hearing to refute the charges made against him, Senator Reed announced at the opening of yesterday's afternoon session. Watson's telegram declared the Indiana senator was bed-fast in an Indianapolis hospital and asked Reed to come to that city even if the hearing had to be held in the hospital. Watson and his machine are in a panic over the turn events are taking.

Fresh revelations of the Ku Klux Klan's domination of the state of Indiana and its influence upon national politics were bared by Walter F. Bossert, former vice-president of the National Klan and former grand dragon in Indiana.

Hugh Patrick Emmons, former cyclops at South Bend, resumed the stand, as the first witness, long enough to hand Reed a mass of klan documents. The senator then excused the South Bend man until he had time to study the documents.

Bossert, a lawyer from Liberty, Ind., asked the witness to be frank.

"It has been said here that you were forced out because you would not support a certain candidate for the senate?" Reed said. "Why not be frank with us?"

"I always stood for principles and not individuals," Bossert evaded.

"There was no one in the klan who could force me out, but they could remove me. I wanted to resign in September, 1925, and my resignation was accepted in January."

"Now come on and tell us about it," Reed pleaded.

Bossert then said he had gotten into a number of disputes over his belief that the klan should only support principles and issues, but not individuals. He added that D. C. Stephenson, the predecessor of the Indiana grand dragon, had insisted on a policy of supporting famed individuals.

Watson Made Deal.

An interesting story of how "gosslp" in Washington held that Senator Watson had made a deal with the klan to support Senator Earl B. Mayfield, democrat of Texas, in return for the klan's support in his own campaign for re-election was told the committee by Robert W. Lyons, an Indianapolis attorney and former member of the imperial klan.

Lyons said he had discussed this "gossip" with Everett Saunders, secretary to President Coolidge in 1924, while the latter was a member of congress, and that Saunders had denounced the rumor as "ridiculous."

An Evasive Witness.

Bossert proved an unwilling and evasive witness. Reed spent a long time getting any information from him.

Bossert replied he "thought" he had introduced Watson to William H. Zumbrunn klan political expert. At the time, he said, Zumbrunn was attorney for Senator Earl B. Mayfield, democrat of Texas, whose seat was being contested in the senate.

"I think I introduced Senator Watson and Weiler, republican of Maryland to Zumbrunn."

Senator Watson was on the senate committee handling the Mayfield case, wasn't he?"

"Yes."

Dragon Now Democrat.

Reed developed the fact that the present grand dragon of the Indiana klan, W. Lee Smith, is a democrat. Bossert declared he did not believe that Smith sent out literature urging the klan to support Watson. When Reed showed him the documents delivered by Hugh Pat Emmons, former exalted cyclops, containing instructions to vote for the Watson machine, Bossert had to admit that Smith, the erstwhile democrat was lining up the klansmen for Watson, the republican.

Clyde A. Walb, republican state chairman charged that a group of eastern pacifists and slush fund of $3,000,000 to beat Watson and Robinson. The klan pretends to be against the world court and the league of nations.

Walb played on Reed's antipathy to the world court and posed as a bona fide follower of George Washington. He admitted that James A. Patten, the wheat king, sent $5,000 to the Watson-Robinson campaign fund and that Charles Piez, manufacturer and notorious open shopper sent $750.00. Both are from Illinois.

...TTEN MILK IS FORCED ON GOTHAM POOR

Campaign Brings Out Adulterations

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—Charges that New York's milk supply is being adulterated and that millions of quarts of bad milk are being sold to poor families are being made by Ogden L. Mills.

Mills declares that this matter has been brought to the attention of Smith, but the governor has refused to take any steps.

The Bronx and Queens are especially flooded with the impure milk, he said.

Samples Tested.

Out of 47 samples of milk sent into the Bronx that were tested by a reputable laboratory, 35 came back labeled as failing to come up to the standards of the New York City sanitary code. This is particularly true of milk offered to the poorer classes, he charged.

In Queens 40 samples of milk in widely separated districts were taken, and only one was found to even approximate the city standards, which are the minimum. The condition of the samples, he said, violated 101 separate provisions of the code.

How Come?

Mills wants to know how Smith reconciled his "love for the poor people" with this rottenness and corruption in the milk supply of the poor families.

Two Surgeons Killed.

MONTREAL, Oct. 21.—Two veterinary surgeons, Dr. Honorius Anbry and Dr. F. M. Eckert, field inspectors of the federal department of agriculture, were instantly killed by the Canadian Pacific Railroad's Montreal-Toronto flyer at St. Emmanel, 31 miles from this city.

MANUFACTURERS ENTHUSED OVER GUNS, BOMBS, ETC., THE U. S. IS PREPARING FOR THE COMING WAR

By LAURENCE TODD, Federated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—(FP)—Preparedness for war was demonstrated to big manufacturers and their technical experts at the eighth annual meeting of the Army Ordnance Association by the ordnance department of the army at the Aberdeen proving ground on Oct. 8. The Aberdeen ground is on the Maryland bank of the Potomac, below the capitol.

Capitalists There in Force.

With the Ordnance Association were gathered representatives of the National Association of Manufacturers, the National Industrial Conference Board, the Reserve Officers' Association of the United States, and the American Society for Steel Treating.

The show arranged for these guests was designed to cover the latest models of artillery, tractors, anti-aircraft devices, gas bombs, etc. On the official program was printed the jigsaw of the A. O. A.—"Pledged to industrial preparedness for War as the strongest guaranty of Peace."

Ford and Coits Together.

Manufacturers who had exhibits on the field were the Ford, General Motors, Dodge Bros., Packard, Mead-Morrison, International Harvester and Caterpillar Tractors, Inc., concerns represented by tractors, trucks and engines; the Colt's Fire Arms company represented by machine guns, and the DuPont de Nemours by flashless powder. All of the government arsenals also had exhibits.

Nobody Spared the Next War.

The morning program opened with the firing of the 16-inch gun, the maximum range of whose shells, backed by 860 pounds of powder, is 30 miles. One shell per minute can be fired from this type of gun. Next a 12-inch field piece was exercised. It sends a 700-pound projectile about 17 miles and can be elevated to an angle of 33 degrees. After that the anti-aircraft guns of smaller sizes were shown in action, and the guests turned their attention to an exhibit of army air corps equipment.

Beside the foreign bombs used during the war, there were shown American bombs, of recent development, including the types known as fragmentation, chemical and demolition. These names explain what is meant by military experts who say that the next war will spell speedy doom to the civilian population when a city is bombarded from the air. The program announced that demolition bombs are intended for the destruction of ammunition dumps, storehouses, terminals and similar targets.

Tanks Added to Guns and Bombs.

There was a tank show, also. The Mark VIII tank weighs 40 tons and carries 11 men and an officer, with 2 six-pound guns and five machine guns. Its speed is six miles an hour. The medium tank, of 1921 model, runs 13 miles an hour but has only one 6-pounder and two machine guns.

Gas and Fire—But No Peace.

While the government of the United States has been talking world peace and arms reduction its army experts have been working on new ammunition. One "supersensitive fuse" has been developed which will ignite while cutting thru the fabric of an airplane wing.

There is also a chemical mortar for firing gas and smoke shells at machine gun nests. And there is a projector which fires gas, high explosive and incendiary filling, weighing 60 pounds. In the demonstration before the business men, white phosphorus filling was used.

Enthuse The Manufacturers.

This field-day of mimic warfare was stage by the Chief of Ordnance and by various units of the army for the purpose of rousing the enthusiasm of the manufacturers for war-preparedness in their own plants. The exhibits carried the suggestion that war brings a profit to the manufacturer who is ready, and big profit to the one who is ready first.

CHICAGO LABOR BACKS GARMENT STRIKE RELIEF

Sunday's Conference to Rally All Trades

The conference which was called by the Chicago Joint Board of the International Ladies' Garment Workers for Sunday, October 24, 1926, was endorsed Sunday, October 17, at a Chicago Federation of Labor meeting and all affiliated organizations are urged to participate.

Conference Next Sunday.

The committee which attended the conference of October 17 report that in order to do the work more effectively it was decided that a joint conference of all organizations be held on October 24.

Edward Nockles, secretary of the Chicago Federation of Labor, was elected treasurer of this conference. It was also decided to urge upon all organized workers to donate $1 each for the New York strike, which it is estimated should raise a fund of over $100,000.

Increase Goes to Strikers.

While the readjustment in wages is going on in the ladies' garment shops the workers who received increases made a motion that their first week's increase be given to the New York strikers.

This is in addition to the approximate average of $1.50 per member weekly tax they have already been assessed with thru a decision rendered October 3 by the Chicago Joint Board.

Palmer Shop Progresses.

The workers of Percival B. Palmer, which is the largest shop in this city, after a lengthy conference with their employer, have obtained an increase and have unanimously decided to give this increase to the New York strikers. This shop, which previously managed to hold out against the union, has now, by the efforts of the Chicago Joint Board, been brought fully into the union, with its workers enthusiastically co-operating in active work.

The next largest shop, Schenker, Michel & Weinstock, did likewise. These voluntary contributions will net about $300 from each shop Smaller shops, like I. Victor & Co. and others, are acting in the same manner.

The originators of this movement are the workers of B. Kirshbaum & Co., who have given over their first week's increase to the New York strikers last week. It is thought that this movement will be followed in every shop.

Capitalist Government Protects Its Lies From the Truth-Telling Facts

By J. LOUIS ENGDAHL.

THE most powerful individual human being, without doubt, in Massachusetts, which means New England, is William Morgan Butler, United States senator, multi-millionaire textile manufacturer and the reputed political boss of the republican party.

He is the typical American industrial kaiser. He is a director and heavy investor in more than a half dozen of the largest textile mills in Massachusetts and Rhode Island, employing tens of thousands of workers enslaved under the so-called "American" or "open shop" plan.

Senator Butler has established one of the most elaborate spy systems in the land in his mills in order to root out, immediately they appear, any sprouting seeds of unionism.

It was to this Senator Butler that Attorney William G. Thompson, counsel for Sacco and Vanzetti, wrote requesting some assistance to force the department of justice to disgorge information it had in its possession absolutely proving the innocence of the two Italian workers of the charges on which they have been convicted and sentenced to death.

Senator Butler is a politician. More than that, he is up for re-election. It would not do for him to come out flat-footedly and declare that the Sacco-Vanzetti case did not concern him. That would cause large masses of textile workers to question the right of Butler, the mill owner, to represent them in the senate. Butler, therefore, pursues the usual political strategy.

Butler did not get into action himself to force the department of justice to reveal its records. Not at all. That would have forced the department of justice to act.

Instead Butler wrote to Attorney Thompson requesting that Thompson write to Attorney General John Garibaldi Sargent. This Thompson did. He wrote as follows:

"At the suggestion of Senator Butler, I am writing to inquire whether William J. West, now a special assistant to the department of justice in Boston, may be authorized to talk with me concerning the Sacco-Vanzetti case, and to show me whatever documents and correspondence on file in your office, dealing with the investigations made by the Boston agents before, during and after the trial of Sacco and Vanzetti, which occurred in June and July 1921."

The letter related in detail the startling revelations made by the ex-department of justice agent, Fred J. Weyand, showing that the agents of the department of justice never believed Sacco and Vanzetti guilty. The letter went over the reasons for asking for a new trial, cited the confession by Celestino Madeiros to the effect that he was at the scene of the South Braintree crime and that Sacco and Vanzetti were not there.

Butler's attorney general, Sargent, never replied to that letter, Thompson told the Dedham court. The blame, therefore, rests on Sargent, the political appointee, for rejecting the simple request that all the facts in the Sacco-Vanzetti case be made known, as they exist in the files of the government.

But even the lackey attorney general felt that he had to cover up a little. On orders from Sargent, the Boston agent of the department of justice, Mr. Dowd, telephoned saying that the attorney general had asked him to get in touch with Mr. Thompson and find out what it was the defense lawyer wanted, as if there was any doubt about it.

The matter ended by the refusal of Mr. Dowd, on the ground that he had no authority to do so, to allow Mr. Thompson any access to the files or any information from Mr. West. That is where the situation stands at the present hour.

Let the blame be traced back to its source. Attorney General Sargent could, on a moment's notice if he desired, instruct Mr. Dowd to grant Thompson the right to go thru the department's files. If Sargent didn't get into action, then his master, Senator Butler, could get all the results desired. The blame for hiding the department's records, therefore, and covering up the crimes of the department of justice in aiding the frame-up of Sacco and Vanzetti, rests directly on Senator Butler, the textile mill owner, whose creature President Coolidge is, and who keeps his thumb on Governor Fuller, of Massachusetts, who has the power to pardon Sacco and Vanzetti. If he desired, and thus blast this conspiracy against labor. But Governor Fuller does not move, in spite of the fact that he has been bombarded with protests by American and world labor.

This latter incident shows better than anything possibly could show how the New England frame-up gang—Coolidge, Butler, Fuller, Sargent—sticks together against the working class.

Attorney Thompson also points out how he suggested to the attorney general of Massachusetts and to Mr. Hultman, assistant district attorney in charge of the Sacco-Vanzetti case for the government, that material witnesses should be examined in joint conference by both sides, that the truth might be brought out and that the proceedings might not degenerate into a mere "contest of affidavits." Both these men disagreed. But later District Attorney Wilbar wrote Attorney Thompson that he would not agree to such a proceeding. The master's voice had made itself heard once more.

The capitalist government is not interested in getting at the truth in the Sacco-Vanzetti case. It is only interested in the lies that it may concoct to help it put two workers to death. That is the plain truth about the Sacco-Vanzetti case as it stands today.

The frame-up agent, William J. West, working under the direction of the United States department of justice, is still on the job in Boston, Massachusetts.

FLYNN IN NATION-WIDE TOUR FOR LABOR DEFENSE

Noted Labor Organizer in Chicago Nov. 24

Elizabeth Gurley Flynn, one of the most popular labor organizers and speakers in the country, will be the guest of honor at a "proletarian cabaret" to be held here on November 24 by Local Chicago, International Labor Defense, to welcome her as the newly-elected national chairman of the I. L. D. and to greet her in the beginning of her coast-to-coast tour for the class war prisoners.

Comrade Flynn has been a fighter in the forefront of many historic strikes and labor struggles in the United States. During the war and immediately after it she gave most of her energies towards the building of a working class defense organization and she has been actively engaged in labor defense to this day. She was one of the active leaders and organizers in the Passaic textile strike and in her tour she will tell the story of this heroic fight of thousands of workers for better conditions of life and labor and how their most energetic fighters are still being held under charges which may mean imprisonment for having dared to organize and battle for their union.

Comrade Flynn will speak at a few meetings in Pennsylvania on her way to Chicago. From Chicago she will go directly to the California coast, where she is scheduled to address numerous meetings. She will then proceed to the northwest and return to the eastern coast after speaking at meetings in every town and city where such will be arranged.

Response to the tour of Comrade Flynn has been very enthusiastic and scores of meetings have already been arranged. It is expected that when the tour is brought to an end in New York City upwards of 150 meetings will have been addressed by Comrade Flynn under the auspices of International Labor Defense.

The national office of International Labor Defense, 22 S. Lincoln, Chicago, Ill., has asked that all local organizations and branches of I. L. D. that wish to arrange meetings for Comrade Flynn send in their requests immediately, before the final itinerary is completed.

DENY STRIKERS CIVIL LIBERTY ASSERTS C. L. U.

Constitution Ignored to Break Strikes.

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—"The denial of civil liberties to strikers in industrial trial disputes" gets chief position in the report of the American Civil Liberties Union for the months of May, June, July and August. The report cites the wholesale arrests of strikers under anti-picketing injunctions and on general police charges in the strikes of New York fur workers, subway workers and garment workers.

In the garment strike some 1,000 arrests were made in the period. In Rhode Island martial law and state troops broke a cotton workers' strike and in Passaic police brutality continued thruout, tho the attempt to enforce "riot law" had to be given up.

Have to Fight for "Rights."

Free speech fights staged by the Liberties Union ended in one victory—in Pittsburgh, where the Workers' Party gained the right to hold meetings in private halls without police interference.

In New York City the union had to fight for its own liberty of speech when the New York City school boards denied the use of several auditoriums.

Two Communists in Penn. Prison.

Conviction of the second Workers' Party member in Pennsylvania under the state sedition law occurred in this period.

In Massachusetts the famous Sacco-Vanzetti case had a hearing for a new trial that was featured by Attorney-General Sargent's refusal to permit the files of the department of justice, bearing on the case, to be opened.

Three September lynchings of Negroes were added to seven in the previous months, showing a considerable increase over the total of three in the first four months of the year.

CHI GANGSTERS TO HAVE THEIR DAILY MURDER

Reports of the signing of an armistice in Chicago's gangland, after two years of intermittent warfare which brought more than 160 deaths, were shattered today before the ink on the papers which heralded the truce was dry.

The body of a well-dressed, unidentified man, a bullet wound behind the left ear, was found in a west side alley.

A .45 caliber automatic—the favorite toy of the underworld—had brought his death.

Police said they believed he had been "taken for a ride" and thrown from the automobile in which he had been killed.

Longshoreman Wins Suit for Damages Against Company

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21. — Longshoremen doing the work of seamen in stowing cargo in the hold of a ship in port are entitled to the same legal redress for accidents in that service as are seamen, the federal supreme court declared Oct. 18 in the case of R. Haverty of Seattle. Haverty sued the International Stevedoring Co. for damages suffered when he was injured by a bale of cargo that was carelessly lowered by a hatch tender.

The company sought to evade payment of damages on the ground that the safe fellow-servant negligence rule prevailed. Justice Holmes, who wrote the court's opinion, held that the work of placing cargo in the ship was a maritime service.

DAYTON, O., Oct. 21.—Completing her first lap of 223 miles in her 2,500-trip across the continent to raise money for Passaic strike relief, Mother Bloor, veteran labor leader, arrived in this city today. This film is one of the finest labor films that have ever been shown in this country. It gives a clear picture of the struggle of the Passaic textile workers, their heroic struggle for the right to organize, the sufferings they have gone thru at the hands of the police, the beatings-up by the deputy sheriffs, the picket lines and the splendid demonstrations—all of this will be shown in the "Passaic Strike" film, which has already been shown in the East and has met with unqualified approval.

Issue Injunction to Stop Pickets, Altho Peaceful; Fine Union

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—(FP)—Violence is not necessary for an employer to get an injunction. The New York Retail Clerks Union have had one thrust on them, altho it was not claimed that their pickets were anything but peaceful on the picket line.

The clerks' union has been trying to organize workers of the L. Daitch & company, Inc., a small butter and egg concern. The employer claimed that he employed members of his own family chiefly and that they were not interested in joining the union.

The first application for injunction was denied but the appellate division of the court granted it and fined the union $10 costs.

HAMMOND TO TURN OUT FOR CLINE MEETING

(Special to The Daily Worker)

GARY, Ind., Oct. 21.—Charles Cline, who was recently released from a Texas prison for participating in a Mexican revolutionary army, and who is now touring the country for the International Labor Defense, spoke at two enthusiastic meetings last week, here and at Hammond, Indiana.

Tells of Suffering.

Cline recited his experiences in the revolutionary attempt and the 13 gruelling years that followed in prison. He closed his talk with a stirring appeal for mobilization of the workers into the International Labor Defense, in order that class-war prisoners can be given adequate defense, legal and financial.

Protest for Negroes.

At Hammond James Ford, of the American Negro Congress, spoke on the case of the Houston martyrs, Negro soldiers who are held in Leavenworth prison for defending their race.

The following resolution on the case was passed at Hammond and enthusiastically endorsed by the Gary meeting:

"We, workers and citizens of Hammond, at the Holy Trinity hall, deplore the fact that at least 14 Negro soldiers, a part of the 65 who were originally court-martialed, are still suffering imprisonment in the prison at Leavenworth.

"Of the 65, 13 were hung, two died in prison, and one went insane. The brutal punishment of the Negro soldiers, whose only crime consisted in defending their race against the inhuman regime of oppression to which they are subject in the south, have justly earned the name of 'Houston martyrs.'

"We protest against the continued imprisonment of the Houston martyrs as a violation of all rights of man. We demand their immediate and unconditional release. We pledge ourselves not to rest until the public opinion is aroused against the injustice committed against the innocent men and they are freed with full rights of citizenship.

"We it resolved that a copy of this resolution be sent to the Houston martyrs, to the president of the United States and to the press."

SOVIET BOOMS REPORTS HEAD OF AMTORG CO.

Russia Preparing to Buy Much Machinery

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—Paul J. Ziev, president of the Amtorg Trading Corporation, representing in this country the leading Soviet commercial and industrial organizations, returned last week after a six months' absence in Europe, having spent most of the time in Moscow and other important centers in the Soviet Union, where he was busy in establishing firmer contacts and making new arrangements for the further development of the business relations between the United States and the Soviet Union.

Gets Orders.

As a result of his activities during this stay in the Soviet Union, Ziev brought back with him a number of business offers involving the placing in this country of large orders for various machinery and equipment. Whether these offers will materialize in the placing of orders will depend largely on the terms of payment which the interested Soviet Union concerns will be able to obtain from American manufacturers.

Industry Growing.

The foremost problem engaging the attention of economic organizations in the Soviet Union at present, it was explained by Ziev is that of industrialization. The prosperity of the great peasant population of Soviet Russia has increased materially during recent years, and with it has increased the demand for industrial products.

Increase Production.

During the fiscal year 1926-26, just ended, industrial production was more than 40 per cent above the previous year 1924-25. The combined industrial output during this year was brought up to 95 per cent of the pre-war period. The plans for the new economic year 1926-27 call for a minimum increase of 20 per cent over the output of the year 1925-26, which will place Soviet industries above the pre-war level.

Need Machinery.

Owing to this, extensive construction of new industrial plants is being carried on in all parts of the country and there is, therefore, a large demand for new industrial equipment and machinery, a considerable part of which must be imported from abroad. Only recently a commission representing the Soviet metallurgical industries placed orders for equipment amounting to over $20,000,000 in Germany, where credits for terms up to five years have been obtained. Large orders for mining equipment, oil well supplies, textile machinery, electric power equipment, etc., have been placed in Germany and other European countries. Many of these orders could have been easily diverted to the United States if credit terms similar to those offered by European manufacturers could be obtained.

U. S. Businessmen in Russia.

Everywhere in the Soviet Union Mr. Ziev met a pronounced interest in American made machinery and a tendency to introduce American technical methods and equipment in the new industrial construction. On the other hand, American businessmen and manufacturers are more alive to the possibilities of the Soviet market than appears on the surface. During his sojourn in the Soviet Union Ziev met many American representing large industrial concerns in this country studying the situation on the spot.

CONFERENCE TO SAVE CHAMORRO U. S. MANEUVER

Attack on Mexico is Staged by U. S. Envoy

CORINTO, Nicaragua, Oct. 21.—The maneuver of United States imperialism to save its tool Chamorro, self-elected president of Nicaragua, from the liberal revolution, and to replace him by another equally bad under the guise of calling the liberals to "compromise," is being staged here on no other place than the U. S. warship Denver.

Helps Chamorro.

The U. S. charge d'affairs, Lawrence Dennis, is acting as chairman and nothing is omitted to aid the reactionary Chamorro, delegate to the so-called conference, engineered by the United States to help Chamorro escape when the revolution was on the point of winning.

As part of the maneuver, the Chamorro delegates were all allowed to make violent speeches against a nation friendly to the United States, the Mexican Republic, and all sorts of "documents," forged and otherwise, are being admitted by the U. S. envoy, to show that the Mexican government and Calles himself is aiding the liberal revolution.

U. S. Planned Attack on Mexico.

Because of this attitude, it is seen that the desire of the United States in calling the conference was not to arrive at an amicable understanding, but to attack Mexico and cripple the revolution against Chamorro. So the conference is liable to break up, as the United States expected it to do.

The liberals want their leader Sacasa to take the presidency temporarily. The Chamorro, or conservative party, wants one of Chamorro's chief lieutenants, Adolfo Diaz. This reactionary Diaz is also the choice of the United States.

Passenger Plane Down.

LONDON, Oct. 21.—An aeroplane, operated by the Imperial Airways, Ltd., bound from Croydon to Paris, fell into the English channel this afternoon some twelve miles off Folkestone. A fishing boat rescued the pilot, mechanic and ten passengers.

Eugene V. Debs Dies After Long Illness; Led A. R. U. Strike

rich Debs. He was educated in the common schools of that city and after working at various trades, became a locomotive fireman on the Terre Haute and Indianapolis railway in 1871.

His first venture into politics was in 1879 when he became city clerk of Terre Haute, a position which he held until 1883. Two years later, he was elected to the Indiana legislature, and in the same year, 1885, he was married to Kitherine Metzel, who survives him.

It was his work as a locomotive fireman, which turned his attention to the workingclass movement and he soon became very active in early railroad labor organizations. He was grand secretary and treasurer of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen from 1880 to 1893 and from that year until 1897 was president of the American Railway Union.

A. R. U. Strike.

His leadership of the famous American Railway Union strike of 1894, called against the Pullmen Company and later spreading to many important railway lines won him a place in the very forefront of the militant workingclass movement of the nineties. In that year he was charged with conspiracy and later sentenced to six months in Woodstock jail for violation of an injunction.

Nominated for President.

In 1897 he became chairman of the national executive committee of the social-democratic party, which later became the socialist party. In 1900 he was nominated for president on the socialist ticket and made the first of four campaigns for the presidency. In 1904, 1908 and 1912 he was again socialist candidate for president.

Found Guilty.

When the United States entered the war in 1917 Debs took a definite stand against it. During the war, in 1918, he was arrested while making a speech in Bohemian Gardens, Canton, O., and charged with obstructing the draft. He was found guilty and sentenced to 10 years imprisonment by Federal Judge Westenhaver. The decision was sustained by the supreme court and Debs entered Moundsville penitentiary, W. Va., on April 13, 1919. Later he was transferred to Atlanta penitentiary in Georgia and released in 1921.

For many years Debs had suffered a heart weakness and was not in good health. It was that, when he entered prison, that he would not survive his term. He was released from Atlanta penitentiary in a very weakened condition and, there is no doubt that his prison experience hastened his death.

POWER TRUST FOR EUROPE NOW FORMING

Huge Mergers Built up in All Industries

PARIS, Oct. 21.—Business circles here are interesting themselves in what they believe to be American preparations for an international trust of the electrical industries, beginning with those in the United States and Canada.

The prime movers are understood to be Owen D. Lowenstein. The latter is connected with a number of Canadian and South American electrical businesses and is now preparing, it is asserted, an organization to be known as the Hydro-elektric Securities Corporation.

A loan of $34,000,000 to the Siemens-Schuckert group in Germany is understood to be the preface to the proposed movement, which eventually will include the whole of Europe.

Aluminum Trust.

The German Vlag concern, which includes the chief aluminum producers of Germany, denies that negotiations are being held for the formation of a trust, but it is believed here that it will be formed eventually.

Trade magazines in France point out the growing importance of the trust movement and expect that it will be continued until it includes all the important industries of Europe.

It had a beginning with the steel trust and the temporary pig iron agreement in France, Germany and other countries.

The forecast is now made that the coal industry will probably be organized internationally, but probably not until the British coal strike is settled.

Mere Mergers Coming.

Next in line come the tube and rail trusts, and negotiations have been started for wire and cast iron cartels. The wire trust is expected to include the manufacturers of rods, nails, fences and other finished goods made of wire. The makers of plates, sheepes and bars are now negotiating.

A further development announced as certain here will organize the builders of locomotives, freight cars, machinery and machine tools along international lines.

Until now the British were represented only in the railmakers trust, but Continental industrialists expect them to join the other organizations later, because of the difficulty of competing with the combined industries of the rest of Europe.

It is also reported that the Scandinavians are likely to draw closer to the other countries, as they, too, will find it necessary to defend their industries

Hold Employe For Crime of Master in Chinese Rule

FOOCHOW, China, Oct. 21. — Otto Heinsohn, young German, has been jailed here for the delinquencies of his employer. Heinsohn was arrested when his master, William Pfeng, charged with illegal traffic in arms, fled, in application of an ancient Chinese principle that each family shall bear the responsibility of each of its members.

The young German has no family ing and recently employed, no part of the crime is ascribed to him. However, he was held and there is no appeal, as Germany has lost her extra-territorial rights.

Second Communist in Chilean Senate; Wins by Recount of Votes

NEW YORK, Oct. 21. — The final count of the senatorial elections in the Chilean nitrate districts of Tarapaca (former Peruvian territory) and Antofagasta (former Bolivian territory) gave the legal majority to the Communist, Juan Luis Carmona, who consequently takes the seat in the senate with Manuel Hidalgo as the second Communist senator of Chile.

Even the bourgeois majority of the parliamentary commission had to admit the extraordinary practices of fraud used to prevent the election of Carmona. More votes were counted in the first scrutiny than there are electors in the whole district. A recount established the claim of Carmona to the seat in the senate.

Carmona has been active for many years in the nitrate district as active union organiser and agitator. There are six Communist deputies in the lower house.

WORKERS OF SPAIN CRUSHED UNDER TYRANNY OF PRIMO DE RIVERA WHO IS DETERMINED TO DESTROY UNION

(Special to The DAILY WORKER.)

MADRID, Oct. 21.—In almost all of his public speeches, Primo de Rivera repeats that the military dictatorship has succeeded in solving the social problem; strikes and working struggles are ended. But he, naturally, does not say this peaceful "order" of things means the most frightful economic misery of the working class.

This present state of the Spanish proletariat is the biggest one endured since the beginning of the century, and this is what Primo de Rivera means when he points out that on August 1, 1919, 219 strikes were declared and only 11 in 1926.

The working conditions are at present really very bad, owing partly to Primo's persecutions and mostly to the treachery of the socialists.

The number of unemployed all thru Spain is enormous and as this working army's reserve does not receive any help from the state, the capitalists can, in cases of competition, very easily reduce wages.

No Eight-Hour Day.

As the eight-hour working day hardly exists in Spain, the government has not given any decree to abolish it. Notwithstanding, Primo de Rivera has declared on various occasions that the eight-hour work day must cease. And since, some months ago, the financial press is carrying out this campaign. The weekly Espana Economica and Financiera (Economic and Financial Spain) was diligently defending the increasing of the daily working hours.

The Barcelona's association, the Fomento Nacional Del Trabajo, the most powerful owners' organization in Spain, is asking Primo de Rivera's government for a decree that "will intensify the worker's production."

Organize Bandits.

The Sindicatos Libres (Free Trade Unions) were organised in Barcelona by General Martinez Anido in order to have a force strong enough to repress the revolutionary syndicalist movement. The Sindicatos Libres were formed with bandits used by the police to freighten workmen affiliated to revolutionary organisations. Prominent revolutionary militants were murdered in Barcelona's streets by members of the Sindicatos Libres.

Attempt to Destroy Unions.

At present those syndicates are at work in Madrid, where they had no influence until now, protected by Martinez Anido, minister of interior, the syndicates intend to destroy Madrid's trade unions, as there are the only ones not affected by the present disorder of the working movement, as they are headed by socialists, they have followed a neutral attitude toward the directory. The Sindicatos Libres is more noticed on those occasions where Communist influence is strongest.

U. G. T. Stifled.

To face this penury condition of the Spanish working class the reformist central organisation, General Union of Workers, is not adopting any policy of militancy. The leaders in connection with the government are enjoying good office position. In the meanwhile the working class is starving from hunger. Largo Caballero, the secretary of the General Union of Workers is state counsellor.

To end this serious working crisis the Communist Party and the minority movement have on various occasions proposed to workers' organisations and parties to form a united front in order to defend the rights of the unemployed. These appeals have never been listened to. Neither socialists nor anarchists have ever manifested any desire to really work for the working class.

Primo de Rivera Has Easy Time.

And this is exactly why the government can practically push thru all workers' aims. No opposition will be awakened by the leading elements of the workers' organisations. The only ones who opposed a serious resistance to Primo de Rivera's government have been the Communists, who have been ordered dissolved and their leaders imprisoned.

Communists Working.

In spite of the government's persecutions, the campaign for trade union movement's unity, undertaken by the Communist Party, thru very slowly, is gaining the workers' favor.

Da Astorcha, the Communist organ, is weekly publishing a new list of adhesions to trade union unity.

If this campaign does not have an open success it is because of the impossibility of public propaganda, but in working sections it has gained numerous partisans.

MEXICAN UNIONS MAY USE GENERAL STRIKE ON INJUNCTION JUDGE

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 21. — The Confederacion Regional Obrero Mexicana, or Mexican Federation of Labor, is arranging a great parade in this city to dramatize its demand for the removal of District Court Judge Conte, who has granted several injunctions and declared strikes illegal.

Should the demonstration does not do the work, the unions will consider calling a general strike in Mexico City to enforce the injunction judge's removal.

Williams Defeated at Labor Party Congress; Miners on War Basis

LONDON, Oct. 21.—While the right wing of MacDonald and company still ruled the Labor Party conference, the left wing showed a strong front against the policy of trucking to capitalist forms and put up a bitter fight against the enemies of the miners in labor's ranks.

One unexpected result was the defeat of Robert Williams, chairman, for re-election, and his defeat is charged to his presidential address in which he advocated reactionary views and attacked the striking miners.

The miners' executive now calls itself the "council of war" and is taking action to put into effect the measures adopted to intensify the strike, particularly by calling out the safety men.

GEORGE V CONTINUES MARTIAL LAW AGAINST COAL MINERS' STRIKE

LONDON, Oct. 21.—The king today issued a proclamation continuing the state of emergency for another month, due to the coal strike. Parliament has been summoned to meet October 25 to approve the proclamation.

Herriot's Party to Follow Poincare on Stabilization Plan

BORDEAUX, France, October 21.—Edouard Herriot, for many years head of the so-called "radical" party, has resigned from that post and Maurice Sarraut has been elected in his place by the party conference.

The conference, however, decided to go along with Herriot on supporting the Poincare cabinet on questions immediately affecting stabilization of the franc and his reactionary economic program of laying the heaviest burden of taxation on the working class.

The conference approved the ratification of the Mellon-Berenger debt agreement, but with reservations respecting safeguard and, transfer clauses.

New York Engineers Engaged by Soviet For Donetz Mines

MOSCOW, Oct. 21.—Announcement is made that the Soviet government has appointed a New York engineer to take charge of the Donets coal mines and reorganize them on American standards. The engineer is Charles E. Stuart of the firm of Stuart, Hames, and Cook.

Stuart is confident that he will be able to convince the government to install American machinery in the mines, which will mean an expenditure of between $50,000,000 and $75,000,000 ultimately.

ALASKAN FILTH LAID TO CAL'S JUDGES THERE

Government Panders to Vice Outrages

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21. — Basil M. Manly, in the current issue of The People's Business, digs up again the story of judicial rottenness in Alaska as disclosed in the hearings last winter on the renomination of Federal Judges Reid and Ritchie and District Attorney Shoup.

These names were finally withdrawn by President Coolidge when the senate judiciary committee refused to approve them. The salmon packing trust is the big financial interest to which these officials cater, and Coolidge still keeps them in power despite the fact that they were condemned last spring.

Alaska Is Vice Center.

Methodist clergy and social workers in all parts of the country report to their central board in Washington, but of all the reports coming to Clarence True Wilson, general secretary of the Methodist board, he testified before the senate committee, none compare in horror with the reports of vice in Alaska. Not even in China or Africa, he testified, are conditions so bad as there.

"Gentlemen," he concluded, "there is no place that you will ever put your finger on that needs a moral cleansing like they do up in Alaska, and it cannot be done with the present judges, marshals and United States attorneys."

Cheap Asiatic labor is brought to the fishing waters by the salmon trust fleet. Venereal disease is unchecked, and the local grand jury at Valdez declared that this condition gravely menaces the food supply handled by the men. Drug addicts and drug peddlers are reported by the grand jury to "find their way up to the canneries and the fishing grounds through the cannery help . . . In many instances, foremen of Chinese crews handle narcotics and dispense them."

Representative Graham of Illinois, republican, now a federal judge, in a report on the rotten salmon furnished the soldiers in 1917-18, said: "The canners who packed it knowing that it was intended to be eaten by our soldiers should have been brought before a firing squad; that would have been a mild way of dealing with them. But the war department, knowing the fact, did not even ask that they be prosecuted under the available criminal laws."

PITTSBURGH AND PHILADELPHIA EXECUTIVE COMMITTEES EXPOSE POLITICAL BETRAYAL OF WORKERS

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 21.—The following statement has been issued by the District Executive Committees of the Pittsburgh and Philadelphia districts:

In their campaign for election November 2, the leading Democratic candidates, William B. Wilson for U. S. senator and Judge Eugene C. Bonniwell for governor of Pennsylvania, are making much of the fact that they are also endorsed by a group of individuals calling themselves the Pennsylvania labor party.

Brazen Treachery.

We brand the endorsement of the democratic candidates as an act of brazen treachery to the masses of workers of the state of Pennsylvania who have been for years moving in the direction of a powerful labor party that will truly represent their interests. Instead of striving to create an independent party of labor, the people at the head of the so-called labor party have used their positions to try to deliver the labor vote into the hands of the democratic political machine, which is nothing more than the expression of the interests of the great banking combine of Wall Street, dominated by the House of Morgan.

Spurned by Pinchot.

The record of the official heads of the Pennsylvania labor party has been one that should discredit them before all intelligent workers. First they offered their support to Governor Pinchot, unsuccessful republican aspirant for the nomination for U. S. senator, and Beidelmann, aspirant for nomination for governor on the same ticket. Both these men declined the labor nomination with thanks.

After being spurned by Pinchot and Biedelmann, these forlorn leaders then hawked their endorsement to the democratic machine. As leaders of a labor party, even if in name only, it was the duty of these men to strive to create an independent labor party and to place a ticket in the field upon which all labor elements could unite. The Workers (Communist) Party of America used all its influence in order to get those leaders to enter the campaign with a genuine labor slate, instead of endorsing capitalist party candidates. But no bound to the reaction are these leaders, and so afraid to fight in the interests of the class they are supposed to speak for, that they would rather unite with the enemies of the working class in the ranks of the old parties than with a real working-class party. In a choice between labor politics and capitalist politics they line up with capitalism.

In face of this situation the Workers (Communist) Party was forced to enter the field alone as the only defender of independent working-class political action. We placed a full ticket in the field against the agents of capital and the enemies of the workers seeking office on both the republican and democratic tickets. We urge the workers of Pennsylvania to refuse to support the fake labor candidates running on the democratic ticket and cast their votes for the Workers' Party candidates as a rebuke to the spurious labor leaders trailing behind the democratic bandwagon.

Wilson Consistently Anti.

The record of Wilson is consistently anti-labor. As secretary of labor he aided the deportation regime of A. Mitchell Palmer, attorney-general in Woodrow Wilson's cabinet, deport to lands from which they were political exiles thousands upon thousands of workers who had hoped to find in this country a haven of refuge from political oppression. It was Wilson himself who had to approve every deportation warrant—many of which proved to be death warrants for workers delivered into the hands of European despotism.

William B. Wilson is just as ridiculous when he professes to speak in the name of the party of Thomas Jefferson as is William S. Vare when he tried to conceal his infamy under the cloak of Abraham Lincoln. Both of them are servants of big capital and enemies of the working class. And either of them will stand with the reaction in the senate and uphold the imperialist orgy of Wall Street by supporting such ventures as the world court, the league of nations and other institutions that exist for the sole purpose of preparing another blood bath for the workers of the world. Each of these senatorial candidates stand for their party's support of imperialist policies, which, if permitted to continue, will lead the workers of this country onto foreign battlefields again to defend the interests of banking capital on Wall Street.

Owns Scab Mine.

Wilson, in addition, is an owner of a mine operated by scab labor, which is one of the reasons why he failed to receive the nomination of the Cambria county labor party.

Go to the polls on election day and rebuke the fakers at the head of the labor party by supporting the straight Workers' Party ticket. A vote for the Workers' Party is a vote for a class party of labor. A vote for Wilson, Vare, Beidelwell, Fisher or any republican or democrat is a vote against labor and for the exploiters, the open-shoppers, the Mellon-Mellon candidates that dominated the last session of congress and hopes to retain control.

U. and candidate for assembly in Fifth district; Joseph Boruchowitz, vice president of the striking cloakmakers and candidate for assembly in the Seventh district; Moissaye J. Olgin, candidate for congress in the Twenty-third district; Henry Bazer of the cap makers' union and many other speakers of the party and trade union movement.

WICKS REVEALS WAR RECORD OF DEM. CANDIDATE

PITTSBURGH, Pa., October 21.—Speaking before a meeting of miners in Avella, Pa., H. M. Wicks, Workers (Communist) Party candidate for governor, dealt with special problems confronting the miners and paid his respects to William B. Wilson, candidate for U. S. senator on the democratic ticket, pointing out the fact that Wilson, while secretary of labor, was one of the principal enemies of labor in the country.

Tells of Record.

Wicks related the role of Wilson during the war and quoted some of his proclamations to labor to refrain from asking for decent conditions during the conflict and promising them anything they desired after the war was over. He then showed how Wilson carried out his promises by signing deportation warrants for thousands upon thousands of workers who had come to the United States in the hope of finding a haven of refuge from European political oppression.

Exposes Labor Fakers.

Wicks exposed the fakers at the head of the Pennsylvania labor party who first tried to get Pinchot to run on their ticket and then endorsed the democratic slate after Pinchot turned them down. The speaker emphasized the fact that the Workers Party alone upholds the elementary demand for a class party of labor and is fighting against all renegades and traitors acting as leeches upon the labor movement.

Negroes Present.

The meeting was held in Miners' Hall and half the audience were Negroes. Wicks related his observations while attending a meeting of the republican missionaries at the Henry Hotel the day before where Vare, Fisher, candidate for governor on the republican ticket, and others addressed a handful of republicans. He related the fact that a number of Negroes were there as decoys for the rest of their race. As usual in Pennsylvania campaign meetings the question of slush funds as they pertain to Vare, the hooligan candidate, was dealt with.

Francis Speaks.

W. C. Francis, of Pittsburgh, one of the Negro leaders and prominent in the American Negro Labor Congress addressed the meeting, dealing with special problems confronting the Negro in the mining industry.

Mrs. Parthenia Hills, candidate for lieutenant-governor on the Workers (Communist) Party ticket also spoke briefly, dealing with vital problems confronting workers in this section and stating the position of the party in opposition to lynching, segregation, Jim-crowism and other special problems affecting the Negro workers.

Boost DAILY WORKER.

Besides more than paying all expenses of the meeting by contributing to a good collection for campaign purposes, there were six new subscribers secured for The DAILY WORKER.

MEMBER AMERICAN STUDENT DELEGATION DESCRIBES SOVIET SCHOOLS

The following letter written from Moscow by Thomas L. Dabney after a five weeks' trip thru Russia, contains some unusual information about the Russian educational system. Mr. Dabney was graduated from Brookwood this year and has only recently returned from a four months' tour thru England and Russia with an American student delegation.

August 21, 1926.
Moscow, U. S. S. R.

Our delegation returned to Moscow on August 15, after a trip of five weeks thru the southern part of the Soviet Union. Altho our itinerary was covered rather hurriedly, we had the opportunity of gathering some information on the educational developments in the colleges and universities. I was particularly interested in the type of courses given in the technical and academic schools that we visited. Of course the Russian schools have their vacation in summer, but they are open for students who do their practical work.

Summer Work.

There were many students in all of the colleges and institutes that we visited. All of them were doing special and practical work which had to be done during the summer. Russian students are required to do some practical work with their theoretical training. We saw 50 school children getting practical training in the use of tools and machinery in an iron factory at Kharkov. They go to school four hours, and do practical work four hours a day.

I shall never forget the conference which we had with the director at Saratov University. It was from him that we got the human side of the story of educational development prior to the revolution. We could appreciate the story of the clash between students and instructors, because we learned much concerning the part which Russian students had in revolutionary propaganda from our visit at the Museum of the Revolution in Moscow. Russian students fought not only for the freedom of the peasants and workers, but for more freedom and power for themselves. The director said they demanded too much, but as time passed, both students and instructors adjusted themselves to the new situation following the revolution.

Gain Much.

Russian students have gained much for themselves by their long struggle for more participation in the affairs of the colleges and institutes which they attend. They are represented on all committees dealing with courses, discipline and the Council of Administration. Students no longer regard instructors as members of a higher class, but they regard them as comrades. They feel free to make any grievance or complaint to them that they may have. And as the director of Saratov University said, they are always given sympathetic and due consideration.

Another change which has developed in Russian education since the revolution pertains to the courses in the different colleges and institutes. For example, at Saratov University the school of economic rights has been substituted for the old school of law. In the school in economic rights, law becomes less legal and formal and more economic and social. In the school of medicine at Saratov University biology has replaced anatomy as the center of medical science.

Technical Needs Great.

Altho art, music and philosophy are included in the curriculum of Russian colleges and institutes, technical and practical training in the electrical and mechanical arts is emphasized. This sort of training is emphasized in the Soviet Union because there is a dearth of technicans and experts. Russian industries need to be expanded and developed, but this cannot be done without well-trained technicians and industrial experts.

Practically all Russian students receive some financial aid from trade unions. A great many live in student quarters for which they pay nothing. They travel on the railroads for half fare, and get a reduction on theater tickets, text books, and journals. There are special student mutual aid organizations in Leningrad, Kharkov, Kiev, and other cities. Everything possible is done to encourage students to remain in school and to secure jobs for them when they finish.

KODAK FACTORY NOT PARADISE AS IT IS PAINTED, WORKER TELLS OF ROTTEN CONDITIONS PREVAILING

By a Worker Correspondent.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Oct. 21.—Before this is put into print, if it will be, George Eastman, Kodak "king," and one of the foremost philanthropists of this country will have reached these shores safely, returning from a jaunt thru the jungles of darkest Africa.

If working conditions and wages in the Kodak "kingdom" were as wonderful as they are portrayed to be by the capitalist press, there should be, it seems to the writer, considerable rejoicing among the workers of the kingdom over the return of their king.

Being one of the Kodak workers, I fail to see anything of the kind. On the contrary, I hear remarks made about "uncle" George, which would indeed be very exasperating were they to reach his ears.

How Can You Be?

It may be surprising to many of us that the Kodak workers should be so ungrateful to their king, who, by the way, contributes millions of dollars to charitable and educational institutions and for which he is lauded to the skies by his servant newspapers, and to the company over which he reigns, which distributes several millions of bucks per annum among the workers in the shape of stock and wage dividends. There are, however, reasons, in the light of which this attitude on the part of the workers is justified.

"Bedaux System."

One of these reasons is the speed-up process, which has taken a strong grip in the kodak plants. This particular system which is put into operation here is known as the "Bedaux point system." So notorious is this system that the largest of the plants in this city, "Kodak Park," has been nicknamed by the workers "Kodak Point." Aside from increasing the production per capita, in some instances to as high as three to four times the former output, this system has also brought about an enormous increase in the number of accidents.

Numerous Accidents.

Sometimes one has to pinch himself to determine whether he is awake or is dreaming of the scenes of the battlefield, so many maimed and crippled does one come across. "Uncle" George being so well thought of in this city, he or his must not be mentioned in connection with anything unpleasant, so there are very seldom any reports in the local papers of the accidents at the kodak plants.

Stock Bonus Scheme.

Another reason for this ingratitude on the part of the workers toward their king and his company is the perhaps slowly, but nevertheless surely, dawning realization that the wage-dividends and stock which they receive annually are merely a bait by means of which they can be induced to work for low wages under slave driving conditions. Interesting in this connection is the fact that within the past year the distribution of stock to new employes has been discontinued, the officials of the company probably feeling that they have obtained a sufficient number of workers to provide them with an efficient "scab" nucleus in event of future labor troubles.

A considerable portion of those who have been subsidized are, however, awaiting the day when they will be given complete control over their stock in order that they may be in a position to tell the Eastman Kodak Co. to go to warmer regions.

Some Yellow.

On the other hand there is another considerable portion of the subsidized slaves who would regard it honorable to stool pigeon on the discontented workers.

While at the present time the economic pressure not being very strong, the possibilities of organization among these workers are more or less remote, it is my candid opinion that when the bosses start slashing wages will more, as they undoubtedly will, the kodak workers will welcome union organizers with a warmer reception than they are at present preparing for their "king."

Los Angeles Workers Are Not Excited at Talk About Leagues

By L. P. RINDAL.
(Worker Correspondent.)

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Oct. 21.—The following report, headlined "British Labor Hits Treaties," was found hidden in a corner of a morning paper yesterday: "MARGATE, England, Oct. 14.—The Labor Party conference, in session here today, adopted a resolution demanding the annulment of the Versailles treaty and the Dawes plan and repudiation of the Locarno pacts, which were described as a threat directed at Russia. The resolution also urged the adoption of a policy of world disarmament."

With the above mentioned treaties and pacts wiped out, the imperialists' league of nations—now resting on a volcano—will be gone forever. But what do the workers of Los Angeles think about this question?

Wells Arthur Bristow (in his "Brisbunk" column "Today") is advocating a league of American nations—north, center and south, with plenty of airships and submarines for the central power, the United States, in order to control the combine.

Moscow, Not Jefferson.

Generally speaking the workers are not interested either in a European or an American league of this character. This was fully demonstrated last Sunday evening, Oct. 10, when Lew Head, Pasadena newspaperman, lectured at the Open Forum on the subject of "The World Court"—a brauch of the imperialistic Wilsonian league of war against weak nations.

The speaker himself opposed the present league. He was not shis, however, to create much sentiment for the move back to the Jeffersonian period—1776, the Forum crowd looking forward, not backward.

Another speaker captured the audience by recommending, "A League of Nations with Headquarters in Moscow".

Los Angeles Workers Assess Selves Hour Pay For Coal Miners

By DAVE RAPO.
(Worker Correspondent)

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 21.—At a conference called by the British Miners' Relief committee of the Central Labor Conference, delegates from 40 locals voted that all affiliated unions should assess each member one hours' pay to aid the British strikers.

That this resolution wouldn't remain on paper was shown by the response with which the unions met this decision, which was also approved by the C. L. C., a few days after the conference, tha Hod Carriers, No. 300, with a membership of 250, voted an hour's pay which brot in $325.

A check was made out from the local's treasury and turned over to the secretary of the conference. The president of the Hod Carriers L. U., 300 announcing the results of their last meeting stated: "I am an ex-British miner myself and I know very wall the conditions under which they live, and that is why we didn't wait till everyone will pay his assessment, but made out a check from the treasury to be sait as immediate help to our fighting brothers."

Jewelry Workers Local union sent in a check for $10. Machinists' L. U. No. 311 voted a $0 cent assessment upon their membership. All of the machinists here are getting small pay but they have a large membership which will bring in a large sum of money.

Everyone who will donate an hour's pay will be given a striking button, 10,000 buttons being ordered.

Los Angeles Unions Hold Conference to Aid N. Y. Strikers

By S. GLOBERMAN
(Worker Correspondent)

LOS ANGELES—(By Mail.)— The Cloakmakers' Local No. 52 called a conference of local labor unions in behalf of aid to the 40,000 striking cloakmekers of New York. The first conference was held on October 14 at Needle Trades Hall, where twenty-one organizations responded.

Brother Shlonovitz, president of Local No. 52, acted as chairman, and Secretary Sacks of that local as secretary.

The conference went on record to sand $1,000 at once to the New York strikers. The excellent spirit of the conference is attributed to the prevailing sentiment for solidarity in the ranks of labor.

The conference decided to arrange a tag day and to hold various entertainments, etc. Altho this first conference was successful, there are many more organizations expected to take part in the next one.

Original American Receives Sample of White Civilization

By a Worker Correspondent.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Oct. 21.—Chief Ca-poo-ey, head of a Yuma Indian tribe, was attacked with a shotgun in the hands of a Yuma rancher. After a plea of guilty, a federal judge of Los Angeles handed over to the white-faced "Christian" rancher an "In God We Trust" suspended sentence.

Christianity, civilization, the race superiority lie as well as the "white man's burden" bunk work out wonderfully in dealings with real Americans in this conatry.

Chief Ca-poo-ey doesn't think much of peiefess justice. Nor do the Negroes, Chinese, Japanese, Hindus, Mexicans and other exploited peoples of color suffering under the tyrannical rule of the American pinndarbund.

10,000 Harvesters Stranded Without Work in Calgary

By a Worker Correspondent.

CALGARY, Canada, Oct. 21.—Thousands of harvasters, the number being estimatad at more than 10,000 at least, are stranded near here, hungry, broke, and with no pecspect of getting more than a few days' work a month. The harvesters were antioed here by alluring advertisements.

The government labor bureau, which is responsible for bringing the workers here, is endeavoring to cover up its ignorant activity.

Work Is Scarce in Hammond, Indiana

(By Worker Correspondent)

HAMMOND, Ind., Oct. 21.—Work in Hammond has been slack for the last two months. Some factories are only working two or three days a week.

The workers who are the hardest hit are those employed in the steel mills.

The Simplex Works of the American Steel company, has had a "We Help Wanted" sign on its gates for weeks.

JIMMIE LYNCH AGAIN MANAGES TO OVER-RIDE "BIG SIX" AND AID PUBLISHERS AGAINST MEN

By ART SHIELDS, Federated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—Waiving their demand for a shorter workday the three thousand newspaper printers of New York City, affiliated with Typographical Union No. 6, are at work under a three year contract, submitted by the Publishers' Association of New York.

The agreement provides an immediate wage increase of three dollars a week, with back pay from July 1. Two more dollar increases go into effect July 1, 1927, and July 1, 1928, bringing the final raise under the new agreement to $5.

New York newspaper scales are now $65 for day men, $66 for night men, with $69 for the second night or "lobster" shift.

Didn't Get What They Wanted.

"Big Six" members wanted the shorter workday more than the wage increase. Last spring the local union made general demands for a six and one-half hour day, in place of the present seven and one-half hour schedule, and for wage gains of $6 a week.

Realising there might be difficulty in getting both demands a referendum vote was taken on which should be pressed in the negotiations. The membership voted overwhelmingly for reduction in worktime, in preference to more wage increases.

Seek to Undermine Rules.

The publishers then made an offer which was rejected by a 1,290-to-7 vote. The offered $3 increase, with no cut in hours, provided the union would scrap its rule requiring the resetting of the "bogus" or advertising matrixes. The existing rule requires every bit of advertising copy to be set up in every newspaper plant where it is used. Thus a department store ad appearing in the various morning newspapers must be set up separately in every composition room.

This rule means more work for the linotype operators, hand composition men, etc., and therefore a larger workroom force. But the publishers, seeking reduction in costs, have long sought the abolition of this rule so that the copy might be set up only once and matrixes distributed to the several plants, thus eliminating extra composition work.

Lynch Aided Move Against Unioh.

The final alternative offer of the publishers dropped the clauses about the "bogus," but refused the shorter workday demand, the granting the $3 and two $1 raises. International President Lynch and the international executive council supported the publishers' offer and told "Big Six" that it had the alternatives of accepting the proposition or submitting to arbitration.

Arbitration involved the danger that the question of the "bogus" might again come up and the loss of this resetting rule would throw so many men out of work that it was feared the life of the local union might be Threatened. The local scale conference committee then recommended acceptance to the membership and the pact was adopted by a vote of 1,290 to 404.

Refused to Sanction Strike.

Strike action, the international officers had informed the local union, would not be sanctioned. Lynch loses office November 1.

ANARCHISTS AND MONARCHISTS IN UNITED FRONT AGAINST THE PRINTERS' UNION IN CHICAGO

Returning from the congress in Philadelphia of the organized Russian colonies in the United States, delegates from Chicago Russian organizations are spreading the story of the anti-union attitude of the dominant congress group.

Anarchists Join Monarchists.

This group was a coalition of monarchist elements and the anarchists, who united to suppress the reading to the congress of a telegram from Chicago Typographical Union 16, in which protest was made against the strike-breaking Russian-language daily, Russky Viestnik-Rassviet, published in Chicago. When the protest was not read from the platform it was circulated among the delegates by friends of the striking printers.

Who paying less than half the union scale, this per-centage to be the organ of the Russian trade unions of the United States. That there are no Russian trade unions in the United States does not bother the editors.

Congress Splits.

The congress in Philadelphia split, delegates relate, by the combination of anarchists and monarchists running away from the congress after being defeated on two major questions. They met in a separate hall and formed a united front against the labor organization. Returning to the congress, the chairman, Kolesnikov, declared the congress dissolved: Kolesnikov is a former member of the counter-revolutionary Markulov government of the Far East. He was leading the monarchist delegation. The editor of the scabby Russky Viestnik-Rassviet, Ivan Okuntsov, was the spokesman for the anarchists. He is now a member of the new joint committee formed by the anarcho-monarchist combine.

The monarchist group centers around the scattered Russian churches in America, while the Communists and radicals are intrenched in the Russian children's schools, the mutual aid societies, co-operatives and similar organizations.

Unity To Be Achieved.

Ten Chicago delegates from this group and two monarchists went to the Philadelphia congress. As a result of the split a new national congress will be organized on the basis of existing district federations.

Jewelry Workers of N. Y. Negotiate For Demands With Bosses

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—Anthony Cabrano, manager of Local 17 of the International Jewelry Workers' Union, announces that negotiations have begun with the employers on the demands presented by the union.

These demands include acceptance of workers only from the union employment bureau, a 44-hour week, time and one-half for overtime, a 10 per cent raise for all week workers, equal division of work in slack seasons, and the right of union officials to enter shops to interview workers and settle grievances.

War Veteran to Speak on U. S. Imperialism

Jack Sweden, three years national president of the World War Veterans, will speak on "American Imperialism and the Next War," on Sunday, October 24, at the Greek Workers' International League hall, 108 West Van Buren street.

BED MAKERS ON STRIKE AGAINST OPEN SHOP FIRM

Negro Workers Line Up for Union 100%

Ninety members of Local 114 of the Mattress, Box Spring and Spring Bed Makers' Union, are on strike at the factory of the Superior Felt and Bedding company at 2447 Roosevelt Road.

Abominable Conditions.

About 95 per cent of these workers are Negroes, and the pay and hours are sufficient reason for strike, as may be seen by the fact that of the two shifts, the night shift works 12 hours and the day shift 10 hours. For this hard and often unhealthy work the average pay is only 35 cents an hour. The most that may be made after two or three years is from 35 to 40 cents an hour.

Yellow Dog Contract.

For several weeks union agitation has been going on in the factory. The company, knowing this, tried about two weeks ago to force all workers to sign a "yellow dog" contract, not to join any union. It sent those home who would not sign. At that time nine finishers struck, and the boss was forced to call them back on the old terms without their signing the "yellow dog" slip.

100 Per Cent Strike.

Tuesday, however, another attempt was made to force this anti-union open shop contract on the workers. But the union sentiment was so strong that all refused to sign and, instead, all without exception signed up for union membership and struck 100 per cent for recognition of the union.

Yesterday morning, when the workers went on the picket line, they found the city government had obligingly furnished the boss with about a dozen police to guard several scabs brought in to take the strikes jobs.

The firm is advertising for scabs in many of the foreign language capitalist papers and in the English capitalist dailies also. The strikers—ask the foreign language workers to guard against being led into scabbing.

Meeting Sunday.

The office of the union is at Room 500, 166 West Washington street, and Sunday at 2 p. m. the strikers are to hold a mass meeting at 30 North Wells street.

OIL

By Upton Sinclair

Copyright, 1926, by Upton Sinclair

II.

Bunny spent his Easter holidays at Paradise, and it happened that Vernon Roscoe paid a visit to the tract. He had been there before, but only while Bunny was away; their meetings so far had been brief ones at the office, amid the press of business. Bunny had got a general impression of a big face and a big body and a big voice. Dad said that "Verne" had also a big heart; but Bunny's only evidence was that Mr. Roscoe had patted him on the back, and called him "Jim Junior," with great gusto.

Now he came; and it happened that a desert wind came with him, and made a funny combination. As a rule the heat of the day was endurable at Paradise, and the nights were always cold, and refreshing; but three or four times in a year the place would be struck by a wind off the desert, and it would be like a hot hand reaching out and holding you by the throat. "A hundred and fourteen in the shade and their aint any shade," was the way the oil workers put it, as they went on working in the sun, drinking barley water by the quart. The worst of it was, the hot wind blew all night, and the houses, which had heated up like furnaces, stayed that way for three or four days.

The "oil magnate," as the newspapers called Vernon Roscoe, left Angel City after dinner, and reached the tract just before midnight. Dad and Bunny were expecting him, sitting out on the veranda, and he saw them, and his voice started before the engine of his car stopped. "Hello, Jim! Hello, Jim Junior! By Jees, what's this you're doing to me! Christ amighty, man, I stayed that way for three or four days.

"Jees, I think I'll turn my tail and run!"

He was out of the car, and coming up the path, his face as round as the moon that shone down on his half-bald head. He had taken off his coat and shirt, and was in a pink silk undershirt; no perspiration, of course, because you were always dry when you drove in this desert heat—you might stop at a filling station and stand under a hose and soak yourself, and the wind would dry everything but your sitting place in a couple of minutes.

"Hello, Verne," said Dad; and Bunny said, "How are you Mr. Roscoe?" He was careful to get a grip on the magnate's paw before the magnate got a grip on his—for he would make the bones crunch with his mighty grasp. He had been a cattlepuncher back in Oklahoma, and it was said that he had grabbed a Mexican horse-thief with his two hands and bent him backwards until he broke. He still had that strength, in spite of his rolls of fat.

"I'm hot as hell," he said, answering Bunny's polite inquiry. "Say, Jim, do you think I'd better stay?"

"You've got to stay," said Dad. "I'm not going ahead with development on that Bandy tract till you've looked the field over. We'll sit you on ice."

"Has my beer come? Hey, there, Kuno"—this to the Jap, who was grinning in the door-way. "Bring me some of my beer! Bring me a bucketful—a tubful. By Jees, I brought some in my car—I wouldn't take a chance. Did you hear what happened to Pete O'Reilly? Damn fool tried to come across the border with a crate of whiskey in his car; told me it cost him a hundred dollars a quart before he got through! Christ amighty, Jim, how do you stand this?"

"Well, for one thing, I drink lemonade instead of beer." This was a reform which Bunny had imposed upon his father, and now Dad was very proud of it.

"No pop for me!" said Verne. "By Jees, I'll have my suds in the bath-tub. Any women about, Verne?" And Mr. Roscoe kicked off his shoes and his trousers, and sat himself under an electric fan. "The damn thing blows hot air!" he said, and then he looked at Bunny. "Well, here's our boy Bolshevik! Where's the red flag?"

Now Bunny was expecting to reach the impressive age of twenty-one in a month or two, and he had heard all possible variations on this "Bolshevik" joke. But he was host, and had to smile. "I see you read the papers."

"Say, kiddo, you made the front page all right! It did me a lot of good in some negotiations. Come down to the office and I'll introduce you to a Soviet commissar in disguise; they're trying to sell me a concession in the Urals. 'Where the hell is that?' I say; but it seems there is really such a place, unless they have forged some atlases. The guy started to pull this brotherhood of man stuff on me, and I says, 'Sure, I'm great on that dope,' I says, 'by Jees,' and I showed him the papers, and we've been 'Toverish' ever since!"

FREE TRADE NOT FOR U. S. SAY BANKERS

Meant to Help Europe; Press Comments Plan

(Special to The Daily Worker)

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—Removal of tariffs and other restrictions on European trade, as advocated by international bankers in a signed statement made public in New York and European capitals, does not contemplate any change in American tariff laws, in the opinion of American bankers, expressed today.

Not For the U. S.

New York international bankers point out that the idea is primarily European, and that the American signatories were solicited by European bankers to lend moral force to their plans, rather than to commit the Americans to a definite program. The American bankers, desirous of aiding European trade rehabilitation, signed the plea for the elimination of trade barriers only to show their good faith, one banker said today.

Won't Talk.

Albert H. Wiggin, one of the American bankers whose name appeared on the plea, and chairman of the board of directors of the Chase National Bank, was interviewed on the matter but declined to comment further then to say it was self-explanatory.

British Press Comment.

LONDON, Oct. 20.—The international bankers' free-trade manifesto evoked little praise from British newspapers today, except from the free-trade section of the liberal press.

The Daily News, a constant free-trade advocate, characterized the manifesto as "the most impressive declaration for free-trade ever presented to the civilized world."

The Morning Post, the only conservative paper commenting editorially, said the document, in view of the eminence of its signatories, must command respectful attention and examination by the business world. But, so the paper asserts, the signatories, however powerful in the financial and industrial world, are "without executive power politically, and cannot do more than to make suggestions."

Try to Stabilize Capitalism.

The Daily Herald, labor organ, regards the issuance of the manifesto as evidence that "this is internationalism of international finance seeking new means for stabilizing capitalism."

World Chamber of Commerce Joins In.

PARIS, Oct. 20.—A new voice to the protest against trade barriers was heard today. The council of the International chambers of commerce adopted the report of the trade barrier's committee, which echoes the international bankers' manifesto published today.

For Removal of Restrictions.

The international report demands the abolition of compulsory visas, uniform laws for foreigners in all countries, the abolition of export duties and abolition of restrictions upon the export of raw materials. The report condemns ad valorem duties and sudden changes of tariffs by decree.

Trade manifesto attracted only passing comment here, and it was indicated that the French government does not intend to hasten to consider the manifesto officially.

European Scientists Hampered by Poverty, Says Vernon Kellogg

(Special to The Daily Worker)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—Dr. Vernon Kellogg, secretary of the National Research Council and close associate of Herbert Hoover, has returned from a summer in Europe with the report that science on that continent has received a serious setback because of post-war poverty. Scientific research is at a low ebb because Germany, France and other countries that for generations have led the world in the study of pure science and scientific research have no money for other than immediate necessities.

Kellogg says that the United States, which has profited greatly by the work of European students, must now provide its own facilities for research, especially in the field of pure science which is the basis of practically

RUSE ENABLES CANTONESE TO NEAR SHANGHAI

Flank Movement Opens Road to Great Port

(Special to The Daily Worker)

SHANGHAI, Oct. 20.—Evading the troops sent southward from Shanghai by Sun Chuan-fang's local commanders to block their way toward capture of this city, the mutinous Chekiang soldiers took to boats and, sailing down the Whangpoo river, established themselves between Sun's troops and the city they were supposed to defend. These Chekiang troops, supposed to have gone over to the Cantonese, are close to Shanghai's suburbs.

Shanghai May Fall.

Cut off and isolated by this flank movement, Sun's forces are in a dangerous situation, and Shanghai itself may be captured, as frantic appeals for reinforcements made to Sun's capital at Nanking and Soochow have brought no aid. The forces left in the Shanghai district are too weak to resist any strong drive to capture the city.

Of course, there are foreign warships of many imperialist nations in the port, and the imperialists have strong armed forces to guard the foreign concessions, taken from China by force.

Chang Has His Own Plans.

In the Shanghai foreign press it is reported that Marshal Chang Tso-lin is sending troops south, but not to aid Sun Chuan-fang. On the contrary Chang aims to replace Sun's fading control by his own before the Cantonese, the enemy of both these rival militarists, can capture the city and consolidate their power.

Chang Tso-lin's Shantung troops entered northern Kiangsu, so this report states, on their way to the south in hope of reaching Shanghai before the Cantonese.

An average of 125 pickets are on the line morning and afternoon, and now they have begun to sing and cheer as they march along. Many workers in neighboring shops join them every day. Talk of wage cuts has made all the members of the union feel that this strike is not limited to one shop, but must be won as a protection to all the other workers in the carpet industry.

Strike Benefits.

All strikers are now getting $10 a week strike benefit. The entire union membership has been assessed 15% of the wages to support the fight in the Philadelphia Carpet company factory.

When The DAILY WORKER was handed out to the strikers it was snapped up like hot cakes. The articles that have already appeared about the strike were read and every copy passed on till it was worn out. Several of the strikers remarked that The DAILY WORKER is the only paper that mentions the side of the workers in this conflict. "Surely we cannot expect the Inquirer, the Ledger or the other capitalist sheets to support us," said one of the pickets.

Pleased With Daily Worker.

The union officials and the strike committee are working enthusiastically together and they, too, expressed their pleasure at the help The DAILY WORKER is giving. The strike is stronger than ever and the union is a hundred per cent efficient in handling the situation.

KLAN'S CYCLOPS BARE K. K. K. SECRETS

Democrats Expect to Profit From Quiz

By T. J. O'F.

One of the most amazing and amusing stories ever told from a witness stand was sprung last Wednesday afternoon on the audience attending the investigation into corrupt expenditures for political purposes conducted by Senator Reed of Missouri in the federal building, when Hugh Pat Emmons, former grand cyclops of the South Bend, Indiana, klan, blew off his mouth and spilled the klan beans far and wide.

Half of the audience was composed of reporters, some of them hoary with age and others neophytes. Yet old and young they laughed until the tears came from their eyes as the double-chinned witness told of the antics of the klan leaders and how they collected the dollars from the good folks of Indiana.

To Protect Womanhood.

Senator Reed is a good showman, but he never had a better subject than this man Emmons. His friends call him Pat and everybody, at one time or other seems to have been a friend of his. Emmons joined the klan because he thought it was organized to protect the virtue of American womanhood. But after half a dozen cases of rape, committed by klansmen, Emmons began to grow skeptical and he also worried about the fate of his two daughters when he admitted were fine girls.

Age and a Bank Account.

Emmons filled a chair to overflowing. His hair is gray around the edges and a few inches beyond his forehead. This fact was noted by a klan leader, higher in klancraft that was Emmons. This leader suggested that Emmons was getting old and should begin to think of the future. How would a little bank balance of $10,000 look to a man just beginning to get gray around the temples? Emmons asked questions and his companion came out with the information that if Emmons swung his klavern to Senator James E. Watson, the $10,000 would be his. Naturally, Emmons spurned the proposition indignantly. This brought one of the healthiest laughs of the afternoon.

A Good Comedian.

The story told by Emmons reads like a fable but it has the advantage of being true. This man would make a fortune on the stage with an act such as he put on last Wednesday. He used a language that is immortalized in Sinclair's Lewis's Babbit. Here are some samples: "We had went there." And "We went down the line for him," and "He could match cards," which meant in klan language that he was a member of the order.

Emmons No Sucker.

That Emmons is a hopeless jolnar was proved when he testified that he was the organizer of the Valley Tabernacle Association, disgruntled klukers, he admitted. But Emmons is not the kind of a fellow who would join the klan merely for the thrill of sticking his head into a pillow case. Indeed he was on good terms with D. C. Stephenson, now serving time for rape and murder, and with imperial wizard Evans who acted "girtishly" towards the portly Emmons, throwing his arms around his neck and gurgling in a most amatorial manner, as Evans wished to convince Emmons that the latter should support James E. Watson for the United States senatorship. Emmons was not a very big gun in the klan. But he was quite a piece of artillery.

The klan was out to control Indiana and Emmons admitted that they got away with a good deal of it, but the democrats are now making that hay while the sun is shining on the klan and this is the secret of the present investigation.

Watson Secret Member.

Emmons would not say outright that James E. Watson was a member of the order, but the impression he created was that the senator was a secret member, paying his dues as the "Imperial Palace," the office of the wizard.

In fact Emmons was told that Watson carried a "red card" in the hooded order. All klansmen did not carry red cards. Those were reserved for the high and mighty.

When Emmons was offered $10,000 as a bribe in return for his support of Watson, he suggested to the benevolent donor that his patting such a large sum in the bank all of a sudden might arouse suspicious. "Bury it," advised the donor. "Then I couldn't sleep," retorted Emmons. What could be done with a fellow with such a conscience?

Democrats Hopeful.

While the comedy was proceeding the chairman of the democratic campaign committee of Indiana was as interesting spectator and may also be an actor, for a chance for the democrats to win in Indiana presided they can. The klan membership in Indiana is dropping and his mail is filled with letters from ex-klansmen who are dropped from the klan rolls because they refuse to pay the annual dues of $6 per year. Emmons says that the klan has a membership of 400,000 in Indiana, but this is probably an exaggeration.

DANISH PAPER STOPPED FOR CALLING FINNISH PRESIDENT "BLOODHOUND"

(Special to The DAILY WORKER.)

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, (By Mail).—Because it published an article about the visiting Finnish President Relander, in which he was characterized as a "Bloodhound," the Copenhagen "Arbeiderbiatt," official organ of the Communist Party of Denmark, has been held up by the authorities. The paper charged Relander with being a tool of foreign interests and an enemy of the workers and peasants of Finland. During Relander's visit to Copenhagen a demonstration was staged against him when he appeared in a box at the Royal Theater.

tory. This means the unification of China under a national government for the first time in generations. This development bodes ill for the imperialist powers, particularly for England. English trade has dwindled to almost zero in south and west China during the past year. The British lion growled as of yore, but the Chinese, instead of yawning, as good Chinamen are supposed to, turned their rifles on the lion and made him whine. Just now he has his tail between his legs.

Of course the Soviet Union as a government cannot take any part in the present civil war in China. But it is admitted by all that Russia has steadfastly stood for the principle of "China for the Chinese." Surely no American, whether he be a Jeffersonian or Lincolnian, can object to that principle. The people of China should own their country, and it seems that they are on the warpath. How Chinese pacifism used to be blessed by our pacifist imperialists! But it seems that the sword is sometimes mightier than the pietist.

AFTER so much serious matter we may get a little frivolous. A London dispatch informs us that Liberian cannibals refuse to eat women. Their flesh is too bitter. This is startling in our ignorance of feminity we thought it was the other way around. But you cannot ignore the opinion of persons who make such a thoro investigation as the Liberian cannibals are supposed to have made. Not that they sampled male and female flesh to the interests of science. In all probability they were hungry. But no doubt they discovered that the girls smoke too many cigarettes.

THE FEDERATED PRESS informs us that communications are pouring into the office from religious organizations with the object of creating the impression that the action of the christian churches of Detroit in refusing to endorse Senator George H. Moses, (Rep. N. H.) in behalf of Mayfield.

Mayfield was a klansman. Emmons said.

A Big Decrease.

The membership of the klan thruout the United States two years ago, Emmons said, was "a little over 5,000,000," but it has fallen off since. This figure was given him, he added, by Hiram W. Evans, Imperial Wizard of the klan.

The witness figured too that the membership paid $7,000,000 a year into the imperial treasury at Washington at the height of the klan's power, entirely aside from their local state dues.

Emmons created another sensation when he handed a klan document to Reed, on which the word "rape" had been written after the name of a grand titan. R. F. McNay, until recently one of the Indiana klan's high officers.

"McNay was convicted of rape on a 14-year-old girl and he was father of 12 children," Emmons testified. "The evidence of his guilt was so strong against him that he was convicted even with three klansmen on the jury. Despite this, he was kept on the klan payroll. I demanded that he be discharged at once. I said that if the klan stood for the purity of womenhood and the chastity of the home, he should be taken off the klan payroll, but they kept him on for three months.

"Later on, McNay told me himself that he was fined $500 and given a suspended prison sentence and Dr. Evans gave him the money to pay the fine."

The Grand Climax.

Then indeed will come the climax to a day of fun. Scientific. First the head is catered to by the Studio Players. Next, the stomach is taken care of under the direction of Bill Dunne, and last but least the feet. If this is not enough to bring thousands of 50 cent pieces to Douglas Park Auditorium on Sunday, people are not what they used to be.

HAMILTON FYFE OF LONDON IS STILL SCABBING

Here in Chicago, He Attacks Strikers

Mr. Hamilton Fyfe, former editor of the London Daily Herald, and previous to his employment with the Herald, an employe of Lord Northcliffe, is in Chicago on his way around the world. Mr. Fyfe is a man of means, else he could not afford the luxury of such a trip.

In an interview to a local newspaper Mr. Fyfe had some things to say about the recent general strike that will bear analysis.

He predicted that there will never be another general strike in Great Britain and that this is the view of the present members of the general council of the Trade Union Congress.

Hicks Says "Yes."

Against this view of Mr. Fyfe's we piece the opinion of Mr. George Hicks, now president of the Trade Union Congress, who was also present while attending the Detroit convention of the A. F. of L. that there would be bigger and better general strikes in the future. Unless Mr. Fyfe was misquoted by the reporter, he strongly suggested that Mr. Hicks was guilty of misrepresentation, quite a serious charge for such an aristocratic gentleman to make.

Mr. Fyfe, as befits a gentleman of leisure who partook of the Northcliffe Beshpots does not believe in strikes. A strike is a confession of failure, he says. The very fact that there should be such a thing proves that teh right men are not in office! Then may work go out alright for Mr. Fyfe who does not have to worry about his food supply. But what about the exploited workers? They cannot afford to take a trip around the world after being fired from a job.

Strikebreaking Sheet.

Mr. Fyfe wrote a book on the general strike, and in doing so threw much light on Mr. Fyfe's character. One would think that this was not a labor editor writing but some official hack preacher for King George.

He tells of a worker coming to his house in the early hours of the morning, on the day following the general strike, and in doing so threw with the information that the government was getting out a strike-breaking paper. The worker suggested that the Trade Union Congress publish a bulletin. Fyfe being editor of labor's daily, the poor worker that he would be a good man to make the suggestion to.

But Mr. Fyfe was so indignant at having to go to the door in his shirt tails that he branded the worker as an ass and slammed the door on him.

"My word," exclaimed the indignant employee of Northcliffe, "how dare you approach me at such a beastly hour!" or words to that effect. Had Mr. Fyfe his monocle in position he might have annihilated his inconsiderate visitor with a glare.

A Cowardly Sheet.

Fyfe was editor of the British Worker during the strike and a mere cowardly, scabby, cowardly sheet was never gotten out to voice the needs of workers in a strike. It devoted all its space to apologizing to the British government for the strike. When the general council betrayed the miners by calling off the general strike Fyfe was one the happiest mortals in London. He took a leading part in reviling the miners' leaders because they did not accept the coal owners' terms and he is still at the same game. He does not blame the capitalists or their government for the continuation of the strike. He blames the miners' leaders for not accepting the owners' terms.

Mr. Fyfe tell us, while he is in Chicago, why he accepted an advertisement from the scab coal operators while the miners were on strike? Why, even in the United States the labor editor who would do such a thing would be run out of town on a rail.

Miners Denounced Fyfe.

It may also be of interest to our readers to know that a delegation of miners' representatives who were meeting at Kinsway Hall, after reading a scurrilous attack on A. J. Cook, their secretary, written by Fyfe, threw all reserve to the winds and marched down to Fyfe's office and called him a gentleman in reverse English.

Fyfe quit his job a few days afterwards.

Perhaps Mr. Fyfe did not lose financially by his despicable conduct towards the striking miners whose wives and children are starving, those miners who have been helping to pay Fyfe's generous salary while he was employed in the Daily Herald.

EMMA GOLDMAN, ENEMY OF SOVIET UNION, IS REPORTED IN MONTREAL

NEW YORK, Oct. 21. — Word reaching here from Montreal relates that Emma Goldman has arrived in the Canadian city with an English passport bearing the name of Mrs. James Colton. The former leader of anarchist thought in the United States and now one of the bitterest enemies and meligners of the Soviet Union, was deported in 1919 to Soviet Russia on the famous "ark," the Buford.

After a stay of several years there, where she enjoyed the same privileges accorded all revolutionists and given opportunities to work for the revolution, Emma Goldman left the country and wrote vicious stories for the capitalist press against the workers' and peasants' regime. For the last three years she has been in England where her living was made writing and lecturing in the English bourgeoisie against the Russian revolution. Her recently acquired husband, James Colton, is said to be a Detroit union

DEMAND "HANDS OFF CHINA!"

Current Events
By T. J. O'FLAHERTY

IT is said that Premier Hertzog of South Africa spit out the king's English like a truck driver when he stated his position before the British empire conference now sitting in London. The South African declared that his country would insist on being internationally recognized. It will take all the diplomacy, champagne and the glamor of Buckingham Palace to keep the discontented members of the dominions from speaking frankly. Hertzog made it quite clear that he wants no part of the union jack in the South American flag. Not that he intends to secede. No, no. Perish the thought. But you can never tell what may happen.

HOW little credence can be attached to the average news story is well exemplified in the press reports sent from London prior to the convening in the empire conference. Everything was going to be peaceful, and King of Canada, Coagreen of Ireland and Hertzog of South Africa would calmly lie down with the lion. No responsible person would make predictions as to what position those gentlemen may stand on, because they are capitalist politicians with an admirable regard for the safety of their political hides. But a blind person can see that the countries those three represent hang by the motherland by a slender and weak string.

NOW the words of men and mice "aft gang agley" is again demonstrated in England's misfortune with Locarno. Sir Austen Chamberlain was honored by the king for clinching the Locarno pact, which was designed to weaken France on the continent. England's campaign to get Germany into the league of nations had the same object. Now France turns around and flirts with Germany with the object of forming a combination which would be stronger from a military and commercial point of view than any ever formed on the continent of Europe. And we gather that the erstwhile Germanophobe, Poincare, is behind the negotiations with Germany, tho he cannot keep from snarling across the Rhine occasionally.

WHETHER the negotiations between France and Germany will develop into a hard and fast alliance is in the lap of history. America is a ... seems that the United ... does not see its way clear just now far it should go against its ... commercial rival, Great Britain. The United States and England ... Germany on her feet, but capitalist nations are notoriously thankless. It is rather amusing to see the nation that was saved from the "terrible Hun" by the United States embrace the aforesaid "Hun" while American legion delegates to their next convention in Paris, are forewarned that five thousand French girls will meet them on the dock with hands outstretched, not to embrace, but to demand alimony.

BY the time the discussion over the nativity of Columbus is finished it may develop that he was an Eskimo. Hitherto the Italians have claimed him and the Irish have built his monuments. Then along comes a German society and puts in a claim for the discoverer of America. Now ... the Spaniards, who claim that ... paid for his birth. This is the ... of greatness, Christopher ... would be better pleased, tho, if such a desire to do him honor during his lifetime was more pronounced than the desire to carve his scalp.

EUGENE V. DEBS is dead and the working class in all lands will sorrow. Whatever disagreements other sections of the revolutionary movement had with Debs, they were over tactics, methods to be used in the task of overthrowing this robber system. Debs hated capitalism theorly and religiously. He was a man of great courage and never hesitated to take a stand because of any consequences to himself. He sacrificed a comfortable career in the labor movement for the sake of his opinions and were cut his body on the platform and escaped his nerve force in jail, for the cause.

IN recent years Debs was not able to accommodate himself to new revolutionary strategy that was born out of the womb of the Russian revolution. It was a pity that he was not able to accept Lenin's invitation to visit the Soviet Republic and see a workers' state in action. Ill health prevented him making the journey, and also the pressure brought to bear on him by the political pawnbrokers who have been using the old man's prestige for the past few years as a kind of cover the bankruptcy of the ...

Commander of Cantonese Army Warns Foreign Powers of War

CANTON, China — The commander-in-chief of the Cantonese armies, General Chiang Kai-shih, has issued a manifesto to all foreign nations, of which the following is a part:

"The present Northern expedition, which I am under orders to lead, is to comply with the demands of the Chinese people for national revolution and the achievement of freedom and equality for China.

"Those countries that help our national revolution will be treated as the most friendly nations. Those countries that hinder our national revolution will be expelled by four hundred millions of people.

"Since the industrial reformation, international imperialism is struggling and arming for colonisation. The oppressed people cannot free themselves of this distress. The loss sustained by the oppressor nations exceeds the benefits they get. Therefore the mutual friendship and independence of China means the permanent peace of the world.

"The crimes of the traitor Wu Pei-fu have reached their day of reckoning. Therefore I dare to lead the revolutionary armies to exterminate the traitorous and dangerous militarists and thus to achieve the unification of China.

"I will love and respect those who, for the sake of justice, help our national revolution. But I will expel those who hinder or try to hinder our revolutionary movements.

Signed:—CHIANG KAI-SHIH, commander-in-chief of the National Revolutionary Army, at Changsha, August 22, 1926."

STRIKE LEADER OF I. L. G. WILL SPEAK SUNDAY

Brings Message From 40,000 Strikers

The Chicago Joint Board of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union announces that one of the leaders of the general strike committee now conducting the strike of 40,000 cloakmakers in New York City, will speak at the conference of Chicago trades unions to be held next Sunday.

This conference, which last Sunday received the approval and support of the Chicago Federation of Labor in its efforts to rally all Chicago unions behind the heroic strikers of the New York garment shops, will be held at 10 a. m. next Sunday, October 24, in the South Hall of the Carman's auditorium at Van Buren and Ashland Blvd.

On Saturday, this week, the shop chairman of the Chicago International Ladies' Garment Workers will hold a meeting at the union headquarters directly after work.

The refusal of the New York employers to discuss the vital demands of the cloakmakers, has rallied all Chicago trade unionists to their assistance.

I. L. D. Organizes Nation-Wide Memorial Meetings for Gene Debs

A national movement for the commemoration of the life and work of Eugene V. Debs thru the holding of Debs Memorial meetings in all the large centers of the country was begun today by International Labor Defense, of which Debs was an active member and supporter.

James P. Cannon, secretary of I. L. D., has just sent a special letter to all sections of the organisation calling for the arrangement of special memorial meetings. All radical and labor organisations will be invited to participate.

The I. L. D. intends also to publish a special Debs memorial number in the December number of its official journal, the Labor Defender which will contain an appreciation and tribute to his work, especially on behalf of the class war prisoners. The November issue of the Labor Defender, just off the press contains a special supplement sheet, suitable for framing, with a striking picture of Debs at the height of his powers and a tribute to his memory by James P. Cannon.

SHANGHAI STUDENTS NO LONGER OVERAWED WITH EXECUTIONERS' PARADE

SHANGHAI, Oct. 22.—So alarmed were the foreign consuls and traders in the foreign concessions in Shanghai when the recent anniversary of the 1925 strike arrived that a special execution squad was paraded thru the streets to overawe Chinese demonstrators.

The corners of the French concession were barricaded with barbed wire. Mounted Sikh police patrolled the native settlement adjoining the foreign concession. Special police detachments of Chinese, British and Japanese were on duty.

In spite of these precautions many thousands of Chinese students and other demonstrators marched or crowded the streets until driven off. The mass meetings sent telegrams to the Canton government appealing for aid in the fight for Britain's Hankow ...

Hands Off China!

A statement by the Central Executive Committee of the Workers (Communist) Party of America.

TO All Workingclass Organizations and Lovers of Freedom:

The Chinese people have broken the chains of slavery they have worn for centuries, have overcome for the most part the internal dissensions fomented by the imperialist robbers of the great western powers and Japan, the imperialist power of the East, and are uniting in a victorious struggle for national liberation.

The Chinese masses under leadership of the Kuomingtan, the party of Sun Yat Sen, the great leader whose death is mourned by the oppressed masses everywhere, and the Communist Party of China, have made tremendous strides since the opening of the modern phase of the Chinese revolution in 1911.

THE Chinese trade union movement, taking mass organisational form in 1925 with the strike of Hongkong transport workers, and steeled since then in many bloody but successful struggles against British, American and Japanese capitalists and their armed mercenaries, embraces now the vast bulk of the Chinese workers.

The Chinese peasantry, mercilessly robbed by the militarist tuchuns and the imperialists alike, has organized itself into a network of peasant organisations, working closely with the trade unions and the Kuomingtang, covers the south, central and southwestern portions of their country.

Great numbers of the students have thrown themselves with courageous zeal into the fight for freedom and act as organizers and teachers of the masses.

THE armies of national liberation, composed of peasants and workers, are the spearhead of the Chinese revolution. Supported by the Chinese masses, the armies of national liberation have driven the traitorous allies of imperialism from the most decisive sections of China. In the south the Canton government, the rallying center of the revolution, has established itself firmly and now moves north and west to Wuchang, symbolising the consolidation of China under the Kuomingtang.

The allies of Great Britain, Wu Pei-fu and Sun Chuan-fang, following the bloody massacre of Chinese workers at Wanhsien, have been crushed by the mighty wave of anger aroused by this imperialist outrage.

BUT in the north Chang Tso-lin, financed by Japan, still holds Peking and tries to stir up strife with the Soviet Union, which alone of all the nations has extended a friendly and helping hand to the Chinese people.

Not only does Japan encourage Chang to war upon the Soviet Union but so likewise do the other imperialist powers including the United States. They hope to kill two birds with one stone—to again have an excuse for invading the Soviet Union and at the same time involve China in a war in which the national liberation movement could be drowned in blood.

The victories of the armies of national liberation and the rapid consolidation of the country behind the armies, under a government basing itself on the workers and peasants, has driven the imperialist powers to frenzy.

There are alignments and realignments, frantic efforts to bring about ... (Italy) and war fleets of France, Italy, America and Japan are in readiness in Chinese ports to repeat the bloody work of Shanghai and Wanhsien.

THE struggle of the Chinese masses is the struggle of the toiling masses the world over. It inspires and strengthens the oppressed of all lands. It is today a sword driving straight at the heart of world imperialism and as such must be supported with all their energy by workers and farmers everywhere.

The workingclass must act and will not allow the Chinese revolution to be drowned in blood.

The workingclass must not and will not allow armed intervention in China to be the beginning of another offensive against the workers' and peasants' government of Russia which can mean nothing but another world war.

ALL power to the revolutionary struggle of the Chinese masses!

A united front of the toiling masses of the world against imperialism!

Demand "Hands Off China!"

Demand the immediate withdrawal of all armed forces from China!

Full support for the struggle of our Chinese brothers and comrades!

Long live the workers' and peasants' government of China!

SHANGHAI MAY BE ENCIRCLED BY CANTONESE

Sympathizers Cut Rail Lines North and West

(Special to The Daily Worker)

SHANGHAI, October 22.—Chinese sympathetic to the Cantonese armies are reported tearing up the railroad between Shanghai and Nanking, also on the Shanghai-Soochow line, the last causing wrecks of troop trains being sent to aid Sun Chuan-fang hold Shanghai against the attack from the south by Chekiang troops.

Foreigners Worried.

The foreign population of Shanghai is in a turmoil day and night, with rumors of uprisings by Shanghai Chinese and attempts to cut the Shanghai-Nanking railroad, the only hope of reinforcements, the news. The confusion is such that few facts can be sifted out.

It is reported that Sun's troops, sent south to oppose the Chekiang forces, have driven them back from Kashing, 73 miles south of Shanghai. Eight miles further, at Nanzitien, the Chekiangese are forming a new defense line. The Chekiang governor Hsu Chao, is said to have sent a telegram to Dr. W. K. Ting, mayor of Shanghai, who is really commanding Sun's troops, asking for peace.

General Situation Against Sun.

This reported victory of Sun, however, is only one phase of the general situation which is against him. General Sun, himself, has disappeared, nothing definite being heard from him since he fled from Kiukiang last week, when that city fell to the Cantonese.

The Cantonese, after consolidating their position, are supposed to be slowly pushing down the Yangtze. Meanwhile, sympathizers in Shanghai and to the north, are harrying Sun's remaining loyal troops. There are strong hints of Chekiang troops that cannot trust in Northern Kiangsu and it is not improbable that Mayor Ting's "victories" obtained by sending troops south, may weaken the northern and western defenses of Shanghai itself.

Propagandists Follow Army.

Everywhere the Cantonese advance a special corps of propagandists follow up the military victory educating the people to the program of the national revolution

Revolutionary Toil to Carry on Its Struggle Where Debs Left Off

Statement of the Workers (Communist) Party

EUGENE VICTOR DEBS is dead. A voice that ceaselessly pleaded the cause of the working class for half a century is silenced. Debs, symbol of the best in the American working class of the pre-war period, is gone.

From Woodstock to Atlanta, Debs did not spare himself as labor's recognized standard bearer against the capitalist foe. No one questioned his courage and loyalty in the class struggle.

AS A RAILROAD worker he was early drawn into the organised labor movement. He was a tireless organizer and rapidly won leadership in the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen. His popularity got him into old party politics and he was even sent for a term to the Indiana state legislature. Altho not yet a socialist, Debs violened an all-inclusive organization of railroad workers and led the heroic struggle towards that end in the American Railway Union of the American Federation of Labor. Thrown in the closing decade of the last century. It was as strike leader that he was sent to the Chicago hastile of the Marshall Fields and the George M. Pullmans, later being sentenced to serve a term in Woodstock jail by the notoriously corrupt judge, Peter Grosscup. It was at Woodstock that Debs got acquainted with his first socialist literature. He later joined with Victor L. Berger and Morris Hillquit in the organization of the socialist party as against the socialist labor party led by Daniel DeLeon. In the quarter century that followed Debs was five times the socialist candidate for president. His personal appeal carried far beyond the borders of the organized socialist party.

DEBS rebelled at the narrow confines of craft unionism and joined the movement in 1905 that launched the Industrial Workers of the World. In this he showed that he was not entirely free from the DeLeon attitude toward the trade unions, seeking to parallel the political organization with revolutionary industrial organizations of the workers. Here he clashed with the Berger-Hillquit leadership that demanded a not too militant activity within the American Federation of Labor.

In fact, Debs was nearly always ...

SPECIAL TRAIN TAKES TOILERS TO DEBS RITES

Funeral in Terre Haute Saturday

A special train chartered by the Chicago Joint Board of Amalgamated Clothing Workers' Union is taking several hundred Chicago workers to Terre Haute for the funeral of Gene Debs to be held from his old home there this afternoon. The train is scheduled to leave the Dearborn station at 8 a. m. today. Hundreds of workers, admirers of the old rebel have reserved places on the train.

I. L. D. Sends Delegation.

The national committee of International Labor Defense, of which Debs was a member since its inception, is sending a representative delegation to the funeral. The I. L. D. delegation will consist chiefly of its national committee and includes David Rhys Williams, David J. Bentall, the Chicago attorney, James P. Cannon, secretary of the I. L. D., Ralph Chaplin, Rose Karsner, George Maurer, of the Chicago I. L. D., Max Shachtman, editor of the Labor Defender, and a number of others.

Unions Represented.

Besides a substantial delegation from the Joint Board of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers, which initiated the journey, there will be delegations from the Joint Board of the Chicago International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union, the International Fur Workers' Union, the Chicago local of the socialist party, and a number of other organizations.

On Thursday, when Debs' body was put aboard a train for Terre Haute, there than a thousand workers gathered at the depot on extremely short notice. They stood in silent reverence, with bared heads, as the purple gray coffin was placed in the train.

At the funeral, which will leave the Debs' residence at 2 o'clock, the Rev. John Haynes Holmes of New York, for many years a close friend of Debs, will officiate.

After the funeral, Debs' remains will be taken to Indianapolis for cremation.

REVOLUTIONARY LABOR DEVELOPMENT STRUGGLE WHERE DEBS LEFT OFF

variance with the Bergers and the Hillquists; mainly resulting in his joining up with some publication not officially dominated by the party. Thus he waged his fight for Meyer, Pattenbone and Haywood, thru the Appeal to Reason, under the editorship of Fred D. Warren. He criticised the socialist party and the A. F. of L. leadership alike thru the Internationl Socialist Review. He championed the cause of William D. Haywood during the Hillquit-Berger attack on the left wing within the party in 1912. He was chief editorial writer on the privately-owned National Rip-Saw when the war broke in 1914.

Yet Debs never strove for actual leadership in the party. He hardly ever attended the party conventions, where policies were formulated. He was not in attendance at the St. Louis convention on the eve of American entrance into the world war, that formulated the St. Louis anti-war proclamation of the socialist party, which he displayed probably the greatest sincerity in upholding it, being among the first to suffer the governmental persecution that revolutionist war that was as a fee of capitalist war that Debs was sent to serve ten years in the Atlanta prison.

It was while Debs was incarcerated in this federal bastille in Georgia that the Bolshevik Revolution in Russia began to radiate its influence thruout all the countries in the world. Proclaiming himself a Bolshevik "from the top of my head to the soles of my shoes," Debs, nevertheless, failed to keep pace with the rapid development of the world revolutionary movement. The workers of the world, including those in the United States, were entering upon a new era of struggle, using new weapons, and Debs could not understand. So he held on tenaciously to his membership in the socialist party, his every groping indicating, however, that he did not feel comfortable and at home in his old surroundings.

Instead of allowing Debs time for leisure, study and recuperation, after his trying term in prison, the socialist leadership exploited him to the utmost in its futile effort to stay the rapid disintegration of the socialist party following the break with the Communists in 1919.

In spite of age, ill health and the isolation cordon thrown about him by the socialist leadership, we find Debs continually declaring himself for the Russian Revolution and promising to visit the Union of Soviet Republics; he joined in the defense of the Communists following the raids on the Bridgeman convention; he gave his support to the Trade Union Educational League and the principles for which it stood; he aided the famine relief campaign of the Friends of Soviet Russia, when it was bitterly fought by the socialist party leadership in alliance with the Jewish Daily Forward in New York city. He was active in the organization of the International Labor Defense, joining his voice in the demand for the liberation of Sacco and Vanzetti, and all other class war prisoners. It was this Debs that the socialist leadership used as national chairman for the party and editor of its national official organ, the American Appeal.

BUT Debs is dead. His death stripe the socialist party of its last claim to revolutionary honor and integrity.

The present counter-revolutionary role of the socialist party is in glaring contradiction with the sterling militancy that Debs loyally defended down thru the years.

WITH the passing of Debs, living expression of the grave-ward working class movement, this period in the development of the class struggle in America, of which the socialist party is a decaying remnant, also passes. The rising Communist movement is the rightful inheritor of all that was genuinely proletarian and revolutionary in the old movement.

It is with full recognition of the valiant role that he played in the infancy of American labor's struggle for power, that all Communists join with the millions of toil to do honor to the workers' champion laid prostrate by death. Communists bow at Debs' bier in common with all honest labor that recognizes Debs' giant contribution to the cause of the oppressed, in the developing conflict between labor and capital in this country.

ALL workers who really honor and revere the memory of Eugene V. Debs, however, will strive to carry forward under new conditions the revolutionary banner that he held aloft so nobly for so many years. They will join in turning the page of the epoch that is gone and face the great struggles of the future under the standards of America's revolutionary vanguard, the Workers (Communist) Party, the American Section of the Communist International.

QUEEN GETS TO MONEY-BAGS AT NEW YORK FETE

Dined by Bankers at Exclusive Club

NEW YORK, Oct. 23—Dined yesterday by some 1,000 dress suited members of the New York Chamber of Commerce, Queen Marie was the guest on Friday at a luncheon in her honor given in the New York Banker' Club in attendance at which were many of the money-bags that the feted lady hopes will loosen up on behalf of the impecunious Roumanian oligarchy.

In the afternoon the royal party was scheduled to assist Nicholas Murray Butler's social climbing career by being his guests at the Wall Street owned Columbia University. Then after a 5 o'clock tea with the heads of the Y. W. C. A., the Roumanian monarch will be banqueted by the iron and Steel Institute, Schwab's and Gary's organization, at the Biltmore Hotel.

Carefully Planned.

All of which would seem to indicate that the queen's social affairs are carefully planned with a view to throw her into contact with just those men and institutions it is necessary to consult concerning the financial affairs of her oil and blood-soaked Balkan kingdom.

Her hurried trip to Philadelphia to attend the Sesqui-Centennial seemed to cause her many servants but small inconvenience in handling the fifty trunks that are necessary to hold her elaborate wardrobe, carried in a baggage car attached to her special train.

Queen Marie has not once been seen with a dress she has previously worn since she left Paris where a veritable fortune must have been expended for the costumes.

Judge's Delay in Making His Decision Bodes Ill for Sacco and Vanzetti

By J. LOUIS ENGDAHL

FIVE weeks have passed since the 12 adductive were filed and arguments upon them made before Judge Webster Thayer, in the Dedham, Mass., court, demanding a new trial for Nick Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti.

Still Judge Thayer, who has the power to say "yes" or "no," claims to be pondering the evidence in the seclusion of his home at Worcester.

It has been the age-long practice of the courts to make judicial procedure seem intricate and difficult. This has been true of the Sacco-Vanzetti case as in few others. After six years, these two victims of capitalist greed still sit in prison, awaiting their fate at the hands of their class enemies.

Attorney William G. Thompson, lawyer for Sacco and Vanzetti, showed the simplicity of the legal reasoning that should logically result in the granting of a new trial, when he said, in addressing the court, the following:

"I am going to ask Your Honor to make two rulings.

"One is that if you were sitting as a committing magistrate, and with the evidence which we have brought here against the Morelli gang, that they were the men who committed the South Braintree murders, you would be obliged as a matter of law to hold them.

"The other is that if the evidence we have brought here were placed before a petit jury it would as a matter of law be compelled to hold them, if the evidence is believed.

"If you make these rulings, you will be obliged to order a new trial for Sacco and Vanzetti."

An avalanche of testimony was poured into the court room at Dedham placing the guilt for the South Braintree crime directly on the heads of the Morelli gang. It showed that even the department of justice suspected the Morelli gang before it decided on the frame-up against Sacco and Vanzetti.

Any individual, of average intelligence, enjoying the slight gift of being able to read, or to listen attentively while being read to, as was the case with Judge Thayer, could not help but decide in favor of a new trial for Sacco and Vanzetti. Such a decision could have been rendered in the brief space of time that it takes to enter this action into the court records.

But Judge Thayer has waited five weeks. And he continues to wait and wait, while two workers sit in prison innocent of the crime charged against them, on which they have been sentenced to death!

Attorney Thompson told this temporizing judge:

"If the government had gone to New Bedford and had talked with Policeman Jacobs and the inspector, as we said, they would have arrested the Morellis. And if they had got the evidence against the Morellis that we got, and your honor had been sitting as a committing magistrate, you would have held the Morellis on that evidence."

Attorney Thompson also said:

"It is also a question whether, in view of the practices shown to be in use between the federal officers and the district attorney, the dignity of the state and the courts can be maintained unless a new trial be granted."

Attorney Thompson then pointed out:

"A perfect dilemma exists in this case: If Madeiros was at South Braintree, on the evidence shown, Sacco and Vanzetti could not have been there; if they were there, Madeiros could not have been there."

Perhaps Judge Thayer is trying to solve this dilemma in order that justice may be cheated and Sacco and Vanzetti fed to the electric chair as "the New England gang" demands.

It will, of course, take some time to write such a decision, justifying this crime against the working class. Delay by Judge Thayer in handing down his decision bodes as good for Sacco and Vanzetti, nor for the working class.

The story of a white collar slave's trials and tribulations from the time he dug up enuf courage to ask for a raise and was kicked out the door, until he explored heaven and hell, should prove of special interest to workers who have seen the white collar slave in action and understand his psychology.

There Must Be No Intervention in China!

By WILLIAM F. DUNNE.

THERE were today in that Italy in connection with Great Britain against the Chinese national independence forces.

If this is true, and the next few days should serve to confirm or disconfirm it, it means that a world war is just in the offing. The meeting between Chamberlain and Mussolini seems to have brought quick results. Italy's foreign policy is an aggressive one and the fascist government may choose to make its first demonstration a bid for power in the Far East.

THERE echoes of the panic which has rocked the British foreign office as the victorious drive of the Kuomintang and the national armies continues cannot be overestimated. British interests are being cleared out of the Yangtze valley with thereness and dispatch. Wu Pei-fu and his latest ally, Sun Chuan Fang, if latest dispatches are to be trusted, no longer represent a serious military opposition.

A dispatch from Hankow states that the political section of the Canton army has begun its work there (the center of the Chinese heavy industrial district) and that 23 working class organizations have restored activity since the defeat of the imperialist armies. The Kuomintang organizations are spreading over all the liberated territory.

THUS dispatch quotes the American paper, the Hankow Herald, speaking of the entry into Hankow of his Canton army!

The troops are marching thru the streets and thousands of workers, employees, coolies and businessmen are marching with them. For the first time we heard shouts of greeting and applause when troops marched by. Tremendous masses of workers assembled at the railway station and talked to the troops and the students of the military academy . . . . There were no triumphal arches, no committees of greeting. THE PEOPLE ITSELF GREETED THE VICTORS WITH STORMS OF GREETINGS.

WE published a dispatch the other day in which Sha Libel, member of the political bureau of the Kuomintang, predicted the consolidation of all of southwestern China under the nationalist revolutionary government.

But the dispatch stated also that intervention by Britain was possible. The announcement of Italy's part in the proposed offensive is of fundamental importance when taken in connection with the provocative activities carried on by Chang Tso-lin against the Chinese Eastern Railway and the Soviet officials who manage it in co-operation with Chinese directors.

NOT only against China is an offensive by western imperialism being prepared, but by Japan, the imperialist power of the east, whose instrument in China is Chang Tso-lin.

On September 8 the "Isvestia," official organ of the Soviet Union, published an editorial on the situation in the east which said in part:

In spite of the first note of the Soviet government dated August 31, Chang Tso-lin's hangers-on continue their activity. Admiral Shen expressed himself in a disgraceful manner in regard to the confiscation of the China-Eastern Railway's flotilla on the Sungari river. The school of the China-Eastern Railway was sealed and closed and the employes driven away. In Peking itself the Russo-Chinese University, which was under the protection of the China-Eastern Railway, has also been closed. The recent successes in North China seem to have affected Chang Tso-lin's head. On the other hand, the "invisible" powers, who are driving the Marshal of Manchuria on to a dangerous adventure, seem to impose their will forcibly upon him. . . .

We appeal to the toilers of the whole world, BUT ESPECIALLY TO THOSE OF ENGLAND AND JAPAN. They plot intrigues and organize political adventures in order to rule the Soviet Union, or at least to do it grave injury. At present they are concentrating their energy in Mukden. . . . "But every deed has its logic." If the storm breaks over the fields of Manchuria, it will inevitably spread to other countries. . . .

In the Far East storm clouds are rising. We want peace and would warn you of the danger which is threatening.

THIS was written before the victorious advance of the armies of revolutionary troops had made such striking gains in southwestern China and consequently before the situation of Great Britain was as desperate as it is now.

If it was necessary for the Isvestia to write so strongly of the danger in the Far East at that time, the necessity for plain speaking and action by the working class of Britain and Japan, the instrument of Italy in the imperialist alliance against China and Russia (for the offensive is directed against Russia just as much as against China) implies the danger.

THE question may be asked:

Why is Great Britain, with her national economy disrupted and an acute political crisis looming, willing to risk such a dangerous adventure as intervention in China, which inevitably will unite that nation solidly against the invaders and put the country in a world war on the question of order, Bolshevism in the world?

The answer, it seems to me, is to be found in the complete failure of the British strategy in China, which resulted in the conquest of British properties and the immediate liquidation of British influence at Hankow and Ichang with the exception of Hongkong.

THE British strategy is described by Tang Shih Shu, writing in Number 43, the issue of the International Press Correspondence for September. He cites its two-sided character:

The imperialists had two objects. . . . They wanted either to destroy the Canton government and the Kuomintang or win them over to their side. The Anfu (Tuan Shi Sui) Party would welcome the following solution: Co-operation among the five chiefs, Chang Tso-lin, Sun Chuan Fang, Feng Yu Hsiang and Chang Kai Shek and a common cabinet under Tuan Shi Sui.

NOT only have Britain and Japan failed to win the Kuomintang and the Canton government for a program of imperialist exploitation of China, but they failed miserably to destroy the revolutionary base of the Chinese masses—the Canton government.

Instead, the armies of the Canton government, supported by the masses of the population, workers, peasants and students, as the American press in Hankow admits, have captured the key of imperialist base in the southwest, have been welcomed joyously by the masses and are consolidating its tremendous gains.

SUN CHUANG FANK, after coquetting with Wu Pei-fu, the tool of Great Britain, and at the same time professing sympathy with the Canton government, made a final demand that the Communists should be expelled from the Kuomintang and all Russian military advisers dismissed.

These demands proved that Sun Chuan Fang was at best a bourgeois revolutionist, concerned only with securing concessions from the imperialists for the big and small capital elements of the Chinese population. Sun Chuan Fang has continued conducting negotiations with Wu Pei-fu and finally consummated an alliance which did little, according to the best news available, to strengthen the hands of British imperialism's military leader, since one of the five provinces which Sun was supposed to control, Kiangsi, has lost more than half its territory to the Canton government forces under command of Chang Kai Shek.

UNLESS an alliance can be consummated between Sun Chang Fang and Chang Tso-lin and the forces of Wu Pei-fu (at present not a serious military factor) rallied for a new offensive, British domination of the Yangtze valley is at an end.

Failing intervention on a large scale in the near future, we can expect the complete collapse of Sun Chuan Fang and the extension of the power of the Canton government to the three provinces (Fukein and Kiangsi are free from his influence) he now controls.

THE situation for British imperialism is so desperate, in the light of the situation as outlined briefly and very roughly above, that it is willing apparently to challenge the outburst of indignation from the labor movement of England which will follow joint intervention by Britain and Italy.

Undoubtedly the British ruling class demands, as it did in the general strike, upon the reformist leadership of the labor movement to prevent this indignation being translated into action. Upon the Communist Party of Great Britain and the minority movement, in the trade unions is placed the task of stopping the beginning of a holocaust in the Far East intended to crush the Chinese liberation movement and strike a blow at the workers' and peasants' government of Soviet Russia.

---

SINCE the above was written the news of the victory of the Canton armies has been confirmed. General Wu and his ally, Sun Chuan Fang, have been annihilated in the military sense and there exists in China today as a serious military imperialist force only the armies of Chang Tso-lin, in the north.

Latest news is that Britain is sending battleships and marines to Canton and at the same time is intriguing with Japan for an offensive in the north.

How successful these military adventures will be is problematical but it is certain now that an imperialist offensive against China will meet with the full resistance of a united national army based firmly on and supported loyally by the masses of workers and peasants and all other honest elements of the population.

The testimony even of the enemies of the Chinese liberation movement is unanimous on this point.

THE slogan of "Hands Off China" is more than ever a rallying point for the world's working class.

Much depends upon what course the development of the Chinese struggle takes in the next year. If the mass forces are strong enough to resist all attempts to re-conquer important sections of China and begin the building of a real workers' and peasants' power, allying itself with the Soviet Union and establishing the basis of a modified socialist economy suitable for a predominantly peasant country, following the example of the Soviet Union and controlling all foreign trade and capitalist concessions, the doom of imperialism in China is sealed.

IT, on the other hand, the working class of the imperialist nations allow their rulers to mobilize all their forces for an attack on China and succeed in subjugating the nation, there will open up a new era of exploitation and expansion for imperialism which will allow it to overcome to some extent the disintegrating influences now at work at home and in other colonial sections.

It does not appear that the imperialists will be able to overcome their internal conflicts sufficiently to accomplish the subjugation of China, especially since the expansion and consolidation of the revolutionary movement and the liquidation of all anti-imperialist forces except that of Chang Tso-lin. But an invasion of China would at least set back the developmen of Chinese industry and agriculture for a considerable period and no effort must be spared to make the Slogan, "Hands Off China" a living fact.

Next to the worker and peasant government of the Soviet Union, the national liberation movement in China is the most important development for the world revolutionary movement since 1917.

5—The capital of China which is still held by Chang Tso-lin, pro-Japanese general.

The arrow points to Shanghai, great seaport at the mouth of the Yangtze river, the whole valley of which is now controlled by the Independence forces. Sun Chuan-fang, British imperialism's sole aid in China since the defeat of Wu Pei-fu, is making a stand at Nanking but his position is hopeless.

The southern, central and southwestern provinces of China are now in possession of the armies of national liberation. In the Yangtze provinces alone there are 230,000,000 Chinese—more than one-half the total population.

Morgan's Manifesto—A Danger Signal for the American Workingclass

Something very like a panic has occurred in the ranks of the capitalists of America, sitting snugly behind a high tariff with the announcement that J. P. Morgan and other powerful American capitalists have endorsed a plan designed to wipe out the tariff frontiers in western and central Europe and establish a free trade system to release the clogged arteries of continental production and exchange.

Calvin Coolidge, the smugly subservient office-boy of Wall Street, has been jarred out of his customary and constitutional dumbness long enough to announce that he is against any lowering of the tariff.

It may seem fantastic to many that the very same capitalists who own and control the republican party, the party of high tariff, have subscribed to a free trade policy for Europe which is bound to have important repercussions in this country. But the billions of dollars in interest and principal which the European governments and capitalists owe to the American bankers can be paid only if European commodities can be sold in the world markets and a profitable section of the world market is in the United States. The conflict in interest between industrial and finance capital is shown extremely well by the editorial comment on the bankers' free trade document made by sheets which speak for the two groups.

The New York Times, organ of big finance, welcomes the statement and categorically announces that its principles apply not only to Europe but America.

Says the Times:

> . . . . . if the statements to which they set their names are true, they are as good for this country as they are for Europe. We cannot allow foreigners to have a monopoly of sound economic doctrine. The fact is that when bankers assert that if we do not permit imports we cannot expect to have exports, they are uttering a truth for which they have the best protectionist and American authority.

But the Chicago Tribune, organ of the big industrialists of the middle west, becomes almost hysterically abusive:

> In our opinion the document is a Trojan horse. It would commit us to assumptions we do not accept as to the wisdom or justice of the American economic policy, and we resent the attempt to embarrass and confuse us. It seems to us folly to suppose that we can afford to lecture European nations on their policies of economic defense, however, misapplied or misconceived they may be in their circumstances, while at the same time we maintain as essential to our own welfare a system in principle the same. If the logic of the manifesto is to be enforced on our threshold, THE SIGNATURES OF MR. MORGAN AND THE OTHER AMERICANS ARE AN IMPERTINENCE. (Emphasis ours.)

The battle for the world markets is on in earnest with the recent organization of huge industrial trusts like that of the Franco-German-Belgian-Luxembourg steel bloc, and similar gigantic combinations in chemicals, mining, and electrical manufacture.

European industry must have markets, the underpaid labor of Europe must be allowed to compete with American labor, or the billions owed to the bankers cannot be paid. This contradiction in the system of capitalism now finds expression here in America. There is a new era of struggle opening between industrialists and financiers. How bitter the conflict will be depends to a large extent upon the success which has attended to efforts of the finance capitalists to bring industry completely under their control.

Tariff or no tariff, the American working class can know now that in the near future, whether bankers or industrial lords hold the reins of government, that a systematic assault on their wages and working conditions will be made all along the line.

The American working class faces new struggles.

The free trade manifesto of the bankers is a danger signal for the American working class, a warning that it must organize the unorganized, amalgamate and strengthen its trade unions, link up its wage and hour struggles with the broad class struggle and direct its forces against the instrument of the capitalist class, the capitalist state, thru a party of its own—a labor party.

Young Workers Form Study Circle in N. Y., Invite All Interested

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—All young workers who are interested in a study circle are united to a meeting this Friday, October 23, at Manhattan Lyceum, 66 East Fourth street. The meeting is called by a group of workers who are starting such a circle with the idea that in this way they will add to the narrow education obtained in the public schools. Being lively and ambitious, they feel that the larger the circle, the more benefit each one will get from it. Therefore they are anxious that every one interested should come to this meeting, to help organize the group and plan the work.

Four thousand workers crowded into the Ashland Auditorium recently to celebrate the appearance of the first issue of the Chicago edition of the Freiheit, the Jewish Communist daily.

Two thousand dollars in cash were raised for the paper and $1,500 pledged by various organizations. The Freiheit Singing Society and Mandolin Orchestra rendered excellent service in making the affair a success.

Comrade Milligrum introduced the chairman A. Ravitch, manager of the Freiheit. C. E. Ruthenberg and Melech Epstein, editor of the Freiheit, were the principal speakers.

Deceased organizer and leader of the Chinese national liberation movement whose party, Kuomingtang, in close co-operation with the Chinese Communist Party, heads the struggle for the overthrow of imperialism in China, basing their party structure on the workers and peasants and maintaining friendly relations with the workers' and peasants' government of the Soviet Union.

Milwaukee Workers Urged to Witness "The Passaic Strike"

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Oct. 22.—Every worker in Milwaukee should see the gripping seven-reel motion picture, "The Passaic Strike," that is to be shown here Monday night, October 25, at the Columbia Theater, Eleventh and Walnut streets. Not only will they have a chance to see a dramatic portrayel of the episodes of the great textile strike—more dramatic than any fiction play—but they will have a chance also to combine the pleasures with aiding the strikers. All the proceeds from the film showing go to the strike area, being forwarded by the Milwaukee Relief Committee.

That worker next door to you may not have anything to do tonight. Hand him this copy of the DAILY WORKER.

All workers are invited to attend this celebration for the Italian language Communist publication.

Il Lavoratore has taken the lead in the fight against the fascist movement in Italy and America, and is ever in the front for the struggles of the workers.

AUSTRALIAN LABOR BACKS CHINA REVOLT

Will Oppose British Imperialist War

SYDNEY, Australia, Oct. 22.—The Labor Council of Sydney, New South Wales, over the signature of J. W. Gardan, secretary, has issued the following declaration against the oppression of the Chinese people by British imperialism:

"The domination and exploitation of the Chinese people by the European capitalists has been going on for nearly a century. This was made possible by the imperialists possessing a superior force of arms—destroying China's right to govern her own country.

Hypocritical Propaganda.

"The hypocritical propaganda of protecting the Chinese from themselves is mere dope calculated to blind the workers of other countries to the real issues. The Chinese are not masters in their own country. Thanks, for the forces of bayonets and cannon, the English, Americans, Japanese and French are ruling in China, and compelling the workers to pay for the chains which bind them hand and foot.

"But recent years have shown that the workers and peasants of China are not willing to be mere implements of world imperialism. The fight for national independence and the liberation of China from foreign parasites must be supported by the organized workers of every country in the world.

Stand by Revolutionery China.

"It is quite possible that the young men of Australia will be asked to protect the interests of British imperialists in China. Outrageous stories of the "yellow peril" will be circulated and a general scare may be worked up. It is to be hoped that the workers of Australia will reject such propagande with the scorn that it deserves, and display in every possible way their solidarity with the oppressed Chinese."

Boston Labor Enthuses Over Passaic Picture

BOSTON, Mass., Oct. 22.—Boston labor's enthusiasm is high for "Passaic Textile Strike," a motion picture in seven reels taken from real life. The movie of that heroic struggle will be shown just once at Tremont Temple, Boston, on Tuesday, Oct. 26, at 7:30 p. m.

Just to mention a few of the unions that have been visited and responded with the following sums for tickets: The Jewish Bakers' Union bought $100 worth of tickets; the Photo-Engravers' Union bought $50 worth and upon handing the check to the committee they were told that these tickets are to be re-sold and the $50 thus derived will be sent direct to Passaic by the union; Carpenters' Local 157 also handed over $50 for tickets and the Bill Posters' Union after buying $37.50 worth of tickets agreed to print and post all the posters for the showing gratis; then the Carpenters' Local 23 bought $37.50, while the Hoisting Engineers' Local No. 4 took $32.50 worth; the Plumbers increased and bought $62 worth and the Painters' Local No. 11 just for a starter bought $6 of the Tocsin, etc., etc.

LEADER OF THE KUOMINTANG IN SOVIET UNION

Tells of Party Aims in Northern Drive

MOSCOW, Oct. 2 (By Mail).—Shao Li Tzi, a member of the political bureau of the Kuomingtang party, who was in Moscow, declared in a press interview that the next few days may see a junction effected between the national army, which is advancing over Hankow toward Kiangsi, with the Canton troops. This junction of the armies which are fighting for the emancipation of China will result in a consolidation of the nationalist forces, both morally and materially.

The first session of the enlarged executive committee of the Kuomingtang party, which opened on the 1st of October, will discuss the question of the liquidation of the bands of counter-revolutionary troops which spread out all over the land after the defeat of Wu Pai Fu's army. Representatives of the occupied territories will be present and take part in the deliberations, which will also concern the carrying out of the economic policy of the Kuomingtang in the conquered territories.

The members of the Kuomingtang and the local leaders of the organization mostly belong to the left wing of the Kuomingtang. This forms a guarantee that the enlarged plenary session will carry out its tasks in the spirit of Sun Yat Sen and in line with the decisions of the first congress of the Kuomingtang.

The situation of the Canton troops in the campaign against Sun Tchang Fang is made difficult by the fact that the troops of the latter are generously supplied with arms and ammunition by Great Britain. The possibility of an alliance between Sun and Tchang Tso Lin depends completely upon the result of the battle which is about to be fought. Tchang Tso Lin will be on the side of the big battalions.

At present the Canton government has no intention of entering into a conflict with Tchang. The aim of the national government of Canton will be to consolidate the positions which it has won and to give the people of north China a breathing space, if only a limited one. Should Tchang Tso Lin, however, decide upon hostilities, then he will find the Canton troops prepared.

In reply to questions concerning the possibility of intervention on the part of the imperialist powers, Shao Li Tzi gave it as his opinion that such an intervention would only come from the side of Great Britain.

The United States and Japan are extremely mistrustful of any militarist adventures. The conservative government of Great Britain, alone of all the powers, helps to save her privileges in China with the aid of the mailed fist.

WORKER PARTY SPEAKER TAKEN BY BOSTON COPS

By S. D. LEVINE.
(Special to The Daily Worker)

BOSTON, Mass., Oct. 22.—Bert Miller, district organizer of the Workers' Party, was arrested at the corner of Massachusetts avenue and Essex street, Cambridge, and placed under a $100 bail while addressing an open air meeting in behalf of the Workers Party state candidates.

Miller attacked the candidacy of Gen. J. Walker, democratic candidate for U. S. senate, who pretends to be a friend of labor. Miller, before a big, interested audience, showed up the record of Walsh as anti-labor and for the interest of the big railroad magnates.

This evidently did not please one of the Welsh supporters in the crowd, who heckled the speaker and finally called upon the police to arrest him. This they did. When asked by Miller why he was arrested, the answer came: "Disturbing the peace," and that the neighboring business men objected to his meeting.

Cambridge, the name of America's great university, joined the line of Massachusetts cities where free speech is not allowed to be exercised and the anti-vanity police, instead of arresting the man who wanted to disturb a peaceable meeting, arrested the speaker, put him in a patrol wagon, took him to a police station and locked him up in a cell until released on bail. This is the democracy the workers are getting in Coolidge's home state.

SCABS ATTACK WOMEN PICKETS IN DATE STRIKE

Police Arrest Eleven; Nine Strikers

Egged on by the bosses, who are becoming desperate in their attempt to break the strike of the 150 Negro women date stuffers in Chicago, scabs employed by the Marks and Company factory, 214 West Kinzie street, attacked a group of pickets Friday morning. The scabs were armed with knives and clubs, furnished them by the bosses, it is reported.

Arrest Nine Strikers.

When the strikers repulsed the attack and had succeeded in almost routing the armed scabs, police were called. Nine of the striking women were taken to jail, while only two of the scabs were arrested.

No one was seriously injured in the melee, but many came away with bruises and torn clothing.

The nine strikers were bailed out by the Chicago Federation of Labor, which came to their aid as soon as news of the arrests reached them. Bail was set at $50 each.

Boss Urges Battle.

For several days prior to the open attack on the pickets it has been noticed that the scab workers were being urged by the employers to threaten the pickets. But their attacks until Friday were verbal, and the pickets paid little attention, going about their work. Because they were working so successfully, getting women who had not walked out with the original group and new workers to join the strike, is the reason the scabs were urged to make Friday's attack, union leaders say.

The boss of the company took an active part in the "battle," assuming the role of "general," until things became too warm, and then he sought shelter.

The police, as usual, treated the strikers roughly in taking them to headquarters.

This is the third time arrests have been made in connection with the struggle of the Negro women to combat the beating down of wages at the date factory. On two other occasions pickets were arrested when carrying on their work peacefully.

The strike was called October 2. The workers have formed a temporary union and are working toward a permanent, chartered organization.

NEGROES WARNED AGAINST FAKERS IN STEEL CITY

Negro Politicians Are K. K. K. Tools

In spite of the glaring searchlight being thrust on the corruption and graft of republican politicians in Indiana and the exposure of the part and its candidates as tools of the Ku Klux Klan, a campaign rally arranged to be held Friday night in Gary, Indiana features Negro speakers who claim to support the republican candidates for racial reasons.

D. of J. Man.

One of the Negro speakers booked to appear at this meeting at a hall on 16th and Washington St., the heart of the Gary Negro section, is none other than "Honorable," Perry W. Howard, "special Assistant Attorney General, Washington D.C." as he is labeled in the advertising for the meeting.

Negro workers who are familiar with this particular politician, relate that he is the same gentleman, who as an agent of the Department of Justice, went to great lengths to break up the newly organized Pullman Porters' Union.

Workers Warned.

He and other equally dubious political characters are addressing the meeting in Gary arranged by the Ku Klux Klan G. O. P. of Indiana, and officials of the American Negro Labor Congress, in calling who the main speaker is have in mind to prevail upon Negro workers in Gary not to allow themselves to be taken in by political tricksters of the stamp that Howard represents.

The American Negro Labor Congress is a national organization of Negro workers that has as its object the furtherance of the interests of the Negro worker as a class in the struggle against their exploiters, a good example of which is afforded by the Gary mills.

It urges the unity of workers of all races and stands for the promotion of a labor party. It asks Negro workers not to vote for Ku Klux Klan candidates and to work for the formation of a labor party.

"DOWN WITH HELL" SAY HIGH CHURCHMEN IN LONDON SERMONS

LONDON, Oct. 22.—"To Hell With Hell" seems to be the slogan of two prominent churchmen here, the Bishop of Liverpool, and Jerome K. Jerome, author, who on the same day gave sermons denouncing the idea of hell.

The bishop said in a sermon at the church congress at Southport that "the old symbolism of an eternal punishment has gone completely from religious doctrines.

I suggest to churches of all denominations that they clear hell out of the way," said Jerome addressing a meeting here commemorating Francis De Assisi. "It interfers with the right of all human beings to the common love of god," he said.

The fundamentalists of the United States—where they burn Negroes to death—still believe in it. The majority of English churchgoers still believe in a god who keeps a hell for his enemies.

"Until this doctrine is overthrown, the church remains an advocate and apologist of cruelty."

THE CONFESSIONS OF A COUNTER-REVOLUTIONIST OF 1776.

BY JAY LOVESTONE.

Reminiscences of an American Loyalist 1738-88. Edited by Jonathan Boucher. Published by Houghton Mifflin Company.

(Concluded from previous issue.)

How the Pre-Government Men Were Treated in 1776.

"I was soon restrained from preaching, and the press was no longer open to me. The first open and avowed violence I met with was on account of my expressly declaring: when applied to by some noisy patriots heretofore of no great note, to preach a sermon recommending the suffering people of Boston to the charity of my parish. There part was then up by hot of parliament; and it was alleged that they suffered this in the common cause. Contributions were collected for them all over the continent; the true motive was by these means to raise a sum sufficient to purchase arms and ammunition. I also refused to set my hand to various associations and resolves, all, in my estimation, very unnecessary, unwise and unjust. In consequence, of which I soon became a marked man; and tho I endeavored to conduct myself with all possible temper and even caution, I daily met with insults, indignities and injuries. At length the informations respecting my supposed inimicality to America were regularly sworn to, and laid before the provincial committee sitting in Annapolis . . . A body of militia was ordered to take me immediately into custody, and accordingly not less than two hundred came to the Governor's where I was on a visit, to seize and carry me before the committee."

What a living picture of the first American Revolution! How our pure and unhyphenated democrats must smile to think that it was thru such means that their "glorious American democracy" scored its decisive victory over British "monarchism" and tyranny! To what depths of eloquence will our Constitutional, peaceful socialists who speak so volubly of the gradualness, of the peaceable, civilized methods so inherent in and inseparable from the Anglo-Saxons engaged in settling political disputes—changing class relationships. And above all, how our bourgeois law and order angels can rant against the czarist priests, exploiters, and pogrom agents being dashed the use of the press and pulpit for the express purpose of restoring czarism and bourgeoisdom.

Fortunately, the second American Revolution, learning from the first in no small measure, will act as determinedly in sweeping away the bourgeois opposition to social progress, to a fundamental betterment of the conditions of our working and farming masses.

But let Boucher put some finishing touches on this vital historical point. When he preached peaceableness his audience would rise and leave. He also tells us in on a further picturesque and instructive secret about life in a revolution:

"And for more than six months I preached, when I did, with a pair of loaded pistols lying on the cushion; having given notice that if any man, or body of men, could be so lost to all sense of decency as to attempt really [illegible] and long been threatened me out of my [illegible] just ruling class was trying to sell the lord to his customers with a sermon in one hand and a loaded gun in the other. Novel methods, indeed. But these were revolutionary days in America.

Some Questions of a Counter-Revolutionist.

When Boucher saw that his sermons could no longer go with the Americans he decided to flee rather than be deported. Entertaining the opinion of most of the Tories, he thought the struggle would be of short duration, and prepared to return soon. He left for England fully convinced that the government would make short shrift of the revolutionists. But before sailing Boucher addressed a series of questions to the people of Maryland. Some of these we reproduce as extremely thought-provoking regarding the attitude of the reactionaries of 1776 and their counterpart, the reactionaries of 1926.

"What good reason can be given for any committees, not known to the laws of the land or the constitution, taking upon them to debate and determine on matters of the highest moment, and which affect the very vitals of our constitution?"

Certainly, the reactionaries, then, as now, hated and feared the new organs of state power being set up by the new ruling class. Everything that the subject class does to secure freedom and supremacy is always illegal and against the prevailing constitution.

"Did one man in a thousand of the people of this province give a vote for any of the members of the said general committee?"

How strikingly parallel to the complaints and attacks of the czarists and capitalists the world over against the Soviets! Boucher and his colleagues defending the tyranny of his ruling class and absolute monarchy in America call democracy to their rescue! This is also typical of the anti-Bolshevists of today—whether they be the champions of capitalism in the bourgeois parties or the defenders of the bourgeois in the social-democratic leadership. Speaking actually for perpetuating bourgeois oppression and exploitation, all of the "freedom-lovers" (for the ruling class, of course) talk like the Boschers of 1776 of "justice or common sense, or even of the common ideas of liberty."

But here is another set:

"What is tyranny but the assumption and exercise of power without authority?

"That liberty can the people of this province be said to enjoy, when their arms necessary for their personal defense have been arbitrarily taken away from them; when they no longer have a free press; when the ministers of the word of god are dictated to and controlled in their holy function and when even the freedom of private debate is overawed by committee censures and the decapitation of tar and feathers."

The ruling class at any particular historical moment always looks upon itself as the source of all authority. When Boucher speaks of disarmed people, he is expressing his grief at the disarming of the counter-revolutionists—those loyal to the government. And what a vivid picture we have here of the class dictatorship set up in America by our forefathers in order to secure the victory for bourgeois democracy. Only to the superficial observer is this contradiction puzzling and painful. To the Marxian this "contradiction" is a reality which reveals the crux of the whole strategy and tactics of class warfare.

A parting shot was fired by Boucher in his last letter to Washington, dated August 6, 1775, in which he closes: "You are no longer worthy of my friendship; a man of honor can no longer without dishonor be connected with you. With your cause I renounce you."

This was no longer the day of verbal arguments. The day of arms had arrived. The First American Revolution was on. Reverend Boucher embarked. Afterwards, in common with other Loyalists in general, he obtained a regular pension from the British government.

A Book For Students.

We have given only a few typical selections from these confessions of a counter-revolutionist of 1776 to let in some welcome light on the First American Revolution. It will take much light to penetrate and break the mist in which our official historians have wrapped our First Revolution and hidden its real class character and basis from the masses.

No student of American history—viewed as a dynamic story of class struggles—can afford to miss this book. A critical and thoro examination of its contents will well repay those who are prepared to draw valuable lessons for the problems of today from our struggles of yesterday.

Chang Tso Lin, the reactionary war lord of Manchuria and the agent of the Japanese and British imperialism, is being beaten decisively by the revolutionary armies. Of all the reactionary generals, Chang Tso Lin is the most oppressive and bloodthirsty. Happily he is about to reach the end of his rope.

He is ceasing to be a coolie. He no longer agrees to carry on his bent shoulders the oppressive weight of foreign and native exploitation. He has become a fighter, a revolutionist and he is going to achieve victory.

The Chinese coolie is becoming a thing of the past. A past which was dark and looked hopeless for the millions upon millions of Chinese peasants and workers. But now the heart of the erstwhile coolie is throbbing with optimism and confidence. Fired by the world-liberating effects of the Russian revolution, have challenged imperialist robbery and are pushing towards freedom with invincible power and vigor.

The Passing of Eugene V. Debs

THE death of Eugene V. Debs marks the passing into history of a beautiful piece of romance in the proletarian class struggle of America.

Debs belonged to a past age. He was the child and symbol of a period in the labor movement that crushed and went under with the discharge of the first cannon in the late imperialist war. To the last minute of his militant life he continued to think in terms of prewar capitalism and prewar class struggle. And he was never able, despite his great proletarian soul, to grasp the full significance of the revolutionary changes that followed the war and of the new methods of struggle that these changes imposed upon the working class.

He was a great workingman. He hated capitalism with every fiber of his great human heart. He loved the toiling masses, and was proud to be one of them. He gloried in their struggles and had faith in their victory. He spoke their mind and voiced their aspirations as few ever did. In this lay his strength, and for this he was loved and respected by countless numbers of exploited and oppressed.

But he also shared many of the illusions of the masses and even some of their prejudices. His heart was good, but his mind failed to adjust itself to the new perspectives in the class struggle that were opened up by the late war and by the Russian revolution. And in this lay the chief source of his weakness since 1914—a weakness which brought about the parting of ways between him and the left wing in the American labor movement: the Left Wing crystallizing eventually in the Workers (Communist) Party struggling under the banner of the Communist International and Debs remaining in the non-working class, opportunistic socialist party.

And yet—at the thought that Debs is no longer among us many a heart will contract with pain and sorrow. We will miss him. We will want to hear his flaming word and be moved to struggle by his inspiring image. But he is gone and with him has gone out of our midst the embodiment of the very best that the American labor movement possessed in the prewar period of its existence.

Though a member and in a sense a leader of the socialist party, and hence an opponent of the Communist Party, Debs had disregarded the anti-proletarian policies of his party on several occasions and together with the Communists had done the right thing by the working class. Despite the socialist party he rendered great service to the Friends of Soviet Russia during the Russian famine. He was a warm champion of the International Labor Defense, the movement for the protection of the foreign born and similar movements notwithstanding the official opposition of the socialist party. And by doing so Debs once more displayed the noblest and most valuable traits of his proletarian character.

Day by Day

Chinese Emperor to Exile Rebels to Canton

Unlike his illustrious brother, the Kaiser with [illegible] lism of Germany, the former Chinese emperor, who is now in exile, has the world talking his own course with himself contemplating peace the past glories of the Manchu dynasty. Yet rumor will have it that the Japanese imperialists are keeping close to the former emperor, (who, by the way, has his residence in a Japanese concession) and are [illegible] some wild ambitious about bringing [illegible] Tung back to the throne for the greater glory of the Japanese banks and manufacturers.

Which is all well, except that there is a successful revolutionary movement in China. And this makes all the difference in the world.

Morgan Urges Economic Freedom

The recent manifesto of a group of international bankers urging the world to abolish economic barriers and high tariff walls has created little sensation in the stale waters of our internal politics. It even moved Coolidge to speak up.

J. P. Morgan and several more American imperialist robbers are among the signers of the manifesto, which gives the document [illegible] dous significance. It is in effect the first gun fired by the American finance capitalists in their struggle to retain world financial supremacy. To American labor this means the reduction of its standard of living to the level of European level.

Indiana Klansmen and a Girl in Knickers

While Senator Reed and [illegible] "investigating" the [illegible] lags of the Klan in Indiana, we wish he would [illegible] into a matter which is now shaking [illegible] even more violently than the exposure of the Klan. We mean the case of Virginia Allen, 15 years old, a Fort Fulton school girl, who [illegible] not allowed to attend classes because she [illegible] knickers.

The line of inquiry we would suggest to the senator is this: Why are the rulers of Indiana more shocked by a little girl in knickers than by the political corruption and oppression prevailing in their state that stinks to heaven?

Emma is Back

Some weeks ago, M. Sparks announced with our readers the [illegible] nificence of the return of Emma Ethyl, as our readers will recall, is the [illegible] motor gasoline produced by the Standard [illegible] In the opinion of experts Ethyl is a vicious, dangerous chemical which will drive [illegible] people exposed to its influence.

Emma is not a chemical. She is a fiery anarchist and now a renegade to the working class. She is back in America the same Ethyl is back. And the she may not be as dangerous as Ethyl, Emma Goldman is certainly as vicious. Beware!

THE PASSING OF DEBS

With the passing of Debs many an [illegible] worker belonging to or supporting the [illegible] party only because of Eugene V. Debs will be confronted with a crisis. What shall they do? Where shall he go? Debs himself could not answer that question satisfactorily. But the younger generation of workers who [illegible] and followed Debs should be able to find the answer. They will go to the movement whose heart pulsates with the same ideal[illegible] that moved Debs to great doings in the best years of his life.

The Communists will cherish the memory of Debs. They will keep green and alive in the souls of the growing generation of proletarian fighters the beautiful image of a great and loyal workingman. And from the height of Eugene's achievements in the proletarian class struggle, the militant workers of America will reach out after wider perspectives, thus striving to realize the ideals of Debs under the banner of Leninism and under the [illegible] of the Communist International.

KARL MARX
Personal Recollections

By PAUL LAFARGUE.

III

For years I accompanied him on his walks in Hampstead Heath. On these walks then the meadows I received my first economic education from him. Without himself noticing it, he gradually developed before me the contents of the whole first volume of "Capital" to the extent to which he was then writing it. After returning home I always wrote down what I had heard as well as I could. At first it was very hard for me to follow Marx' profound and involved train of thought. Unfortunately, I lost these precious notes; after the Commune, my papers plundered and savaged my property in Paris and Bordeaux. I regret especially the loss of the notes I took on that, evening when, with the fullness of proof and reduction which were only his, Marx had established to me his ingenious theory of the development of human society. It was as if a veil were torn from before my eyes; for the first time I clearly felt the logic of world history and could trace back to its material meaning the development of society and of ideas which, in appearance, were full of contradictory phenomena. I was as if dazzled by it, and for years the impression remained with me. It had the same effect upon the Madrid intellectuals when, with my slender means, I developed this theory for them, the grandest of the Marxian theories and undoubtedly one of the greatest that the human mind has ever conceived.

Marx' brain was armed with an immense mass of historic and scientific facts and philosophic theories, blied a warship lying in the harbor under full steam; he was always ready to strike out in every direction of thought. Certainly "Capital" reveals to us a spirit of astonishing force and immense knowledge; but, for me, as for all who knew Marx closely, neither "Capital" nor any of his writings show the whole magnitude of his genius and of his knowledge. His mood far above his works.

I have worked with Marx; I was only the writer to whom he dictated; but then I had the opportunity to observe his manner of thinking and writing. His work was alternately easy and hard for him; easy since the facts and reflections relating to the occasional theme crowded in profusion before his mind's eye at the first stroke; but his profusion made the complete presentation of his ideas difficult and lengthy.

Vico said, "the thing is only a body for god who knows everything; for man, who receives only externalities, it is merely a surface." Marx grasped things after the manner of Vico's god. He did not merely see the surface, he penetrated to the thing within, he investigated all elements in their actions and interactions; he isolated every one of these parts and traced the history of its development. Then he proceeded from the thing to its environment and observed the effect of this latter upon the former and vice versa; he went back to the origin of the object, to the transformations, evolutions, and revolutions which it had gone thru and finally worked his way thru to its remotest effects. He did not view a thing in itself, isolated from its environment, but a whole complicated and he was thereby able to make use of all this knowledge and all these observations which he had gained by other intellectual labor. One could talk him about any subject at any time and he would receive the most extensive answers that could be desired and it was always accompanied by philosophical reflections of good significance. His brain resembled a powder magazine filled with the most heterogeneous explosives; at the slightest spark it was ready to explode in every direction of thought. Certainly "Capital" reveals to us a spirit of astonishing force and immense knowledge; but, for me, as for all who knew Marx closely, neither "Capital" nor any of his writings show the whole magnitude of his genius and of his knowledge. His mood far above his works.

He did not view a thing in itself, isolated from its environment, but a whole complicated which Vico speaks, the impression which they receive; their literary work is play compared to that of Marx"; it required an extraordinary power of thought to grasp reality and a no less unusual art to render back what he saw and claimed to have seen. He was never satisfied with his work, constantly changing it and always finding that the presentation remained behind the conception. A psychological study by Balzac, "The Hidden Masterpiece," which Zola miserably plagiarized, made a deep impression upon him because it described, in part, emotions which he himself had felt: a gifted painter is so tortured by the urge to render things exactly as they are reflected in his brain that he constantly polishes and retouches his picture until finally he had created nothing but a formless mass of paint which, in his biased eyes, is, nevertheless, the most perfect rendering of reality.

Marx united in himself the two characteristics of a gifted thinker. He was incomparable in dissecting a subject into its component parts and was a master in restoring the dissected subject in all its details and diverse forms of development and in discovering their inner relationships. His proof did not allow of abstractions, contrary to the charges of economists incapable of thinking; he did not apply the method of geometricians who, after having taken their definitions from the world surrounding them, entirely disregard reality in drawing their conclusions. One does not find a single definition in "Capital," not a single formula, but a series of analyses of the finest precision, which reveal the most fleeting nuances and the most imperceptible degrees of difference. He begins with a statement of the obvious fact that the wealth of those societies in which the capitalist method of production predominates appears as a monstrous collection of commodities: the commodity, something concrete, no mathematical abstraction, is therefore the element, the unit of capitalist wealth. Marx then holds fast to the commodity, turns and twists it in every direction and inside out, splitting from it one secret after another of which the official economists had not even the least suspicion, but which are nevertheless more numerous and more profound than the mysteries of the catholic church. After he has investigated the commodity from every angle, he examines it in relation to its own kind, in exchange; then he goes over to its production and to the historical prerequisites of its production. He examines the forms in which the commodity appears and shows how it passes from one form to another, how one necessarily gives rise to the other. The logical development of phenomena is portrayed with such consummate art that one could believe Marx had invented it, and yet it has its origin in reality and is a rendition of the actual dialectics of the commodity.

Marx always worked with the extremest conscientiousness. He gave neither fact nor number which could not be supported by the best authorities. He was not satisfied with communicating second-hand material; he always went to the source itself, no matter how laborious that might be; for the sake of a minor fact, he was capable of hurrying to the British Museum in order to ensure himself from the books there. Nor were his critics ever in a position to catch him in any carelessness or to show him that he was supporting his proof by facts which could not bear a strict test. His habit of going to the sources had brought him to the point of reading the least known writers who were cited by him alone. "Capital" contains such a mess of quotations from unknown writers that one might think it was done for the purpose of displaying his extensive reading. Marx thought otherwise about it: "I exercise historic justice; I give every one his due," he said. He considered it his duty to name the writer, no matter how intelligent and unknown the latter might be, who had first expressed an idea or by whom it had been given its most exact expression.

His literary conscience was equally as severe as his scientific one. He would never make use of a fact of which he was not quite certain; he never allowed himself to talk about a subject before he had thoroly studied it. He published nothing that he had not repeatedly reworked and for which he had not found a corresponding form. He could not bear the thought of appearing before the public with an incomplete work; it would have been torture for him to show his manuscripts before he had put the last touch to them. This feeling was so strong in him that one day he told me he would rather burn his manuscripts than leave them behind unfinished.

Capitalist Propaganda in the Air

By M. CHILOFSKY.

IN six years time the radio industry has developed from an infant into a mighty giant. Radio is now a practical necessity to the economic and commercial life of the country. Communication by telegraph is giving way to that by radio. Engineers have shown it practical to dispatch and regulate the movement of trains thru radio, on the coast radio weather reports, radio danger signals and beacon lights for ships and airships are in use, and the stride of broadcasting is immense.

Radio, according to the latest reports, is now a five-billion-dollar industry. The radio industry is not different than any other industry in the United States as far as its economic development is concerned. In the beginning there is a spurt of competition, and then comes the inevitable characteristic of modern capitalism—monopoly. Altho the industry is still in its incipient stage, the courts of the country are already flooded with all sorts of complaints and suits for violations of the anti-trust law and infringements of patent rights.

The bulk of the radio industry is in the hands of the Morgan-controlled corporation, the General Electric Co., and its subsidiaries, the Radio Corporation of America and the National Broadcasting Co., which, in its turn, controls a chain of stations across the continent. The capitalist class' banker, Owen D. Young, of Dawes Plan fame, is the chairman of both these organizations.

We will not concern ourselves so much with the radio industry as a whole, but will take note of its important phases, that is broadcasting America, the leading imperialist country, is far ahead of any other country in the development of radio. Out of the estimated eight hundred stations in the world the United States has five hundred and eighty-six.

Most of the broadcasting stations are controlled and operated by the large capitalist newspapers and radio corporations and a few by religious societies. Some of the most powerful stations are the ones controlled by the newspapers, which use them as a sort of supplement to sell advertising. With the aid of their press they build an "air" circulation and with the aid of the radio they build their newspaper circulation.

Well-known stations command a high price for their broadcast advertising. The big New York and Chicago stations charge as high as $700 an hour. It is estimated that there are twenty million radio listeners in the country, a potential market and audience.

Due to "philanthropic" capitalism, which gives up a share of its surplus value to whet is called "good will" advertising, we are able to get all the free music, entertainment and propaganda we can stomach.

Tuno in any station on a hot summer evening and the air is fairly alive with stations giving us "Love song." We almost wish we were in Alaska, but we are told by the announcer to drink a certain brand of ginger ale and we will feel as tho we were up on the North Pole. Sometimes we are carried away by the melodious music of Grieg's "Oriental," or the "Arabian Dance." "The Magic Carpet" takes us to the orient until our reveries are abruptly and prosaically disturbed with the announcement that the program is being given by the manufacturers of such and such carpets and rugs. Of course, the workers is not neglected in this enormous propaganda scheme. He gets his barn dance music, his facts and figures on stock quotations, the class-collaborist and banker, Owen D. Young, of Dawes Plan fame, is the chairman of both these organizations.

We will not concern ourselves so much with the radio industry as a whole, but will take note of its important phases, that is broadcasting America, the leading imperialist country, is far ahead of any other country in the development of radio. Out of the estimated eight hundred stations in the world the United States has five hundred and eighty-six.

Most of the broadcasting stations are controlled and operated by the large capitalist newspapers and radio corporations and a few by religious societies. Some of the most powerful stations are the ones controlled by the newspapers, which use them as a sort of supplement to sell advertising. With the aid of their press they build an "air" circulation and with the aid of the radio they build their newspaper circulation.

Well-known stations command a high price for their broadcast advertising. The big New York and Chicago stations charge as high as $700 an hour. It is estimated that there are twenty million radio listeners in the country, a potential market and audience.

Due to "philanthropic" capitalism, which gives up a share of its surplus value to whet is called "good will" advertising, we are able to get all the free music, entertainment and propaganda we can stomach.

Tuno in any station on a hot summer evening and the air is fairly alive with stations giving us "Love song." We almost wish we were in Alaska, but we are told by the announcer to drink a certain brand of ginger ale and we will feel as tho we were up on the North Pole. Sometimes we are carried away by the melodious music of Grieg's "Oriental," or the "Arabian Dance." "The Magic Carpet" takes us to the orient until our reveries are abruptly and prosaically disturbed with the announcement that the program is being given by the manufacturers of such and such carpets and rugs. Of course, the worker is not neglected in this enormous propaganda scheme. He gets his barn dance music, his facts and figures on stock quotations, the class-collaborist and bankster, Owen D. Young, of Dawes Plan fame, is the chairman of both these organizations.

We will not concern ourselves so much with the radio industry as a whole, but will take note of its important phases, that is broadcasting America, the leading imperialist country, is far ahead of any other country in the development of radio. Out of the estimated eight hundred stations in the world the United States has five hundred and eighty-six.

Most of the broadcasting stations are controlled and operated by the large capitalist newspapers and radio corporations and a few by religious societies. Some of the most powerful stations are the ones controlled by the newspapers, which use them as a sort of supplement to sell advertising.

Tune in on Sunday morning and you will find the air polluted with all sorts and manners of sermons and you will even hear Secretary of Labor Jimmy Davis leading a Sunday school at Moosehaert on the community of interest between capital and labor.

We all know how poisonous is the propaganda spread over the printed pages of the capitalist press, but more pernicious and poisonous than the cold type is the familiar and persuasive voice of the capitalist propagandist on the air.

Every newspaper radio station has a women's club and a children's club. Of course, the grand ladies of gilded society hold sway and the working woman simply listens in. There is one station in Chicago which has a children's radio club with a membership of one hundred and sixty-five thousand, and they are not merely listeners, but are actually an organization with a membership roll. Each child receives a membership certificate and badge. The newspaper which controls the station out of its own kindhearted-ness makes arrangements with movie houses in various neighborhoods to leave those children who show membership in that particular club in at a reduced rate. This is only one of such capitalist clubs which poison the minds of the children of the working class.

The working class is not permitted to use the same stations for its purposes. Most stations demand copies of your speech before they allow you to speak, and therefore it is impossible to put over any working-class propaganda as for a camel to crawl thru the eye of a needle. Enemies of the workers always find their paths open to them. The semi, holy men and mystic fakers who hail a century ago said it was heresy to believe that a train could run at the terrific speed of fifteen miles an hour because the lord did not want it so, did not hesitate to let their reportile voices travel at a hundred and eighty-six thousand miles a second over the radio, during the Eucharistic Congress, most of the day. Nearly every station of importance was given over to catholic propaganda.

The learned men of the bourgeoisie are already writing books on the "economics of the radio." Some professors even suggest that the radio will solve the ills of the world. In America the radio will keep the workers contented to a better advantage than the Victrola or the automobile and make him forget the struggles and bitterness of his everyday life.

All the honeyed words of class collaboration do not prevent the capitalist class and its government from trying its utmost to keep the voice of labor from the air. In this case we may consider how little all the connections and pull of the officials of the Chicago Federation of Labor with the capitalist politicians availed them when the question of permitting its radio station was raised. It was only after a ruling by the attorney general that Hoover and the department of commerce did not have any rights to control the air that the license was issued to the Federation.

We understand that labor under capitalism cannot hope to compete with its masters in technical perfection or in capacity to put over a tremendous amount of propaganda. But in the present stage it can take advantage of whatever opportunity is offered it.

The Communists are always accused of being harsh with their criticism, so we will try to be mild with our criticism of the only labor broadcasting station in the country, the WCFL, the station of the Chicago Federation.

This station advertises its opening hour to be for speeches, announcements, etc. It is to be hoped that in the future they will actually use it. So far they use it very sparingly. The type of music on its program does not in the least distinguish it from any capitalist station on the air. The world today is fraught with labor happenings and struggles which could be brought to the attention of hundreds of thousands of workers to whom true interpretation of news is denied in the capitalist sheets. For instance, not a word did we hear of the imprisonment of the I. L. G. W. pickets, the Passaic textile strike, nor the events in China which are charged with greatest import to the workers. In closing, we hope that WCFL will go to the same trouble in placing the microphone in convenient location for broadcasting of labor issues and events by representatives of labor as it did for the anti-labor Mayor Dever of Chicago.

Revolution and Poetry in China

By A. H.

SHOOT to kill. Seventy bodies riddled by English bullets on the pavements of Shanghai. Several days later two million hands ceased work. Countless multitudes marching behind banners. Workers, peasants, students, professors, all China arrayed against imperialism. Gunboats steam in the Pacific, English, American and Japanese troops disembark, machine guns lay low dozens of yellow corpses on their native soil. Gold, lead and powder triumph over the breasts of the people.

This occurred in 1925. But China, the immense China of 440,000,000 souls, has been in revolt for a quarter of a century. The liberal bourgeois revolution has been achieved. The worker-peasant revolution is beginning to be born. The feudal barons of the old bureaucratic aristocracy have not yet lost all their power. They torture and massacre with the money and arms of the imperialists. In the shadow of this declining feudalism the new born capitalism is bringing about the resurrection of serfdom, is imposing labor upon children. But the hungry worker carries his portion to the trade union, together with his hopes and his will. Class solidarity becomes an actuality in the battle. The peasants organize their volunteer battalions of pickets. The arrogance of the foreign bayonets rests only on the security of the big naval guns directed against the months of rivers. Two hugs armies oppose one another on the continent, an immense struggle, a terrible apopeal The telegraph and newspapers only transmit the echoes to us: factory disorders, street hubbub, impact of armies. Distance prevents us from seeing or hearing anything else. But were we able to come nearer to that people so far removed and so little known by our unaffected but implicated coeidantwere we able to grasp its life and to penetrate its creative thought, we would then perceive the touching messages capable of exteading and rendering more precise the picture we have formed of them.

Here are some of the messages in which the heart of a whole people beats. In an essay in the Chinese Recorder of Shanghai, an Englishwoman, Miss Sophie Lanzau, reveals to us the present state of Chinese poetry. She informs us that a great literary renaissance is crowning the national and social revolution: a profound renaissance, a complete upsetting of the source of inspiration and the complete renovation of the means of expression valid up till now. Having given up the classic style refined by centuries of bureaucratic and feudal culture, the poets now very often sing in "Pan hwa," the language formed and spoken by the people. And their songs are not an upsurge of chauvinistic nationalism, but the expression of a revolution et once national and social. One perceives in them the echo of a past war revolts. It is the harmonious and passionate transposition of all that rumbles in the masses, their resigned and suffering waiting, their revolutionary unfurling.

The spirit that moved Thomas Hood in his "Song of the Shirt" in the early days of the industrialization of England can be found again everywhere in the literature of China of today, passing thru the same transformations. Listen to this implacable "Song of the Cloth Seller";

Big sister weaves the cloth—big brother sells the cloth—sells the cloth and buys rice—to fill their stomachs.

Big sister weaves the cloth—big brother sells the cloth—baby has panties torn—no cloth to repair them.

Big sister weaves the cloth—big brother sells the cloth—who will buy the cloth?—the rich man of the village below.

The home-made cloth is coarse—the foreign cloth is fine—the foreign cloth is cheap—it is that the rich man prefers.

The home-made cloth, no one wants it—let us perish of hunger, brother and sister!

Ho-foh, the dominating figure in the new literature and the leader in the battle against the bonzes (priests) of the petrified orthodoxy, speaks of the misery of the enslaved children:

"Rickshaw, Rickshaw."

A rickshaw comes with great speed.

The passenger looks at the runner. All at once his heart becomes sad and sombre.

The passenger asks the runner: "How old are you? Since when have you been pushing your rickshaw?"

The runner replies: "I am thirteen years old. I have been pushing my rickshaw for three years. Do not doubt my words."

The passenger says: "You are too young. I shan't take your rick
It would pain my heart."

The runner says
"I have not h

gr

"The police do not forbid me to conduct my rickshaw, young as I am. Who are you to trouble me so?"

The passenger shakes his head, takes his place in the rickshaw and says: "Take me to the department of the interior, in the west."

And here is the "Song of Labor";

"You sow the fields—I weave the cloth—he makes tiles to cover the houses—Hang Ho! Hang Ho! Hang Ho! Hang Ho! Work eight hours—rest eight hours—study, learn eight hours—each and every one demand to live and work hard.

"Learn to read—study books—the workers are not stupid from birth,—Read and learn—learn and read—study eight hours—rest eight hours—work eight hours. All wish to learn and work hard."

A great poem entitled: "Chi Kyung (Speed Up Production) has "seized with horror" the translator who gives us the last stanza of the poem:

Faster! Work!
From dawn to night,
Fourteen hours, fifteen hours,
Faster! Faster!
Faster! to old age—misery—death!
Faster! Faster!
Break the chains around the neck of the worker!
Destroy the prison bell
fatism!

By MALINA SIERIEBRIAKOVA.

Small feet is the symbol of beauty, the ideal of feminine grace in China. The Chinese idea concerning the charm of woman differs greatly from our own. The Chinese woman, like the victim of the lotus, must be slow and undulating.

The sadness this, from earliest childhood they put a special corset on the little girls which, thru its rigid contour, hinders the normal development of their chests and hips. This cruel bandage impedes the circulation of the blood and hinders breathing; it makes the Chinese woman a poor, small thing, delicate and fragile.

The Chinese woman can scarcely move, and from this it is that her abnormal bondage arises. Scarcely more than they already squeeze her feet by bands.

A decree of the revolution of 1911 prohibits the deforming of the feet of little girls. Nevertheless, up to the present, most Chinese mothers continue to cripple their children. A woman having the feet of a young girl of two or three years is sought after much more, especially in the country, than a young girl whose feet are new. Usually deformed. The latter simply ride remaining without a husband.

The peasant women of Chinese villages, while performing a labor wholly beyond their strength, walk only with difficulty on their fragments of feet. Sometimes not able to stand up even on her poor, deformed feet, the Chinese impassioned woman goes down "on all fours" in order to cultivate her soil.

The Chinese woman remains in absolute bondage from the moment of her birth to the time of her death.

In her childhood she is governed by her father; later by her husband, chosen by the father or brother; in her old age like subjects to the power of her eldest son. The Chinese woman can never marry of her own choice. Only during these last years have love matches marked their first appearance among the students and the bourgeoisie. To most women this sentiment is prohibited. They deliver the little girl to the husband, who often has been chosen for her when she was quite small. If during these years she does not give birth to a son the husband may send her back to her father's house or simply drive her out into the street.

The Chinese woman, who works and who gives her "master," that is, her father or husband, all the money that she earns. In the cities there are associations of Chinese women workers who have sworn never to marry, in order to avoid the conjugal servitude.

They sell the little girls "wholesale" to the factories, to the public houses and for a "time" to the rich foreigners. For twelve or fifteen dollars a month a foreigner can, obtain, for some time, a Chinese woman, who owes him absolute obedience and who will serve him, among other things, as domestic and washerwoman.

If the "commodity" doesn't please him, the foreigner can, if he wishes, get rid of the "rented" woman by paying the indemnity provided by the contract.

Without having exact statistics, we may assert that suicides are very frequent among the Chinese women.

The poor people sell their daughters to special schools of "concubines" (women for a time) where only pretty women are bought. In these "schools" they teach the little girls dancing, music, sewing and deportment. When these little boarders have become big girls they are sold very dearly to lovers. In China they often give "jars of wine" in the shape of a woman. During one year alone sixty women had been offered in this manner to President Tsao-Kouo.

China has a custom unknown to other peoples: As a sign of friendship the Chinese exchange their concubines. Sometimes the concubine, having given birth to a son, remains at the home of the husband who has bought her: lodging and daily subsistence thus being assured her up to her death. More often the concubine, having become old, is driven out, finding a last shelter in a public house. If, in a chic Chinese cabaret, you ask for the bill of fare, they offer you an elegant catalog in Chinese and English which points out to you under pompous names, not wines or dishes, but women.

Affecting dramas, which one makes a careful effort to hide, take place in the public houses at the grated windows like those of a prison.

The buying and selling of woman, like all the other events in the life of the Chinese, are surrounded with complicated ceremonies. The procuresses, ordinarily old women, specialists in the sort of business, play an important role in these preparations and negotiate with the buyer. An enormous quantity of women are exported to the public houses of America.

Whole trains leave loaded with women torn by misery from a poor family incapable of feeding them.

Two women deserve a certain amount of attention in the history of contemporary China.

One of them, the Empress Tsi, has made herself famous by an unbridled squandering of the people's money, by her cruelty and her debauchery. A few kilometers from Pekin is the winter palace built for the Empress Tsi with the money intended for the Chinese fleet. An enormous boat of marble fronting the palace at the verge of the lake, as if to bring back to the passers-by the memory of this money to symbolize the ships which had never been built. At the beginning of the twentieth century this wonder-working sovereign undertook fabulous tasks, yielding nothing to the constructors of the Egyptian pyramids. Thousands of workers raised mountains and constructed marvelous palaces with lighted galleries. It is under the Empress Tsi that the execution of a revolutionary woman took place for the first time: a simple schoolmistress bearing the name of Tsin-Dia (Treasure of Autumn). Daughter of a high functionary, she had received a careful education, first in China, then in Japan. Quite young, Tsin-Dei entered the revolutionary movement to which she henceforth sacrificed her whole life. It was said of Tsin-Dei that she was the equal of men, which in China is the supreme praise given to a woman. She made an effort to win the people to citizenship, to stimulate them in their struggle by her discourses and her poetry.

Thousands of Chinese walk on solid feet, thanks to the influence of Tsin-Dei, who fought constantly, long even before the revolution, against the cruel local customs physically deforming the woman.

Thousands of women students, women doctors, schoolmistresses, rallied to the slogan of the emancipation of woman launched for the first time in China by Tsin-Dei. She was condemned to death and executed in 1907 after a fruitless effort at revolt.

Sun-Yat-Sen always supported Tsin-Dei energetically and introduced into the program of the Kuomintang the demand for the complete emancipation of woman.

Today the Kuomintang party numbers relatively many women in its ranks. At Canton there are 500 women workers who are members of the party, which is not an insignificant number if one considers the local conditions.

In spite of a hard labor which is beyond the energies of the Chinese woman and which, it seems, ought to have condemned her to complete inertia, it is just from among the Chinese workers that the most energetic militants are recruited.

Actually, two Communist women weavers, Lui-Tchang-long and Men-Tchi-Tchung, enjoy a particular popularity and are reputed to be the best women orators in China.

The widow of Sun Yat-Sen, who is a member of the central committee of the Kuomintang, similarly takes an active part in the feminist movement.

He told a fib
He stole what he

So they put the Queen Marie has come to the U. S. All the foolish nuts think she is one. And in Roumania workers are put in jail because they fight for their rights. I'll bet all of them wish they had an airplane so they also could come to America to tell everybody what kind of a queen the lady is. She certainly is good—but only to herself and the bosses. Not to workers.

HEY, NEW YORK

Remember that as soon as we get enuf contributions we will print a special New York issue of the TINY WORKER. So far we are only two—but one is a dandy poem. Of course, if another city sends in enuf to print a special issue why they will get theirs first. First, come, first printed. So you Tiny New York Reds better shake a leg.

Billy and Miller Won't Smile.

By Billy Tapolsanja, Herminie, Pa.

One day on Tuesday we were saluting the flag in school. I did not salute and the teacher came to me and asked why. I said I did not want to salute the bosses' flag. If you want me to salute the flag so much put the workers' Red flag up and I salute it, I told her. Then she made me stay after school.

By Miller Suman, Herminie, Pa.

Our teacher tried to make both Billie and me salute the flag. She came to me and asked why I did not salute and I just said I didn't want to. The next day I brought a small Red flag and put it on my desk and saluted at it. My teacher saked what I had them and I showed her. But she did not take it from me.

Garments, Unions and Strikes

(Decorations by Jerger)

By JOSEPH ZACK.

It would take an Anatole France or Emile Zola to portray the exceedingly interesting rapid developments in the needle trades industry—the rapid turns in policy, the most insidious political and economic maneuvers of the various factors, parties and groups involved; a cauldron of nationalities, group interests, big capital, small bourgeoisie, Tammany Hall, graft and corruption; socialist party and socialistic union bureaucracy, anarchist syndicalist groups and the big new force which at present influences the politics of all groups—the organized left wing, led by the Communists—laboratory of politics, played in the midst of the politically most advanced section of the American labor movement with the shrewdest political machines of the middle- and petty bourgeoisie (Tammany Hall) and the best in the working class, the Workers' Party, with the socialist or rather the Jewish Daily Forward sandwiched in between. If any one politician looks for a kick in life the needle trades is the place for it, as Wm. Green, president of the A. F. of L., can testify from his recent experiences.

Characteristics of the Needle Industry.

It is an industry composed mainly of small shops, except in the men's garments and millinery, where big plants made their appearance. The workers are predominantly skilled mechanics, Jewish and Italian, they are sentimental, temperamental, excitable, philosophical, fidgety and what not. There are other nationalities, Poles, Lithuanians, Finns, Germans, all the national cities of Europe. With the simplification of the processes of production, semi-skilled native elements have been entering the industry in numbers in recent years.

The wages vary from $600 a year to $1,100 on the average up to $1,800. All in all there are about 600,000 workers in the needle industry, of whom about 400,000 are in the east, the rest spread all over the rest of the U. S. A.

Needle Trades Bureaucracy Does a Little Expelling.

Old Sam Gompers originally started with some Irishmen and Germans to organize the vast army of needle workers. These people thought a union job would be as good as being a grocer or shining shoes politically to Murphy of Tammany Hall, and that's where, historically speaking, the trouble started. The socialist party in its heyday, with its big Jewish daily the Forward, got after Gompers and his crowd and got control of the unions. Old Sammy was sore at the socialist party for years on account of this. Only in his last days did he try to forgive and forget in order not to play into the hands of the left wing. Sidney Hillman, at present president of the A. C. W., and J. Schlesberg, now secretary-treasurer, had the courage in those days to tell Sam's bosom friend, T. Rickert, president of the United Garment Workers, to go plumb to hell when the latter railroaded the convention in Tennessee and made a sell-out in the settlement of a New York clothing workers' strike. Hillman and Schlesberg formed a union outside the A. F. of L. and this so-called dual union grew in power and strength and crowded the A. F. of L. union out of the picture. Here you meet the first case of expulsion.

Then when the socialist bureaucracy got into control they became very practical, so much so that some members thought there was no difference between old Sam's friends and them. Thereupon the anarchists, who were then in their prime, picked up the discontent and captured some offices, and there we had a little more expelling. But the real "trouble" started when the Trade Union Educational League got into the picture. First the bureaucracy tried to ignore it, then some of them tried to play politics with it, then they got the hysterics and started to expel. But this time the opposing side, organized and led by the T. U. E. L., learned something about tactics from past experiences. After a few months most of the expellers were kicked out of office by those they sought to expel in the most spectacular fight of its kind the American labor movement has yet seen.

But it was not the expulsions that really broke the neck of the old bureaucracy; the expulsions were merely the match applied to a powder magazine. The real cause was that for years the earnings of the needle workers were going down, due to the shortening of seasons. The employers got away with their tricks of moving their factories out of the organized centers into small unorganized towns. The big employers gave up their factories and transformed themselves into merchants (jobbers) that had their garments made per bundle orders from small sweatshops (contractors), thru whom they escaped responsibility for union conditions, and sold the garments thus produced in retail stores.

The old bureaucracy, partly because it was corrupt and partly because of stupidity and laziness, did not do anything to remedy this situation. As this bad situation came to a head the bureaucracy grew more despotic and indifferent to the interests of the members. The left wing had a sensible and constructive program, and knew how to utilize the bureaucracy's backwardness and mistakes, and finally won.

The above only applies to the ladies' garment and fur workers. The Amalgamated Clothing Workers' officials, once considered amongst the most progressive, but who also grew stale in their offices since their successful rebellion against old Sam Gompers, at first refused to join in the expulsion policy. They claimed to have a cleverer way of beating the left wing. The success of the left wing in the other trades and its powerful reflex upon the members of the Amalgamated got the officials scared out of their wits and they also got the hysterics, and like an ugly prostitude dropping its camouflage and embellishments, they threw off their masks of progressivism overnight, and here we had some more expelling, of which good use has been made by the lefts in the preliminary skirmishes that took place as a result of it.

First Round of Battle with the Employers.

Considerable of the old bureaucracy were crowded off the picture. The left wing was determined to make good against the employers and get improved conditions for the workers. Agreements were expiring all around and we had not even the time to get thru any of the reforms that would change the old, croaking union plow into a modern tractor. After some preliminaries, the employers hit us at our strongest point, the furriers. The old bureaucracy played on open strike-breaking tactics, in which they were supported by Wm. Green, president of the A. F. of L.; H. C. Frayne, New York state representative of the A. F. of L., and the entire official socialist party crowd, the deceased Mayer London included. The left wing, leading the union, utilized the situation to cement the strikers into a militant army and got all sorts of support from unexpected sources as a result of it. It was a hard-fought struggle, with plenty of big, shrewd maneuvers, to which Wm. Green can testify to his sorrow. A struggle in which they were all laid over the table and got their fill at the hands of the young union leaders of the left wing. The result of the fight was that the furriers achieved the first notable victory of organized labor in recent years by getting the 44-hour five-day week and substantial wage increases, which makes them the best-paid workers in the needle trades. The victory could have been more complete and quicker if not for the strike-breaking interference of the right, wing bureaucracy. Wm. Green got no more as a result of what he got that he is now trying to kick up some more trouble for himself by uniting with the discredited old furriers' bureaucracy trying to stage a probe of the conduct of the furriers' strike, probably as a preliminary to new wholesale purgations of the left wing.

The Cloakmakers' Strike.

THEN defeat the right wing gave the Furriers' Union as a result of its strike-breaking tactics was so shattering that it almost created an open rupture amongst themselves. Even in the cloakmakers' strike they disfigured their tactics carefully. In public they talk militantly, their press writes militantly, but their sabotage is quite apparent from their every maneuvers with the governor of New York and from the encouragement they give to scabbing and to shifting production outside of New York. As illustrated in Philadelphia, two floors from New York, where the agreement expired during the strike and between the demands for 40 hours, "peace" put up, the agreement had been renewed with a slight wage increase, practically on the old conditions, thus encouraging the New York employers to shift some of their production outside.

The leopard may travel a different road, but he has not changed his nature. We know what our enemies are. The employers are thoroughly aware of us and will support the old bureaucracy more than ever. The outstanding fact is that it took the left wing to lead the workers on to an offensive against the employers for the 40-hour week, higher wages, job control, while the rest of the unions under reactionary leadership are meekly surrendering or accepting crumbs from the table of the industrial overlords and kings of American capitalism. Let us hope that this offensive will spread to all the exploited, organized and unorganized, for the 40-hour five-day week, higher wages, job control and a strengthening of the whole class everywhere.

Someone is eweys taking the joy out of life.

The Rolling Farmer

By JOEL SHOMAKER.

SIXTEEN million persons toured the United States, in private cars, during the summer of 1926. They used more than three million automobiles. They were classed as tourists, homeseekers or investors. The machines just went rolling along carrying passengers from somewhere to the land of nowhere. Some returned to their homes. Others found temporary employment. Many are roaming in strange lands.

Where the money came from to finance the summer vacation for approximately one-seventh of the people of this nation is an open question. Some families used the savings of years to pay expenses. Others borrowed funds from interest collecting money-changers. Many just fitted up for the occasion, with the least cash possible, and lived off the country. They were the farms of the west and were dispossessed.

Another caravan of mixed vehicles lined the highways of the northwest. It was the procession of homeless farmers on the way to reputed cities of refuge. The farms ceased to pay interest on investments, taxation for cost of government and the demands of local merchants and transportation agencies. The families were loaded into ancient wagons, dilapidated trucks or carts and taken on a pilgrimage for life necessities.

The highway travelers found that the stories about the western farmers rolling in wealth were mythical. They had their eyes opened to the false propaganda carried on by capitalistic politicians. They saw the marks of poverty. They counted the abandoned farms. They read the faces of dying women and observed the tottering steps of starving children. They asked questions and learned why those conditions prevailed.

Farmers and their families were running away from their homes. They gathered together a few personal belongings and set out for the cities where they expected to find work. They had to get employment in order to keep away the reaper of death. If the fathers and mothers could not make enough money to meet the daily obligations the children would have to be called and put in the harness of slavery.

Nature has not deserted the farmers. The soil remains fertile. The sun continues to shine. The rains come with the seasons. This old earth is not a failure. The grass grows luxuriantly. The crops mature and are plentiful. Fields yield good crops of corn, wheat and cotton. The orchards show fine fruits. The gardens produce splendid crops of vegetables. The lawns and walks are still ornamented with flowers. What is the matter?

Man is the power that drives farmers from their homes. He is not one of the farmers. He is one of the many engaged in the work of robbing the farmers. He gets his land, derives his profits made by handling the products of the farm. He may be a local merchant, general buyer, money lender, transportation agent or professional man. He may be a town builder-up-city booster. He prospers because the farmer produces things on which he collects his profits.

The western farmers are face to face with real conditions. They are not dealing in theories. They have long ago cast aside the old superstitions about farming. They know that the old sports tales about the law of supply and demand are mere fables. They are not repeating the warning story about the rolling stone that gathers no moss, to their children. They know that the farms do not pay for the reason that the bosses take too much toll.

The farmers are rolling away from the clutches of conditions. They cannot stand against the ever-receding tides of night drafts on their industries. They are tired of working twelve to fourteen hours a day, seven days in the week, while those who toil not neither do they spin but feed on the farmers for the necessities and luxuries of life. The present movement of farmers from the land to the cities is merely a backward step.

What of the future of agriculture in the United States? It is full of shadows. There are bright spots on the sun of prosperity and dark conditions on the face of the moon of progress. The farmers cannot exist on the proceeds of the land. The masses depending on the farmers for support must find other fields to explore and other people to exploit. In the meantime, the foundation of the nation—successful agriculture—is fast slipping into the dismal sea of oblivion.

YOU are on a rather busy street. At least the "public" that vague entity whose name is often taken in vain by politicians, in passing by, curious perhaps at your writings, but wholly uninterested as to whether you live or die.

You are writhing for the good reason that a burly footpad has gotten you down. He has his foot on your neck and his business partner is leisurely going thru your pockets. Strangely enuf, you resent this sort of thing and in your writhing struggles conceive the bright idea of upsetting the fellow who has his foot on your neck and kicking his partner in the face.

BUT just as you are on the point of carrying this idea into action, a kindly-faced old gentleman, who has for some time been gazing on the affair with an interest seemingly purely objective, rushes over and holds up a warning hand.

"My good man," he says, using the term delightfully fitted to benignant superiors, "let us have peace! Above all, you must do no violence. I feel a deep sympathy for you. I share your suffering—at least I did once. But highway robbery has gone on thruout the ages. God has undoubtedly desired it to continue. So why struggle? Struggles between the robber and the robbed are a waste of social energy. Besides, you should consider the robber's point of view. It would be much better for all concerned to sit down calmly together at a table and come to an agreement as to whether they should take everything or leave you a Mite. Then you could hurry back to work and get some more."

THE agile-fingered gent who has gone thru your pockets meanwhile, also exhibits a philosophy Turning to his accomplice he says sociatically:

"My esteemed colleague, let me introduce you to a JUST MAN!"

* * * * *

WILLIAM B. WILSON is a JUST MAN.

This is certified by no less an authority than Roger W. Babson.

Mr. Babson, it must be remembered, is the gentleman who conducts a statistical bureau for the service of the capitalists of this country, tells them in advance whether business will be good or bad and gives them reliable advice as to whether labor will stand for greater exploitation or not, and in general serves as brains for tired business men who have none, or who are too busy inspecting the Follies.

MR. BABSON wrote a book, a whole book, a few years ago, to tell the capitalists of his country that William B. Wilson is a JUST MAN. It is entitled—"W. B. Wilson and the Department of Labor," and it has an introduction by John Haya Hammond, whom all wise coal diggers will remember advocated an open shop fight against the union in the anthracite strike last year.

John Hays Hammond also certifies that W. B. Wilson is a JUST MAN. This open shopper coyly remarks that it was his "privilege to be able to contribute some influence in securing the creation of the Department of Labor, and with others interested in the movement I believed that William B. Wilson was pre-eminently qualified to become the first secretary."

"WILLIAM B. WILSON," says Hammond, "had been an American wage earner from boyhood; he possessed that knowledge of and sympathy with wage earners which is an indispensible qualification for the head of a department of the government whose function is to safeguard the interests of the wage earners of the country.

"He had other qualifications—a judicial character of mind, a judicial temperance and a lifelong and intelligent interest in public affairs, and above all an unimpeachable reputation for sterling integrity. I believe that Secretary Wilson has fully justified the confidence reposed in him by those who advocated his appointment."

* * * * *

WHEN leading open shoppers and experts in the service of capitalist exploitation begin to go into raptures over a politician's qualifications to safeguard the interests of wage earners, and take the trouble to create a government department for that alleged purpose and place him in it, it may well be said that the wage earners concerned had best look with careful scrutiny at the whole blooming lot.

But we are immediately concerned with William B. Wilson for the reason that he is asking the wage earners of Pennsylvania to elect him to the senate of the United States on the democratic ticket this year.

WILSON is profiting by the fact that the republicans have violated the eleventh commandment: they have been caught. The investigation of the republican primary elections in Pennsylvania has covered both Vare and Pepper with the same slime. In Pennsylvania and thruout the nation the democrats, having pleaded the statute of limitations against their indictment for wallowing in graft during the war, are pointing at Pennsylvania republicans and crying out: "Look at the crooks!"

In such a situation a democrat who has never been caught in anything worse than murder is a good bet for to win the election. But when they put up a man whose reputation for "sterling integrity" is "unimpeachable," as is as good as elected.

THE cry for "clean government" following the slush fund exposures is taken up on every hand. The Bavaria, "profoundly shocked" for the 9,999th time at learning that capitalist democracy is dirty and far from democratic spiritually recover in time to join the crusade for clean capitalism, repressing for the time their desire, born from petty-bourgeois defeatism, that capitalism get along without politics.

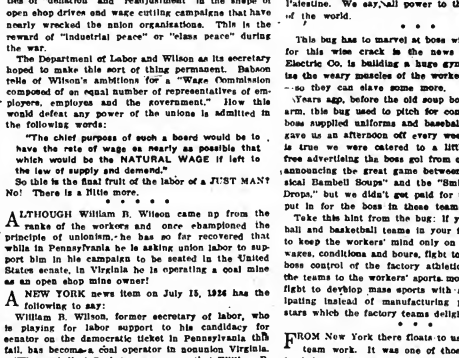
"Old-fashioned honesty" is brought forth, virtue and righteousness are extolled. In shining armor "Uprightness" goes forth against "Corruption" and over the great state of Pennsylvania even the offer of Bethlehem shines down upon William B. Wilson, a "good man"—a JUST MAN.

* * * * *

TO paraphrase an old saying: Some men are born "just," some acquire it, and some have "justness" thrust upon them. William B Wilson had to acquire it, apparently against all logic, against his interests as a wage worker during the early part of his life. He wasn't born that way.

Babson tells of how in 1868, when William was six years old, the mother and children were evicted from their home at Blanchhead, Scotland, one bitter winter morning. The father, a coal miner was on strike and the company had evicted the mother and children from the two-room hovel onto the snow covered street.

WILLIAM B. WILSON



Drawing by O'ZIM.

LITTLE William had not yet learned the philosophy of class collaboration which like a fairy wand, was to make him a part of the capitalist government and the capitalist class fifty years later. He acted like a miner's son ought to act. He was filled with hatred for the law of capitalism in the form of the bailiff who came to put his mother out of their poor shelter. He, the only six years old, grasped the elemental fact of struggle in his mind, and in his hand clutched a big knife which he intended for the bailiff.

Here was a picture of one little moment in the age-long tragedy of the women of the workers. Out of the pits of the mothers and wives of the miners thru the age of steam Lives of sodden toil and drudgery and in articulate suffering.

ANY working class boy who has witnessed and felt the pain in his mother's soul when her man and her brood is struck down by the brutality of capitalist exploitation, and whose class hatred is not seared into his soul forever by the pleture, either lacks something elemental or has a genius for recovery that is not to be proud of.

William B. Wilson boasts that he got over it. "It seems funny to me as I look back on it today," he told Roger Babson from his chair as secretary of the Department of Labor in the United States government. "My understanding of the matter is that the action by the coal company in this affair was entirely within its rights under the law."

* * * * *

"THERE was not the human liberty," Wilson says, "there were not the human opportunities existing there that we found here when we came." This in reference to the family's migration to America where, none the less, they landed in the coal camp at Arnot, Pennsylvania, to find that—

"Everything was owned by the company, from the railroad station to the last house. Everything must be bought from the company, from the baby's nursing bottle to the aged man's coffin."

* * * * *

WILLIAM B. WILSON recovered from the adversities of life as a breaker boy, as a miner, of the persecution, including the blacklist and injunctions he fought against as a union miner and official of the United Mine Workers of America. "He was most unjustly boycotted by the mine owners," says Babson. "Yet he was not in the least bitter toward the employer. His feeling toward such was generous." Babson tells of his one-time attitude toward the injunction the West Virginia mine owners got to stop support to strikers:

"An injunction, he said, "that restrains me from furnishing food to hungry men, women and children, when I have in my possession the means to aid them, will be violated by me until the necessity has been removed or the corporeal power of the court overwhelms me, I will treat it as I would an order of the court to stop breathing."

ALL this has been recovered from by Mr. Wilson along with his days of poverty as an immigrant worker and union man. As a congressman and member of the executive arm of the government he has quite other opinions, or at least his action and philosophy run fairly contrary.

In order to prove to the capitalists that William B. Wilson is a valuable servant of their interests, Babson wrote his book "My object," he says, "is to give manufacturers, merchants and other employers a correct view of the Department of Labor and its work. The policies of the Department of Labor can never be understood except by knowing the man who constructed these policies."

Babson then gogs on to say:

"I have never known an instance where employers have been better off by not taking the secretary's advice." And he proceeds to prove it.

* * * * *

PERHAPS it was the young miner's "education" in the economics of Adam Smith and the bible which swayed Mr. Wilson's latter life into class collaboration. When, as a breaker boy he got some of these exploited youths to strike against a wage cut and went as their spokesman to the foreman, this worthy "settled the strike" by giving him a beating.

"Ever since that day," says Wilson, in trying to rationalize his regeneration from the spirit of struggle, "I have not believed in the use of force to settle labor disputes. What we need is justice, fair play, that will result in a permanent industrial peace."

IN congress, to which he was elected in 1906, he defended the mine owners from charges that they ignored the safety of the miners. "I take it," he said, "that no gentleman will assert that the coal operators or other employers deliberately create conditions in the mines by which the lives and health of their employes are endangered."

Yet in view of the continuous disasters that carry off a whole army of dead and wounded from the mines of America every year, and in view of the experience of the coal miners who know, this is exactly what the operators are doing. Wilson's "Christian tolerance" had become betrayal.

AS Secretary of Labor Wilson's affection for class peace blossomed like the green bay tree. The department was created in the last days of Taft's administration, and the following administration of Woodrow Wilson formally organized it and appointed William B. Wilson as secretary. From then on, government intervention in industrial disputes on behalf of "conciliation" and "peace" has been the order of the day.

While the department was created to aid wage earners, supposedly, Babson wisely reminds his readers—"Nor is there any implication that the wage earners in whose behalf this department was created consist of such only as are associated together in labor unions."

"Secretary Wilson always leaned over backward in favor of the employers who had open shops," says Babson on page 231 of his book about William B. Wilson.'

"EVEN in those days (when Wilson was still a union leader) Wilson was preferred by the rich interests of the Fifteenth Congressional District to any other labor leader they knew.

Babson quotes W. B. Nearing a prominent employer as saying: "Wilson is a friend of capital as well as of labor."

As secretary of Labor Wilson served capitalism well. He opposes socialism as "impractical." He opposes general strikes. In fact he opposes all strikes.

WHAT is the chief purpose of your life as you see it?" he was asked.

"Establishing industrial peace," Wilson answered instantly.

As secretary of labor during the war, Wilson aiding in mobilizing labor for class collaboration in behalf of "democracy," alias capitalist imperialism. His heart, that ached for "peace" between bosses and workers, ached nary an ache for international peace. He created a whole series of bureaus and sections of the department to see that labor helped capital win the war.

AS secretary of labor, Wilson, in charge of the immigration bureau supervised the "deportations delirium" and "red raids" against the foreign-born. He aided in establishing legislation that would let in the docile wage slave and shut out the "agitators."

An "Information and Education Service" was created in the department during the war, and Babson was appointed upon it—"to promote sound sentiment and to provide appropriate machinery and policies in individual plants."

WHAT are "sound sentiments?"

Babson tells how Wilson judged the propaganda for wartime collaboration. He says that whenever possible he, Babson, took publicity copy to Wilson to criticise. What happened is told in the following manner:

"The secretary insisted that we should use the word 'we' instead of the word 'you,' never saying 'You should produce more,' but 'We should produce more.'"

"When I wrote the words, 'You should stick to your job,' he would correct it and say 'We must stick to our jobs.'"

THUS it was that We won the war!

Thus were created some 17,000 new millionaires, about 100,000 new graves, several times that number of war-maimed workers, and labor was let in on the beauties of "deflation" and "readjustment" in the shape of open shop drives and wage cutting campaigns that have nearly wrecked the union organizations. This is the reward of "industrial peace" or "class peace" during the war.

The Department of Labor and Wilson as its secretary hoped to make this sort of thing permanent. Babson tells of Wilson's ambitions for a "War Commission" composed of an equal number of representatives of employers, employes and the government." How this would defeat any power of the unions is admitted in the following words:

"The chief purpose of such a board would be to have the rate of wage as nearly as possible that which would be the NATURAL WAGE if left to the law of supply and demend."

So this is the final fruit of the labor of a JUST MAN? No! There is a little more.

* * * * *

ALTHOUGH William B. Wilson came up from the ranks of the workers and once championed the principle of unionism, he has so far recovered that while in Pennsylvania he is asking union labor to support him in his campaign to be seated in the United States senate, in Virginia he is operating a coal mine as an open shop mine owner!

A NEW YORK news item on July 15, 1926 has the following to say:

William B. Wilson, former secretary of labor, who is playing for labor support to his candidacy for senator on the democratic ticket in Pennsylvania this fall, has become a coal operator in nonunion Virginia.

"The periodical Coal Age announces that William B. Wilson and Daniel Wilson of Allport, Pa., have leased from the Bingley coal tract at Robins, near Midlothian, in Chesterfield county, Virginia. Production is to start at 300 tons a month.

"Chesterfield county coal lands depend for their market largely on preferential freight rate treatment by the Interstate Commerce Commission. It is a completely nonunion field."

* * * * *

THIS ends our account of William B. Wilson, evangel of industrial peace, a nonunion coal operator—and a JUST MAN, who insists that the robber and the robbed, the exploited and the exploiter, have a "common interest"—to elect him to the U. S. senate from the state of Pennsylvania.

Let the coal miners of Pennsylvania beware of any "justice" that they do not get, and hold, by their own organized force. Let them know that if they want any man, however "just" to represent their interests, they must build their own forces in politics, in a Labor Party, just as they must protect their interests by their own organization of labor in a powerful union, opposed to the interests of the employing class.

A Chinese Joke

CHIANG Kai-shih, commander off the Canton armies, whose brilliant victories show him an able strategist, is also a humorist. His one-time friend, Mr. Fu Siao-an, at the head of the Shanghai chamber of commerce, picked the moment of national revolution to make an appeal for "peace." Chang sent Fu a letter saying:

"Recently news reached me that you dispatched a telegram requesting the termination of hostilities. But, I being engaged in war, have not yet read it."

SPORTS

THE colleges are collecting. Every big football game last Saturday drew at least twenty thousand bugs at so much per cremped space. Besides that, there is pro football. Naw Red Granges are being developed. Gifted boys who went to college and learned how to kick shins, squash noses and heave a good forward pass, can now face the world, grab "success" by the tail and make it come across. They are being grabbed up by pro football. Even nickle candy sticks and preserved meats are being named after these commercialised individual stars.

Then there are the successes of the world workers' sports movement, the Red Sports International. Since its last world congress the Norwegian section of the Red Sports International has grown much larger. In France, too, big progress to develop workers' sports can be recorded. While in the Soviet Union, the workers' sports movement is breaking the world's record for speedy growth. New workers' sports groups have affiliated with the Red Sports International in Sweden, Argentine, Holland, Japan, Great Britain and Palestine. We say all power to the labor sportsmen of the world.

This bug has to marvel at boss wisdom. The reason for this wise crack is the news that the Western Electric Co. is building a huge gymnasium to revitalize the weary muscles of the workers who slave there—so they can slave some more.

Years ago, before the old soup bone became a glass arm, this bug used to pitch for company teams. The boss supplied uniforms and baseball outfits and even gave us an afternoon off every week for practice. It is true we were catered to a little because of the free advertising the boss got from our games, such as announcing the great game between the famous "Musical Bambell Soups" and the "Smith Brothers Brain Drops," but we didn't get paid for the extra time we put in for the boss in those teams.

Take this hint from the bug: If you have such football and basketball teams in your factory, which aim to keep the workers' mind only on sports and not on wages, conditions and hours, fight to do away with the boss control of the factory athletich and to affiliate the teams to the workers' sports movement. We must fight to develop mass sports with all workers participating instead of manufacturing pro-boss individual stars which the factory teams delight in doing.

FROM New York there floats to us the news of good team work. It was one of those little advertised football matches between two workers' teams. The Red Stars were contending against the Progressives Club in a hotly fought match on October 10 in Van Cortland Park—and the Red Stars won with a score of 5 to 0.

The game started with borrowed strength. The Progressives secured two men from the nationalist "Maccabee," while the Red Stars had to recruit five men from their second team. The Progressives, either being a team of huskies, seemingly suffered from a slight lack of team work and played in crowds, while at the same time the defense line of the Red Stars was less skillful than that of the Progressives.

At the second half fists almost flew when the center forward of the Progressives charged that the Red inside right was employing rough tactics. Which again goes to show how militant the labor sports movement is.

Sharkey socked Wills for a row of ten dollar seats. That makes him a "logical" contender for the heavyweight championship. Har, har and a couple of ho-hos. Tunney just won and has arranged for a year of shadow boxing—in the movies and on the stage. So the New York boxing commission put Sharkey's challenge "on file." We hope Sharkey is not soft enuf to believe that a heavyweight boxing championship is a question of boxing supremacy. Them days is gone forever. The noble art of lifting faces has fallen on evil days. When this bug wants to see a boxing match he goes to a workers' sports symnasium. Professional boxing reminds him too much of safety deposit boxing in the bank.

We Have Passed the Ten Thousand Mark, But We Have Only Started

By JAY LOVESTONE.

THE friends and supporters of The DAILY WORKER have answered our call to Keep The DAILY WORKER. We have collected to date, exactly, more than $10,000. But this is only a small part of the fund we must raise if The DAILY WORKER is to exist.

We must have, within the coming few weeks, the full quota of $50,000. So far we have gotten only $12,000 of the money we need. Of course, there is considerable money in the hands of our friends and sympathizers. Bazaars, banquets, rescue parties, mass meetings and dances have been arranged. All of this will not considerable funds but we must hurry in our efforts. Every Workers Party district organizer and city secretary should immediately rush what he has on hand. There is no use of waiting to send big lump sums. Keep the flow steady even the little funds that you will send now won't be so big as you hope to send later.

By the end of October, we should have at least $15,000. This will give us the chance to put thru some of our plans for a better DAILY WORKER. This will give us a chance to meet some of the bills which we should have met long ago. The readers of The DAILY WORKER must keep in mind that the capitalist institutions are not as generous with The DAILY WORKER as The DAILY WORKER is with the trade unions and labor organizations in the matter of credit.

We have a big paper bill to meet. We must meet this bill within three days. If we do not do so, there will be no paper on which to print The DAILY WORKER.

Unless $5,000 are collected by the Keep The DAILY WORKER army within this week, it means that we cannot have paper on which to print the daily.

If you want to keep The DAILY WORKER than say so now. Do it now. Better today than tomorrow. Don't postpone. In this case, it may be too late. Whatever funds you can possibly secure, do so instantly and rush the contributions to the Keep The DAILY WORKER Fund.

The class conscious workers don't have to be convinced of the necessity of keeping The DAILY WORKER. But it is necessary that the class conscious men and women, the readers and supporters and friends of The DAILY WORKER go out amongst their fellow workers and convince them that The DAILY WORKER must be kept alive and going stronger than ever.

This is not a hard task. You have done it before. You can do it now. But you must do it more energetically and more quickly than ever before.

Everything else that you are doing must take a back seat before the main task—Keep The DAILY WORKER.

DENY NEW SACCO-VANZETTI TRIAL

Current Events

By T. J. O'FLAHERTY

NOW, that Debs is dead the capitalist arts are very willing to present him with a pair of wings and permit his name to be mentioned in polite circles. The man who was the bete noir of American capitalism for over a generation is no longer a danger—so the capitalists think. It is true that they pass lightly over his anti-war record when commenting on his death. To brave the militarists when they have decided on a mass blood bath is to set a bad example to the cannon fodder. Therefore, even the many capitalist papers now express doubt as to the wisdom of this country entering the world war, they are always careful to eulogize anybody who would carry his objections to the point of active opposition when the war dogs have begun barking.

LOCAL Terre Haute papers, the so-called labor paper that exists there, as well as the capitalist papers slobbered over the memory of Debs. But not the real Debs by a long shot. The Debs the capitalists and labor fakers eulogized could not well be distinguished from a retired and reformed pirate who had decided to spend his declining years doing penance for his sins, by spending part of his loot in works of mercy, thereby winning the affections of those whom he benefited.

THE labor paper talks about standing by his grave, cherishing his memory in his heart and such stereotyped twaddle, but instead of pledging to carry on the militant fight that Debs waged against capitalism it says:

"The passing of Debs takes the last of the great labor leaders of the world, of the old school of thought, at a time when labor is demanding a more spiritual and humanitarian settlement of its problems." Debs did not believe in "spiritual" and "humanitarian" settlements of the labor problem. What the labor editor means is that our modern labor leaders do not believe in labor fighting for its rights. They favor begging the capitalists for favors.

THE local capitalist paper says: "The world is assimilating Debs. There is seen here and there the assimilation of industry. There is noted growing shareholdjage in enterprises. The elevation of the general living scale owes some of its materialization to Debs. Those things have come about under names other than Debs had for them." Thus the capitalist paper echoes the views of the labor paper, in different words. Capital and labor are getting nearer to each other! in fact it is no longer easy to tell them apart! This is the jargon that seeks to steal the inspiring memory of Debs' life-long battle from the workingclass of America who are yet as enslaved as when Debs first raised his voice in their behalf.

AND none of the speakers at the funeral services for Debs, did much better. Hillquit, with a smirk on his countenance as if he were auctioning off a watch, talked of Debs' "spiritual stature" and "moral grandeur." Similar tosh was piled on the late Warren G. Harding. Hillquit talked of his

THOUSANDS OF WORKERS GATHER AT 'GENE DEBS' BIER TO PAY LAST TRIBUTE TO LABOR'S CHAMPION

By T. J. O'FLAHERTY

Thousands of workers' representing every race under the sun, gathered in Terre Haute, Indiana, last Saturday to pay a last tribute to 'Gene Debs, the beloved working class leader, and as fearless a fighter for labor as the American labor movement ever produced.

They came on trains from distant cities and in trolley cars from neighboring towns. With uncovered heads they stood in a reverential attitude around the modest home where the now silent battler for labor lay cold in death.

Debs Hated Capitalism.

While much has been said of the universal love that Debs inspired, the audience was composed of workers almost exclusively. The socialist leaders who are now trying to transform the fighting Debs into a puny pacifist, were not able to convince the capitalists that Debs loved them.

No man in the history of the American labor movement hated the capitalists more than did Debs and the capitalists love the traitor like efforts of Norman Thomas, Morris Hillquit, Victor Berger and Seymour Stedmen, in carefully prepared speeches at the services, to represent Debs as "the perfect lover" the pages of American labor history in which Debs participated have a different story to tell. Debs was "the perfect hater" of capitalism.

Chicago Delegation.

Early on Saturday hundreds of workers began to make their way to Terre Haute. There were delegations from labor organizations. The Amalgamated Clothing Workers of Chicago

ALL-UNION COMMUNIST PARTY IN PLENARY SESSION DISCIPLINES LEADING MEMBERS OF OPPOSITION

By JOHN PEPPER

(Special Radio to The Daily Worker)

MOSCOW, Oct. 24. — The published announcement of the results of the October 23 Plenum of the Central Committee and the Central Control Commission of the All-Union Communist Party, adopted the following decisions:

"In view of the violation of party discipline by Trotsky, Zinoviev, Kamenev, Pietakoff, Evdokimeff, Sokolnikoff, Smilga, members of the Central Committee, and Mrs. Nikolaieva, deputy member of the Central Committee, the Central Committee censures these above named and warns them that such conduct is inadmissable for members of the leading party organ.

"As Zinoviev does not express the political line of the All-Union Communist Party within the Communist Internationsal, and in view of his leading factional work within the Communist International having lost him the confidence of the Communist parties (German, British, French, American and others) as declared in their decisions, the Plenum considers impossible further work by Zinoviev in the Communist Internationsal.

"In view of the leading factional activities by Trotsky and Kamenev since the July Plenum, Trotsky is relieved of his duties as a member of the Political Bureau of the Central Committee and Kamenev is relieved of his duties as a deputy member of the Political Bureau.

"In view of Dserjinsky's death, Arkhelshvili, first candidate to Central Committee membership, is elected to be a member of the Central Committee."

The Plenum decided to add to the agenda of the party conference to be held beginning the 26th of October, the question of the opposition and the inner-party situation, with Stalin as the reporter.

COMMUNIST CANDIDATE DENOUNCES KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS; REJECTS INVITATION TO CHICAGO "ROUNDUP"

Denouncing the Roman Catholic Church and its subsidiary, the Knights of Columbus, as enemies of the working class, and calling on all Catholic workers to help build the trade unions, help organize the labor party and depend on their own powers of leadership, J. Louis Engdahl, candidate for the Workers (Communist) Party for United States senator from Illinois, has replied to an invitation of the Knights of Columbus to attend its "Festival and Round-up," this week at the K. of C. Building, 4711-21 West Madison Street.

The blanket invitation of the Knights of Columbus was undoubtedly mailed to all candidates, accounting for the fact that one was sent to the Communist candidate. It was signed by Peter M. Kelly, chairman, and Francis Murphy, secretary, and was no doubt an effort to annex a good chunk of the campaign slush fund of the old party candidates. Engdahl's letter sent to Chairmen Kelly follows:

K. of C. Gets Rejection.

Peter M. Kelly, Chairman.
Knights of Columbus,
K. of C. Building,

LONDON, Oct. 24.—In the Lanarkshire coal fields the government is using open violence against the striking miners. In addition the government forces descended upon peaceful mass meetings and broke them up with violent clubbings of the workers.

THURBER LEWIS AND WIFE MARGUERITE HAVE A NEW STAR BOARDER

Yesterday morning, Thurber Lewis, a member of The DAILY WORKER editorial staff, called up and announced that his wife, Marguerite presented him with an eight-pound junior Communist. Thurber was so happy that he took a day off. Asked what name would the young soap-boxer bear, Thurber announced it would be Tom, but he was quick to make it clear that the honor was for his father and not for another member of the editorial staff that carries the same christian name. The mother and baby are doing well and The DAILY WORKER editorial staff extends a hearty welcome to the newcomer.

EARTHQUAKE IN SOVIET ARMENIA KILLS HUNDREDS

Disaster Leaves Path of Destruction

(Special to The Daily Worker)

LENINAKAN, Armenia, Oct. 24.—An earthquake which shook the whole of the Armenian Soviet republic last night, killed or buried alive more than 300 persons in and around Leninaken, a city of 90,000, formerly known as Alexandropol. Half of the town was destroyed, and hardly a building escaped damage.

Thusands Injured.

The injured are believed to run into the thousands altho in most cases the injuries were comparatively slight. The confusion and terror among the populace were heightened by erroneous reports that Mount Ararat of biblical renown, was erupting. The death toll undoubtedly would have been far greater had not the principal shocks been preceded by lesser tremors, which drove the residents into the streets. In this way, they escaped the worst effect of the later shocks, which continued at intervals until midnight. Shocks were felt at Batum, in the Soviet republic of Georgia, about 130 miles northwest of Leninaken, as late as 11 o'clock at night.

New York Hears of Quake.

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—A heavy death toll has resulted from an earthquake which late last night and early today shook most of Armenia, it is indicated in a cablegram received by the Near East relief office.

The late reports to the Armenian headquarters of the Near East relief indicate that "hundreds are dead and thousands are injured and homeless," the cablegram to the New York office said.

15,000 Sleep Unsheltered.

"The Near East relief building at Leninakan was severely damaged. All the orphanage workers and 15,000 children are sleeping outdoors.

Leninakan, Armenia, is the headquarters for Near East relief in Russia and Armenia. It is a city of between 50,000 and 60,000 population. There are 300 Near East relief buildings located there, on the outskirts of the city. They house 15,000 children and are valued at $1,500,000. Forty Americans are located in Leninakan.

Storm Damages Cuba Embassy.

WASHINGTON, October 24.—The American embassy at Havana was damaged by the destructive cyclone which struck Havana yesterday, American ambassador Crowder informed the state department today. No one was injured. The embassy staff is safe.

JOE TUMULTY IN BIG VICTORY IN SUB-DIST. SEVEN

Progressive Hands the Machine a Knockout

(Special to The Daily Worker)

COLLINSVILLE, Ill., Oct. 24.—The important convention of Sub-district No. 7, of Dist. 12, U. M. W. A., heard Joe Tumulty, candidate for president of the district, tear into the half-hearted, operator-fearing or operator-controlled policies of the present district officials, and outline a militant program of nationalization of the mines, no wage cuts, abolition of the precedents in joint board cases, ousting of the operators' influence in the union, organization of the unorganized, and a generally militant policy, in line with that already set forth by John Lewis candidate for international president.

Machine Gives No Program.

Before Tumulty spoke, Harry Blakwick, Walter Nesbit, and William Stewart, the machine candidates for re election and present officials of District 12, had had their turns. They gave the miners assembled there nothing whatsoever in the way of an analysis of the desperate situation of the miners' union at present, or any plan of action for next spring when the bituminous coal contracts expire.

They confined themselves to funny stories, for the most part. Nesbit went so far as to say that miners should have honest elections, and he "hoped that miners' elections never would descend so low in fraud and swindling as the civil elections." He also cautioned the miners that their officers would be attacked by those anxious to get their jobs.

Nesbit on Election Crook Himself.

Tumulty was able to show that Nesbit himself sat in the district executive board meeting when the rawest vote-counting and vote-stealing frauds were perpetrated, and aided in rendering the decision by which these frauds were legalized. He did nothing to prevent official approval of those local union secretaries who carried away the ballots from the polling places before they could be counted.

And Tumulty showed that Nesbit himself had profited from the scandalous circular letters by which Duncan McDonald, his predecessor in office was smirched, and defeated.

Fishwick and Sneed Run Away.

By the time Tumulty had started the talk, Fishwick and Sneed had fled from the meeting, but Nesbit stayed and took his medicine.

Tumulty was introduced by the president of the sub-district, but he himself made his introduction a little clearer by immediately announcing that he represented the radical progressive element in the union, opposed to the dry-rot which conservative and corrupt policies had brought about.

Sub-District President Progressive.

In a strong speech he outlined the necessity of organizing the nonunion districts and vigorously attacked all

The organizers of the meeting desire to give every section of labor an opportunity to pay a tribute to the great working class fighter.

NEW GERMAN FOREIGN POLICY CRITICIZED BY HIGH SOVIET OFFICIAL

(Special to The Daily Worker)

RIGA, Oct. 24.—The present foreign policy of the German Reich was criticised by Litvinoff, deputy foreign commissar, in a speech at a banquet in honor of a group of Prussian industrialists who are here to arrange for factory concessions. Litvinoff reminded the Prussians that it was the Soviet government alone that had made it possible for Germany to gain its place among the nations.

Rapallo and other German-Soviet treaties, he said, had stood the test and proved a source of strength to both Germany and Russia in critical moments.

The Russian government, he reminded them, had loudly protested against the treaty of Versailles, the occupation of the Ruhr and the anti-German activity of the conference of ambassadors and the league of nations.

His speech is the first public expression of the official attitude toward Germany's present tendency in foreign relations.

JERSEY POLICE STOP WEISBORD FROM SPEAKING

C. L. U. to Challenge Elizabeth Cops

ELIZABETH, N. J., Oct. 24—The police here broke up the meeting at which Albert Weisbord was to speak Friday night, raiding the hall and driving out the audience. Waisbord was speaking in the name of the Workers (Communist) Party.

The Civil Liberties Union is taking up this challenge over free speech, and will hold a meeting in Elizabeth on Wednesday, October 27, at the Lithuanian Liberty Hall, 249 Second street.

At the coming meeting the Civil Liberties Union will place on the speakers' stand, Louis Budenz, editor of Labor Age, Robert Dunn, prominent publicist and Arthur Garfield Heyes of the C. A. U.

When these have spoken the meeting will be turned over to the Workers (Communist) Party and Weisbord will continue the speech interrupted by the Elizabeth police on Friday.

Mexican Arms Ban Doesn't Apply to U. S., Say Officials

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—Government officials here construe the action of the Mexican government banning the importation of guns and ammunition into Mexico from other countries as not applying to the United States. They reason that since the Coolidge government has already placed an embargo against shipping of war materials into Mexico, the action was meant for other powers. Other nations do permit shipping of the materials to Mexico.

JUDGE THAYER SAYS EVIDENSE IS "INSUFFICIENT"

Execution May Follow Legal Appeals

(Special to The Daily Worker)

BOSTON, Mass., Oct. 24. — Judge Webster Thayer has denied Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti the right to a new trial asked for on the grounds of newly discovered evidence, and by this denial has done all he could to send these two famous victims of a capitalist class frame-up against two foreign-born workers to their death in the electric chair.

Judge Thayer is known among lawyers as a vain and egotistic judge, and his decision that the evidence offered by William S. Thompson, defense attorney, is "insufficient," is filled with cynical indifference to the fate of the two workers and contains terms of insult directed at defense witnesses whose testimony he could not answer.

Calls Witness "Liar."

The "honorable" judge, who could find no way of inverting the statements of Celestino Madeiros, a man himself doomed to die, that a certain "Morelli gang" of criminals, with whom he was associated, committed the payroll robbery and murder charged against Sacco and Vanzetti, attempts to sweep aside these statements which are borne out by many other witnesses, and send Sacco and Vanzetti to death by the mere assertion that Madeiros is "a crook and a liar."

The "honorable" judge, who could not deny, and would not allow the defense a new trial to prove the statements of two former agents of the department of justice, to the effect that Sacco and Vanzetti were framed up on the murder charge of which the department of justice and the state's attorney knew they were innocent, because they were known to be "reds" —dismisses these statements as "unimportant."

U. S. Government in Frame-Up.

The "honorable" judge, who could not answer the statements of defense counsel, supported by numerous affidavits, that the United States government and its department of justice had concealed evidence showing Sacco and Vanzetti to be innocent, openly flaunts the decision of the capitalist dictatorship to murder these two workers, by cynically "chastising" defense Attorney Thompson one of the most eminent lawyers of New England, without—he it noted allowing Thompson to take up the challenge before a jury in a new trial.

A Tyranny.

Concerning the phase of the case, Thompson has said:

"When a government can suppress and keep secret evidence bearing upon the cases of men on trial for their lives, that government has become a tyranny and no man's life is safe."

"Anything is Correct"

The Massachusetts state prosecutors also are charged with suppressing evidence in order to get a conviction. The defense has shown that a conspiracy existed between the prosecutor and department of justice of the United States government to send these men to their death as "one way of disposing of them."

The present prosecutor, Dudley F. Ranney, even upholds this by saying, "The state has the right to put in as good a case as it can."

A Frame-Up.

This is did under the previous prosecutor, Frederick G. Katzmen, by suppressing evidence, by subsorning perjury in identification of Sacco and

...Y COME TO SETTLEMENT IN ...DATE STRIKE

...Meeting with Bosses Is Scheduled Monday

A committee representing the Negro women date staffers who have been on strike for more than three weeks against wage reductions and bad conditions at the Marsa and company factory, will meet with the employers Monday afternoon at headquarters of the Chicago Federation of Labor. An attempt will be made to outline a means of arbitrating the controversy which resulted in the strike, it is announced.

Employers' Move.

This move was taken Saturday by the employers immediately following the police court hearing on the arrest of pickets Friday morning, following a fight between the strikers and the cops. The employers suggested that the conciliators of the department of labor be asked to arbitrate the strike.

Vice-President Nelson of the federation, who represented the strikers at the hearing, agreed to a meeting on Monday.

All of the arrested pickets were released by the court and the charges dismissed.

More Arrested.

Friday night witnessed another attempt of the police to break the strike, when they swooped down on seven pickets who were peacefully parading near the premises. They arrested seven pickets, and attempted to keep them in jail over night, but the strikers were bailed out. Two girls 16 years old, were also taken to headquarters, but were released almost immediately.

Seek Dissolution of Injunction Against Upholsterers' Strike

HARTFORD, Conn., Oct. 24.—With a petition to have dissolved an injunction against their picketing granted the L. Schorkin and the Acme Upholstering companies here, the Hartford Upholsterers' Union, Local No. 36, appeared in superior court. Judge Nicheron announced he will hand down his decision on the petition Monday.

It is entitled that there was no reason for an injunction as they were picketing peacefully, and that they had not done nor threatened to do anything from which they should be enjoined.

The pickets who were arrested last week by police were tried and released. The court ruled there was no evidence of law violation.

Morale of the strikers is excellent.

THOUSANDS OF WORKERS GATHER AT 'GENE DEBS' BIER TO PAY LAST TRIBUTE TO LABOR'S CHAMPION

sent a large delegation of 500 on a special train.

On this train there was also a delegation from the International Labor Defense, composed of James P. Cannon, David Rhys Williams, Ralph Chaplin, Rose Kassner, George Maurer, David J. Bentall and Max Shachtman.

The special train was under the supervision of Charles Burr of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers and the arrangements were carried out with precision and efficiency.

Marched from Station.

The Chicago delegation formed in a line at the station and marched two abreast to the Debs home. They viewed the casket which lay in the parlor. Many eyes were dimmed with tears as they filed silently and with bowed heads past the body. It was hard to realize that this was the 'Gene who electrified hundreds of thousands of workers with his fiery oratory from thousands of platforms throughout his long career in the revolutionary movement.

It is estimated that approximately 5,000 workers viewed the body on Friday evening while it lay in state in the Labor Temple. At least as many listened to the speakers at the services on Saturday afternoon.

Speeches Out of Harmony.

Considerable criticism was levelled at the national executive committee of the socialist party for the manner in which the services were conducted. The speeches, with the possible exception of William A. Cannes's, were entirely out of harmony with the fierce hatred for capitalism that burned in the heart of Eugene V. Debs. And the committee took care that the name of Soviet Russia would not be heard, the none loved the Workers' Republic hatter than did the departed leader.

Ralph Chaplin, a close friend of Debs, and like Debs, an ex-class war prisoner, requested the committee to give Rev. David Rhys Williams, of the I. L. D., permission to say a few words of appreciation of Debs in behalf of the International Labor Defense, of which organization Debs was an executive committee member and an enthusiastic supporter. The committee refused this request. In fact, with the exception of vague references to Debs' anti-war record, hardly a word was uttered by the speakers of the things that Debs held dearest to his heart.

"No greater piece of vandalism was ever committed over the grave of a revolutionary leader," was the comment made by a spectator.

Misrepresenting Debs.

As Thomas in his ministerial manner delivered his eulogy, one who did not know Debs might have that that he was speaking of some harmless pastor. No mention was made of the Debs who called for an army to march on Idaho if the authorities refused execute Moyer, Haywood and Petibone. No mention was made of the Debs who helped organize the I. W. W. or the Debs who tore the political hide off the scoundrelly John Mitchell and the equally scoundrelly Samuel Gompers because of their treachery to the workingclass.

Debs must be saved from his "friends," those wolves in sheep's clothing who seek to rob the American workingclass movement of one of its brightest jewels in its traditional crown.

James P. Cannon, announced that the International Labor Defense was arranging a series of meetings on a national scale to pay tribute to the real Debs, the Debs who fought for class war prisoners and against capitalist tyranny everywhere.

Body Taken to Station.

At the conclusion of the services the body was taken to the Union Station and put on a train bound for Indianapolis, where it will be cremated. After cremation the ashes will be returned to Terre Haute and buried with private services.

As the body was borne from the little home on 8th Street to the station, the mourners marched four abreast and three policemen with heads uncovered could hardly keep back the tears. They were old friends of 'Gene. They did not take their eyes off the humble coffin until it was put on board the train. This was a tribute to the great hold Debs had on the affections of thousands outside the trade union movement, even those who may not fit the strict sense of the word be considered workers.

Hillquit to Get Debs' Place.

The general opinion among socialists present was that Morris Hillquit would succeed Debs as national chairman of the socialist party. Whatever regrets Hillquit and his machine may have over the death of 'Gene Debs, they are personal. They are now relieved from the nightmare of having a national chairman, a man who was opposed to the league of nations and the world court, who was a friend of Soviet Russia, a supporter of the left wing in the trade union movement, a defender of class war prisoners—in fact he was against everything the Hillquit crowd is for and for almost everything they are against.

But the American workingclass will he told the story of the real Debs. His contribution to the American workingclass movement will not be allowed to rest in Hillquit's nail pierced hole or in the pacifist tabernacle of a pulpitless preacher.

PHILADELPHIA CARPET STRIKE PICKETS JAILED

Fight Open Shop and 15% Wage Cut

By J. O. BENTALL.
(Special to The Daily Worker)

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Oct. 24.—Seven pickets were arrested near the Philadelphia Carpet Company factory, where a hasty strike has been on for four weeks.

The cop who made the arrest proved a very poor witness when he came before the magistrate.

"What were the strikers doing when you arrested them?" asked the attorney for the pickets.

"They were blocking traffic," answered the cop.

"Were they marching?"

"No," said the flustered bluecoat.

"Were they standing still?" asked the attorney.

"No, they were not standing still," came the reply.

"If they were neither walking nor standing still, what were they doing?"

"I don't know. I was just ordered to make the arrest," admitted the cossack.

The arrest of these seven pickets, most of whom were young workers, was apparently pulled in order to get material for the hearing of an injunction that was issued over a week ago, but which, for lack of reason for making it permanent, has been hung on the strikers without a hearing.

The case was dismissed and the strikers warned to not walk, or stand, or fly at, or wear, or be in the proximity of the said Philadelphia Carpet Company shop.

At all of which the pickets smiled and made ready to walk and stand and fly wherever and whenever they felt they cared to do so.

The strike is the result of a 15 per cent wage cut imposed by the Philadelphia Carpet Company. This is the first wedge in the drive of the open-shoppers to break up the union of the carpet workers, which is the best organised of any union in Philadelphia, having fu ll 100 per cent of the carpet weavers in the city.

The strikers demand the removal of the wage cut and the recognition of the union. The bosses declare that they will no longer recognize the union, but will deal with each individual who comes back to work.

This particular factory was chosen to start the job of breaking up the union, and if the bosses succeed here all other carpet factories will cut the wages and refuse to deal with the union.

Only a few scabs have been secured so far. Some of them have already left and joined the strikers and are now on the picket line. Among the most active pickets are the young workers. They lead the line and sing songs of cheer.

The scabs are hauled to and from the shop in funeral wagons furnished by the Heinel Bros., 3437 N. Broad street, at $60 a day.

Judge's Decision in the Sacco-Vanzetti Case Is New Challenge to Labor

By J. LOUIS ENGDAHL.

THE expected happened.

Judge Webster Thayer has denied a new trial to Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti.

Capitalist justice runs true to form. In spite of the mountain of facts, proving the innocence of these two workers of the crimes charged against them; the judicial lackey of the profit handiks hands down his decision bolstering the anti-labor frame-up of the money class.

Judge Thayer is loyal to the faith that his class has placed in him.

But the end is not yet. The six years' fight for the lives of Sacco and Vanzetti goes on. But it must not be on aimlessly and half-heartedly. It must develop into a mighty challenge that will loosen the grip of "the New England gang" upon the throats of our comrades.

Sacco and Vanzetti have faith in the working class. This faith has buoyed them up during their years of imprisonment. The workers everywhere, men, women and children, must prove loyal to that faith, just as loyal as Judge Thayer has shown himself to the trust put in him by the shoe factory and textile mill owners in Massachusetts, who war to the death against the hundreds of thousands of wage slaves dressed in their mills and factories. The cold-blooded effort, unswerving over a period of six years, to take the lives of Sacco and Vanzetti, is but part of the war that has flared in great industrial struggles at Lawrence, Haverhill, Brockton and elsewhere, whenever labor began to strike at the chains.

Judge Thayer in his decision says that Celestino Madeiros, the 24-years-old youth sentenced to die for an alleged murder committed in the Wrentham National Bank robbery, is "a crook and a liar whose word cannot be taken." Thayer takes the word of Joe Morelli, the fr ght certhief of Providence, R. I., as against the word of Celestino Madeiros, drawn into criminal career at the age of 18 under the intelage of the Morelli gangsters. Judge Thayer, therefore, cannot help but stamp himself with the same criminal brand. He has developed an alliance with the Morelli gang. He becomes the protecting shield of the Morellis, to hide the truth and defeat the ends of justice in order that the profit system may take the lives of two innocent workers. Judge Thayer must have feared the new trial that would have brought out, into the clear light of day, his own crooked record in the conduct of this historic case.

It must be a conscienceless capitalist judge indeed who brands as "crook" a 17-years-old youth who never had a chance under the ruthless rule of the robber system as it is found in the New England states. The affidavit of the youth, Madeiros, showing Sacco and Vanzetti guiltless of the South Braintree crime, which he charged the Morelli gang committed, becomes an enlightening chapter in labor's history, while Thayer's decision helps smut up a little more, if this is possible, the black record of the present criminal rulers of American industry. If it is crooked to shield the real criminals in the South Braintree crime then Judge Webster Thayer is a condemned "crook," beside whom the worst Morelli gangster must appear lily white.

Judge Thayer also charges in his decision that Madeiros is a "liar." Then why doesn't the proud "Commonwealth of Massachusetts" and the United States government that stand back of Judge Thayer prove Madeiros a "liar"? Even a snake can hiss. But that doesn't prove anything, except possibly in a capitalist court. Everything that Madeiros now claims, even the police agents of Massachusetts and Washington admit they suspected six years ago. Attorney William G. Thompson, counsel for Sacco and Vanzetti, shows there is plenty of evidence on which to bring the Morelli gang to trial for the South Braintree crime. If Judge Thayer is so anxious to prove Madeiros a liar why doesn't he join in bringing the Morelli gang to trial for the South Braintree affair. He doesn't dare because he knows that that other man is telling the truth Such a liar is Judge Thayer.

Judge Thayer brings his decision within the scope of extreme ridicule when he declares that the statements of the two former government agents are "unimportant." It was these statements of the two ex-agents of the department of justice, Lawrence Letherman and Fred J. Wyzanski, who probably committed their first act of decency when they got out of the festering criminal nest misnamed the "department of justice," that showed the government officials never really believed either Sacco or Vanzetti guilty, but that they were radical workers and the government wanted to "dispose of them." Any judge that can claim such statements are unimportant ought to be sent to the psycopathic ward for serious and thoro investigation as to his mental status. Labor must not be deceived by the ravings of this madman of capitalism.

The fight goes on. Judge Thayer has again denied the demand for a new trial. The case will again go before the supreme judicial court of Massachusetts on law points, as the nature of the testimony cannot be gone into, for this falls the fight goes up to the supreme court of the United States on a constitutional point.

During these days ahead the American working class must develop that passion in the struggle for its own, that will force capitalist justice to reverse itself and free the prisoners of the class war, Sacco and Vanzetti.

CHICAGO QUOTA IS $150,000 FOR NEW YORK STRIKE

Sunday Conference Aids Relief Plans

Chicago's quota for the support of the 40,000 New York cloakmakers who have been in strike for 15 weeks against low wages and long hours will be $150,000, it was decided at the conference of delegates from Chicago labor unions at Ashland auditorium.

More than 200 delegates attended, representing about 50 organizations. The conference was called by the joint board of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' unions.

Work with C. F. of L.

It was decided at the meeting that the needle trades unions would co-operate with the Chicago Federation of Labor in raising the needed funds. A committee of five was appointed to have charge of arrangemuts. It includes Anton Johannsen of the Chicago federation of Labor, Ben Levine of the I. L. G. W. U., Robert Goldstein of the Furriers' union, Sam Levine of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers, and Al Henneson of the Workmen's circle.

The committee was instructed to open headquarters for the campaign at the Chicago Federation of Labor office.

Plans for a big day, house-to-house subscription canvass, and a concert for the benefit of the strikers were ordered prepared.

Portnoy Talks.

Julius Portnoy, of New York, one of the leaders of the strike, addressed the conference and he stressed the importance of the strike to the entire labor movement. The strike is a showdown battle against the misuse of judicial power, he said, in issuing injunctions, and affects the status of all organized labor.

The joint board reported that $10,000 had already been sent to New York and that another contribution of $10,000 would be forwarded within a few days. The cloakmakers here have lost $30,000 as their goal, the board reported.

A meeting of the executive committee of the strike relief will be held Monday to arrange for definite plans on the total raising.

Special Membership Meeting.

The joint board has called a special membership mass meeting for Tuesday night at the Schoenhofen hall, Ashland and Milwaukee, to consider such measures as may be necessary in the strike. All members of locals 5, 14, 58, 60, 61, 100 and 104, are urged to attend. Representatives of the New York committee will be present.

Another conference of all labor leaders in the city is also slated.

FUR STRIKERS OF BOSTON IN SHOW OF UNITY

By PHYLLIS FENIGSTON.
(Special to The Daily Worker)

BOSTON, Mass., Oct. 24.—A mass meeting of striking Fur Workers was held Tuesday night, Oct. 19th at 21 Essex St., to counteract the insidious reports about disagreements between the union leaders, which the employers are spreading to destroy the morale of the Boston strikers.

Branding these rumors as the usual tactics of employers, and the same used in the struggle of the New York Fur Workers in their 17 weeks' battle, Ben Gold, manager N. Y. joint board of Fur Workers laid down the proper discipline for striking workers "In a struggle with employers," he said, "there are no differences between the leaders. All disagreements disappear and a solid body of workers, united in purpose, faces the enemy.

"The employers always know the following day," he continued, "what has taken place at our meetings, and when they hear of our enthusiasm and determinatinu to win at any cost,—starvation too, if necessary—they will recede even farther from their position, in which I noticed yesterday at the conference, they are already wavering.

An attempt had been made the previous day, at a conference with the employers, to swindle Gold from the deliberations, but they were forced to admit him.

The Capmakers have sometimes provided as many tickets as the Furriers, and their offering of themselves so generously, in defense of their brother workers, is a remarkable display of the solidarity that is growing amongst the Needle Trades Workers of Boston.

Thomas Mott Osborne, Millionaire Warden of Sing Sing, Dies

AUBURN, N. Y., Oct. 24.—A heart attack is believed to have been the cause of the death here last night of Thomas Mott Osborne, internationally known prison reformer and founder of the Mutual Welfare League. He was stricken on the street and dropped dead.

COMMUNIST CANDIDATE EXPOSES ACTIVITY OF KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS

so-called "Festival and Roundup" being given by your organization, the Knights of Columbus, in your "Million Dollar Club" building. I am herewith sending you my emphatic rejection.

It seems that your invitations were sent generally to all candidates of all parties contending in this fall's election campaign. This explains the fact that one was sent to me. No doubt many of the republican and democratic candidates will spend part of their "campaign funds" in reaching your seat, in the hope of getting the votes of some of your boasted 7,500 members. This would only indicate that your members are unprincipled enough to sell themselves to either one of the old political parties, thus proving the bipartisan character of the Roman Catholic Church, of which your organization is but an instrument.

An Aid to Employers.

You say that your managing committee expects an attendance of from 15,000 to 50,000 during your week of festivities. This may be true. No doubt many of these will be workers, toiling for wages, the victims of others who are capitalists. Your organization has always rallied in support of your capitalist members as against your workingclass members. This was especially true during the great stockyards' strike that broke the unions of the packing house workers.

But I am especially interested in your request to "inspect our beautiful building and see for ourselves the wonderful work we are doing for the youth of the west side."

As attitude of the Roman Catholic church, and its Knights of Columbus, toward the youth is not new. Your church combats the public school system with your own parochial school system that enslaves the children, as well it may, to your particular brand of stultifying religion.

Mexicans Overthrow Serfdom.

For centuries this system prevailed successfully in Mexico under the most terrible tyrannical government, holding the masses of workers and peasants in the straightjacket of ignorance and illiteracy, while the church grew wealthy and powerful. It is to be credit of the Mexican masses that they are emancipating themselves from this serfdom, that the Roman Catholic Church would impose upon the peoples of the United States, for was it not the Catholic hierarchy that fought mere viciously than any other element, the effort to pass the anti-child labor amendment to the federal constitution, freeing childhood from industry.

Any progress that American youth achieves, must be won against the opposition of the Roman Catholic Church and your organization, the Knights of Columbus. Since the republican and democratic parties stand for things as they are, their candidates will gladly visit your "festival and Roundup" and thus strengthen the capitalist reaction of which you are a part. Communists can only oppose that reaction with every strength they can muster, until it has been completely abolished. It is on this basis that Communism makes its appeal, even to the youth and adult labor at present misled by your Roman Catholic Church. Catholic workers will progress only as they join the forward march of the whole workingclass. They must help build militant labor unions, organize a workers' political party of labor party, and depend on their own powers of leadership and not on the employer-serving type that your organization represents.

Very truly yours,
J. Louis Engdahl, Candidate,
Workers (Communist) Party,
For U. S. Senator from Illinois.

Meeting Tuesday Night.

C. E. Ruthenberg, general secretary, Workers (Communist) Party, and J. Louis Engdahl, will be the speakers Tuesday night at the Communist campaign meeting to be held at Northwest Hall, North and Western Aves.

Youth Gets Stay of Execution.

Eleventh hour activities in behalf of Richard Evans, 20-year-old slayer of Policeman Edward C. Fluegan, sentenced to hang tomorrow, brought a two weeks' stay of execution from Judge Herry B. Miller, of criminal court.

Relief Measures Are Considered to Help Beardstown Victims

Relief measures will be necessary for Beardstown and other areas of central Illinois devastated by the recent floods for the remainder of the year, Thomas M. Temple, executive secretary of the Chicago chapter, American Red Cross, reported on his return from the stricken section.

95 per cent of the homes in the flood area are unfit for occupancy, Temple reported. Farmers, with their grain crops badly damaged, are in most unfortunate circumstances, he said.

policies which weakened and hindered the union from a militant career. Among these he listed the expulsion program of John Lewis and others which the remnants of the Farrington machine still profit by, and called for the penalizing of those responsible for depriving Gary, Waite, Freeman, Thompson, Corbishley and others of their rights as union men, merely because they were enemies of the machine.

He called for education of young miners in labor colleges to make the future leadership of the union. He demanded that the union enforce the Jacksonville contract, and raise wages rather than lower them. He insisted that men discharged must be allowed to work until the joint board settles their cases. And he declared war to the flush on all who opposed these "Save the Union" policies.

In particular he insisted on short-term contracts in the soft coal region, so that when nounnion men go out on strike for recognition of the union and improvement of their conditions, they will find the union men ready to go with them, and stay until there is one contract for both of them.

The convention delegates swarmed around him at the finis to shake hands and pledge their support in the election.

BED MAKERS' STRIKE GOING 100% STRONG

The strike of members of Local 114 of the Mattress, Box Spring and Spring Bedmakers' Union against the Superior Fair and Bedding company of 2447 Roosevelt road is still ou 100 per cent, with militant picketing going on effectively against the company's efforts to mobilise scabs.

Almost all the strikers are Negroes, and these have shown excellent fighting spirit on the picket line, worthy of any trade union struggle.

Mere Cops Than Scabs.

About two dozen private detectives and police are guarding ten or eleven scabs, who scurry like rats when they see a union men.

Effective picketing has stopped the last loads of prospective scabs, hired thru employment agencies. These guarded by cops melt away when they see the picket line, and only a few who stick to scabbing are escorted into the factory by burly police, like prisoners going to jail.

Company Hard Hit.

The company has asked the men to come back on the old conditions, but this was refused. The demand is recognition of the union. While the manager, J. J. Shaw, says he is willing to "accept" men with union cards, the strikers insist that he "accept" the union by signing up an agreement officially and using the union label.

BRITISH COAL MINERS' STRIKE BRINGS FAMINE OF FUEL TO THE IRISH

DUBLIN, Oct. 24.—The British coal strike has brought a coal famine in Dublin. The cold weather has brought great suffering and with sleet and early snow many in the tenement districts are tearing out door castings, balustrades and other wooden fittings to use for fuel, much to the dismay of the landlords.

own "personal" loss in the death of Debs. Seymour Stedman, rigged out like a collector of antique beer steins, read a few pages of eulogy in which the words "moral" and "ethical" were conspicuous.

VICTOR BERGER boasted that he introduced socialism to Debs, but Berger has now deleted the word "revolution" from his vocabulary. William A. Cannes, attorney, who was a member of the legal staff that defended Debs in Cleveland during the war, delivered a glowing tribute to Debs' courage during the trial and mentioned some touching incidents, which showed the indomitable spirit of the man. But no attempt was made to link up any of those acts with the class struggle to which Debs was always true.

IT is well that the International Labor Defense has decided to hold Debs Memorial Meetings thruout the country. It would be a pity indeed if the right socialist political ghouls were permitted to misrepresent the life-work of one who deserves so well of the workingclass. Debs belonged to the radicals, and even tho in late years, since his release from prison, where his health was broken, he has expressed disagreement with the Communists, yet, in practice Debs stood for almost every concrete proposal concerning the labor movement that was advocated by the Communists.

New Trial Denied Sacco and Vanzetti

Vauzetti and the arms with which the crime was supposedly committed.

Evan the jury who tried Sacco and Vanzetti was selected—hand-picked—to deny chances among their friends.

The crime charged was the murder of a shoe factory paymaster in South Braintree, Massachusetts, on April 15, 1920. Fred Moore was the attorney for the defense during the early part of the case. Now the defense is in the hands of William G. Thompson, former president of the Boston Bar Association and a conservative of conservatives, who, nevertheless, has become convinced that Sacco and Vanzetti are not guilty of the crime charged and are persecuted because they are "radical" foreign born workers.

Slim Legal Chance.

Sacco and Vanzetti have only the slim legal chance of appealing from Judge Theyer's decision to the supreme court of Massachusetts and, if they decide these workers must die, to the supreme court of the United States. Thompson goes before the state supreme court Monday.

But the Massechusetts supreme court has shown its readiness to send Sacco and Vanzetti to the electric chair, by a previous decision that they had "a fair trial" in the first hearing.

Under Palmer Regime.

Altho the Braintree murder was committed on April 15, Sacco and Vanzetti were not arrested until May 5, in Brockton, under the "red raid" regime of former U. S. Attorney General Palmer, who himself is now charged with graft in the custodianship of alien property seized by the government during the war.

MODERN ARMS TO WIPE OUT YAQUI TRIBE

Planes to Conquer Old Mountain Indians

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 24.—The rebellious tribe of Yaqui Indians, incited against the government by the catholic church, are to be forced to relinquish their centuries old mountain retreats in Sonora if the formidable military campaign now opening against them is successful.

Never fully conquered by Spaniards or Mexicans during hundreds of years, the Yaquis now face the alternative of surrender or annihilation, for the Mexican government has concentrated an army of 18,000 troops, armed with many sort of modern weapon, airplanes, bombs, machine guns, mountain artillery, aero-photography, and searchlights.

Yaqui a Brave People.

Most of the troops are themselves Mexican Indians, and have a high respect for the Yaquis, who have many times given their services in the cause of the revolution against Diaz. And are famed as one of the bravest and most noble tribes of Indian blood.

It is asked why the campaign of wiping out the Yaquis is the purpose of the government, an army official replied:

"It must be done for the unity of the Mexican nation. The state of Sonora, one of the richest in Mexico, has been held back three centuries because of the presence of the Yaquis, through whose land railways should be running today.

"Tides of Civilization"—And Yaqui Bombs.

"When they are defeated, we propose to remove all Yaquis from the state of Sonora, and let civilization into the Indian country as the United States did on numerous occasions when the tide of civilization rolled up against a tribe.

Questioned as to the government's intention to establish the Yaquis on reservations, the official answered:

Scatter the Survivors.

"That is just what we do not propose to do. They will be scattered thruout Mexico on small holdings and given every chance to make good."

The campaign is being run by the council of war, in which General Obregon is taking active part. It may be more than a coincidant, however, that Obregon is the reputed owner of vast land holdings in Yaqui land and has his own interests in mind as part of the "tides of civilization" now ready to crush the Yaquis with poison gas and machine guns.

SOVIET UNION MAKES RAPID RISE IN MOTION PICTURE PRODUCTION SAYS U. S. TRADE COMMISSIONER

(From United States Daily.)

George R. Canty, American Trade Commissioner at Paris, has just informed the Department of Commerce that rapid strides are being made by Soviet Russia's motion picture industry, which so far this year has produced some 30 films. Mr. Canty says history is largely the Russian theme. His report is the basis for the following statement issued by the Department of Commerce.

Film production in Soviet Russia has recently become as great an influence in the "movie" world as the Moscow Art Theater productions have become on the contemporary stage, if German reports can be credited.

Hold to Historical Theme.

Seventy new Russian films, it is reported, have already been added this year, and about as many more are in course of completion. While the Russians are holding fast to the historical picture, possibly for domestic appeal and edification, nevertheless many of their films are planned for the world markets.

Examples of their historical themes show one Russian film, including the story of the rising peasantry and its leader, Rasin, a popular Russian hero of the 17th century, and another dealing with Ivan the Terrible and his reign. "The Year 1905" is obviously a Soviet propaganda film, while the "Ninth of January" is a story of the people's demonstration outside the Winter Palace and the cossack attack that led to the 1905 revolution.

Revolutionary Films Produced.

In addition one may find a "Pushkin and Nicholas the First" film and of much popular interest in its relation to the more immediate past "Rasputin's Plot." "Wrangle" and "The End of Kolchak" deal with the troubled days of the so-called civil war in Russia, just after the close of the world war.

The present reported physical condition of the Soviet peasantry is unquestionably the reason why so much care and money necessarily is being devoted by the Soviet authorities to enlightening the populace on questions of health and hygiene.

Part of this campaign, and a very important part, too, is the production under customary government supervision of pictures dealing with scarlet fever, tuberculosis and skin diseases in its various forms. These pictures are being shown wherever it is possible for a picture to be projected.

BRITISH LABOR GROUND UNDER BY TORY RULE

Workers' Conditions on Down Grade

LONDON, Oct. 24.—(FP)—British labor has suffered a distinct degradation of conditions in many fields during the two years of tory rule that have followed the pulling-down of the labor party government, says the London correspondent of the International Federation of Trades Unions in a gloomy review of the situation.

Unemployment.

The unemployed, not including the striking miners, numbered 1,664,000 in July, 1926, as against 1,089,000 in July, 1924. The number of persons receiving poor law relief fell under the labor government from 819 to 772 per 1,000; under the Baldwin government it rose to 421 per 1,000 in March, 1926. During the first 11 months of the labor government wages per week were rose by about $2,350,000 a week; in 1925 they fell by $400,000 e week, and between January and July, 1926, by about $365,000 a week.

Unemployment benefit rates were raised during the labor regime; since the tories took charge the government has cut its appropriations for this purpose by $50,000,000 a year, $100,000,000 e year end has cut the expenditures on health insurance and education for the workers. At the same time Baldwin's government has reduced the super-tax and income tax payable by the rich—by $150,000,000 in his first budget and by $210,000,000 in his second. Import duties pressing heavily on the poor have been increased.

Labor legislation proposed by the workers and rejected by Baldwin's government includes improved compensation for accidents, ratification of the Washington 8-hour day convention, minimum wage for miners, protection of workers against unhealthy and dangerous conditions at employment, maintenance of the hilind, and abolition of tax on tea and sugar.

Co-operation and Trade Unionism

By JOHN HAMILTON.

GENERALLY the relations between the trade union and co-operation movements have been cordial. The report, for instance, of the parliamentary committee of the Trade Union Congress for 1888, stated that: "The interests of our two movements are absolutely identical. Co-operation is essentially a labor movement; the flower of our workmen are its supporters, and many of our prominent unionists are among its trusted leaders. . . It is undeniably a movement for the elevation of the working people. Duty and self-interest should, therefore, alike prompt the unionists of the country to do all they can to assist its progress and shape its policy by becoming its active coadjutors and associates."

The A. U. C. E.

But the foundation of a special trade union for Co-operative Employes in 1891 was a prick to the Co-operative conscience. This union from 1898 was known as the Amalgamated Union of Co-operative Employes, and in 1911 formed a strike fund. By amalgamation (1921) with the Warehouse and General Workers' Union it became the National Union of Distributive and Allied Workers.

There is no striking difference between the status of the worker in co-operative employ and his fellow-worker in capitalist employ. Indeed, the conditions generally of co-operative employ have been rather aptly described as "not so good as the best, better than the worst, and about as good-as the average." The increasingly bitter relations of the Stores and the C. W. S. with the employes' Union has resulted in the establishment of boards and wages boards, local and national with the object of settling disputes.

One of the most hotly debated questions was the proposed minimum wage scale. In August, 1907, the C. W. S. Committee agreed to the A. U. C. E. minimum of 24s. for man. But it was more difficult to obtain the minimum for women. The Woman's Co-operative Guild urged this at their congress in 1906, and a joint committee eventually drew up the "congress scale" in 1908. But it was not until 1914 that the C. W. C. put the scale in force completely.

Another keenly debated question was the right of employes and their right to representation on boards of management. Many years ago the Rochdale Society had the following clause inserted in their registered rules: "No servant of this society shall serve any office in the committee of management, nor be allowed to vote for any candidate on the committee of management, nor be auditor on any account whatsoever." This disqualification became obsolete but now-a-days the employes, as members of a society are not generally franchised. A number of societies now allow employes to be elected to boards of management.

The question of compulsory trade unionism has also agitated the movement, particularly the C. W. S. The directors were instructed to compel all employes to become trade unionists. Several delegates since then have complained of the non-enforcement of this resolution.* At the October, 1923, quarterly meeting of the C. W. S., the chairman said that it was impossible to enforce it: 2,000 employes "objected to being dragooned into a trade union." Further, his view was that, whereas the co-operative movement was conservative in its methods, trade unionism was essentially destructive.

"It was reported at a recent meeting of the Manchester and Salford Trades and Labor Council that of the 2,000 employes of the C. W. S. at their Balloon Street headquarters, about 1,200 were non-unionists.

"I DIDN'T LIKE STRIKE," GEORGE TELLS LIBERALS

Welshman Tries to Get Party Together

LONDON, Oct. 24.—Lloyd George denied that he backed the general strike in Great Britain, in his speech at Barnstable, in which he appealed for unity in the liberal party after the retirement of Asquith, Lord Oxford.

Condemned Government.

"I didn't approve the strike," said the Welshmen. "In fact, I condemned it unequivocally at the time as folly, and mischievous folly at that," he said. "However, I also condemned the misdeeds of the government at the time."

He attacked the government severely on its conduct of the strike. He called the government a foolish chauffeur who did not knew which way to turn, and who inavitably took the wrong turning.

Baldwin "Off the Map."

"And there is the prime minister," he said, "wandering about the country. He has no idea where he is. Somebody asks him where he is going and he says, 'I am off to find peace in our times, O lord.' As a matter of fact the poor man is off the map."

Lloyd George said that he was sorry that there was anything controversial in Lord Oxford's resigning, and said that Oxford was a "fine man" and e credit to England.

approval or disapproval, and without any lead for action. On October 7 the delegate conference meets again to receive the results from the districts and to reach a decision. (The miners have since rejected them.—Editor.)

What are the alternatives before the delegate conference on October 7?

Out to Wreck Union.

The government and the bourgeoisie are now openly sat on the complete breaking up and disruption of the Miners' Federation. They no longer seek even a dictated peace with a defeated enemy; their calculations and hopes are fixed on the individual rooting of the enemy, not merely on district, but on local settlements, separate pit settlements without the union machinery, and individual returns to work under the force of starvation. This aim is more and more openly proclaimed, in view of the complete treachery and inaction of the whole leadership of the labor movement, and the hesitations, surrenders and paralysis of the miners' leaders. Thus the Times declares its hope:

"By the time delegates return to London the unofficial return of miners to the pits may have passed more definitely beyond the control of the leaders."—(Times, Oct. 1, 1926.)

Government Ruthless.

And even the normally more moderate government organ, the Observer, which habitually preaches moderation in victory, is now in full war cry, and pours scorn on the surrenderers of the Miners' Federation:

"Now! They could have had it for the asking seven months ago. Nothing on earth can get the miners, after more than twenty weeks of the struggle, the terms that were in their grasp six months ago. They will have to give way on hours. They will have to face district agreements."

False Hopes of Peace.

The falsity of the hopes of a peaceful way out, of government intervention against the coal owners, etc., which the miners' leaders have been holding out as the principal hope during the past three months, is now completely exposed. The government position was sufficiently revealed in the parliament debate on September 27, when there was no longer any need for concealment. The myth of a fundamental division of policy between Baldwin and Churchill, or between the government and the coal owners, was blown to the winds. It is revealed that thruout the negotiations Baldwin and Churchill had been in daily, almost hourly, communication over every move, no less than the government and the owners; and that the throwing over of the Churchill formula of September 5 (embodying a watered down national agreement) for the Baldwin terms of September 17 (district agreements, lower wages, longer hours and compulsory arbitration in special cases) represented, not a division of the bourgeois front, but, on the contrary, a conscious hardening of the bourgeois policy in relation to the strategy of the position.

Foolish Illusions.

As for the supposed division between the government and the coal owners, which had become the whole basis of reformist labor propaganda, its character was sufficiently shown in Baldwin's speech, when his sole and earnest appeal to the owners' defence" of the government on the question of a national agreement, was, after accepting their policy, to reprove them for being so "discourteous" to the government.

In face of this the labor representatives could only declare, as MacDonald declared, that they had been "deceived." But this "deception" has cost the miners three months, during which the endurance power of the miners has been steadily eaten into, while their leaders, instead of strengthening the fight, have been pursuing these false hopes of peace, and thereby weakening the unity and confidence of the miners.

A Political Struggle.

Nothing shows the position more clearly than the facts declared by the miners' leader in parliament, Hartshorn, in the course of the debate, in reference to the Miners' Federation terms of a 10 per cent reduction in wages. He showed that these terms, on a basis of pre-subsidy prices, would bring in a profit in every district except Northumberland of from 5d to 7d a ton; actually the increase in prices would mean e much larger profit all round.

Nevertheless these terms are rejected as out of the question. Nothing could show more clearly that the conflict is more than an economic conflict; the aim of the government is e political one, aim to break the Miners' Federation as the remaining bulwark of fight in the working class movement.

Should Have Fought Reformists.

On the other hand, if the policy of pacifist hopes, trust in the intervention of the government as an impartial third party, etc., has been a failure, only strengthening the government's hands and confusing the miners, no less has been the policy of reconciliation with the reformist leaders in the hope of securing their assistance.

The leaders of the labor party and the General Council have shown a bankruptcy of ideas that only begins to strangle the miners' struggle, whether by their inaction or by their assistance. Nevertheless, the miners' leaders have refused to come to terms with them, and place themselves in their hands, rather than directly appeal to the aid of the working class, and stand out against the reformist traitors.

Cook Siebbers Over MacDonald.

The intervention of MacDonald and the labor party produced the surrender formula of September 3—the acceptance of e "reduction of labor costs." This formula, MacDonald has since explained, was worked out by himself and Churchill, in order to cover both wages and hours.

What have the miners received in return for these "friendly offices" of MacDonald, for which Cook publicly thanked MacDonald at Bournemouth? The immediate hardening of the government terms to the destruction of a national settlement. MacDonald declares that they had been "deceived"—but makes no proposal to meet such deception by action.

"No Criticism" e Trap.

The General Council, to whom Cook bound himself anew by his pact before the Trades Union Congress to make no criticism of them, and actually intervened to save them, have returned this service by banning even the raising of the question of the levy or the embargo at the congress, and have continued to settle any action or even organised material assistance of the working class movement, despite the universal demand at every district trades council conference, as well as by wholesale branch resolutions.

The hypocrisy of the international miners' committee at the meeting at Oxford on September 30, when it was confronted again with its pledges of international strike action and took no action, is no less clear.

Pussy-Footing Defied Nothing.

The steps of reconciliation of the miners' leaders to MacDonald, to the parliamentary labor party, to the general council, to the whole reformist leadership, have brought not one atom of support to the miners. On the other hand, they have confused the fight, disheartened the miners, created division between the miners' leaders and the left wing in the miners, who gave them their strength, and paralysed the fight of the other workers against the reformist leadership and to come to the assistance of the miners in spite of their leaders.

What, then, is to be done? The path of pacifism and appeals to the government is vain. The path of reconciliation with the reformist leadership is vain. Thess have prolonged and weakened the miners' fight to e dangerous and desperate point.

The Peril.

But equally vain is the path of leaction, of dragging on and waiting, on the present passive basis, for a settlement to come. This can only mean eventually, on the physical compulsion of starvation, a sporadic drifting back and disorganisation of the ranks. Cook himself has said, speaking in London on September 30:

"I could go down tomorrow to Notts and Derby coal fields and get the men who have gone back to come out again, but you cannot keep them there when they have not the means to live."

Attack or Retreat.

But what does this mean? Cook states it to justify his policy of compromise and vainly protected negotiations. On the contrary. The very urgency of the position means that the path of protracted negotiations merely plays into the enemy's hands, and that, if disorganisation is not to set in, either every resource of action must be brought into play at once, or, if all action has been tried and failed, then and then only a clear and conscious retreat must be carried thru, promptly, decisively, and directly led, such as will not disorganise but leave the movement all the stronger for e future struggle.

But has all action been taken? Again on the contrary. The path of pacific negotiation, and of reconciliation with the reformist leadership has led to neglect to concentrate on the one fundamental thing—the strengthening of the fight, even the direct appeal to the working class.

Left Wing Proposals.

The proposals of the miners' minority movement, consistently put forward at every conference in opposition to the compromise policy of Cook have never yet been attempted to be carried out.

First, the miners should bring out the safety men in every pit where coal is being raised. Cook himself has stated that the demand for the withdrawal of the safety men is universal from every part of the country. The federation officials have sometimes dallied with the threat. The Lanarkshire executive has passed a resolution calling for a national conference to decide on the question. Yet nothing has been done save in a few local ities by rank and file initiative.

Force the Issue.

Second, the Miners' Federation should appeal over the heads of the General Council, on what it is best as to waste time to every union every district committee and trades council for the love and the embargo and should send personal deputations to the executive of every union forcing the issue to the front, and at the same time calling for a special Trades Union Congress.

Third, the miners should appeal directly to the I. L. P and to the labor party to fight for the levy and the embargo.

Go First to the Workers.

Fourth, the miners should appeal straight to the workers in the docks, ships and railways not to let blacking coal, sending deputations of miners to organize mass demonstrations and agitate in every port, dock and railway center.

Working Class Ready.

These and other measures of immediate action are measures to awaken the response of the whole British working class, which has invariably shown itself ready to respond to every sign of strong determined and militant leadership witness the response to international guilty and to the general strike to avert and drive back even at the last hour the attack of the government on the whole working class thru the miners, but the need is urgent, and there is not a day left for delay. Delay means, not the "organised retreat" of which Cook has spoken, but disorganisation, drifting back and the break-up of the fighting.

Pittsburgh Fraction to Hold Organization Meeting on October 29

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 24.—The first organization conference of the city will be held on Friday night, October 29, at 7:30 p. m. at the party headquarters. Each and every unit in the district will send two representatives to the meeting. The party has done very good work since the reorganization, but it seems that the attendance of the units is not what it should be. The units must call special meetings. If necessary, to elect delegates to the conference. Each and every unit must be represented at the meeting of this conference, which is so vital to the party in the city.

The agenda for the meeting will be as follows: (1) Functions of the departments of the party, by A. Jakira; (2) reorganization and its effects, by B. Ljutich; (2) trade union work and fractions, by George Papcun; (4) agitprop, by D. E. Earley.

The best comrades of the units must be elected to the conference. It is your duty as a member of your unit to see that it meets and elects delegates, and that the following conditions be remedied. Looking over the party in the city you will find some very astounding faults which each and every Communist must immediately take into consideration. Out of 148 members on an average 25 members attend meetings. We find that only 80 members are industrial workers. 41 of them belong to trade unions. 39 of them are not in unions at all. Out of the trade union membership it is possible to organize eight fractions in trade unions and only one fraction is functioning. When you look at the above figures you will see the importance of attending your unit meetings and seeing that they elect delegates to this conference.

Cleveland Workers Plan Big Observance of Soviet Revolution

CLEVELAND, Oct. 24.—At a time when the workers and poor farmers of America realize most keenly their helplessness without organization, when the capitalist political parties openly demonstrate their contempt for the workers and their demands, and when great strikes of thousands of workers are agonizing the nation, unanimated "prosperity" of Cal Coolidge, the ninth anniversary of the Russian revolution occurs, teaching the much-needed lesson of organization for victory.

District Six of the Workers (Communist) Party has arranged a great celebration of this memorable event, to take place on November 7th at Moose Hall.

The afternoon program opens at 3 p. m., and consists of workers' choruses, tableaux, under the direction of Sadie Amter, and speeches, the main speaker being Comrade Bertram D. Wolfe, director of the Workers' School of New York City. In the evening, supper will be served, and there will be an evening of dancing.

All workers and their families are invited to come. Admission will be 50 cents.

Weisbord Speaks at Boston Celebration of Soviet Freedom

BOSTON, Oct. 24.—Boston is planning to celebrate the Ninth Anniversary of the Russian Revolution on a tremendous scale this year.

The Scenic Auditorium on Berkeley and Appleton Sts. has been engaged for Sunday afternoon, November 14th. The principal speaker of the celebration will be Albert Weisbord, leader of the Passaic strike. This will be the first time that Weisbord, who is a native of Boston, will speak in this city since the launching of the famous strike of the 16,000 textile workers.

In addition to the speech by Weisbord there will be an excellent concert by the best talent obtainable in Boston. Tickets for this affair will be on sale at the office of the Workers Party, 16 Causeway Street.

START WORKERS' SCHOOL IN N. Y. C. WITH 38 COURSES

Large Quarters and more Teachers

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—The Workers' School, 106-108 East 14th street, opened its fall term here with a curriculum of 38 courses. The registrants three times as many courses as last year. To accommodate the increased registration the entire top floor of the building adjacent to its present home has been taken.

The Workers' School has as its main purpose the training of workers for the class struggle, the turning out of Marxists-Leninists for leadership in the working class movement. The school is a powerful means whereby those who will be enabled to change their status and become free men.

Well Known Teachers.

The list of teachers includes some of the best-known leaders of the working class movement in this country. Bertram D. Wolfe, Scott Nearing, Moissaye Olgin, Robert W. Dunn, Benjamin Gitlow, William W. Weinstone, Arthur C. Calhoun and Michael Gold are but some of the instructors.

There are courses offered for both the elementary and advanced students among the workers. For those who wish to learn the English language it offers courses in elementary, intermediate and advanced English. For union members it has courses in trade union history and work, labor problems, history of the American working class, new tactics of employers. For class-conscious workers who wish to have a thoro understanding of the changes going on in society so as to be in a position to lead the workers in their struggle, the Workers' School offers such fundamental courses as Marxian-Leninism, American economic and political history, America today, advanced Marxian economics and background of world imperialism. In addition, the school offers special courses for members of the Workers (Communist) Party, a few of which are: The history of the Communist Party, the history of the three internationals, organization problems of the party.

Special Problems.

The working class of this country has special problems to face—the problem of the Negro, the working class woman, the youth and the working-class child. There will be courses dealing with each of these problems.

How to write for the workers' press, how to interpret current events—all these can be learned at the Workers' School.

Then there are workers who wish to know what developments there are in proletarian culture and how to interpret modern literature. These also are included in the curriculum of the school.

The fees are within range of every worker, as it is the primary purpose of the Workers' School to train as many workers as possible for the struggle for better conditions and for final emancipation.

A CORRECTION.

In the issue of September 20, in the story of the I. L. G. W. U. strike meeting in New York, one of the speakers, James Van Prat was incorrectly said to be from the Amalgamated Cigarmakers' Union. Van Prat is a member of the Cigarmakers' International Union.

ENGLISH CLASS IS POPULAR IN BOSTON SCHOOL

Excellent Course Is Offered Workers

BOSTON, Oct. 24.—During the last season of the Boston Workers' School more workers enrolled for the classes in English than for any other subject and indications are that the course this year will be just as popular. Already one class is being held at 41 Allston (Section 5), conducted by Al Bloch and registrations for other classes are coming in.

It is expected that it will be possible to organize in Boston several elementary English classes, while comrades in Maynard, Peabody, Quincy and Lynn who took the lessons last season will undoubtedly continue their studies along these lines.

See Successful Year.

In addition many foreign languages-groups here become interested in this course, so that all signs point to a successful season. The school will avail itself of the two new textbooks published by the Workers' School of New York, which for the first time puts the teaching of English to workers on a firm foundation.

The Workers' School will differ from public school education not only in that English will be taught free from the taint of capitalist propaganda, but it will be taught in a realistic manner, developing the workers' ability to read and write by connecting up the lessons with his actual experiences in the shop or factory.

Citizen Training.

An interesting feature this year and an addition to last year's course will be the training for citizenship. Every foreigner in this country who is forced to submit to capitalist wage slavery should resolve to become an American citizen in order to have some say regarding the conditions under which he lives. The classes in English will train the students in answering the questions that are put by the naturalization inspectors as well as assisting in the actual steps to be taken to become naturalized.

Almost all the teachers who have agreed to conduct classes are Phyllis Fenlngsion, Al Bloch, Joseph Berman, Jullian Furren, Max Lerner, Ben Klayman, Elizabeth Goldman, B. Rubenstein, and others. Classes in intermediate English will be organized if sufficient students register for the course.

Every foreign speaking worker who wishes to become more effective in the work in the labor movement and every foreign-speaking member of the Workers' Party should take a class in the Workers' School. Register today at 36 Causeway street, Boston. Write to H. J. Canter, director, at that address for further details.

Survives 66,000 Volts.

KINGSTON, N. Y., Oct. 24. Edward Breden of Wellkill, a lineman for the United Hudson Electric company, had 66,000 volts of electricity pass thru his body and is alive today

(Copyright, 1928, by Upton Sinclair)

III.

Well, Tovarish Roscoe went to bed, in Nile green silk pajamas on a cot out in the court alongside the fountain; and at five in the morning they woke him, so that he might go out with Dad and the geologist and the engineer, to O. K. the plans for the Bandy tract. He came back with the sunrise in his eyes, purring and snorting, and yelling for beer instead of breakfast, and how would he get some more when this gave out? They persuaded him that he must not try to cross the desert until the sun went down, so he and Dad and Bunny retired into the living room, and shut all the doors and windows, to stick it out as best they could.

Well, the sun got to work on the roof and walls of that house, and every ten minutes the great man would get up and look at the thermometer and emit another string of mule-skinner's technique. By the middle of the morning he was frantic; declaring that surely there must be some way to cool a house. By Jees, let's get a hose and soak this room! But Bunny, who had studied physics, said that would only shift them from the climate of the desert to the climate of the Congo river. Mr. Roscoe suggested turning the hose on the veranda and the roof; and Bunny called the gardener boy, and pretty soon there were half a dozen sprinklers going, a regular rain storm over the doors and windows of the living room.

But that was not enough, so Dad went to the phone and called up the foreman of the sheet metal shop, and he said sure thing, he could design a refrigerator; and Dad said to drop everything else and build one, and he'd pay the men a dollar apiece extra if they finished it inside an hour. So here came four fellows with a truck and a big metal box with double walls all the way from the floor to the ceiling; and they cut a hole in the floor for a vent pipe, and brought in about half a ton of cracked ice from the ice plant, and a couple of sacks of salt, and in a few minutes the thermometer showed a zero wind blowing out from the bottom of that box. The great man moved over close to it, and in a little while he began to sigh with content, and in half an hour he gave a loud "Kerchoo!" and they all roared with laughter.

After that he was sleepy, with all the beer he had drunk, and had a nap on the lounge, while Dad went out to see to the drilling. And then the party had lunch, and Mr. Roscoe had another nap, after which he felt fine, and did a lot of talking, and Bunny learned some more about the world in which he lived. "Jim," said the magnate, "I want two hundred thousand dollars of your money."

"Where's your gun?" said Dad, amiably.

"You'll get it back many times over. It's a little fund we're raising, me and Pete O'Reilly and Fred Orpan. We can't talk about it except to a few."

"What is it, Verne?"

"Well, we're getting ready for the Republican convention, and by Jees, it's not going to be any god-damn sniveling long-faced college professor! We're going to get a round-faced man, like you and me, Jim! I'm going oh to Chicago and pick him out."

"You got anybody in mind?"

"I'm negotiating with a fellow from Ohio, Harry Dockweiler, that runs the party there. He wants us to take their Senator Harding; big chap with a fine presence, good orator and all that, and can be trusted—he's been governor there, and does what he's told. Dockweiler thinks he can put him over with two or three million, and he'll pledge us the secretary of the interior."

"I see," said Dad—not having to ask what that meant.

"You got any eye on a man? I been watching it the last ten years, and it's a wonder. Excelsior Petroleum struck oil in two wells, and then they capped them and hushed it up, there was a government report that mentioned it, but they had it suppressed and you can't get a copy anywhere—but I had one stolen for me. There's about forty thousand acres, all oil."

"But how can you get it away from Excelsior?"

"The government has taken the whole district, supposed to be an oil reserve for the navy. But what the hell use will it be to the navy, with no developments? The damn fools think Iran can drill wells and build pipe lines and storage tanks while congress is voting a declaration of war. Let us get in there and get out the oil, and we'll sell the navy all they want."

That was Dad's doctrine, so there was nothing to discuss. He laughed, and said, "You'd better be on the safe side, Verne, and get the attorney-general as well as the secretary of the interior."

"I thought of that," said the other, not noticing the laugh. "Harry Dockweiler will be the attorney-general himself. That's a part of his bargain with Harding."

And then all at once Mr. Roscoe recollected Bunny, sitting over by the window, supposed to be reading a book. "I suppose our boy Bolshevik will understand, this ain't for use on the soap box."

Dad answered, quickly, "Bunny has known about my affairs ever since he was knee-high to a grasshopper. All right, Verne, I'll send you a check when you're ready."

Trial of Negro Women Pickets is Postponed by Judge, "Too Busy"

The trial of the two Negro women daily workers who were arrested for picketing the premises of the Marsh and Company date stuffing factory several weeks ago, has been again postponed.

It was to be held Thursday morning, but the judge declared that his docket was too full for a jury trial, and ordered the hearing put off to a later date. He did not set a date. The strikers were Mrs. Hobert Jones and Mrs. Ella Smith. They were charged with disorderly conduct.

A jury trial was demanded by Attorney Benioff for the I. L. D.

Censor Board Finally Grants License For Showing Soviet Film

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—A license has been issued for the showing of "Potemkin," the heralded example of expressionist cinema art from Soviet Russia, by the New York board of censors, following many conferences. The censors did not know just exactly how to treat "Potemkin," whether to bar it altogether, slash it to bits, or let it be shown as it was.

The finally decided to let it be shown, after cutting a few scenes from the picture. They did slash some wonderful scenes, but enough remains so that the picture's greatness can be appreciated.

One of the scenes slashed is that of the mother and son sequence, where the mother, holding her dead son in her breast, walks into the firing squad. Some close-ups of massacres are also sliced. "Too rough," is what the censors said about the scenes.

Soviet Workers Write To American Comrades

THE DAILY WORKER today is publishing the first of a series of letters from Russian workers to their comrades in America as part of the program of the Conference of International Workers' Correspondence of Soviet Russia. It is the plan of the directors of workers' correspondence in Russia to establish direct communication between workers in Russia, America, France, and England, and later with Germany. The editorial offices of the Rabotchaia Gazeta, Russia, is being co-operated with in this task by The DAILY WORKER, the Worker's Weekly, England, and the Metz Humanite, France. Not only will letters be published in these papers, but the letters will be sent direct to the correspondents, the newspapers acting as distributing agencies. It is felt, and so expressed, by the Communist international that this interchange of ideas by workers of different nations is an important step in bringing about closer international understanding between the workers.

It is suggested that the letters be on subjects such as working conditions, labor organizations, political conditions, health conditions and programs, economic and social life of the country, and outstanding struggles of the workers, either individual or group struggles. Correspondents are urged to ask questions of their comrades abroad as to conditions in their countries.

An answer to the following letter should be sent to the writer in care of the "Worker Correspondent, Dt. of Rabotchaia Gazeta," Moscow, U. S. S. R.

This letter, written by a Worker of Donbass describes health conditions of the Soviet workers, and how the workers are cared for:

DEAR COMRADES: The civil war and the famine badly affected the state of health of the Russian worker. They left them as inheritance the tuberculosis and the general weakness of the human organism. Therefore, it is comprehensible that our first care is the care about the health. By the way, we can be proud about something in connection with this cause. The thousands of "Houses for the Rest" and sanitariums which are spread thruout the territory of the Soviets are speaking for themselves. When the winter cold is still outdoors the thots about the health resorts during the summer time are already trouhling our minds.

Fortunately there is nothing difficult for us to realize this. One has to go in the controlling medical comission. There he will be examined by the specialists—doctors who will find out his illness and order a cure accordingly. If his state of health requires a treatment in the health resorts then he gets it. He has to accomplish certain formalities, namely: to get some necessary papers, money etc. Several days later he is on the spot.

Beautiful Locations.

IN great number these wonderful places are situated in the most beautiful districts of U. S. S. R.—in Crimea and Caucasus.

Only recently a group of the workers of our factory amongst whom I was also went to a sanitarium of Crimea. This sanitarium is situated on the seashore. The scenery of the surroundings is picturesque and makes you happy and jolly. Thousands of workers' bodies are enjoying the hot curable rays of the Crimean sun.

Come from Many Parts.

FROM all parts of the U. S. S. R. the workers come here. You can meet here Russians, Jakuts, Chercessians, and White-Russians. The sanitarium admits the workers of all nationalities. The foods are here in abundance. Five times daily the bell rings calling the guests to the table. You find there cocoa, eggs, butter and cakes. The day in the sanitarium means to sleep, to walk and to eat. Cinematograph, a theater, a library, as well as the different games and sea sports are offered to the disposal of the guests while they promenade. During the whole day the doctors are watching the sick people, carefully noticing the alteration of their health and so altering also the method of the cure. The medical attendance in the sanitarium is of high level. The water treatment exists absolutely in all sanitariums as well as the electro-cabinets, etc.

Put on Weight.

IN any case generally a patient gets an increase of about 20 pounds in weight after one and one-half months of treatment and returns home with restored health. And all this is free of charge.

But besides the sick there are many amongst the working people who are not suffering from any particular illness, but are only weak. Therefore, one would think that not being sent to a sanitarium they would have to remain at home. Not at all. For such people the soivet gevarnment has organized a large quantity of "Houses of Rest." They are situated in healthy regions (where the water and woods are). They are large enuf to keep several hundreds of people who would like to enjoy a rest. Here a worker or a soviet official spends his summer's leave, so combining the pleasure with usefulness. The foods are also excellent here. The magnificent nature, together with the attentive medical treatment here produce wonders. During a gobjurn in a "House for Rest" one would visibly increase his weight and strengthen his health. Besides good food the people also get here other things. The physical culture, different amusements and distractions are at their service.

Returns Invigored.

FROM the "House for the Rest" one returns to his work with such a reserve of force that he can without fear take his tools for a coming year.

We have a number of such sanitariums and houses for rest but they are outnumbered by the sick people. So that our shops and factories are not able to give this comfort to all. Those who are in need of immediate treatment certainly will be sent into one of the sanitariums but the others have to be managed in different ways. They receive support from the unions. In one or in another country place a large summer house is organized where the members of the unions pass their summer vacations. This kind of organised rest was introduced only recently and solidly established.

Special Arrangements.

THOSE of the working people who want to pay for their medical treatment and their rest are allowed to be admitted in any sanitarium for a small consideration, and the money can be paid partially according to a special arrangement.

So the enirance to a place of treatment, such as in a sanitarium, is open for all working people.

After being treated medically and enjoying a rest (besides the time necessary for medical treatment in a sanitarium a leave for two weeks or a month is also allowed), a worker retakes his work with fresh force.

DO write, comrades, and tell how the workers are treated medically in your country and send your letters addressed to the Worker Correspondent Dt. of "Rabotchaia Gazeta."

BOSTON C. L. U. ACCEPTS REPORT FAVORING WALSH

By a Worker Correspondent.

BOSTON, Oct. 24.—The Boston Central Labor Union is making plans for the erection of a labor temple. The plans are being prepared by a committee of five, composed of delegates from the teamsters, carpenters and painters.

Trade reports given by various delegates were encouraging. The barbers have succeeded in organizing several shops in the north end, as well as out of town; the cigarmakers announced the beginning of an extensive New England campaign in their trade; President Kearney asked for a committee to call on hotels unfair to labor, such as the Palais Royal; the milk drivers thanked organised labor for helping in their boycott of nonunion milk dealers, and suggested getting more assistance and co-operation from the wives of unionists who still patronise Hoods.

"The crucial period of the textile strike has been reached," De Santo, a Passaic striker, told the meeting, in announcing that the motion picture, "The Passaic Strike," will be shown for the benefit of the textile strikers' children at Tremon Temple, Boston, October 26.

In accordance with instructions sent by Green from the A. F. of L. convention, the meeting accepted the report of the executive board without protest and endorsed the candidacy of David I. Walsh. But Carpenters' Local 954, Bakers' Local 49, Milk Drivers' Union, upholsterers and the other labor unions which were handed injunctions in their legitimate activity of organizing the workers in their trades during Walsh's governorship—and against which he never raised his voice—have a longer memory. They will remember, as will every progressive unionist, that eighteen injunctions were served against labor during Walsh's incumbency, and "injunction Judge Pierce" was promoted to the supreme court for his good work in behalf of employers. And in spite of Green's letter and the endorsement of the Central Labor Union, these workers will show David I. Walsh, now posing as a "friend of labor," that they are solidly against him and know him as an enemy.

At the next meeting the new officers will take their places and Alex Abrams of the cigarmakers will preside.

General Motors to Train Executives And Technologists

By STANLEY BOONE,
(Worker Correspondent)

DETROIT, Oct. 24.—The General Motors Corp is investing about $500,000 in the initial unit of what is to be known as the General Motors Institute of Technology, a full fledged automotor center in the Detroit industrial district.

The corporation's plan is to train technologists and executives for its factories. Students who wish to rise above their fellow-workers and climb into the upper grade flunkey class under the auspices of the G. M. C. will be able to attend part-time classes and support themselves by part-time work in a factory.

The G. M. C. will benefit from laboratory experiment as well as shop the services of the graduates. The Ford Motor Co. for several years has conducted classes for a select list of employes, but the G. M. C. plans to develop engineers as well as shop foremen. It plans to conduct the inslitute with standards equal to those of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. The first unit will be a three-story building with a capacity for 2,000 students on a 10-acre campus.

Prehably in this school there will be no radical or liberal student minority expression.

Correspondent Classes

By ANNA ROSENFIELD.
(Worker Correspondent.)
(Los Angeles)

Maybe I should have entitled this article, "Why It Is Necessary to Have Worker Correspondents' Classes." The main point, I should say, is that it is imperative for workers all over the country to know the conditions of their fellow workers, and this can only be done thru the medium of the newspaper, especially such a newspaper as The DAILY WORKER, which gives news only of the workers; not only of workers in this country, but of workers thruout the world. Now, then how can this news be obtained? Partly thru reporters, (the paid kind) but mostly thru worker correspondents, who send in articles of conditions in their respective factories and shops all over the United States. But not all workers are sufficiantly versed in the ways of writing (or at least they think so) and this is the purpose of this class; to teach workers to write, in simple language, of their working conditions. Here's to many more worker correspondents' classes!

BOX MAKERS OF N. Y. FIGHTING THE OPEN SHOP

4,000 Strikers Solid for All Demands

By ROLAND A. GIBSON.

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—Four thousand paper box makers have been on strike in New York City for over two weeks. The struggle has been characterized by the usual police intimidation and employers' frame-ups, but the ranks of the strikers are stronger to day than when the strike began and each day brings the settlement of more open shops.

Bosses Knew Enough to Unite.

When the general strike was announced to begin October 5 the three employers' associations having jurisdiction over different branches of the paper box industry got worried. They dacided to merge into one association for the duration of the strike and put forth a united and determined effort to crush the union. The Paper Box Manufacturers' Association was the result.

The officers of the union have every reason to believe that this association was responsible for anonymous leaflets issued to strikers last week. The leaflets purported to come from dissatisfied union workers and criticized the leaders of the union for their conduct of the strike. Anyone who has attended the strike meetings knows that the strike is being intelligently and militantly conducted, which is a very logical reason for the employers' resorting to such tactics.

Nagrosa in the Strike.

William Pickens, field secretary of the National Association for the Advance of Colored People, said at the same meeting that this was the "usual thing" in time of strike. "Set one group of workers against another," is the metto of the employers, he said. "That's what they've done with us colored workers, but now both white and colored workers are coming to realise that only thru solidarity can the interests of both be advanced."

Mr. Pickens praised the union for admitting Negroes into the union with out discrimination and declared that "the cement of labor is batter than any consideration of race or language."

Bosses Beast of Police Aid.

How the police are being used to serve the interests of the employers is clearly shown by the following statement made in a bulletin of the Paper Box Manufacturers' Association: "The police work is becoming more and more effective daily. The usual number of cars are working in and out of the 'hotbed section' with the proper police protection (a 'cop' for every chauffeur) and more plants are operating as open shops with part forces."

The demands of the union are very modest when compared with the conditions which other unions have obtained for their workers in recent agreements. A 44-hour week, time and a half for overtime, double time for Sunday work (which is contrary to law, incidentally), a minimum scale of wages and $5 increase in the weekly rate, and recognition of the union these are the demands which the employers refuse to grant.

Non-Union Shops Awful.

Conditions in the paper box industry are worse in New York than in most other industries. In the non-union shops, in Brooklyn particularly, girls work from ½ a. m. to 7 p. m. for $9 and $10 a week, with only a half hour for lunch. The minimum wage in the union shops is $18 and an eight-hour day prevails. The employers here been tempting their workers since the strike with offers of $15 and $20 a week. Some have fallen for the bluff, but more and more are acceding to the offers of the union pickets instead.

About 15 shops have already settled with the union on its terms. These shops involve about 100 workers, over half of whom were formerly unorganised and terribly exploited. Even now the industry is less than half organized in the city.

Tampa Cigar Makers Again Win 'Readers' in the Work Shops

TAMPA, Fla., Oct. 24.—The cigarmakers of Tampa have again won from the employers the demand for a "reader" in the work shops where the cigars are rolled.

This custom is quite old among cigarmakers of Cuba and the Florida cigarmakers. The employer pays the wages of one man, a member of the union, to sit in the center of the cigarmakers and read to them as they work. The workers usually choose what they wish to have read, news, stories, fiction, science and studies of the labor movement.

The Tampa workers lost their "readers" for some time, but have regained them now. This relieves the monotony of their work.

Select Halls-Mills Panel.

SOMERVILLE, N. J., Oct. 24.—Selection of a "struck" jury panel from which will be drawn the jurors for the first trial in the Hall-Mills murder case was begun today in the court of Oyer and Terminer before Supreme Court Justice Charles W. Parker and County Judge Frank L. Cleary.

FARM LABOR OF WEST SUFFERS IN PROSPERITY

Crops Good, But go to Bankers

IOWA is a country of corn and grain, of rolling soil, rich in products, of filled elevators, of creameries with much butter and cheese. But no more is it a country of wealth as it was before, when the toil of the farmer was readily exchanged for the gold of the east. No more do the crops bring benefit into the hands of the workers. That time is gone. It is gone until the time that the people who are tilling the soil change their ideas in regard to the proper government of this world—until the time they learn to manage their own affairs.

Here are men working, fathers of families, receiving a total amount of $50 a month and free rent, bringing this amount home only about seven months a year, the time during which they have to work outdoors. The remaindar of the year they must borrow living necessities from the store, and nearly freeze to death from lack of coal, living by the "benefit of the church and the blessings of god."

Farm Owners Also.

But it is not only the farm help that is suffering. It is the farm owner, too. He sees his business capital shrinking away, under for what to him is bad luck, weather conditions, punishment of a righteous god, for the signs of the population.

Here are some official figures of the federal farm load board: Iowa is standing at first place when it comes to mortgages on farms. She owns $1,098,876,000 on her farms, and besides the her crops are mortgaged for an amount of $500,000,000. On top of this is the interest of 6 per cent which will take 1236 per cent of the produce of the country.

Montana Fellows.

Montana follows with a land mortgage of $155,000,000 and a crop mortgage of $50,000,000, which means that 10.34 per cent of her products must go to pay interest. Wisconsin is in third place, with a land mortgage of $55,000,000 and a crop mortgage of $23,000,000, for which she must pay 8.45 per cent of her products for interest.

Minnesota has a land mortgage of $456,000,000 and a crop mortgage of $67,000,000, for which she must pay 8.39 per cent of her produce.

No McLaren-Haugen bill will help the farmers in this fight, as long as they do not know how to help themselves. The only thing that will help the farmer is organization for the rights of farm labor.

5. Against the expenditures for a big army and navy, by which serve no other purpose than to support the imperialist adventures of the great financiers of "Wall Street" in other countries.

6. Fight against Wall Street's Dollar Diplomacy and expenditure of the wealth produced by the farmers and industrial workers to support the capitalist exploiters in their effort to make profits out of the people of China, the South American countries, China and the Philippines. Freedom for the Philippines. Self-determination for Porto Rico, Hawaii. Withdrawal of all American soldiers and marines from the Central and South American countries. No intervention in Mexico.

7. Against the Dawes plan, thru which the American banking houses are securing control of European industries and paving the way for a new war.

9. The alliance of the working farmers and city industrial workers to establish a workers' and farmers' government of the United States. Only a united struggle of all workers and farmers together with the city industrial workers, in support of this program will win relief for the farmers from the conditions under which they now suffer.

Soviet Farms to Be Allotted to 100,000 in Jewish Colonizing

KHARKOV, U. S. S. R.—(By Mail)—(FP)—Plans for settling Jews on fram lands in the Ukraine and northern Russia have been reported by the society created to carry out this project. At least 100,000 Jewish families, of whom 70 per cent will come from Ukrainian districts, are to be located on farms allotted from Soviet property. The total area set aside for this experiment is 985,000 hectares, of which one-seventh has already been taken up by the colonists.

Four thousand families will be settled next year, 5,500 in 1925, 5,500 in 1928, and 6,500 in 1930, after which 7,000 families per year are to be transferred from town life to farming. To finance the enterprise a joint stock company whose shares will sell for units of $12.50 and $25 is to be organized. This company will attract private investors to extend credit to the colonists.

Sacco-Vanzetti Are Brought Another Step Nearer Electric Chair

Again the American working class must place themselves between Sacco and Vanzetti and the electric chair towards which the capitalist class of Massachusetts is pushing those two working class leaders.

The refusal of Judge Thayer to grant a new trial to the condemned workers on the basis of new evidence and the confession of the murderer Madeiros, means that the ruling class of Massachusetts is determined to have the lives of Sacco and Vanzetti.

So strong was the case made by the defense counsel for a new trial that thousands of capitalist newspapers thruout the country that had hitherto urged hanging for the condemned leaders changed their views and demanded in the name of what they are pleased to call American justice that a new trial be granted. Celestino Madeiros confessed that he was in the gang that killed the paymaster's guard and that Sacco and Vanzetti were entirely innocent of the crime.

Government agents that had previously perjured themselves in order to help the prosecutor send his victims to the chair confessed that they lied on the witness stand. Armed with this new evidence, Attorney William Thompson, a conservative and leader of the Boston bar, demanded a new trial for his clients, and everybody except those who know the deep hatred the Massachusetts codfish aristocracy has for the working class, expected that the demand would be acceded to.

In making his decision Thayer simply dismissed Madeiros as a liar and characterized the statements of former government agents as unimportant. This judicial tool of the employers of Massachusetts went out of his way to defend officials of the United States government from the well-founded accusations made against them by their former employers. Those officials were charged with a conspiracy to judicially murder two innocent workers. Evidently the fact that two human lives are in jeopardy is of less consequence to Judge Thayer, than that the sensibilities of their hangmen should be wounded.

"Sacco and Vanzetti must not die!" This cry must again be heard from coast to coast and thruout the world.

FROM PORTLAND TO DETROIT

ARTICLE XII (Conclusion).

By WILLIAM F. DUNNE.

THE complete liquidation of the pre-war revolutionary movement puts all the burden and responsibility for giving the labor movement of the United States a class morale upon the Communists.

That the pre-war revolutionary movement has disappeared is brought sharply to our attention by the death of Eugene Debs—the last symbol of honest working class militancy left to the socialist party—and by a number of other instances such as:

1) The bankruptcy and demoralization of the I. W. W. leading to a rapid disintegration of this once militant organization of workers.

2) By the fact that such revolutionaries as Scott Nearing, Robert W. Duna and Elizabeth Gurley Flynn, survivals of the pre-war period, stand alone and no matter in what direction they move (seemingly towards our party, fortunately) they can bring no masses with them.

3) The total absence of any organized distribution of propaganda and agitational literature on a mass scale except by our party.

WE must accept the fact that the working class of America has no revolutionary leadership and no other organized class political expression outside of our party with a full knowledge of what that means for our party in this period of slow development of the class struggle.

Our party, in a country which has no revolutionary traditions of a party, working class character (altho the war of independence and some aspects of the Civil War furnish valuable analogies) must now begin in earnest, to use a well-worn phrase, to plow virgin soil. We must make contact with those masses of workers who have come into industry since the world war (the last twelve years most of them young and therefore the most hopeful and militant section.

THIS is not to say that we can or will neglect any category of workers, but simply to emphasize that there are no important sections of the American working class possessed of class consciousness who are under the influence of other working class parties other than the Communist Party and upon whom we must concentrate as the most likely source of recruits for our party or with the idea of splitting off sections closer to us.

There is no such group of workers in this country and the overwhelming bulk of our work is therefore among workers whose contact with revolutionary theory and practice is nil or of the most casual kind.

WE must and we will in this period (whose length we can only guess at since we are but in the beginning of it) devote far more time to the elementary tasks of winning the masses from capitalism. As has been said, there is no group standing between us and the capitalist class and their patriotic agents such as the trade union bureaucracy whose utter subservience to their imperialist masters is becoming better known each day to the working class and as to whose real role in the period of imperialism the recent A. F. of L. convention furnished plenty of proof.

OUR party, therefore, finds it possible to become, by working thru and aiding the slowly developing left wing, the teacher and organizer of substantial sections of the American working class.

At this time there are no great political struggles appearing on the horizon of the American labor movement. Even the severe distress and discontent among large numbers of farmers has not been sufficient to prevent the practical liquidation of the stultifying of the farmer-labor movements which appeared three years ago and as has been shown already, there are no large movements in progress among the workers and no sure signs of their developing in the immediate future with the sole exception of the soft coal mining industry where a strike appears probable next spring.

OUR party must turn surely and certainly to the hewing of wood and the drawing of water in the American labor movement. By actual accomplishment and achievement in these tasks we can broaden greatly the base of our party, entrench it among the masses in basic industry and the trade unions, become known, respected and loved because of our sincerity, ability and willingness to do the "dirty work," but the work that must be done, and done far better than it is now being done, in the labor movement.

Our shop bulletins, issued by our nuclei, have already given some proof of their possibilities as methods of lifting the workers out of the mire of company unionism and trade union reaction, but in this field we have not even scratched the surface. These bulletins must become organs of a systematic plan for the organization of the unorganized and be linked up much more closely with general trade union work of the party.

WE have not given sufficient attention to the formation of shop committees as a method of broadening the activities of our nuclei, of developing initiative among workers in basic industry and as an indispensable section of the left wing.

I mention these two fields of work because they are the ones with which we can approach effectively especially those workers without previous or with very little trade union experience and who are not weighed down by official reaction.

In actively prosecuting these two tasks it is entirely possible, as the gap widens between the labor aristocracy, trade union officialdom and the masses of the workers, as it already is occurring, for the Communists to become the organizers of the new militant trade unionism with its basis in the class struggle which the inevitable pressure of capitalism and the continued betrayals of the masses by their leaders will put on the order of business of the American working class.

THE present situation undoubtedly holds great dangers for our party and the whole labor movement. The deadening effect of this period upon the general labor movement has been previously outlined but it is evident also that our party has not escaped entirely a similar effect.

It would be the greatest mistake imaginable if, on the basis of the possibilities for organization work among the unskilled and semi-skilled workers we should elevate this work to the level of revolutionary political activity. Such a course would inevitably relegate us to the status of a trade union party, intent only on immediate reforms reminiscent of the Bernsteinism of the social-democracy.

THERE is the second danger that is attempting to evade the first our party will become the originator of and instrument for the uttering of revolutionary phrases without any connection with the life and struggles of the American masses and thereby isolate itself from the broad stream of the American labor movement.

Only a clear understanding of the united front tactic directed toward getting masses of workers into motion on the issues of their daily struggles and isolating, not our party, but the agents of imperialism within the labor movement, the trade union bureaucracy, because of their deliberate betrayals which we must be able not only to point out but explain to the masses on the basis of Leninism, will prevent our party succumbing to either one of these two dangers.

WE must develop an understanding and a method whereby we can secure for the workers' class and our party the maximum results from any given situation.

More than ever, when there are such large sections of the working class corrupted by the sops thrown to them by immensely powerful and wealthy ruling class of America, it is necessary that there be no separation of the economic and political struggles and that in every struggle the maximum effort be exerted, without jeopardizing the possibility of immediate substantial achievement, to broaden and connect isolated conflicts with the general struggle against capitalism and the capitalist state.

THAT this demands a party solidly rooted in the American labor movement and conscious of the traditions of that movement without being rendered incapable of flexibility and of creating and adopting new methods of struggle by the weight of tradition, it seems almost needless to state.

Our party cannot by itself produce great political struggles nor can it lead these struggles when the situation arises unless it has won the loyalty of the workingclass because of its achievements.

AS the facts of the present situation point inevitably to the conclusion that the line of our party is that of a revolutionary party which has a correct program, has developed some skill in maneuvering, organizing and inspiring certain sections of the workers in their daily struggles, but which has not as yet developed the strength and following necessary to exert a decisive influence on the American labor movement.

Even tho we had here in America a revolutionary situation our party could not lead the masses in the right direction because of its weakness. If the British Communist Party was not able to overcome the dead weight of the reactionary leadership of the labor movement in the general strike and prevent a betrayal in a situation a thousand times more favorable than that existing in America, how much more difficult is our problem and how much more routine work in the labor movement lies ahead of us.

AS the subjective factor in the American class struggle, we cannot wait for great political struggles to develop with the hope that in their difficulty the masses will come flocking to our banner. The reverse is true. In this period we must build and consolidate our influence while at the same time gaining in the daily struggles the skill, knowledge and stamina which alone enable Communist parties to turn revolutionary situations into actual and victorious revolution.

We must be content with smaller achievements conscious that they are of a solid character and represent real steps on the road to building an American mass Communist party.

THE survey of the labor movement from the Portland convention of the A. F. of L. in 1923 to the recent Detroit convention shows:

1.) That the trade union leadership has been going steadily to the right and is acting as the agent of the capitalist class in the labor movement.

2.) That large sections of the trade union membership has been going steadily to the right under the influence of the concessions made by a dominant American imperialism and the workers-cooperation policy of the trade union leadership.

3.) That certain sections of the unorganized workers are also being lulled into quiescence by various kinds of profit-sharing, welfare, social insurance, pensions and company union schemes.

4.) That as a result of this the labor movement has reached the lowest point in its history judged by the standard of class-conscious aggressiveness, militancy and effectiveness.

5.) That in spite of the extraordinary efforts made by the capitalists and the trade union leadership to destroy all will to struggle, there is a still weak, but definite left-ward pressure from below.

6.) That this left-ward tendency can be mobilized by the left wing and our party to force action from the leadership in support of trade union struggles like those of the Passaic textile workers and the garment workers.

7.) That there is in a number of both light and heavy industries a response to such slogans as "Organize the Unorganized" and "An Increase in Wages."

8.) That it is possible in this period for Communists to organize and lead struggles based on the urgent needs of hitherto exploited workers but that this is still accompanied by enormous difficulties.

9.) That Communist nucleus work and shop bulletins, considering the lack of forces available for these elementary tasks, meet with a gratifying response from workers in basic industry and hold great possibilities for the workingclass and our party.

10.) That the left wing is still very weak, has little organizational character and can develop a mass character at present only by concentrating on immediate elementary demands.

11.) That the political consciousness of the masses is at an extremely low level as shown by the lack of response to labor party agitation and the almost complete liquidation of the farmer-labor party movements.

12.) That the pre-war revolutionary movement has been definitely liquidated, nothing remaining of it except small isolated groups and individuals here and there without mass influence.

OUR party, as already stated, alone makes a challenge to American capitalism.

On the basis of this fact and on concrete facts of the present situation the chief factor in which is the dominant position of American imperialism, faced nevertheless with renewed and merciless competition for world markets, as indicated by the recent free trade manifesto signed by J. P. Morgan and other finance-capitalists and which will place inevitably new and intolerable burdens on the American masses, we must and we will unflinchingly our work of basing our party firmly in the American labor movement and preparing the workingclass for victorious struggle for a workers' and farmers' government under the banner of the Communist International.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—Pressure by 4,000,000 women represented by the General Federation of Women's Clubs, National League of Women Voters, and other national women's organizations will be brought to bear to secure the reenactment of the Sheppard-Towner act, the maternity act, which expires June 30, 1927.

Chief opponents of the bill are Senator Reed, Missouri, and Senator King, Utah.

The bill provides for an appropriation to be used for the advancement of maternity and infant welfare work. The 1927 act appropriated $1,240,000 for this work for five years.

Dear Mr. Lovestone:-

As a believer in free speech, absolute, universal and unlimited, I am delighted to see the Daily Worker making its way. I am, of course, no advocate of communism. It seems to me to be so unsound as to be almost insane. But I am glad that you have set up so energetic and interesting a paper to argue for it, and hope that you get enough support to keep it going.

Sincerely yours,

"I am delighted to see The DAILY WORKER making its way up."

THIS is what Mencken says. It is very seldom that Mencken has words of praise for anybody or anything.

NOW do you want to see The DAILY WORKER continue making its way? Then KEEP The DAILY WORKER. Do you want to keep The DAILY WORKER—and make it even more energetic and interesting than it is today?—

THEN give today to Keep The DAILY WORKER

The Struggle to Save the Life of The DAILY WORKER Is Part of the Growing Fight to Save the Lives of Sacco and Vanzetti

By J. LOUIS ENGDAHL.

LABOR needs weapons with which to carry on its struggles.

One of the most important weapons of the working class is its press. In fact, without its press, labor is helpless.

This is clearly revealed today as the militant vanguard of labor stands before the giant task of making known to the whole working class the latest startling development in the Sacco-Vanzetti case.

A battery of dailies from one end of the land to the other, could quickly rouse workers everywhere to instant and effective action.

But American labor has only one daily in the English language, voicing its grievances, making the fight today for Sacco and Vanzetti. That daily is THE DAILY WORKER.

Even The DAILY WORKER is grievously handicapped in its efforts to bring the truth, about the deliberate attempt on the part of the ruling class to legally murder Sacco and Vanzetti, to the attention of the masses of toilers in this country.

It must devote much and valuable space to the immediate financial problem that confronts it. This vital question must be explained to its readers, so that they will respond quickly with the aid necessary to continue the life of their paper. This space would gladly be devoted to labor's struggles. In giving greater attention to the Sacco-Vanzetti case for instance, if it was not necessary to combat the great and pressing danger of being forced to suspend publication of labor's only daily.

In this campaign, therefore, this weapon of the working class—The DAILY WORKER, is being repaired, burnished, strengthened and made ready for greater efforts. But there is no time to lose. Not only in increased space, but also with a greater circulation, The DAILY WORKER, must be developed into a keener, more effective fighting organ of labor.

Let every reader and friend of The DAILY WORKER, therefore, bend to the task of achieving immediately the goal set forth in yesterday's issue.

Within the next few weeks, The DAILY WORKER must have the full quota of $50,000 necessary to keep it out of danger financially.

Less than one-fourth of that total, about $12,000 in all, has come in up to the present time. This week the Keep The DAILY WORKER Army must rush in at least $6,000.

Turn to Page Four today and read what some of the soldiers in this Keep The DAILY WORKER Army are saying about their achievements for their "DAILY." Then join the army by doing something, no matter how small, in aid of this campaign.

REMEMBER!

The struggle to save the life of The DAILY WORKER is part of all labor's struggle to SAVE THE LIVES OF SACCO AND VANZETTI!

Current Events

By T. J. O'FLAHERTY

D. C. STEPHENSON, former grand dragon of the realm of Indiana promised big revelations a few weeks ago, revelations that would shake Indiana politics to its deepest cesspool and topple reigning politicians from their thrones. But the expected disclosures have failed to materialize and the exdragon's head is shut as tight as a miser's purse. What happened in the meantime? In all probability the republican machine that now controls Indiana, promised Stephenson his liberty after the elections, provided he does not spill the beans.

IT was proven beyond the shadow of a doubt that the present G. O. P. leadership of Indiana owes its official existence to the support of the K. K. K. Stephenson put them in office, but when he raped a young girl, who died as a result, and got into the toils of the law, his former political associates left him to his fate. This made him angry, so he decided to "talk." The jail authorities, on instructions from above, refused to allow anybody to interview the exdragon, until they had a chance to get things straightened out. When permission was granted to the opposition to the state machine to interview Stephenson, the latter would not squeal.

THE official organ of the Minnesota farmer-labor party has accepted settlements for capitalist candidates and the class conscious members of the party are up in the air about it. It appears that a gang of labor fakers got hold of the farmer labor party in Minnesota, evidently with the object of killing it. Those political fakers made constant war on the Communist members of the farmer labor association, principally because the Communists were the backbone of the movement and would keep an eye

GARY SUGGESTS A GREAT WORLD STEEL TRUST

Says Workers Should be Satisfied With Wages

(Special to The Daily Worker)

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—In an address before the American Iron and Steel Institute today, Judge Elbert H. Gary, chairman of the United States Steel corporation, suggested the possibility of a concordant between the steel makers of the United States and Europe.

"We have heard considerable discussion," said Judge Gary, "relating to anticipated competition between iron and steel manufacturers of the United States and foreign competitors, but it is believed that, should it become necessary, an international conference will be held between all those interests and a full, open, discussion indulged in, after which a fair understanding could be reached.

"Of course, no agreement between the different interests relating to prices could legally be entered into, without sanction of our law administrators, but, if necessity arose, it is thot the approval of the public authority of the country might be obtained."

There are no indications that the demand for steel products will be substantially reduced in the near future, said Judge Gary, discussing business conditions. "The steel industry today is receiving orders at the rate of approximately 80 per cent of the normal capacity of the mills, a rate which Judge Gary and the other steel leaders considered quite satisfactory.

"While earnings reports for the quarter ending Sept. 30 have not been made up, we believe they will be fully as good for the industry as a whole as in the preceding quarter."

Surveying general business conditions at this time, Judge Gary said:

"Crop reports indicate that production this year will be nearly as large as 1925, which was a bountiful year.

"Money is plentiful, collections are satisfactory. There is sufficient labor to meet all demands, and workers should be and are entirely satisfied with their rates of pay and conditions of employment. The administration at Washington is reasonable and fair towards all interests, and we have reason to believe that the majority of congress will support the president."

No Illusions About Sacco and Vanzetti!

THE action of Judge Webster Thayer in denying to Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti a new trial again demonstrates the futility of placing all of the hope and confidence of the aroused workers of the world into the hands of the corrupt judges in Massachusetts. This last action of the venal and vindictive courts of Massachusetts, behind which stand the ominous figures of the Massachusetts manufacturers and the politicians of President Coolidge's home state, throws the two innocent Italian workers once more under the very shadow of the electric chair and indicates that the Massachusetts bourbons intend to hound these two brave fighters to their death.

It is more clearly than ever apparent that to place reliance solely upon the justice of capitalist courts will condemn Sacco and Vanzetti to their death. The years of respite which they have gained from a legal assassination have been secured mainly by the mighty action of solidarity in the international protest movement which gave expression to the determined opposition to the frame up by millions of workers.

Sacco and Vanzetti are on the very verge of being murdered for their loyalty to the working class. The black and sinister forces of reaction have cunningly manipulated their instruments on the benches of the courts. They have subjected Sacco and Vanzetti to that terrible torture of suspense which keeps them on the brink of death every moment of the day. They have refused them a new trial in the face of the overwhelming evidence which has caused even capitalist papers to admit the flimsy nature of the prosecution's case.

Now more than ever must the main energy of those masses of workers, in this country and throughout the world, be concentrated in an incessant agitation and a determined opposition to the conspiracy to railroad Sacco and Vanzetti to the electrocution chair.

MFRS. ASS'N. IS AGAINST 5-DAY WEEK SCHEME

Fearful of Effect on Workers

(Special to The Daily Worker)

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—Five days a week in the nation's industries meets with strenuous objection on the part of fifty leading manufacturers, according to a statement made public by the National Association of Manufacturers.

Summarized the specific objections registered are:

Adoption of the five-day plan in industry generally would greatly increase the cost of living.

It would be impractical for all industries.

It would create a craving for additional leisure to occupy the additional time.

It would be against the best interests of the man who wants to work and advance.

"It would make us more vulnerable in the economic conditions of Europe, now working as hard as she can to overcome our lead."

Expressions condemning the five-day-week plan came from such manufacturers as James C. Martino, Baltimore; W. L. Clause, Pittsburgh, Plate Glass company; A. L. Humphrey, Westinghouse Air Brake company; Philip T. Judge, Herreshoff Linotype company; George L. Merklandt, Philadelphia Gear Works company; Robert F. Lamont, American Steel Foundries; Emil T. Norton, Columbus; O.; A. H. Mulliken, Pettibone-Mulliken company, Charles R. Sligh, Grand Rapids, and Charles B. King, Marion, Ohio.

WICKS HURLS CHALLENGE AT G. O. P. OPPONENT

Assails Republican Labor Record

(Special to The Daily Worker)

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Oct. 25.—Sarcastically referring to William S. Vare, the hoodlum candidate for United States senator on the republican ticket, as mentally incapable of defending his alleged platform, H. M. Wicks, Workers (Communist) Party candidate for governor of Pennsylvania, in an open letter to the republican campaign committee, challenges their candidate for governor, John S. Fisher, to defend the republican platform and candidates in a joint debate to be held anywhere in the state of Pennsylvania and any time convenient to the republican standard-bearer.

Four of the Pittsburgh daily papers and most of the papers thruout the state carried the challenge, but thus far the republican camp remains silent upon the question and no answer has as yet been received at campaign headquarters of the Workers' Party.

Coolidge's Endorsement of Senator Butler in Massachusetts Shows the Frame-up Gang Sticking Together

Declaring that every Communist vote cast in the elections next Tuesday will be a protest against the attempted legal murder of Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti by the "open shop" tyranny of the New England shoe factory and textile mill owners, J. Louis Engdahl, Communist candidate for United States senator from Illinois, in a statement issued today, pointed out that President Coolidge had again placed himself squarely behind the frame-up of these two workers thru urging the re-election of Senator Butler, the multi-millionaire mill baron of Massachusetts, campaign manager of the republican party.

"Workers in a dozen states over the nation can register their protest against the attempted legal assassination of Sacco and Vanzetti by casting their votes for Communist candidates next Tuesday," said Engdahl. "Only the vicious class election laws of the capitalist rulers, who are trying to put Sacco and Vanzetti to death, have made it impossible to have Communist candidates on the ballot in all states.

DEBS MEMORIAL MEETINGS WILL COVER COUNTRY

I. L. D. to Start "Debs Enrollment"

The first series of a number of Eugene V. Debs Memorial meetings, to be held in cities from Boston to Kansas City, was today announced by International Labor Defense.

"Debs belongs to all the fighters and rebels in the movement," said James P. Cannon, secretary of I. L. D. "In the meetings we are holding to pay tribute to his long years of splendid service to the working class, his militant record as a fighter and revolutionist, we will help to perpetuate his memory and fill the place he left, by initiating a 'Debs Enrollment' campaign of organization for International Labor Defense, upon whose national committee Debs served since the day it was formed.

"The unfailing support which Debs constantly gave to International Labor Defense and his warm appreciation of the work for the class war prisoners was a source of inspiration which will lead thousands of workers to rally to the banner of I. L. D. in the 'Debs Enrollment' which we will initiate in the tribute we will pay to the old warrior at the Memorial meetings."

Meetings that have so far been arranged for Debs' Memorials by International Labor Defense are as follows:

New York, October 25
Cleveland, October 27
Chicago, October 30
Detroit, October 31.
Philadelphia, November 7.
Boston, November 4.
Buffalo, November 5. Elmwood Music Hall.

Meetings have also been arranged in Pittsburgh, Akron, Youngstown, St. Louis, Kansas City and Milwaukee, and it is expected that other centers will be heard from in a very few days.

WEST VIRGINIA CHOSEN GROUND OF OPEN SHOP

Textile Mill to Use Mine Camp Women

PASSAIC, N. J., Oct. 25.—(FP)—Acheson Harden Handkerchief company, whose Passaic factory is called the largest of its kind in the country, has given the contract for erection of the first unit of its new plant at Bluefield, West Va. The first Bluefield unit will employ 200 workers, mostly girls and women, and ultimately the West Virginia factory is expected to employ 1,000.

In February of this year the N. Y. Times ran the following ed, which Federated Press brought to the attention of labor papers.

Business Connections.

"1,500 GIRL WORKERS available in Bluefield, W. Va.; splendid opportunity for hosiery, skirt, overall, silk or other textile mill; 1925 federal census gives city 23,000; not a single industry employing women; in heart of southern West Virginia; nonunion territory; half mile above sea level; cool, healthful summers insure labor efficiency all year; adjoining Pocahontas coal fields, producing world's finest steam coal; excellent transportation facilities; unlimited electric power at low rates; fast-growing, progressive community, city-manager government. Address Chamber of Commerce, Bluefield, W. Va."

Use Woman of Miners.

U. S. CHAMBER OF COMMERCE HAS "RESERVATIONS" ON EUROPEANS' MOVEMENT FOR TRUSTIFICATION

PARIS, Oct. 25.—At the meeting of the Council of the International Chamber of Commerce, quite a stir was created by Basil Miles, American commissionar to the chamber, when he announced that he had received a cable from "International Industrial ententes"—or in plain English, trusts, as they are now being organized on the European continent.

The council was considering a long report by a special commission, carrying with it full approval of the new series of industrial combines, cartels and trusts being organized on the continent.

With a brief discussion, the council was ready to adopt it, when Miles sprung the American "reservation of opinion until U. S. interests have further time for consideration."

This, in the opinion of observers, is the sign that American industry is going to oppose the trustification movement which has been going on for a year on the continent.

U. S. NEGROES REPRESENTED AT BRUSSELS

Pickens Going to the January Conference

(Special to The Daily Worker)

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—American Negroes will be represented at the International Conference on oppression of minority races and peoples in Brussels next January by William Pickens, official representative and field secretary, National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

President Plutarco Calles of Mexico has asked that his country be allowed a representative at the conference, the N. A. A. C. P. reports.

Gen. Chiang Kai-Shih, commander-in-chief of the national revolutionary army of China, has expressed sympathy with the Brussels conference, as have Bishop William Montgomery Brown, Manuel Gomez (secretary All-America Anti-Imperialist League), Henri Barbusse (French writer in behalf of oppressed European minorities), Prof. Kou Mong You of Canton National University, and Fritz Dan Ziger of Berlin.

NEGRO LEADER RETURNS ENTHUSED FROM VISIT TO THE SOVIET UNION

(Special to The Daily Worker)

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—(FP)—Dr. W. E. B. DuBois of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People and editor of The Crisis, has returned from a European trip of three months. He was in Belgium, Germany, Constantinople, Italy and most of the time Russia, where he covered over 2,000 miles.

Dr. DuBois comes back full of enthusiasm for what the Russian people are trying to do and is going to write in The Crisis and lecture on the subject during the coming year, the N. A. A. C. P. announces.

Irish Workers Greet Sacco and Vanzetti

BOSTON, Oct. 25.—"Greetings to Sacco and Vanzetti and congratulations on defense offered, from the Workers' Union of Ireland. Jim Larkin, secretary"—is the text of a cablegram received by the Sacco-Vanzetti Defense Committee, Box 93, Hanover St. Station, Boston.

SECRETARY OF INTERIOR FAVORS GUGGENHEIMS

Sabotaging Government Road in Alaska

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25. Secretary of the Interior Work has issued another statement emphasizing the operating deficit suffered by the government on its railway in Alaska. This railway, 470 miles long from Seward on the south coast to Fairbanks on the Tanana river in the heart of the territory, was built by congress in order to permit permanent settlement and development of the country. But the Wilson, Harding and Coolidge administrations have obligingly left it at the mercy of the Guggenheim steamship line, which alone offers connection of Alaskan traffic with the United States.

The Guggenheim-Morgan steamship interests, seeking complete domination of Alaska, have charged freight rates on their steamships so exorbitant that the territory is being slowly depopulated and business is confined to the salmon fishing industry which has its own fleet on the Pacific.

Two years ago Work sent a civil engineer loaned by the Pennsylvania Railroad up to Alaska to re-appraise the physical condition of the property and reorganize its train service on a basis of traffic. This meant a cutting down of service. The Pennsylvania's man was then given appointment as general manager of the government road.

BOSSES FAIL TO ATTEND MEET THEY REQUESTED OF DATE STRIKERS HERE

The bosses of the Mares end company date factory failed to show at the arbitration meeting that they themselves had asked for Monday morning. A committee representing the striking Negro woman appeared at the appointed hour but no one from the employers attended.

Saturday the strikers agreed to meet the bosses in an effort to arrange a settlement, after the company pleaded for such a meeting.

It is felt by strike leaders that this action was a subterfuge to cause a slackening of picketing.

Picketing will continue, it is announced.

MANY TRIBUTES PAID TO LIFE OF GENE DEBS

All Classes Honor Revolutionary

The following are excerpts from various labor newspapers on the death of Eugene V. Debs, collected by the Federated Press.

It is with full recognition of the valiant role that he played in the infancy of American labor's struggle for power that all Communists join with the millions of toil to do honor to the workers' champion laid prostrate by death. Proclaiming himself "a Bolshevik from the crown of my head to the soles of my shoes," Debs nevertheless failed to keep pace with the rapid development of the world revolutionary movement.—Workers (Communist) Party of America, in The DAILY WORKER, official Communist daily.

In the death of Eugene Victor Debs the socialist party of the United States has lost its most loved leader and comrade.—Seay, Wm. H. Henry, Socialist Party of the United States, in The American Appeal, official party organ.

• • •

America has lost a great citizen—the workingclass has lost a tireless champion.—Victor L. Berger, socialist congressman, in the Milwaukee Leader.

• • •

In spite of his continued connection with the defunct socialist party, Debs was an inspiration to thousands of social revolutionaries not only in the United States but abroad. Hatred for him in the hearts of the capitalists was only matched by the love of his friends who were legion.—Industrial Solidarity, official organ, Industrial Workers of the World.

• • •

The death of Eugene Victor Debs removes from the American revolutionary movement of its sole nationally known and nationally significant personality. Fearless and true was this hero of the American proletariat, hating capitalist society as fundamentally as he loved mankind. Debs was and remained a revolutionist, even as national executive committeeman of a party of social reform.—New York Volkszeitung.

• • •

The cause of the class war prisoners suffers an especially heavy loss in the death of Comrade Debs. His name is linked with every labor defense struggle that took place during his life of activity in the labor movement.—Secy. James P. Cannon, International Labor Defense, in press statement.

• • •

History records few martyrs to human justice who endured life to the end and preserved to the last the noble understanding and forgiving spirit of Gene Debs that lives today in millions of humble hearts and mind of their creators are at rest. —Oklahoma Leader, former socialist organ, now independent farmer-labor.

• • •

Altho the very people he worked for did not seem to appreciate his work it is nevertheless true that this country has not produced a man that was more loved by the common people. Some may not like it but it has been said that Gene Debs came closer to being the second Abe Lincoln than any other man born.—Thomas R. Bowman, chairman Federated Press executive board, in the Galesburg (Ill.) Labor News.

A. MITCHEL PALMER, FURIOUS PATRIOT, IS CHARGED AS SWINDLER

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—Suit to collect $4,525,000 damages from A. Mitchell Palmer, ex-attorney general under whose regime thousands of workers were imprisoned and many deported, Francis P. Garvan, ex-alien property custodian and a score of other persons connected with the sale of the Bosch magneto patents, was filed in federal court in Boston today by the Department of Justice.

The government's suit contends that in December of 1918, Palmer and Garvan sold 250 shares of Bosch magneto stock to buyers for the sum of $4,150,000, whereas the true value of the assets so sold was $9,888,567.

SOVIET FOREIGN TRADE GROWING; UNFAVORABLE BALANCE IS DECLINING

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 25.—The foreign trade turnover of the Soviet Union over the European frontiers, for the Soviet fiscal year ending Sept. 30, was $648,642,500, as compared with $587,864,000 in 1924-25, an increase of 12.1 per cent, according to a report added to the Russian information Bureau from the commissariat for trade.

Imports were $346,492,000 and exports $302,150,500, giving an unfavorable balance for the year of $44,341,500, as compared with an unfavorable balance of $64,618,000 for 1924-25.

The year ended with a marked trend towards a favorable trade balance. The figures for the last quarter of the year showed exports and imports virtually balancing, and for September, the final month of the fiscal year, there was a favorable trade balance of $2,420,600, as compared with an adverse balance of $3,711,000 in September, 1925.

LABOR FAKERS DENY COMMENT ON DEBS' DEATH

'Gene Despised Tools of Capitalism

By LAURENCE TODD
(Federated Press)

WASHINGTON—No flag was lowered to half-mast in the national capital when the news came that Debs was dead.

Over the west front of the capitol, where in 1834 and in 1917 were voiced the age-old fears of civil authority that this warm heart would start a conflagration, the stars and stripes rode proudly. So they rode when Woodrow Wilson refused to release the Socialist champion from his wartime prison, and so they rode when Harding, the Marry Christmas festivity to humor the demand of a million citizens that 'Gene go free.

Ignored Debs.

Above the headquarters buildings of the labor organizations in the city there flew also the emblem of the free. It remained at the top of the staff—no thought of doing honor to the leader of the great railroad strike of 1894, the inspiration of the masses of men and women from the Atlantic to the Pacific in all their economic struggles and trials during three decades. Here, as among the politicians in the White House, the senate and house offices and in the cabinet chiefs' domains, the passing of the "Champion of Oppressed Mankind" had no outward recognition.

But the news was heartily read, and called up memories of battles of long ago, or uneasy reflections as to how some labor official had posed or refused to pose with the Socialist leader when he came back from Atlanta prison.

Fakers Would Not Talk.

Attempts to secure statements of A. F. of L. headquarters, appreciative of the historic record rendered by Debs to the workingclass, failed of result beyond a few brief non-committal remarks. Debs was a champion of industrial unionism, of political principle, of socialism, of class struggle. Grizzled veterans in Federation office stand for none of these. They were reluctant to credit Debs with arousing ten million American workers to a sense of their human dignity and their duty to fight for a better world here and now thru industrial battle. They agreed that he was a lovable personality, and that the world was better for his having lived. That was all.

COOLIDGE TO OPPOSE FREE TRADE PLANS

Andy Mellon to Make Public Statement

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—After a conference with President Coolidge today, Secretary of the Treasury Mellon began preparation of a public statement to set forth his views on the manifestly heavily loaded by American and European financiers urging the abolishment of tariff barriers, particularly in Europe.

Mellon will take particular pains to explode the theory that a reduction of the American tariff will contribute to better world conditions.

DES MOINES, Iowa, Oct. 25. — Twenty-five states of the west and south were asked today by Governor John Hamill to join with the north central states in the fight being waged for farm relief by the committee of 22 named at the corn conference in Des Moines last January.

In his communication to the governors, Gov. Hamill said the same [illegible] problems of [illegible] United States, and that it was his desire to broaden the activities of the committee to include activities in behalf of cotton planters and cattle raisers, as well as wheat and corn growers.

CAL HANGS ON TO POLICY OF HIGH TARIFFS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25. —(FP)—When the White House spokesman was informed of the manifesto against tariff barriers issued by J. P. Morgan and other international bankers with the support of European bankers and manufacturers, he declared that the United States must keep its high tariff.

As Coolidge views the issue it is one of preserving the American standard of living in contrast with the European standard. This can be done, he thinks, only by a tariff wall around America. European states may lower their customs barriers if they choose, because living standards are not much different in one European country and another.

In the next breath the spokesman said the treasury needs the revenue from the tariff, which is levied on only $1,500,000,000 worth of imports annually in a third breath he asserted that high wages in America were related to high productivity per man employed in industry, and quoted figures to prove that this productivity had risen in the past 10 years from 106 per cent in the lumber business to 217 per cent in the rubber tire industry. He did not pause to harmonize his claim that high wages resulted from high productive power with the earlier claim that they resulted from a high tariff.

Pessimistic Report on G. O. P. Chances Is Brought to Coolidge

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—"The republican party will have a hard and uncertain fight to control the next senate," was the pessimistic report that Senator Simeon Fess, Ohio, brought to President Coolidge here.

Fess has just completed a tour of the cornbelt, and New England states.

Slipping of Fault Causes Frisco Quake

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 25.—A slippage of one of the numerous fault lines in the mountains surrounding Monterey Bay with probably a second slippage along the Mt. # KLUX SENATOR DENIES CHARGES FROM SICK BED

Reporters Excluded from Investigation

METHODIST HOSPITAL, INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Oct. 25.—The senate slush fund investigation of reckless senatorial pace reached to the hospital bedside of Senator James Watson, republican, of Indiana here today.

Propped up in bed, his face pale and drawn, Watson voiced a weak but insistent denial of charges that he had bartered politically with the invisible empire of the Ku Klux Klan.

His denial was made to Senator James A. Reed, democrat of Missouri, who brought his "one man" slush inquiry here from Chicago to hear Watson.

The hearing was confidential, only a stenographer, the secretaries to the senators and nurses being allowed in the room. Thirty newspapermen gathered in the hospital corridor outside the bedroom.

Sedly Sattered.

Reed's decision to hear Watson at his bedside was made when hospital physicians reported the Indiana senator's pulse was 135 this morning and urged that he remain in bed. Previously, it was intended to hold the hearing in a well-lighted roof garden atop the hospital.

Watson's injuries included a strained spine, a five-inch scalp wound, a sprained neck, shock and a black eye.

SEATTLE, Oct. 25.—Another "slush fund" investigation will get under way here Saturday when Senator McNary, of Oregon, arrives in Seattle to begin investigating the campaign disbursements of A. Scott Sullitt, candidate for U. S senator on the democratic ticket.

Conferred with Klan Counsel.

Senator Watson admitted having twice conferred with William F. Zumbrunn, general counsel of the Ku Klux Klan, on the Mayfield senatorial contest while the attorney was representing the Texas senator. Both conferees he added, dealt with the calling of witnesses.

Watson also declared he had never had any understanding with any officials of the klan about his becoming a candidate for the president in 1928.

He declared the charge that he was the klan's candidate was "absolutely ridiculous."

After the hearing concluded the stenographer read a transcript of Watson's testimony to the assembled newspapermen. Reed's only comment was "Senator Watson denied everything."

Denied Candidacy

Reed opened the hearing by telling Watson how the Indiana inquiry had started and the bedfast senator replied that he was "greatly obliged" to Reed for his "courteous treatment while here."

The high spot of the stricken senator's testimony was his vigorous denial that he was to be the K. K. K. candidate for president in 1928.

The League Alibi.

If the league of nations nonpartisan association of Indiana, so greatly feared by Clyde Walk, state republican chairman, for its alleged propaganda against Senators Watson and Robinson, has the $5,000,000 it is charged with controlling, it certainly hasn't spent it on furniture, nor in office space.

Investigation of the headquarters of the "octopus" by an impartial observer today would indicate that $300 was dearer the capital of the concern.

G. O. P. Have New Dodge.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 25. — Panicstricken over the havoc wrought in their ranks by Senator Reed's slush fund inquiry the G. O. P. strategists have evolved a plan to throw responsibility for slush funds on the shoulders of the campaign committees. This would let out the candidates who could report expenditures of trifling sums and evade the danger of being unseated after election.

The men were on a duck hunting expedition.

Judge Tries to Belittle Damaging Confessions in the Sacco-Vanzetti Case

By J. LOUIS ENGDAHL

PERHAPS the most startling and brazen part of the decision rendered by Judge Webster Thayer, denying a new trial to Sacco and Vanzetti, is found in the frantic effort of the court to dispose of the damaging admissions of the two agents of the department of justice, Lawrence Letherman and Fred J. Weyand. This part of the decision reads:

"The conclusion of the court is that the affidavits of Letherman and Weyand (former department of justice agents) would not warrant it in finding a fraudulent conspiracy between the government of the United States and the state of Massachusetts.

"As bearing upon this conclusion, Chief Stewart of the Bridgewater police department, who had full charge of the preparations of these cases for trial, affirms in his affidavit that the agents had nothing whatever to do with the preparation of the cases for trial, as far as he knows; and it would seem, if this great conspiracy was going on, he would be likely to know about it while he was actively engaged in the procuring of evidence against Sacco and Vanzetti and in the preparation of their trial."

Nothing could better reveal how the court, which is supposed to be unbiased and unprejudiced, falls in with the theory of the prosecution that immediately Letherman and Weyand confessed the truth about the frame-up of Sacco and Vanzetti, they must be rejected and considered as outcasts. As deserters from the army of spies, stool pigeons, undercover men and common police agents of the department of justice, they must be denounced and held up to public ridicule as persons of no standing in the community. Instead the court joins with the prosecution and gives its support to the police chief of Bridgewater who remains loyal to the frame-up gang, and thus retains his prestige in the eyes of the capitalist court.

It was Dudley P. Ranney, the assistant district attorney of Norfolk County, in charge of the Sacco-Vanzetti case, who revealed the attitude of the prosecution toward Letherman and Weyand and their affidavits. Ranney first attacked the two ex-agents for making public the secrets of the department of justice, thus admitting that the department had secrets that it wants to hide, even if it means the public murder of two innocent men.

"Secrecy is necessary in all police work," declared Ranney, "and especially in the work of that department (the department of justice), but for whose services revolution would break out in this country.

"These men have betrayed the secrets of the department and have been disloyal in doing so. The court would be justified in believing that such men resigned from the department without honor."

The court accepted whole-heartedly the theory of the prosecution in its attempt to offset the damaging testimony of these two ex-agents that the department of justice had enlisted the Massachusetts state authorities in bringing about the conviction of Sacco and Vanzetti, "to get them out of the way."

Millions of workers cannot help but jeer the decision of Judge Thayer as they cheer the courage of Letherman and Weyand in defying the whole frame-up gang and exposing the attempt to put Sacco and Vanzetti to death. Thayer and Ranney, with their political mentors, Governor Fuller, Senator Butler and President Coolidge, are revealed more glaringly than ever, by Thayer's decision, as the ruthless agents of the shoe factory and textile mill owners of Massachusetts in keeping labor down.

Ranney, the youthful prosecutor, who glories in the fact that the law firm with which he is connected dates its origin back into the last century, even before chattel slavery was abolished in this nation, really believes that the secret workings of the frame-up, putting to death of two workers, Sacco and Vanzetti, can really avert the triumph of the workers in this country.

Put Sacco and Vanzetti to death in the electric chair and profit rule is saved, is the reasoning of the capitalist state. Read the declaration of the prosecutor, Ranney, again and be convinced!

Basing its action on such a belief, fasting that the death of Sacco and Vanzetti will result in a tremendous setback for the whole labor movement, there can be no doubting that the New England plunderbund will stop at nothing in its plan to do away with its workingclass victims. This is proved by the attitude of the department of justice, of President Coolidge, of Governor Fuller, Senator Butler, of Governor Fuller and lesser members of the New England "frame-up gang" all during the six years that this case has been fought out in the courts. This attitude is revealed clearer than ever in the cold-blooded decision of the gang's most loyal judicial agent, the judge, Webster Thayer.

The decision reveals the great fear in which the ruling class tyranny looks upon its restless millions of discontented wage slaves. The exploiters stand fearful before the aspiring masses suffering under their exploitation.

All workers must join in lifting its mighty fist to the face of this black reaction demanding, "Sacco and Vanzetti Must Not Die!" Only when the capitalist tyrants behind the reeling wreck of aroused labor, at this attempt of theirs to murder two courageous workers, will they turn aside from their foul purpose. Let labor center in the face of its oppressors that Sacco and Vanzetti dead, murdered, are more dangerous to exploiters' rule than living they will be. They will rejoin all workers and continue to struggle to build labor's power on the road to its complete emancipation. Capitalism feres a dilemma in the Sacco-Vanzetti case. Its choosing must be dictated by workers determined to protect their own.

CHI GANGSTERS PARK GATS 'TILL AFTER ELECTION

Killings Embarrassing to Politicians

Chicago's gang warfare has ended—perhaps.

An "official" treaty of peace was signed by the four principal leaders of gangland in a room at a downtown hotel shortly after midnight this morning. The pact was signed following a conference that lasted most of the night.

The gangsters were brought together it was reported, thru the efforts of high city and county officials, worried over the forthcoming election.

"Scarface Al" Capone, leader of the powerful Cicero faction, whose diplomacy is credited for the success of the peace negotiations, was a proud spokesman for the amalgamated forces of gangland today.

"Yes, we have signed a treaty of peace," Capone admitted. "Tonight, for the first time in two years, I will sleep without a gun under my pillow.

Al is Optimistic.

"I believe it will be a lasting peace. I know I won't break it, and I don't believe the north side boys will either. What a relief! I feel like a kid. When the meeting was over I called my wife, and she cried so hard she couldn't talk to me."

The "big Four" of gangland, who negotiated the truce, are, beside Capone, Maslo Eisen, George "Bugs" Moran and Vincent "Schemer" Drucci. The latter was a partner of the late Earl Weiss, slain in a machine gun ambuscade ten days ago. It was this shooting that brought about the peace conference.

The Dear Departed.

More than sixty gangsters have cut down in the streets since the war for control of Chicago's beer and alcohol business broke forth two years ago. Politicians are believed to have considered rival gangsters of the habit of shooting one another down like dogs.

According to Capone, the inspiring motto of the peace conference was "The dead are dead. Long live the living."

"It is foolish when you stop to think of it," he continued, "to keep up that awful killing. I don't want to die. I have a loving wife and baby—and they need me. Most of the boys are in my fix. They have their folks, and they don't want to die."

And then, with a twinkle in his eye Capone added:

"Besides, there is business enough in this game for everybody."

RAILWAYS CUT ON ALL LINES FROM SHANGHAI

SHANGHAI, Oct. 25.—Rail communications are cut off in all directions from Shanghai by Cantonese sympathizers tearing up the railways. The Peking express was wrecked on the Shanghai-Nanking line Friday, just after the train bearing Colonel Carmi Thompson, Coolidge's personal "investigator" of the Philippines had passed. Several cars of the express were thrown in a canal and several persons were killed.

The Cantonese sympathizers are evidently trying to stop all troop reinforcements from the north in aid of the Sun Chuan-fang forces at Shanghai.

While Sun's lieutenants at Shanghai are hassling about their capture of the capital of thekiang province, Hangchow, 155 miles south, the troops that he headed in Shanghai itself are being sent on this expedition, with the result of leaving Shanghai open to attack with few troops to defend it.

Those forces sent to Hangchow may find themselves isolated and forced to surrender if the regular Cantonese armies make a swift advance down the Yangtze.

...STER CHILES ...OGNITION OF ...VIET REPUBLIC

...lls How Opposition Was Transformed

By SID BUSH
(Special to The Daily Worker)

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Oct. 26.—Rev. ...Oxnam, one of the American delegation of 24 who have just returned from Soviet Russia, spoke at the open forum of the Civil Liberties Union at Music Arts Hall to a large audience. After reciting what he had seen in that immense country he urged that the American government recognize the Union of Socialist Soviet Republics.

Thunderous applause greeted Dr. Oxnam's statement that the entire American delegation unanimously recommends that Soviet Russia be recognized by the United States.

Opposed Themselves.

The American delegation, which was composed of persons of varied ...ions, opinions and interests, but unanimous on one point, that is: all were end are opposed to the Communist movement, went to Soviet Russia to ascertain the exact conditions obtaining in that country.

And with all the propaganda against Soviet Russia thruout the world, with the staunch opposition of the delegates themselves against the Soviets, the facts, the actual conditions existing in contradistinction to the lies spread the world over, convinced the American delegation in unanimously recommend to the president and congress of the United States to recognize Soviet Russia.

Many Angles.

Rev. Oxnam's speech dealth with religion, foreign policy, education and the practical program in operation at the present time in Soviet Russia. Such statements as "priests are considered parasites and are therefore disfranchised," and "tho there is absolute religious freedom in Soviet Russia yet there are no young people in the churches," were greeted with enthusiastic applause.

"The foreign policy of Soviet Russia is most interesting and most instructive to the whole world," said Mr. Oxnam. "It is a policy which is working together 140,000,000 of Russians with 400,000,000 Chinese, hundreds of million of British East Indians and Japanese. The imperialist nations must either fall in line with Russia's foreign policy or face a combination of Russia, China, Japan and East India."

What Kirby Page Found.

In an article that appeared in The ...n Forum, a weekly issued by the American Civil Liberties Union of Southern California, Mr. Kirby Page, another delegate of the group of 24, states that: "During the three weeks of our stay in Russia we moved about with complete freedom and at no time felt a sense of insecurity. . . We visited factories, laboratories, stores, hospitals, rest homes, churches, libraries, kindergartens, schools, prisons, museums, art galleries and numerous other places of interest. . . My first impression is one of amazement at the magnitude of the economic and industrial achievement of the Bolsheviks during the past five years. Both in industry and in agriculture, the pre-war level of production is now being approached, if not actually equaled, and present tendencies are upward. . . Wherever one goes in Russia there is striking evidence of the releasing of life on a vast scale. Multitudes of people who formerly were driven like dumb cattle by tyrannous government officials and grasping industrialists and landlords now feel a new sense of freedom and possess new vitality."

OUR AUSTRALIAN LABOR LETTER

By J. RYAN-SYDNEY.

THE Commonwealth Arbitration Court, which is to decide whether the workers of the whole of Australia shall work 44 or 48 hours per week, has shifted from Melbourne to Sydney.

The court has already been sitting for one month, yet the employers' representatives have not finished giving their evidence. They are attempting to prove that the workers will do more work in 44 hours than they do in 48. If our representatives can prove that, it is presumed that the close conclusion (£3000 a year) judges will accede to the request.

Industrial Union the Need.

The Communists are pointing out that the best evidence to use in the arbitration court is a well-organized industrial union with a kick in it. However, the case is likely to go on until Christmas before any finality is reached.

The Queensland, South Australian, Western Australian and N. S. W. governments are supporting the application for the 44-hour week. The Tasmanian government is very half-hearted. All of the above are labor governments, yet only the Queensland and N. S. W. governments have made the 44-hour week law in their own states.

A Break in Labor Party.

Much interest has been caused by the Trades and Labor Council in Brisbane calling a conference of unions for the purpose of forming an industrial labor party. The split in the labor party in Queensland is developing more and more into a middle-class party, and it no longer represents the true interests of the trade union movement. (As a matter of fact, it never did.)

The last straw was when the Queensland politicians raised their own salaries £5 per week, and their nominees on the board of trade refused to raise the basic wage of the workers from £4 5s to £4 15s per week.

Economists Oppose.

The Communist Party is not supporting the breakaway move. It believes that if there is any splitting to be done in the movement it should be the reactionary politicians who are split off and driven into the camp of the boss, where they would be now, only that the boss finds them more serviceable where they are.

There is a ballot in progress for the official positions in the Seamen's Union. The final figures are not available yet, but it looks like Johnson winning the general secretaryship and Walsh the general presidency. Should this occur there is bound to be more disruption in the union. Walsh and Johnson openly hate each other, and issue no opportunity of blackening each other's character.

The Communists support Johnson because Walsh has developed into a hopeless reactionary and opportunist, and so has his wife, who used to be Adela Pankhurst, but we do wish that Jacob Johnson was not such a thick-headed sectarian. He imagines that everyone not in the Seamen's Union is a scab. By taking up that attitude he antagonizes the other transport unions and so causes disruptions.

Building Unions Amalgamate.

The craft unions in the building industry are pulling together fairly well in Sydney, also in Brisbane. There seems to be a definite move towards one union in that industry.

A ballot on the question of one union in the building industry was carried in the affirmative in Brisbane recently, and the Sydney unions have employed an organizer to organize the country building workers on industrial lines.

The referendum proposals that I mentioned some time ago were hopelessly defeated. These proposals were very complicated and were not very well understood by the people, but they voted them out, probably because of distrust for the Bruce government.

The Labor Council in Sydney is alive to the importance of the situation in China, and has issued several thousand leaflets supporting the national revolution against imperialism

EXPECTED AT EMPIRE MEET

Ireland, South Africa Expected to Explode

(Special to The Daily Worker)

LONDON, Oct. 25.—In a three-hour speech Sir Austen Chamberlain, foreign secretary, wove the delegates to the imperial conference a bird's eye view of the diplomatic maneuvers and intrigues that the British government is engaged in with other countries, or at least as much as the secretary thot the delegates should know.

Sir Austen insisted that Great Britain must keep the most complete control in Egypt, India, and of the Mediterranean, in view of the Italian ambition to make the Mediterranean an Italian lake.

Bruce Replies to Hertzog.

At a dinner given to the dominion premiers by the Empire Press Union tonight, Premier Bruce of Australia spoke of acts which might lead to the disintegration of the British Empire in a way that made it impossible not to sense a veiled reply to General Hertzog's claim for "independent nationhood" for South Africa.

"If any man," said Premier Bruce with great emphasis, "is going to suggest that we should now take some action which might lead to the disintegration of the empire, then for Australia we say we are going to have nothing to do with it. When it comes to the question of the empire and the British people against any other nation in the world we are determined we are going to be one."

Irish Bombshell.

More disturbing than Gen. Hertzog's declaration is the bombshell that the Irish delegation has in store. I understand a complaint will be made by President Cosgrave in secret session that when Ireland tried to get a seat on the council of the league of nations at Geneva recently her effort was blocked by Sir Austen Chamberlain and the seat given to Czechoslovakia by a deal between Chamberlain and foreign Minister Briand of France.

The Irish allege that the English foreign secretary told M. Briand the Irish claim was not endorsed by the British delegation, whereupon M. Briand explained it would be difficult to avoid electing Ireland for one year as she asked, since no important power would consent to take a one-year seat.

Keeping Irish Out of League.

M. Briand, according to the Irish, then persuaded Sir Austen to back the Czech-Slavic, Dr. Benes, to keep the land off the council and to avoid the scandal of the British Empire having two seats. The result was another French ally got on the council in addition to Poland, Roumania and Belgium.

Esperantist Congress in Leningrad

By MARK STARR.
(Special to The Daily Worker)

LENINGRAD.—Among the four hundred delegates in attendance at the sixth congress of Sennacieon Asocio Tutmonda (S. A. T.) held recently here there was diversity in everything but speech. Shaven heads were in contrast with flowing locks; unshaven chins and flowing beards; tall men wearing sandals argued with short men wearing shiny boots—in all, one hundred and sixty-four working men and women from fourteen outside countries met the two hundred and fifty representatives of the far-flung areas of the U. S. S. R.; and conversed freely without the help of interpreters.

The contrast between the Old and the New Russia was most noticeable in the reception given to the delegates at this Workers' Esperantist International. The czarist government, in 1895, suppressed the first Esperanto journal in Russia, but the Soviet government has issued a special commemoration postage stamp.

Lunacharsky, honorary president of the congress, sent a message of greeting in which he recognized Esperanto to be "extending with irresistible force" and becoming "one of the most serious phenomena in present-day public life." This message, with many others from scientific, educational, and industrial bodies, was read in the Uritsky Palace—where Duma once sat and the Comintern was founded. Here the S. A. T. congress was formally opened with bands and banners and speeches of welcome. Day by day, during the congress, the Leningrad "Pravda" issued a special Esperanto section, and reprinted the letter written by A. J. Cook to thank the Soviet workers for their support. Incidentally, the same letter was broadcasted at Leningrad, Moscow, and Kharkov.

In the Labor Palace of the Leningrad trade unions the congress settled down to its work of harnessing Esperanto in the service of the working-class. An increasing circulation of the weekly "Sennaulo" was reported, and a number of important literary and scientific works have been issued during the year including a small useful guide to Soviet Russia.

A vivid view of the extensive use of Esperanto by worker correspondents of labor journals, steps were taken to set up a regular press service. The propaganda and instruction of the international language in schools and workers' clubs and its application to radio were profitably discussed. Lectures were given on the economic position of the U. S. S. R. and its social institutions, and the cultural work of the Red Army in the villages fully explained. Visits to workers' clubs, rest houses, and children's colonies and excursions to factories and workers' sports festivals filled up the program. The delegates enjoyed a special presentation of the film "Potemkin."

The British delegates were overwhelmed by queries concerning the miners' struggle, which revealed the keen interest taken, and the little brass lamps on sale became souvenirs of solidarity to be carried back into the distant home countries of the delegates. More and more Esperanto is passing into practical use as an important aid to working class unity, and S. A. T. and its successful congress demonstrated its advance in that direction.

Jimmie's Wife Queen in Germany.

HAMBURG, Oct. 25.—Mrs. James J. Walker, wife of New York's mayor, gave a champagne shower bath to a dozen of Germany's leading citizens when she christened the Hamburg American liner which has just been completed here.

Mrs. Walker swung the precious bottle lustily, it cracked with a bang against the steel side of the ship, and the assembled high silk hats were drenched with the spray.

MARIE TALKS TURKEY WITH STEEL BOSSES

Her 'Golddigging' Has Started in Earnest

(Special to The Daily Worker)

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—Light on the real reason that Queen Marie is in America was reflected, it is believed here, from the fact that she is spending so much of her time with American capitalists, especially those of steel and oil.

There is much speculation as to what occurred at a "private party" at the home of Elbert H. Gary, steel magnate, which was staged for the queen. No newspaper reporters were allowed at this meeting. It is believed that more was discussed there than the queen's "passionate love for you Americans."

Makes Plenty of Hints.

At the banquet of the steel magnates Friday Marie made some pretty pertinent hints as to her real mission here. In stressing her desire that "a great friendship should exist between Roumenie and the United States" she was very careful to state that "my country is weak, and that you Americans have much money."

In a feeble effort to cover up, she said: "As a women I cannot talk money, business, and steel. My mission is peace, for what I can do for my country is to make you know that it exists."

Marie is not only on a "gold-digging" tour for her "beloved" country, but she is also digging for herself. It is reported that she received fat sums from the Radio Corporation of America for broadcasting, and from a New York ice company for talking over radio under its auspices. She has received many gifts, including $3,000 from the Equitable Trust Company for "expenses," a typewriter, gold wrist watch, etc.

Minneapolis Won't Bow.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Oct. 25.—An effort to make the city fathers here bow down to the queen of Roumania when she comes here felled when members of the city council refused to pass a resolution providing for a "royal welcome."

"The queen is nothing but an international gold-digger. She has sold her rights to say what she has to say to a newspaper syndicate. She has sold her name to manufacturers of cold cream and other greasing, and she is humming her way across the country."

Illinois Plutes Join in Bowing to Monarch

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—Mrs. Arthur Meeker and Mrs. Jacob Bauer, Illinois "official hostesses to Queen Marie," have arrived here from Chicago and will call on "her majesty" today.

Mrs. J. Hamilton Lewis, wife of the former senator, also arrived. Mrs. Lewis said she met Queen Marie in Roumania and that she has come to New York to greet her as a friend.

Queen Rolls in Luxury in New York

Above is shown the Queen of Roumania being shown around the city by plugged hat members of her "reception committee," while below is a view of her costly Lacroix room suite in the Ambassador Hotel, Manhattan's finest of which every room is furnished in the most pompous antique furniture. The bed in which the queen sleeps is worth $50,000 while the table on which the royal party dines is valued at $30,000. These two sums alone would feed an entire province of starving Bessarabian peasants.

KAISER CONFIDENT HE CAN RETURN TO CASTLE; CATHOLICS SUPPORT HIM

(Special to The Daily Worker)

BERLIN, Oct. 25.—The former kaiser is confident that he will be able to return to Germany despite protests of most of the citizens, it is said, as his political agents announce a long-hair has been found in the laws barring him. The law barring him expires on June 1, 1927, and cannot be re-enacted except by special decision of the national council and the reichstag.

The ex-monarch has many agents working here exploiting the expiration of the law, in an effort to bring about favorable opinion. The generals and socialists insist that the law be removed in order that he cannot come back, but the catholic centrist party is leaning toward the monarchists, and their support is necessary.

Nicaraguan Dictator Forces Road Workers to Slave Without Pay

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—General Emiliano Chamorro, military dictator of Nicaragua, has established in that country the system of forced unpaid labor on public roads known as the corvee. He has caused his congress to enact a law which requires all male inhabitants of 18 years or over to contribute to the construction and maintenance of highways. Since very few can pay in money, the great majority are forced to work out the "tax" under military guard.

This system was established in Ecuador two years ago, and from time to time has been employed by dictators in Peru, Venezuela, Haiti and other Latin-American countries.

TROTSKY ABOUT ENGLAND, NEARING THINKS

Estimation in "Whither England" Correct

By SCOTT NEARING, Fed. Press.

Leon Trotsky recently wrote a book to prove an argument which ran something like this: "Britain cannot make the transition from capitalism to socialism by constitutional means; for labor leaders are hopelessly constitutional; therefore a new labor leadership is imperatively needed."

When the book (Whither England?) appeared MacDonald and other responsible leaders of the British labor movement punched it full of logical holes. But in the meantime greater than MacDonald arose in the form of the general strike. What MacDonald and his followers denied as, a matter of logic the general strike and its following events demonstrated as a matter of experience. Nowhere has this demonstration been more evident than in the trade union movement.

Pres. Fuge of the Bournemouth Trades Union congress Sept. 6, 1926, with the assertion that the supreme lesson of the strike was its demonstration of the fetish of the British workers in the methods of democracy.

"When the unions combined their forces last May," Fuge asserted, "they were not using the new principles of industrial action, but simply asserting more effectively on a larger scale the traditional trade union reliance to accept dictated terms of employment whether from the employers or the government."

This was the attitude Pugh exposed throughout the Trades Union congress sessions at Bournemouth. It was the official attitude of the members of the general council. Democracy, trade unionism, to them "was, is and shall be."

Masses of British workers are in a quite different frame of mind. If they learned anything during the general strike and the miners' lockout, it was the lesson of dictatorship. No sooner was the strike seriously threatening than the government called into being the emergency powers act, declared a dictatorship over the economic and political life of the country; suspended all the ordinary guarantees of free speech and free press, and used the police, the army and the navy in its efforts at strikebreaking.

The general strike was the signal for the government and the employers to combine to crush the organizations of the labor movement.

Pres. Pugh said this in his presidential address, but when it came to the interpretation of the event he insisted that the supreme lesson of the strike was the lesson in democratic methods.

But Trotsky was plainly right. British will not proceed to the social transformation through the channels of democratic action. During the crisis just passed she had a dictatorship. She will have other dictatorships for the crises that impend.

Meanwhile her labor leaders, refusing to build on experience, continue to repeat the phrases they learned in the days before the world war, riveted into a program of successful bearing it to a new generation of fighters to convert the recent labor experience into a program of successful bearing it to a new generation of fighters to convert the recent labor experience into a program of successful bearing it to a new generation of fighters to convert the recent labor experience into a program of successful bearing it to a new generation of fighters to convert the recent labor experience into labor action.

NEW ARRESTS OF TOILERS IN LAND OF QUEEN MARIE

Roumanian Police Make Drive on Trade Unions

BUCHAREST, Oct. 25.—The Bucharest police arrested the workers, Neumann, Taube and Nerrekovici, who distributed legal leaflets of the trade unions. Neumann was deported from Roumania. Taube was released from prison after three days of tortures and Herrekovici was given to the military court after serious maltreatment, in which also an employer participated.

Similar arbitrary acts are reported from Pocshani, Ploesti, Galatz and other towns.

In Aarad the Siguranza arrested forty workers who were candidates on the list of the workers' and peasants' bloc. The workers were arrested only after the election had taken place.

Shooting in the Jilava Prison.

CONSTANZA, Roumania, Oct. 25. The political prisoners of Jilava have addressed a request to the second army corps demanding that the shooting in the prison is ceased. The commander answered "It concerns nobody when shooting takes place inside the prison." Boris Stefanoi is still imprisoned in Jilava. He is in solitary confinement and is treated with great cruelty.

Brutal Police Officials.

DRENNA, Oct. 25. The Roumanian press reports the brutal action of a police agent, Petra Achim, who was instructed to find out the thieves in a small case. On the market place he arrested three women, took them to a remote place and raped them one after the other. The oldest of the women is 42 years old and mother of three children. The women have taken proceedings. The police agent was arrested, but there is not much hope that anything will happen to him.

KLAUSENBURG, Roumania, Oct. 25. The congress of the Unitarian Thin her workers' league, which was called to Klausenburg, had been allowed by the authorities. Numerous delegates from all parts of Roumania have arrived in Klausenburg. However, in the last moment the police changed its mind, prohibited the congress and deported all delegates who had arrived as representatives of foreign trade unions.

KING IS PEEVED AT RAZZING OF MARIE, TELLS HER TO RETURN.

(Special to The Daily Worker)

LONDON, Oct. 26.—King Ferdinand of Roumania, taking exceptions to American criticisms of Queen Marie's tour, has cabled to her suggesting that she return home immediately, according to a Vienna dispatch received here.

Reports of the queen's illness are connected here with the cablegram. The king declares the "dignity of the dynasty" is threatened by the exposure of the queen to criticism.

American Ogre Casts Evil Eye on Canada

By C. McKAY, Federated Press.

MONTREAL (FP) — Numerous American exploring parties have been traversing the wilds of Canada this summer, and more numerous parties of American engineers and technicians have been in Canada on tourist trips to look over the industries and opportunities in the more settled parts. This gives rise to the belief in some quarters that Americans are preparing on an accelerated scale to capital into Canada when the American investor becomes wary of investment in Europe.

During the war and for some years after American capital invaded Canada in a big way. Profits from the sending of the British war debt and the share that came the international bankers' opportunity to invite American investments in Europe there has been a decline in the influx to Canada. Since the war 5 or 6 billions of American capital have been loaned in Europe in addition to loans of 10 billions on account of the war. European payments to the United States have been practically confined to the British payments on war account, something over $100,000,000.

Already an American economist has practically declared that Europe has been playing the Americans for the biggest suckers in history, and warned that in the not remote future another European war or Communist revolutions it will be impossible for America to collect the principal of government or private loans. The time may not be distant when Americans are likely to become shy of risking money in Europe. Then the American capitalists will turn their eyes to Canada, for if will be difficult to find in their own country employment for the new capital generated every year.

Why not a small bundle of The DAILY WORKER sent to you regularly to take to your trade union meeting?

Catalog of Workers School Reveals Its Remarkable Growth

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—The Workers' School catalog of courses for the fall term is now printed and ready for distribution. This little 16-page pamphlet, with its 48 classes covering 37 distinct courses, ranging all the way from English and public speaking and journalism to Marxian philosophy, indicates the remarkable growth of the school during the past year.

The catalog begins with a brief discussion of workers' education in the United States, narrates the history of the Workers' School and its growth, takes up the question of scholarship and fees and then gives a detailed description of each course, night, the hour and the instructor. The school is now divided into various departments, such as the department of English, public speaking and journalism; the department of history; the department of trade unions and labor problems; of economics; of imperialism; of Marxian philosophy; of literature and others; various special courses, such as teaching methods in workers' education; research, proletarian writers' workshop, trade union training course; party training courses, and young workers' training course.

This new catalog reveals the Workers' School as the most exciting institution engaged in workers' education in the entire United States.

It may be secured by writing to Bertram D. Wolfe, director of the Workers' School, 108-108 East 14th street, New York City.

LETTERS TO DAILY WORKER FROM WORKERS IN CAMPAIGN SHOW REAL SPIRIT THAT MAKES FOR SUCCESS

A CROSS-SECTION of the spirit of the members and sympathisers of the Workers (Communist) Party in America, which makes the Communist movement a real, vital force in the lives of the workers, can be received from the letters which are pouring into The DAILY WORKER offices daily, accompanying donations for the KEEP THE DAILY WORKER CAMPAIGN.

"We must keep The DAILY WORKER," is the gist of letters coming from all parts of the nation, from New York to California. Each letter, sometimes they are painfully written (for not all of the readers of our daily have yet complete mastery of the intricacies of the English language) breathes the spirit that means victory for Communist principles.

Here are some extracts of letters selected at random:

"We mustn't let The DAILY WORKER die," writes Mary Draich, Ohio, in sending in her check for $15 as her part in the campaign "If we do, all of our workers' struggles will partly die with it. All workers must find a way to support The DAILY WORKER—the only shining star in this rich country of ours—rich, but not for us workers. I will do my best among my friends for The DAILY WORKER."

Whole Family Aids.

Comrade Gus Magnus of Cleveland writes: "I have made a little collection in my house, for we are working for a very small wage, and this is the best we can do. But we cannot see The DAILY WORKER go down." He enclosed subscriptions from every member of his family.

Like a "Good Stake."

"The DAILY WORKER to me is like eating a good steak, with onions, potatoes, and real beer," says I. Josephson, New York, enclosing his subscription. "And best of all it keeps me informed of what's doing in the World of Labor, of which I am a member thru the Electrical Workers."

"I urge every real Armenian Communist to help in every way to build up a powerful Bolshevik organ in the near future," says Comrade H. Gadarlesian of Detroit, Mich.

70 Years Old, Contributes.

Sidney Smith, of Denver, Colo., who is seventy years old, writes: "Enclosed is another one dollar bill for The DAILY WORKER. At 70, I can't do much, having to compete with boys and girls in industry, but you can rely on me doing what I can."

"It is absolutely necessary that The DAILY WORKER keep up the good work of educating the workingclass," wrote Carl Jansen of Long Island City, N. Y. "and I am therefore enclosing money order for $5 as a contribution to the 'fund'."

"It Must Exist."

"We need The DAILY WORKER and this valuable paper must exist, and prosper," says Francis J. Mach of Toledo, O., enclosing his contribution. "It's only a small amount, but some from a sincere heart and with my best wishes and co-operation."

Shop Nucleus No. 2, Detroit "Enclosed you will find a check that is loaned us by The DAILY WORKER from S. N. No. 2 members. We, the members of Shop Nucleus No. 2, have decided to help The DAILY WORKER as much as we can because we understand what The DAILY WORKER means to the workingclass. Now, and in the future, we are going to do more to KEEP THE DAILY WORKER."

"We Will Do Our Share."

S. R. Perlman, city agent of Washington, D. C., says, in enclosing some subscriptions: "We shall do our utmost to fulfill our quota, and even try to go over the top. Hoping to meet with success, we shall do our share."

In sending his subscription, Edward K. Field of Detroit also gives a suggestion on increasing the circulation of The DAILY WORKER. He says: "The DAILY WORKER must be saved. But if we would be saved, we must help ourselves. I know of one way that would help the circulation of our best labor daily. For instance, almost every day I purchase two or more copies and distribute them to workers sitting near me in the street cars and other public places. This is very little help, I admit, and you get real pleasure from doing this little to spread your message.

"Now comes my point. There are several downtown street newsstands and cigar stores as there are in other cities. Why not publish that fact in a column of your paper. Many of those who read it may not be able to subscribe and yet would like to read a copy whenever they could do so. Then, too, I have understood that other places where The DAILY WORKER is obtainable in each city placed in a prominent position in the paper. I am sure that it would help your circulation. Certainly, many might eventually become subscribers who happened to get a copy by chance. After buying for awhile at the newsstand, they would like your paper well enough to subscribe for it. Think this over. I think the idea has merit."

Jewelry Robbers Nabbed.

ENGLEWOOD, N. J., Oct. 25.—Identified as having robbed a New York jewelry salesman in his room at the Palmer House, Chicago, on September 2, of diamonds valued at $150,000 two men giving the names of Geer and McClellan were being held at police headquarters, here today.

EASY TO SOLICIT FOR OUR DAILY WRITES WORKER

Workers of All Types Come to Aid

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—The following letter has been received by the New York office of The DAILY WORKER.

"Dear Comrade Katterfield: With the $25 I am sending you you must also accept an expression of one that approached the ordinary ones of the great masses of workers, who contributed to The DAILY WORKER fund.

"I am writing of how easy it is to approach them for contributions, regardless of their contrary beliefs.

"At lunch time some of the comrades of the shee workers' nucleI and myself succeeded in collecting the above sum.

"The department in which I am working is composed of elements of various nationalities and beliefs. Altho some of them are right wing socialists and members of the national group, they contributed some sum towards The DAILY WORKER. The slogan of "A Workers' Daily in the English Language" is most appropriate. Let us strive at this time that we are ready to work for a DAILY WORKER in every industrial city in this country.

"I wonder what a response I would get if I was to appeal to them to help maintain a DAILY WORKER in New York.

Comradely yours,
Louis Seador

WITH THE YOUNG WORKERS

CONDUCTED BY THE YOUNG WORKERS LEAGUE

YOUNG POCKETBOOK FRAME MAKERS ORGANIZE DRIVE FOR UNIONIZATION

By MATTHEW KUSHNIR,
Young Worker Correspondent.

NEW YORK CITY.—The bosses of the Karron and Kerron pocketbook frames are doing their utmost to keep the workers enslaved and unorganized. The workers, the great majority of whom are young boys and girls, are talking about unionism and of bettering their conditions. The young workers feel that to work 50 or 48 hours is very harmful to their health.

They know that working a couple of years in the unsanitary workrooms under a terrific speed-up system means in the end a physically underdeveloped body for the youth. That is why the young workers are out to organize themselves. The boss is trying his hardest to keep the workers away from the union, because better conditions for the workers mean less profits for him usually.

The boss employs many tricks to fool the workers. First he has his foreman spying around. Then he fired the leaders of the workers who wanted a union. Then he announced that the workers will work 48 hours a week instead of 50, and in this way he thinks he will try to bribe the youth.

All these moves of the boss will not do him any good. The young workers, etc., will flock to the meetings called by the committee for the organization of the pocketbook frame workers. There at the meeting they will discuss how best to proceed in order to organize and fight for betterment of conditions. The committee is composed of representatives elected by the workers from the various shops. The committee has shown good work. It organized and led a successful strike in the Triangle Metal Forming Co. The workers in Workers' Every League member an active union member!

Youth Show Pep in Factory Drives

Section No. 6, Young Workers League of Chicago, has at last begun a real campaign in the various factories we are concentrating on. During the summer months our activity was somewhat lax, as some of the comrades left for the district school, others were on vacation, etc. But now these things are past and the comrades have taken a new attitude towards the work. Even comrades who have hitherto done practically nothing are now visiting factories, union meetings, etc. New members are trained to act as chairmen at meetings and gradually are led into the executive positions in the section.

Educational work has been started with real vigor, and classes will be started in each unit of the league after the pollitbillum course is over. Our meetings have an average attendance of about ten comrades and the meetings last about two hours' time, one hour on business and fact for work and the rest for educational work. The slogans in our section are as follows. Every member a member of the pollitbillum class. Every member a subscriber to the Young Worker! Every League member an active union member!

Passaic Strike Movie Gets Fine Support in Boston and Vicinity

BOSTON, Oct. 25. The Passaic strikers, making their appeals for the benefit performance of "The Passaic Textile Strike," motion picture of their struggle, are meeting with universal sympathy and a most enthusiastic response from organized labor in Boston. Nearly all the orchestra seats have been sold for the Boston performance which will take place at the Aremont Temple, Tuesday evening, October 26.

John DiSanto has reported in about three days, $355.50 of tickets sold. The Jewish Bakers' Union were the first generous purchasers of over $100.00. Carpenters' Local 157 followed with $50 worth, and Local 33 with $37.50. The Photo Engravers, having purchased $50 worth, will re-sell them and turn in whatever money they so collect. The Bill Posters' Union gave $37.50 and voted to do all bill posting desired for the picture, without charge.

The Brockton performance will take place at October 27 at Lithuanian National Home. Admission is 25 cents and tickets are fast going.

Haverhill will also have a showing of the picture on October 27 and 28. The hall will be announced shortly.

DETROIT, Oct 25. All signs point to a huge success for the gala concert being staged by the organized labor of this city on Tuesday evening, October 26, at Majestic Theater, Woodward near Willis, for the milk and bread fund for the heroic Passaic strikers and their families.

A very fine program has been arranged, including the Detroit String Quartette of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra; Stefan Koshevich, baritone; Ukrainian choir, with Ivan Atamanec, director.

TRADE UNIONS MAKE DEMANDS ON MOVIELAND

Seek Organization of Film Industry

By ESTHER LOWELL,
Federated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—Organized labor is marching on open-shop Hollywood and New York movie studios. Stage hands, motion picture machine operators, carpenters, scenic artists and electrical workers are all demanding recognition of their unions by the big movie producers.

Demands of the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employes and Motion Picture Operators; United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners; Scenic Artists' Association of International Brotherhood of Painters, Paperhangers and Decorators, and International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers have been presented to Warner Bros., Famous Players, Producers and Distributors' Corporation of America, Universal, Metro-Goldwyn, First National and Fox Films.

An Open-Shop Industry.

Threat of a national sympathetic walkout involving 13,500 workers in the trades mentioned is made if the producers do not sign with the unions by December 1. William Canavan, president International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employes and Motion Picture Operators and spokesman for the unions, charges that the producers broke a verbal agreement which they had made last April.

Fred W. Beetson, secretary of the Association of Motion Picture Producers to regulate their affairs, on the movie studios are "operated on the American plan" and are "open shop." Beetson was conferring with Will Hays, called "czar" of the movie industry because he was chosen by producer sto regulate their affairs, on the welfare program to be put into the studios November 1.

Equity Holds Aloof.

The affect of the unions' demands for recognition, closed shop, readjustment of wage scales, eight-hour day, pay for six legal holidays and extra pay for Sunday work is a tremendous challange to notoriously open-shop Los Angeles.

Actors' Equity Association, which is attempting to organize the extra players in the movie studios, is not included in the group of unions presenting demands. Equity does not have an agreement permitting sympathetic action by actors with other stage employes. Organization of the 3,500 mechanical workers in Hollywood studios will undoubtedly stimulate unionization of the exploited part-time players.

After the Furriers' Strike

By W. WOLINER,
Sec'y Joint Board Furriers' Union, New York.

AT the time the strike in the fur industry was settled the leadership was confronted with several problems of vital importance to the organization, and we can truthfully say that these problems are now considered a thing of the past. And now let us see how those problems were solved by the leadership with the full co-operation of the great majority of the workers.

The first problem, of restoring the workers back to work, was an immediate one, and it was settled as such, thanks to the apparatus that was built up during the strike, namely, that of the shop chairmen and hall committees.

THIS difficult problem, which sometimes takes weeks, especially after such a bitter struggle as we furriers went thru, was settled within the period of a few days. Workers want back to work in the shops they were striking from with substantial increases in wages and with a promise that the manufacturers felt that the demands they suffered for and won would be kept and cherished.

And here it is well to note that another problem, for which the equal division of work was extremely necessary, and with which the fur workers will have to reckon in the future, is that of the orphans, or those workers who had no shops when they went on strike.

UPON the termination of the 1920 strike conducted by Kaufman, Sam Cohen, Sorkin and the Second avenue gangsters, these workers were left to shift for themselves. Being hungry and eager for work, it was the natural result that these workers would go from shop to shop begging for a job, there lowering the wages and in general creating a chaotic condition which it took some time to overcome, and was never finally remedied until the second half of the year 1925.

Then a left-wing administration took over the Furriers' Union and immediately undertook an aggressive campaign to remedy the evils that had piled up in the organization under the former administration. This problem of the so-called orphans was settled in a way as to prove to the workers that the leadership is heart and soul in the interest of the workers.

THESE orphans were not immediately released to shift for themselves, but they kept up a discipline as even during the strike, until they were all placed on jobs or were called for by various shops in need of additional help at good salaries, and are now assured of their jobs.

The union, upon the termination of the strike, had to deal with a problem that was something new, altho scabbing seems to be something that will continue until all the workers will realize the meaning of the class struggle. Especially in a union where the international body, like ours, did indirectly sanction it by tolerating certain elements, the majority of them of a questionable character.

These elements were not favorable to the strike and sabotaged it in every possible way and manner. Nothing being too low for them to try, their one aim was to break the strike.

WHEN these elements were warned by the workers in the halls that they were found out and should desist from their actions, they left the strike halls and were given a hall in Long Island, close to the international offices, where they conducted themselves, or rather amused themselves, by playing cards, drinking beer and other recreations a la the strike of 1920. For these persons were then at the head of the union.

DUE to a situation of this kind, the natural result was that those of a weaker nature could be more easily enticed by the bosses to scab on their fellow workers. After the strike all the scabs had to leave the shops where they were scabbing and appear before a restoration committee, consisting of three members of the union, with the impartial chairman of the industry, for reinstatement to the union. Heavy fines were imposed upon them by this committee, in some cases totaling $600 than they could have earned during the strike while scabbing.

THESE and other cases of similar nature are being liquidated by the union in a manner satisfactory to the workers, and of course here also the Forward, in conjunction with some of the international officers, raised a cry that honest workers are being distriminated against by the lefts.

It seems that, according to the Forward and his followers amongst our international officers, it is no crime to scab during a strike where there are no gangsters employed and where the leaders of the strike are the most honored and respected of the workers. Of course, among these scabs there were quite a few partisans of the Forward.

ONE former vice-president of the international, not to say former local officer, and the whole former organization committee during Kaufman's administration, were all active scabs and agents, and here the Joint Board acted in a manner that should be a credit to all honest workers, most of all to the left wing movement, of which it is a part.

Workers that were enticed away from the strike, upon their payment of a fine, are being reinstated in the organization, altho it is true a strict watch upon their behavior is kept by the workers in the shops where they are employed. But the professional scabs, gunmen and gangsters, who were all members of Kaufman's organization committee, were given permits to work in the trade.

THE Joint Board at this time again went on record that these individuals would never be reinstated in the union. It is needless to say that this met with the full approval of the workers, and naturally with the disapproval of the Forward and a few vice-presidents of our international, who were very emphatic, demanding reinstatement in the union for these elements. The Joint Board even received a letter from the sub-committee of the international, signed by President Shachtman, to that effect.

The demobilization of the union's war-time forces took place with a will and a gusto unequalled in any union. The general picket committee, or the G. P. C., as it is commonly known, immediately went out of business, the respective shops, and those that had no shops were found places.

ALL went back to work—bench or machine—for they were the advance guard of the workers, and had, as in previous strikes, hired thugs who worked for the union and got paid from the bosses and the union alike.

Proof of the work of the G. P. C. can be judged by the cruelty of the police and unheard-of sentences imposed upon those that were caught in the clutches of capitalist justice.

IT is natural that during this time complaints of workers piled up, but here again is shown the will and determination of left wing leaders, who went to work with a will and succeeded in adjusting those complaints that have arisen in a satisfactory manner to the workers. It is with such work and management in the interest of the workers that has created the confidence and support of the fur workers to the policies and leadership of the left wing militants to the Furriers' Union.

With work such as of this nature on behalf of the workers, and with material for leadership such as the left wing movement has brought out in the Furriers' Union, it is to be hoped that the goal of all progressives—that of amalgamation of the needle trades union—is not far distant.

Federation Radio Artist Hears Own Program on Ether

That a radio entertainer can improve his or her rendition of a musical number thru hearing exactly what finally goes on the air and watching the indicator of the transmitter, thus regulating the instrument or voice, instead of requiring the central operator to out-guess the artist, has been proven.

Miss Vella Cook, WCFL (Chicago Federation of Labor), staff contralto, who is an experienced radio singer, placed the headphones, tightly clamped over her ears, so that all she could hear of her voice would be the actual projection in the air, exactly what you hear on your receiving set at home.

This experiment was very unusual. She watched the instrument on the transmitter which indicated exactly the degree of modulation affected, and regulated her voice within the limits specified to obtain the best results without danger of over-working the apparatus. In fact, the whole operation of the radio transmitter was turned over to the artist, Miss Cook, at the conclusion of her song, took the earphones off and decided the experience a very wonderful one, stating that if all broadcast stations would adopt the same method, the radio audience would receive the programs much more successfully.

N. Y. Firemen Demand the Eight-Hour Day

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—Endorsement of the demand of New York City fire fighters for the 8-hour day, or three-platoon system, was voted by the International Association of Fire Fighters in its biennial convention just closed. The convention urged the people of New York to give their unqualified support to the campaign the firemen are about to undertake to secure this improvement.

START DRIVE TO UNIONIZE ALL GARAGES

I. A. of M. Makes Pact With Teamsters

By LAURENCE TODD.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—(FP)—Fortified by a jurisdictional agreement which they signed with the Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Stablemen and Helpers, during the recent convention of the American Federation of Labor at Detroit, officers of the International Association of Machinists have returned to their Washington headquarters to launch a drive to unionize the commercial garages of the country.

Sign Agreement.

This agreement with the Teamsters and Chauffeurs is of considerable importance. Its terms are:

1. Only those two organizations shall hold jurisdiction in garages, and only members of the two organizations shall be recognized there.

2. Members of the Machinists' Union shall have the work of "assembling, dismantling, adjusting and repairing of all mechanical parts and chassis of automobiles, trucks and buses, this to include changing of solid tires.

3 All other work in and around garages—such as washing, polishing, oiling, greasing, changing tires and cleaning up garages—shall go to the Teamsters and Chauffeurs' members.

4 Neither party is bound to protest the other against any "legitimate" claims of any other organization affiliated with the A. F. of L.

This treaty is to endure until either party gives 30 days' notice of a desire for a change.

Its Meaning.

Its meaning in the fight to organize the big and little garages thruout the country is this: the Teamsters and Chauffeurs, wherever they have a union agreement with a taxicab, bus or other garage firm, will be under moral pressure to insist that the mechanics who handle their cars and who work with them in the garages belong to the International Association of Machinists. Since the Teamsters and Chauffeurs are organized in many of the garages where the Machinists have not yet gained a foothold, and since the Teamsters and Chauffeurs are, as a rule, vigorous trade unionists, the results of the agreement are expected to help the Machinists in many instances. In their turn the Machinists will insist that men working beside them at jobs allotted to the Teamsters and Chauffeurs shall get into that union.

B. & O. May Be First.

Strangely enough, one of the first corporations likely to feel the impact of the new campaign in the garages is the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, which is on the best of terms with the union. Recently the B. & O. was shut out of the Pennsylvania terminal in New York City and entered into a contract with the Fifth Avenue Coach Co. to haul its passengers from various stations in the city to its trains on the New Jersey side of the Hudson river. The Fifth Avenue Coach Co. is anti-union in its shop policy. A movement is on foot to organize the garage force, and to declare the Fifth Avenue Coach Co. unfair if it persists in its hostility.

Whether the B. & O. will endeavor to adjust the matter to the satisfaction of the Machinists and the Teamsters and Chauffeurs, by persuading the Fifth Avenue Coach Co. to permit unionization of its garages, is not indicated. If the garages are declared unfair the passenger transfer business of the B. & O. in New York City may be seriously embarrassed, and the dispute may lead to demands for an extension of the boycott to the New Jersey terminal.

Carpenters Continue Using Hammers, But Hit no Nails on Head

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 25.—Carpenters use hammers. This was proved by the fact that four scabs in the carpenters' strike here are in the hospital, one of them not expected to scab any more on this earth. They say they were attacked by six men with hammers who knew how to hit the nail on the head.

NEW YORK—(FP)—Step by step the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters is moving forward toward recognition by the Pullman Co., which now refuses to deal with its workers except through its controlled company union. The brotherhood is appealing to the railmediation board, set up by the Watson-Parker act, for aid in obtaining a conference with the Pullman Co.

COMPANY UNION OF PULLMAN IN FAKE ELECTION

Ballot Steal Elects Stool Pigeons

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—General dissatisfaction with the elections of the Pullman Porters' Benefit Association of the company union is being reported here from every section. Election contests are being instituted in some western districts for the first time in the history of any district of the benefit association, according to the information received.

Fake Elections.

The complete company control of ballot boxes is claimed for the miscarriage of the porters' will in most instances. In some districts where well-known representatives have been elected over and over again they did not receive a single vote in the primary balloting, in spite of having led the ticket for years in previous elections. Company instructors and petty officials were declared to be their successful rivals, and the men were left little choice between one stoolpigeon and another in the final election.

Mr. Ashley L. Totten, assistant general organizer of the brotherhood, whose temporary headquarters are in Kansas City, reports that he has received numerous letters from several districts that the elections were unfair. Despite the determination of the members to elect delegates from each district who have the interests of the porters at heart and who are neither Pullman officials or stools, it is found that the names of the men voted for did not appear on the final ballot.

Company Union Helps—The Company.

The Pullman Porters' Benefit Association is supported by the porters, who pay assessments of $26 to $45 per year for its support. Hitherto the Pullman Company paid its porters a half month's salary during illness, but this consideration was removed after the benefit association was formed, in consequence of which the Pullman Company saves several thousands of dollars a year at the expense of the porters.

Hoboes Will Convene in Omaha, November 9

OMAHA, Oct. 25.—The 21st annual convention, International Brotherhood Welfare Association, will open in Omaha November 9 in the Labor Temple. The organized hoboes invited all other unions and other organizations interested in the problems of the unorganized worker to send fraternal delegates.

Unemployment, oldage pensions, worker education, international peace and industrial justice are among the subjects scheduled for discussion by Secretary Tom Curry.

"A NEW NOVEL"

(COPYRIGHT, 1926, by Upton Sinclair)

IV.

The sun went down, and it was time for Mr. Roscoe to make his getaway. But first he had dinner; and when he was through with his ice cream and coffee, he pushed his plate away, and took his napkin out of his neck, and leaned back in his chair with a sigh of content; and while he was unrolling his cigar from its gold foil, he fixed his shrewd eyes upon Bunny across the table, and said, "Jim Junior, I'll tell you what's the matter with you."

"All right," said Jim Junior, receptively.

"You're a nice kid, but you're too god-damn serious. You take life too hard—you and your old man both. You got to get a little fun as you go along, and I know what you need. You got a girl, kid?"

"Not right now," said Bunny, blushing a trifle.

"I thought so. You need one, to take you out and cheer you up. Mind you, I don't mean one of these jazz-babies—get a girl that's got some sense, like my Annabelle. You know Annabelle Ames?"

"I've never met her. I've seen her, of course."

"Did you see her in "Madame Tee-Zee'? By Jees, that's what I call a picture—only one I ever made money out of, by the way! Well, that girl takes care of me like a mother—if she'd been up here, I wouldn't 'a drunk all that beer, you bet! You come up to my place some time, and Annabelle'll find you a girl—lots of 'em up there, with the ginger in 'em, too, and she's a regular little match-maker—never so happy as when she's pairing 'em off, two little love-birds in a cage. Why don't you drive back with me now?

"I've got to go to college the day after tomorrow," said Bunny.

"Well, you come some time, and bring the old man along. That's what he needs, too, a girl—I've told him so a dozen times. You got a girl yet, Jim? By Jees, look at him blush, the old maid in pants! I could tell the kid some things about you that would bust the rouge-pots in your cheeks—hey, old skeezicks?" And the great man, who had been getting out of his chair as he discoursed, fetched Dad a couple of thumps on the back and burst into a roar of laughter.

It was things like that that made you know Vernon Roscoe had a "big heart." He seemed to have really taken a fancy to Bunny, and was concerned that he should learn to enjoy life. "You come see me some time, kiddo," he said, as he was loading himself into his big limousine. "Don't you forget it now, I mean it. I'll show you what a country place can be like, and you make the old man get one too." And Bunny said all right, he would come; and the engine began to purr, and the car rolled off in the moonlight, and the big laughing voice died away among the hills. "So long, kiddo!"

V.

Bunny came back into the house, and followed Dad into his study and shut the door. "Dad, are you really going to put up that money with Mr. Roscoe?"

"Why, sure, son, I got to; why not?" Dad looked genuinely surprised—as he always did in these cases. You could never be sure how much of it was acting, for he was sly as the devil, and not above using his arts on those he loved.

"Dad, you're proposing to buy the presidency of the United States!"

"Well, son, you can put it that way—"

"But that's what it is, Dad!"

"Well, that's one way to say it. Another is that we're protecting ourselves against rivals that want to put us out of business. If we don't take care of politics, we'll wake up after election and find we're done for. There's a bunch of big fellows in the East have put up a couple of millions to put General Leonard Wood across. Are you rooting for him?"

Bunny understood that this was a rhetorical question, and did not answer it. "It's such a dirty game, Dad!"

"I know, but it's the only game there is. Of course, I can quit, and have enough to live on, but I don't feel like being laid on the shelf, son."

"Couldn't we just run our own business, Dad?" It was, you may remember, a question Bunny had asked before.

"There's no such thing, son—they're just crowding you all the time. They block you at the refineries, they block you at the markets, they block you in the banks—I don't tell you much about it, because it's troubles, but there's jist no place in the business world for the little feller any more. You think I'm a big feller because I got twenty million, and I think Verne is a big feller because he's got fifty; but there's Excelsior Pete—thirty or forty companies, all working as one—that's close to a billion dollars you're up against. And there's Victor, three or four hundred million more, and all the banks and insurance company resources behind them—what chance have we independents got? Look at this slump in the price of gas right now—the newspapers tell you there's a glut, but that's all rot—what makes the glut, but the Big Five dumping onto the market to break the little fellers? Why, they're jist wiping 'em off the slate!"

"But how can public officials prevent that?"

"There's a thousand things that come up, son—we got to land the first wallop—right at the sound of the bell! How do we get pipe-line right-o'-ways? How do we get terminal facilities? You saw how it was when we came into Paradise; would we ever 'a got this development if I hadn't 'a paid Jake Coffey? Where would Verne and me be right now, if we didn't sit down with him and go over the slate, and make sure the fellers he puts on it are right? And now—what's the difference? Jist this, we got bigger, we're playin' the game on a national scale—that's all. If Verne and me and Pete O'Reilly and Fred Orpan can get the tracts we got our eyes on, well, there'll be the Big Six or Big Seven or Big Eight in the oil game, that's all—and you set this down for sure, son, we'll be doin' what the other fellers done, from the day that petroleum came into use, fifty years ago."

Sacco and Vanzetti Shall Not Die!

The denial of the appeal for a new trial for Sacco and Vanzetti by the decision of such a brazen class chalacter, that it removes the last vestige of doubt that these two workers are to be murdered to satisfy the vengeance of the system which they challenged even tho every impartial authority who has examined the evidence holds them innocent, must meet with a thunderous and determined response from the American labor movement.

There were those in the ranks and among the leaders of labor who believed that the Massachusetts courts would not dare to deny the appeal for a new trial in the face of new and conclusive evidence of innocence. But the fact that secret service agents of the national government were found to be involved in framing up Sacco and Vanzetti seems only to have strengthened the determination of the rulers of Massachusetts to glut their taste for the blood of militant workers.

Sacco and Vanzetti face the electric chair. They have faced it for six long years, but now the route to its hot and hungry embrace has been shortened.

Sacco and Vanzetti will be murdered if the labor movement does not act quickly and decisively. If they are murdered without the labor movement throwing its whole weight against the conspiracy and the conspirators we may be sure that other cases involving other workers will develop with startling rapidity.

The decision of Judge Thayer shows that American capitalism looks upon this as a test case.

We can accept this estimate but we do not accept the decision.

Sacco and Vanzetti must not die and that they may not be murdered there must be organized such a protest as this country has never seen before.

Against the open and cynical demand for the lives of these two workers innocent of any crime except a healthy hatred of capitalism and all its works, the labor movement must demand not only a new trial but the speedy punishment of the whole gang of perjurers, prosecutors, spies and other capitalist agents who have made the lives of Sacco and Vanzetti a living hell for six years, and who have the effrontery now to announce to the world their intention to make the blackened corpses of these workers a symbol of the justice capitalism metes out to members of the working class who fight the battle of their class.

With modern improvements, the capitalist class of America and the Massachusetts rulers in particular, are following the ancient customs of gibbeting rebels against tyranny.

We say again, and believe firmly that we voice the purpose of every worker in America, that

Sacco and Vanzetti shall not die!

The Empire Conference

According to London reports there is a serious split in the British cabinet over the question of Russian policy. Lord Birkenhead, otherwise known as "galloping Smith" who sits in the empire conference now in session in London, is advocating a policy of active hostility to the Soviet Union. The foreign secretary while continuing to organize a European bloc against Russia, desires to proceed in a manner more cautious than the policy proposed by Birkenhead.

It is said that Birkenhead held secret meetings with representatives from Australia, Newfoundland and a Hindoo prince who is attending the conference. A committee consisting of Lord Birkenhead, W. C. Bridgeman, first lord of the admiralty and Commander O. Locker-Sampson, a tory M. P., was appointed to raise a secret service fund for espionage in Russia and for anti-Soviet propaganda in China, Afghanistan, Persia and Turkey.

Ireland, Canada and South Africa are reported not to be in favor of Birkenhead's scheme.

Frankly, we are not very much impressed with the truth of the report that Chamberlain and Birkenhead are in fundamental dis agreement over the Russian policy. Nobody can accuse the present foreign secretary of showing any desire to meet the Russian government half way. As the meetings are secret such information as leaks out may be only misinformation. But it is clear from the rumors that the empire conference is devising ways and means of making war on Russia. The Soviet Union is the greatest standing challenge to imperialism in the world today and England lording it over millions of subject peoples has most to fear at the present from the inspiration that is given to the oppressed peoples of the world by the Soviet Union.

The empire conference has a big job on its hands. It must devise ways and means of keeping the crumbling empire together. It has a disastrous strike on its hands at home. Its trade in China has declined seriously. Three of the dominions are in favor of having as little relations with Downing street as their strength will allow them. For the first time since England became a great power she is unable to dominate continental politics. The great American imperialist octopus is stretching out a greedy hand to grab England's markets in every corner of the world. Italy threatens Britain's road to the east. The revolt of the peoples of India and Egypt is only slumbering. This is a black prospect, but the picture is not overdrawn.

It can be easily imagined that in such a dilemma the situation would develop a fascist leadership that would seek to arouse the bourgeoisie to action against some "popular enemy" like the Soviet Union, which the British rulers hate with a holy hatred. The Birkenhead proposals give further proof that so long as capitalist governments exist the Soviet Union is not safe from attack. Of course, Birkenhead will bite granite if he tries to mobilize the British working class against the workers' republic. And should he succeed in getting any other people crazy enough to march on Russia the bayoneta of the red army are sharp and their eyes can squint over the barrel of a rifle.

F-L CAMPAIGN UNDER WAY IN SOUTH DAKOTA

Knutson and Tom Ayres Tour State

By JOHN GABRIEL SALTIS.
(Special to The Daily Worker)

CHESTER, S. D., Oct. 25. — The Farmer-Labor Party campaign in this state is now forging ahead with full steam. Alfred Knutson and Tom Ayres, the Farmer-Labor Party gubernatorial candidate, are holding splendid meetings in all sections of the state, which is divided between the seasoned campaigners of the farmer-labor party. For the first time in many years, Miss Julius Barnette Baily is not on the rostrum, due to a recent illness. This is quite a handicap to the farmer-laborites as she is a great favorite in all parts of the state. However, she is doing considerable directing in the campaign.

As the issues are being hammered home of the farmer-labor platform, and the producers mobilized for the farmer-labor ticket, the capitalist politicians are planning desperately and are resorting to their well-known methods of corrupting certain leaders identified with the farmers, in order to defeat Tom Ayers.

On Monday last, the capitalist politicans pulled one of their "surprises." Mr. Batcheldor, who is president of the Farmers Union of this state, has issued a circular letter to the locals, in which he instructs the rank and file to support Bulow, the democratic candidate for governor. This is now causing a furore among the membership of the Farmers Union, as Bulow is the cat's paw of Senators Norbeck and McMasters, who are in alliance with him to restore their defeated playmate Jan Pierre. It is also recalled that Batcheldor did the same thing for Coolidge two years ago.

The revolt is on against him. It is clear that the capitalists will not stop with Batcheldor. The farmer-labor forces are expecting something to come out from certain labor fakers, as the situation is becoming favorable to the farmer-labor party.

The farmers are evincing an interest in what their brothers in the Union of Socialist Soviet Republics are doing. They are especially inquisitive here about the Soviet land laws

Wicks Hurls Challenge at His G. O. P. Opponent

day noon, where candidates for various offices addressed a group of active republican supporters. We have complete reports of the speeches made by Messrs. Vare, Fiher, Malone, Armstrong, Mellon and Mackey. In all those speeches there is not one sentence that deals with the pressing problems that confront the working masses of this great industrial state. The question of the right to organize and conduct labor unions, the question of the use of the state constabulary and state militia for strike-breaking purposes, the question of injunctions, the question of the sedition law being used against workers, the shameful blight of child slavery, the brazen corruption of the electorate, all these and other vital problems were evaded.

"Instead, we observe the most cynical attitude toward the expenditure of slush funds in the remarks of Mr. Vare, whose bought and paid for Philadelphia hooligans, who make up his low political machine, were able so to manipulate the primary election that this debauched and bankrupt now runs on your party ticket for United States senator. Furthermore, this man Vare insulted every revolutionary tradition of the American people when he affirmed his determination to uphold, if elected, the shameful suppression of the people of the Philippine Islands, who now groan under the iron heel of American imperialism. No man who desires the support of labor can uphold the viciousness of the Coolidge regime in the Philippines.

"In this election we have a full ticket in the field against you, and we desire to determine whether your party candidates have the courage to meet in public debate our candidates for the purpose of discussing the issues of this campaign. It is useless for us to challenge Vare, as he is totally incapable of defending his political record as an intelligent worker. We do not here refer to his odoriferous record as a corrupter of the electorate, but to his mental limitations, which never let him get capable of presenting the case for anything before an audience.

"But, as candidate for governor on the Workers (Communist) Party ticket, I, in the name of the Workers' Party, hereby challenge your candidate for governor, John S. Fisher to meet me in public debate at any time and any place in the state of Pennsylvania and defend the labor record of the Coolidge administration and the platform of the republican party.

"Very truly yours,
(Signed) "H. M. WICKS."

Will Challenge Democrats.

William B. Wilson, Judge Eugene E. Bonniwell, respectively democratic candidates for U. S. senator and governor of Pennsylvania, will soon be in the western part of the state, where Wicks is winding up his state-wide campaign tour, and they will also be challenged by the Communist candidate.

Preparations for the final week of the campaign include factory gate meetings at noon and in the evening when the workers start for their homes, as well as the regular schedule of evening meetings in the principal industrial centers not yet covered by our candidates and speakers.

ist candidates in practically every state in the union. Yet in those states, where there are Communist candidates in the field, the stes of the Communist vote will help register labor's demand for the release of Sacco and Vanzetti.

President Coolidge, as was to be expected, again endorsed the frame-up of these two workers, and the denial by Judge Thayer last Saturday of a new trial, when he issued his statement, was the signal for the assassins sets to re-elect the multi-millionaire mill owner, William Butler, as United States senator. Coolidge also pleads for the re-election of another member of the New England frame-up gang, Governor Alvan T. Fuller, who has repeatedly refused to take action in the Sacco-Vanzetti case in spite of the demands of workers the world over.

"Coolidge declares that Butler is rapidly taking rank as a great senator. This is undoubtedly true from Coolidge's standpoint. Butler is serving his class well. He voices its interests on the floor of the senate.

Need Communists in Congress.

"What the workers—the factory and mill slaves—of Massachusetts, and of every other state in the nation need, however, is not one but many Communists in congress to convert it into an open forum to spread revolutionary working class views to the nation.

"American labor today, in its fight to save the lives of Sacco and Vanzetti, is sorely handicapped because there are no Communists in congress to raise this issue in the senate and house of representatives of this country, as it has been raised by Communists in the parliaments of other lands. Communists in congress could help dramatize this struggle before the workers of the nation, better exposing the alliance of the department of justice at Washington with the local prosecutors in Massachusetts to deliberately murder, thru the regular legal procedure of the capitalist state, these two courageous spokesmen of the working class.

"Coolidge says that Senator Butler represents Massachusetts ideals. He does. These ideals are typified by the 'open shop' wage cuts, viciously low wages, child labor and the discrete cheer for all militant dissenters from capitalism, the electric chair that is the modern version of the stake used in witch-burning days.

"Butler represents the Massachusetts' ideals of today. Sacco and Vanzetti, with Antun Bimba, the labor editor recently tried at Brockton for heresy and sedition, typify the Massachusetts ideals of the future, which will blend with the ideals of international labor.

"Coolidge says he is going home to Northampton to vote for Butler. Let labor go to the polls next Tuesday and by voting Communist cast their ballots for Sacco and Vanzetti."

Chicago Communists are reporting meeting tonight, Tuesday, at Northwest Hall, North and Western Aves., at which C. E. Ruthenberg, general secretary of the Workers (Communist) Party and J. Louis Engdahl, senatorial candidate, will speak.

Probe May Hit Ohio.

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 25.—Charging that apparently "efforts are under way to gather together a stupendous sum of money" to bring about the re-election of United States Senator Frank B. Willis and the election of Myers Y. Cooper, gubernatorial candidate, both republicans, Thomas E. Dye, chairman of the state democratic campaign committee, requested Senator James A. Reed's investigating committee today to "keep in close touch" with the Ohio situation.

AIMEE FAINTS WHEN WRITING IS IDENTIFIED

Claims Pin on Seat Made Her Ill

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 25. — That Aimee Semple McPherson is attempting to use her "evangelical bag of tricks" to create bias in her favor in her trial on the charge of conspiracy is the concensus here, following her sensational demonstration in court yesterday in connection with her alleged illness.

Aimee fainted in court and had to be carried out on a stretcher. Her attorney announced that she is suffering from an abscess on her knee, which is a result of a prick of a pin or tack on a court seat.

May Not Appear.

It is not known whether she will appear in court today. It being declared that her physicians advised her against it. Her healing powers, some think, evidently are not so potent on herself, as who claims they are on her "disciples of the four-square gospel."

Collapses at Adversity.

Aimee collapsed just after the state rested its case, following testimony of Milton Carson, handwriting expert that handwriting found on grocery slips in the Carmelby-the-sea cottage was that of Mrs. McPherson.

Carlson swore that the same hand that penned the sermon "Light and Darkness" on May 18, the last one Mrs. McPherson delivered before her disappearance, also penned the daily orders for the groceries for the "mysterious man and woman" at Carmel cottage.

Identifies Ormiston's Writing.

He also indentified the writing of Ormiston, the radio operator, as being identical with the handwriting of the man who signed an order for electricity to be supplied the cottage, and who signed the hotel register at San Luis Obispo for a room for "Mr. and Mrs. Gibson."

Says Walk Possible.

The first witness for the defense was W. E. Cross, Arizona mining man, who contended that it was possible for Aimee to have made her desert "trip."

The defense felt that his testimony refuted that of the state that the walk was impossible, considering Mrs. McPherson's condition.

AUTO EARNINGS DECREASE, MANY ARE LAID OFF

Shrinking of profits in the automobile industry "due to increased competition and slackening of trade" is given as the reason for reports given out by two major factors of the industry, the Yellow Truck and Manufacturing company and the Chrysler corporation.

Don't Meet Dividend.

The Yellow company reported a net income of $167,946 for the three months ending September 30. This income fell short by $100,000 of the dividend requirement on the 7 per cent cumulative preferred. It is reported. The dividend required on the $15,000,000 preferred stock issue is $262,500.

The net income of the Chrysler company was reported at $3,873,000, which will give to common stock, after preferred, $1.27. This is compared to $1.65 that was received on common prior to this quarter, and with $2.82 on common the same period last year.

Increase Unemployed.

Unemployment in Detroit was increased by 3,406 persons last week, reports of the manufacturers show. The total number employed now stands at 224,808, or 41,000 below the number employed last year.

These figures seem to show that the manufacturers themselves are giving evidence that Ford's celebrated 5-day week was not philanthropy, after all, inspired by social ideals.

"ASS KNOWS ITS MASTER'S CRIB"

TACOMA, Wash., Oct. 25.—Typical of organized labor's roaction to the Detroit insult by Detroit's kept churches to the American Federation of Labor spokesmen is the comment of the Tacoma Labor Advocate edited by John McGilvray as the official organ of the Central Labor Council:

"The ox knoweth its owner and the ass its master's crib," says accepted authority and that's about the explanation of the action of churches of Detroit and the salnity Y which withdrew the invitation to labor mon to speak on a Sunday in their sacred confines.

They are well aware whence come the sources of their funds and who pays the building bills, and they are not going to act contrary to the will of those who dominate the situation, for with the employers footing the major portion of church revenues, it follows as naturally as the night the day that the reverends, very and near raverends—that is to say the Y—give their particular form of churchianity a respectfully open-shop appearance.

The good clergymen, however, might well remember that according to all their own verified accounts the only open shop in the next world is like that in our own vale of tears, a place of eternal torment. To worship the god of open shop, therefore, would indicate a modern form of idiolism known as Mammon worship.—Tacoma Labor Advocate.

on the lads who were waiting for a chance to hock it to the capitalists.

A REACTIONARY by the name of William McEwen, editor of a Duluth labor paper, with a capitalist policy, is state campaign manager. It is reported that the reason he gave for the acceptance of the advertisements was financial stringency. When he sells out the rest of the party he can give a similar excuse. Unless the workers of Minnesota take the initiative and reorganize their party, there will be nothing left of it soon, outside of what McEwen and company can carry around on their persons.

THEY talk big money out in Los Angeles. Aimee Semple McPherson, who is at least as simple as she is pure, is being sued for half a million dollars by a lady who was alleged by the evangelist to have accepted the little cottage by the sea with the radio operator. Mrs. McPherson still insists the trial is a frame-up and develops a boil on her shin whenever things get to look dangerous. Los Angeles is a great place. An earthquake hit the city recently and shook up some of Arthur Brisbane's real estate. Arthur was so mad over the prospect of a decline in the value of his property that he had a wool mitten sue naturo for conspiracy to defraud.

MEDITERRANEAN sharks must be losing their virility if we are to believe the story told by Mary Garden, the noted songstress, who claims to have come within four feet of a man-eater, while swimming in Mussolini's lake. Mary did not have the protection of a bathing suit and perhaps that's what stopped the shark. Or perhaps he objected to Mary's attyances. However the shark did not get away in time as Mary pursued him with two oars and a gardner with fatal results to the shark.

THAT Miss Garden is on the war path is evident from her expressed desire to become engaged to Gene Tunney the knuckle artist. Mary is an old if not older, than the queen of Roumania but she has no more license about marrying than she as an ordinary person would have about going to the movies. A good publicity man is worth all the money he gets. Who is the curious public begins to lose interest in the queen of Roumania she may elope with Judge Gary. It's less dangerous than flirting with sharks.

* * *

WHILE on the subject there are reports that the queen's husband is not at all pleased over his wife's doings in America. Ferdy is left home to take care of Marie's rabbits and he does not like it a bit. Ferdy has considerable kinzy dinzy stowed away in his person but we venture to say that if he was hungry and the queen invited him out for the feed, he would not ask her, where, how or for what she got the price.

* * *

IT is also reported that the British royal family is not altogether happy at the spectacle of a royal family peddling themselves for advertising purposes. Marie has sold her signature for almost every kind of commodity from alcohol to hog powder. Naturally this hurts the king business, hence the displeasure of British royalty.

MOOSE ORDER CANCELS HALL FOR MEETING

But Money Talks, so They Reconsider

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Oct. 25.—That money talks much louder than words has just been clearly demonstrated in Minneapolis. The Workers Party in this city arranged a meeting to be held on Sunday, Oct. 31 at 8 p. m. in Moose Hall, 43 South Fourth street, with I. E. Ruthenberg, general secretary of the Workers (Communist Party as speaker his subject being "Why We Need a Farmer Labor Party."

Don't Like Purpose.

Advertising went out, tickets were being sold at a lively rate and handbills announcing the meeting were being broadcasted, when the trustees of Moose Hall sent a letter to the Workers (Communist) Party announcing that they were cancelling the meeting because of the purpose for which it was being used."

Present Bill.

Norman H. Tallentire, Workers (Communist) Party secretary for this Minnesota District immediately requested a reconsideration of this cancellation presenting among other arguments a bill for all money expended on the meeting, whereupon the hall management was induced to reconsider and granted written permission for the meeting to proceed as arranged at the same time with the threat the hall for any future meetings.

The Workers (Communist) Party in Minneapolis has today called upon all its members and sympathizers to redouble their efforts for the success of the meeting, to each sell 20 tickets where they sold but before, to cover the city with announcements of the meeting and to produce the best mass meeting ever arranged in Twin Cities.

SOVIETS EXPEL Y.M.C.A. LEADER FROM COUNTRY

BERLIN Oct 25. Harry D. Anderson of Los Angeles has arrived in Berlin after a hurried departure from Moscow leaving behind and expelled as the representative of the Y. M. C. A. and his property confiscated.

Anderson was given 24 hours in which to leave Russia.

The expulsion of the young Y virtually ends the work of the Y. M. C. A. in Russia. Miss Edith Gates of Scranton, Pa., who is doing physical work for the Y in Russia under Y. M. C. A. auspices is expected to be forced to leave.

Anderson appealed to the Soviet foreign office against expulsion but was ordered to leave the country by the police. He was forced to leave behind him his office and personal records, which were confiscated by the Soviet authorities. The program of physical education in the higher schools of Moscow is believed to have been expelled is cause of alleged espionage activities.

Mattress Workers Vote Unanimously to Continue Fight

Members of the International Spring and Mattress Workers' Union, Chicago Local 114, voted unanimously to continue their strike until the union is recognized as a mass meeting Sunday afternoon at 26 North Wells street. The meeting was characterized by enthusiasm.

The mattress workers have been on strike against the Superior Mattress company, 2417 Roosevelt road, for three weeks. They demand recognition of the union and a better wage scale.

The strikers are both colored and white, and the two races are standing together firmly in the battle for the union.

Sunday's meeting was addressed by Robert Fori-Whiteman of the American Labor Congress, Judge Eller of Chicago, Business Agent Braverman, and by an international officer. Some excellent talks were also made by the strikers.

TRADE UNIONS MAKE DEMANDS ON MOVIELAND

Seek Organization of Film Industry

By ESTHER LOWELL,
Federated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—Organized labor is marching on open-shop Hollywood and New York movie studios. Stage hands, motion picture machine operators, carpenters, scenic artists and electrical workers are all demanding recognition of their unions by the big movie producers.

Demands of the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employes and Motion Picture Operators; United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners; Scenic Artists' Association of International Brotherhood of Painters, Paperhangers and Decorators, and International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers have been presented to Warner Bros., Famous Players, Producers and Distributors' Corporation of America, Universal, Metro-Goldwyn, First National and Fox Films.

An Open-Shop Industry.

Threat of a national sympathetic walkout involving 13,500 workers in the trades mentioned is made if the producers do not sign with the unions by December 1. William Canavan, president International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employes and Motion Picture Operators and spokesman for the unions, charges that the producers broke a verbal agreement which they had made last April.

Fred W. Beetson, secretary of the Association of Motion Picture Producers to regulate their affairs, on the movie studios are "operated on the American plan" and are "open shop." Beetson was conferring with Will Hays, called "czar" of the movie industry because he was chosen by producer to regulate their affairs, on the welfare program to be put into the studios November 1.

Equity Holds Aloof.

The effect of the unions' demands for recognition, closed shop, readjustment of wage scales, eight-hour day, pay for six legal holidays and extra pay for Sunday work is a tremendous challenge to notoriously open-shop Los Angeles.

Actors' Equity Association, which is attempting to organize the extra players in the movie studios, is not included in the group of unions presenting demands. Equity does not have an agreement permitting sympathetic action by actors with other stage employes. Organization of the 3,500 mechanical workers in Hollywood studios will undoubtedly stimulate unionization of the exploited part-time players.

After the Furriers' Strike

By W. WOLINER,
Sec'y Joint Board Furriers' Union, New York.

AT the time the strike in the fur industry was settled the leadership was confronted with several problems of vital importance to the organization, and we can truthfully say that these problems are now considered a thing of the past. And now let us see how these problems were solved by the leadership with the full co-operation of the great majority of the workers.

The first problem, of restoring the workers back to work, was an immediate one, and it was settled as such, thanks to the apparatus that was built up during the strike, namely, that of the shop chairmen and hall committees.

THIS difficult problem, which sometimes takes weeks, especially after such a bitter struggle as we furriers want thru, was settled within the period of a few days. Workers went back to work in the shops they were striking from with substantial increases in wages and with a promise that the manufacturers felt that the demands they suffered for and won would be kept and cherished.

And here it is well to note that another problem, for which the equal division of work was extremely necessary, and with which the fur workers will have to reckon in the future, is that of the orphans, or those workers who had no shops when they went on strike.

UPON the termination of the 1920 strike conducted by Kaufman, Sam Cohen, Sorkin and the Second avenue gangsters, these workers were left to shift for themselves. Being hungry and eager for work, it was the natural result that these workers would go from shop to shop begging for a job, there lowering the wages and in general creating a chaotic condition which it took some time to overcome, and was never finally remedied until the second half of the year 1926.

Then a left-wing administration took over the Furriers' Union and immediately undertook an aggressive campaign to remedy the evils that had piled up in the organization under the former administration. This problem of the so-called orphans was settled in a way as to prove to the workers that the leadership is heart and soul in the interest of the workers.

THESE workers were not immediately released to shift for themselves, but they kept up a discipline as even during the strike, until they were all placed in the organization under the former administration. This problem of the so-called orphans was settled in a way as to prove to the workers that the leadership is heart and soul in the interest of the workers.

THESE workers were not immediately released to shift for themselves, but they kept up a discipline as even during the strike, until they were all placed in shops or were called for by various firms that were in need of additional help at good salaries, and are now assured of their jobs.

The union, upon the termination of this strike, had to deal with a problem that was something new, since scabbing seems to be something that will continue until all the workers will realize the meaning of the class struggle. Especially in a union where the international body, like ours, did indirectly sanction it by tolerating certain elements, the majority of them of a questionable character.

These elements were not favorable to the strike and sabotaged it in every possible way and manner. Nothing being too low for them to try, their one aim was to break the strike.

WHEN these elements were warned by the workers in the halls that they were found out and should desist from their actions, they left the strike halls and were given a hall in Long Island, close to the international offices, where they conducted themselves, or rather amused themselves, by playing cards, bowling etc. and other recreations a la the strike of 1920. For these persons were then at the head of the union.

DUE to a situation of this kind, the natural result was that those of a weaker nature could be more easily enticed by the bosses to scab on their fellow workers. After the strike all the scabs had to leave the shops where they were scabbing and appear before a restoration committee, consisting of three members of the union, with the impartial chairman of the industry, for reinstatement to the union. Heavy fines were imposed upon them by this committee, in some cases totaling more than they could have earned during the strike while scabbing.

THESE and other cases of similar nature are being liquidated by the union in a manner satisfactory to the workers, and of course here also the Forward, in conjunction with some of the international officers, raised a cry that honest workers are being discriminated against by the lefts.

It seems that, according to the Forward and his followers amongst our international officers, it is no crime to scab during a strike where there are no scargiers employed and where the leaders of the strike are the most honored and respected of the workers. Of course, among these scabs there were quite a few partisans of the Forward.

ONE former vice-president of the International, not to say former local officer, and the whole former organization committee during Kaufman's administration, were all scabs and scab agents, and here the Joint Board acted in a manner that should be a credit to all honest workers, most of all to that left wing movement, of which it is a part.

Workers that were enticed away from the strike, upon their payment of a fine, are being reinstated in the organization, altho it is true a strict watch upon their behavior is kept by the workers in the shops where they are employed. But the professional scabs, gunmen and gangsters, who were all members of Kaufman's organization committee, were given permits to work in the trade.

THE Joint Board at this time again went on record that those individuals would never be reinstated in the union. It is needless to say that this met with the full approval of the workers, and certainly with the disapproval of the Forward and a few vice-presidents of our international, who were very emphatic, demanding reinstatement in the union for these elements. The Joint Board even received a letter from the sub-committee of the international, signed by President Shachtman, to that effect.

The demobilisation of the union's war-time forces took place with a will and a gusto unequalled in any union. The general picket committee, or the G. P. C., as it is commonly known, immediately went to work in their respective shops, and those that had no shops were found places.

ALL went back to work—bench or machine—for they were the advance guard of the workers, and not as in previous strikes, hired thugs who worked for the union and got paid from the bosses and the union alike.

Proof of the work of the G. P. C. can be had by the cruelty of the police and unheard-of sentences imposed upon those that were caught in the clutches of capitalist justice.

IT is natural that during this time complaints of workers piled up, but here again is shown the will and determination of left wing leaders, who went to work with a will and succeeded in adjusting those complaints that have arisen in a satisfactory manner to the workers. It is with such work and management in the interest of the workers that the workers have confidence and support of the fur workers to the policies and leadership of the left wing militants in the Furriers' Union.

With work such as of this nature on behalf of the workers, and with material for leadership such as the left wing movement has brought out in the Furriers' Union, it is hoped that the goal of all progressives —that of amalgamation of the needle trades union—is not far distant.

Federation Radio Artist Hears Own Program on Ether

That a radio entertainer can improve his or her rendition of a musical number thru hearing exactly what finally goes on the air and watching the indicator of the transmitter, thus regulating the instrument or voice, instead of requiring the central operator to out-guess the artist, has been proven.

Miss Vella Cook, WCFL (Chicago Federation of Labor), staff contralto, who is an experienced radio singer, placed the headphones, tightly clamped over her ears, so that all she could hear of her voice would be the actual production in the air, exactly what you hear on your receiving set at home.

This experiment was very unusual. She watched the instrument on the transmitter which indicates exactly the degree of modulation affected, and regulated her voice within the limits specified to obtain the best results without danger of over-working the apparatus. In fact, the whole operation of the radio transmitter was turned over to the artist. Miss Cook, at the conclusion of her song, took the ear-phones off and declared the experience a very wonderful one, stating that if all broadcast stations would adopt the same method, the radio audience would receive the programs much more successfully.

N. Y. Firemen Demand the Eight-Hour Day

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—Endorsement of the demand of New York City fire fighters for the 8-hour day, or three-platoon system, was voted by the International Association of Fire Fighters in its biennial convention just closed. The convention urged the people of New York to give their unqualified support to the campaign the firemen are about to undertake to secure this improvement.

START DRIVE TO UNIONIZE ALL GARAGES

I. A. of M. Makes Pact With Teamsters

By LAURENCE TODD.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25—(FP)—Fortified by a jurisdictional agreement which they signed with the Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Stablemen and Helpers, during the recent convention of the American Federation of Labor at Detroit, officers of the International Association of Machinists have returned to their Washington headquarters to launch a drive to unionize the commercial garages of the country.

Sign Agreement.

The agreement with the Teamsters and Chauffeurs is of considerable importance. Its terms are:

1. Only those two organizations shall hold jurisdiction in garages, and only members of the two organizations shall be recognized there.

2. Members of the Machinists' Union shall have the work of "assembling, dismantling, adjusting and repairing of all mechanical parts and chassis of automobiles, trucks and busses, this to include changing of solid tires.

3 All other work in and around garages—such as washing, polishing, oiling, greasing, changing tires and cleaning up garages—shall go to the Teamsters and Chauffeurs' members.

4 Neither party is bound to protect the other against any "legitimate" claims of any other organization affiliated with the A. F. of L.

This treaty is to endure until either party gives 30 days' notice of a desire for a change.

Its Meaning.

Its meaning in the fight to organize the big and little garages thruout the country is this: the Teamsters and Chauffeurs, wherever they have a union agreement with a taxicab, bus or other garage firm, will be under moral pressure to insist that the mechanics who handle their cars and men who work with them in the garages belong to the International Association of Machinists. Since the Teamsters and Chauffeurs are organized in many of the garages where the Machinists have not yet gained a foothold, and since the Teamsters and Chauffeurs are, as a rule, vigorous trade unionists, the results of this agreement are expected to help the Machinists in many instances. In their turn the Machinists will insist that men working beside them at jobs allotted to the Teamsters and Chauffeurs shall get into that union.

B. & O. May Be First.

Strangely enough, one of the first corporations likely to feel the impact of the new campaign in the garages is the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, which is on the best of terms with the union. Recently the B & O. was shut out of the Pennsylvania terminal in New York City and entered into a contract with the Fifth Avenue Coach Co. to haul its passengers from various stations in the city to its trains on the New Jersey side of the Hudson river. The Fifth Avenue Coach Co. is anti-union in its shop policy. A movement is on foot to organize the garage force, and to declare the Fifth Avenue Coach Co. unfair if it persists in its hostility.

Whether the B. & O. will endeavor to adjust the matter to the satisfaction of the Machinists and the Teamsters and Chauffeurs, by persuading the Fifth Avenue Coach Co. to permit unionization of its garages, is not indicated. If the garages are declared unfair the passenger transfer business of the B. & O. in New York City may be seriously embarrassed, and the dispute may lead to demands for an extension of the boycott to the New Jersey terminal.

Carpenters Continue Using Hammers, But Hit no Nails on Head

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 25.—Carpenters use hammers. This was proven by the fact that four scabs in the carpenters' strike here are in the hospital, one of them not expected to scab any more on this earth. They say they were attacked by six men with hammers who knew how to hit the nail on the head.

NEW YORK—(FP)—Step by step the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters is moving forward toward recognition by the Pullman Co., which now refuses to deal with its workers except through its controlled company union. The brotherhood is appealing to the railymediation board, set up by the Watson-Parker act, for aid in obtaining a conference with the Pullman Co.

COMPANY UNION OF PULLMAN IN FAKE ELECTION

Ballot Steal Elects Stool Pigeons

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—General dissatisfaction with the elections of the Pullman Porters' Benefit Association or the company union's ballot is reported here from every section. Election contests are being instituted in some western districts for the first time in the history of any district of the benefit association, according to the information received.

Fake Elections.

The complete company control of ballot boxes is claimed for the miscarriage of the porters' will in most instances. In some districts where well-known representatives have been elected over and over again they did not receive a single vote in the primary balloting, in spite of having led the ticket for years in previous elections. Company instructors and petty officials were declared to be their successful rivals, and the man were left little choice between one stoolpigeon and another in the final election.

Mr. Ashley L. Totten, assistant general organizer of the brotherhood, whose temporary headquarters are in Kansas City, reports that he has received numerous letters from several districts that the elections were unfair. Despite the determination of the members to elect delegates from each district who have the interests of the porters at heart and who are neither Pullmen officials or stools, it is found that the names of the men voted for did not appear on the final ballot.

Company Union Helps—The Company.

The Pullman Porters' Benefit Association is supported by the porters, who pay assessments of $26 to $45 per year for its support. Hitherto the Pullman Company paid its porters a monthly salary during illness, but this consideration was removed after the benefit association was formed, in consequence of which the Pullman Company saves several thousands of dollars a year at the expense of the porters.

Hoboes Will Convene in Omaha, November 9

OMAHA, Oct. 25.—The 21st annual convention, International Brotherhood Welfare Association, will open in Omaha November 9 in the Labor Temple. The organized hoboes invited all other unions and other organizations interested in the problems of the unorganized worker to send fraternal delegates.

Unemployment, old-age pensions, worker education, international peace and industrial justice are among the subjects scheduled for discussion by Secretary Tom Curry.

NEW ORLEANS.—(FP)—Union plasterers demanded an increase of 25c an hour in New Orleans, making the new scale $1.50. A strike is expected as the contractors have rejected the demand.

A NEW NOVEL

IV.

The sun went down, and it was time for Mr. Roscoe to make his get-away. But first he had dinner; and when he was through with his ice cream and coffee, he pushed his plate away, and took his napkin as you go along, and I know what you need. You got a girl, kid?"

"Not right now," said Bunny, blushing a trifle.

"I thought so. You need one, to take you out and cheer you up. Mind you, I don't mean one of these jazz-babies—get a girl that's got some sense, like my Annabelle. You know Annabelle Ames?"

"I've never met her. I've seen her, of course."

"Did you see her in "Madame Tee-Zee'? By Jees, that's what I call a picture—only one I ever made money out of, by the way! Well, that girl takes care of me like a mother—if she'd been up here, I wouldn't 'a drunk all that beer, you bet! You come up to my place some time, and Annabelle'll find you a girl—lots of 'em up there, with the ginger in 'em, too, and she's a regular little match-maker—never so happy as when she's pairing 'em off, two little love-birds in a cage. Why don't you drive back with me now?

"I've got to go to college the day after tomorrow," said Bunny.

"Well, you come some time, and bring the old man along. That's what he needs, too, a girl—I've told him so a dozen times. You got a girl yet, Jim? By Jees, look at him blush, the old maid in pants! I could tell the kid some things about you that would bust the rouge-pots in your cheeks—hey, old skeezicks?" And the great man, who had been getting out of his chair as he discoursed, fetched Dad a couple of thumps on the back and burst into a roar of laughter.

It was things like that that made you know Vernon Roscoe had a "big heart." He seemed to have really taken a fancy to Bunny, and was concerned that he should learn to enjoy life. "You come see me some time, kiddo," he said, as he was loading himself into his big limousine. "Don't you forget it now, I mean it. I'll show you what a country place can be like, and you make the old man get one too." And Bunny said all right, he would come; and the engine began to purr, and the car rolled off in the moonlight, and the big laughing voice died away among the hills. "So long, kiddo!"

V.

Bunny came back into the house, and followed Dad into his study and shut the door. "Dad, are you really going to put up that money with Mr. Roscoe?"

"Why, sure, son, I got to; why not?" Dad looked genuinely surprised—as he always did in these cases. You could never be sure how much of it was acting, for he was sly as the devil, and not above using his arts on those he loved.

"Dad, you're proposing to buy the presidency of the United States!"

"Well, son, you can put it that way—"

"But that's what it is, Dad!"

"Well, that's one way to say it. Another is that we're protecting ourselves against rivals that want to put us out of business. If we don't take care of politics, we'll wake up after election and find we're done for. There's a bunch of big fellows in the East have put up a couple of millions to run General Leonard Wood across. Are you rooting for him?"

Bunny understood that this was a rhetorical question, and did not answer it. "It's such a dirty game, Dad!"

"I know, but it's the only game there is. Of course, I can quit, and have enough to live on, but I don't feel like being laid on the shelf, son."

"Couldn't we just run our own business, Dad?" It was, you may remember, a question Bunny had asked before.

"There's no such thing, son—they're just crowding you all the time. They block you at the refineries, they block you at the markets, they block you in the banks—I don't tell you much about it, because it's troubles, but there's just no place in the business world for the little feller any more. You think I'm a big feller because I got twenty million, and I think Verne is a big feller because he's got fifty; but there's Excelsior Petroleum—forty or forty companies, all working as one—that's close to a billion dollars you're up against. And there's Victor, three or four hundred million more, and all the banks and insurance company resources behind them—what chance have we independents got? Look at this slump in the price of gas right now—the newspapers tell you there's a glut, but that's all rot—what makes the glut, but the Big Five dumping onto the market to break the little fellers? Why, they're just wiping 'em off the slate!"

"But how can public officials prevent that?"

"There's a thousand things that come up, son—we got to land the first wallop—right at the sound of the bell! How do we get pipe-line right-of-ways? How do we get terminal facilities? You saw how it was when we came into Paradise; would we ever 'a got this development if I hadn't 'a paid Jake Coffey? Where would Verne and me be right now, if we didn't sit down with him and go over the slate, and make sure the fellers he puts on it are right? And now—what's the difference? Just this: we got bigger, we're playin' the game on a national scale—that's all. If Verne and me and Pete O'Reilly and Fred Orpan can get the tracts we got our eyes on, well, there'll be the Big Six or Big Seven or Big Eight in the oil game, that's all—and you get this down for sure, son, we'll be doin' what the other fellers done, from the day that petroleum came into use, fifty years ago."

The Present with a Past—What About the Future of Our "DAILY"?

By JAY LOVESTONE

THE DAILY WORKER has distinguished itself in rendering inestimable services to the American workers in all their struggles.

In the past The DAILY WORKER has energetically championed the interests of the packing house workers.

The DAILY WORKER has fought resolutely for the steel workers.

The interests of the coal miners have been voiced fearlessly by The DAILY WORKER—despite severe opposition from the operators and the reactionary Lewis administration.

Ask the railway workers if any paper other than The DAILY WORKER has fought against the strike-breaking Watson-Parker law and and the union-wrecking schemes which have been foisted on many of our railroad labor organizations. Ask the Wall Street-Coolidge administration which paper has exposed the United States government most consistently, scathingly and courageously? Were he to reply, even "Silent Cal" would yell from the house tops: "The DAILY WORKER."

This is for the past. Now for the present.

Take a vote among the thousands of heroic, striking Passaic textile workers. We assure you that there will be one mighty chorus of approval of and devotion to The DAILY WORKER.

Go to the thousands of striking garment workers in New York City. They will tell you—all as one—that The DAILY WORKER is the outstanding, consistent inveterable supporter of their struggle for better conditions and a stronger union.

Sound out the coal miners now fighting to save their union. The overwhelming masses of militant miners will tell you how vigorously The DAILY WORKER is helping them keep their union—build a more powerful organization—save the United Mine Workers of America.

But that's all good and well.

Let's tell you a few words about the future. We mean the immediate future. We mean "the right now of The DAILY WORKER."

We will be unable to KEEP THE DAILY WORKER on the job without more and better support from you in a hurry. The $60,000 drive campaign must be brought to a successful close as soon as possible. The sooner we get the full sum, the better off will you and The DAILY WORKER be. The sooner The DAILY WORKER gets the $60,000, the quicker will there be a more effective DAILY WORKER.

The Lithuanian National Fractian Bureau of the Workers (Communist) Party has just set a splendid example for all of us. The Lithuanian, National Fraction Bureau has just sent us a check for $200 to KEEP THE DAILY WORKER.

Don't say you can't do the same. Don't say you are broke. There is nothing like trying and doing—GIVING. The Lithuanian comrades have only the other day launched a new Lithuanian Communist daily, The Vilnis. Yet, they have come across.

Why don't you do the same?

The DAILY WORKER cannot live on the past alone.

The DAILY WORKER cannot continue unless you say YES. We need more than words now. We need some very immediate and concrete deeds. We need some money and mighty quickly, too.

KEEP THE DAILY WORKER by rushing your contribution.

KEEP THE DAILY WORKER by getting your friend, your shopmate to send us a contribution today.

KEEP THE DAILY WORKER by getting your labor union, your social, educational and benevolent organization to do its bit—by making an immediate, substantial donation.

Current Events

By T. J. O'FLAHERTY

THO the Reed slush fund investigation showed that the sum of $500,000 was spent to secure the G. O. P. nomination for Frank L. Smith of Illinois, Frank's report shows that he neither received nor spent a dime in his primary fight. Mr. Vare of Pennsylvania, who spent nearly a million dollars to win the G. O. P. nomination was a little bit more culpable than Smith. Vare admitted that he wasted $133. Is this a mystery to you? If so, here is the solution. The boodle was received and spent by the committees charged with putting Messrs. Vare and Smith over the tape. Any law that cannot be gotten over is a hum law! This is the position of the lawmakers.

OF course, for the masses the case is different. Laws are not made to bring grief to the lawmakers. Wars are not fought by those who are responsible for them. What hypocrites our rulers are? They pass laws for the ostensible purpose of preventing gigantic expenditures of money in political campaigns, but because they know that without the boodle a candidate stands little chance of getting elected they immediately begin to devise ways and means of getting around the law. Now, no matter how much money a candidate may spend, it is not his fault. The blame rests on his committee.

HE did his best, even tho he may have been at times mistaken. He was honest, he was good and he loved his fellowman. What more can be asked of any of us in the vale below." This is an excerpt from editorial comment made on the death of Eugene V. Debs by the Tri-County Labor News of Fresno, Cal. So the best that this flunkey can say about Debs is that he loved his "fellowman." And for this Woodrow Wilson sent him to Atlanta! To love everybody may be a virtue when the day comes that sees oppression banished from this earth, but it is no virtue nowadays, when the great majority of the population lives at the mercy of a minority. Debs hated this parasitic good-for-nothing minority and it is because of this hatred and his struggle in behalf of the oppressed, robbed and enslaved majority that his name will be forever enshrined in the hearts of the workingclass.

ALL that glitters is not gold and everything that is testified to at hearings is not truth. Senator Reed went to Indianapolis to take the testimony of Senator James E. Watson, who was charged with being a member of the K. K. K. or at least with receiving their support. The senator indignantly repudiated all such charges, but not exactly snongh. Now we learn that Watson sat in at a K. K. K. conference in Washington where an Indiana grand dragon was and because he would not support Watson. There you are.

EVIDENCE continues to pile up in support of the suspicion that the queen of Roumania is having trouble with Ferdy. It appears that the boy who stayed home to take care of the chickens is doing a little worrying because of the company his 51-year-old little girl is keeping, what with chumming around with Elbert H. Gary and such bad boys. It is true

SOVIETS RUSH AID TO EARTHQUAKE VICTIMS

400 Dead, Thousands Homeless

(Special to The Daily Worker)

LENINIKAN, Armenia, Oct. 26.—The central committees of the Armenian, Georgian and Azerbaijan Autonomous Soviet Republics have contributed $500,000 to care for the immediate needs of the homeless refugees from the devastating earthquake that shook the region surrounding Leninikan, Armenia, Friday and Saturday that killed 400 persons outright and fatally injured hundreds more.

Special relief trains, battalions of soldiers, nurses and doctors are being dispatched to the stricken area by the government of the three southern Soviets to assist the wounded and relieve the suffering of the population 100,000 of whom are estimated to be homeless.

Towns Laid Waste.

Leninikan and twelve other cities in the neighborhor of this Armenian town of some 100 inhabitants presents a scene of utter ruin. Hardly a human habitation remains standing. The financial loss is inestimable.

Buildings occupied by the Near East relief and housing hundreds of orphans were wrecked, but it is reported that both the children and the attendants of the institution reached safety.

The first shock came Friday during the night, wrecking the gas mains and electric conduits and leaving the inhabitants to face the terrifying earth movements in darkness. The shocks recurred with increasing intensity thruout the night. They were felt as far south as Tiflis, the Armenian capital, but the area suffering the greatest damage was approximately 100 square miles in the vicinity of Leninikan.

Heavy Economic Loss.

The economic losses to the Soviet district, an important one, figuring largely in the program of economic development outlined by the workers and peasants' government, are tremendous. A new textile mill and an important canal were among the state institutions to suffer great damage. It will take Soviet Armenia at least five years to recover from the ruination caused by the quake.

Killed in German Storm.

FREIBURG, Baden, Germany, Oct. 26.—Three children and one student were killed and seven children were severely injured by a hurricane which swept this town and wrecked a switchback railway at a fair, barring passengers riding on the switchback beneath the debris of the wreckage.

Comintern Pays Respect to Memory of 'Gene Debs

THE following cablegram has been received from the Communist International addressed to The DAILY WORKER and the Workers (Communist) Party.

The Communist international, thru the Workers (Communist) Party and its organ, The DAILY WORKER sends the American working class its message of respect for the memory of Eugene Victor Debs. Debs played an unforgetable role in the workers' struggles a half century ago which laid the foundation of the American trade union movement and was one of the founders of the American socialist movement from which sprang the revolutionary American Workers (Communist) Party.

During the World War, Debs went to prison with a denunciation of the imperialist war on his lips. On leaving prison in old age and in broken health, Debs supported the defense of the victims of capitalist class terror.

If he was unable to come to the Communist standpoint and finally break the ties with the political party that had already for a number of years betrayed the working class to the enemy, it is nevertheless true that the American working class is going forward under the leadership of the Workers (Communist) Party on the revolutionary path to a socialist society and must cherish the best traditions associated with the name of Debs.

BEN GITLOW HURLS DEFY TO ALBANY

Says State House is Tyrant's Seat

NEW YORK CITY, Oct. 26.—"If Mills has fled to the far side of a political river at milk, as Governor Smith charges, the Tammany Hall chief himself, when he attacks the G. O. P. labor record, is hiding in the bushes," said Benjamin Gitlow, candidate for governor on the Workers' Party ticket, yesterday at the party's headquarters on Fourteenth street.

"Smith's accusations against republican lack of labor aid are the leaves he has hastily thrown up to hide his own very marked lack of clothing," said Gitlow. "Smith says the republicans as defenders of labor are a little lame and blind, but he himself in this respect is hardly more than a paralytic.

"First look at his proposal for putting the state on a sound business efficiency basis, in short, this is a program for centralizing state authority more and more in the hands of the governor and his cabinet and removing them further and further from control of the legislature and the people. How can this help labor? Under this plan of state reorganization all public state officials with administrative functions would be appointed by the governor, and not the legislature. The governor, with the advice of his cabinet, would submit the executive budget instead of the legislature. The legislature may reduce or strike out

SOMERVILLE, N. J., Oct. 26.—A court order authorizing the exhumation of the body of Mrs. Eleanor Mills, one of the victims of the Hall-Mills double murder, for a second autopsy, was signed by supreme court Justice Charles W. Parker, at his home at Morristown, N. J.

COUNTER-REVOLUTIONARY LEADER, GRAND DUKE'S TOOL, SENTENCED TO DEATH BY SOVIET TRIBUNAL

(Special to The Daily Worker)

KHARKOV, Russia, Oct. 26.—A. Five other alleged conspirators were given sentences of from five to ten years imprisonment.

ZINOVIEV REMOVED AS HEAD OF COMMUNIST INTERNATIONAL BY REPRESENTATIVES OF PARTIES

By JOHN PEPPER

(Special Cable to The Daily Worker)

MOSCOW, U. S. S. R., Oct. 26.—A declaration presented to the plenum of the Central Committee and the Central Control Commission of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union on October 23 by a delegation of the Executive Committee of the Communist International, consisting of representatives of the Communist parties of Germany, Czecho-Slovakia, France, Italy, Great Britain, United States, Poland, India, Japan and Finland, referring to Zinoviev's further work in the executive of the Communist international, states:

In view of the anti-Leninist line of the opposition bloc within the All-Union Communist Party, the leading part in carrying out this wrong line played by Zinoviev, the chairman of the Comintern, the disorganizational international activities of the opposition bloc, unprecedented in the history of the Bolshevik Party, the transference of these fractional strategems into the ranks of the Communist international—the delegation, in accordance with the decisions of the most important sections of the Comintern, considers impossible Zinoviev's further continuing his work as the head of the Comintern.

The statement was unanimously approved at today's session of the presidium of the Executive Committee of the Communist International and was signed by all the representatives of the foreign Communist parties, including Duncan, Browder and Pepper.

OVERFLOW CROWD AT I. L. D. MEMORIAL FOR DEBS IN NEW YORK

(Special to The Daily Worker)

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—With Carnegie Hall jammed to the doors by thousands of workers who came to attend the monster Debs memorial meeting under the auspices of International Labor Defense, it was necessary to take care of an overflow crowd by engaging the Central Opera House.

Prominent workingclass speakers paid glowing tributes to Debs' great contributions to the American labor movement, and the huge throng of workers who came to commemorate his memory were plainly impressed by the loss the workingclass movement sustained in the passing of the renowned rebel.

The speakers, who divided their efforts between the two vast crowds were, Elizabeth Gurley Flynn, national chairman of International Labor Defense; C. E. Ruthenberg, general secretary of the Workers Party; Albert Weisbord, Passaic strike leader; Ben Gold, manager of the joint board of the Furriers' Union; Sasha Zimmerman, vice-chairman of the cloakmakers' strike committee, and Ben Gitlow, Workers Party candidate for Governor of New York.

Your neighbor will appreciate the favor—give him this copy of the DAILY WORKER.

Senator Reed Scores Coolidge for Support of Sen. W. M. Butler

(Special to The Daily Worker)

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 26.—Sen. "Jim" Reed (democrat of Missouri) featured his departure for St. Louis with an attack upon President Coolidge's endorsement of Senator William M. Butler in the Massachusetts senatorial race. Reed charged Butler had always "served the big financial interests of the country" while in the senate.

"I am willing to bet my hat if Senator Butler is re-elected," Reed added, "he will vote to seat Vare from Pennsylvania and Smith from Illinois if they receive majorities, without regard to any evidence which has been or may be produced upon fraud or corruption in those states."

Magill, Aghast at Insull's Slush Fund, Is Caught in Morgan's Golden Net as Wall Street Merges the Mail Order Business

Great capitalism has its hands on all of the senatorial candidates of the two old parties in Illinois. "Sammy" Insull, the public utility magnate, joining hands with J. Pierpont Morgan to put the dollar sign on the capitalist political offerings, Smith, Brennan and Magill, declared J. Louis Engdahl, Communist candidate for United States senate, in a statement issued today. Engdahl pointed out that:

"Hugh S. Magill, the so-called 'independent republican,' who is running on an indignation platform against the slush fund in which Frank L. Smith, regular republican, wallows, has just received his baptism of gold thru revelations showing that the J. P. Morgan-First National Bank group of New York City holds the largest interest in the mail order house at Montgomery, Ward & Co., with which it is now proposed to merge the world's largest mail order house, Sears, Roebuck & Co. The head of the "Sears" concern is Julius Rosenwald, who trotted Magill into the U. S. senatorial race track and has helped very liberally to finance Magill's political campaign.

Back of Open Shoppers.

"The Montgomery-Sears merger also brings Magill's political godfather, Rosenwald, into closer alliance, if this is possible, with the John Countess Michel Karolyi.

Because the state department fears that Madame Karolyi will say something not to the liking of the present monarchist rulers of Hungary, she has been denied admittance to the U. Her husband, Count Karolyi, was the first president of the Hungarian republic and a bitter enemy of the hangman Horthy, now regent of the Kingdom of Hungary and under the protection of the United States.

Fear Steamer Lost.

HALIFAX, N. S., Oct. 26.—Wreckage drifting ashore at Grand Manan, Bay of Fundy, this afternoon led to fears that the Parrsboro steamer Nelson Y. MacFarland had been lost with all hands in the gale that swept the Nova Scotia coast.

The steamer carried a crew of four men. Captain James H. Card and wife were aboard.

Workers Resent Ads of Capitalist Party in Farm-Labor Paper

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Oct. 26.—There is much indignation here in labor circles against the Farmer-Labor Advocate for publishing advertisements of republican candidates for judge and county commissioner.

At the meeting of the Central Labor Union there was much argument and resentment against the paper for accepting the advertisements.

McEwan, state campaign organizer, stated unofficially that the ads were necessitated by the financial condition of the paper.

U. S. NAVY TO INVADE NICARAGUA

Imperialism to Use the Marines' Bayonets

(Special to The Daily Worker)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 26.—Ignoring all international law, the United States is about to land a large naval force to invade and occupy the republic of Nicaragua, it is announced by the State Department. Four cruisers and a large force of marines are already in Nicaraguan waters.

U. S. Protects its Tool.

Efforts to trick the liberal revolutionary forces and compel them to accept a diplomatic defeat in a conference engineered by the U. S. charge d'affairs, Lawrence Dennis, has failed, and the liberals declare they will resume hostilities against the self-elected "president" Emiliano Chamorro, one of the most servile lackeys of Yankee imperialism in Latin America.

Dr. Juan Bautista Sacasa, who was elected president of Nicaragua, was ousted by Chamorro's reactionary clique, aided by the United States business interests, and finally deposed by a so-called congress gathered together by Chamorro, who was "appointed" president in his stead. The deal was so raw that the U. S. has never dared give Chamorro official recognition, but the loss it has intervened to save him from being overthrown.

"Democracy's" Ultimatum.

The refusal of the liberals to accept the ultimatum of the United States, that they must agree to an election controlled by Chamorro's lieutenant, Adolfo Diaz, acting as provisional president, has led to another ultimatum, the State Department frankly notifying the liberals that if they continue their opposition to Chamorro's clique, the U. S. will invade the country and "restore peace."

Dr. Sacasa, who has taken refuge in Guatemala, is again to lead the effort to oust Chamorro. He is reported on the way to Puerto Cabezas, enroute to the liberal headquarters at Bragman's Bluff.

U. S. May Clash with Mexico.

Sacasa will be declared the constitutional president of Nicaragua, and his government will at once be recognized by Guatemala, Mexico and Costa Rica.

American imperialist interests in Nicaragua are behind the intention of the U. S. government to save the Chamorro clique from defeat. Its action in violation of the sovereignty of Nicaragua by armed invasion and occupation, may bring a clash between the U. S. and the Mexican governments.

Madeiros Granted Further Respite

BOSTON, Mass., Oct. 26.—A demand by defense attorney William G. Thompson, supported by Attorney-General Benton and District Attorney Wilbur of Norfolk County, caused Governor Alvin T. Fuller to grant a further respite to Celestino Madeiros, convicted of murder and confessor to participation in the robbery and slaying of which Sacco and Vanzetti have been falsely accused. The respite extends to and including January 27 of next year.

Madeiros had been granted a reprieve prior to the last hearing which resulted in the failure of the defense to succeed in its efforts for a new trial. At this hearing, Madeiros' confession was a prominent part of the evidence submitted by Attorney Thompson showing why Sacco and Vanzetti had been unjustly convicted.

The appeal for the additional respite to Madeiros shows the defense is fighting hard for Sacco and Vanzetti and that it places some hope that in carrying the case to the supreme court Madeiros' confession will carry more weight with the higher body than it did with the trial judge, Thayer. It is significant too that Attorney General Benton supported the appeal for the respite. He said that in doing so he sought "orderly administration of justice."

PRESIDENT IS STRENGTHENED BY NEW WRIT

"God Knows" Taft True to Form

(Special to The Daily Worker)

WASHINGTON, October 26.—The power of the president to remove a federal officer without the consent of the senate was sustained by the supreme court today, thus ending a dispute as to constitutional rights that has waged between the legislative and executive branches of the government for half a century.

The decision was handed down in the case of Frank S. Myers, now deceased, former postmaster at Portland, Ore. Myers was appointed by President Wilson in 1917, and removed from office three years later, without the consent of the senate. Because his appointment had to be confirmed by the senate his intra coastal removal without the senate's consent was not constitutional.

Chief Justice Taft delivered the opinion.

Back to 1789.

Chief Justice Taft found that congress in 1789 discussed the principles involved in the case and held that the president should have broad powers of appointment and removal, but only as the president's power of removal upheld by legislation but also by the very nature of the office the court held.

The check given by the senate in the requirement that the president must submit some appointments for confirmation, does not imply a similar right of a check upon removal.

In its opinion the court held unconstitutional the Tenure of Office Act of 1867 in which restrictions were imposed upon the president.

Of Basic Importance.

The decision is considered by legal authorities as among the most important ever decided by the supreme court. Solicitor General James M. Beck, in arguing the right of the president to remove, declared "the principle involved is of the very foundation of our government." "If the president cannot remove officials, however unfit and unworthy they may be," he said, "then he has neither the independence nor the power than has been attributed to the office."

The Myers case has been before the courts for several years. When Myers originally sued for $8,838 back pay, the government merely set up the defense that delay in bringing the suit was fatal to recovery of damages. The court of claims sustained the government, and did not pass upon the legality of the removal.

Justice McReynolds, Holmes and Brandeis dissented.

Justice McReynolds, who wrote the dissenting opinion, called the court's decision revolutionary in character.

Court Recesses.

WASHINGTON, October 26 — The supreme court announced today it would recess from November 1 to November 22.

Cal's Oregon Senator to Be Defeated, G. O. P. Campaign Head Admits

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—(FP)—Senator Stanfield of Oregon, Coolidge republican defeated by Stelwer in the party primary, will run a poor third in the November election, says Sen. Phipps of Colorado, chairman of the G. O. P. senatorial campaign committee.

Phipps says Stelwer will win, with Heney, democrat, second. He speaks of Stanfield as having been "overwhelmingly defeated" in the primary, and says the independent candidate's effort to enlist support from other republican senators has been "of no avail."

Trolley Smash Injures 27.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Oct. 26.—Twenty-seven persons were injured, three perhaps fatally, when a trolley car crashed into a truck here today. The car was crowded with persons on their way to work.

SUPREME COURT UPHOLDS SENTENCE UNDER KANSAS COMPULSORY LABOR LAW

(Special to The Daily Worker)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—The sentence of August Dorchy, Kansas labor leader, for violating the Kansas industrial court law was upheld today by the supreme court in affirming the Kansas supreme court.

Dorchy, alleged to have fomented a coal mine strike, contended that the United States supreme court had declared compulsory features of the law invalid and that the penalty features fell with this decision.

'DRY' SOLON SAID TO BE COLLECTOR IN RUM GRAFT

Over One Million Dollars Paid in Two Years

Vivid stories of how wine flowed freely, the illegally, at a cost of a $1 a gallon graft, to the extent of more than a million gallons in two years, were scheduled to be told in the federal court today at the trial of Maj. Percy B. Owen, former prohibition administrator for the Chicago district, and State Senator Lowell B. Mason, his alleged chief collector.

Former alleged partners, associates and hirelings in what federal officials have called the biggest wine scandal in prohibition times were on the list of government witnesses.

Charge of Conspiracy.

Chief of the witnesses are six men who were indicted with Maj. Owen and Senator Mason on charges of conspiracy to violate the prohibition enforcement act.

All have confessed according to government officials.

They were scheduled to tell how more than a hundred alleedly "fake" concregations were organized to obtain "sacramental" wine for religious ceremonies, at a cost plus graft price.

"Dry" Was Collector.

Senator Mason, a candidate for reelection and known as a "dry" in legislative circles, is charged with having been the chief collector and "fixer" in the wine ring.

Maj. Owen is alleged to not only have issued permits illegally, but to have accepted various and sundry payments of money therefor, in one instance a tidy bit of $60,000, and other various sums in "box-car" figures.

ADMINISTRATION TO FIGHT CUTS IN U. S. TARIFF

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—The administration has taken the lead in an effort to prevent tariff lowering at the coming session of congress.

Mellon Makes Statement.

This was the view Washington took today of Secretary of Treasurer Mellon's reply to the international bankers' manifesto. In a formal statement, he added but little to his oral one of last week.

Mellon said, in effect, that lowering of tariff barriers would be fine for Europe, and he wished the plan well, but it would be not so good for the United States, and the administration is going to fight any moves to cut tariffs here.

"Harm Labor."

He used the age-old high tariff argument that a reduction of the American tariff would be detrimental to American labor and American prosperity, and, in addition, would adversely affect Europe thru America's decreased buying power. This same argument has been used by republican speakers on the stump in the present campaign.

Belgian Ship Sinks.

BORDEAUX, Oct. 26.—The Belgian steamer Caledonier, which left Bordeaux October 12 for Hampton Roads, is reported to have sunk off Portugal following an explosion in her hold. The report, as yet unconfirmed indicates that the crew of 41 was lost.

FREE TRADE FOR EUROPE, SAYS MELLON

But U. S. Must Keep Its High Tariff

By LAURENCE TODD.
(Federated Press)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—Andrew Mellon, secretary of the treasury and head of the American aluminum trust will defend the high protective tariff on aluminum and other big industries to the last ditch. That is the meaning of the statement he issued after long consultation with President Coolidge, agreeing with the international bankers that Europe should reorganize itself into one economic unit, but denying that America should lower its tariff wall toward European commerce.

With the traditional air of benevolence which Pennsylvania manufacturers have shown in political campaigns for generations past, he pleads for his high tariff privilege in the name of labor.

Applies to Europe, Says Mellon.

Mellon says that the international bankers' "Plea for Removal of Restrictions Upon European Trade" is brought about by the breaking up of old political units such as the Austro-Hungarian empire, and the re-arrangement of the continent along ethnical lines which are hostile to the natural flow of commerce. Big cities like Vienna are left without markets or sources of raw material fur factories.

Europe Should Emulate U. S.

"The situation in Europe," he declares, "is different from that in America. The two would only become comparable if we should consider each of the 48 states a separate nation, each having its own tariff, its own railroads, its own currency and its own language. Under such conditions the industrial power of the United States must and would end.

"What the plea of the bankers seeks to accomplish in its final analysis is not a change in the world but to bring about in Europe a condition similar to that in the United States. It is not criticism of us but emulation."

For Trade War.

Thus in the closing days of the campaign the Coolidge-Mellon administration gives its approval to the economic soundness of the plan for a United States of (non-Soviet) Europe which shall enter into a fierce race for world markets against the organized business of the United States of America. It rejects the suggestion of a federation of all capitalist nations around the world in the task of eliminating national tariff barriers for a new era in the evolution of private enterprise.

It is American capital against western European capital, with just a hint that the tariff debts of Europe be overboard rather than interfere with the profits of the tariff monopolists.

ASK CANDIDATES THEIR POSITION ON INJUNCTIONS

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—A questionnaire to determine their stand on the question of injunctions in labor disputes has been sent to every candidate in the five boroughs by the Emergency Labor Conference, 130 E. 25th Street, recently formed to help the striking clockmakers and to combat labor injunctions.

Created by 800,000 trades unionists of Greater New York and having the support of the New York State Federation of Labor, the Central Trades and Labor Council of New York, the United Hebrew Trades and other central labor groups, the conference to help the clockmakers is seeking to establish publicly, prior to election day, the attitude of every candidate for office on the injunction issue.

The questionnaire, in the form of a letter, asks whether the candidate is in favor of "checking the evil of injunctions" in industrial disputes" and whether he favors the enactment of an anti-injunction bill by the state legislature limiting the power of the courts to issue injunctions in trade and labor disputes.

The questionnaire is signed by J. M. Budish, secretary of the Emergency Labor Conference.

Chicago Republicans Shocked when Dawes Denounces Primary

SOUTH SCATTERS ALL PRECEDENT; LYNCHING GANGSTERS ARRESTED

DOUGLAS, Georgia, Oct. 26.—For the first time in the history of the south, the law has stepped in a lynching case and brought action against the mob.

Nine of sixteen members of a mob that shot to death Dave Wright, alleged slayer, after taking him from the jail, have been indicted. They are under arrest. The mob committed the violence August 19.

MARIE RECEPTION DISGUSTING, SAYS GOTHAM MINISTER

Another Points to Her As Fine Example

(Special to The Daily Worker)

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—Gotham's churchmen are considerably at variance concerning Queen Marie's America trip, it was revealed today by a survey of Sunday sermons in New York churches.

"A Shining Example."

While the Rev. S. Edward Young, pastor of the Bedford Avenue Presbyterian Church, was praising the Roumanian queen as "another Victoria," and urging American women to follow her example of "service and patriotism," quite another note was being sounded by the Rev. Christian F. Reisner of the Chelsea Methodist Church.

Disgusting Bootlicking.

"To what are free-blooded Americans coming?" demanded Dr. Reisner, referring to the adulation that has been heaped upon Marie since her arrival here. "How can any good come to us from such disgusting dust licking and exaltation of a flesh and blood person who does not even represent a pope? Why not rather select an unknown American mother and glorify her than revive a false notion in democratic America that born royalty is better than character? We are cheapening ourselves and exalting wrong ideals by such praise."

Relief to Stricken Isle of Pines Being Rushed by Airships

HAVANA, Oct. 26.—With Cuban aeroplanes crippled and unable to fly, American warships and aeroplanes from the American naval base at Guantanamo are enroute to the Isle of Pines to aid in the hurricane relief work.

Efforts to send relief to the Isle of Pines from Havana have proved fruitless as the road between this city and Batabono, the port of embarkation for the Isle of Pines, is impassable.

There has been no addition to the list of seventeen Americans who are among the dead on the Isle of Pines.

Havana newspapers this morning reported that estimates of 200 dead and 3,000 injured in Havana were probably exaggerated.

Two national relief organizations—one to raise funds, the other to distribute food—have been organized in Cuba.

At Batabano, south of Havana, 50 were injured. The city is in ruins.

"What's a Suit Among Friends?" Says Trust in Office Equipment

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—Free advertising for the "government sponsored National Management Week" is given in a New York newspaper by the Rand Kardex Service, part of the Rand Kardex Bureau, Inc., which is under suit by the federal government for violations of the Clayton anti-trust act.

Rand Kardex is one of four companies, a trust company, and six individuals in the government court action to block trustification of the office equipment business.

Rand Kardex's efforts to buy Globe Wernicke Co. brought the government action after earlier mergers had gone thru. Management Week is approved by Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover as part of his elimination of waste in industry program.

To Keep Your Jobs Vote Republican, is Sec. Davis' Warning

STUBENVILLE, O., Oct. 26—James J. Davis, secretary of labor, made an appeal of the workers here to vote the republican ticket in the November election with the argument that his party's tariff program would keep the factories open.

"There is only one road to prosperity," said Davis. "And that the republican party has always stood for. Let's keep our laboring man busy and prosperous. Continuation of the protective tariff will do it."

Exploiters' Rule Trods Pathway Bloodstained By Martyrs of Labor

By J. LOUIS ENGDAHL

EVERY capitalist newspaper in the land printed something about the decision of Judge Webster Thayer denying a new trial to Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti. Tens of millions of workers, therefore, are fully aware of the certain death that threatens their comrades, in the shadow of the electric chair, in Massachusetts.

The fact that a great wave of protest does not roll up over the land may be because, for, in part, by the attitude of masses of workers stated in these few words, "They won't put them to death. They don't dare. Something will happen to stop the execution of Sacco and Vanzetti."

This is, of course, a criminal attitude. The worker who takes that attitude shows that he has been effectively doped by the ruling class under which he suffers. Somehow, this type of worker has come to the suicidal conclusion that the capitalist exploiter today doesn't kill his prey.

Attorney William G. Thompson, counsel for Sacco and Vanzetti, not a member of the workingclass, not even a radical, or even a liberal, fought this viewpoint all thru his energetic participation in the five days of argument in the new trial, that has just been rejected by Judge Thayer. Thompson held up the electric chair as offering an immediate danger, waiting at the courtroom door, as it were, with a powerful electric current turned full on, hungry for its victims. Attorney Thompson said:

"If these men are executed, the cry is going around the world that if a man doesn't believe in private property in America, he can be killed."

Labor must not wait until after Sacco and Vanzetti have been done to death, to learn whether it can be done, or will be done. It will then be too late to turn back and undo the crime that has been committed. The time to make the fight is now, with the full realization that American capitalism, now as ever, worries little about the blood of the workers upon its hands, as long as its dominant position is secure.

Doubting workers, who question the brutality of American greed, need but to scan thru the November issue of the Labor Defender, the monthly publication of the International Labor Defense, to trace the blood-stained path trod down thru the years by the capitalist overlords in their ruthless pursuit of profits.

In 1887 the gallows in Chicago claimed the Haymarket victims, just as guiltless as Sacco and Vanzetti. In Hill, one of the Industrial Workers of the World, was shot to death by a firing squad in the Utah state penitentiary, Nov. 19, 1915. Thirty years ago, at Everett, Wash., the lumber trust didn't wait for arrests, trials, convictions and executions. Thru its hired assassins under the direction of Sheriff McRea, it launched a veritable massacre against the free speech fighters of the I. W. W., at the Pugat Sound port, taking a toll of 11 workers dead and 23 severely wounded. This list does not include the killing, by hanging, of Frank Little, by an amplaying class mob near Butte, Mont., during the war. It does attempt to revive the bloody record of the owning class in every strike that has taken place.

There are workers who ask, "Will the American ruling class kill?" Here the workers have their answer. The bosses will kill.

None of these victims immediately threatened the existence of the capitalist state. The Haymarket victims had merely declared for the eight-hour workday, launching the campaign for the shorter day of toil. Joe Hill was the poet of the migratory, unskilled workers, putting into song the trials of itinerant labor. The Everett slaughter grew out of an attempt of labor to enjoy the right of free speech in the drive to organize the lumber workers in the western section of Washington. Little had voiced his views against the war. For this they all died.

In writing about the Haymarket affair, Lucy E. Parsons, widow of one of the victims, says that seven years after the wholesale hanging, Governor John P. Altgeld, of Illinois, reviewed the whole case, and proved from the testimony that the workers hanged were absolutely innocent.

It is a poor time, seven years after workers have been murdered, to learn that they were innocent of the crime charged against them. That happened in the Haymarket case.

This must not happen in the Sacco-Vanzetti case. A great mass of evidence has already been presented, that proves beyond doubt, except in the minds of the New England frame-up gang itself, that Sacco and Vanzetti are guiltless.

The New York World, Sunday, October 24, in reviewing the contents of the decision of Judge Thayer, denying the new trial, said:

"He (Judge Thayer) also rejects the testimony of Lawrence G. Letherman, for 18 years a member of the secret service forces of the United States, and Albert J. Weyand, also a former secret service man, that attaches of the Boston office of the department of justice had conspired with state officials to convict the two radicals of a murder they did not believe them guilty of as 'one way of disposing of them'."

* * *

What did the prosecution do to wipe out the affect of these affidavits? What did it say in reply to them? Nothing! Absolutely nothing! In the words of the New York World, same issue, we find the following:

"These affidavits (of Letherman and Weyand) the state did not answer. Dudley P. Ranney, the assistant district attorney now in charge of the case, contenting himself with denouncing Letherman and Weyand for revealing secrets of the department of justice."

Sacco and Vanzetti are innocent! Everyone at all familiar with the case knows it.

But the executioners of the capitalist class are determined to put them to death.

What is the workingclass going to do about it?

The least that every reader of The DAILY WORKER can do right now is to order a bundle of the November issue of the Labor Defender, 23 S. Lincoln Street, Chicago, and get it distributed among workers who have a wrong viewpoint toward the Sacco-Vanzetti case.

NUMBER OF LYNCHINGS OF NEGROES IN U. S. INCREASES, THIRTY-SIX ARE VICTIMS OF MOB SINCE JAN. 1

"Judge Lynch" seems to be on the uphill climb again in the United States, increasing his toll of lives among the Negro race.

Since January 1, there have been twenty-four lynchings in the country—six more in the ten months of 1926 than there were during the entire 12 months of 1925.

According to the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, during the last 38 years there have been 3,553 lynchings, an average of almost 100 a year. There is no comparison between the number of lynchings which have occurred in the south and the number in other sections of the country. Of course there are more Negroes in the south—but there are other reasons, it is pointed out. And among these reasons are disrespect for law, collusion between the law and the mob, ignorance, and sanatical race hatred.

"Protects Pure Womanhood."

Whites argue in defense of lynchings—there are some that do—that the only way to "protect the Negro from attacking our pure white womanhood" is to use the punishment of lynching. But the figures show that less than 30 per cent of those who have met the death of the mob were charged with rape, and most of them were falsely so charged. Also, since 1900 a total of 90 Negro women have been lynched.

The only remedy for this travesty, as seen by the N. A. A. C. P., is a federal law against lynching.

A possibility that the senate slush fund inquiry in Washington may be delayed until after the November election was seen today when Senator Charles L. McNary, republican, of Oregon, telegraphed Senator James A. Reed, democrat of Missouri, slush fund chairman, that he would prefer to postpone it.

CHINESE MASSES HAIL CANTONESE AS LIBERATORS

Strength Runs Beyond Number of Soldiers

PEKING, Oct. 26.—In the present northern expedition of the Cantonese armies the Canton troops have maintained an exemplary conduct quite in contrast to the murderous, plundering tyranny of the reactionary militarists.

These militarists were and are encouraged by the foreign imperialist powers, who used them as tools to keep the Chinese masses terrorized and divided. Even the comparatively wealthy Chinese, robbed by the marauding militarists, have welcomed the Canton troops as liberators.

Masses Welcome Cantonese.

How much more welcome have the Cantonese been to the farmers, whose crops and livestock have been stolen and destroyed by the reactionaries, and the coolie workers, who have been conscripted to both military and labor without pay, or slaughtered without pity, may be seen by the wild enthusiasm with which they greet the victorious Canton armies.

This is the strength of the Canton troops, with goes far beyond the number of their rifles and equipment. This sort of "propaganda" takes quick effect on the masses, and so northern general is sure what will happen to him and his army if he dares open an offensive against the Cantonese, or even resist their advance.

Militarists' Power Crumbles.

It is very doubtful if the northern generals will be able to hold out against the Cantonese advance. Their power crumbles into dust before the skilful maneuvers of the Cantonese commander, Chiang Kai-shih, as can be seen by the fact that altho the Canton armies are still some 300 or 400 miles from Shanghai their sympathizers have acted and cut off that city from rail communication in all directions.

If the Cantonese win all China thewill surely carry out their demand for the abrogation of all unequal treaties and special privilege granted foreign imperialists. So the imperialists continue to support the reactionary militarists and thereby seal their own fate by antagonizing the masses.

CAMBRIDGE COPS ARREST WORKERS PARTY SPEAKER

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 26.—Cambridge is the latest to follow in line with the regime of reaction in this state of Massachusetts. Walsh, the district organizer of the Workers' Party, campaign manager for Massachusetts, was arrested on Thursday evening, October 21, as a result of an open air meeting held on Massachusetts avenue and Essex street, on the charge of "disturbing the peace." The district in which the meeting was held is largely Greek, and apparently the "disturbance of the peace" consisted in the attack on Walsh by the speaker as an enemy of labor.

Expose Walsh.

Miller showed that Walsh was tied up with the bank interests, that he had supported for president John W. Davis, attorney for J. P. Morgan & Co., and that he had been a supporter of the railroad interests. Taking objection to these remarks, one of the local supporters of Walsh proceeded to make a disturbance at the meeting. Instead of removing the disturber, the police proceeded to arrest the speaker in spite of the fact that the meeting was held with a local permit.

Wagon Called.

Without further ado Miller was rushed off in a patrol wagon to a dark cell in the police station and was given no opportunity to call up an attorney or a bondsman.

At the trial the police could only produce as witnesses onlookers who felt that the meeting had interfered with their business. The defendant, however, was able to produce workers from the audience who came to spontaneous protest to the unjust actions of the police officers. In order to protect the police the judge proposed that the defendant enter a plea of nolo or willingness not to prosecute further, and thereupon the case was filed. This is but one more case added to the long list of violations of the constitutional right of freedom of speech and assembly of which Massachusetts can boast.

WAGE POLICY OF A. F. L. EXPOSED BY RUTHENBERG

Party to Fight Until Victory, He Pledges

NEW YORK CITY, Oct. 26.—Making his only public address in the New York district for the election campaign, C. E. Ruthenberg, general secretary of the Workers (Communist) Party, spoke at the Amalgamated Labor Temple, Brooklyn, Tuesday night where an enthusiastic meeting was held.

A clear analysis of the American Federation of Labor's new wage policy was made by Ruthenberg to the delight of his hearers.

Explains A. F. of L. Policy.

"The officials of the A. F. of L. are not living up to their own policy," Ruthenberg declared. "And why not? Because if they did, if they made the slightest attempt to increase the wages of the American workers, to start a real struggle for more money, they would find that arrayed against them would be the whole machinery of the capitalist system.

"The A. F. of L. policy," said Ruthenberg, "is that the workers should share in the greater wealth as the productivity of labor increases by speed-up systems and by the introduction of improved machinery. But as soon as the A. F. of L. attempts to seize its share of the increased wealth it will find itself faced with the same problem as enunciated by the Workers Party—the mass opposition of the employers backed up by the whole government apparatus."

Party Takes Lead.

Ruthenberg made a clear analysis of the nature of the class struggle with special reference to America. He pointed out that the Workers Party was the leader of the American labor movement toward the development of a more militant struggle against the exploiters. He pledged the party to continue the struggle until the American trade unions had been made militant, until the basic industries had been organized, until the workingclass had developed a mass political party of its own and received experiences necessary to ensure success in its fight to destroy the capitalist system, to establish a workers' and farmers' government and found a new social order.

Bertram D. Wolfe, Workers Party candidate in the tenth congressional district, made a pointed talk on "Who Owns the Government?"

"For president what have we" asked Comrade Wolfe. "A strikebreaker. We have a crooked banker for vice-president. We have a multimillionaire for secretary of the treasury. This individual pilfers the treasury in his own interests and in the interests of his associates. In our senate we have twenty millionaires and seats are now selling, according to latest quotations, for between one and two million dollars apiece."

Wolfe pointed out that the entire machinery of the government, the courts, police and army is used against the workers. When he made an appeal to the audience to join in the fight against this government of the nine workers joined the Workers Party.

Benjamin Gitlow, Workers Party candidate for governor, denounced Governor Smith's claims as a representative of the people. He detailed the governor's record pointing to injunctions against strikers, his arbitration program always satisfactory to the employers and a blow to the workers, the brutality of the New York police, traceable to the governor as the highest state authority. Gitlow showed that both the republican and democratic parties were controlled by big business and urged the workers to build their own party.

Pascal Cosentino, former organizer of the Shoe Workers' Protective Union, also spoke. Sam Nesin, Workers Party candidate in the 14th assembly district, was chairman.

District of Columbia Denies Trial by Jury Despite Old Decision

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—Whether police courts in the District of Columbia can continue to deny jury trials to defendants who demand them is soon to be fought out in the higher court and will probably go to the federal supreme court. The present case involves a violation of traffic regulations, but both of the defense is the sentiment of organized labor, which repeatedly has been denied jury trials in time of strike.

Many years ago Charles A. Dana of the New York Sun was sued for libel and an attempt was made to bring him before a police judge in the district because a copy of the paper containing the alleged libel was delivered in Washington. The federal court refused to honor the writ issued for him, declaring that he could not be made to answer for libel in the first instance unless given trial before a jury.

Afterward the federal supreme court decided in a contempt case that persons charged with that crime are entitled to jury in the district. On still another occasion the local Musicians' Union fought out the issue when charged with illegally fining [illegible]

FEDERAL RESERVE BANK BACKING THE OPEN SHOP DRIVE TO CRUSH THE OHIO MINE WORKERS' UNION

By HARVEY O'CONNOR

CLEVELAND, Oct. 26.—Crude capital, ultimate authority in America's industrial life, has shown that the Miners' Union must go. Speaking thru George da Camp, chairman of the board of the Cleveland federal reserve bank, the Wall Street interests in control of the federal reserve have ordered the miners to sacrifice the gains of long years of struggle by going back to work underground for approximately the same wage that the unskilled city street laborer gets—$5 a day.

U. S. Bank Head for Sub Wage.

Chairman da Camp's ultimatum is published in the Clevelander, official organ of the Cleveland chamber of commerce, one of the most bitter anti-union organizations in the country. Under the title, "Ohio—Dig Coal," da Camp recalls with enthusiasm the $3.98 scale the miners got before the war and urges the adoption in Ohio of the wage now being paid in southern West Virginia.

De Camp and the federal reserve board are now ranged side by side with the Interstate commerce commission, the U. S. chamber of commerce and various agencies, both financial and governmental, which are clamoring for the destruction of the United Mine Workers as the last obstacle in the way of a completely non-union America.

A Serious Menace.

De Camp's statement is no empty pronunciamento, for his institution controls the credit facilities of every national bank in Ohio and can easily compel them to deny advances to union operators.

The key position of West Virginia in the national miners' union crisis and the imperative necessity of instituting a more vigorous policy in fighting non-unionism in that state is evidenced by the bureau of mines' final report for Ohio coal operations in 1926.

Ohio Union Assassinated.

Due to the low labor costs of West Virginia, unionized Ohio experienced the worst coal year since 1908, when production fell to 28,000,000 tons last year. In comparison with 1923, when West Virginia was partially organized, Ohio coal production has fallen by one-third. The comparison with 1920 is even more startling, for in that year Buckeye miners tossed nearly twice as much coal into their squat little mine cars as last year.

While Ohio has been experiencing a 50 per cent decrease in tonnage output, non-union Kentucky, in the south, has increased from 58,000,000 to 82,000,000 while non-union West Virginia has robot up from 90,000,000 to 125,000,000. As a result 30,000 Ohio miners have been cut completely off the payroll in two short years and another 15,000 given less than five days' work a week. Average employment has been 181 days, altho in Hocking Valley the average was but 109 days.

Governor Donahey, closely in touch with the coal situation, predicts that production for 1926 will be cut to 21,000,000 tons, the lowest in the present century.

Probe Union Strength.

Ohio operators, checkmated in their decision to open this fall on the 1917 scale of $5 a day by the iron wall determination of the miners to save their union, are seeking weak spots in the union armor. Already successful in the Pomeroy district of southern Ohio and in the West Virginia panhandle under Ohio jurisdiction—they are probing union strength in Hocking and Belmont fields.

J. A. Paisley, tri-state operator, who left the union in the panhandle tried recently to open his Ohio mine across the Ohio river from his scab properties. Sub-district officers ordered the union day men not to clean up the mine until they had conferred with Paisley at his Cleveland office.

Hard hit by the failure of his non-union panhandle mines to overexpand their coal output in production, due to the employment of unskilled coal diggers, Paisley offered to pay the Jacksonville scale in Ohio. Union officials made it plain that he could not try the old game, worked successfully in other districts, of operating half his mines union and the other half scab. The conference broke up.

COTTON CRISIS FORCING UNITED STATES TOWARD RECOGNITION OF SOVIET UNION TO GET A MARKET

WASHINGTON — (FP) — Falling prices of cotton in the south may help break the deadlock between Washington and Moscow over American recognition of the Union of Socialist Soviet Republics. Later election day may be beginning of negotiations for settlement of differences between the two governments may appear, and senators from the cotton south are ready in the senate house with arguments favorable to a prompt agreement. The cotton growers of the south want to market their excess crop, and Russia wants to buy 2,000,000 more bales.

Experts for the department of agriculture have reported that this year's cotton crop will be 14,647,000 bales, while 4,000,000 of last year's crop were held over, prices a year ago averaged about 22c, while today they are 13c. Cost of production this year is estimated at about 20c a pound. Rep. Pou of North Carolina has asked Pres. Coolidge to call congress in special session to deal with the situation, declaring that the farmers will lose from $20 to $25 per bale on their crop. Coolidge declines.

The soviet government has been buying $45,000,000 of American cotton each year, and would like to buy more. But credit must be arranged if the Russians are to absorb a large part of the American surplus. Credit waits on a settlement of the American debts by Moscow.

White house and state department seem anxious that no official approach be made by Moscow until after Nov. 2 —election day. On the day after the ballots have been cast the administration will be in position to begin negotiations. King Cotton will prevent the southern democratic senators from organizing a counter-offensive in which they would revive the old anti-bolshevik bogey.

Tat even if Russia does buy millions of bales of American cotton in addition to the present trade credit financo, the cotton growers of the south are faced by a bad situation The market will apparently remain low for the present and next year. Acute suffering will be felt from the Carolinas to Oklahoma and Texas This will make easier the job of soviet settlement and recognition.

Secretary of state Kellogg has instructed the American consul in Canton to protest the laying of an additional tax on imports and exports—above the customs rates permitted by the foreign powers—in these parts of China controlled by the Canton national government.

Other powers have made similar protest, but the new taxes are being collected by the radical government in the ports. Canton takes the position that it is a sovereign Chinese government with which the powers will have to negotiate. Washington is beginning to think it may.

Concealing its identity behind the name of a professional publicity agent, a group of chemical warfare antiunionists whose names are not disclosed has begun an attack on the Geneve protocol, now awaiting ratification by the senate, abolishing the use of poison gas in war. Inquiry by The Federated Press brought from the publicity office the statement that the American Association for Chemical Defense —declining to say its membership—that among its members are some former officers of the Chemical Warfare Service, but the name of no officer of the association was forthcoming.

Presence of American Troops and Gunboats In China Denounced

SEATTLE, Oct. 26.—At a meeting in celebration of the 16th anniversary of the founding of the Republic of South China under the late Dr. Sun Yat Sen held by the Labor College here, a resolution was adopted denouncing the presence of American troops and gunboats in China and calling for their withdrawal.

Y. Y. Yeas, graduate student of the University of Washington, in making the principal address, declared that the Cantonese forces would have overcome all opposition and established a united and democratic republic in China before this had it not been for the support furnished by the United States, Great Britain, Japan, Italy and other imperialist governments to the various partisan Chinese generals.

He predicted that victory would come to the revolutionary forces because they had the support of the great mass of the Chinese.

Officers of Ships in Neptune Association Kick at Low Sea Wage

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—Sea wages are too low to hold the skilled men, Both Captain John F. Milliken, secretary-treasurer of the Neptune Association of Masters, Mates and Pilots, and Bert L. Todd, secretary-treasurer of the Ocean Association of Marine Engineers, report that their members are leaving the sea for shore jobs in considerable numbers.

There is some strike talk and within a month the two unions are expected either to call a strike or to advise their members to leave the sea unless the companies consent to open negotiations.

Shipping is relative good. The reports of the U. S. shipping board cite an increase of 2,300,000 tons more of waterborne United States commerce for the second quarter of 1926 than in the first, or a total of 24,250,000 tons, as compared with 20,950,000 tons. An increase of 700,000 tons is reported over the second quarter of last year.

WORKERS SENATE CANDIDATE HITS WALSH'S RECORD

Green "Informed" as to Real Facts

BOSTON, Mass., Oct. 26.—The following letter was sent by John J. Ballam, Workers' Party candidate for the United States senate, to William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, on October 16, 1926:

Walsh is Enemy.

Dear Sir: In your letter of September 29, 1926, you call upon the wage workers of Massachusetts to support for the U. S. senate David I. Walsh. I have read your communication with considerable surprise. I cannot understand how any labor man acquainted with the record of Walsh could endorse his candidacy. Facts have shown that Walsh cannot be considered as a friend of labor.

Mr. Walsh is opposed to strikes among railroad workers as indicated by the following statement made by him in the U. S. senate on December 18, 1918: "Strikes among certain classes of employes are indeed never justifiable, and among these classes are undeniably our transportation employes." The reason for his opposition to strikes among railroad workers is undoubtedly linked up with Walsh's close connections with the railroad interests of the state, connections which became so evident in the scandalous thet Mr. Martin Lomasney, democratic leader, was forced to remark in the Massachusetts house of representatives on June 4, 1915: "He (Walsh) was a railroad man in 1909 and 1901, when he was in the house, and he has not changed." In fact, Mr. Walsh himself declared in his inaugural address on January 7, 1919 "We would deny the railroads nothing which they really need."

Always Money Licker.

Mr. Walsh has been closely associated with powerful money interests during his political career. He supported for president of the United States John W. Davis, lawyer for J. P. Morgan & Co., in return for the support given him by the latter individual in 1912 in Massachusetts, during Walsh's gubernatorial campaign. Mr. Walsh's running mate for governor is William A. Gaston, millionnaire banker and attorney for the Boston Elevated Co. David I. Walsh is a disciplined member of the democratic party, loyal to its policies and platform. Can labor be loyal to itself and to the same time endorse a candidate who supports the policies of Davis and Gaston?

Injunction Governor.

Labor has declared time and again its opposition to the use of injunctions in labor disputes. During Walsh's term as governor of this state 18 different injunctions were issued against labor unions without a word of protest on his part or any effort to render this vicious antilabor practice.

At national conventions and state conventions labor has declared time and again for Sacco and Vanzetti, the two innocent Italian workingmen now in the shadow of the electric chair. Recently the most sensational evidence was revealed, giving additional proof of their innocence. Yet Mr. Walsh, a so-called labor man and a progressive, has never lifted one finger to save them.

No Alternative.

In view of the very salient anti-labor character of both Mr. Butler, the millionaire mill owner, and Mr. Walsh, a staunch defender of the interests of business, it seems to me that there is no other lesson to draw than that labor must organize its own political party to protect its interests. The sooner labor awakes to the necessity of such a step the sooner will it cease to be the football of the capitalist interests, which control the two major parties.

Fraternally yours, John J. Ballam, candidate for U. S. senator, Workers' Party of America.

Mr. Ballam is beginning a tour of Massachusetts. He will be in Lawrence October 23, Boston Commons October 24 Lowell October 25, Salem October . , New Bedford October 27, Fall River October 28 and Worcester October 30.

Plan Militaristic Celebration Here On Navy Day, Oct. 27

Chicago will celebrate the birthday of Theodore Roosevelt, which is now called "Navy Day" on October 27, with appropriate militaristic ceremonies.

The lake front, from Van Buren to Randolph, will be lined with guns which will fire a salute of twenty-one shells at sunrise.

The militarists are also planning parades and a night celebration in the loop district.

Stenographers Help British Miners.

SEATTLE — (FP) — The Stenographers, Typists & Assistants union has sent $17.50 to the locked out British miners through the American Federation of Labor. This is the second donation of the union and represents more than $1 per member for the local.

tions, but may not increase or add new ones. This is autocracy in all starkness. But add to this a four-year term for the governor and meeting of the legislature only once in two years and you have a program that would prevent labor having any influence whatsoever with the actual administration of the state government.

Smith is Labor Foe.

"But Smith's pretensions of labor friendship, on being examined, prove him to be really a foe," the Workers' Party candidate went on. "Smith has always stood for arbitration in disputes between the workers and the employers. He has always favored the exaction of pressure to prevent strikes. And what does this mean from the workers' standpoint. It means really the loss of all the demands of the workers. Look at what has happened to Governor Smith named the commission on the garment industry. R. V. Ingersoll was appointed impartial chairman. But he himself is a manufacturer. What happened to the union demands? All important ones, such as the 40-hour week, limitation of the number of sub-manufacturers to each jobber, were rejected.

"Remember the Hicks bill to increase the teachers' salaries. Smith wasn't satisfied to veto this bill once. He killed it twice. First he gave as his excuse that the city should share in it first. It fell. Then it came back from the city and he vetoed it again on the grounds that the legislature had passed no appropriation bill for it. But the governor did not veto the bill to create for Ettinger the position of superintendent emeritus at a salary of $15,000 a year."

Smith's Smoke Screen.

Gitlow was sure that when it came to being an adept in the use of the famous smoke screen Smith was the equal of any. He attacked Gitlow continued to detail incidents of what he claimed was antagonism to labor.

"We must increase the appropriations of the labor board," Gitlow quoted Smith as saying, "and yet during 1924 less money was spent in the labor department than in 1915.

"Smith favors the 48-hr.week bill," Gitlow said "But this week reduction is for women and children only No others need apply. Even that bill was defeated by the last legislature.

"Labor certainly cannot back up Smith on his military record. He proposes that the head of the state constabulary have a term of five years instead of four, removing responsibility to the governor and creates an irresponsible distinct body above the population. He has increased the national guard, state police and militia and has approved the policies of Davis and Gitlow.

Injunction Governor.

Labor has declared time and again its opposition to the use of injunctions in labor disputes. During Walsh's term as governor of this state 18 different injunctions were issued against labor unions without a word of protest on his part or any effort to render this vicious antilabor practice.

At national conventions and state conventions labor has declared time and again for Sacco and Vanzetti, the two innocent Italian workingmen now in the shadow of the electric chair. Recently the most sensational evidence was revealed, giving additional proof of their innocence. Yet Mr. Walsh, a so-called labor man and a progressive, has never lifted one finger to save them.

The lake front, from Van Buren to Randolph, will be lined with guns which will fire a salute of twenty-one shells at sunrise.

The militarists are also planning parades and a night celebration in the loop district.

Stenographers Help British Miners.

SEATTLE — (FP) — The Stenographers, Typists & Assistants union has sent $17.50 to the locked out British miners through the American Federation of Labor. This is the second donation of the union and represents more than $1 per member for the local.

Smith's claims credit for the emergency rent legislation of 1924 and the extension thru 1926. This is ridiculous. It was the tremendous agitation by tenants and labor which forced Smith to call a special session of the legislature to enact the laws.

"Smith and his legislature put thru a bill taxing banks no longer according to capital, but according to income. This meant a big saving to the banks, as it made all stock dividends exempt.

"During the last legislature the Knight resolution was passed. This was done to defeat every measure intended to benefit labor sponsored by the State Federation of Labor. A commission was created and an appropriation passed to investigate all labor bills introduced. It is generally admitted that this was done solely so the legislature could dodge consideration of needed amendments to the state labor law and workers' compensation law. In this way the charge of violation of state party platform pledges was sidestepped. The resolution, besides being an attempt to wipe out what small benefits have already been gained, also serves to throw a monkey wrench into the coming legislature and stall off action on pending bills. The obvious intention of the Knight resolution is to give labor a setback.

Defeated Labor Bills.

"But look at the labor bills that were defeated in the last legislature. The creation of an exclusive state insurance fund to provide all workmen a compensation insurance at cost was prevented. The bill to include all disabling occupational diseases as compensable under the law was defeated. The attempt to increase the maximum of possible weekly compensation payments from $20 to $25 was lost. Other bills that were defeated provided for: compensation for loss of parts of legs and arms now provided for; extension from 30 to 90 days of the time within which a worker may file notice of injury; prohibition of court injunctions in industrial disputes; payment of the union wage scale on all public works.

"No action at all was taken on the bill in regard to the child labor amendment, altho both the republican and democratic state platforms contained planks pledging ratification."

Cites Contradiction.

Gitlow was very much amused by the report that J. R. O'Hanlon of the New York State Federation of Labor had introduced a resolution before the American Federation convention at Detroit favoring the nomination of Smith as candidate for president. Gitlow pointed out that O'Hanlon, as chairman of the legislative committee, had signed a report to the State Federation of Labor in which it was pointed out that bills advocated by the federation had been vetoed by Governor Smith and which lists the failure of the last legislature to pass favorable labor laws. The report tells of Governor Smith's vetoing the Hicks teachers' salary increase bill. The report also calls attention to the fact that of all the labor bills suggested by the state federation to the governor only one was enacted.

AL SMITH—STRIKEBREAKING GOVERNOR

ALFRED E. SMITH is the candidate of Tammany Hall for governor of New York State. He seeks to retain in office by parading as the friend of labor. He wants the support of the workers of the state because he proclaims himself a "labor man."

Cloakmakers' Injunction.

The injunction against the cloakmakers, issued by the administration henchman, Judge Guy, gives the lie to the governor's pretensions. That injunction against the 40,000 striking cloakmakers of New York City is the blow aimed by Governor Smith in revenge for their refusal to submit to his shameful scheme to impose company arbitration upon them.

THE Tammany Hall governor now stands revealed as the open enemy of labor, sanctioning the obnoxious injunction weapon in an effort to aid the bosses in their fight against the thousands of strikers who are fighting against the chaotic and onslaving conditions of the women's garment industry.

Governor's Hand Seen.

The injunction is a part of the whole infamous scheme to reduce the living standards of the cloakmakers and bring back the hideousness of the sweatshop labor. In this scheme the governor's commission played the role of aids to the employers. This commission gave moral support to the bosses in their attempt to break the union by rejecting the fundamental demands of the workers and trying to befog the real issues.

GOVERNOR SMITH is the boss of the Tammany Hall. He was responsible for the selection of the present mayor and police commissioner of the city of New York, who, in the present strike, have caused wholesale arrests on the merest technical pretexts in order to bleed the treasury of the union, to intimidate the workers and break the strike thru terror.

Eyes on Washington.

Governor Smith seeks to get into the White House. He is looking the bankers and industrial lords of the country that he is a man after their own hearts, who can be depended upon to break strikes, suppress union organization, impose fake arbitration conditions, extend company unions and keep workers in subjection to industrial tyranny. Governor Smith knows that Coolidge rode into the White House on the record of his strike-breaking activities in Boston and he seeks to establish his claim to be considered a rival for the presidency by equalling the strikebreaking record of Coolidge.

THE democratic party, like the republican party, is a friend of capital and an enemy of labor. Both parties are responsible for injunctions, suppression of free speech, denial of the right to picket, state constabulary terror and all other devices used against labor.

Workers Must Fight.

New York labor must clean the strikebreakers out of office. Workers on strike must not fear to use their mass power and to take up the fight with these strikebreaking officeholders.

The power of labor is mighty!

When united, labor can defeat injunction judges, strikebreaking governors and their malicious schemes to destroy organized labor thru breaking strikes.

IN the present elections there should be a united labor ticket in New York to challenge the united capitalist power. This the socialist party turned down flat and left labor on the political field can defeat the strikebreakers and wipe out injunctions against strikers and in general put a stop to the strikebreaking activities of the government.

Support and vote for the candidates of the Workers (Communist) Party, who stand against injunctions, against the strikebreaking officeholders, for the unity of labor and a labor party. Support the solidarity and unity of labor. Defeat the open-shopper Smith. Defeat the strikebreaker Smith.

The reddest part of the announcement is still a riddle unless it is the headline, which reads "What Is Senator Vare?" subheaded, "$3,000,000 Political Pot to Boil the Workers Pennsylvania."

Reflections on a 10,000 Mile Tour

By BERTRAM D. WOLFE.

I have just made an enormous swing 'round the circle—from New York to Los Angeles, from Los Angeles to Seattle, from Seattle back to New York. In my tour I covered 10,000 miles and addressed many thousands of American workers and farmers in about 25 cities.

Only One Force.

In all this long trip and in all these centers of progressivism or reaction I could find only one active force making for progress and struggle. In a country which is so obviously in the control of big business today that we have a strike-breaker as president of the United States, a shady banker as vice-president, a multi-millionaire as secretary of the treasury pilfering the treasury intrusted to his care, a senate in which are seated 20 millionaires and to which seats are being sold at one, two or three million dollars a throw, and a government whose courts and military forces are used to smash all organization in the basic industries I could find only one force earnestly and energetically combating this, the bosses their control of the government machinery, and that force was the Workers (Communist) Party.

Scanned City Papers.

In a vain attempt to find out something about the political and economic situation of each town in which I spoke, I read carefully the endless pages of print paper put out by all of the great capitalist dailies that I could lay hands on. My reading included such dailies as had a reputation for being friendly to labor or labor's enlightenment or such dailies as the Sear... Union Record, which had once been controlled by the labor movement.

But in all my reading I could find only one daily in the entire United States that was presenting any significant information to the workers and farmers of America on any real and in their struggle for the solution of their most immediate problems or for final emancipation; and that daily was The DAILY WORKER.

Deduces Formula.

I could almost reduce it to a mathematical formula. The strength of the labor movement varies directly as the circulation of the DAILY WORKER. Where the circulation of The DAILY WORKER is big, there the labor movement is healthy, there the class movement is militant, there it has a friendly alliance with the farmers, and there is some sign of struggle, of understanding and of forward movement. Wherever, on the other hand, the circulation of The DAILY WORKER is small, or the workers depend exclusively upon the great poison press, there the labor movement is weak, befuddled, bewildered, passive, in retreat or disintegrating.

Has the News.

If I wanted to know what was going on in the world, even in big cities; at least if I wanted to know more than the results of the Dempsey-Tunney fight, the world series and the kind of pie that Queen Marie had eaten for her dinner, I had to find copies of The DAILY WORKER on my trip. Hark issues soon began to mean as much to me as current numbers, and when I saw the appeals to "Keep the DAILY WORKER," I suddenly that what an arid desert the American labor movement would become if this one oasis of thought, activity and struggle were to suddenly be dried up.

The United States without The DAILY WORKER! The American labor movement in this year of retreat and defeat and class collaboration and betrayal without The DAILY WORKER! No daily, no struggle; no daily, no information from the workers' point of view, no daily, no genuine labor movement. Such were the inevitable conclusions from an attempt to imagine the United States at the present time, when all other progressive forces are so weak and timid and broken and afraid.

"Keep The DAILY WORKER."

And so I said to the comrades every where, "Keep The DAILY WORKER." It is not only your paper. Build The DAILY WORKER. It is the only hope of the American labor movement. Circulate The DAILY WORKER. It is the only antidote to the poison being pumped into the air from press and pulpit and into the minds and hearts of men by the great daily, republic and democracy. Make sacrifices? It is worth any sacrifice. All struggle requires sacrifice. The labor movement requires sacrifice. Without The DAILY WORKER there will be nothing left worth sacrificing for.

Rally to its defense. Give to your utmost. Make the entire labor movement realize its importance and give to their paper. Vote till it hurts. Fill it burn the bosses, the false leaders and the most powerful capitalist system in the world.

WHY I AM A COMMUNIST

By JOSEPH BELL.

I AM a dentist practicing for the last several years and I know that the reason workers suffer from bad teeth is because from childhood on they have not been taught to take proper care of them.

The kindergarten and primary school is the place where dentists should be engaged to repair teeth and teach how to keep them in good order.

The schools, the being controlled by the government and municipalities, of the U. S. A., do not do it at all, or do it very poorly. The great majority of the children grow up to be wage workers and can not afford to pay the high fees required by skilled dentists. On the other hand children of the rich and high government officials who serve the rich have their teeth fixed by the best dentists and the latest scientific methods. The result is that workers either walk around their whole life with bad teeth and consequent bad health or the great majority of them receive poor treatment at the hands of unskilled and dishonest doctors.

Why did I join the Workers (Communist) Party? Because I have realized that good health, good teeth, just as all good things in life, will never come thru the Republican, Democratic or any other party which is run in the interest of big business and big politicians.

Only a party of workers, having for its purpose the overthrow of this government of capitalists and the establishment of a United States government of workers and poor farmers, is able to care for the health and prosperity of the worker.

Labor Defender for November Keeps up Memory of Martyrs

Keeping fresh the memory of some of American labor's brightest and most militant pages is one of the tasks set itself by the Labor Defender, and its November number, just off the press, has accomplished it very successfully. The number contains stories on the Haymarket riot, the Centralia conspiracy, the Everett massacre, the murder of Joe Hill, and a special supplement containing a beautiful picture of the deceased Gene Debs at the height of his powers and an appreciation by James P. Cannon, printed in a form suitable for framing. Among the contributors to this number are such well known names as Lucy E. Parsons, Ralph Chaplin, William F. Dunne, Charles Gray, Voltarine de Cleyre, Charles Ashleigh, James P. Cannon and others.

The price per copy is only ten cents and the magazine is beautifully composed and illustrated. Subscriptions for a year, at one dollar is special offer of 13 months is now offered for one dollar; can be secured by writing to 23 S. Lincoln street, Chicago, Illinois.

Heretic-Bishop Will Speak at Gary Bazaar

GARY, Ind., Oct. 26.—Bishop William Montgomery Brown, known as the "bishop-heretic," author of "Communism and Christianism," will speak here at the Grand Bazaar to be held November 5 and 25, it is announced by International Labor Defense. This will be Gary's first opportunity to hear the famous bishop.

The bazaar is to be held at Croatian hall, 23rd and Washington streets.

Organizations and individuals are urged to contribute articles and cash to the bazaar to aid in its success. Adams Farrel, 1956 West 24th avenue, Gary, is treasurer and will acknowledge contributions. Admission is 50 cents for both days.

Transfer "Knicker" Case.

JEFFERSONVILLE, Ind., Oct. 26.—The now famous "knicker" case, in which Mrs. Frahma Allen seeks to enjoin the Jeffersonville school board from expelling her nine-year-old daughter, Virginia, from attending the Port Fulton school here because she wears knickerbockers instead of dresses, was ordered transferred for trial to the Floyd circuit court at New Albany by Judge James W. Fortune.

By Upton Sinclair

(Copyrighted, 1926, by Upton Sinclair)

They were on an old familiar trail now, and Bunny knew the landscape by heart.

"It's all very well for a feller to go off in his study and figure out how the world ought to be; but that don't make it that way, son. There has got to be oil, and we fellers that know how to get it out of the ground are the ones that are doing it. You listen to these Socialists and Bolsheviks, but my God, imagine if the government was to start buying oillands and developing them—there'd be more graft than all the wealth of America could pay for. I'm on the inside, where I can watch it, and I know that when you turn over anything to the government, you might just as good bury it ten thousand miles deep in the earth. You talk about laws, but there's economic laws, too, and government can't stand against them, no more than anybody else. When government does fool things, then people find a way to get round it, and business men that do it are no more to blame than any other kind of men. This is an oil age, and when you try to shut oil off from production, it's just like you tried to dam Niagara Falls."

It was a critical moment in their lives. In after years Bunny would look back upon it, and think, oh why had he not put his foot down? He could have broken his father, if he had been determined enough! If he had said, "Dad, I will not stand for buying the presidency; and if you go in with Mr. Roscoe on that deal you've got to know that I renounce any inheritance, I will not touch a cent of your money from this day on. I'll go out and get myself a job, and you can leave your money to Bertie if you want to." Yes, if he had said that, Dad would have given way; he would have been mortally hurt, and Mr. Roscoe would have been hurt but Dad would not have helped to nominate Senator Harding.

Why didn't Bunny do it? It wasn't cowardice; he didn't know enough about life as yet to be afraid of it. He had never earned a dollar in his life, yet he had the serene conviction that he could go out and "get a job," and provide for himself those comforts and luxuries that were a matter of course to him. But the trouble was, he couldn't bear to hurt people. It was what Paul meant when he said that Bunny was "soft." He entered into other people's point of view. He saw too clearly why Dad and Mr. Roscoe wanted to buy the Republican convention; and then, a few hours later, he would go over to the Rascum cabin, and sit down with Paul and "Bud" Stoner and "Jick Duggan and the rest of the "Bolshevik bunch,' and see too clearly why they wanted the oil workers to organize and educate themselves, and take over the oil wells from Dad and Mr. Roscoe.

VI

Bunny went back to Southern Pacific and just as he was finishing his year's work, the convention of the Republican party met in Chicago, a thousand delegates and as many alternates, and as many newspaper correspondents and special writers, to tell the world about this mighty historic event. The convention listened to impressive "Rey-note" speeches and smoked enormous quantities of tobacco and drank enormous quantities of bootleg liquor; and meantime, in a room in the Blackstone Hotel the half-dozen bosses who controlled the votes sat down to make their deals. In the millions of words that went out over the wires concerning the convention the name of Vernon Roscoe was never mentioned; but he had his suite adjoining that hotel room, and he made exactly the right offers, and paid his certified checks to exactly the right men, after a long deadlock and the taking of eight ballots, amid wild excitement on the convention floor, the support of General Leonard Wood began suddenly to crumble, and on the ninth ballot Warren Gamaliel Harding of Ohio became the Republican party's standard-bearer.

College was over; and Gregor Nikolaieff went up to San Francisco to ship on one of the vessels of the "cramming fleet," which went up to Alaska to catch and pack salmon. Rachel Menzies and her brother joined three other Finnish students who had equipped themselves with a battered Ford car, to follow the fruit-picking; moving from place to place, sleeping under the stars, and gathering apricots, peaches, prunes and grapes for the canners and driers. Bunny was the only one of the little group of "reds" who did not have to work all summer; and he was the only one who didn't know what to do with himself.

In the old days, when he and Dad were drilling one well at a time, Bunny would pitch in and help at anything there was to do; he was only a "kid" then, and the men liked it. But now he was of age, and supposed to be dignified; the company was of age, too, a huge machine in which every cog had its place, and must not be interfered with. Bunny could not even cultivate the plants at home without trespassing on the job of the gardener. He had resolved to study some of Paul's books; but he had never heard of anyone studying eight hours a day, and he couldn't take Paul's job for part of the time, because he wasn't a good enough carpenter!

It was a world in which some people worked all the time, and others played all the time. To work all the time was a bore, and no one would do it unless he had to; but to play all the time was equally a bore, and the people who did it never had anything to talk about that Bunny wanted to listen to. They talked about their play, just as solemnly as if it had been work; tennis tournaments, golf tournaments, polo matches—all sorts of complicated ways of hitting a little ball about a field! Now, it was all right when you needed exercise and recreation, to go out and hit a little ball; but to make life work of it, to give all your time and thought to it, to practice it religiously, read and write books about it, discuss it for hours on end—Bunny looked at these fully grown men and women, with their elaborate outfits of "sport clothes," upon themselves, to make themselves believe that they were really enjoying their lives.

OPEN SHOP MINE GIVES MORE PAY TO WORKERS

Miners Are Puzzled by 'Philanthropy'

By ROMA,
Worker Correspondent.

MOUNDSVILLE, W. Va., Oct. 26.—When the coal operators of a non-union mine voluntarily and suddenly increase the wage scale of their employes it certainly gives the poor, underpaid miners food for thought and causes them to arrive at the conclusion that "something must be in the air."

Raise Wages a Third.

Yet that is exactly what occurred in Moundsville at the Panama mine, employing 250 men, owned by the Ben Franklin Coal Co., when notices were posted on the morning of October 22 that the company will adopt the Jacksonville wage agreement, or union contract, on November 1, 1926. The mine will continue to operate on an open-shop basis, but will increase its wage scale 33 1-3 per cent.

According to the company officials, an improvement in the bituminous market conditions has justified the increase.

Miners Wage Fight.

The Panama miners are only one of the local mines which last year waged a valiant but vain struggle against a reduction in the wage scale. During the bituminous coal strike in April, 1926, this region, which has been a typical West Virginia scab hole for some time, joined the ranks of the union miners and struck when an attempt was made to reduce the wages to the 1917 scale. However, after several months, weak support from President Lewis and strong opposition from the courts and the coal operators, together with the coming winter, had their effect, and the miners were forced to return to work under non-union conditions at the 1917 scale.

Other Mines Scab.

There are several mines in this locality, all operated on the non-union basis. However, they do not maintain a uniform wage scale. The Panama mine paid 58 cents per ton for loading, while the rest pay 63 cents per ton. It has not been ascertained as yet whether the remaining mines will proceed to increase their wage scale in line with the Panama mine.

Action is Puzzling.

It is certainly puzzling to many what caused the coal company to increase the wage scale at the Panama mine. It was not mere philanthropy, of course, that it was done, as market conditions justify it are true enough—always were in fact. If that were the only reason the wage scale could be increased to a much greater extent. Perhaps the recent call that was issued for another strike in Morgantown may have had some influence. Perhaps the fact that another bituminous coal strike is anticipated next April had some effect, and the wage scale was raised in anticipation of the future, to keep their slaves scabbing during that period and then cut it again.

At any rate the mine is still left operating on a non-union basis, which means that with no union contract to protect the wage scale the wages may be reduced as suddenly as they were increased.

Cold of Farm Relief Front

(By Worker Correspondent.)

AKRON, O., Oct. 26.—At one of the [illegible] this year [illegible] Sick and [illegible] conference of rubber workers [illegible] gave a talk on the necessity of organization of rubber workers. He pointed out that in addition to the greed of the rubber barons, and stressed the rawhide system and wage cuts.

He pointed out that now is the time for all workers, regardless of race, creed or color to drop their prejudices and to organize into one union, showing the bosses a solid front. He finished up by stressing the point that thru organization, and organization only, can the workers ever expect to get shorter hours and higher wages.

SECOND PRIZE WINNER.

CLOAK MAKERS PLEDGE SUPPORT TO NEW YORKERS

One Thousand Dollars Raised At Once

By GRAY STONE.
(Worker Correspondent.)

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 26.—A conference called by the cloakmakers, Local No. 65, of the I. L. G. W. U. was held Wednesday, October 13, at 224 South Spring street. Twenty-one organizations with 42 delegates responded to the call. Besides the needle trades unions, delegates were present from the carpenters, painters, bakers, Workmen's Circle branches, political parties (working class) and educational groups.

Brother Sacks was elected secretary and Julius Shlamowitz chairman. A committee of fifteen was elected to arrange a big mass meeting and tag day to raise funds.

Will Send $1,000.

Many of the organizations who responded to the call have pledged definite sums of money to be sent thru the conference to the New York strikers. One thousand dollars in cash will be forwarded by the conference to the strikers within the next few days.

The conference is asking all sympathetic organizations to send funds to the secretary of the conference, J. Sacks, 224 South Spring street.

Hyman, New York City: "Please convey to the New York strikers that at conference called by the Los Angeles cloakmakers held Wednesday, October 13, with 21 organizations participating, conference pledges moral and financial support. One thousand dollars to be forwarded at once as immediate help. We are with you in this struggle."

War Invention Used in Arson Plottings Unearthed in Angeles

By a Worker Correspondent.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Oct. 26.—An "arson trust" is said to exist in this city. District Attorney Asa Keyes arrested eight men for being responsible for many fires in the downtown district during the last few months. A total of 178 arson plots have been planned, crime snoopers declared. The loss to insurance companies is said to be between one and three million dollars.

"To publish in detail the method used by the 'fire bugs' would be against public policy," Charles Reimar of the Keyes detective staff declared. But he said that the fires were started by telephone, and that the invention was made during the world war for the purpose of destroying enemy property. Some of the men, at least, are out on from $25,000 to $50,000 bail.

A Climpse Into a Chicago Eating House

By RUFUS P. HEATH
(Worker Correspondent)

We find restaurants in Chicago, as in other principal cities of the nation, which are known to the unfortunate workers who are unemployed as the "greasy spoon." The ones I have in mind are tha property of Gus Collinder. One has three coffee houses in Chicago, 654 W. Madison St., 1149 W. Madison St. and 221 S. Halsted St.

The System.

The food served is the cheapest that the market affords. The meats are fourth grade, "butchered one year." He has the cheapest coffee on the market. The food supplies are bought in large quantities, to get the lowest market rates and delivered as they are needed.

Gus uses a little schema of his own to draw and hold his trade. His drawing cards are, "Blue Valley Butter," "Bowman Dairy Company's Milk," "Livingston's Rye Bread" and "Harding's Corned Beef." From this the workers can patronize the places are led to believe that the food products are all first class.

Gus does not serve short orders such as ham and eggs, steaks and chops. He specializes in steam table products, such as beef stew, spaghetti, salt pork and boiled beans, soup, rice and oatmeal, ham, cheese and corned beef sandwiches, corned beef and cabbage, and coffee and pastries. The food is all cooked in quantity in the kitchen and placed on the steamtable in the dining room, where the waiters dish up their own orders and collect for all orders as they serve. The customers are required to pay before they eat. Thus, they have no chance to eat and walk out without paying. The system also enables Gus to use only one cook where he would need two or three, by serving short orders. It also eliminates the necessity of having a cashier.

The crew consists of one manager, from two to seven waiters, one porter and one dish washer. The wages are from three dollars a day up to $35 a week for waiters. Porters and dishwashers $2.50 a day. The manager will not let the workers know how much they are getting. The waiters, porters, dishwashers all work the 10-hour day, some working the split shift. The crew must all work seven days a week. You are not allowed to take a day off, when you do, you lose the job.

The Anti-Union Schema.

Any employe who mentions the labor movement in any way, is immediately fired and blacklisted. To hold your job, you must play the ponies. While you are playing the ponies, you are not interested in the union or your miserable conditions.

Sanitary and Safety Measures.

There is no effort made to operate the joints in a sanitary manner because they run short handed and the small crews do not have sufficient time to keep the places clean and sanitary. The ice boxes and pie cases are cleaned an average of about once a month. The basement is full of rats.

The water faucets are old and worn out and the water is always scalding hot in the hot water faucet. Every time you turn the hot water on you are likely to be scalded.

The writer washed dishes for Gus for about six months, at 654 W. Madison Street, where I received a severe burn from one of the hot water faucets, which resulted in a blistered hand. I showed the burn to the boss, told him how it happened and asked him why he didn't fix the faucets. I also asked to take the day off to see a doctor and have the burn dressed. Gus does not carry employs accident insurance, as the law requires, and he is too cheap to have the faucets fixed. So he fired me in order to save a doctor's bill.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Oct. 26.—The the wages in the coal industry in the Pittsburgh district are either standing stationary or being pushed down by the employers of coal miners, the coal to the workers in the city is on the increase, and in the last few days the coal has gone up from $4.75 to $6.00 and $6.50 a ton.

The check-up of the local dealers in coal by the newspapers shows that in a few days the bituminous coal dealers will ask as much as $9.50 to $10.00 a ton if not more. H. C. Beyer, vice-president of the Mutual Supply company of Pittsburgh, in a statement to the newspapers explained that these high prices were asked because of the shipping of coal across to England and other countries which have received coal from England before and now because of the general strike they are unable to get coal. The the wages of the city workers are not going up to meet with the high price of coal which now is going on. The local dealers in bituminous coal are having a chance to profiteer galore.

Why don't you write it up?. It may be interesting to other workers.

MANUFACTURERS OF MUSKEGON TO BAR EDDY TALK

Bring Pressure on "Y" Secretary

By a Worker Correspondent

MUSKEGON, Mich., Oct. 26.—Concerted efforts are being made here by the Muskegon Employers association, not as an official body but more insidiously, to prevent the visit to this city of G. Sharwood Eddy under the auspices of the local Y. M. C. A. on Nov. 2 and 3.

Activities of Mr Eddy, international secretary for Asia of the Young Men's Christian Association, since his return from a recent visit to Soviet Russia and his admitted favoring of the recognition of Russia by the United States government are causing the opposition on the part of the local manufacturers who are too crafty to take any official action as a body.

Attempt Crops Out.

Opposition to Mr. Eddy's visit to Muskegon cropped out Friday in a noon luncheon meeting of local business men when one of the group attempted to get the organization to express their disapproval of the visit of the friend of Russia in a resolution to be sent to the Y. M. C. A.

Secretary Leland S. Westerman, head of the local Y. M. C. A. organization who, with the president, Archie E. McCrea and the members of the board of directors, has approved of Eddy's coming and arranged a full schedule of seven public meetings for Nov. 2 and 3, was called yesterday to the office of Walter Poole, secretary of the Muskegon Employers' association.

"Y" Man on Carpet.

What the exact details of that conference were would not be revealed either by Secretary Westerman or Secretary Poole but inquiries about the visit of Eddy and the program were answered reluctantly by the Y. M. C. A. secretary who requested that nothing be published about the proposed assemblies at the Muskegon and Muskegon Heights high schools where plans have been made for Eddy to address more than 2,000 young people.

Linked with Detroit.

The local opposition on the part of the employers is linked up directly with that on the part of the manufacturers of Detroit to prevent President William Green of the American Federation of Labor from speaking in Detroit churches where it had been arranged for him to appear.

The speaking engagements arranged for President Green by the Detroit Y. M. C. A. as was customary in cities where the annual convention of the organized workers is held, were cancelled after pressure was brought to bear by the capitalists.

Local manufacturers are attempting to duplicate this kind of pressure to bear in Muskegon to cancel Sherwood Eddy's visit here. The local Y. M. C. A. has just started on a new $400,000 building program here, the money for which was pledged more than a year ago.

That threats of the non-payment of large pledges which are necessary to complete that building may have been used by Secretary Poole of the Employers' association yesterday in his conference with Secretary Westerman was possible for Westerman was fearing for the safety of his building project yesterday following the interview.

This action on the part of the employers shows that Muskegon as with practically all of the industrial cities of Michigan, is almost completely in the clutches of the manufacturers who are do anything to maintain their control here. They have just elected eight of fifteen members of the board of directors of the Greater Muskegon Chamber of Commerce and one of the remaining minority of seven is a banker.

Coal Company Raises Rent on Old Shacks

By a Worker Correspondent.

SCRANTON, Pa., Oct. 26. — Rents for Lehigh Valley Coal Co. houses for its miners have been raised on Red Row from $6 to $10 a month. Twenty workers' families are affected. The company claims to have kept the $6 rate for 20 years.

Rumors are going around that the coal company intends to get rid of their real estate in the Dupont borough, because of increased taxation, and are trying to show the burden of these old houses on present occupants by offering them first chance to buy.

CATHOLICS SEE 'GOOD' IN WORK OF EVANGELIST

Recognize Power to Split Churches

By L. P. RINDAL,
Worker Correspondent.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 26.—It was stated recently that Aimee Semple McPharson has appealed to the K. K. K. for support. True. But it is also true that the forces of the pope are playing, more or less, a game of neutrality concerning the Angeles temple leader. Why? Because the catholics are afraid of protestant unity. Aimee is the splitting wedge which fits the formula. "Divide and rule."

Protestants Fight Her.

Rev. R. P. (Bob) Shuler, pastor of Trinity Methodist Church, author of "McPherson" and member of the executive committee of the church federation, has at least enemy of the hallelujah actress—not the "children" of the pope of Roma. Catholics have sent "Fighting Bob" many threatening letters.

The evangelist is a good mixer. Her glory is money, power and pleasure. Sha does not care whether it comes thru a flirtation with "Ormie," Jesus, the pope or the knights of the night shirt. And she gets the "dough," too, from millionaires to poor cripples.

Gypsies spent a fortune on her temple. But since she made gypsies out of "Rose" and "Steve" in her "kidnapping" story, not many favors will come from that illustrious tribe.

la Verastile.

Besides the regulation uniform of the "temple," this "meek" follower of the lowly Christ dresses up in aviation costume, as honorary fire chief, or as an honorary member of the Los Angeles traffic squad.

Aimee is a member of the chamber of commerce and a politician, reactionary today and liberal tomorrow, as both factions are after the temple's hallelujah votes. Thru Mayor Cryar and three judges, Keetch, Hady and Oatee, the temple leader has, in the past, controlled the actions of the superior coort, the grand jury and the police.

District Attorney Keyes knew months ago that Aimee was a faker, but refused to act until pressed hard. Had to save himself. The recent arrest of all the supervisors, three other high county officials, the chief of detectives and the prosecutor himself, explains a great many rottan social conditions.

Stereotypers Gain 25c a Day

The composing rooms of the 4 newspapers are still nonunion with a nonunion pressroom in the Times-Picayune, one of the largest papers in the south.

L. A. Capmakers Hold Strength in Sixth Week of Struggle

(By Worker Correspondent)

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Oct. 26.—This is the sixth week since the Capmakers in one of the largest clothing shops in Los Angeles went out for recognition of their union. The Chicago Cap Manufacturing Company, 239 South Los Angeles St. is known as one of the bitterest enemies of the needle trades unions. The above place is the only shop that pays strike as low as nine dolalrs a week, where as the union scale provides strikedollars the first week and an increase every week till it reaches the minimum of twenty-five dollars. This wage is for lining makers and stitchers only.

The strike is being led by a strike committee which reports very enthusiastic response of the union. 95 per cent of the strikers having joined the union. There has been mass picketing every morning and evening.

The Red Squad has been on guard ever since the strike began and has made seven arrests, the charges in each case never been pressed. The industry is organized 85 per cent and there is every sign that the strikers will win their demands. The union manager who number over 100, have taken themselves to help their striking brothers. The International has endorsed the strike.

PORT NEWARK, N. J.—(FP)—One hundred workers employed in the construction of Wyerhaeuser Timber Co. plant are striking with the support of the New Jersey state federation of labor because the contractor is not paying the prevailing union scale of wages throughout.

Debs And The Russian Revolution

The right wing socialist politicians who are now trying to cash in on the splendid revolutionary record of Eugene V. Debs will leave no stone unturned to make it appear that the great rebel's attitude towards Soviet Russia was on a par with their own, that is, one of hostility.

But Debs's love for the Russian revolution burned with a steady glow and he rarely ever took the platform that he did not use the opportunity to say a word in favor of the greatest revolution in human history.

Contrast the following inspiring tribute to the Russian revolution with the sickening cant indulged in by those who assail the workers' republic in one breath and pretend to honor Debs in the next:

"The Russian Revolution is without precedent or a parallel in history. Monumental in its glory, it stands alone. Behold its sublime majesty, catch its holy spirit and join its thrilling, inspiring appeal to the oppressed of every land to rise in their might, shake off their fetters and proclaim their freedom to the world! Russia, domain of darkness impenetrable, transformed in a flash into a land of living light! Russia, the goddess of freedom incarnate, issuing her defiant challenge to the despotism of the world!

"The heart of Russia in this hour of her glorious resurrection is the heart of humanity: the soul of her triumphant revolution is the soul of a new-born world. Verily, the last are now first, and the world's most pitilessly plundered and shamelessly exiled have become the world's revolutionary redeemers and supreme liberators . . .

"The Bolshevikl demanded nothing for themselves they did not demand in the same absolute spirit for the proletariat of all the world, and if history records the failure of their cause it will be to the eternal shame of those for whom these heroes offered up their lives and who suffered them to perish for the lack of sympathy and support . . .

"All the forces of the world's reaction, all its dynasties and despotism, all its monarchies and imperialism, all its ruling and exploiting classes, and their politicians, priests, professors and parasites of every breed—all these are pitted openly or covertly against the Russian Revolution and conspiring together for the overthrow of the victorious Russian proletariat and the destruction of the new-born democracy. But, whatever may be the fate of the revolution, its flaming soul is immortal and will flood the world with light and liberty and love."

Silent Cal Talks

Calvin Coolidge, who got into the White House thru the grace of poisoned crabmeat and a broken policemen's strike, has issued a call to the voters of Massachusetts urging them to re-elect William M. Butler, mill magnate and republican, to the United States senate.

Senator Butler is as reactionary a flunkey of capitalism as ever stood on the floor of the senate. He has no other virtue to recommend him. Butler is one of the chief cogs in the political machinery of Massachusetts and shares a heavy part of the responsibility for keeping the two Italian workers, Sacco and Vanzetti, in jail.

In Butler's textile mills the spy and the agent provocateur reign supreme. Butler hates unionism bitterly and his slaves are among the lowest paid in the textile industry.

It is not surprising that Coolidge should single out Butler for special favor. In all probability Coolidge's endorsement will not help Butler bring home the bacon. If Coolidge is taken seriously anywhere except in Wall Street, the proof is yet on the way.

The workers of Massachusetts should express their hostility to the system that Butler and Coolidge represent by casting their votes on election day for the candidates running on the ticket of the Workers (Communist) Party. There is little to choose between the mill magnate Butler and David I. Walsh, corporation lawyer, reactionary and agent of the Roman church. Both stand for the same system, the robber system. Only the Communist candidates deserve the support of all workers.

Magill Caught in Wall Street's Net

G. Shedd estate, part of the Marshall Field interests that first launched the "open shop" war on a large scale against the workers in Chicago thru support given the Pullman strike in 1893. In fact, Marshall Field, The First, and not George M. Pullman, is credited with being the real initiator of this attack on the railroad workers.

"The golden circle among the democratic and republican candidates is therefore complete. It being shown that Insull financed George Brennan, the democratic candidate, as well as Smith, the republican.

"The proposed merger of these two giant mail order houses will effect a saving of from $10,000,000 to $15,000,000 in operating expenses alone. It is pointed out that one big saving will be made in eliminating the duplication of catalogues, for the publication of which from $18,000,000 to $20,000,000 is now being spent. No mention is made of raising the starvation wages of the mail order slaves, using part of the savings for this purpose. Roosevelt's senatorial candidate, Magill, has said nothing during his campaign of the intolerable conditions inflicted upon the youth workers in the "Sears" plant, which are duplicated at the so-called "Monkey" Ward slave pens, and in the Woolworth and Retail stores of the Marshall Field estate, in which the estate of John G. Shedd shares.

"Magill is as much the candidate of the great capitalists, and labor elements in Illinois, as either Brennan, Smith or George Brennan. Magill in the United States senate will be under the thumb of the same Morgan interests that organized the United States Steel Corporation and the General Motors Corporation, the auto trust, in addition to myriads of other great financial ventures. Its latest being this frustification of the mail order business, that pays the lowest wages to the workers producing what it sells, and demanding the highest possible prices from the farmers who are their most numerous patrons. It is thru this robbery of both the workers and farmers, that will now be capitalized at $230,000,000 with an annual business of $450,000,000, that Julius Rosenwald has been able to build up a personal fortune of $164,000,000 in this business alone.

"These facts should interest, not only the workers and farmers of Illinois, but of the whole United States."

Schneid, of A. C. W. of A., Will Also Speak at Debs Memorial Meet Here Saturday

Hyman Schneid, general organizer of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America and well-known in the Chicago labor movement, is announced as another of the speakers who will appear at the Debs Memorial meeting to be held Saturday, October 30, at 8 p. m., at the Temple Hall, Marshfield and Van Buren streets.

Together with Schneid, will speak James P. Cannon, secretary of the International Labor Defense; Ralph Chaplin, the well-known I. W. W. poet and ex-class war prisoner; Carl Haessler, who served a term in Leavenworth and is now editor of the Federated Press, and others.

U. S. Delivers ULTIMATUM TO NICARAGUANS

Nobody Else Permitted in Central America

CORINTO, Nicaragua, Oct. 26.—Refusing to accept the dictation of United States imperialism, which had beguiled them into a so-called "peace conference" on board the U. S. cruiser Denver, the delegates representing the liberal revolutionary party quit the conference when their demand that Senor Sacasa be named provisional president was refused, and declared they would renew the armed struggle against President Chamorro, a tool of Wall Street.

Deceived by U. S.

The liberals were deep by resentful of the deceitful part played by the United States charge d'affairs, Lawrence Dennis, who practically deliv-ered the liberals an ultimatum of further Yankee intervention to support the conservative party, headed by Chamorro.

Chamorro was never elected president of Nicaragua, but seized power by force, with the aid of Yankee interests. The U. S., because it has a treaty it cannot ignore with other Latin countries, not to recognize governments so seized, has been unable to recognise Chamorro's administration, but has done everything possible to keep him in power.

U. S. Aids Dictator.

When the liberal revolution occurred, the U. S. permitted arms to be shipped in plain violation of its own laws and the formal decree of President Coolidge, to aid Chamorro. When his forces were about to be decisively whipped, the U. S. interfered in two ways.

(1) It wheedled the revolutionists into entering a peace conference in order to force them into agreeing to replacing Chamorro with one of his lieutenants, Adolfo Diaz.

(2) It landed armed forces in violation of international law and simply took over the territory between the two armed forces, thus checking the advance of the revolution.

U. S. Bosses the Conference.

At the "peace conference," which was held on board a U. S. war vessel the U. S. charge d'affairs, Lawrence Dennis, delivered an ultimatum to the liberals that they must accept Adolfo Diaz to take his place, meanwhile resuming the war against the liberal of the election. If they did not accept he threatened U. S. invasion of the country.

An Ultimatum.

In addition, Dennis read a message from Frank B. Kellogg, U. S. secretary of state sent to the U. S. minister in Guatemala, instructing him to see Senor Sacasa, liberal leader, and tell him the U. S. "does not approve Mexican aid being given to the liberals and that the U. S. government is determined to stop any outside interference (!) in Central America."

Following the bolt of the liberal delegates, it is announced that Chamorro will "resign" and appoint Adolfo Diaz to take his place, meanwhile resuming the war against the liberal troops.

A Fake Election.

Dennis, therefore assured the Chamorro clique that the United States will recognize the administration which wins in the elections, thus controlled by Chamorro with the full support of the U. S. armed forces.

Chicago Committee for N. Y. Strike Aid Discusses Drive Plan

Tentative arrangements were made for a tag day and concert, but nothing definite was acted upon.

Marine Stationed Here for Guarding of U. S. Mail Trains

One hundred and thirty U. S. marines have been stationed in Chicago for the purpose, it is announced, of guarding the mails. The detachment has already assumed its duties here and will continue until special detachment is sent here from Washington.

This is part of the national program instituted by President Coolidge for protection of the mails.

World Trade Union Unity vs. Capitalist Unity

"The United States of Europe"—The Policy of the International Federation of Trade Unions—Its United Front With the Capitalists and Their Governments—The Coming Era of Competition—The Real Motive Behind Drive for European Unity—The Working-class Faces New Dangers—The Threat to the Soviet Union—American Participation—Bringing the Issue Home to the American Labor Movement

By WILLIAM F. DUNNE.

THE International Federation of Trade Unions (Amsterdam) is worried by the new development towards elimination of trade barriers and the organization of great industrial combinations in Europe.

It expresses the fear, in a statement issued recently, that these new combinations in industry will lead to new "balance of power" arrangements in international politics. In this view it is entirely correct but the remedy it proposes is of so childish a character, reflecting the essentially middle class-reformist attitude of the leadership, that one can scarcely understand how, in this period of world relations, any sane labor officialdom could seriously propose such a policy.

THE statement, after mentioning the gigantic combinations, embracing powerful capitalists of various nations, that are being formed with dizzy speed, says:

"Even if these giant rings should temporarily affect the stabilization of wages in some industries, this would not mean the rational organization of the whole of production, bringing with it the general improvement of wages and working conditions which labor demands and is advocating in its program for the World Economic Conference. In this program the labor group demands that industrial rings SHALL BE CONTROLLED BY THE COMBINED ACTION OF GOVERNMENTS, CONSUMERS' AND LABOR ORGANIZATIONS, THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS AND THE INTERNATIONAL LABOR OFFICE. (Emphasis mine.)

WHAT the I. F. T. U. leadership proposes is simply an appeal from Peter drunk to Peter sober or vice versa.

Capitalist governments compose the league of nations, it is in addition in the hands of the most powerful national capitalist groups, and is their instrument. The International Labor Office is a creature of the league of nations. All the I. F. T. U. leaders are asking is an opportunity to be present when their masters make decisions. In other words they want to give some labor color to a robber's scheme and further confuse the European masses.

ANOTHER feature of the statement is its complete failure to point out that the "Pan Europa" which it claims to see developing has as its major objective the organization of capitalist Europe for another offensive against the Soviet Union.

The capitalists of Europe are faced by four dangers.

One, the constantly increasing competition of the highly organized and healthy American industry.

Two, the economic and political rivalries between nations and groups of nations which threatens the very life of European industry and compels enormous expenditures for armaments.

Three, the growing disillusionment, discontent and power of the European workingclass.

Four, the increasing stability, power and influence of the Soviet Union in Europe and Asia.

IT is in an attempt to solve all four of these problems that the tendency towards a closer grouping of the European capitalist states has developed. As workingclass leadership which does not understand that a united front with the capitalists, such as the Amsterdam officialdom proposes, means nothing else than participation in a life-saving expedition for European capitalism, or understanding this and still advocating such a policy, as the Amsterdam leaders are undoubtedly do, is urging the labor movement to weld chains on its own wrists and dig its own grave.

"The United States of Europe," or "Pan-Europa" as Amsterdam puts it, is a purely capitalist slogan. That the Amsterdam international can put forward such a slogan without even mentioning the need for world trade unity—to say nothing of urging an immediate conference for the purpose of bringing it about—is proof of the suspicions long entertained by class-conscious workers that the I. F. T. U. leadership is nothing but an organized agency of capitalism in the ranks of the labor movement.

THE statement of the I. F. T. U. on the British coal strike in connection with the rest of its statement on "Pan-Europa" affords the strongest possible corroboration of the "business unionism" in co-operation with capitalists and capitalist governments which compose so large a part of the stock-in-trade of Amsterdam official dom. I quote:

International labor would not wish to see Britain shut out of a United States of Europe, but the British employers in the present coal struggle are showing very plainly how far they are from grasping even the elementary principles which underlie the idea of a Pan-Europa. In the British coal industry, at least, THE WORKERS HAVE PROVED THAT THEY ARE WILLING AND EAGER TO DO THEIR PART IN MAKING EUROPE AN EFFECTIVE UNIT FROM THE POINT OF VIEW OF WORLD COMPETITION, WHILE THE EMPLOYERS PREFER TO RUIN THEIR COUNTRY AND WEAKEN EUROPE IN THE COAL MARKETS OF THE WORLD rather than give up their primitive ways of doing business and their fixed idea of breaking trade union resistance. (Emphasis mine.)

THE chance nature of the sentiments emphasised above becomes apparent at once when we understand that the I. F. T. U. leaders are referring, NOT to the magnificent solidarity of the general strike, or to the heroic struggle of the coal miners, but to the calling off of the general strike, the desertion of the miners and the concessions offered to the government and the coal capitalists by the reactionary British leaders such as an acceptance of a reduction in wages and the denial of any lack of loyalty to the British constitution.

On the other hand, the I. F. T. U. leaders are blaming the ruin the coal barons are doing to their country and Europe by losing coal markets rather than on the war the coal barons and the whole British capitalist apparatus is making on the miners and the entire workingclass.

ALL of the above points to the inevitable conclusion that European capitalism is finding ready and willing tools in the Amsterdam leaders for its scheme of halting the collapse of its system at the expense of the workingclass.

It is little wonder that the agent of American imperialism in the leading strata of the trade unions is able to find a common ground with such an element and are affiliating to various sections of the Amsterdam International.

WHEN each open unity with capitalists and their governments is advocated by a leadership of a trade union international which claims to speak for the majority of the European workers, the necessity of renewed and more intense struggle for world trade union unity is obvious to any intelligent worker.

Trade union unity on the basis of a struggle against a further forcing down of the living standard of the workers, against the new wars which will arise out of the insoluble conflicts of European and world capitalism, against the new offensive against the workers' and peasants' government of the Soviet Union, these are the burning issues not only for the European labor movement but for America as well.

The unity of the workingclass in the struggle against its pressing dangers under the central slogan of "The United States of Socialist Europe" raised by the Communist International and "World Trade Union Unity," the rallying cry of the Red International of Labor Unions, must be achieved if the standard of living of the world's workingclass is not to be beaten down to new low levels in a new struggle for the dwindling capitalist markets if a new world war is not to take toll of millions from the ranks of the workers and reconstruction of industry on a socialist basis in the Soviet Union baired by the necessity of defense against the drive the imperialists are preparing.

"World Trade Union Unity" is a slogan for the American working class.

The manifesto signed by J. P. Morgan and other powerful finance capitalists brings this issue home to us.

MAY RE-ELECT OBREGON UNDER NEW AMENDMENT

(Special to The Daily Worker)

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 26.—Most of the legislatures of the 28 states of Mexico have telegraphed to the capital approving of the constitutional amendment allowing a second term and president which has been cut of office for four or more years.

This will allow for the legal candidacy of General Alvaro Obregon in the next election. The senate has yet to pass it, the lower house having acted almost unanimously in favor last week.

A triumphal celebration has been arranged for Obregon when he arrives in Mexico City, where it is rumored he is to assume the post of minister of war in the Calles cabinet, allowing General Amaro, present minister, to conduct the campaign against the Yaqui rebels.

An encircling movement is reported begun against the Yaquis from the south and northwest.

SO far the Chicago police have not been able to apprehend the killers of Hymie Weiss, bootlegger and gangster, who was shot down in front of a cathedral a few weeks ago. It is generally believed in this city that Scarface Al Capone was the perpetrator, but instead of getting after Al, the police are trying to fasten the crime on two of Weiss' companions. Next thing you know they will have Weiss' body exhumed and have a suicide charge preferred against him. A wise gangster does not ignore the ballot, while cherishing the bullet!

Must Get $15,000 by Election Day To Keep The DAILY WORKER

BY JAY LOVESTONE.

In the last few days the funds to Keep The DAILY WORKER alive have been coming in as rapidly as previously. We are not speaking of the fact that the funds haven't been coming in on the minimum necessary rate to Keep The DAILY WORKER.

Of course, we understand that the same breakneck pace in raising funds cannot be maintained all the time but we must emphasize the fact that we cannot afford to slow down in our efforts. The whole campaign has been planned with the idea of getting maximum results in the shortest possible time. This means that we can afford no postponement, no delay, no hesitation in mobilizing all possible resources and energies to Keep The DAILY WORKER.

Chicago is approaching the $3,000 mark in its collections. New York has collected about $2,500. Philadelphia is rapidly approaching the $1,000 line. California and Boston have to date sent in about $700 each. Detroit has outstripped Philadelphia in the rate of getting funds. Detroit has already collected about 45 per cent of its full quota. This is doing very well. In this respect, Detroit is at present the banner district. New York will have to do some tall hustling to catch up, for at present it has collected only about 16 per cent of its quota of $18,000.

All in all, we have collected to date from eleven to twelve thousand dollars. This means that we have up to October 30, collected 32 per cent of the total of $30,000 which we must have within the next few weeks in order to Keep The DAILY WORKER.

Not every member of the Workers (Communist) Party has yet sent in his minimum $5 contribution. If we succeed in carrying thru only this phase of our plan, then we will have much more than $30,000 collected.

Surely, it is true that not all of us have to date united and solicited the various labor organizations in behalf of Keep The DAILY WORKER Campaign.

There are many local unions thruout the country that are ready to give substantial financial support to The DAILY WORKER. Trade organizations must be approached. It is up to the friends and supporters of The DAILY WORKER to put the case and the needs of the only militant, English, labor daily in the United States before these proletarian organizations.

Our minimum possible budget requires that we have at least $18,000 collected in the campaign by election day. This is not asking too much. There have been days in the campaign which show that the army of DAILY WORKER builders can do better than even this. We have had days on which $2,000 came in. We have had days in which at least $1,000 came to the fund. These were not accidental. These were simply results of organization in the campaign. Such days can be repeated. Such banner days must be repeated with increasing frequency. Otherwise, the campaign will collapse. The collapse of the campaign can mean only the collapse of The DAILY WORKER.

When we speak of the collapse of The DAILY WORKER we are not speculating. There is nothing abstract or pessimistic about our calculations. We have to face the hard facts of the difficult situation. It costs quite some money to run any paper, especially a labor paper and particularly a workers' paper fearlessly defending the interests of the workers as a class.

That means that if you mean business, you must Keep The DAILY WORKER going.

Just now there is one way to Keep The DAILY WORKER. This way is to give, give generously and quickly. Get your local union, get whatever labor organization of which you are a member to fall in line and carry us over the top to Keep The DAILY WORKER.

SIX Chinese provinces are now in the hands of the Cantonese, according to reports appearing in the capitalist press. Only a few short months ago the same papers gleefully admitted that the Cantonese were licked. So it is not safe to believe everything you read in the capitalist press. Except when they admit something in favor of an enemy. We also learn that the Cantonese are playing more havoc with propaganda than with arms. But the best propaganda is the conduct of the Cantonese troops, which compares so favorably with that of the armies of Wu-Pei-Fu and Chang-Tso-Lin that the people who have experienced both do not stop to ask any more questions.

THE territory now occupied by the Cantonese covers over 600,000 square miles and has a population of 179,000,000. The Cantonese troops do not make a point of raping and robbing the population as do the armies of the imperialist tuchuns. So that their conduct is even more convincing than their propaganda. Of course the imperialist press is very sorry that the Cantonese are winning, even tho they have to admit that the Chinese masses are not. And they have to admit that Soviet Russia is friendly to the Cantonese.

THE Cantonese stand for the unity of China. Their program calls for free organizational expression of the needs of the workers and peasants of China. Where Wu-Pei-Fu and Chang-Tso-Lin use the gallows, the Cantonese come with a helping hand. "China for the Chinese!" is their slogan. And the Chinese mean the Chinese masses, not those lickspittles who are in the pay of the foreign imperialists and are living in luxury at the expense of the people.

WIDE AWAKE labor fakers are having their open political season right now. Locals are endorsing one or the other of the capitalist candidates. We have seen a letter from the secretary of the Milk Wagon Drivers' Union urging the local members to support Charles Barrett of the Cross-Barrett faction of the G. O. P. for office. In all probability this labor leader did not consult his membership. And if he did the members would not care. They are concerned with the payments on the piano, the flivver or the cottage. But the time will arrive in America when the rank and file of the labor unions will have to bother about their economic interests on the political and industrial fields.

THE Y. M. C. A. is not at all sorry that its Moscow representative was expelled. The report of Sherwood Eddy lost many thousands of good dollars in contributions to the "Y." Eddy's speech at the A. F. of L. convention meant the loss of many more thousands. Now the "Y" can go on the big butter and egg men and say that the expulsion of its man Anderson by the Soviet authorities is proof sufficient that the organization is on the right path.

BILL HAYWOOD SENDS MESSAGE OF RESPECT TO GENE DEBS' MEMORY

William D. Haywood, famous American working class leader now in Moscow, sent the following cable to The DAILY WORKER in memory of Eugene V. Debs:

"My respects to the memory of an old fellow fighter in the class struggle. Thru the revolutionary workers (Communist) Party and the proletarian dictatorship alone can the dream of Debs be realized.

QUAKE VICTIMS FACE WINTER IN THE OPEN FIELDS

Homeless Thousands of Leninkan Suffer

BULLETIN.

MOSCOW, Oct. 27.—Soviet officials and near east relief workers at Leningrad were still toiling today to save victims of the recent Armanian earthquakes. Official reports reveal that the catastrophe was worse than the first estimates and it is now stated that there are 365 identified dead and 8,000 homeless and the damage amounts to more than $100,000,000.

The succeeding earthquakes over a period of four hours drove many into a frenzy of fear that has resulted in madness. Twenty persons are reported to have died of heart failure.

Population Homeless.

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—The entire population of Leninakan is sleeping in the fields and relief measures are urgently necessary in order to prevent widespread suffering in earthquake stricken Armenia, according to a cable received by the Near East relief from Dr. Joseph Beach, director general of the Near East relief in Armenia.

Dr. Beach said that unless the Armenian refugees are housed by early November there will be many deaths from exposure.

The walled city of Kars is reported to have suffered heavy damage and the rural districts continue to report casualties in increasing numbers.

"In the Leninakan district 12 villages were totally destroyed and 22 were partially destroyed," the cable said. "In the city of Leninakan 600 houses were completely destroyed.

"American workers have visited six villages in which not a single house remains habitable. In four of these villages there were 153 dead and 188 injured. All of the peasants' possessions and food supplies were buried under tons of debris from the collapsed houses. There were also heavy casualties among their livestock.

"The dead and injured in the villages include many Near East relief orphans who had been placed in native families under American supervision.

"In the same four villages, 5,560 inhabitants are now camping on the bleak hillsides, anxiously watching the skies for the first winter's snow, which is due within a week. The villagers are without bedding or sufficient clothing.

Tariff Manifesto Only Applies to European Countries Says Sec'y.

The tariff manifesto urging a break down of the barriers between countries, made last week by International bankers, applies only to European countries and not the United States, Barpard B. Winston, under secretary of the treasury told the Institute of American Packers here yesterday.

The differences in money, language and present difficulty of commerce in Europe because of the national "walls" each has built around itself strangles trade, he said. It was only these "walls" the bankers were seeking to remove when the manifesto was issued, he believed.

Passenger Agent Killed.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Oct. 27.—Charles Hoffmeister, 41, passenger agent of the Chicago Northwestern Railroad, was killed yesterday when an automobile in which he was riding collided with a truck west of Pewaukee, Wis. James Higgins, theatre manager here, suffered several fractured ribs and one of his lungs is punctured.

THREE MINERS KILLED AT WORK; TWO IN ONE PIT, ONE IN ANOTHER

SHAMOKIN, Pa., Oct. 27.—Two miners were suffocated when caught in a rush of coal at Scott colliery here. They were cutting a hole in the top to place a prop when the coal rush buried them.

MAYFIELD, Pa., Oct. 27.—One miner, John Banzer, was killed and three others seriously injured in the Powderly mine of the Hudson Coal Company at Mayfield when caught by a fall of roofing. According to the hospital reports, the three injured will recover.

REED DECIDES TO REOPEN K. K. K. INDIANA QUIZ

Watson's Evasions Got Missourian's Goat

(Special to The Daily Worker)

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 27—Senator James A. Reed, chairman and only working member of the senate slush investigation committee, worked up considerable democratic indignation over the denial of Senator Watson, republican, of Indiana, of the story that he sat in at a K. K. K. meeting in Washington at which political questions were discussed and decided insofar as the klan had the power of decision.

Reed is convinced that Watson was present at the meeting and this gives him ground, not only for indignation but it also provides him with an excuse to reopen the quiz into the doings of the Indiana politicians.

Reed Incensed.

The Missouri senator was somewhat incensed at the statement attributed to Watson that tho he was willing to give Reed any kind of an affidavit he was not going "to rush out and hunt him up and stick it under his nose." Later Watson denied that he made such a statement.

The grand jury investigation that is alleged to be investigating K. K. K. irregularities seems to be under klan and republican control. As a counter move to the Reed investigation, Judge James Collins, the presiding officer, urged the jurors to trace klan efforts to control the democratic party.

Plenty of Slush.

SEATTLE, Oct. 27.—The state of Washington secretarial slush fund investigation had been terminated today, the probe lasting but three days. Immediately after the investigation was adjourned, Senator McNary explained for Portland, where the Oregon slush fund is slated for an investigation.

McNary would not make any comment other than to say, "we have heard all the evidence obtainable, and the public can now draw its own conclusions."

PRESIDENT GREEN OF A. F. OF L. CHAMPIONS "STRONG U. S. NAVY"

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—"The American Federation of Labor favors a strong navy as an instrument to promote the peace of the world," William L. Green, president of this big labor organization, declared in a speech before 4,000 persons in Brooklyn navy yard today.

Green drove the first rivet in the keel plate of the light cruiser Pensacola as part of the national celebration of "Navy Day."

BIRKENHEAD IS AGITATING FOR SOVIET RUPTURE

South African Premier Is Making Trouble

(Special to The Daily Worker)

LONDON, Oct. 27.—Lord Birkenhead continues his efforts to make opposition to the Soviet Union the main subject of discussion at the empire conference. He has already organized his caucus and is said to have secured the support of Australia, Newfoundland and a Hindoo prince who does not even represent India officially.

However, the cabinet is for going slow as the empire has enough trouble on her hands now without borrowing more from the Soviet Union who is credited with being able to make trouble in proportion to her size, as likes nothing better than to bedevil John Bull's sleeping hours.

General Hertzog, of South Africa, is said to be a disturbing factor in the conference. The old Boer leader is bristling with independence and never misses an opportunity to talk, inside or outside the conference. For a secret conference a considerable amount of information is leaking out and it is said that Scotland Yard is at its wit's end to plug the hole.

Reports and Rumors.

McKenzie King, Canadian liberal premier, is reported to have deserted Hertzog, and it is said that the Free State representatives will remain neutral. How much credence can be given to those reports is a question. The committees of King and the Irish delegates are both anti-British and the political lives of both politicians will be made more or less miserable for them should they participate

PASSAIC COPS TRY CLUBS ON CIGAR WORKERS

Boss and Police Chief Start Terrorism

(Special to The Daily Worker)

PASSAIC, N. J., Oct. 27.—In protest against the failure of their employers to live up to an agreement, the workers of the E. M. Klein Cigar Factory, 230 Second street, are out on strike.

The cigar strikers had their first experience the next morning with the local boss-serving police Cossacks, whose brutal tactics in connection with the big strike of textile workers in this city have made them notorious thruout the world.

Upon the appearance of a picket line, the boss summoned Chief Zober into his presence. Shortly after Zober had been closeted with the boss, he gave orders to his police to break up the picket line, which was done with their customary violence. Whereupon Zober, constituting himself the official strikebreaker of this region, ordered the strikers to appear at his office to meet their employers. This, the strikers refused to do.

Their leaders issued a statement scoring the malicious propaganda of the bosses and declaring that "all the false statements that have been given out by the bosses will not bring the workers back to work, but we stand willing to return to work on the basis of the agreement, as promised by the firm. Our cause is a just one, and what we have done is the only honorable means left us by the agreement-violating bosses. We mean to stand firm, and keep up our picket lines and no intimidation can stop us."

SOVIET UNION COMMUNIST PARTY OPENS 15TH PARTY CONFERENCE

By JOHN PEPPER.

(Special Cable to The Daily Worker.)

MOSCOW, Oct. 27.—The Fifteenth Conference of the Communist Party of the Union of Soviet Republics opened yesterday at Andrew's Hall in the big Kremlin palace, which was filled to capacity. There were present 817 delegates, with 194 decisive and 634 consultative votes, the latter including 38 representatives of sections of the Communist International.

After standing in honor to the memory of Comrade Dzerjinsky, the conference unanimously chose a presidium of 37 members, including Comrades Stalin, Bukharin, Molotoff, Temsky, Kalinin, Voroshiloff, and Kurbysheff.

Bukharin Sees Stabilization.

Bukharin met a tremendous ovation when he reported on the international situation. In the beginning of his report on the question of the stabilization of capitalism, Bukharin dwelt on three signs of this stabilization: the growth in world production of pig-iron and steel, the restoration of the world foreign trade turnover, the improvement of the currencies of the various countries.

THRU an analysis of the pertinent statistics Bukharin showed that capitalism is nearing the end of the restoration period. Another typical feature of stabilization, he pointed out, is a certain overproduction, finding expression on the one hand, in an energetic search for markets and on the other hand in rationalization. As a definite success of capitalism we must also consider the concentration of capital as seen in the growth of trustification whereof the newly organized Continental Steel Trust is a striking example.

Bukharin further pointed out that the events in China confirm Lenin's observation at the Second Congress of the Communist International regarding the possibility of a peculiarly rapid development of the oriental countries. The abnormal burden of taxation aggravated by economic and political oppression on the part of foreign imperialists is leading to the pauperization of huge masses of Chinese people and is driving them towards the revolutionary struggle. The prospects of the Chinese revolution are at present the most favorable.

Following up his analysis, the reporter refutes the social-democratic theory on a supposedly new phase or era of capitalist development. He presented an estimate of the present German imperialism and pointed out the next tasks of the German Communist Party and the Comintern. He touched upon several questions in reference to the international situation of the U. S. S. R.

Before the close of today's session there was read the address of the German Communist Party bringing up some details of the common factional work of the leaders of the opposition within the Communist Party of the Soviet Union and of the ultra-left elements of the German party. The address recorded satisfaction at the victory of Leninism over the opposition.

WHITE STUDENTS FIGHT ACTION OF N. Y. SCHOOL BOARD ON NEGRO TEACHER

(Special to The Daily Worker)

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—Students at the New York evening high school have vigorously protested the action of the board of education in transferring J. Juggins, Negro teacher, from that school to Jamaica.

The students, most of them white, feel that Huggins was transferred because of his race, and that the board felt he would resign if placed at Jamaica school.

Huggins is a graduate of Columbia and Oxford and is now studying for his doctor of philosophy degree at Fordham University. He teaches civics and modern European and American history.

The student committee in charge of the protest includes Irving Wagner, Max Hoffanbach, A. Lashner and Sol Birts.

INJUNCTION AND FRAME-UP MARK FRISCO STRIKE

Carpenters Objects of Boss Conspiracy

(Special to The Daily Worker)

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 27.—The injunction was the latest weapon to be brought into play against the carpenters' strike in progress here.

Following the arrest of ten men, eight of them charged with murder, Superior Judge Walter Hersinger issued an injunction restraining union officials and members from "interfering with building operations" going on here under the American plan.

New Frame-Up.

Archibald Mooney, pacific coast organizer of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America, Paul Clifford, business agent of Carpenters' Local 483, and six others have been held without bail on murder charges.

The men were arrested following the death of an open-shop carpenter here several days ago.

A full day's wages for immediate relief of the New York garment workers in their present strike was voted, practically unanimously, Tuesday night by members of all of the Chicago locals of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union. ## GERMAN PARTY MOVES TO SAVE SACCO-VANZETTI

Communist Deputies to Call on U. S. Embassy

(Special to The Daily Worker)

BERLIN, Oct. 27.—According to the Communist paper Rote Fahne, two Communist deputies today called on the American embassy and on behalf of the Communist Party protested to Councillor Boris of the embassy against the "judicial murder" of Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti, under sentence of death in Massachusetts.

Call This Yankee's Bluff.

The deputies were told that the United States government was well aware of the German workers' interest in the case. Councillor Poole also assured the deputation that there was no danger of immediate execution of the two men, citing the possibility that they may be pardoned. Reports to the contrary he said were "incorrect."

The newspaper, commenting on the conversation, intimated that the American authorities' assurances were "mere bluff," and urged the German workers to renew their protests of the scheduled executions.

JUDGE THAYER READY TO KILL SACCO AND VANZETTI

(By Federated Press)

BOSTON, Oct. 27. Judge Webster Thayer is ready to pronounce sentence of death in electrocution on Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti. The judge who five times before refused the two Italian workers a new trial has again denied them the opportunity of proving the new evidence their innocence to a jury.

Defense counsel William G. Thompson is taking exceptions from Thayer's denial to the Massachusetts supreme court, which will give the apparently doomed workers life at least until January, unless the supreme court makes a special effort to hear exceptions sooner.

Thayer mainly attacks the character of Celestino Madeiros, whose confession to participation in the South Braintree crime and conviction of Sacco and Vanzetti was the basis of the new trial motion.

"Only Evidence".

The judge surmises that Madeiros was influenced in confessing by knowing that almost $300,000 had been

NOW MORE ARMY OFFICERS IN U. S. THAN DURING WAR

Hines Reveals Huge Military Horde

(Special to The Daily Worker)

NORFOLK, Va., Oct. 27.—The reserve corps of the army today contains more officers available for military service than were included in the entire overseas strength at the time of the armistice eight years ago, Maj. Gen. John L. Hines, chief of staff, today told the fifth annual convention of the reserve Officers' Association in session here.

On November 11, 1918, there were in the American expeditionary forces 62 major generals, 197 brigadiers, 778 colonels, 1,349 lieutenant colonels, 4,986 majors, 17,255 captains, 27,313 first lieutenants and 21,669 second lieutenants. A total of 86,004.

The present reserve officer strength totals 128,273, including 62 major generals, 227 brigadiers, 1,814 colonels, 4,241 lieutenant colonels, 18,371 majors, 28,394 captains, 31,269 first lieutenants and 43,397 second lieutenants.

SCHOOL BOARD CANCELS PLAN FOR EDDY TALK

Muskegon Babbits Are Getting Worried

(Worker Correspondent)

MUSKEGON, Mich., Oct. 27.—The board of education of the Muskegon public schools has jumped into the fight to prevent G. Sherwood Eddy, international secretary for Asia of the Y. M. C. A., from coming to this city for a series of public meetings November 2 and 3.

As with the members of the Muskegon Employers' Association they fear that Eddy with preach the message of the Russian Soviet government, and no doubt he will say something of the conditions of the workers there and perhaps will reaffirm his stand favoring the recognition of Russia by the United States government.

Board Meets Especially.

Governed largely by the words of A. C. Walker, president of the Shaw-Walker Filing Cabinet Company of this city, who is a leading member of the board of education, that body has held a special meeting and notified the superintendent of schools, M. W. Longman, that Mr. Eddy must not speak at the senior high school and junior college, as had been planned.

The board of directors of the local Y. M. C. A., under whose auspices Mr. Eddy is being brought to Muskegon, met this noon and, altho no action was taken, several members, influenced by the stand which has been taken by the employers' association, attempted to show why the Y. M. C. A. should withdraw its invitation to Eddy.

Hold "Secret Sessions."

What the final result of the battle will be, submerged as it is behind closed doors and denied upon its secret meetings the results of which are not being given to the prose, is not apparent.

Meetings at the Y. W. C. A., which organization also is co-operating in bringing Eddy to Muskegon, the Occidental Hotel and at the Central Methodist Episcopal Church cannot be stopped by the employers, no matter how hard they try.

Telegrams are being sent to various cities thruout the country in which Eddy has recently talked to get statements as to how he was received by the community and the manufacturers.

MINERS GIVEN SMALL INCREASE AS BARONS CAN RAISE ON USERS

By ROMA,
Worker Carrespondent.

MOUNDSVILLE, W. Va., Oct. 27.—When the Ben Franklin Coal Co. of this big Ivanhoe its wage scale from the 1917 basis to an equivalent of the Jacksonville agreement much comment was aroused as to the cause of such a move.

The statement of the company officials that their action was due to the favorable bituminous coal market alone was disproved in a day or two, when the price of coal to the consumers was increased 5 cents per bushel.

In line with the Ben Franklin Coal Co., the McKeafrey Coal Co., operating a local non-union mine, announced that their wage scale would be increased from the 1917 basis to that paid the union miners in Ohio. This will be effective November 1, 1926. It is rumored that this increase will be general in the entire county.

Now watch the price of coal rise!

SCORN REQUEST OF NEEDY WIDOW OF FORD WORKER

Can't Give Her Job, Says Aid Head

By ROSE LOMAK
(Worker Correspondent)

DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 27.—In the Special Ford edition of The DAILY WORKER there was an article which stated that Ford pries into the private affairs of his employes. Many readers may doubt this statement. I want to tell them about an experience of this kind which I had acting as an interpreter for a widow of a Ford worker who died after 18 years of faithful service in the Highland Park plant.

The widow had two children and needed help badly. She went to the Ford factory and was referred to the sociological department. She was willing to go to work in the factory and provide for her children that way. The sociological department is in charge of a man named Anderson, who no doubt was picked for the job because of his cold and heartless look which he uses to throw a scare into people who come to see him.

The following interview followed:

Anderson: "What do you want here?"

Widow: "I want help, my man dio, two children hungry, no money, give mo job, I work same as my man."

Anderson: "What have you got left from your husband?"

Anderson walked to a file got the man's record and informed her that she got $1,000 insurance from a certain insurance company.

"What did you do with the money from your husband's insurance?"

Widow: "I gave him a decent burial and the rest went to pay the doctor bills."

Anderson: "I am sorry I can do nothing for you, you have been too extravagant to spend $500 on the burial. You could have gotten him for $200 or less and live on the rest of the money. As for a job we employ 600 women and no more, there are now 40 on the waiting list. If one of the 600 quits or dies then you can get a job. You can fill your application and it will be put on the list and you may get a job about two years from now. Good bye."

This is the way the widows of the Ford workers are treated, the least that can be done for them is a job at $5 per day if they can wait long enough.

CANNON ON TOUR OF MEETINGS IN MEMORY OF DEBS

I. L. D. Begins Drive for "Debs Enrollment"

James P. Cannon, national secretary of International Labor Defense, will tour the country to address a series of Debs' Memorial meetings which have been arranged by I. L. D. to pay tribute to the life and work of the old rebel fighter Debs so enthusiastically gave him support.

Debs' Message.

In a message sent before his death to International Labor Defense, upon the national committee of which he had served since its inception, Debs wrote:

"We must not for an instant pause in our activities in behalf of the victims of the class struggle. We must remember and never for a moment forget Tom Mooney, Warren Billings, Matthew Schmidt, Anita Whitney, Sacco, Vanzetti, Rangel and Cline, the seventy members of the I. W. W. in the festering black holes of California and all other rebels under capitalist imperialism in prison or on trial, or placed under arrest for their loyalty to the working class. Not only this but all the liberal, radical and progressive forces of the labor movement and all-others who believe in the right of free speech, free assemblage and free press should rally to the support of the International Labor Defense in the campaign to wipe all anti-criminal syndicalism and anti-sedition laws from the statute books of the states which have enacted them for no other purpose than to gag the lips of the working class and strangle all progressive tendencies of the labor movement."

Schedule.

The meetings to honor the work of Gene Debs in the movement of the working class have thus far been arranged as follows:

Chicago, on October 30, at Temple Hall, Marshfield and Van Buren, 8 p. m., with James P. Cannon, Ralp Chaplin, the I. W. W. poet and former class war prisoner, Hyman Schneid, general organizer of the Amalgamated Press, who served a term in Leaven worth during the war as a political prisoner, and others.

Detroit, on Oct. 31, at the Detroit Armory, Brush and Larned streets at 8 p. m., with James P. Cannon and other speakers.

UKRAINIANS OF TORONTO SPOIL MARIE'S VISIT

Present Her With Protest Against Tyranny

(Special to The Daily Worker)

TORONTO, Ont., Oct. 27.—The large Ukrainian colony of Toronto, thru its representatives, pressed into the unwilling hands of Queen Marie of Roumania a "petition" that had rather the tone of a protest against the treatment of the Ukrainian population of Roumania.

An official guest of the city and provincial governments, because, no doubt, Marie is an English duchess and a granddaughter of Queen Victoria, the intended picture of being greeted by an admiring population was worse than spoiled when, much to her annoyance, the royal lady was forced to acknowledge the document at the crowded station as she was departing for Montreal.

Brands Tyranny.

Dealing specifically with the tyrannical regime that rules in the name of greater Roumania over the province of Bessarabia, formerly part of the Ukraine, the document drew the queen's attention to the political, educational and economic restrictions exercised upon the population by the new rulers and told of the robbery of the peasants and the jailing of at least 2,500 political prisoners. It ended, "We are convinced that the conditions of our brothren under your government are deplorable and far worse than they were before the war."

Ill at Ease.

The resolution was taken from the queen's hands by a retainer. She was obviously ill at ease. She made no comment, and the indignant Ukrainians had to be satisfied with the knowledge that they at least caused the representative of the oppressors of their countrymen some annoyance on a triumphal tour on which she is being landed by the bourgeoisie of two countries.

in the cabinet plot to isolate the South African.

South African spokesmen insist that they have no intention of leaving the empire but the following statement was made to a DAILY WORKER representative by a South African official who is accepted as Hertzog's mouthpiece leaves very little room for consoling nature to the imperialists.

Our Own Free Will.

"We have no intention of leaving the British empire or British commonwealth of nations, as I prefer to call it," said the South African delegate. "It is to our interest to remain a member, but we want the world to know we are there of our own free will and can withdraw any moment we decide it is no longer to our interest to remain.

"We believe we are freer inside the British commonwealth of nations than we are outside the league of nations. As members of the league of nations we are obliged to do certain things in certain events, but in the commonwealth we have no obligation to do anything we do not find to our interest.

Free to Leave.

"We are members of a great alliance, or partnership, in which each partner is free to leave or remain and in which each partner's responsibilities are limited by articles of association.

"For instance, take the case of our neutrality in case some other unit of the empire is at war. Suppose under the league of nations rules Canada is declared an aggressor. We would not be bound to support her. At the same time I do not believe we will be bound to attack her, because the league of nations accepted us, knowing full well that we are members on the outside and parallel with the league, to which we have certain obligations of friendship and common interest.

What Did U. S. Want?

"We want the right to be internationally recognized and to conduct our own business with other nations where we alone are effected. For instance, some time ago America raised the point about preferences in mandate territories in southwest Africa. She raised it thru the British foreign office, which communicated to us thru the dominions office. We replied that if America has anything to say to come and say it directly, but, in the end it was decided that as the British had begun and half carried thru the negotiations, it was proper for her to finish.

Wants Diplomatic Rank.

In the dispute with Portugal, who is also our neighbor in Africa, we will conduct the negotiations directly. That does not mean that we want to set up a full-fledged diplomatic service, in most matters we are quite satisfied with the British representation, but we do think, for instance, that our trade representative in Washington should have a diplomatic, or at least consular rank, so that he can communicate directly with your officials."

United States Supreme Court Decision Reveals Growing Dictatorship

By J. LOUIS ENGDAHL

THE courts are but the creatures of the capitalist social system that they serve.

This has again been vividly shown in the decision just handed down by capitalism's highest tribunal, the United States supreme court, that has decreed to President Cal Coolidge, or any executive that may follow him, the authority to remove White House appointees without the consent of the senate.

This is just another step making the executive power supreme in the government, centralizing the governmental dictatorship in the hands of the president, making of him a constitutional czar under the merest chimera of fraudulent "democratic" forms.

In order to reach this decision the majority of the supreme court kicked over all precedent until even Justice McReynolds, in a minority dissenting decision, was forced to cry out:

"This goes far beyond any practice heretofore approved or followed; it conflicts with the history of the constitution, with the ordinary rules of interpretation and with the construction approved by congress since the beginning and emphatically sanctioned by this court. To adopt it would be revolutionary."

This case shows clearly how the judicial system bends to the will of the dominant ruling class. Like the dog in the phonograph advertisement, the United States supreme court hears "His Master's Voice."

If the exploiting class, therefore, can mould the opinions of the highest court in the land, dictating its decisions in its own interests even against a minority of this same court and the outraged parliamentarians in congress, workers may readily realize how much easier it is for this same owning class to get the kind of a decision it desires in the isolated court room of Judge Webster Thayer, in Norfolk County, Mass., against two working men, Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti.

This latest opinion of the supreme court, that gives extreme tyrannical powers into the hands of the president, is the product of a mind bought by Frank B. Myers, former postmaster of Portland, Ore., who was removed by President Wilson and who sought to get back salary on the ground that his removal was illegal without the consent of the senate, which had ratified his appointment. Wilson, the democrat, initiated this move in the centralization of capitalist government, while it is approved by the supreme court headed by William Howard Taft, the former republican president. Both of the capitalist parties, therefore, stand back of this decision.

It has already been shown how the great army of postmasters is used in support of the dominant political party. This supreme court decision means that any postmaster, if he does not dance to the snap of the White House whip, will lose his job. But it also means that the president will get tyrannical powers over all the numerous members of the multitudes of government commissions that inject themselves into every avenue of human life.

Congress will be helpless. It will be permitted to conduct endless debates. The senators and representatives will be permitted to have their remarks, including the leave to extend, in the congressional record. But when decisions are to be made in the various departments of government, they will be dictated from the White House, because, according to the editorial boading in the Chicago Tribune, "The President Holds the Reins," and it is "common sense." It declares, to give the president the power to "remove those who do not accept his leadership." It urges that this is the road to "discipline," meaning of course, the discipline imposed by a political tyrant nestling in the lap of the Wall Street oligarchy.

In the meantime the school children will continue to be taught the same old hash to the effect that the United States government is one of "checks and balances" between the three branches of the government, the executive, the judicial and the legislative wings of the government.

Nothing can testify more to the disrepute into which the legislative wing of capitalist rule has fallen than the present meaningless congressional campaign where old party candidates are permitted to run wild over the country, making speeches about any and everything, as long as they do not touch vital issues. In the meantime the judicial branch smirkingly does the bidding of the executive department of the government, which dominates over all.

What the children of the working-class, however, are taught in the public schools dominated by the capitalist class, they will later unlearn as workers in the growing class war.

The United States has developed during these recent years into the mightiest empire on earth. Its political head is the uncrowned emperor, Cal Coolidge, in whom capitalism centralizes its power, knowing that "Silent Cal" is its obedient agent, its ever-ready office boy. In order to give Coolidge new powers, which means strengthening its own position, capitalism thru its own courts, overthrows the accepted precedent of a century and a half. It reiterates, "What is the constitution between friends."

It is this same Cal Coolidge that heads "The New England gang" that is seeking the lives of Sacco and Vanzetti. This gang sneers at labor's demand for a "just trial," "a fair trial," for the enjoyment of constitutional guarantees, for the safeguarding of the civil liberties of speech, press and assemblage.

There is nothing in the form or substance of the United States government today that guarantees any trial for Sacco and Vanzetti, or any of the other class war prisoners, except the certainty that the vicious hatred of the present ruling class of exploiters and profiteers will be invoked against them to the limit.

It is stating the whole truth to say that labor must achieve its own emancipation. It is equally true that only a growing class, thru its own organized and militant power, can prevent Sacco and Vanzetti from being legally murdered by the judicial assassins who cloak their crimes as the orderly procedure of "the most perfect form of democracy."

The United States supreme court, in its latest decision, has helped tear the shield of mantle of so-called "democracy" off the hideous body of the anti-labor Wall Street dictatorship. The butcher of workers stands revealed before labor thruout the nation. Let labor rise against this horror.

MONTREAL, Canada, Oct. 25.—Workers of Montreal have been urged to denounce the visit of Queen Marie to the United States and to aid in the fight against the terrible conditions of Roumanian workers by the city central committee of the Canadian Labor Defense League.

A bulletin issued by the league says: "The visit of the queen of Roumania to the United States and Canada has directed attention to the persecution of political prisoners by the Roumanian government.

"The city central committee of the Canadian Labor Defense League calls upon the workers of Montreal to stand by their comrades all over the world in denunciation of the political and capitalist intrigues which constitute the real motives of the visit of the queen of Roumania."

The Negro editors in their eulogies of George E. spent for defense of Sacco and Vanzetti. "Was Mussolini going to undertake that he would receive the same aid if he had the power of this organization behind him?" Thayer asks.

Here the judge goes beyond direct evidence and even beyond the implication offered by assistant district attorney Dudley P. Ranney, altho Thayer declared at the hearing that he would regard "only the evidence."

While Thayer severely rebuked former defense counsel Fred H. Moore in his decisions on other new trial motions, he now attacks counsel Thompson. He becomes somewhat confused in his implication that Thompson suffers from "logo-psychic neurosis" or "hysteria"—a belief in the existence of things which do not exist. Because defense counsel indicted conspiracy between federal and state governments to send Sacco and Vanzetti to the chair not as murderers but as radicals, Thayer thinks Thompson suffers from this disease of his own invention. Assistant district attorney Ranney himself admitted that such co-operation between governments was a part of regular court procedure, virtually granting Thompson's assertions.

Thruout the decision Judge Thayer shows again his prejudice against Sacco and Vanzetti and his determination not to change his original opinion, despite all new evidence to the contrary. He takes the stand that the new evidence must prove conclusively the opposite of the old to make him change his mind and tho the mountain of new evidence since the original trial has changed many minds on this case, it has not yet changed Thayer's. He shows his reliance and confidence in the state supreme court by referring to their upholding his previous denials of new trial.

DAILY WORKER'S FORD EDITION WORRIED BOSSES

Workers Who had Them Were Threatened

(By a Ford Worker.)

HAMILTON, Oct. 27.—On October 8 a local newsdealer, J. Halperin, had two boys pass out some sample copies of The DAILY WORKER dated October 7 at the local plant of the Ford Motor Co., this issue being a special Ford number. It did not suit the local management to have their employes told how Henry was fim-flemming his workers about going to get six days' pay for five days' work.

So the watchman at the gate, apparently acting under instructions, invited the boys to stand inside the gate and pass out the papers, which is against the rules, and then, having gotten the boys on the company's property, the general manager, O. A. Anderson came out and took the papers away from the boys. He was followed out by Mr. McKinney with a bodyguard consisting of one of the hired help, Heffert by name.

Tries Them from Workers.

Later on papers were collected from any of the employes at work that were fortunate enough to have received one.

Many of the workers had not paid any attention to the paper at first, but after they saw the action of the management there was a great demand for some.

Call in Helperin.

On Monday, October 11, the newsdealer received a phone call to come to the Ford plant and talk the matter over, which he agreed.

On Tuesday, October 12, the newsdealer, having received a new supply of the papers, went to the vicinity of the Ford plant to pass the papers, having police protection to see that he would not be molested.

Threatens Workers.

McKinney appeared out on the street to stop the papers being circulated. He and his bodyguard got cold feet and turned their attention to the men, threatening them with the loss of their jobs if they accepted any of the papers, but most of the men took the papers regardless.

Mr. McKinney and his bodyguard followed the men passing the papers for four or five blocks to intimidate them and the workers that accepted the papers.

Still Waiting.

The workers here have not as yet received the six days' pay for five days' work, which president Ford promised six days' work for five days' pay for a long time, and to hear them talk they are getting very sore about it.

The Dearborn Independent, which Henry calls the "clearing house of the neglected truth," ought to copy this if they want it to live up to their name.

It looks very much as the Anderson and his associates are afraid of what we are trying to stop the circulation of the DAILY WORKER, because everyone knows now what bulldozers they are and has only increased a demand for the paper.

What fine representatives of free speech, free press, and Henry's so-called industrial justice they are!

All phases of worker correspondence will be developed. The class will not only write for, but help edit The American Worker Correspondent, the publication of the worker writers of The DAILY WORKER.

The class will be under the general direction of J. Louis Engdahl, editor of The DAILY WORKER, assisted by Harry Klatzky, who supervises the Worker Correspondence Section of The DAILY WORKER.

Special lectures will be given from time to time, on the various phases of worker correspondence and on problems confronting the labor movement by the members of The DAILY WORKER editorial staff, including William F. Dunne, Thomas J. O'Flaherty, Harrison George and Thurber Lewis. Talks will also be given on such subjects as shop papers, well papers, living newspapers as well as lessons in English by Joy Lovestone, M. A. Stolar and Nancy Markoff.

COME READY FOR WORK FRIDAY NIGHT.

HUGE WISCONSIN LABOR TURNOVER SHOWS BAD CONDITIONS AND BIG WASTE IN CAPITALISTIC SYSTEM

By LELAND OLDS, Federated Press.

Hundreds of thousands of dollars are loaded on the cost of production in Wisconsin industry by high labor turnover. That is the natural conclusion from figures of the state industrial commission showing that Wisconsin employers must each year hire over 100 workers for each 100 on the payrolls in order to maintain their working forces.

The labor turnover is considered a pretty good test of management. If workers are constantly leaving their jobs, voluntarily or by request, it means unsatisfactory working conditions. Careful estimates place the cost of hiring a new worker at $10 to $300, according to the skill required.

Huge Turnover Shown.

The Wisconsin report for August covers plants employing about 95,000 workers. At the rate of labor turnover in that month it would be necessary to hire about 30,000 workers during the year to keep this force going. If we figure the cost of hiring these workers at an average of $50 the turnover costs these concerns $1,500,000 a year. This must either be added to prices or subtracted from wages.

The rate of labor turnover, the report shows, varies considerably from industry to industry. But in August it exceeded 100 per 100 workers employed in all except two leading industries. In clothing factories workers were leaving at the annual rate of 233 for each 100 on the payrolls.

The annual turnover rates per 100 employed of eight leading industries figured on the basis of August returns and on the averages of the four months, March, May, July and August, are:

Wisconsin Labor Turnover Rates.

| | Based on August | Based on 4 months |
|---|---|---|
| Building & confect'ry | 120.9 | 114.0 |
| Boots & shoes ..... | 141.9 | 127.6 |
| Building construct. | 178.3 | 208.8 |
| Clothing ..... | 232.7 | 101.2 |
| Fd's & mech. shops | 134.1 | 200.9 |
| Hos'y & knit goods | 96.2 | 103.0 |
| Milk products ..... | 120.6 | 99.4 |
| Paper & pulp ..... | 95.8 | 85.3 |

In Form of Waste.

High labor turnover is an outstanding form of capitalist waste. It results primarily from the idea that only the profiteering owners have vested rights in industry. Under the existing system it is only tempered when the workers thru organization enforce a vested interest of their own in the job.

To the public labor turnover means high prices. To the worker it means low wages and irregular employment. It means a large floating supply of unorganized workers constantly seeking more satisfactory work, implying potential competition for each employed worker's job.

Frisco Open Shop in Frame-up of Officers of Carpenters' Union

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 27. Eight men, including Archibald J. Meeney, vice-president of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America, and Paul J. Clifford, business manager of the local carpenters' union, are under arrest in what promises to be a new frame-up case against labor in the open-shop drive in San Francisco.

The unionists are charged with assault with intent to murder and with criminal conspiracy.

The open shop movement in San Francisco has been waging the most violent campaign against the building trades unions, particularly the carpenters, and, as usual, resort to sluggers and stool pigeons.

It is alleged that two men arrested have "confessed"—that Mooney and Clifford are to blame for their attack on two scabs, Robert L. Allen and George Wood, Jr., last week.

WASHINGTON — (FP) — Socalled castile soaps made by Armour & Co. of Delaware, owned by Armour & Co. of Chicago, are in fact not castile soaps, because animal fats, including tallow, are used in place of olive oil in their manufacture, says a complaint made public by the Federal Trade Commission, a it quotes their advertisements as false statements.

AIMEE LEAVES NO FOOTPRINTS ON THE SANDS

Defense Witness Proved A Boomerang

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 27.—Continuing the effort to imprint in the record of the Aimee McPherson hearing the footprints of the evangelist from the hut in which she was held captive, across the Mexican desert to the village of Agua Prieta, the defense will recall Constable D. A. Ash of Douglas as a witness today. Ash will take up his story of finding the pastor's footprints in the desert where he dropped it with adjournment late yesterday. The defense hopes to prove thru Ash, and another witness to be called today, that the tracks described were near a shack that might easily have been the evangelist's prison.

Witness a Boomerang.

Detective Lieutenant Ralph Alyea of Long Beach, a defense witness, turned out a boomerang for the evangelist when pieced under cross-examination. Alyea testified that R. A. McKinley, the blind Long Beach attorney, who was approached by two alleged kidnapers of the pastor as their medium for asserted ransom demands upon Angelus Temple, told him that he did not believe Mrs. McPherson was really kidnaped.

Even while the evangelist was thought drowned in the surf, Alyea testified McKinley said Mrs. McPherson "went away for a reason" and was trying "to stage a big come-back."

Form Branch of Negro Labor Congress With Live Group at Topeka

TOPEKA, Kans., Oct. 27. A branch of the American Negro Labor Congress was formed in Topeka Sunday afternoon with a dozen members and three live officers. They are Billie, president of the Hodcarriers' Union, delegate to the A. N. L. C. of last year who unanimously elected president; G. Gordon, as secretary and Pioneer Negro and white workers as members.

The mass meeting held a good attendance with representatives from Topeka Industrial Council and other unions present who addressed the meeting. Carl X. Stewart, organizer of the Kansas City A. N. L. C. made the principal address. Dan Richmond, secretary of the A. F. of L. militant fighter and T. B. Garnet, reporter of the Industrial Council of Topeka and H. Gosier from Kansas City spoke.

The officers and members launched into the work at the start with enthusiasm and the second meeting has been called for next Sunday.

F. L. P. CANDIDATES TURN TO SERMONS WHEN HALL IS DENIED FOR POLITICS

(Special to The Daily Worker)

SIOUX FALLS, N. D., Oct. 27.—Tom Ayres, candidate for governor of the farmer-labor party, and John G. Evans, farmer-labor party speaker from Minnesota, will assume the role of preachers here Sunday, Oct. 31.

A meeting was arranged for the Coliseum on that date by Alice Lorraine Daly, but the mayor declared that the Coliseum could be used only for "sermons" on Sunday, and would not give his permission for the meeting. Miss Daly then countered with the offer that Ayres and Soltis would preach sermons instead of "political speeches." The mayor had to give permission then.

So on Sunday Ayres will preach a sermon on the text: "Render therefore unto Cesar the things that are Cesar's; and unto God the things that are God's." Soltis' text is: "The foxes have holes and the birds of the heaven have nests; but the son of man hath nowhere to lay his head." They are selected from Matthew.

WITH THE YOUNG WORKERS

(COMMUNIST) By THE YOUNG WORKERS (COMMUNIST) LEAGUE

PENNSYLVANIA STATE LABOR MUST LIVE UP TO ANTI-MILITARY DECISION

By GEORGE PAPCUN

PITTSBURGH, Pa., — The American Federation of Labor met last month. The class conscious youth, and the workers in general looked at the Federation of Labor to see what it would do on the matter of the Citizens' Military Training Camps. Especially the workers of Pennsylvania were looking to the American Federation of Labor to see what would happen on this question as the State Federation of Labor condemned the Citizens' Military Training Camps most vigorously and declared that the Citizens Military Training Camps were run by large open shop employers and these open shop employers dominated the policy of these camps, and tried to see that the camps turned out scabs and strike-breakers.

Workers Disillusioned.

But if any worker had the illusion that the American Federation of Labor would condemn the Citizens Military Training Camps and would fight against them, well, they have been disillusioned. Not only that but it seems that because the State Federation of Labor demanded "that the convention of the Pennsylvania State Federation of Labor condemn the purpose and function of the Citizens Military Training Camps and oppose every move on the part of the employers to secretly connect the American Federation of Labor with the War Department to further aid the bloody plans of the imperialists or to in any way help in the recruiting of young workers expected to serve as cannon fodder in the next war," the reactionaries in the A. F. of L. went out of their way by not only ignoring the resolution as they usually do on such a proposition but actually have taken the first step in connecting the A. F. of L. with the War Department. The executive council did this by visiting the C. M. T. C. before the convention of the A. F. of L. and bringing in a report by which it claimed that the workers benefitted from the training that they received in these camps and that it taught them to become better citizens and that they improved by the discipline and it was claimed by some that they developed good trade union members.

Open Shopper in Favor C. M. T. C.

The workers must find out for themselves, they do not even have to go into the Citizens Military Training Camps but only look over the list of the chief backers of the C. M. T. C. the trade union smashing capitalists, to see whether or not these individuals could pursue a policy of making good trade union members Oh! of the young workers who are lured to the camps. A few of them are J. P. Morgan & Co., the Pennsylvania R. R. System, Armour & Co., American Sugar Refining Co., Western Electric Co. These companies contribute in one way or another to the Citizens Military Training Camps. Besides such notorious people as Atterbury, Charles G. Dawes and Gray E. Tripp of the General Electric Co., are on the advisory committee of the C. M. T. C. association. Now could any of the above train good union members for the labor movement when all of them are openly against trade unionism even in the form as expressed at the present time by William Green, the president of the A. F. of L. They will not even except his crawling and picking up the crumbs which they throw to him.

The only way that the A. F. of L. will be forced to fight against the C. M. T. C. and against the connecting of the A. F. of L. with the War Department is if the rank and file puts up a fight in its unions as can be clearly shown that it was not the leadership of the labor movement in Pennsylvania who wanted the resolution passed but it was the rank and file. The resolutions committee which was composed of the following officials: John A. Phillips, Typographical Union; Thomas Kennedy, U. M. W. A.; Peter Bollenbacher, Brewery Workmen; Isaac L. Sharpe, Typographical; Rudolfo Capellini, U. M. W. A., brought in a recommendation that the resolution on the C. M. T. C. be not concurred in, but in spite of the fact, the convention concurred in it by 100 votes in favor and 39 in opposition. It would be well to take into consideration the discussion which went on and who was the one who opposed the recommendations of the resolution committee.

In the whole discussion with the exception of President Maurer who spoke against the resolutions committee we did not have another official in the convention that spoke for the resolution. All others were rank and file. Each one of them condemned militarism, some of them who have been across and have been fighting in the last world war for "democracy," in no uncertain terms condemned militarism in every form.

A Rank and File Resolution.

Though the Pennsylvania State Federation of Labor has passed the resolution in Pennsylvania as yet the executive council does not seem to be carrying out the decisions of the state federation. The resolution called: "that the incoming executive council of the Pennsylvania State Federation of Labor be instructed to immediately wage a state-wide agitation and organization campaign against the Citizens Military Training Camps." As yet this has been left undone. It also instructed its delegates as follows: "that we instruct our delegate to the forthcoming convention of the A. F. of L. to present this resolution to work, speak, and lobby for its passage, to commit the American Federation of Labor to a policy of opposing the C. M. T. C." But according to reports which come from the convention about all that the delegate did was present it. He did not speak for it, doubtful if he did very much else to see that it was passed. He meekly stomached the resolution presented by the executive council and did not even vote in opposition to the executive council's report, according to reports. The way that a struggle against militarism must be developed in Pennsylvania is thru the young workers themselves engaging in the struggle to force the State Federation of Labor to live up to its decisions at its last convention. And not only start a fight in Pennsylvania against militarism but in the United States as a whole.

Jingo Youth Bodies Adopt New Name

Mergers seems to be the order of the day and the "boy misleader" patriotic organizations are no exception to the rule. The United American Legion, an organization formed to inject the jingo brand of Americanism into the foreign-born youth, has merged with the American Sentinels which carried the same operations on the native youth. The merged body is now known as the American Citizenship Foundation. The Executive committee now includes a well-known list of militarists and capitalists among which are, Joseph R. Strauss, president; Admiral William A. Moffett, U. S. N., director-general, John J. Mitchell, treasurer. By its close alliance with such bodies as the American Legion, the C. M. T. C. and R. O. T. C. the organization is organically connected with the war department.

Oppose Evangelical Child Labor

NEW YORK CITY The American Association for the Advancement of Atheism has accused Dr. John Roach Straton, fundamentalist pastor of Calvary Baptist Church of "religious profiteering" and "in illegally employing a child evangelist."

The letter of the association to the pastor declares in part "Having made your charges against us of being immoral, why not seek to justify them in public? You are quite welcome to address our meetings in Carnegie Hall Sunday evenings. If there are among us any assassins like David, shy cutthroats like Saul, and degenerates like Lot, we want to know it."

The association conducts a regular open forum in Carnegie Hall every Sunday evening and all young workers are invited to hear the arguments of superstition vs the materialistic point of view.

Continue Military Preps.

WASHINGTON, D. C. The young workers should begin looking towards the next session of congress which convenes in December which will continue the frenzied war preparations. The bill which is alleged to conscript labor and capital during a period of war will come up for quick action. The real intent of the bill is to create a dictatorship with absolute powers to conscript labor power—and the government will co-operate with the big capitalists to regulate production.

STRIKE OF THE BEDMAKERS NOW NEARING A WIN

"Tough" Dicks Fail to Scare Picket Line

The strike of members of Local 116 of the Mattress, Box Spring and Bedmakers' Union at the Superior Fair and Bedding company's plant at 3447 Roosevelt Road is going strong with excellent prospects of a victory owing to the fine militancy of the strikers, mostly Negro workers, on the picket line.

Firm Calls for Sluggers.

The swarm of private detectives who were guarding the scabs, have been changed for another swarm of about 15 "tough guys." The boss went to the agency and demanded harder sluggers, saying, "We have to win this fight by Wednesday or settle. We can't hold out any longer."

The firm has lost two or three big furniture companies as customers because of its fight on the union, and other contracts are pressing.

Picket Line Strengthened.

When the "tough guys" showed up Monday, the pickets were not much impressed. In fact the picket line was stronger than before. Four scabs, one equipped with a knife and two with clubs, tried to get by. Two finally got in, one changed his mind and jumped a taxi, and one is visiting the Cook county hospital.

As a result, the police took up four pickets, picking them at random, choosing three colored strikers and one white, and hailed them into court. Asking for jury trials, the case was continued until November 10.

Bosses Inject Race Prejudice.

The bosses, in the court, tried to inject race prejudice by complaining that white pickets were speaking to colored girls and colored girls among the pickets speaking to white men—to tell them a strike was on and not to go to work there. The boss never complained about getting white and colored workers to work together for his profits, however. In his view a colored man is a fine fellow if he will scab.

A Class Question.

There are only 10 or 12 scabs now, mostly ignorant colored girls, and the Negroes among the strikers know that the strike is a working class question, not a race question, and together with their white union brothers are sticking solidly, not one striker having turned scab and gone back.

Restaurants used to bring lunch into the factory, but the pickets put a stop to that, so the police obligingly act as waiters now, to "tote" sandwiches.

Augment Strike Aid to Cloakmakers; But Much More Required

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—The treasury of the 40,000 striking cloakmakers will be increased this week by at least $100,000 as a result of the unanimous decision of cloakmakers in settled shops to tax themselves another day's pay on behalf of those still on strike. This was learned following a meeting of shop chairmen in Webster Hall.

The union was also able to announce that to date $150,000 cash has been received from trade unions in the United States in response to the appeal for funds issued two weeks ago. With pledges of additional funds soon to materialize, this figure, in response to the appeal, will be greatly augmented.

Other large sums have been realized for the striking cloakmakers, now in their 15th week of struggle with their employers, thru voluntary taxation by groups of needle workers in various parts of the country. But there are 40,000 strikers and much is needed.

The Public Service Workers' Union has adopted resolutions endorsing the strike 100 per cent and calling upon its membership to contribute to the strike fund. Local 43, Millinery Workers' Union, contributed $210 to the fund. The blockers' and sizers' local of millinery workers appropriated $300 for the fund and voted to tax each member $1 per week for the duration of the strike. This is expected to realize $1,000 weekly.

MT. OLIVE MINERS COMMEMORATE VIRDEN RIOT, WHERE FOUR LOST LIVES, WITH BIG DEMONSTRATION

By ED HARMON

MT. OLIVE, Ill.—(FP)—The 28th annual memorial demonstration of the Virden riot was held by the United Mine Workers here Oct. 17. Large delegations from surrounding mining communities swelled the crowd that filed the streets early in the day for the regular march to the cemetery where the four Mt. Olive miners who lost their lives in the Virden fight 29 years ago are buried.

Tom Tippett, a young miner, now conducting an educational experiment for the Taylorville miners, spoke in the afternoon meeting with Agnes Nestor of the Chicago Woman's Trade Union League.

Tippett Sketches History.

Tippett called the Virden memorial the only remaining link between a labor movement that has gone and the new unionism of today. He sketched the present situation in the miners' union, calling it the most serious crisis that has confronted the union since its organization 36 years ago. He said the spirit of devotion to ideals that animated the early movement was lacking in the union today and declared that unless it could be reinvested the organization was bound to fall.

Organization Is Task.

Organization of the ever increasing non-union fields was the biggest and most important task ahead of the miners, Tippett said. He further advocated nationalization of the mines and the formation of a labor party to safeguard the workers' interests. With that program, the movement would be given a larger program that would attract new members and revive the old fighting spirit of the once militant coaldiggers.

A hearty response from the crowd greeted Tippett's closing remarks when he said: "If you want to insure and loyalty of the younger men you must give us something to work for, something to fight for, something to live for, and if necessary, as at Virden, give us something to die for."

Agnes Nestor Talks.

Agnes Nestor spoke of her work with the industrial women and said that progress must be weighed carefully to see what the actual gains are. Women and little children are mercilessly exploited, she said, and declared that strong trade unions must be organized to guarantee the operation of labor legislation.

The evening meeting was addressed by Wm. Burch, the first Illinois miner to graduate from Brookwood labor college, and Allen Haywood, executive board member of the Illinois district.

COMPANY UNION AND B. & O. PLAN ABOUT THE SAME

Workers Force a Three Cent Raise on P. R. R.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 27.—Shop crafts union-fighting Pennsylvania Railroad has finally raised pay for their company-unionized shop workers three cents an hour, bringing the rate for some to the 76 cents standard of New York Central, which went into effect Sept. 1. Pennsy's rate increase is retroactive to Oct. 16.

Sometime earlier Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, where the "B. & O. plan" of employe-management, co-operation is in force between American Federation of Labor shop crafts unions and the company, gave two cents on hour increases and time and a half for Sundays and holidays.

These wage increases are the first shop workers have received from eastern trunk lines since early 1923. About 43,000 workers, including helpers and apprentices, are affected by the Pennsy order.

Company union conferences were held in Pittsburgh, where wage demands of the workers broke in despite attempts of the company to have only its own lackeys elected as "employe representatives" under the company union system.

Building Trades Plan Office Building; Cost May Reach $1,750,000

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—(FP)—Selection of a site for the finest labor temple in America, designed to furnish international headquarters to most of the building trades organizations as well as their joint activities in the building trades department of the American Federation of Labor, is the first step in the building program unanimously indorsed by the departmental convention at Detroit.

Secretary Tracy of the department has returned from the convention to investigate downstate sites in the capital. He will report to the executive council of the department when it meets in January. Offices will be rented to other than labor organizations.

As thus far developed, the plan calls for expenditure of between $600,000 and $760,000 on a site, and the erection of an ornamental and solid structure of about 100x160 feet ground area with a height of 110 feet. Cost of the building would be upwards of $1,000,000.

Financing of the project is thought to be beyond question. A holding company will be formed which will sell stock to the international organizations and to local building trades councils. Most of the internationals could buy at least $100,000 of the stock each. The bricklayers alone have assets of over $2,000,000.

Why not a small bundle of The DAILY WORKER sent to you regularly to take to your trade union meeting?

Engineers and I. A. M. Sign 'Treaty' Showing Jurisdiction Boundary

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—(FP)—Text of an agreement signed by Arthur M. Huddell, general president of the International Union of Steam and Operative Engineers, and A. O. Wharton, president of the International Association of Machinists, defining the jurisdiction of the two organizations, is being sent out from Machinists' grand lodge headquarters in Washington to all local lodges.

The pact declares its purpose as that of bringing about harmonious understanding between the members of the two unions in order that they may assist each other, secure better industrial conditions and maintain proper trade jurisdiction.

It gives to the Steam and Operating Engineers undisputed control of the building, assembling, erecting, dismantling and repairing of engines and machinery of all descriptions used in any kind of work.

When temporary emergency running repairs are necessary the engineer will make such repairs as will keep the plant in operation. Both organizations agree to assist each other in unionizing all places in which both have jurisdiction.

SAN FRANCISCO — (FP) — Two union carpenters were paid $15 fine apiece or violation of the San Francisco anti-picketing law, in connection with the carpenters' strike that began last April.

Letters from Our Readers

From an Akron Rubber Worker.

Dear Comrades: I am sending you under separate cover four copies of the Rubber Worker, which union is organizing now. It has made a former endeavor to organize, and I hope this time it will be a crowning success, as this is on a much larger scale and besides with the paper, Rubber Worker.

A Lot Left Unsaid.

I have been a worker myself the past eight years, and to the best of my knowledge all that these papers say are true. There is a whole lot more also, not printed in them.

There are a great many different languages spoken in the shops here. Perhaps your paper is printed in several languages and sent to workers here, so you are at liberty to take from either or all of the four papers what you want and see fit to use in your paper, if you care to. It may aid a whole lot in enlightening workers of other languages—also strengthen the faith in others of the English language—get more to join also.

Thousands Laid Off.

But as conditions are bad in the shops now—work going down, laying off by the thousands, etc.—no one wouldn't seem a very good time to go any further than to just organize at present, but you may see different. Anyway, so many are being laid off, have families, homes to pay on, paying rent and no jobs for them, it does seem quite awful.

From a Rubber Worker of Over Eight Years' Service.

MACHINES SHOW OFFICE WORKERS MUST UNIONIZE

Displace Some Labor and Speed up Rest

By ESTHER LOWELL.
Federated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—All the machines displacing two to 15 office workers are displayed at the Business Show, Madison Square Garden, there is no immediate danger that the thousands of stenographers, typists, bookkeepers, accountants, bank clerks, etc., will lose their jobs to these machines.

Investigating for the New York office workers' union, Leonard Bright found that there were fewer new machines than had been heralded and that the cost of those displacing the most workers was too high for the average office to afford.

Unionization the Solution.

The solution of the machine problem, Bright and Union Secretary Ernest Bohm agree, is not opposition to the introduction of the machine but complete organization of office workers. The organized workers can then fight to lower their hours of work and keep their wages rising as they are required to operate more nerve-straining machines.

That office workers are largely dependent on to "sell" the new machines to their employers was indicated by the press director for the show. He said that he had "killed" a story that thousands of office workers would be made jobless by the new machines because the workers' good will is necessary in selling the machines.

Machine Eliminates Workers.

An elaborate calculating, bookkeeping device is supposed to eliminate 15 workers. Several mailing devices stamp letters with a mailing permit while sealing them running them thru from 8,000 to 16,000 an hour, depending on the size of the machine, and doing away with about six workers. Much of the improved machinery has been devised to simplify and cheapen the work of wholesale direct mail advertising, a parasitic industry which has been thriving as a method of sales making because of its supposed personal appeal.

Twenty-Seven New Titles Announced by Vanguard Press

3 Earth Shocks Reported.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.— Three earth shocks, one of unusually severe intensity, were recorded at Georgetown University within the six hours after 1:03 o'clock last night, Father Tondorf, seismographist, announced today. He could not tell in what direction the tremors were, but said they occurred 3,700 miles from Washington.

We will send sample copies of The DAILY WORKER to your friends—send us name and address.

GENERAL FRIES RUNS POISON GAS PROPAGANDA

Poisoner the Better for U. S. General

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—(FP)—Gen. Amos Fries, head and high propagandist of the chemical warfare service in the army, has run afoul of Secretary of State Kellogg on the issue of American ratification of the Geneva protocol binding the various nations against using poison chemicals or bacteria in warfare.

Fries has been carrying on a campaign against the abolition of gas warfare—sniping at it across teacups, at banquet tables, in conferences and newspaper columns, and more recently in the meetings of the American Legion, the Veterans of Foreign Wars, the Association of Military Surgeons, and other bodies that might bring pressure to bear upon congress.

MacNider for Gas.

Gen. Fries appears to have one friend—a powerful one—in the commander of the Legion and proud of his treat-em-rough record. When the press questioned MacNider as to where the War Department would stand as between the administration's policy and Fries and his Legion backer, MacNider sidestepped.

His manner indicated that he was far from ready to bow to the White House when the legion had gone on record for gentleness in warfare as represented by chemicals.

Saves on Lead Pencils.

Secretary of the Interior Work has had himself photographed with the evidence of his latest economy scheme. He gathered in all the pencils, pens and erasers in all bureaus in his department, and issued orders that henceforth on no account shall any high-grade employe have more than two pencils or two pens or one eraser.

The chewed stubs are now being doled out on this basis in response to requisitions from the employes. Stenographers are allowed four pencils each. Inspectors searched all desks to discover any hidden stubs of lead.

After that Work went off to Pennsylvania to urge the election of Varo to the senate. Vare got the nomination for $35,000 or more.

PALMER, OF 'RED RAIDS,' NOW IS FACING PRISON

Attorney-Gen. Charged With Big Fraud

BOSTON Mass., Oct 27. A. Mitchell Palmer, former attorney-general of the United States and instigator of the notorious "Palmer red raids" which resulted in the framing of Sacco and Vanzetti, is himself today facing prison.

Palmer is the defendant, along with some other members of his department of justice, in a huge conspiracy case filed by the government.

Defraud Government.

They are charged with defrauding the government out of $5,534,564 by misrepresenting the assets of the Bosch Magneto Company, which came under the alien property act.

Others in the conspiracy are Francis P. Garvin, former chief of the bureau of investigation for the alien property custodian (Palmer); Joseph G. Guffery, director of sales of the custodian, and the bankers, Horton and Weeks, Boston, and Chase Securities Company, New York.

Fake Assets.

The scheme, it is alleged, was to place John A. McMartin, another defendant in the case, in charge of the books of the company. He was to prepare a fake report on the assets. The sale was made for $4,150,000, when the actual value, it is charged, was $9,685,564.

Much of the stock of the Bosch Company was owned by foreigners, bringing it under the jurisdiction of the alien property custodian.

Passaic Cigar Men Strike; Feel Czarist Methods of Police

PASSAIC, N. J., Oct. 27.—In protest against the failure of their employers to live up to an agreement, the workers of the E. M. Klein cigar factory, 220 Second street, went out on strike yesterday.

Saturday morning the cigar strikers had their first experience with the local bosses-serving police cossacks, whose brutal tactics in connection with the big strike of textile workers in this city have made them notorious about the world.

A NEW NOVEL By Upton Sinclair

(Copyright, 1926, by Upton Sinclair)

VII

Bertie came along, making one more effort to drag her brother out into this play world, to which by right of inheritance and natural gifts he belonged. Bertie had broken off her affair with Eldon Burdick. He was a "dud," she told Bunny, and always wanting to have his own way. There was another affair on, a very desperate one, Bunny gathered, since his sister exposed her feelings even to him. It was the only son of the late August Norman, founder of Occidental Steel. The boy's name was Charlie, and he was a little wild, Bertie said, but oh, so fascinating and rich as Croesus. He had nobody to take care of him but a rather silly mother, who was still trying to be young and giddy, dressing like a debutante, and having surgical operations performed on her face to keep it from "sagging." They had a most gorgeous yacht down at the harbor, and had asked Bertie to bring her brother, and why wouldn't he go and help her, as he so easily could, with his good looks and everything?

Bunny thought his sister must indeed be hard hit, if she was counting upon his reluctant social charms! But he went; and as they drove to the harbor Bertie coached and scolded him—he must not talk about his horrible Bolshevik ideas, and if they mentioned his disgrace at Southern Pacific, he must make a joke of it. Bunny had already learned that that was the thing to do; and so he did it, and found that it was very easy, for Charlie Norman was one of those brilliant persons who found something funny about everything that came up; if he couldn't do any better, he would make a bad pun out of your remark.

Here was the "Siren," a floating mansion, all white paint and shining brass, finished in hand-carved mahogany, and upholstered in hand-pained silk. The sailors who shined and polished and the Filipino boys who flitted here and there with trays full of glasses, were spic and span enough for the vaudeville stage. The party of guests would step into a launch and from that into several motor-cars and be transported to a golf-links, and from there to a country club for luncheon; they would dance for an hour or two and then be whirled away to a bathing-beach, and then to a tennis court, and then back to the "Siren" to dress for dinner, which was served with all the style you would have expected at an ambassador's banquet. There would be many-colored electric lights on the deck, and an orchestra, and friends would come out in launches, and dance until dawn, while the waves lapped softly against the sides of the vessel and the tangle of light along the shore made dim the stars.

The people talked about the appearance and peculiarities and adventures of all their acquaintances, and it was hard to follow their conversation unless you were one of their set; they even had slang words of their own, and the less possible it was for an outsider to understand them, the funnier they seemed to themselves. They talked about clothes, and what was going to be the newest "thing." They talked about their bootleggers, and who was reliable. For the rest of the time they talked about the hitting of little balls about a field; the scores they had made that day and previous days, and the relative abilities of various experts in the art. Was the tennis-champion going to hold his own for another year? How were the American golf players making out in England? Was the polo team coming from Philadelphia and would they carry off the cup? There was a beautiful silver and gold-plated trophies with engraved inscriptions, which helped to hypnotize you into thinking that the hitting of little balls about a field was of major importance!

VIII

Sitting on the deck of this floating mansion, Bunny read about the famine on the Volga. The crops had failed, over huge districts, and the peasants were slowly starving; eating grass and roots, eating their dead babies, migrating in hordes and strewing their corpses along the way. It was the last and final proof of the futility of Communism, said the newspaper editors; and if Charlie Norman did not take the occasion to do some "josbing" of Bunny, it was only because Charlie never read a newspaper.

Bunny had talked with Harry Seager, and got a different view of famines in Russia. They were caused by drought, not by Communism; they had been chronic ever since the dawn of history, and their occurrence had never been taken as evidence of the futility of Tsarism. Conditons were bad now, because of the breakdown of the railroads. But people who blamed that on Communism overlooked the fact that the railroads had broken down before the revolution; and that under the Soviet administration they had had to stand the strain of three years of civil war, and of outside invasion on twenty-six fronts. Newspapers which had incited these invasions, and applauded the spending of hundreds of millions of American money to promote them, now blamed the Bolsheviks because they were not ready to cope with a famine!

You can understand how a young man with such thoughts in his mind would not fit altogether into this play party. He tried his best to be like the others, but they found out that he was different; and presently Charlie's mother took to sitting beside him. "Bunny," she said—for you were Bunny or Bertie or Bob or Beaumy to this crowd as soon as you had played nine holes of golf and had one drink out of anybody's hip-pocket flask—"Bunny, you go to the university, don't you? And I'm sure study some."

"Not very much, I fear."

American Imperialism Fears A Latin-American Bloc

American workers should welcome, rather than follow the capitalist press and condemn, the activities of Mexico in Nicaragua in support of the revolution there.

The Chamorro government, now succeeded by the Diaz regime, against which the revolution was aimed, is a puppet of American imperialism and under its rule there was more than a suspicion that the American state department and other representatives of Wall Street were preparing to use Nicaragua as a new base of operations against Mexico. They still are.

Representing the nationalist opposition to domination of Latin America by American imperialism, the Mexican government is certainly within its rights in giving all possible aid to the movements in other Latin-American countries which likewise oppose foreign domination.

But the rulers of America arrogate to themselves the privilege of assisting or opposing various political groups in Latin-America even to the extent of armed intervention as was the case recently in Nicaragua where, unless the capitalist press correspondents have lied consistently, the negotiations between the Chamorro government and the revolutionists were conducted on board an American battleship and under American supervision.

The fear of a Latin-American bloc against American imperialism is, of course, the motive behind the virulent attacks on Mexico following disclosures of sympathetic support for the Nicaraguan revolution. Mexico is the natural bulwark to American invasion and also the natural leader of an anti-imperialist movement in Latin-America.

The Chicago Tribune, one of the most outspoken baiters of Mexico, is demanding action on the Nicaraguan question. It says:

> Misguided benevolence has prevented the United States from protecting its rights against Mexican aggression and forced on this country a policy of soothing submission. The United States has had chronic provocation in border raids, the murder of American citizens in Mexico, and the seizure of American property. The United States has had to content its indignation with the unsuccessful Villa expedition, the Vera Cruz fiasco, and much letter-writing.
>
> . . . . . It is not expecting too much to hope that the administration will include the Nicaraguan affair in its literary horizon and make the ensuing epistle a strong one and a definite, plainspoken one.

The memory of the Tribune is conveniently faulty.

American aggression against Mexico did not begin with the period following the overthrow of Porfirio Diaz and the series of revolutions and counter-revolutions, with counter-revolutions generally fomented and financed by American capital, which ensued.

The whole state of Texas was once Mexican territory as was the state of California. They were taken from Mexico by armed force and it is also a historical fact that the United States once waged a war which is called the "Mexican War" in the school histories.

But these errors in fact which result in picturing the Pershing expedition and the bombardment of Vera Cruz under the Wilson regime as the only armed interventions by the United States, are of little importance compared with what the Tribune now advocates, i. e., prevention by any means possible of Mexico establishing such relations as she sees fit with other Latin-American republics.

If the state department takes the action advocated by the Tribune it is tantamount to a declaration that only Latin-American blocs which accept the policy of penetration of and conquest by American imperialism will be tolerated.

The attitude of the anti-Mexican American press toward the Nicaraguan incident should be the most powerful argument possible in convincing the Latin-American republics of the necessity of common action for self-defense.

Queen Marie Gets a Jolt—More Are Needed

> In a gold laminated wrap, collared with sable, a weed green felt hat draped with ostrich of the same shade, a matching charmeuse gown and gold brocade pumps and hose of the same shade, Queen Marie stepped from the royal train. Three large pearl necklaces of varied size, single large pearl earrings and several diamonds and pearl rings completed her costume. . . . . .

So the Chicago Tribune correspondent describes the get-up in which gaping curiosity seekers beheld the queen of a country whose workers and peasants have the lowest living standard in Europe as she entered the Toronto railway station.

It remained for representatives of Ukrainian societies in Toronto to give the bejewelled royal courtesan a severe jolt and again bring sharply to the attention of Canadians and Americans alike the terrible conditions under which the Roumanian masses live.

The same dispatch from which we quote above goes on to say:

> The incessant flow of laudation with which Queen Marie was greeted in Toronto was rudely interrupted, however, by the presentation to her by the Ontario Ukrainian community of a petition, respectfully but insistently, deploring conditions in Roumania under "your government." It drew her attention to alleged injustices accorded Ukrainians in Roumania in the matter of education, political and economic restrictions, the requisition of horses from peasants for military purposes, and the incarceration of about 2,500 political prisoners in Roumanian jails. . . .
> It ended: "In general we are convinced that living conditions of our brethren under your government are deplorable and far worse than they were before the great war."

A few more incidents of this kind and the royal parasite will be glad to believe that King Ferdinand is ill enough to require her return.

In the meantime the frenzied attempts to popularize the ruler of a country which can be used as a base for a new attack on the Soviet Union, in advance of a loan from American bankers, will proceed.

The oil deposits of Roumania will be at least part of the security for the loan and the sickening subservience of the American press will be described in detail in the official Roumanian press so that the prestige of the royal personage whom American imperialism is purchasing will be increased and its power of suppression enhanced.

How Stalin Repudiated the New Leader-Hearst Version of His Speech

By WILLIAM F. DUNNE.

THE editor of the New Leader having challenged the authenticity of the cable received from Comrade Stalin, a copy of which he received, repudiating the wholly untrue version of his criticisms of Comrade Zinoviev, which the New Leader reprinted verbatim from a Hearst hawse dispatch, and a repudiation of which the New Leader publicly promised to publish if Comrade Stalin would make such a repudiation, we published yesterday a cut of a certified copy of the cablegram from Comrade Stalin as received by The DAILY WORKER.

We publish also the statement of Comrade Stalin carried by the International Press Correspondence, Vol. 6, No. 63, its issue for the 7th of October.

THE editor of the New Leader tried to squirm out of the mess he had mixed for himself when he accepted a capitalist press dispatch as a true and accurate account of Comrade Stalin's utterances, and based his case upon the veracity of the Hearst press, by insisting that the words "affirm all July criticism" in the cable as received by us represented an attempt either by us or Comrade Stalin to evade the issue.

We call attention especially to the statement of Comrade Stalin published in the International Press Correspondence, a publication which carries all official statements of the Comintern International and its officials. Our readers will notice that the official version, signed by Stalin does NOT say "affirm all July criticism" but DOES say "affirm or deny" as cabled by the editor of the New Leader.

UNFORTUNATELY for this gentleman, the cut of the cablegram together with the statement of Comrade Stalin published in the number of the International Press Correspondence cited (which is available to all interested persons and the subscription rate of which is only six dollars per year) exposes the pitiful artifice to which he has resorted in an attempt to excuse and explain one of the most despicable attempts to distort the statements of world revolutionary leaders ever made in America.

THE editor of the New Leader, like the leaders of the moribound social patriot labor party and other enemies of the Communist International and the workers' and peasants' government of the Soviet Union, follows what is called an "inside strategy."

Such a strategy is resorted to by leaders of discredited and nearly defunct organizations when they have lost hope of winning new recruits and have to spend all their energy to keeping what they have.

"Inside strategy" of this kind specializes in downright deceptions designed to prove to the still faithful few that had as their decrepit organization may be what is outside of it is infinitely worse.

THE lengths to which leaders following this kind of strategy will go forced by the logic of their situation to indulge in more and more involved and dangerous deceptions, is obvious to every intelligent worker.

The editor of the New Leader, to use a term originating in the Roman arena when gladiators fought sword and shield with net and trident, has been caught in his own net, the net of deception he attempted to weave to show that leaders of the Communist International, the leader of the world revolution, had abandoned all idea of revolutionary struggle against world capitalism—as he, his paper and his party have.

We remind the editor of the New Leader again that he has promised to publish Comrade Stalin's cablegram.

British Put Limit on Rubber Exports to Bolster Prices

(Special to The Daily Worker)

LONDON, Oct. 27.—From November 1st, for three months, the new government regulations of rubber exports from Ceylon and Malaya provide for a reduction of the exportable allowance from the present 100 per cent to 80 per cent of production. The average price in the last quarter fell below 21 pence.

If the average price of rubber is below 21 pence (about 42 cents), but not under 15 pence (about 30 cents) per pound during any quarter, the exportable percentage of the standard production under the new rules will be cut by 10 per cent.

If, however, the reduction is from the figure of 100 per cent, the reduced percentage for the following quarter will be 80. If the average price for any quarter is between 21 pence and 24 pence there will be no change. If the increase under the regulation is an increase from 80 per cent the export percentage under the following quarter will be 100 per cent.

If the price in any quarter runs over 24 pence a 10 per cent increase in exports is permitted for the following quarter. If it exceeds 26 pence, the export percentage will be 10 per cent.

Comrade Stalin Exposes Social-Democratic Forgery.

We publish below a telegram which Comrade Stalin has addressed to The DAILY WORKER, the organ of our brother party in America:

"To the Editorial Board of the Central Organ of the Workers Party of America, The DAILY WORKER.

"Dear Comrade Editor:

"Kindly insert the following statement in your paper:

"On August 14 the New York quasi socialist weekly, the New Leader, printed, without indicating the source, falsified concluding remarks from an alleged and falsified version of a speech of mine at the plenum of the C. C. of the C. P. S. U.

"I have neither the possibility nor the desire to read all the inventions of the bourgeois and semi-bourgeois papers concerning the Soviet public men, and would not have paid attention to this usual falsehood of the capitalist press and of their underlings. However, a month after printing these falsified remarks, the New Leader sent me a telegram in which it asked me to 'affirm or deny authenticity of severe criticisms of Zinoviev attributed to you in American press reports of the proceedings of the Russian Communist Party Central Committee.' Not considering it possible to enter into correspondence with an organ which itself forged in a swindling manner 'remarks' from my speech and now has the audacity to ask me with an appearance of innocence about the genuineness of these 'remarks,' I ask you to allow me to state thru your paper that the report of the 'remarks of Stalin' published in the New Leader of August 14, 1926, has absolutely nothing in common with my speech at the plenum of the C. C. either in contents or in form or in tone, and that this report is thus a most complete and ignorant forgery.

"With Communist greetings.

September 21. "J. STALIN."

RYKOFF GIVES OPTIMISTIC REPORT TO COMMUNIST PARTY CONFERENCE ON DEVELOPMENT OF SOVIET INDUSTRY

(Special Cable to The DAILY WORKER.)

MOSCOW, Oct. 28.—An optimistic picture of Soviet industry was painted by Alexis Rykoff, chairman of the All-Soviet Council of Commissars, rendering a report on the economic condition of Soviet Russia before the Communist Party conference. The industries of the Soviet Union made a profit of 500,000,000 roubles ($250,000,000) during the fiscal year just closed, Rykoff declared. The report of Rykoff may have a direct bearing on discussions regarding recognition of the Soviet Union by the United States, if this question is brought up in the party conference. In the light of the optimistic report it is not anticipated that those who favor concessions to secure the recognition of the United States will make a great deal of headway.

NO RIGHT TO STRIKE IN AMERICA!

Current Events

By T. J. O'FLAHERTY

TOO much perfume spoiled the marital relations of the Countess Cowley, formerly an American actress. Perhaps the count rubbed it on thick, as a counter move against halitosis, and perhaps if he forgot his pride sufficiently to make a clean breath of it to the countess he might not be as he is today. On the other hand, e witness stated that the countess' gentleman friend followed a bottle of whiskey as the little lamb used to follow Mary. All in all, the doings of the British aristocracy have not lost anything in pungency with the passing of centuries.

MUCH excitement and indignation reigned in the house of commons when a labor member charged that drinking facilities in the house were so perfect that honorable members could not resist the temptation to overindulge. Honorable members of all parties were excited and a unanimous vote whitewashed the august assembly. Still none dared "call" the accuser, for the very good reason that he was speaking the truth.

• • •

PERHAPS the house of commons is the only place in Great Britain where bootlegging is indulged in. The liquor laws compel establishments that engage in the sale of spirituous beverages to close between the hours of 3 p. m. and 5 or 5:30 p. m., degending on the district. But in the house of commons an honorable member can have his little nip in a coffee cup during the prohibited hours and nobody seemed to care until this particular member got excited over it. How a revolutionary managed to get elected to the British parliament is one of the mysteries of modern times!

• • •

DONALD DAY, the Chicago Tribune's chief liar on the continent of Europe, had machine guns turned on the delegates to the Russian Communist Party conference in some Moscow theater. Junius Wood, the redbaiter Chicago Daily News reporter, sends a different story. The conference is several times more orderly than any capitalist convention held in the United States and Wood is able to send a story of the congress as he sees it. The Tribune man is in Riga digging in the counter-revolutionary rat holes for his misinformation. Anybody who reads the Chicago Tribune

DENOUNCE ULTRA-LEFT TENDENCIES AS OBSTACLE TO CONTACT WITH THE LEFTWARD MOVING MASSES OF LABOR

By JOHN PEPPER

(Special Cablegram to The DAILY WORKER.)

MOSCOW, U. S. S. R., Oct. 28.—In the discussion following Nicolai Bukharin's report, in which Manuilsky, Losovsky and Pepper took part, emphasis was laid upon the full agreement with the reporters' fundamental propositions.

Manuilsky pointed out that the main task of the Comintern was the struggle to destroy the pacifist illusions.

Pepper, analysing the ultra-left currents that have arisen within the labor movement since the existence of the Comintern, pointed out that the present

COOLIDGE MAY LOSE HIS GRIP ON U. S. SENATE

Booze and Slush Are Main Issues

(Special to The Daily Worker)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 28.—As the day on which the great American voter casts his ballot for his representatives, if he is a capitalist, and for his misrepresentatives if he is a worker, approaches, there is considerable difference of opinion whether Coolidge will have a safe majority in the senate for the remaining two years of his term.

The original issues that differentiated democrats from republicans are fast disappearing so that in this election campaign we find a perfect mulligan with large chunks of democracy in the elephant's stall and equally large chunks of republicanism sustaining the jackass.

Little has been heard of the tariff in this campaign, except that the republicans have rendered lip service to their old standby. Party lines are down more than ever and outside of the solid south it is a wise democrat or republican that can tell his own emhem. In the south the chronic partyites die, but they never surrender their political views. They haven't any.

The Spiritual Revival.

But for the liquor issue the present campaign would be as dead as a bar-

HAPGOOD MAKES HOT REPLY TO JOHN L. LEWIS

Never Received Letter Lewis Stole

(Federated Press)

GALLITZIN, Pa., Oct. 28.—In a statement issued here and sent to the press, Powers Hapgood, member of Local Union 1058, United Mine Workers of America, candidate for delegate to the American Federation of Labor, replies to the statements made by President Lewis at the A. F. of L. convention during the course of which he read a letter from Albert Coyle, editor of the Locomotive Engineers' Journal to Hapgood.

Hapgood's statement cites the fact that he never received such a letter and raises the question of how Lewis secured possession of it. He also deals with the problems of the United Mine Workers' Union and offers to debate any official or member of the union on the questions at issue in the present election campaign in the union.

The letter follows:

Gallitzin, Pa., Oct. 20, 1926

To the Officers and Members of District 2,

United Mine Workers of America

Dear Brothers

During the past two weeks the capitalist newspapers have been printing long articles pertaining to an alleged "Red Plot" to capture the United Mine Workers of America and the American trade union movement in general. Inasmuch as my name has figured somewhat in this publicity on account of a letter addressed to me which was published in full in certain papers and referred to in others and because this has caused good friends of mine to be severely criticized, I take this opportunity to answer the various charges made against us and to explain the whole situation.

In the first place the letter which has been the cause of all this publicity has never reached me. The first I knew of its existence was when it was made public by President Lewis in Detroit and then I saw it published in full in the New York Times. I do not know whether President Lewis got this letter by theft, or by getting someone else to steal it, or whether he just found it, but I am told that he has openly boasted at Detroit that he has the original copy of this letter which I have never seen and he has made no attempt to turn it over to me.

Issues in the Union.

As far as the contents of this letter are concerned, I have nothing to hide. The only harm that can come of having it made public is when President Lewis and the editors of capitalist owned papers talk about certain phrases of it and purposely give an untruthful impression of it. This letter was written to me by Albert Coyle, the editor of the Locomotive Engineers' Journal, because we are personal friends, and, as personal friends usually do, we have always talked frankly about things in which we are interested. His interests are not just confined to the Engineers' Journal but cover a wide range in the co-operative, labor party, and trade union movements, and he was in no way

SEN. JIM WATSON PROVEN MEMBER KU KLUX KLAN

Hoosier Is Hooked Up With Imperial Office

BULLETIN.

(Special to The Daily Worker)

FEDERAL BUILDING, ST. LOUIS, Mo., Oct. 28.—Sponsored by the ku klux klan for the vice-presidential nomination in 1924 and hailed as its potential candidate for the presidency in 1928, Senator James E. Watson, republican of Indiana, was identified this afternoon as a sworn member of the secret Imperial Council of the invisible Empire in a new sensation developing at the slush fund inquiry into Indiana senatorial campaign.

This testimony was given Senator James A. Reed, democrat of Missouri, by Wm. M. Rogers, of Indianapolis, who declared Watson had shown him a card of membership in the klan's highest and most secretive organization. Rogers swore he, too, was a member of the Imperial Council and that Watson's card matched his own.

This came in the fact of Watson's recent denial of membership in the klan, but Rogers explained that this imperial order of the masters' organization was maintained solely for important political personages who desired that their klan membership should be kept secret.

American Labor Will Not Surrender Strike Weapon

THE text of the supreme court decision in the Dorchy case shows that the American labor movement has not won the right to strike.

It gives the courts, or such other bodies as may be set up from time to time, the power to determine what strikes are justified and what strikes are criminal offenses.

The far-reaching effects of this decision upon the whole labor movement may be gathered from one of its paragraphs which states:

> The right to carry on a business—be it called liberty or property—has value. To interfere with this right without just cause is unlawful. The fact that the injury was inflicted by a strike is sometimes a justification. But a strike may be illegal because of its purpose, however orderly the manner in which it is conducted.

The question of violence on the part of the strikers does not enter into the matter, says Judge Brandies, the pet of the liberal elements, who wrote the decision. This is, of course, of great value to the enemies of labor who hitherto have generally based their case against strikes and strikers upon alleged acts of violence for which some form of proof had to be submitted.

The capitalists of America have forged a new weapon with which to strike at labor. The right to strike becomes now a matter of "justification" and the capitalist courts are empowered to determine this question.

It is interesting and instructive to note that the workers who made the fight against the Kansas Industrial Court—Alex Howat and August Dorchy—were expelled from the United Mine Workers' Union by President John L. Lewis because he, too, claimed that the strike was "illegal."

President Lewis finds himself in complete agreement with the supreme court and the enemies of labor, whose instrument it is.

What must the answer of the labor movement be to the threat to its elementary rights contained in the Dorchy decision?

It must state in uncompromising terms that it will not recognize such a decision and will not obey any legislation enacted or any special bodies set up to carry out this decision.

The American trade union movement and the whole workingclass must recognize that an attempt is being made to wrest the strike weapon from its grasp and determine resolutely to keep it, use it and broaden its purposes to include such political objectives as the nullification of the Dorchy decision.

INDICTMENTS CHARGING MURDER MADE AGAINST FRISCO UNIONISTS

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 28.—The grand jury early today returned indictments charging murder against eight men, including Archibald Mooney, vice-president and Pacific coast organizer of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America, and Paul Clifford, business agent of Local No. 483, Carpenters' Union.

The indictments were the outgrowth of the death of Campbell, scab carpentar. The carpentars' strike in San Francisco has been a long drawn out struggle with the strikers standing firm against armies of scabs and strikebreakers imported by the builders' association.

U. S. SUPREME COURT HITS AT LABOR UNIONS

Industrial Court Law of Kansas Upheld

By LAURENCE TODD

(Federated Press)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28.—Labor in America has no right to strike, says the federal supreme court. Neither the common law nor the fourteenth amendment to the constitution confers such a right upon the workers. Therefore the courts of Kansas had a right to punish August Dorchy, vice-president of District 14, United Mine Workers of America, for calling an illegal strike against the George H. Mackie Fuel Co.

"Liberal" Judges Join Reaction.

Decision to this effect was made by the federal supreme court Oct. 25, Justice Brandeis reading the opinion. Inasmuch as Brandeis and Holmes are the two members of the court who most often take the side of the workers, this opinion has created much surprise.

As set forth by Brandeis in his opinion, the Hawley case was this: Alex Howat and Dorchy, as district president and vice-president respectively, acting under authority of their executive board, called a strike on Feb. 15, 1921, at the Mackie mine in order to force the company to pay to a union member, formerly employed there, the sum of $150 which he claimed to be due him in increased rate of pay.

The wage scale at the mine required an increase of $1.35 a day after a miner passed the age of 19. This, the Mackie Co. claimed, violated the higher rate by producing evidence of his age, while the company offered conflicting evidence that he was a year younger than he claimed.

Industrial Court Forbids Strike.

The state industrial court forbade the union to call a strike for collection of the disputed claim. After the strike took place the claim was paid and the union officers were prosecuted and convicted of calling an illegal strike.

Orderly Strikes Illegal.

"The right to carry on business—be it called liberty or property—has value," says Brandeis. "To interfere with this right without just cause is unlawful. The fact that the injury was inflicted by a strike is sometimes a justification. But a strike may be illegal because of its purpose, however orderly the manner in which it is conducted.

"To collect a stale claim due to a fellow member of the union who was formerly employed in the business is not a permissible purpose. In the absence of a valid agreement to the contrary, each party to a dispute as to claim may insist that it be determined only by a court. To enforce payment by a strike is certainly coercion.

Strikes Are Crimes.

"The legislature may make such action punishable criminally as extortion or otherwise. And it may subject to punishment him who uses the power or influence incident to his office in a union to order the strike."

The walkout in this case was ordered only after the district executive board of the union announced that the Mishnuth claim has been approved by the joint board of miners and operators and that the company had refused to pay. Brandeis states that there was no evidence that the claim had been submitted to arbitration or that any contract existed under which it could be so submitted. It was two years old when the strike occurred.

A Threat Against All Unions.

By its latest action the federal supreme court has given a shock to American labor. Decision of Labor officials who helped find the Kansas Industrial Court law was dead. The decision in the Dorchy case not only affirms and legalizes the court but revives the court as a threat to the right of the workers to withhold their labor power.

Stop Deportation of Sormenti!

The arrest of Ensan Sormenti, secretary of the Anti-Fascist Alliance of North America, for deportation to Italy brings sharply into the foreground again an issue of tremendous and growing importance—the right of asylum for political refugees from the White Terror governments of Europe.

Turning its back on the traditional policy of America, the Coolidge administration has been following a systematic policy of rounding up Italian workers who have fled to America from the bloody Mussolini regime and instituting deportation proceedings against them. Acting in partnership with the representatives of the Fascist government, and on information furnished by them, the Department of Justice has been arresting the active workers in the Anti-Fascisti movement amongst the Italian population in America. The American partners of Mussolini hope to deal a death blow to this powerful movement by delivering Comrade Sormenti up to the vengeance of the Italian murder regime.

This is no ordinary case of deportation. The deportation of an antagonist of Fascism to Mussolini's Italy means a deliberate sentence to death.

International Labor Defense declares full solidarity with Sormenti and the other figures against Fascism in America, and summons all class conscious workers to the fight to preserve for them the right of asylum in America. The issues involved in this case are a matter of particularly great concern to organized labor. The dictatorship of Mussolini has destroyed the organized workers' movement of Italy by violence and murder. The deportation of those who have escaped from Italy to carry on the struggle against Fascism abroad and to expose it before the world, is a direct blow against the right of labor organizations in every country.

The organized workers of America must demand that the Coolidge government shall halt these deportation plans and cease to act as the bloodhound of Mussolini. Legal and moral support for Sormenti and his co-workers is support for the elementary rights and principles of the labor movement and should be put on the agenda of all workers' meetings. Effort reinforced by the most wide-spread agitation in this case is the duty of the labor movement.

Stop the deportation of Sormenti!

Hail the right of asylum for political refugees!

...r Senator Goes Deeper Into Soup

...organization had ordered the ...ent of the Indiana senator be...cause "the klan was under an obligation to him."

Meyers also drew the name of William F. Zumbrunn, general counsel of the klan, into the inquiry. Zumbrunn's duties in Washington, he said, consisted partly of exacting legislation favorable to the klan and "partly in coaxing senators."

To Consult Wizard.

Another amazing story of klan activities was told by James V. Bolen, former klan secretary of the state of Indiana, who declared a delegation of klansmen took the mayors of Indianapolis and Evansville to Washington to get the approval of Imperial Wizard Hiram W. Evans on local appointments. The trip was taken on klan funds, he added, chiefly to get Evans to approve the appointment of Charles J. Orbison, a democrat, as corporation counsel of Indianapolis by Mayor John L. Duvall, a republican. Duvall was one of the party.

The same trip also was described by Meyers, who said the klansman met in the office of Senator Watson while in Washington.

Bolen told of a second visit to Washington by Indiana klan leaders for the purpose of ousting Walter F. Bossert as grand dragon because the latter "would not go down the line for Watson." The witness confirmed the testimony of Ralph B. Bradford, a former Crown Point, Ind., klansman, that Watson had appended a session of klan leaders at Washington, over the ousting of Bradford.

Meyers, now attached to the office of the secretary of state in Indiana, said he worked as an organizer for the klan in Indiana and Minnesota. He was a "knighthawk" and "trouble-shooter" for the klan.

for anthentic foreign news should have his head examined.

THERE was a free tag day in Chicago yesterday. Girls nattily dressed were giving away navy-day tags free. Admirals, rear-admirals (so called because they are usually to be found sitting in swivel chairs), boasted of the strength of the navy before rotary clubs and chambers of commerce. Excessively enthusiastic big-navy men rallied against the Washington conference and pulled the British lion's tail and the Mikado's mustache. The American navy was crippled by British diplomacy, they said.

AND William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor did his bit to help the big navy popularization plan of the American imperialists. The keel of a new cruiser was laid in honor of "Teddy" Roosevelt yesterday, the anniversary of "terrible Teddy's" birthday. Green agreed to drive the first rivat into the keel. When will the American working class drive a spike into Green's political career? American labor is officially in a united front with the most reactionary section of American capitalism.

THERE are some people, well-intentioned liberals, who believe that the officials of the A. F. of L. formulate national and international policies independently of any consideration of the policies of the government which is the executive committee of the American capitalist class as a whole, with particular regard for the—at the time—dominant wing. The Mexican question is a case in point. Gompers ostentatiously, took the Mexican labor movement under his wing at the same time that American capitalism submitted a policy of cautious diplomacy for the mailed fist.

WALL STREET was out for bigmony ovar South America and the function of the A. F. of L. was to act as an auxiliary to Wall Street. Gompers coddled the Mexican labor leaders, got them to denounce Communists and to expel a few Communists from the federation. But somehow or other Wall Street did not fare as well as it expected. There was trouble over the mineral and land laws. Trouble developed with the church. The U. S. government resumed its threatening attitude and now we find the A. F. of L. looking coldly on the Mexican government and unofficially willing to withdraw from the Pan-American Federation of Labor, of which the Mexican labor movement is the second bigrest chunk.

NOW that our state department is unofficially charging Calles with trying to organize a Latin-American bloc against American imperialism, all those signs are worthy of serious consideration. Intervention in Mexico is not out of the question. And with William Green, driving the first rivet in an American warship there is little hope that the A. F. of L. bureaucracy will raise any serious objection to a southern march of American troops and navies.

Fight Obstacles to Contact With Masses Moving to Leftward

day ultra-left is unlike the left of 1921 who, as pointedly put by Lenin, were distinguished by their revolutionary impatience. Today, on the contrary, the ultra-left is distinguished by its defeatism back of both, by its might of the proletarian revolution. These ultra-left tendencies must be crushed since their activity prevents the Communist parties from finding contact with the leftward moving masses of workers.

Losovsky stressed the huge part played by America in the breakdown of European capitalism, remarking upon the role played by Germany as America's agent. In contrast to America the official labor movement in the Pacific countries, for instance in Australia, is being revolutionized. It is no mare chance that the question of calling a Pacific trade union congress was brought up by the Australian trade unions. The new labor movement developing in the semi-colonial countries makes acute the question of the unity of the labor movement and the creation of a new international.

To ensure the stabilization of socialism in the U. S. S. R. he pointed out, it is first of all necessary to ensure the stabilization of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union.

Raskolnikoff pointed to the immense world importance of the events in China.

After Bukharin's concluding speech, emphasizing the importance of carrying on a struggle against bourgeois pacifism, the necessity of carrying on work within the trade unions, and the concentration of energy in the struggle against trust capital, the conference unanimously, with no abstaining votes, passed a resolution approving the principles of the policy of the delegation of the All-Union Communist Party and its work within the Communist International, binding the delegates to continue the resolute ideological struggle against anti-Leninist tendencies within the Comintern whose protagonists, being in a larger or smaller measure at one with the opposition in the Communist Party of the Soviet Union, have, in the persons of the more consistent groups, already clearly passed towards the counter-revolutionary camp, instructing the delegation of the All-Union Communist Party to carry on within the Comintern such a line towards the Communist Party of the Communist parties as to preclude the theory and practice of the so-called freedom of fractions and groupings, resolutely condemning the factional anti-Leninist work of the opposition in the All-Union Communist Party within the Comintern, fully adhering to the decisions of the twelfth plenum and the Plenum of the Central Committee and the Central Control Commission on reliaving Zinoviev of work in the Communist International.

The Conference also adopted an address in reply to yesterday's address of greeting from the Central Committee of the Communist Party of Germany wherein the conference pointed out that the defeatist ideology that has appeared and taken shape among separate groups of Communists is but a small passing episode in the victorious development of the Communist international.

COOLIDGE MAY LOSE HIS GRIP ON U. S. SENATE

Booze and Slush Are Main Issues

rel of pickled herring. Booze has supplied the motive power in this battle for "personal liberty" provided liberty is taken to mean only the right of the free American citizen to gussle his booze without the probability of a stool-pigeon holding him up for ransom and confiscating his liquor to boot. Free speech, free press or a free right to strike has nothing to do with liberty)

"Republicanism and Prosperity" is the slogan of the republicans, but the democrats are equally positive that the goddess of plenty is at least as much at home with a democratic administration as with a republican one. The democrats are "viewing with alarm" the rather odoriferous record of the republican party since the election of Harding while Coolidge came out at the tenth hour with a speech in favor of maintaining wages" at the present high level" in an effort to catch the vote of the better paid skilled workers.

G. O. P. Hit Hard.

The republicans have been hit hard by the slush fund investigations. Illinois and Pennsylvania are outstanding political cesspools in the matter of slush funds. The senate slush investigation committee was under the chairmanship of Senator James R. Reed of Missouri and he made good use of his powers, so much so that in all probability he is a likely candidate for the presidential nomination on the democratic ticket, particularly if fortuns favors the democrats next Tuesday. Reed is a wat, middle westerner and almost a southerner, a protestant who is on good terms with the catholic. He is not friendly to labor, yet makes his attacks on "big business" acid and frequant enough to fool the gullible working class into the belief that Reed must be their friend because he attacks the Wall Street demon.

In all probability Frank L. Smith will be elected in Illinois, the entirely unrounded by slush, and is a dry supported by wets. But even insull slush funds are no barriar to election provided tha boys "go down the line" for the regular candidate as the klan boys say. The native sons of southern Illinois will vote for Smith because he is not a catholic and because they believe that the stuff they manufacture in the kitchen has anything that could be gotten out of a regular distillery beaten by several stews.

Two Insull Pals.

George E. Brennan, an Insull pet, will most likely pull the vote in the democratic sections. Brennan is the favorite of big business in Illinois since they know there is no chance of electing Magill, the dry gantleman who is supported by Julius Rosenwald, multimillionaire mail-order magnate. Brennan is a more disciplined tool of big business than Frank L. Smith. The latter is in with the gang of political burglars headed by Len Small that the big fellows have been trying to get rid of for several years.

In all probability Smith will be elected, but it is not at all likey that he will be seated. But bis machine will not lose. Small can appoint another member of the gang to take Smith's place, or he can restore the governorship and take the seat for himself.

Lost by The Wayside.

Parley Parker Christianson's candidacy on some sort of progressive platform has apparently fallen by the wayside. The Christianson had close connection with the labor movement and was once candidate for national president on the Farmer-Labor Party ticket the officials of the Illinois and Chicago Federations of Labor endorsed Frank L. Smith, the insull candidate and ignored Christianson. Then the letter made the mistake of not-raising any working-class issues but undertook to purify politics, a task which Hugh Magill, the mail-order candidate is better fitted for. The working class have no interest in "purifying" the stinking cesspool of capitalism. Let the capitalists hire their own scavengers. And ambitious reformers should not make the mistake of being too respectable.

So much for Illinois, except to say that the labor fakers are either supporting Brennan or Smith.

Slush Without End.

In Pennsylvania Vare is almost certain to be elected but almost certain not to be seated. Vare spent about $600,000 to win in the primaries. Senator Pepper, one of his opponents spent twice as much and the dry hypocritical reformer, Pinchot spent half as much as Vare.

William B. Wilson, scab-mine owner, former secretary of labor and red baiter, is running on the democratic ticket against Vare. Wilson has been endorsed by the officials of the Pennsylvania Federation of Labor of which the socialist, James Maurer, is president.

The only workingclass ticket in the field in Pennsylvania are the candidates of the Workers (Communist) Party. The workers of the greatest industrial state in the country will have an opportunity to express their protest against the capitalist system by voting for the Workers (Communist) Party candidates.

Smith and Milla.

In New York, the contest between Al Smith and Ogden Mills for governor holds the center of the stage. In all probability Smith will carry the state by the biggest majority he ever received in any election. William Randolph Hearst, officially a democrat, is supporting the millionaire Republican, Mills. Hearst has sometimes been regarded as a sort of perennial leadar of third party movements on the eastern seaboard, but if leopards don't change their spots politicians sometimes do Hearst is a loyal supporter of Calvin Coolidge, Henry Ford and all that is biggest in capitalism. But so is Al Smith for that matter. A struggle between ambitious politicians, each supported by different groups of capitalist interests but ready to serve capitalism as a whole! Smith is a loyal tool of capitalism and more useful than Mills for the very good reason that Al shouted "fish for sale" in his youth while Mills had his fish served to him by a braided flunkey.

The senatorial race is between Wadsworth and Wagner, republican and democrat respectively. Odds in favor of Wadsworth, the SMith may carry Wagner along with him. All are wet. There is rumor of a deal between Smith and Wadsworth, but this can be discounted. Wagner is a Tammany judge and likes himself fairly well.

Carries Labor Banner.

The workingclass banner in this state is carried by the Workers (Communist) Party, which has a state ticket in the field.

Another contest that is attracting nation-wide attention is the struggle between William M. Butler, republican and mill magnate and David I. Walsh, democrat and corporation lawyer. Butler is the only candidate in the field that Coolidge issued an appeal in his behalf. Butler is an reactionary a candidate as ever stood on the senate floor. Walsh is a conservative catholic and a willing tool of Cardinal O'Connell, the man who was chiefly responsible for defeating the anti-child labor law in Massachusetts. Walsh has a sporting chance but the odds are in favor of Butler.

K. K. K. in Indiana.

In Indiana the odium attached to the Ku Klux Klan may dynamite the two republican senators out of office and give the democrats their chance The Reed investigation may help some. Political veterans are not optimistic. They know that Jim Watson has a goodly crop of ballot counters and feel that he would be an awful fool if he did not advise his help to count right. No section of labor has a ticket in the field in the Hoosier state.

In Minnesota the prospects for the farmer-labor candidate Magnus Johnson are gloomy. The reactionary fakers who gained control of the organization have been busy making deals with the republicans and democrats. The official organ of the party has, accepted advertisements from both capitalist parties. The state campaign manager, William Mc Ewen is a chamber of commerce man and big business booster. Others of like ilk are now running the Farmer Labor Association. They have no more business in a workingclass organization than has Judge Elbert H Gary.

The Minneapolis Tribune carried a sensational story last week of a deal between Congressman O. J. Kvale, of the seventh district and the state democratic committee, which would give democratic support to farmer labor candidates provided they supported the program of the democrats in the house. Kvale is said to have urged his associates on the ticket to follow his example, but only Kvale committed himself in writing, according to the Tribune which publishes have been written by Kvale to C. A. excerpts from a letter alleged to Quist, chairman of the democratic state committee.

Mr. Kvale in his letter to Quist, said in part: "I want in this letter to assure you and the democratic state central committee of my co-operation in every way possible. That co-operation will receive its inspiration from the common cause, which we espouse. You know that for all these years I have fought the republican machine as consistently and persistently as the truest democrat, to say the least. You know that that opposition will continue, and we both know that in the seventh district our joint efforts have been successful against that machine up to this time. I am hoping that it can continue and be strengthened by a closer co-partnership."

Non-Partisans Join Dems.

"Mr. Oldfield has told you," the letter continued, "how closely I have been identified with the democratic organization and its work in Washington. If re-elected, I look to continue that as the most effective protest against the party policies of the republican party. I shall be glad to co-operate in every posible way in the election of anti-republican candidates to congress, who espouse progressive principles, regardless of the technical label under which they ... it in principles that matter."

Replying to Kvale, Quist reminded him that the Non-Partisan league, which has been "mainly responsible for your election to congress, has formally expressed affiliation with the democratic party in Minnesota."

Officials of Labor Show Their First Concern Is with Old Party Politics

By J. LOUIS ENGDAHL.

THE present congressional campaign has again revealed many outstanding officials of labor as being old party politicians first, and secondly, or not at all, concerned with the actual problems of the working class.

This is the only explanation for the fact that President William Green, head of the American Federation of Labor, shouts democrat, while the heads of the various railroad brotherhoods are yelling republican in the present senatorial struggle in Ohio.

Under the tutelage of Samual Gompers, the A. F. of L. always trailed the donkey in its political aspirations. The democratic middle class politicians were willing to listen to Gompers at greater length than the politicians of great capitalism in the republican national conventions, that Gompers habitually attended. William Green has the additional incentive, however, of having always been an Ohio democrat. Instead of developing the independent political power of the workers, as he was repeatedly ordered to do by numerous conventions of the United Mine Workers of America, in which he rose to the position of international secretary-treasurer, Green kept ginad to, the donkey's tail, had himself elected democratic state senator from his home town of Coshocton, and no loyal were his services on behalf of the ruling class of the state that he was "lifted" to the presidency of the state senate. Green, therefore, in order to maintain his political alliances in Ohio, issues a letter endorsing the candidacy of Atlee Pomerene, the democratic candidate for United States senator

This Pomerene, who has an anti-labor record already in the United States senate, is denounced by the railroad brotherhoods as "positively dangerous." The railroad officials ask how any worker can vote for a man whose prejudices against the labor movement are so intense and personal as Pomereoe's seem to be. In the senate, Pomerene was just as loyal to the railroad corporation fiefdoms as Kellogg and Poindexter, the former now secretary of state in Coolidge's cabinet.

But the railroad brotherhoods offer no place of Pomerene, none of less than the senior Senator, Frank B. Willis, candidate for reelection who is attacked by the A. F. of L. officials.

The railroad outfit is closely tied up to the republican crowd. The infamous Watson-Parker bill was sponsored jointly in the house and senate by these two reactionary republicans, Senator Watson and Representative Parker. W. N. Doak, legislative agent in Washington of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, likes Willis, because it is claimed ba is a White House favorite, which means that he stands in wall with the Coolidge gang.

Senator Willis is denounced by the A. F. of L. officials because of his bostility to the Ohio Workmen's Compensation Law. As Ohio govanor ba signed the Gallagher Bill, which repealed the mine run law which the Ohio miners advocated and for which they had fought for 25 years. So that's Willis.

Thus the nonpartisan policy of the American Federation of Labor, clashing with the nonpartisan policy of the railroad brotherhoods, effactively cancel each other. Labor's vote is thus neutralized on the advice of the old party politicians in leading places in the labor movement. No greater service could be rendered the anti-labor capitalist interests.

But this isn't all. Laurence Todd, the Federated Press correspondent at Washington, reports that the International Association of Machinists has refused to take sides as between the "two bad political eggs in Ohio, and that President Robertson of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Fireman was likewise loath to find any difference between them." Yet these same neutrality politicians become highly indignant at the indifferent attitude that workers display toward the electoral struggle. They do not come out for labor's own party. They are just a dead weight in the class fight.

Great masses of workers in Ohio will not be deceived by this "nonpartisan" spectacle presented to them by the officialdom as workers' political action. They must inevitably come to the conclusion that all so-called "friends" as well as "enemies" in the employers' political organizations are equally black foes of the workingclass.

Evidence of the awakening of Ohio labor is seen in the renewed efforts in that state toward the building of the Labor Party.

The struggle for independent political action in Ohio, developing during this campaign in spite of the betrayal of the officialdom, must be redoubled after the election day has passed, when the so-called "nonpartisanism," no matter which way the election goes, will be thoroly discredited.

Ohio labor, thruout the great industries of that state, can well set an example to the workers of the land in the crystallization of the demand for independent political action of the workers thru their own Labor Party.

CHICAGO LABOR TO HONOR DEBS' MEMORY OCT. 31

I. L. D. Holds Memorials Thruout Country

Wide interest is being aroused among the workers of Chicago, who hailed Debs scores of years ago after the great Pullman strike, and who have cheered him at dozens of meetings, in the Debs memorial meeting which will be held at the Temple Hall, Marshfield and Van Buren, on Saturday, October 30, 1926, at 8 p. m., to pay tribute to the departed labor fighter and revolutionary.

At this meeting the role of Eugene V. Debs in the American labor movement, his work in shaping its course and destiny and traditions will be spoken of by the speakers who were his friends and who worked with him in the labor movement when Gene Debs was at the height of his powers.

James P. Cannon, secretary of International Labor Defense, on the national committee of which Debs served since the inception of the organization, will be the main speaker. Ralph Chaplin, who served his term in Leavenworth as a class war prisoner, and is famous as the I. W. W. poet, will also speak. Hyman Schoehl, general organizer of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America, will speak, as will Carl Haessler, who is editor of the Federated Press and former class war prisoner. Matilda Kniousek, secretary of the Czecho-Slovak section of I. L. D., will speak in her native tongue.

Admission to this meeting will be free, and it is intended to start off the I. L. D "Debs Enrollment Campaign" of organization at this meeting.

SECRET THREAT TO NICARAGUANS

Ignores Treaty to Aid Dictator Chamorro

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28.—Secretary of State Kellogg refuses as yet to make public the instructions he sent to Corinto, Nicaragua, to the American minister, who has tried to mediate between the Chamorro military dictatorship and the rebel liberal forces, who demand that Vice-President Sacasa be returned to power in accordance with the decision at the last election in the republic.

Reports from Corinto are that Kellogg warned the liberals that they must not receive shipments of arms from Mexico. The liberals broke up the parley, saying that without supplies of war materials they could not restore constitutional government.

Ignore Treaty Obligation.a

Kellogg and President Coolidge are caught between their solemn treaty obligations to refuse recognition to the Chamorro regime—because it is based on a military seizure of power—and their anxiety lest the liberals shall co-operate with Mexico in extending the morel leadership of radical Mexico to the southward.

If Chamorro carries out his scheme of appointing Adolfo Diaz, former dictators, to the presidential office, the liberals and the Mexican adherents of their cause will fight on.

Restore Constitution With Guns.

Kellogg cannot fairly refuse recognition of Sacasa's government if it is finally established, because it is the restoration of a constitutional authority which was recognized by the United States before Chamorro's coup.

Belgium "Stabilizes" Coin by Borrowing a Sum of $150,000,000

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—The Belgian franc disappeared from the list of foreign exchange quotations today, and in its place appeared the new form of Belgian currency used exclusively in foreign trade—the belge. This is in accordance with the new stabilization plan, made possible thru the sale in the international markets of $100,000,000 of new thirty-year 7 per cent. Belgian government bonds, of which $50,000,000 is offered in America today at 94.

The Belgian franc, to be used hereafter only in Belgian domestic trade, has been stabilized at 176.3 to the British pound and 26 to the American dollar. This is equivalent to 2.75 cents for the franc, or about one-seventh of its pre-war value.

The new belga, quoted for the first time today at 13.85 cents for demand and 13.90 cents for cables, is equal in value to five paper francs, and with a definite gold equivalent of 209211 grams. Belgium's money, which has been subject to wide fluctuation since the German invasion of the country in 1914, now has the support of the leading banks in Europe and America, making it for the first time in twelve years a proper medium for the transaction of international trad

BERLIN CONSENTS TO DISCUSTING REVERE CASE OF MONARCHIST PROPERTY

BERLIN, Germany, Oct. 28.—The Communists, who stubbornly fought the Hohenzollern property settlement bill in the Prussian diet, have presented a motion that the bill should be referred back to the diet for reconsideration. They take the ground that it had been debated on incomplete and faulty information.

MUSSOLINI NOT TO CHANGE THE ITALIAN SENATE

300 Fascists to Rule the Chamber of Deputies

ROME, Oct. 28.—Facing opposition by the big industrialists and royalists to the scheme proposed by his old, Rossoni, to abolish the present Italian senate and create a new one by appointing selected members of fascist labor unions and employers' organizations, Mussolini has decided to leave the senate as it is for the present and carry out the idea principally in the lower house—the chamber of deputies.

By this plan 300 members of the chamber of deputies will be chosen from among fascist labor leaders and employers' corporations. The rest of the deputies, below 50 per cent, would, under the dictator's scheme, be elected on a ballot with two lists, the fascist party and the opposition, with the usual terrorism of any who dared run on or vote for the opposition.

Rossoni, a renegade anarcho-syndicalist, is now secretary of corporations, the office binding fascist labor unions to the employers. His plan was not approved by the industrialists and Mussolini knew it was felt that twenty-hundred men could not take over the senate. Mussolini aims to appoint selected ones to the senate after they have shown themselves strongly fascist in the chamber.

Berlin Coal Famine Shows German Unions as Strike Breakers

BERLIN, Oct. 28.—Berlin is threatened with a coal shortage due to the British miners' strike. Because of the large coal shipments to England the great reserves dumped in the Ruhr are entirely gone.

Shipments to Berlin do not exceed the daily demand, and as the mines which are now heavy fall ship ments to the harbors for exports to hold their new markets, there is a car shortage for Berlin shipments.

To relieve the shortage, plans are being made to buy from Poland large quantities of Upper Silesian surplus coal.

The coal famine exposes the falsity of the claims made by the reformist Amsterdam International Federation of Trade Unions that little coal was going from Germany to England and that German unions were not, therefore, helping to break the British strike.

The class will be under the general direction of J. Louis Engdahl, editor of The DAILY WORKER. He will be assisted by Harry Kleiny, who supervises the Worker Correspondence section The DAILY WORKER. Lectures will be given by members of the editorial staff of The DAILY WORKER, including William F. Dunne, T. J. O'Flaherty, Harrison George and Thurber Lewis. Jay Lovestone, M. A. Stolar and Nancy Miriloff are scheduled to give talks from time to time.

Meet Each Week.

The classes will meet each week on Friday nights. Students are promised a full year of interesting discussion and study, as the class leaders will be dealing with one of the most vital factors of the labor movement—the labor press and labor publicity.

Practical experience in editing will be given as the students will edit, as well as write for The American Worker Correspondent, the publication of the twenty-five writers of The DAILY WORKER.

COME FRIDAY NIGHT READY FOR WORK.

THREE PRIZES OFFERED WORKING CLASS WRITERS FOR BEST NEWS STORIES

Three splendid books will be given as prizes to the workers who send in the best worker correspondent stories between now and Nov. 3.

The first prize will be an intensely interesting and important book by Friedrich Eggels, "The Peasant War in Germany." This is just off the press and is a classic in its first American publication. Who will be the worker correspondent to get this fine book?

The second prize will be that famous collection of vivid Red Cartoons. There are over seventy cartoons by seventeen leading proletarian artists.

For the thing prize, the boardbound edition of the famous Russell-Nearing Debate has been selected. Bertrand Russell is known as an intellectual giant of England, and Scott Nearing has one of the keenest minds in America. It is a book worth having.

The prizes will be awarded Thursday, Nov. 3. Send in that story now that you have been thinking about. It may win a prize—and, anyway, your fellow workers want to read it!

Behind the Scenes in Canada

By F. O. K.
(Worker Correspondent.)

EDMONTON, Alta., Can., Oct. 20.—I read your paper and I enjoy the straightforward manner in which you deal with human problems and I thought that you might be interested to know a bit of the rottenness that is permeating Alberta's affairs. The population here is something around 67,000 people and of town is not near enough work for those that live here, and certainly less for the outsiders, other Canadians, Americans and foreigners.

There is almost no manufacturing here and the town is kept alive by the provincial farmers. There is a large foreign population here and in this province, and as many more are coming. Most of these people are unable to read or write other than their own language.

The Canadian Pacific railroad is of course getting a large sum for transporting these people and with them—the C. P. R.—I suppose the thought is: Why worry about Alberta's troubles, concerning immigration when unfortunate foreigners have been misled by glowing accounts of the wonderful opportunities in Canada, which they find to their worst kind of "bunk" when they reach "Fair Alberta." They are standing around the streets here in destitution.

ONE of them was recently offering his prayer beads to the public for the price of a meal. A large crowd of men have been lured to Alberta to work in the harvest at fabulous prices, and these, too, have been betrayed. There has been much bad weather, so that men could not work and during these delays the farmers—in many cases—have refused to feed their help. These men, then, have been obliged to go to the nearest town and pay $1.00 for a bed and 40 cents per meal. When these harvest hands become absolutely impoverished they the drive out of town or thrown in jail. Only recently two of those harvest workers were passing thru Edmonton and they loitered a bit. Before they had been in town two hours they were arrested for vagrancy and given six weeks at Fort Saskatchewan, a provincial prison twenty miles from Edmonton.

I am told by men that served there that the place is unspeakable. Men are lashed there and then salt is rubbed into their wounds. In fact, I am led to believe that this prison is much like the one known as Peter Paul in Russia in the time of the czar. A judge here, or a police magistrate, is absolute in their decisions under what is known as the British North-American Act. This act is a relic of British tyranny that is being denounced by all progressive people.

One is denied a trial by jury and they are not even allowed to plead their own cases. The merest matter of becoming a British subject is of no earthly use to the foreigner or the American if he fails into the law. He will certainly be insulted by all that has to do with the court and in most cases "treated rough." If the "British subject" becomes old and impoverished and physically broken in Canada he is obliged to ask those in authority for succor. In such case every [illegible] effort will be used to pass [illegible] on. It certainly does [illegible] one has become [illegible] to pay appeal

PROGRESSIVES IN DISTRICT NINE WORRY J. LEWIS

Golden Tries to Stop Brennan Meeting

(By Worker Correspondent)

SHAMOKIN, Pa., Oct. 28.—The Lewis machine in this locality is worried over the progress made by the propaganda of the progressives who are supporting the national ticket in the United Mine Workers of America behind the candidacy of John Brophy, William Brennan and William Stevenson.

Golden with Lewis.

This region is known as District 9 of the U. M. W. of A., of which Christ Golden is president. We decided to hold a meeting on October 23 in order to give the miners an opportunity to hear representatives of the opposition to John L. Lewis present their program. William J. Brennan, of Scranton, candidate for secretary-treasurer, was scheduled to appear, in addition to a speaker in the Polish language. When news of the meeting reached the district office President Golden notified the superintendent of schools that the use of the school hall should be denied the progressives. The superintendent, being a political hack, obeyed Golden's instructions and the meeting could not be held on that day.

The Meeting Was Held.

But on the following day the meeting was held in another part of the town and in a public school. Brennan spoke and so did a Polish speaker. The speakers presented the program of the progressive ticket, the high spots of which are the organization of the unorganized, the nationalization of the mining industry, solidarity between the bituminous and anthracite miners, a labor party and the restoration to membership in the union of all those who were expelled illegally by the bureaucracy.

The miners present at the meeting received the speech with enthusiasm and promised to work hard until election day to carry this message to every member of the union in this district.

To Distribute Papers.

We are actively working to distribute the "Coal Miner," national organ of the progressives, which we expect here this week, and the Polish weekly, "Trybuna Robotnicza," which is rendering valuable service to the progressive cause.

Under the slogan, "Save the Union," the progressives here aim to line up this section 100 per cent behind the Brophy ticket.

Denver Dedicates New Lyceum Building With Daily Worker Banquet

By a Worker Correspondent

DENVER, Colo., Oct. 28.—Members of the Workers (Communist) Party, Young Workers League, their friends and families attended a banquet on Sunday evening, October 24, in the banquet hall of the newly erected Labor Lyceum.

A number of the comrades present made speeches urging everyone to do all in their power to help The DAILY WORKER in its present financial difficulty.

Wm. Dietrich, candidate for governor on the Workers (Communist) Party ticket, was the toastmaster.

Comrade L. Tuechmann, president of the Labor Lyceum Association, made a stirring plea in Yiddish, urging all the Jewish comrades to come to the rescue of The DAILY WORKER even tho they are continually supporting The Daily Freiheit.

Members of the Young Workers League were of great service in serving the banqueters.

The banquet was started by the audience singing "The International."

At the conclusion of the banquet a number of Jewish and Russian comrades sang Russian songs until a late hour.

The net proceeds which will amount to about $60.00 will ha sent to the national office immediately. One-fourth will go to The Young Worker and the other three-fourths will go to The DAILY WORKER.

Italy's Play for Syria and Syria's Revolt

THE furious pace at which Italian imperialism is developing is again indicated by the report, reliably given in the Journal de Geneve, a paper close to the league of nations' affairs, that the approaching conversations of the French foreign minister, Briand, with Mussolini will take up the question of transferring the mandate over Syria, given to France in 1920, to Italy. In return Italy is to renounce all claims to Morocco and Tunis, the north African reserve of French imperialism.

Whether or not Italy secures the mandate over Syria, it is certain that the Italian-inspired demand of Spain for Tangiers has thrown France into a frenzy of fear at the prospect of a loss of position in the Mediterranean and [illegible] Africa. The tremendous reserve of man power for its army—which is now the largest in Europe, if not in the world—that is afforded by the 25,000,000 inhabitants of French colonies in north Africa, who gave 750,000 colored troops to France in the world war and who compose an ever greater proportion of its armed troops, is not a light matter for France. And, in addition, there is the wealth of mineral resources, especially in [illegible]

It would not, therefore, be improbable that France would think of handing Syria to Italy in return for other assurances. This is all the more possible when the continued development of the revolutionary movement in Syria is held in mind. French policies in Syria have been anything but successful. The rebellion of the Djebel Druses is by no means liquidated. The former high-commissioner, M. de Jouvenel, has been recalled and another French colonial dictator, M. Ponsot, put in his place. And still the rebels continue to harrass the French in the regions of Aleppo, Baalbeck and Djebel Druze, the French have suffered sharp defeats, and the hospitals of Damas and Lihan are filled with the wounded. Near Baalbeck, Fawzik Bey Haidar, reported dead by the French communiques, has reappeared at the head of the insurgents. It is reported further that in the district of Djebel Druze, a number of Moroccan soldiers in the troops commanded by Colonel Kalah, went over to the rebels and presented a united front with them against French imperialism.

Still further, a congress was recently held in El Azra which elected a national government. All the rebel groups pledged themselves to a single leader-ship and the army is being reorganized, trained, improved and augmented daily under the ablo direction of Rashid Bey Falik, who led the Sanjeghis at Arfa. Rashid Bey Falik, the commanding general of the national army is a former governor of Aleppo.

ITALY is quite anxious to secure control over Syria for a number of reasons. The absence of grains, cereals, potatoes and other necessities, the substantial import of which has resulted in a passive trade balance for Italy, can be largely overcome by Syria, which produces these necessities in great quantities. Italy also desires a country where it can dump emigrants. It wants, furthermore, the weakening of its prestige in the Mediterranean and Near East, a blow in Asia Minor for a possible onslaught against Turkey. And in securing Syria it will, paradoxically, get greater support from Great Britain in its imperialist adventures by further threatening Great Britain's domination of the Mediterranean and the route to China and Asia; Syria faces the British base, Cyprus Island, on the east, as the Italian dominated Dodecanese Islands face it on the west.

...MUNISTS ASK ...KERS TO QUIT THE OLD PARTIES

...se Need of Action by Labor As Class

"It is significant that the Workers (Communist) Party is holding the ...ness meeting in this congres-...l campaign in Chicago, in which ...es are urged to turn against the ...old capitalist parties," declared Louis Engdahl, Communist candi-...for United State senator from ...ois, speaking at Northwest Hall, ...th and Western Ave. "I have not ...rd of a single other gathering be-...g held by any organization even ...aiming to espouse working class ...litical action in this campaign.

"This condition helps emphasize ...he fact that the pre-war organizations ...hat claimed to have a revolutionary ...asis have been practically liquidated. ...hey are quickly disappearing."

Reviews Role of Debs.

Engdahl reviewed the role of ...ugene V. Debs in the labor move-...ent during the last half century and ...howed why the Workers (Commu-...ist) Party had fallen heir to the best ...hat Debs had stood for in the pre-...ar labor movement. Engdahl pre-...icted that 1928 will see an effective ...rystallization for independent politi-...al action of the workers in Chicago.

Other speakers were Jay Lovestone, ...ader of the central executive com-...ittee of the Workers (Communist) ...rty and Sam Darcy, secretary of ...he Young Workers (Communist) ...ague.

Lovestone reviewed the role of the ...Workers (Communist) Party in the ...merican labor movement, declaring ...hat workers were coming to know ...he Communists as "the man who is ...t giving the boss hell at the right ...me."

Blame Trail for 5-Day Week.

Lovestone showed that the New ...ork furriers, under Communist ...adership, were the trail blazers for ...he five-day week, winning the ...horter work-week thru the power of ...heir own organization, combatting ...ot only the employers but the yellow ...ocialist Forward element and the ...reen officialdom in the American ...ederation of Labor.

"Our Communist Party is the steel ...ame of the American working class," ...aid Lovestone. "The working class ...n this country is slow in getting ...tarted, but once it gets started in the ...ight for its own interests, it can be ...expected to move forward rapidly."

Darcy pointed out the strenuous ...efforts being made by the employing ...interests to win the workingclass ...youth, numbering 11 millions under ...24 years of age.

Fear Workingclass Youth.

"The master class knows that the ...youth constitutes the fighting section ...of the working class," said Darcy. ...It therefore exerts every effort to ...train the youth workers against the ...workingclass."

Darcy pointed out that 750,000 members were organized in the Young ...Men's Christian Association. He also ...reviewed the whole list of organiza-...tions brought into existence to lure ...the youth worker away from their ...class interests.

Engdahl Speaks Sunday.

Engdahl will speak Sunday afternoon, at three o'clock, at the campaign meeting organized by the Greek Workers' Club, to be held at 763 W. Van Buren Street.

PERSISTENT WORK BRINGS RESULTS IN ESTABLISHING STRONG NUCLEI

By Worker Correspondent.

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—The 8th of our Factory District Nucleus, the only one located in the Bronx, New York City, in Sub-section 5-B, is a good example of the statement that tireless and persistent work will bring immediate results.

Our F. D. N. was organized about seven months ago. On paper it had sixteen members, but for some reason or other we could not make these members function. We could not manage to get more than three members to a meeting at a time.

Nevertheless, we were not discouraged and kept up the work. The absent members were sent registered letters and visited personally until they were finally impressed that the first duty of every party member is to attend the unit meeting regularly. After that the attendence was very good.

All Are Union Members.

All members of our F. D. N. belong to the unions of their trade and also to the fractions. The activity of the comrades in the unions is the major subject for discussion at our unit meetings. Quite often a comrade is reprimanded if his behavior and his activity in his union warrants it.

Activity Well Planned.

Our factory work is still in the state of discussion, but a practical plan of proceeding with the work is already mapped out. On all the campaigns conducted by the party, such as aid for the British miners, membership drive, Passaic strike, etc., the comrades were given detailed instructions how to proceed with this work in their shops and also in their respective unions. The comrades at the successive meetings were requested to report how these instructions were carried out, which quite often led to lively discussions.

As a result of the instructions our F. D. N. collected for the f. t. D. $15., obtained subscriptions to the Laher Defender, $14.

Aid Our Paper.

Great efforts were stressed to aid and spread The DAILY WORKER. Our nucleus obtained ten subscriptions for it for the sum of $100 and collected about $20 for the campaign.

When the summer encampment was held our nucleus sold tickets for the sum of $50. When the furriers were out on strike, upon the initiative of a member of our unit, the branch of Workmen's Circle, of which he is a member, donated $50 dollars for the striking furriers. Our nucleus collected about $160 for the Passaic strikers and four bundles of clothing.

Individual collections of our unit collected fer the British miners about $30, but the effort to have their respective unions contribute to that worthy cause fell thru, due to the opposition of the reactionary leaders of these unions. How much an individual comrade can accomplish if he puts his heart and soul to it can be seen from the fact that a good deal of the above given figures were collected thru the initiative and effort of a single comrade.

The greatest amount of the given contributions and collections were gathered among the workers of the Mt. Vernon Fur Dressing Co., 3743 Bronxwood avenue, Bronx, N. Y., a shop employing about 80 workers.

At the last meeting we made the first step in the $50,000 campaign conducted by The DAILY WORKER. Our unit collected $40 in cash and the rest pledged to bring the $5, which each member was taxed, to the next meeting.

In general our meetings are interesting and partielpatlens and discussions are not limited to a few so-called leaders. In order to keep up this life and interest and also to exchange information that other party units may profit by our experience, we have decided from time to time to send articles to The DAILY WORKER describing the life and work of our unit. This duty of a worker correspondent was not assigned to one comrade in particular, but it was decided that each member of the unit should have an opportunity to perform this work, and this article is the first attempt to carry the adopted decision thru.

Wicks Speaks at Last Pittsburgh Election Rally on Oct. 31st.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Oct. 28.—The last Pittsburgh election rally in the Pennsylvania campaign will be held on Sunday, Oct. 31 at 8 p. m. at the Labor Lyceum, 35 Miller street. H. M. Wicks, Workers' Party candidate for governor, and Parthenia Hills, candidate for lieutenant governor, and Mac Jenkins, candidate for secretary of internal affairs, will be the speakers. A musical program is also in preparation. The meeting is under the auspices of Street Nucleus No. 2 of the Pittsburgh party.

A Correction.

The DAILY WORKER Monday, Oct. 25, carried a news item about a Workers' Party city conference to be held in Pittsburgh Oct. 29. Due to unforeseen reasons, a serious error was made in the figures quoted dealing with the attendance of meetings. It should be "out of 148 members on a average 83 members attend meetings," and not 23 as published in The DAILY WORKER.

WEISBORD TOUR ON PASSAIC IS NOW UNDER WAY

Strike Leader's Trip A Party Opportunity

Great enthusiasm has been aroked all over the country by the tour of Albert Weisbord, who is speaking on "The Passaic Strike, What it Means to the American Workers."

The national office of the Workers' Party, which is organizing these meetings, is getting the active co-operation of the various local organizations of the party in making the necessary arrangements.

All comrades are agreed that the Weisbord tour presents one of the greatest opportunities the party has ever had of placing its position before the workers and of showing them the part the Communists play in the labor movement. Comrade Weisbord will point out these lessons in telling the story of the great Passaic strike and in answering the attacks of the mill owners and the conservative trade union officials.

The tour started on the 22nd of October in Elizabeth, N. J. It seemed too much for the city officials and the American Legion to allow anybody to tell the workers the truth about Passaic and about the Communists, so the police broke up the meeting without assigning any reasnn whatever.

But Comrade Weisbord is going back to Elizabeth and another meeting, under the auspices of the American Civil Liberties Union, has been planned for the 27th of October.

The Weisbord dates in the next two weeks follow:

Party Units Gather Resources to put Over big Nov. 7 Celebration

At a meeting of representatives of Chicago units of the Workers (Communist) Party held Wednesday night in preparation for the big celebration of November 7, the anniversary of the Russian Revolution, additional features were added to the program of the big event and details of a plan worked out to bring an overflowing crowd to Ashland Auditorium on that date.

The Lithuanian Workers' Chorus, a choir of 80 picked voices, will be on the program at the commemoration meeting. Fraternal organizations and unions have been invited to attend the affair as organizations.

A mass distribution thruout the city of 25,000 leaflets announcing the celebration will be carried on by the party units between now and November 7. Special meetings of nuclei are being called to arrange the distribution, for the day preceding the event, Nov. 6, a big auto parade will be made thru the important parts of the city with banners and posters announcing the meeting. A thousand very attractive posters will flash the news of the celebration from walls, telephone poles and store windows.

WITH THE YOUNG WORKERS

CONDUCTED BY THE YOUNG WORKERS LEAGUE

SHOW THAT CARELESSNESS DOES NOT CAUSE YOUTH ACCIDENTS IN MINES

BY A YOUNG MINER.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill.—In the mines nearly every day somebody gets hurt. And most of these "accidents" occur to young miners. Even tho the youth are in a minority in the mines, they suffer the most accidents. Why? Because they have the most dangerous jobs. Yet the miners and even sometimes the operators claim that most of the accidents that occur are preventable.

I was talking to some coal miners just today and I pointed out this fact. These miners answered me, "Well, that is because the youth is careless and reckless." "Wall," they say, "look at this state of illinois. We have state laws for their protection. One law says that no car shall be coupled or uncoupled without bringing the motor to a stop. But there are damn few cars that are coupled or uncoupled in the state with the motors at a perfect stop and it is on these jobs that most of the accidents occur."

Well that may be so, but anyone who says that these boys deliberately couple and uncouple the "cars on the fly" or haul greater loads than is safe for them, without the company expecting them to work that way, has the facts all "balled up."

Take an instance. In one of the Peabody mines around Taylerville where the boys decided they would live up to state laws on coupling and uncoupling cars. What happened? The first day they brought up 1,200 tons less, the second day 1,800 tons less, until they were bringing up actually 2,200 tons less than they would have in risking their lives and breaking the state laws. What did the company do? Put on more motors and men? Hell no! That costs money. They shut the mine down, threw every man out of work and thru their stool) pigeons spread the news around that the mines would open up if the boys would agree to risk their lives by working as they had done before. that is, to break the state laws. The boys had no other recourse, they agreed, and Peabody opened up the mine again.

Well this is only one instance and I will bet my next week's wages that there are many mens such cases. What the hell do you think the operators care how much we risk our lives, as long as dollars come their way. Safety is alright—and the operators do deliver plenty of lectures on it—but when it costs money and will cause a little shrink in their profits, that's no good. And I have yet to meet a miner that can point to a single benefit that the miners received without putting up a fight for it. That's what the union is for.

The young miners who want to safeguard themselves, who don't want to swell the figures of the killed and crippled miners, should attend their union meetings, bring up these questions. If the young miners don't fight to safeguard their own lives they can wait 'till hell freezes over before the company will.

Boston Youth to Hold Election Rallies

By a Young Worker Correspondent.

BOSTON, Mass., Oct. 28.—Great interest is shown by the working youth of Boston at the special propaganda campaign open meetings arranged by the district committee of the league in connection with the state election campaign.

Big crowds of young people are eagerly listening to our speakers for they feel that it's their issue. It is about them that we are talking. The necessity for the working youth to participate in political life and organization is clearly pointed out: the right to vote and hold office for youth of 18 and over; the need for the working youth to help to elect workers' candidates; to organize in the trade unions and to join the Young Workers (Communist) League in order to free the workers from the capitalist yoke, is being explained to the working youth.

The league slogans are accepted with much enthusiasm and favor. At these meetings placards bearing the league slogans such as—the abolition of child labor; a minimum wage for all young workers; the abolition of compulsory military training in the schools and colleges and the liquidation of militaristic institutions; working youth organize politically and economically; join your trade unions; join the Young Workers League; the right to vote and hold office for youth at 18 and over—are being carried, literature sold, leaflets distributed and contact with the American youth made and applications for the Y. W. L. passed out.

The league of this district is holding these meetings everywhere in the city and district. The working youth feels that the Y. W. L. is really the organization that champions their cause.

CAMPAIGN FOR GOTHAM STRIKE STARTS MONDAY

All Chicago Unions to Aid in Drive

An intensive campaign among all labor organizations in Chicago to raise funds for the aid of the New York clockmakers now on strike will start Monday, it was announced by members of the Chicago conference of the New York strike.

The Chicago Federation of Labor is taking a leading part in the campaign and is urging all affiliated union organizations to contribute to the strike fund.

Each union in the city will be visited by a delegation, it is planned, and asked to contribute funds.

Endorsed By A. F. of L.

The Detroit convention of the American Federation of Labor unanimously endorsed the fight that the Gotham garment workers are waging and called on all state and local bodies to assist financially.

Forty thousand members of the New York needle trades are engaged in the fight for better working conditions. Their principal demand is the 40-hour week. The injunction has been used mercilessly against the workers, and a fight against this misuse of judicial power is combined with the fight for better conditions.

The strike is now in its fifteenth week.

Fight Against Sweatshop.

The cloakmakers are fighting against a threatened revival of the old sweatshop system, declares a statement issued by the international union this week.

"For fifteen weeks, 40,000 workers in the cloak and suit industry of New York have been on strike," the statement reads. "They are fighting against the threatened revival of the notorious sweatshop system which in the past has disgraced the industry and kept the workers in a condition of indescribable misery and oppression."

"In this struggle the organized employers have brought to bear the whole weight of their combined wealth, power and influence to crush the aspirations of the workers toward human existence.

Arrest Pickets.

"They have been causing the daily arrest of hundreds of peaceful workers; they are attempting to poison the minds of the public against us by systemetic press publications of lying statements about alleged lawlessness within our ranks, and have not hesitated to hire alleged gangsters with knowe criminal records to beat up and shoot up the strikers on the picket line.

Drastic injunction.

"As a climax of their campaign of terror and repression they have secured an injunction against our union so sweeping in scope, drastic in effect, and reckless in its provisions as to make it unique in the history of labor jurisprudence.

"The strike has resolved itself into a finish fight in which the employers base their whole hope on their ability to starve the workers into submission. The workers must be given immediate relief to enable them to continue their heroic fight to victory."

"Labor" and the Dempsey-Tunney Fight

By WILLIAM F. DUNNE.

LABOR," the official organ of the "Associated Recognized Standard Railroad Labor Organizations," in its issue for October 8, devoted its leading editorial to the Dempsey-Tunney fight.

It may occasion surprise to some to know that in an editorial on a subject which on the surface has no class angle, the editors of "Labor" expose their loyalty to the great capitalist interests of America who foment war and for whose interests wars are fought.

YET the following quotation leaves no doubt that the official group whose viewpoint "labor" expresses look upon American participation in the world war in exactly the same manner as do the professional patriots:

"It was a most satisfactory fight. Of the 116,000,000 people in the United States at least 114,900,000 seemed to have wanted Tunney to win. The reason is clear. When Dempsey stayed out of the war he damned himself. The American people will not forgive a slacker, and when the slacker is a professional fighter his absence from the line is infuriating.

"Dempsey posed for his picture as a navy-yard worker—in patent leather shoes—when the marines were stopping the kaiser's finest in the middle of the ring in Chateau Thierry, and other Yanks were disobeying orders to storm back the positions they had lost in an unexpected thrust. Nuff sed.

"There is a reason to believe that Tunney will be a satisfactory champion. He did his bit overseas, like any other marine, and his cool nerve in coming to the fight by airplane is a touch that the world appreciates."

THUS similarity between this sickening "100 per cent Americanism" drool and the praise of Tunney the patriot in the capitalist press is obvious, but its sinister character becomes plainer when it is recalled that Tunney has been commissioned a lieutenant in the marines and is being used to stimulate recruiting in the most useful arm of American imperialism.

WHY is "Labor" for Tunney as against Dempsey?

Principally for the reason that it gives. He was one of those who was fooled by the professional patriots, and whose mind must be included the professional labor leaders who control "Labor" and who urged full and unquestioning support of the most uncalled-for and biggest murderous adventure in which American imperialism has yet engaged—the entry into the world war to "protect" Morgan's millions loaned to the allies.

WE shall be brief for Dempsey, but if it cannot be said of him that he allowed himself to be used by the agents of the warmongers to fool thousands of young workers into believing that modern war is the defense of democracy when waged by the United States or is anything else than a method of continuing the competition inherent in capitalist production and exchange.

What business has "Labor," which is supported by thousands of workers, boosting the game of the war-mongers and the war department by trying to picture Tunney as an ideal type of young manhood simply because he served the lords of finance and industry and is still serving them?

THE duty of a real labor paper is to expose the war schemes of the bosses and their agents, to urge the workers to not allow themselves to be deceived by them and to organize the workers for resistance to all forms of imperialist war—not to fall in and outdo the paid war propagandists of the capitalist press as the editors of "Labor" have succeeded in doing.

Compensation Law to Go Before Missouri Voters in November

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—(FP)—Aid of the Workers Health Bureau has been offered the Missouri State Federation of Labor in its campaign for the adoption of an Workmen's Compensation law to voters in the November referendum.

Missouri labor has been fighting for this law for the past 11 years, says the Workers Health Bureau. "Since 1921 a Workmen's Compensation law has been adopted by the Missouri legislature three times.

"Each time the employing interests and damage suit lawyers have succeeded in calling for a referendum and have expended hundreds of thousands of dollars to influence non-industrial voters of the state to defeat the law, thus leaving the workers entirely unprotected when injury or death occurs from accidents or occupational diseases."

Powers Hapgood Replies to John L. Lewis

concerned in the unfortunate dispute between the brotherhood and the miners' union. For that reason he wrote this personal letter to me, suggesting that miners who are interested in progressive principles, such as a labor party, nationalization of the mines, organization of the unorganized, and in the candidacy of any individuals pledged to those principles, should withdraw their support of their own along the lines of the Illinois Miner, as they are not able to get their views expressed in the United Mine Workers' Journal by its editor Ellis Searles. He also suggested that I should be the editor of this paper and spoke of ways to raise money to start it.

The "Red Plot."

As far as I am concerned, I did not want to be the editor of such a paper and would have so replied to the letter had I ever received it and had the opportunity of replying. Even if I had received it I cannot see how the mere receiving of a letter from a friend should cause people to believe I am part of a "Red Plot," even tho that friend may be interested in getting a delegation of trade union leaders to go to Russia to find out the true facts. Had the letter been written by me instead of to me, it might have been different, but I think the fair minded coal miners can see that I am in no way responsible for mail that is stolen from me.

Another thing by which certain people are trying to prove that I am a part of a "Red Plot" is the fact that I have been in Soviet Russia. Yes, I have been there and have earned my living with a pick and shovel underground in a Soviet coal mine. Furthermore I have told the truth about my experiences there since I have been back in this country. That is the thing that hurts the capitalists and those reactionary labor leaders who take their side. If I had told lies about what I had seen and had gone along with them on their band wagon, I would not now be attacked as part of a "Red Plot."

What He Saw in Russia.

In order to make this point clear let me tell a few of the things that I saw there with my own eyes. When I was working in the mines of the Soviet government, my fellow workers and I were working six hours a day from bank to bank and we only had to work twenty shifts a month. In wet or otherwise bad places the day was reduced to four or even two hours from bank to bank. The workers enjoyed a month's vacation a year with full pay. In case of sickness or accident, when a worker was unable to work, he was given his full pay and all his medical attention free during the time he was off, unless he was so sick that he had to live in the hospital, in which case he of course had no living expenses and in addition received seventy-five per cent of his regular wage. If he was married and fifty per cent if he was single.

Wages and Cost of Living.

Wages were higher in relation to the cost of living than in other [illegible] workers in which I [illegible] my card, in a vain attempt to find some period in which I failed to pay dues. Altho they should know full well that a man of my interest in the labor movement would not fail on such a small thing as dues, they are not discouraged. My mail is intercepted by some unknown criminal. Everything is being done to "get something" on me in order to get rid of me the way they have others who have conscientiously fought for decent conditions for the workers. Just as the firemen and the deputy sheriffs of the coal operators in Somerset county by bullets and arrests failed in their attempt to drive me away from the fight for better conditions in 1922 when I was an organizer, so now I wish to state that I will not be discouraged by any persecution my friends and I may receive at the hands of either the coal operators or our international officials. No matter what happens I expect to lead my entire life in the front lines of the struggle for better living and working conditions for the great mass of people.

Activities of Lewis Appointees.

The appointees of President Lewis will probably continue to go from local to local or among the members of our union in this district and very possibly will have more to say about "Red Plots" with which they will attempt to connect my name. It is unfortunate that I am working in the mines at Gallitzin for a living at the present time and that I can't spend all my time at meetings the way they can. I have been invited to speak quite frequently at meetings in various districts of late, however, and the miners have raised money to pay my expenses. In case any local in this district would like to hear both sides and wishes to arrange a debate between me and any representative of the international officers, I will be glad to accept if they can arrange to pay my expenses, as the international union is paying not only the expenses but also wages to the men who have helped create this misunderstanding.

Who Pays?

In case the international organizers charge, as some of them no doubt will, that the cost of this communication is being financed by "Bolshevik gold" I wish to state that its cost is approximately fifteen dollars and that I am paying it myself out of my wages earned in the mine at Gallitzin.

I regret exceedingly all this publicity, of the past few weeks, for it takes our minds off our own difficulties and is an attempt on the part of the opponents of the progressive ticket for international offices to raise the red scare and take the minds of the miners off the real issues of how the union can be saved, as explained from time to time in circulars put out by John Brophy, the president of our district. I sincerely hope that the minds of the men will not be confused by the irrelevant publicity caused by the stolen letter.

With every good wish for the welfare of our cause, I remain

Fraternally yours,

—Powers Hapgood.

FIVE NEW PITS OPEN IN PENN. ON UNION TERMS

MONESSEN, Pa., Oct. 28.—Two of the most important announcements for years in this district were made when it was learned that the Ella mine and the Naomi mine of the Hillman Coal & Coke Company would resume operations this week under the Jacksonville wage agreement, giving employment to approximately 650 men, and also the announcement that increased orders at local industries had necessitated an urgent call for workmen.

Raquast for Man.

R. B. Tewrom, in charge of the board of trade employment bureau at Monessen received a request for 100 men to report to work, but he was unable to fill the order at once.

The Naomi mine of the Hillman Coal & Coke Company has been closed for two years. It is located a short distance below Fayette City, and when running full gives employment to 250 men. Workmen have been engaged for the past week getting the mine in shape for the resumption, and it is expected that the first coal will be mined today.

Closed for Long Time.

The Ella mine, located about a mile below Webster, has been closed for two years and four months and hopes had been given up that it would ever resume, and the announcement that by the latter part of this week coal would be mined was the most welcome announcement to the residents not only of Webster but the entire upper Monongahela valley. Three hundred men will find employment at this mine.

With the resumption of these two mines the Hillman Coal & Coke Company will have five plants now open under the Jacksonville wage scale. Last week the Ontario and Souden mines reopened and Monday the Gibson mine near Bentleyville resumed operations.

NOTORIOUS BOSS OF DANBURY FAME IS NOW BANKRUPT

(Special to The Daily Worker)

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—The man who played the part of a pioneer labor union-smasher twenty years ago in Danbury, Conn., when the striking hatters of that city were forced to pay him $240,000 as the result of one of the most notorious of all anti-labor court decisions, is now in his 74th year, blind and all but broke.

Twenty years ago this man, Dietrich E. Loewe was hailed by the bosses of the land as their champion. He pioneered the worst kind of exploitation and labor-busting. Now the irony of fate finds the old slave-driver, 74 years of age, a bankrupt with these same bosses none too willing to give him a helping Buzzini hand.

Workers Glad.

It is needless to say that the hatters of Danbury are rejoiced. In 1906 the hatters had a union and were conducting a successful strike for better conditions and more wages. Loewe went to the courts and there secured a judgment against the union and every member of it for $240,000 "damages" to his business because the men refused to work. He collected every cent of it. He attached the houses, bank accounts and personal property of the members of the union and, without regard for their condition or that of their wives and children, exacted the full amount.

Supreme Court Upholds Him.

The labor movement was aroused and came to the support of the men. The fight was carried to the supreme court of the United States and those lackeys of the bosses promptly sustained the decision of the lower courts. Now Loewe himself is at the mercy of creditors. This looks very much like "divine justice," but it isn't. It was simply a case of Loewe having the support of his fellow capitalists in his war on the workers while he himself was unable to survive the competitive war between capitalists.

Chicago I. L. D. Now Planning Xmas Party For Class Prisoners

Plans for a Christmas party for class-war prisoners are already being made by the Chicago local of the International Labor Defense.

A hall has already been engaged for the affair, with accommodations for a buffet. A one-act sketch is in preparation, which will depict the contrast between the worker "on the inside" and the worker on the outside during Christmas celebration.

Branches are being visited for contributions toward gift packages for the prisoners. Each branch will be assigned the name of a prisoner and his dependents, if any exist.

Illinois Mine to Reopen.

HARRISBURG, Ill., Oct. 28.—The Saline County Coal Corporation will reopen its mine No. 4 Thursday, it was announced here today. The mine, which has been idle eight months, employs 600 men.

"I wish you would tell me how to get Charlie to study some. I can't get him to do anything but play and make love to the girls."

Bunny wanted to say, "Try cutting off his allowance," but he realized that that would be one of those "horrid" things to which Bertie was always rebuking him. So he said, "It's quite a problem"—in the style of a diplomat or politician.

"The young people are too much of a problem for me," said Charlie's mother. "They want to race about all day, and they just insist on dragging you with them, and it's getting to be more than I can stand." So then Bunny was sorry for Charlie's mother—he had supposed that she did all this "gadding" because she enjoyed it. To look at her, she was a nautical maid, plump but shapely, clad in spotless white and blue, with fluffy brown hair that the breeze was always blowing into her bright blue eyes. Bunny stole a glance now and then, and judged that the surgical operations upon her face must have been successes, for he saw no trace of them.

"I've devoted my whole life to that boy," the nautical maid was saying, "and he doesn't appreciate it a bit. The more you do for people the more they take it as a matter of course. This afternoon I think I'll go on strike! Will you back me up?"

So when the golfing expedition was setting out, Charlie announced, in a tone loud enough for the whole company, "Mumsie's not going—she's got a crush on Bunny!" At which they all laughed merrily, and trooped down the ladder, secretly relieved to be rid of one of the old folks, who insisted on "tagging along," and trying to pretend to be one of the crowd, when it was perfectly evident that they were not and could not.

IX

So Bunny and Mrs. Norman sat on the deck of the "Siren," in two big canvas chairs under a striped canvas awning, and sipped fruit juices and chatted about many things. She wanted to know about his life, and his family; Bunny, having heard something about the ways of "mumsies," guessed that she was investigating Bertie as a possible daughter-in-law, so he mentioned all the nice things he could. Assuming that she would not be entirely indifferent to practical matters, he told about the Ross tract, how he and Dad had discovered it, and how the wells continued to flow. And Mrs. Norman said, "Oh, money, money, always money! We all of us have too much, and don't know how to buy happiness with it!"

She went on to reveal that she was Theosophist, and how there was a great mahatma coming, and we were all going to learn to live on a different astral plane. She had noticed that Bunny, when he stood against a dark background at night, had a very decided golden aura—had anyone ever mentioned it to him? It meant that he had a spiritual nature, and was destined for higher things.

Then she began to ask about his ideas; she had heard nothing about his "disgrace" at the university, apparently, and he gave her just a hint as to his conviction that there was something wrong with our social order, the world's distribution of wealth. The nautical maid, leaning back among her silken cushions, replied, "Oh, but that's all material! And it seems to me we're too much slaves to material things already; our happiness lies in learning to rise above them."

That was a large question, and Bunny dodged it, and presently Mrs. Norman was talking about herself. Her life was very unhappy. She had married when she was very young, too young to know what she was doing, except obeying her parents. Her husband had been a bad man, he had kept mistresses and treated her cruelly. She had devoted her life to her son, but it all seemed a disappointment, the more you gave to people the more they would take. Charlie was always in love, but he didn't really know about love, he wasn't capable of unselfishness. What did Bunny think about love?

This was another large question, and again Bunny ducked. He said he didn't know what to think, he saw that people made themselves unhappy, and he was waiting, trying to learn more about the matter. So Mrs. Norman proceeded to tell him more. The dream of love, a really true and great love, never died in the soul of a man or woman; they might become cynical, and say they didn't believe in it, but they were always unhappy, and secretly hoping and waiting, because really, love was the greatest thing in the world. It made Mrs. Norman happy to know that among the loud and noisy generation there was one young man who was not making himself cheap.

The loud and noisy generation came back to the "Siren," and cut off these intimacies. Charlie's "mumsie" went below, and when she reappeared, it was in the dining-saloon, with palm-century ladies reclining to the lascivious pleasing of a lute. The of many charms, a shimmer of pale blue satin, and a gleam of golden hair, and snowy bosom and shoulders, and a double rope of pearls. It was striking transformation, and Bunny, who had watched Aunt Emma at work, ought to have understood but his mind had been on other matters.

Mrs. Norman had the young oil-man next to her at table; and when they danced, she asked him would he dance with her lessly. They danced, and Bunny discovered that she was a good dancer, and she said that he was an exquisite dancer, she just willing; there was no one else he particularly wanted to dance with. She had a faint elusive perfume, and he might have learned sion that women somehow naturally smelled that way, and it was very sweet of them. The steel-widow's bosom was bare most of it, his hand, and the power on the outside during Christmas celebration.

Charlie teased them, and the rest of the company giggled. But next morning, when they took a long walk about the deck, Bunny realized that it took these young people less than twenty-So he sat with Mrs. Norman, and drove with her, and danced with her, and played golf with her, while Charlie did all these things with Bertie, and it suited at least three of them completely.

The British Miners Can Win!

What the rulers of Great Britain look upon as the next move against the working class and their organizations if the defeat of the miners can be secured is indicated by proposals contained in a resolution adopted at the Scarborough conference of the tory party.

The resolution urges legislation to:

Make illegal any strike called without a secret ballot of the members of trade union affected.

Make mass picketing and the picketing of a private residence illegal.

Make the audit of the national accounts of all trade unions compulsory under the supervision of a certified accountant.

Such measures, if enacted and enforced—and the manner in which the emergency powers act has been administered during the strike leaves no doubt of the intentions of the government—would make of the unions semi-official instruments of the government and place them in about the same positions as were the Russian trade unions under the czar.

The British labor movement will not stand for such oppressive measures unless its power of resistance has been broken. This is the first requirement for the success of the capitalist scheme.

With the knowledge that the rulers of Britain are getting ready for this kind of an attack, part of the general offensive against the working class, the struggle of the miners becomes for the labor movement a decisive action—truly a life and death struggle.

If the miners can be defeated British capitalism feels sure that the morale of the whole working class will be weakened sufficiently to permit it to consolidate its victory by the enactment of laws and the setting up of special suppressive apparatus which will make concerted action by the trade union movement a crime and which can be dealt with as such by the state.

The miners are holding the first line of defense for the whole British labor movement. More than that, a defeat of the miners will strengthen the capitalist class the world over and certainly will not be without its effect on the struggle which the American coal miners face next spring.

But the stern resistance of the miners has astounded the world and aroused the admiration of the whole working class. For almost six months, suffering the most bitter privation, they have refused to be driven back to the pits.

British industry is at the lowest ebb in its history and the markets of British capitalism are being grabbed by greedy competitors. The miners, alone except for the generous donations of the Russian trade unions and the small contributions from the labor movements in capitalist countries, are beating the British ruling class.

Six months have passed since the leaders of the British labor movement brought about the desertion of the miners, but the miners are still fighting.

They must be given the financial aid that will enable them to make the last effort needed for victory.

There is at present no other cause which should be allowed to come between the British miners and the financial relief they need.

President Green Wants a Big Navy

From time to time we receive complaint that we are too insistent or emphatic in connecting the leadership of the American Federation of Labor with American imperialism and some of our critics appear to think that we sometimes draw conclusions in this connection which the evidence does not warrant.

It is not necessary for us to answer such criticism because President William Green has done it for us.

On Navy Day, President Green drove a spike in the keel of the new light cruiser Pensacola in Brooklyn navy yard and made a speech, the outstanding point of which was featured by the big capitalist press services. He said:

> The American Federation of Labor is in favor of a strong navy for preserving the peace of the world.

This is exactly the reason all capitalist war-mongers give for big armies and navies. The inference is that all peaceful persons go out and buy a gun when they want to begin a hunt for the dove of peace.

Navies are particularly the instruments of imperialist nations. They are expensive instruments and small nations can rarely afford them. They are also particularly imperialist instruments of aggression against colonial peoples and the "light cruiser" Pensacola still be mentioned one of these days in dispatches relating some act of "pacification" directed against some of the countries of Latin-America.

Imperialistic labor leaders are no figment of the imagination.

PROBLEMS OF ILLINOIS LABOR

LEADERS OF STATE LABOR MOVEMENT CONTINUE TO THE RIGHT AT HIGH SPEED

By ARNE SWABECK.

ARTICLE ONE.

TWO great degree has labor shared in the "prosperity" of the last few years and what has its leadership done to take advantage of the favorable situation presented?

These are two very pertinent questions to the workers and as far as the state of Illinois is concerned, presents an interesting picture containing valuable lessons for those willing to learn.

While the leadership of organized labor should be the first to sum up the experiences of the movement and draw the proper conclusions, the various labor gatherings held during these years show an almost persistent evasion of labor's vital problems. The last Illinois State Federation of Labor convention was no exception. It was not only more reactionary than its predecessors, but made no attempts whatever to deal with the actual needs of labor.

The losses suffered in membership, in working conditions, and in organizational positions, particularly in the basic industries, during this "prosperity" period have caused no comment from the labor leadership; not to speak of the failures to bring forward any aggressive measures to change the tide.

Survey of Conditions.

WHAT are the conditions of labor in the various industries within the state of Illinois? A brief survey without giving detailed statistics will give sufficient food for thought.

The building trades workers are undoubtedly those who have been most favored by the "prosperity" period and its tremendous "building boom." Their unions have gained in membership and they have gained wage increases in rapid succession. The open-shop forces, as particularly represented by the Chicago "citizens' committee," have been temporarily defeated. This may be said, however, to be mainly due to the great demand for skilled building mechanics created by the boom, and also due to the conditions of the industry which despite the centralization of capital yet leaves room for craft unions to function and to deliver the goods for their members. Nevertheless, the building corporations and bankers are merely biding their time waiting for the slack season to renew the attack. The building trades unions, meanwhile, have failed to exert the necessary effort to establish union shop conditions and to unify their ranks. Unless the necessary measures are taken, they will be in no stronger position organizationally than before the boom.

The printing trades, the clothing workers, and various other organized miscellaneous trades have been able to hold their own and in some degree strengthen their positions.

Transportation Workers.

THE workers in the transportation industry, a very important section of the labor movement in Illinois, have gained some almost invisible wage increases, but, of course, become subject to the provisions of the Watson-Parker bill with its abolishment of strikes and the established anti-labor board of mediation. The shop crafts on the other hand have been almost completely shot to pieces since the 1922 strike. They have suffered wage decreases and the remnants of their unions more or less become subject to the B. & O. plan making the workers more effective objects of exploitation.

The workers in the food industry, taking in the big packing house plants of Chicago and East St. Louis, have lost practically every vestige of organization. The union once existing, embracing all the workers, has collapsed. The company unions now rule supreme in Chicago plants. These company unions were installed to engineer wage cuts and have done so successfully. The company union in the Armour plant recently suggested the restoration of the 12- and 14-hour workday." At present the plant operates on the 10-hour basis, the average wage being $27 a week for male workers. During the last few weeks, a new method has been inaugurated of eliminating all older workers who may have any claims on the so-called compensation institutions of the company, this a new schedule of further wage cutting is starting.

In the Metal Industry.

IN the metal industry, a few of the more skilled crafts have been able to maintain a degree of organization, however, with loss of many members. Some of them have gained small wage increases; but for the big bulk of the workers in the many great manufacturing plants, organization does not exist save for the company unions operating against the workers. For them "prosperity" has meant wage cuts in various forms, particularly in place work rates. While these are some of the most exploited workers it makes the situation no better to note that in the steel mills of Madison and Granite City, Ill., laborers belonging to the steel workers' union receive only 47 cents an hour.

Many Illinois coal mines have suspended operation for long intervals, some permanently, due to the advance of the open-shop coal mining with no efforts to organize the unorganized territory. As for the union itself, its leadership has become so infested with graft and corruption that there is great danger of its complete paralysis. The sell-out at Parrington to the Peabody Coal Company is by no means accidental. The coal operators are as actively as possible pushing open-shop conditions. If a coal miner leaves his underground job a few minutes ahead of time, an investigation is made and if it is found he could do other work, he is fired. It has become an almost established system, that coal miners are always cheated on weight with the union doing little or nothing to redress the grievances of the miners.

Lately, however, a revival of the progressive movement is taking place within the union, starting thruout the state and bringing some real rays of hope for more militancy in the future. There are, of course, signs of similar activities within the unions in other industries. Some having already brought results in a measure by increasing the ranks of the individual unions and bringing a new and better spirit to the rank and file workers, but that is entirely due to the activities of progressive elements.

An Upheaval Against KKK Republican Party in the State of Indiana

By S. BORISOFF.

"Crude, vulgar, clownish and brazen is the manner in which the K. K. K.-republican party is conducting its campaign in the state of Indiana.

In Gary the K. K. K.-republican party held two great rallies. One of them in the heart of the Negro settlement, another in the white neighborhood.

I went to the first one, and the impression I received away is set forth in the introductory lines. I wish to add that the manner in which the meeting was run and issues presented was an insult to the intelligence of the audience, composed largely of colored people.

The "Honorable" Was Doing His Best.

The "honorable" Parry W. Howard, special assistant attorney-general, colored, was the main speaker of the evening.

Upon him it fell to swing the vote of the Negro masses in favor of the G. O. P.

His was the keynote speech.

The "honorable" Howard did his best to deliver the goods, but failed completely. He lacks that oratorical talent and personal attraction which sometimes make up for the lack of convincing arguments. He possesses no originality. His speech is stereotyped. At first a few jokes to win the good graces of the audience—than to the main task of eulogizing the republican party and its candidates.

He did not come to land advice to the voters of Lake county, he said. "They need none. They are inherent republican, republican-born, republican-freed."

The Republican Party Passed Good Amendments.

He said the republican party has done everything for the Negro—rendered him public, civic, and every other kind of recognition.

"The republican party gave the Negro the famous amendments to the constitution, the 13th, the 14th, and the 15th.

"Every enactment in favor of the Negro was by the republican party. Every enactment against—by the democratic party.

"Filibustering against the anti-lynching bill, maintaining disfranchisement, segregation, oppression of the Negro—such is the record of the democratic party.

"There is no difference between a southern and a northern democrat. They will all abide by the caucus of the party, and the decisions are always against the Negro.

"Therefore—vote republican."

The K. K. K. Helps tha Nagro, Claims the "Honorable."

Then came the delicate question of the K. K. K. "Honorable" Mr. Howard did not for a moment deny the connection of the republican party with the K. K. K. He did not say a bad word about the K. K. K. In fact, he tried to produce the impression that the existence of the K. K. K. was beneficial to the colored people.

"For what was the K. K. K. after all. It was a result of rivalry between two groups of white people. Let them quarrel among themselves, and let us take advantage of the quarrel in order to bettar our conditions."

And the "honorable" related how nicely the K. K. K. of Mississippi was "standing behind him." Conclusion—"Forget about the K. K. K.! Quit talking about the K. K. K.! It is a division among white people and an opportunity for us to take advantage."

Doesn't Care Whether Watson is a Klansman.

Then came this peerless statement: "I do not care whether Watson is a klansman. I do not care whether Robinson is a klansman. I do not care whether either of them is a klansman. If Watson is a member of the K. K. K., if Robinson is a member of the K. K. K., then that is no more than you would do, if you were candidate for republican party to be elected."

The "honorable" Mr. Howard then attained the climax of his speech when in a loud voice he proclaimed:

Long May Wall Street Reign!

"It will be mighty cold in Gary during the winter time and without a job. For many mills will close if democrats take control.

"They talk about plutocrats—I hope that plutocrats, the rich, will always control this country. Let capital control the land, for we were raised by capital, educated by capital, and kept alive by capital. Long let capital reign over this country!"

The rest of the "honorable's" talk was in the same vein, closing with an appeal to vote republican and thus honor the "mother and the father who were so loyal to the G. O. P."

Enter Clowns.

The next speaker, a Negro woman politician made an appeal to elect ten per cent American citizens who will look out for the interests of the Negro.

She was followed by another "honorable" Mr. W. U. Fuesten, a candidate for a judicial position, and J. Finley, the grand exalted ruler of the Elks. These two acted as clowns and occupied the remaining time of the meeting. None of the white candidates spoke, altho they were all seated on the stage—a beautiful array of klansmen and near-klansmen, including a Jewish politician to complete the picture of "harmony."

What Was the Santiment of the Audiance?

Every time the speaker would denounce lynchings, segregation, disfranchisement and other forms of oppression to which the Negro is subjected, and when the speakers would demand equality, justice and full rights for the race the audience would respond with loud applause.

But the response to the praises of the republican party was luke warm. The Negro of today is not satisfied with the fact that the republican party passes good-sounding amendments to the constitution. He wants the enforcement of these amendments.

They are not satisfied with the denouncing of the democratic party for lynchings, segregation, etc. They want the ruling republican party to stop segregation of the Negro and discrimination against him in Indiana and other northern states, and to give him protection and full rights in the south.

Negroes Are Segregated in Gary and Thruout Indiana.

And when the rule of capital, of Wall Street, and of plutocrats is subsidized, the Negro workers of the Steel City can't become enthusiastic, for they face the brutal exploitation of the steel trust every day of their lives.

A Big Political Upheaval.

The republican party is faced with a great upheaval of the masses, including both workers and farmers in Indiana, and especially the Negroes. It will lose thousands of votes. Thousands will cast their votes for the democratic party as a protest against the disgusting K. K. K.-republican rule. Thousands will not vote at all. But neither action is a right solution of the political problem facing the workers and poor farmers. The right solution is the building of a labor party. We have two years to do it in. Let's do it!

Scheme to Sell Dawes Plan Bonds Given Up; British Opposed Plan

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28.—The plan of European statesmen to market $100,000,000 of Dawes plan bonds in the United States, and to pay France the major share of the proceeds as advance reparations payments to aid her to stabilize the franc, has been dropped, it is reported here.

Opposition from Great Britain was the reason given for the plan falling thru. Germany hoped, by this means, to pay France to withdraw her occupation forces from German territory.

Body Found in Illinois Creek.

ELDORADO, Ill., Oct. 27.—The unidentified body of a man about 30 years old, who, police believe, may be another victim of the Shelton-Berger gang warefare, was found in a creek one mile northeast of Equality on State Highway No. 13.

Wets Spend Lots of Dough to Restore old Barleycorn to Throne

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28.—Campaign funds of the wets and drys became the subject of controversy today with the filing of the prohibition expense statement of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment.

The wets' report was denounced by Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel for the Anti-Saloon League as "a camouflage" to cover up widespread operations. G. Bronson Rea, secretary of the wet organization, retorted that Wheeler's organization had failed to comply with the Corrupt Practices Act in accounting for its funds.

Contributions which totalled $275,445.55 on October 16 were reported by the anti-Volstead act body with expenditures of $215,520.29.

Dinner Pail Epic

By BILL LLOYD, F. P.

The open season now is open when candidates is all a-hopin, that printed ballots by the yard will help 'em find a fat pie-card. Joe Doe and Richard Roe will stage a phoney battle with fake race, and each will be the people's friend and peddle pledges without end.

Now if your principles is dry, you'll get a good Volstead Pa, and if your outlet you would stifle, they'll promise you the booze, you bet.

Then Doe and Roe will tell the rich they'll be their friends thruout every last ditch; and tell the working-class they stand to help in unbottle the land.

One old line party puts up Roe, the other hailyhoos for Hoe

If you can vote no better way, you may as well, election day, just cut the ballot in the booth and with the pencil pick your tooth

STRIKE STRATEGY

By WILLIAM Z. FOSTER

(ARTICLE I.—Foreword.)

The DAILY WORKER is presenting to its readers a series of articles by William Z. Foster on one of the most vital subjects of the labor movement—Strike Strategy. The following article is the foreword and first of this series, which we believe no militant worker can afford to miss. The scarcity of literature on this important subject and the experience of Foster in the labor movement are enough to recommend these articles to any worker. Especially should they be placed in the hands of every progressive trade unionist. The ideas they contain must become the property of the working class, a weapon in their struggle. The DAILY WORKER hopes its readers will aid this by intensified efforts at getting subscriptions and additional distribution.

THE reactionary officialdom of the trade unions travels constantly to the right. In following out its policy of "co-operation" with the employers, through the B. & O. plan, trade union capitalism, etc., it is rapidly casting aside even the last semblance of struggle against the employers. Consequently, the masses of workers, abandoned and betrayed by their old leadership, are being compelled to look more and more to the left wing in the unions for leadership in their inevitable class warfare against the employers' class.

A whole series of strikes (Passaic, Furriers, I. L. G. W. U., etc.,) and of opposition movements in the unions (Machinists, Miners, etc.) indicates this tendency. As a result, the left wing has an urgent need to acquaint itself with the principles and practices of strike strategy, of the science of effective struggle by the trade unions.

The general question of strike strategy has received but little concentrated attention until within the last few years, that is, since the formation of the Red Internationals of Labor Unions. Prior to that time the reformist trade union leaders, whose attention was fastened, not on making an effective fight against the employers, but on coming to agreement with them, gave very little thought to the development of a scientific strike strategy. In fact, the first real discussion ever held on the matter in an international labor gathering took place in the 1921 congress of the R. I. L. U.

The question is highly complex. There is very little literature upon it in this or any other country. This pamphlet, which is a companion volume to my booklet entitled, "Organize the Unorganized," is a modest beginning of such a literature in this country. It should be followed by more elaborate and detailed studies.

At the R. I. L. U. 1924 congress, Losovsky defined the three elements of policy, strategy and tactics as follows:

"Policy lays down within the limits of the program the basic direction which the class must follow in order that its fighting capacity may be enhanced and in order to prepare it for the overthrow of the other class. Strategy determines the direction of the operation and the choice of the point to be attacked as part of the achievement of the chosen aim. Tactics provide the answer as to how to direct the battle at definite sections of the front."

In the present work this distinction is not made. The three elements of the subject are covered under the general head of strike strategy. The pamphlet is somewhat voluminous, dealing with various aspects of the left wing trade union program, but all linked up with the central question of how to wage strikes successfully.

Strike strategy varies widely from country to country and period to period. Its specific character depends upon the degree of economic development and of the sharpness of the class struggle in a given situation. The strike strategy necessary in a country in a full industrial crisis differs very materially from that required in one with a flourishing and expanding capitalism. The strike strategy herein sketched is that best calculated to defend and advance the interests of the working class under present-day conditions in the United States.

Today, capitalism in the United States is strong and growing. It is able to furnish work for the masses; it can concede such conditions to the upper layers of the working class, the skilled workers, as to keep them pretty well contented with the present capitalistic order of society. But this is a passing phase. Just as British capitalism, which was also once powerful and able to still the demands of the skilled workers with concessions, is now on the decline, so will American capitalism, however strong it may be now, go the same way downward because of the contradictions inherent in capitalist production and distribution.

The industries will shut down, great masses of workers will become chronically unemployed, their standards of living will be reduced; the concessions won from or given by the employers in the present period will then prove illusory and be swept away. The workers will be compelled to turn against capitalism, to organize their forces to put an end to the capitalist system and to establish the new proletarian order of society.

In the bitter struggles of that inevitable era the strike strategy will have to be quite different from and will be based upon a far more militant offensive than that possible in the workers' fight today. It is not within the province of this booklet to detail the strategy of those critical times, but to lay out practical lines for the conduct of our strike struggles now.

Labor and the Dempsey-Tunney Fight

By WILLIAM F. DUNNE.

"LABOR," the official organ of the "Associated Recognized Standard Railroad Labor Organizations," in its issue for October 2, devoted its leading editorial to the Dempsey-Tunney fight.

It may occasion surprise to some to know that in an editorial on a subject which on the surface has no class angle, the editors of "Labor" expose their loyalty to the great capitalist interests of America who foment war and for whose interests wars are fought.

THEY the following quotation leaves no doubt that the official group whose viewpoint "labor" expresses look upon American participation in the world war in exactly the same manner as do the professional patriots:

"It was a most satisfactory fight. Of the 116,000,000 people in the United States at least 114,900,000 seemed to have wanted Tunney to win. The reason is clear. When Dempsey stayed out of the war he damned himself. The American people will not forgive a slacker, and when the slacker is a professional fighter his absence from the line is infuriating.

"Dempsey posed for his picture as a navy-yard worker—in patent leather shoes—when the marines were stopping the kaiser's finest in the middle of the ring in Chateau Thierry, and other Yanks were dieobeying orders to storm back the positions they had lost in an unexpected thrust. Nuff sed.

"There is a reason to believe that Tunney will be a satisfactory champion. He did his 'bit' overseas, like any other marine, and his cool nerve in coming to the fight by airplane is a touch that the world appreciates."

THE similarity between this sickening "100 per cent Americanism" drool and the praise of Tunney the patriot in the capitalist press is obvious, but its sinister character becomes plainer when it is recalled that Tunney has been commissioned a lieutenant in the marines and is being used to stimulate recruiting in the most useful arm of American imperialism.

WHY is "Labor" for Tunney as against Dempsey?

Principally for the reason that it gives. He has one of those who was fooled by the professional patriots, among whom must be included the professional labor leaders who control "Labor" and who urged full and unquestioning support of the most ill-called-for and biggest murderous adventure in which American imperialism has yet engaged—the entry into the world war to protect Morgan's millions loaned to the allies.

WE hold no brief for Dempsey, but it cannot be said of him that he allowed himself to be used by the agents of the war-mongers to fool thousands of young workers into believing that modern war is in defense of democracy when waged by the United States or is anything else than a method of continuing the competition inherent in capitalist production and exchange.

What business has "Labor," which is supported by thousands of workers, boosting the game of the war-mongers and the war department by trying to picture Tunney as an ideal type of young manhood simply because he served the lords of finance and industry and is still serving them?

THE duty of a real labor paper is to expose the war schemes of the bosses and their lackeys, to urge the workers to not allow themselves to be deceived by them and to organize the workers for resistance to all forms of imperialist war—not to fall in and outdo the paid war propagandists of the capitalist press as the editors of "Labor" have succeeded in doing.

Compensation Law to Go Before Missouri Voters in November

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—(FP)—Aid of the Workers Health Bureau has been offered the Missouri State Federation of Labor in its campaign for the adoption of an Workmen's Compensation law to voters in the November referendum.

Missouri labor has been fighting for this law for the past 11 years, says the Workers Health Bureau. "Since 1921 a Workmen's Compensation law has been adopted by the Missouri legislature three times.

"Each time the employing interests and damage suit lawyers have succeeded in calling for a referendum and have expended hundreds of thousands of dollars to influence non-industrial voters of the state to defeat the law, thus leaving the workers entirely unprotected when inquiry or death occurs from accidents or occupational diseases."

CAMPAIGN FOR GOTHAM STRIKE STARTS MONDAY

All Chicago Unions to Aid in Drive

An intensive campaign among all labor organizations in Chicago to raise funds for the aid of the New York cloakmakers now on strike will start Monday, it was announced by members of the Chicago conference of the New York strike.

The Chicago Federation of Labor is taking a leading part in the campaign and is urging all affiliated union organizations to contribute to the strike fund.

Each union in the city will be visited by a delegation, it is planned, and asked to contribute funds.

Endorsed By A. F. of L.

The Detroit convention of the American Federation of Labor unanimously endorsed the fight that the Gotham garment workers are waging and called on all state and local bodies to assist financially.

Forty thousand members of the New York needle trades are engaged in the fight for better working conditions. Their principal demand is the 40-hour week. The injunction has been used mercilessly against the workers, and a fight against this misuse of judicial power is combined with the fight for better conditions.

The strike is now in its fifteenth week.

Fight Against Sweatshop.

The cloakmakers are fighting against a threatened revival of the old sweatshop system, declares a statement issued by the international union this week.

"For fifteen weeks, 40,000 workers in the cloak and suit industry of New York have been on strike," the statement reads. "They are fighting against the threatened revival of the notorious sweatshop system which in the past has disgraced the industry and kept the workers in a condition of indescribable misery and oppression."

"In this struggle the organized employers have brought to bear the whole weight of their combined wealth, power and influence to crush the aspirations of the workers toward human existence.

Arrest Pickets.

"They have been causing the daily arrest of hundreds of peaceful workers; they are attempting to poison the minds of the public against us by systematic press publications of lying statements about alleged lawlessness within our ranks, and have not hesitated to hire alleged gangsters with known criminal records to beat up and shoot up the strikers on the picket line.

Drastic Injunction.

"As a climax of their campaign of terror and repression they have secured an injunction against our union so sweeping in scope, drastic in effect, and reckless in its provisions as to make it unique in the history of labor jurisprudence.

"The strike has resolved itself into a finish fight in which the employers base their whole hope on their ability to starve the workers into submission. The workers must be given immediate relief to enable them to continue their heroic fight to victory."

Powers Hapgood Replies to John L. Lewis

concerned in the unfortunate dispute between the brotherhood and the miners' union. For that reason he wrote this personal letter to me, suggesting that miners who are interested in progressive principles, such as a labor party, nationalization of the mines, organization of the unorganized, and the candidacy of any individuals pledged to those principles, should start a weekly paper of their own along the lines of the Illinois Miner, as they are not able to get their views presented in the United Mine Workers' Journal by its editor Ellis Searles. He also suggested that I should be the editor of this paper and spoke of ways to raise money to start it.

The "Red Plot."

As far as I am concerned, I did not want to be the editor of such a paper and would have written to that effect but I ever received it and had the opportunity of replying. Even if I had received it I cannot see how the mere receiving of a letter from a friend should cause people to believe I am part of a "Red Plot," even tho that friend may be interested in getting a delegation of trade union leaders to go to Russia to find out the true facts. Had the letter been written by me instead of to me, it might have been different, but I think the fair minded coal miners can see that I am in no way responsible for mail that is stolen from me.

Another thing by which certain people are trying to prove that I am a part of a "Red Plot" is the fact that I have been in Soviet Russia. Yes, I have been there and have earned my living with a pick and shovel underground in a Soviet coal mine. Furthermore I have told the truth about my experiences there since I have been back in this country. That is the thing that hurts the capitalists and those reactionary labor leaders who take their side. If I had told lies about what I had seen and had gone along with them on their band wagon, I would now be attacked as part of a "Red Plot."

What He Saw in Russia.

In order to make this point clear let me tell a few of the things that I saw there with my own eyes. When I was working in the mines of the Soviet government, my fellow workers and I were working six hours a day from bank to bank and we only had to work twenty shifts a month. In wet or otherwise bad places the day was reduced to five or even four hours from bank to bank. The workers enjoyed a month's vacation a year with full pay, in case of sickness or accident, when a worker was unable to work, he was given his full pay and all his medical attention free during the time he was off, unless he was so sick that he had to live in the hospital, in which case he of course had no living expenses and in addition received twenty-five per cent of his regular wage. If he was married and fifty per cent if he was single.

Wages and Cost of Living.

Wages were higher in relation to the cost of living than in other countries in which I [illegible] coal, and the standard of living is about the same in my opinion as the average soft coal miner in America and they are steadily going up. We got a twenty-five per cent increase just before I left under the new agreement between the miners' union and the government. Every miner belonged to the union. Frequently I saw evidences of the independence of the trade union movement, that workers who had been discharged were reinstated by the union in cases that a board member here would have no chance of winning. All this I know from my own actual experience and I saw the same thing being carried out in other parts of Russia that I passed thru. I also observed in various workshops that married women who were working were given two months vacation with full pay before and after child-birth if they were manual workers, while if they were doing lighter work they were allowed six weeks before and after with pay.

What Are Their Reasons?

Those are the conditions I experienced and saw when I was living in the Soviet Republic. Why is it that President Lewis and others who have so bitterly and unjustly attacked the Russian economic system have opposed a delegation of American trade union leaders to find out the true facts in that country unless it is because they know in their hearts that conditions there are infinitely better than they have been telling the workers in this country?

Some people have wanted to know why I came back to this country, if conditions were so good in Soviet Russia. One reason I came back is because this is the land of my birth, where all my relatives and friends are. Another reason is because I have long been active in the struggle for better living and working conditions. That struggle to be in the front lines of it, and I can be of more use in the trade union and political labor movements in my own country then in a foreign land.

Cites Persecution in Union.

In the struggle for better conditions in this country I have taken part in those progressive movements which are adapted to the conditions in our country. I am not one, and never have been, a member of the Communist Party, because I have not been convinced of the necessity of all their methods. In spite of the fact that I am not a member, however, I can't stand for all the deliberate and malicious lies that have been told not only by the capitalists but also by some of our own leaders about them and the country where they have established remarkably good conditions for the workers. Because I will not be part of this unwarranted persecution on some of the best fighters for good conditions we have in the trade union movement, and because I have criticized the international officers for not having preserve enough policies to prevent the terrific loss of membership in the outlying districts in the past few years, I am now having the axe turned on me. Appointees of President Lewis are going from local to local, wherever I have had my card, in a vain attempt to find some period in which I failed to pay dues. Altho they should know full well that a man of my interest in the labor movement would not fail on such a small thing as dues, they are not discouraged. My mail is intercepted by some unknown criminal. Everything is being done to "get something" on me in order to get rid of me by any means, as have others who have conscientiously fought for decent conditions for the workers. Just as the gunmen and he deputy sheriffs of the coal operators in Somerset county, Pa., and Northern Illinois and Kansas, have been used in the attempt to drive me away from the fight for better conditions in 1922 when I was an organizer, so now I wish to state that I will not be discouraged by any persecution my friends and I may receive at the hands of either the coal operators or our international officials. No matter what the future may hold in store for me, I expect to spend my entire life in the front lines of the struggle for better living and working conditions for the great mass of people.

Activities of Lewis Appointees.

The appointees of President Lewis will probably continue to go from local to local or among the members of our union in this district and very possibly will have more to say about "Red Plots" with which they will attempt to connect my name. It is unfortunate that I am working in the mines at Gallitzin for a living at the present time and that I can't spend all my time at meetings the way they can. I have been invited to speak quite frequently at meetings in various districts of late, however, and the miners have raised money to pay my expenses. In case any local in this district would like to hear both sides and wishes to arrange a debate between me and any representative of the international officers, I will be glad to accept if they can arrange to pay my expenses, as the international union is paying not only the expenses but also wages to the men who have helped create this misunderstanding.

Who Pays?

In case the international organizers charge, as some of them no doubt will, that the cost of this combination is being financed by "Bolshevik gold" I wish to state that its cost is approximately fifteen dollars and that I am paying it my self out of my wages earned in the mine at Gallitzin.

I regret exceedingly all this publicity of the past few weeks, for it takes our minds off our own difficulties and is an attempt on the part of the opponents of the progressive ticket for international office to raise the red scare and take the minds of the miners off the real issues of how the union can be saved, as explained from time to time in circulars put out by John Brophy, the president of our district. I sincerely hope that the minds of the men will not be confused by the irrelevant publicity caused by the stolen letter.

With every good wish for the welfare of our union, I remain

Fraternally yours,
Powers Hapgood.

FIVE NEW PITS OPEN IN PENN. ON UNION TERMS

MONESSEN, Pa., Oct. 28.—Two of the most important announcements for years in this district were made when it was learned that the Ellis mine and the Naomi mine of the Hillman Coal & Coke Company would resume operations this week under the Jacksonville wage agreement, giving employment to approximately 450 men, and also the announcement that increased orders at local industries had necessitated an urgent call for workmen.

Request for Men.

R. B. Tewrom, in charge of the board of trade employment bureau at Monessen received a request for 100 men to report to work, but he was unable to fill the order at once.

The Naomi mine of the Hillman Coal & Coke Company has been closed for two years. It is located a short distance below Fayette City, and when running full gives employment to 250 men. Workmen have been engaged for the past week getting the mine in shape for the resumption, and it is expected that the first coal will be mined today.

Closed for Long Time.

The Ellis mine, located about a mile below Webster, has been closed for two years and four months and hopes had been given up that it would ever reopen until the announcement that by the letter part of this week coal would be mined was the most welcome announcement to the residents not only at Webster but the entire upper Monongahela valley. Three hundred men will find employment at this mine.

With the resumption of these two mines the Hillman Coal & Coke Company will have five plants now open under the Jacksonville wage scale. Last week the Ontario and Soudan mines reopened and tonight the Gibson mine near Bentleyville resumed operations.

NOTORIOUS BOSS OF DANBURY FAME IS NOW BANKRUPT

(Special to The Daily Worker)

NEW YORK, Oct. 28. The man who played the part of a pioneer labor union smasher twenty years ago in Danbury, Conn., when the striking hatters of that city were forced to pay him $240,000 as the result of one of the most important of all antitrust court decisions, is now in his 74th year, blind and all but broke.

Twenty years ago this man, Dietrich F. Loewe was hailed by the bosses of the land as their champion. He practiced the worst kind of exploitation and labor-baiting. Now the irony of fate finds the old slave-driver, 74 years of age, a bankrupt with these same bosses none too willing to give him a helping financial hand.

Workers Glad.

It is needless to say that the hatters of Danbury, Conn., in 1906 the hatters had a union and were conducting a successful strike for better conditions and more wages. Loewe went to the courts and there secured a judgment against the union and every member of it for $240,000 "damages" to his business because the men refused to work. He collected every cent of it. He attached the houses, bank accounts and personal property of the members of the union and, without regard for their condition or that of their wives and children, exacted the full amount.

Supreme Court Upholds Him.

The labor movement was aroused and came to the support of the men. The fight was carried to the supreme court of the United States and those lackeys of the bosses promptly sustained the decision of the lower courts. Now Loewe himself is at the mercy of creditors. This looks very much like "divine justice," but it isn't. It was simply a case of Loewe having the support of his fellow capitalists in his war on the workers while he himself was unable to survive the competitive war between capitalists.

Chicago I. L. D. Now Planning Xmas Party For Class Prisoners

Plans for a Christmas party for class-war prisoners are already being made by the Chicago local of the International Labor Defense.

A hall has already been engaged for the affair, with accommodations for a buffet. A committee has been appointed in charge of preparation, which will depict the contrast between the worker "on the inside" and the worker on the outside during Christmas celebrations.

Branches are being visited for contributions toward gift packages for the prisoners. Each branch will be assigned the name of a prisoner and his dependents, if any exist.

Illinois Mine to Reopen.

HARRISBURG, Ill., Oct. 28.—The Saline County Coal Corporation will reopen its mine No. 1 Thursday, it was announced here today. The mine, which has been idle eight months, employs 400 men.

A NEW NOVEL

By Upton Sinclair

(Copyright, 1926, by Upton Sinclair)

"I wish you would tell me how to get Charlie to study some. I can't get him to do anything but play and make love to the girls."

Bunny wanted to say, "Try cutting off his allowance," but he realized that that would be one of those "horrid" things for which Bertie was always rebuking him. So he said, "It's quite a problem"—in the style of a diplomat or politician.

"The young people are too much of a problem for me,' said Charlie's mother. "They want to race about all day, and they just insist on dragging you with them, and it's getting to be more than I can stand." So then Bunny was sorry for Charlie's mother—he had supposed that she did all this "gadding" because she enjoyed it. To look at her, she was a nautical maid, plump but shapely, clad in spotless white and blue, with fluffy brown hair that the breeze was always blowing into her bright blue eyes. Bunny stole a glance now and then, and judged that the surgical operations upon her face must have been successes, for he saw no trace of them.

"I've devoted my whole life to that boy," the nautical maid was saying, "and he doesn't appreciate it a bit. The more you do for people the more they take it as a matter of course. This afternoon I think I'll go on strike! Will you back me up?"

So when the golfing expedition was setting out, Charlie announced, in a tone loud enough for the whole company, "Mumsie's not going—she's got a crush on Bunny!" At which they all laughed merrily, and trooped down the ladder, secretly relieved to be rid of one of the old folks, who insisted on "tagging along," and trying to pretend to be one of the crowd, when it was perfectly evident that they were not and could not.

IX

So Bunny and Mrs. Norman sat on the deck of the "Siren," in two big canvas chairs under a striped canvas awning, and sipped fruit juices and chatted about many things. She wanted to know about his life, and his family; Bunny, having heard something about the ways of "mumsies," guessed that she was investigating Bertie as a possible daughter-in-law, so he mentioned all the nice things he could. Assuming that she would not be entirely indifferent to practical matters, he told about the Ross tract, how he and Dad had discovered it, and how the wells continued to flow. And Mrs. Norman said, "Oh, money, money, always money! We all of us have too much, and don't know how to buy happiness with it!"

She went on to reveal that she was Theosophist, and how there was a great mahatma coming, and we were all going to learn to live on a different astral plane. She had noticed that Bunny, when he stood against a dark background at night, had a very decided golden aura—had anyone ever mentioned it to him? It meant that he had a spiritual nature, and was destined for higher things.

Then she began to ask about his ideas; she had heard nothing about his "disgrace" at the university, apparently, and he gave her just enough of it as to his conviction that there was something wrong with our social order, the world's distribution of wealth. The nautical maid, leaning back among her silken cushions, replied, "Oh, but that's all material! And it seems to me we're too much slaves to material things already; our happiness lies in learning to rise above them."

That was a large question, and Bunny dodged it, and presently Mrs. Norman was talking about herself. Her life was very unhappy. She had married when she was very young, too young to know what she was doing, except obeying her parents. Her husband had been a bad man, he had kept mistresses and treated her cruelly. She had devoted her life to her son, but it all seemed a disappointment, the more you gave to people the more they would take. Charlie was always in love, but he didn't really know about love, he wasn't capable of unselfishness. What did Bunny think about love?

This was another large question; and again Bunny ducked. He said he didn't know what to think, he saw that people made themselves unhappy, and he was waiting, trying to learn more about the matter. So Mrs. Norman proceeded to tell him more. The dream of love, a really true and great love, never died in the soul of a man or woman; they might become cynical, and say they didn't believe in it, but they were always unhappy, and secretly hoping and wailing, because really, love was the greatest thing in the world. It made Mrs. Norman happy to know that among thi loud and noisy generation there was one young man who was not making himself cheap.

The loud and noisy generation came back to the "Siren," and cut off these intimacies. Charlie's "mumsie" went below, and when she reappeared, it was in the dining-saloon, with painted panels of Watteau nymphs and shepherds, and seventeenth century ladies reclining to the lascivious pleasance of a lute. The hostess was no longer the nautical maid, but instead a great lady, of many charms, a shimmer of pale blue satin, and a gleam of golden hair, and snowy bosom and shoulders, and a double rope of pearls. It was striking transformation, and Bunny, who had watched Aunt Emma at work, ought to have understood but his mind had been on other matters.

Mrs. Norman had the young oil-man next to her at table; and when they danced, she asked him would he dance with her, and he said that he was an exquisite dancer, she just adored it, and would he dance some more with her? Bunny was with. She had a faint elusive perfume, and he might have learned sion that women somehow naturally smelled that way, and it was the way, and her back was bare all the way, down to where he put his hand.

Charlie teased them, and the rest of the company giggled. Bunny realized that it took these young people less than twenty-four hours to get used to anything, and after that it was a bore. So he sat with Mrs. Norman, and drove with her, and danced with her, and played golf with her, while Charlie did all these things with Bertie, and it suited at least three of them completely.

THE PACE SET BY DEVELOPMENT IN INDUSTRY IN SOVIET UNION NEVER REACHED IN CAPITALIST COUNTRIES

By JOHN PEPPER
Special to The DAILY WORKER

MOSCOW, U. S. S. R., Oct. 29. — "The Soviet Union is entering upon a new stage of development with the beginning of the new economic year," said Alexis Rykoff, chairman of the Council of People's Commissars, in beginning his report to the third day's session of conference of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union.

"The Soviet Union is beginning to reconstruct its economy on the basis of a higher technique. While the national economy as a whole has reached the pre-war level, the restoration of industry and agriculture was effected under quite new social conditions than those of the pre-war period."

Summarizing the outstanding characteristics of the new Soviet economy, Rykoff pointed out that: First, the restoration of industry went pa-

Current Events

By T. J. O'FLAHERTY

THE depths to which official trade unionism has sunk in the state of Illinois is amply demonstrated by the support given to Frank L. Smith, republican boodle-snatcher, by the State Federation of Labor politicians and their understrappers thruout Illinois. It was expected that Smith's connection with the open-shopper Insull would at least have the effect of keeping those political harpies silent. But no! I have in front of me a copy of the Vermillion County Star, edited by a former socialist and more recently a prominent member of the farmer-labor party of Illinois, now defunct, which is in fact a special issue to boost Smith.

THE only good feature of the issue is the exposure of George E. Brennan, the democratic tool of capitalism. Everything said about Brennan, as far as his anti-labor record is concerned, is true. But why jump from the frying pan into fire? If preference for Smith were due to a naive belief that he is a better man than Brennan, none could keep quite cool about the matter, even tho it would be hard to take such a foolish position calmly. But the pity of it is that those labor leaders who are supporting either Brennan or Smith are doing so for ulterior motives. They are common rascals who are selling their influence among the workers for a consideration of some sort, whether it be hard cash or jobs for themselves or their relatives.

IN England there is possibly not half a dozen labor leaders who would dare endorse a capitalist candidate. Not that the dominant leaders of the British labor movement are any better morally than our Walkers, Greenes and Lewises. J. H. Thomas would gladly permit his body to be used by the king to clean the royal shoes on, and Mrs. Ethel Snowden, the socialist lady, would be willing to perform an equally servile task for the queen. J. R. MacDonald, while premier, laid the keels for five cruisers and allowed British planes to bomb Indian villages, for king and imperialism.

THO our English labor fakers use the lingo of socialism they are no more in favor of the overthrow of capitalism than William Green or Frank Farrington, who uphold capitalism with eloquence and enthusiasm. When why is J. H. Thomas, privy councillor to King George, a member of the labor party, and why is William Green, the small-town Baptist, a democrat? For the very good reason that capitalism in England is on the decline, while there it is still on the upgrade. The British labor fakers find it to the their personal advantage to follow the masses, enriching them-

SCAB HERDER HEADS BOARD ON R. R. WAGE

Arbitration Hearings Open at New York

(Special to The Daily Worker)

NEW YORK CITY, Oct. 29.—Edgar E. Clerk of Washington, D. C., has been chosen chairman of the board of arbitration to consider the wage demands of the railway brotherhoods of the conductors and trainmen. The board also chose Clark as the chairman in an organization meeting at the Welder-Astoria hotel.

Open hearings have commenced and will continue until both sides present their arguments, with the unions giving their case first.

Clark has held high office in the Order of Railway Conductors, but there are other things which show how much railway unionists should rely upon such "impartial" arbitrators.

Clark is a lawyer, member of the law firm of Clark and Roe of St. Louis, and was former chairman of the Interstate Commerce Commission. Recently he defended the claims of the railroads for a higher valuation of their property, appearing for the estate of Adolphus Busch.

Clark was made assistant secretary of commerce and labor in 1903. This probably was a reward for his anti-union activities, as in 1902, when an official of the Order of Railway Conductors, he ordered the conductors to scab on striking switchmen.

In 1901, during the switchmen's strike in Denver, Clark made an arrangement with the railroad company, for conductors to take the place of the strikers. In 1894, Clark united with the General Managers' Association to break the strike of the American Railway Union, led by Debs.

Sheppard Presents Case.

In the opening of the arbitration hearing, L. M. Sheppard, president of the O. R. C. and advisor of the Trainmen in the case, wherein they ask a 20 per cent raise, declared that the railroads have increased their revenues from 18 to 27 per cent since 1920, yet that since 1921 the trainmen's wages have been cut three and a half cents an hour.

SACCO-VANZETTI ATTORNEYS FILE BILL OF EXCEPTIONS FOR NEW TRIAL

By S. D. LEVINE.
(Special to The Daily Worker)

BOSTON, Mass., Oct. 29.—Attorneys William G. Thompson and Herbert Behrmann, counsel for Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti, filed a bill of exceptions in the Norfolk county superior court at Dedham today, appealing from the decision of Judge Thayer of the superior court who denied their defendants a new trial. The documents made a volume a half a foot thick and contained a list of more than 80 affidavits as well as evidence and arguments presented six weeks ago at a hearing for a new trial for the two convicted men.

A protest meeting arranged by the Workers (Communist) Party will be held Sunday at 4 p. m. in the Boston Common at Charles St. Mall.

Lull in Herrin Gang Warfare as one Leader Visits Sick Brother

MILL STRIKER DEAD; SUSPECT SCAB ENEMIES

Passaic Picket's Body Found on Drawbridge

(Special to The Daily Worker)

PASSAIC, N. J., Oct. 29.—There is one striker less in the Passaic textile mill district this week than there was last. One less in the ranks of the sufferers and one more on the list of victims.

The broken body of John Elekes, an active Hungarian striker reported missing a week ago now lies in the morgue at Union City, N. J. He was found on the Pennsylvania drawbridge over the Hackensack river, near Jersey City, his body wedged into the mechanism of the bridge. According to the autopsy, Elekes was struck by a train probably while still alive. It is the opinion of the police and others who saw the place where the body was found, that he was taken to the railroad track to be hit. Whether or not he was unconscious before he was hit is not known.

Active Striker.

Elekes was an active striker and had numerous enemies among the strikebreakers in the nearby mills. Some time ago he was arrested on the complaint of one of them and fined by Judge Wallace Leyden of the Second District Criminal Court, Hackensack. He was paying this fine off in weekly installments.

The striker was last seen alive Monday, Oct. 18, when he left home about four-thirty in the afternoon to visit his friend, Alexander Sipos, 31 Dewey Street, Garfield. The two men had been friends for more then twenty years. Sipos watched Elekes from the front porch, as he started up the street toward his home. From the time he left Sipos' home about eight o'clock Monday evening, until his dead body was found the following Saturday afternoon, what happened to Elekes is a mystery.

Unfair Play.

John Sistaro, a private detective who knew Elekes and was friendly toward him, hints that the striker was killed by strike enemies. He says he is familiar with certain particulars regarding the animosity felt toward Elekes which gave him this suspicion. Mrs. Elekes also is convinced that strikebreakers are responsible for her husband's death.

Widow and 4 Children.

Elekes was small of stature and had long been in a weak condition because of some malady contracted while he was working in the textile mills. He would have been no match for any assailant.

Mrs. Elekes is left with four small children to support. The eight-year-old son is sick in bed. There is a small insurance policy but undertakers are preparing to take most of that for burial costs.

Senator Reed Pins Slush Fund Bouquet on President Coolidge

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 29.—"The red line of the circumference of the circle of corruption runs across the White House grounds and passes thru the heart of the Coolidge administration," Senator Reed, democrat, of Missouri, declared in an address in the interest of Representative Harry B. Hawes, democratic senate candidate.

Senator Reed called attention to conditions in Pennsylvania and Illinois as disclosed before the senate campaign funds committee of which he is chairman.

"The Mellon family directly contributed $125,000 which has been exposed," he said.

"With full knowledge of the president, Mellon undertook to tell voters of Pensylvania in the name of the president to vote for the Mellon combination."

TRADE UNION CONGRESS TRIES TO COMPROMISE BRITISH MINE STRIKE

LONDON, Oct. 29.—The effort of the Trade Union Congress to reopen negotiations between the miners, operators and the government for the settlement of the coal strike attracted wide attention in the press and official circles today, despite Premier Baldwin's refusal to summon a tri-partite conference.

A feeling prevails in responsible circles that the efforts of the Trade Union Congress will succeed in the next few days and will lead to negotiations to end the stoppage.

Failing to get full satisfaction from Premier Baldwin, because they could not guarantee to have the coal-pits backing of the miners, the Trade Union Congress was today in touch with the miners' executive endeavoring to extract definite proposals which can be placed before the government.

QUEEN'S FRIENDS IN WILD ORGIES AT WASHINGTON

Policeman Fined $75 for Joining the Drunks

(Special to The DAILY WORKER)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—Wild orgies in the Roumanian Legation when Queen Marie visited there, in which pre-Volstead liquor was imbibed freely by every one, altho this is the capital of a prohibition nation, were revealed at the police board trial of a patrolman today. The patrolman, Lafone Starkweather, was as drunk at the legation, it is reported, that he was in a dazed condition when picked up. He was fined $75 after a trial.

That He Could Stand It.

Police Lieutenant Michael Ready testified that he knew of the carrousing at the legation and for that reason selected Starkweather to guard the building, as he "was a sober man and could stand the temptations of the legation."

But the "temptations," in which the queen figured, were too much, Sergeant Burlinghome reported, saying he saw Starkweather sitting on a box apparently in a dazed condition," after the party.

"It was a pretty wild night down there," he testified.

Government Worried.

BUCHAREST, Oct. 29.—The Roumanian government is worried over reports circulated that "family trouble" and government intervention will interfere with Queen Marie's tour. The foreign office has issued a statement denying rumors that the government is displeased with Marie's welcome and actions.

OTTAWA, Ont., Oct. 29.— Labor leaders and war veterans of Ottawa have refused to participate in the functions arranged in the dominion capital to receive Queen Marie of Roumania.

U. S. STILL MEDDLING IN TACNA-ARICA, THO IT PROMISED TO QUIT

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—An informal report on Tacna Arica was presented to President Coolidge by General William Lassiter, who succeeded General Pershing as head of the Tacna Arica plebiscitary commission.

"We are still hopeful of adjustment of the problem by negotiation," said Lassiter.

Altho the state department ordered the commission's work abandoned, Secretary Kellogg said he still was in conference with the representatives here of Chile and Peru.

6,000 TRADE UNIONISTS IN LABOR PARTY

Pennsylvania County to Form Organization

(Special to The Daily Worker)

BENTLEYVILL, Pa., Oct. 29.—(FP)—Washington county workers began the formation of a Labor Party when 200 delegates representing 6,000 organized trade unionists, mostly miners, met at Bentleyville in western Pennsylvania.

Steve Douglas of Brownsville was elected labor party secretary and all delegates agreed, in a resolution passed, to return to their homes and their local unions advocating strongly the building up of the new party of workers. Nationalization of mines was a principal plank in the platform adopted.

Unionist Elected Chairman.

Harry Wedsworth, president Local 2399, United Mine Workers, of Daisytown, was elected chairman. In a short address he stated the purpose of the convention and why a labor party was needed in Washington County. Fred Siders, Avella coal miner candidate for president of Dist. 5, U. M. W., pointed out some of the main situations in which a labor party of workers is most needed.

Paul W. Fuller, educational director of Dist. 2, U. M. W., the main speaker, was received with a great deal of enthusiasm. He first explained workers' adduction and its value to workers in their fundamental problems, including political action as well as industrial organization.

Expounds Program.

He paid tribute to John Brophy, president of Dist. 2, U. M. W. and candidate for international president, by declaring him the only district president of the miners who had vision and courage to establish an educational department in his district.

Fuller expounded the nationalization of mines' program in detail. He concluded with the statement that a 100% union and a labor party were essential, with nationalization, if the miners ever expected to get a decent living out of coal.

Women, Too.

Unless the women are organized in co-operation with the men, declared Fuller's assistant, Clara Johnson, the labor party would lack the necessary strength to insure ultimate victory. Miss Johnson has been organizing miners' women's auxiliaries in connection with her educational work.

Wicks Attacks Old Parties.

H. M. Wicks, Workers Party candidate for governor, spoke on the political situation in Pennsylvania, attacking the control of both republican and democratic parties by big capitalists. His assertion that U. M. W. president John L. Lewis' support of Coolidge in 1924 was "a stab in the back" for the miners was much applauded.

Two Children Buried.

ELMWOOD, Ind., Oct. 29. — Two children were burned to death and the mother and two other children received serious burns when fire destroyed the Richard Leakey home here today. The dead were: Richard Leakey, 7 months old, and Philips Jean Leakey, 2 years old.

Mrs. eLakey was badly burned in rescuing aCrolyn, 3, and Mary Margaret, four. The mother had gone to a neighbor's home for a few minutes. On her return she found the house on fire.

MINERS' LEADER URGES WORKERS TO MAKE 25 WEEKS' FIGHT VICTORIOUS

A. J. COOK.

"Your 25 weeks' struggle must not be in vain," Arthur Cook, secretary of the British Miners' Federation and outstanding strike leader, said to the battling strikers. "An acceptance of surrender would mean servitude for many years to come. You are entitled to a living wage and decent conditions. Let us fight to secure them."

INJUNCTION USE IS DENOUNCED BY W. P. CANDIDATES

Labor Party Is the Only Solution

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—Replying to a circular of the Emergency Labor Conference to all candidates in reference to the evil of injunctions and the necessity for enactment of an anti-injunction bill, the candidates of the Workers Party declared themselves emphatically against injunctions and pointed out that only by laber entering its own candidates and forming a Labor Party will it forge an instrument to combat the ever-increasing persecution of workers on strike.

The communication of the candidates of the Workers Party follows:
"J. M. Budish, Secretary.
"Emergency Labor Conference.
"New York City.

"Dear Comrades: In reply to your communication of October 23, asking (1) Do you or do you not favor the checking of the evil of injunctions in industriel disputes; (2) Do you or do you not favor the enactment of an anti-injunction bill by the state legislature limiting the power of the courts to issue injunctions in trade and labor disputes, permit us to reply to these questions:

Favor Abolition.

"1. We regard the injunction evil as a menace to the existence of union

Another Herrin Death.

HERRIN, Ill., Oct. 29.—Another victim of Williamson county's gang feud, William B. "Hizpockets" McQuay, 24, was found riddled with machine-gun bullets about three miles east of here on the Johnston City road.

FEDERAL COURTS AGAIN AFFIRM AN INJUNCTION AGAINST U. M. W.

RICHMOND, Va., Oct. 29.—The injunction granted by the federal court in the northern district of West Virginia to prevent the United Mine Workers' Union from "intimidating or interfering" with employees of the West Virginia and Pittsburgh Coal company was affirmed with a modification in the federal court of appeals here today.

BRITISH MINERS PREPARED FOR A FINISH FIGHT

Executive Moves Into Strike Area

(Special to The Daily Worker)

LONDON, Oct. 29.—The strike British miners WILL win!

This statement is not based on any side opinion but on the expressed determination of the rank and file who have refused all overtures and turned down all advice that counselled surrender.

The entire executive of the miners' union has moved into Nottinghamshire the weakest spot in the organization, in order to be, as A. J. Cook puts it, "at the seat of war."

The government is pouring police into the mining areas and troops are waiting for orders to entrain for the strike fields.

In the following remarkable interview to a representative of THE DAILY WORKER, A. J. Cook, fighting secretary of the miners, gave out the plans of the miners' general staff to carry on the struggle:

"The Miners' Executive, faced with the decision of the districts, which confirmed the resolutions passed at the conference on May 7 and 8, have set to work in real earnest to carry out these decisions," said A. J. Cook.

"Arrangements are being made to meet the unions of the safety men, outside the Federation, to discuss what action we can take with regard to the withdrawal of their men.

"It has been decided that the executive should form itself into a central general staff, or a council of war.

"It has been further decided that it should utilize the services of all the miners' M. P.'s and the miners' leaders in the coalfields, and of all those who are willing to help in this campaign, to secure rigid adherence to the Federation policy, and to secure the withdrawal of all the men who have resumed work.

Stop Outcropping.

"They should secure the ceasing and production of outcrop coal; and to form once again a 100 per cent fighting army for the terms and conditions existing before the lockout.

"Realizing that Nottingham is one of the blackest areas, the whole executive will meet there to do its business, and to arrange its campaign right at the seat of war, in use a military phrase, to be ever present in the firing line. The executive will meet there on Tuesday.

Miners Not Beaten.

"This is to be an intensified, centralized campaign to win victory. The employers have now necessitated that the miners are not beaten, and the general public, who are being exploited by paying high prices for coal, will see clearly the necessity for pressing the government to reconcile the justice of our claims, and demand that the government secure an equitable settlement or resign.

Praising the Russian Workers.

Referring to the return of the miners' delegation from Russia on the previous day, Cook said that all of them, including his wife, were loud in the praises of the Russian workers, and were expressing their disgust at the decisions of the labor party conference, and the refusal of the political and trade union leaders to recommend the workers to have a levy for the miners.

"As my wife said to me," went on Cook, "Mr. Robert Williams has got his just deserts by being defeated in the election for the labor executive."

"The action of Mr. Frank Hodges and his confreres on the International," continued Cook, "in refusing to allow the Russians to join has compelled us to consider the question of immediately forming an Anglo-Russian Miners' Committee. We must cement our friendship in a tangible form so that we can co-operate in the future to carry out the objects we have in view.

"We expect our comrades, the railwaymen and dockers, to refuse to blackleg by handling foreign coal."

TRUNK SHOWS AIMEE'S TALE IS BUNK

Evangelist's Hair Is Now on the Air

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 29.—The sensational Aimee Semple McPherson case was blown wide open again here today.

On the very day her attorneys rested her case, after the preliminary hearing of the evangelist, her mother, Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, and Mrs. Lorraine Wiseman-Bisleff, all charged with conspiracy to manufacture false evidence, had dragged thru five weeks, the state exploded a bombshell by announcing that Kenneth G. Ormiston's trunk had been discovered in New York and that it was expected to arrive at the district attorney's office at any time.

Ormiston, former radio operator at Angelus Temple, is alleged to have been the companion of Mrs. McPherson on a cottage at Carmel, Cal., while her "four square gospel" followers thought her drowned.

Trunk Full of Clothing.

In Ormiston's trunk, according to the district attorney, is sufficient evidence to make a settlement of the case, quickly and conclusively.

It is crammed with women's wearing apparel, dainty frocks, expensive gowns, imported lingerie, silk stockings—and a silk "evangelistic" robe.

Practically every article in the trunk was purchased in Los Angeles.

Rader's Nose Rag.

Only one article of masculine use was found in the trunk. This was a large silk handkerchief, on which is engraved the name of Paul Rader, an evangelist. Rev. Rader, it is recalled, occupied the pulpit at Angelus Temple while Mrs. McPherson made a pilgrimage to the Holy Land a year ago.

The trunk also contained a lace boudoir cap. In this cap was a single strand of hair—a hair of decidedly reddish hue.

This single strand of hair was sent to District Attorney Keyes from New York by air mail. That single strand of hair, according to Keyes, is going to have an important bearing on the outcome of the case.

Phila. Carpenters to Follow up $1,000 for I. L. G. with More Aid

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 29.—The Carpenters' Local No. 1073 voted $1,000 for the cloak workers of New York who are now out on strike. In addition a collection was taken at the same meeting which amounted to over $100.

A resolution was passed unanimously to stake the cloak workers as long as the battle between them and the bosses rages. Many of the carpenters are out of work, but they pledged theme lves to help nevertheless, as they deem it very important that the cloak makers should win.

BRITISH MINERS WAGE BRAVE FIGHT

British miners' soup kitchen maintained by funds collected from American workers by the International Workers' Aid. Keep soup kitchens going by sending your contributions to I. W. A., 1558 W. Madison St., Chicago.

By JACK BRADON.

IT is now nearly seven months since the British miners left the mines in their effort to spike the ambitions of British capitalism to reconstruct its economy at the immediate expense of the miners and ultimate cost of Britain's entire working class.

The struggle of the miners against a cut in wages, which were already extremely meager, notably bordering on pauperism, is a most strenuous and testing one, and is marked by great heroism and privation, not only of the miners, but of their women and children as well.

Whole System Questioned.

Interlocked with the problem of wages and hours of the miners is the question of British economy in its entirety. Having lost its world economic dominance and political prestige to Wall Street, as a result of the world carnage and its subsequent developments, British capitalism is seeking a way out of its desperate plight of chronic unemployment, colonial pressure, general instability and inability to compete on the world market even with its most plentiful commodity, coal.

IT cannot, as a way out of these difficulties, further the exploitation of its colonies or the industrially backward nations, by obtaining from them cheap raw material and labor, and in turn charge them high rates for the finished product. For in those colonies and so-called backward nations, where British formerly held economic sway, industry progressed—it moved forward, and in turn must obtain raw material, labor and a market for its finished product. It is this economic force that is at the bottom of nationalist movements such as in China, India, Morocco, etc., making it highly difficult for Britain to make those colonies and backward nations carry the burden of making her a thriving instead of a decaying capitalist country.

War is Too Risky.

To continue her former grip upon the colonies and backward nations, to say nothing of tightening this grip, an extensive and costly war must be carried on against the peoples of these territories. And Britain cannot afford, nor risk such wars, because of her inner instability and "independability" of her working class. For these very same reasons, she cannot enhance a war against a large power even tho the conquest of which may mean a new lease on life for British capitalism, or at least may temporarily save it from its present speedy and unmistakable deterioration.

Saw Labor Opportunity.

MINDFUL of these difficulties surrounding her without, Britain has set out to stabilize herself on the basis of lower wages and longer hours of her own working class. She reasons that cheapened labor would produce commodities at a cost low enough as to allow under selling other nations on the world market, and thus recapture her former influence. And, again, the British lion would roar as of old. But to bring this about the trade union movement had to be shattered. Such an undertaking is proving infinitely more difficult than the British bourgeoisie supposed. While it correctly appraised the dependability of the officials of the labor movement, feeling that this element could be counted upon in an emergency, it utterly underrated the aggressiveness and conscientiousness of a proud rank and file, who could force a general strike, contrary to the wishes of its official leaders. It appears that the British bourgeoisie did not anticipate the general strike. Even the labor officials, both within and without the T. U. C., who are supposed to know the temper of the rank and file, did not suspect that a general strike would occur. I am persuaded to credit this point of view in the ground that, had those labor leaders who were opposed to the general strike sensed the probability of it, they would have actively engaged in a campaign beforehand to prevent the occurrence of a situation that was most distasteful to them.

ITALIANS IN U. S. TURNING ANTI-MUSSOLINI

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—Italians living in the United States that had previously supported the fascist regime or remained neutral are now going over to the opposition as a result of their conviction that Mussolini intends to fasten a permanent dictatorship on Italy with himself as uncrowned monarch.

This is the declaration of Luigi Criscuolo, an Italian leader of New York, in a statement calling attention to the growth of pro-fascist organizations among Italian people in America.

Instead of restoring Italy to the Italian people, says Criscuolo, "we find Mussolini and fascism firmly entrenched, with no evidence of any desire or plan to relinquish any powers, to the king, to parliament or to the people. Mussolini is the supreme lord of all Italy and no greater despot has ever existed in Italian history."

Many former admirers of Mussolini, carried away by the glamour of his movements, are now seeing that he has destroyed whatever liberties the Italian people had already enjoyed in the interests of big capital.

CHICAGO LABOR TO HONOR DEBS AT MEET TONITE

Workers Will Pledge "Carrying On"

Eugene V. Debs, the great American rebel and labor leader, will be honored tonight by the workers of Chicago in mass meeting at Temple Hall, Marshfield and Van Buren. Chicago labor will gather not only to mourn the loss of the old warrior but to pledge themselves to carry on. The meeting is being held under the auspices of International Labor Defense.

James P. Cannon, secretary of the International Labor Defense, upon the national committee of which Debs served since its inception, is one of the speakers. Debs was a ready and enthusiastic supporter of the work of I. L. D. Himself a former class war prisoner, the heart of Debs was constantly with the cause of united working class defense. The last public document of Debs was his appeal to American labor for Sacco and Vanzetti which was spread broadcast throut the country by International Labor Defense.

This picture of Eugene V. Debs was taken at the Ralph Chaplin home near Chicago while Chaplin was still in prison and about a year after Debs had been released. The baby Debs is holding is Eric Haessler, son of another wartime political prisoner. Chaplin and Haessler speak at the meeting tonight.

I. W. W. Poet Talks.

Ralph Chaplin, another speaker, is the famous I. W. W. poet, and was one of Debs' co-defendants when Chaplin was prosecuted in the Chicago I. W. W. cases and served his term in Leavenworth penitentiary with scores of others.

Carl Haessler, who will also talk was a militant objector to the imperialist war and served his term in Leavenworth for it. He was one of the leaders of the famous Leavenworth penitentiary strike, in which the prisoners presented a united front to the prison officials and won their demands for better conditions in the "pen."

Hymen Schneid, general organizer of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America, a member of organized labor for many years, will also speak.

Work to Be Reisted.

Workers are urged to attend this meeting in numbers to pay a solemn tribute to a great working class leader and leader. The story of Debs' activities in the American labor movement, his leadership of the Pullman strike, the organization of the American Railway Union, his aid in founding the Industrial Workers of the World, the Social Democratic Party of America, his fight for progress and militancy in the labor movement and his severe and uncompromising castigation of misleaders and fakirs, his famous Canton speech and the last years of his life—these incidents and milestones in Debs' life and work will be reisted by the speakers. Admission to the meeting is free.

Seventeen Years a B. A. Gets Elected as General Sec'y-Treas.

Gus. Soderberg of Chicago, has been elected to the office of general secretary-treasurer of the Journeymen Tailors' Union for the ensuing two years.

He takes office January 1. Soderberg has been business agent of Local No. 5 in Chicago for 17 years.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Oct. 29.—Federal prohibition agents today seized the largest still ever found in New Jersey—a plant valued at half a million dollars and so large they said it would have to be dynamited because it was too huge to be dismantled.

Labor in Europe Speaks Up in Fight for Lives of Sacco and Vanzetti

By J. LOUIS ENGDAHL.

LABOR in Europe is speaking up in the fight for the lives of Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti.

Laurance Todd writes for the Federated Press from Washington that the "state department officials are visibly worried at the storm of protest" which has greeted "the refusal of Judge Thayer of Massachusetts to grant a new trial to Sacco and Vanzetti."

The workers of the United States must join in this effort, so that not only the state department, nor the White House alone, but the whole capitalist dictatorship in this country will become seriously worried.

The realization that European workers are bearing the brunt of the fight for the class war prisoners in this country, should spur American workers to increased activity.

Another Federated Press correspondent, this time in Boston, declares that public opinion "seems to be shifting somewhat from its hostile attitude toward Sacco and Vanzetti toward the position that there must be something in these workers' claims of innocence after all."

This is an inevitable result of Judge Thayer's course handling of the case, his light disposal of the confessions of the two ex-agents of the department of justice, his slighting references to defense counsel, his zealousness in seeking to belittle the testimony of Calestino Madeiros, and especially his reference to "the verdict of a jury approved by the supreme court of this commonwealth." In fact, the supreme court never proved the guilty verdict against Sacco and Vanzetti. All that the supreme court did, in its own words, was to "examine carefully all the exceptions in so far as argued, and finding no error the verdicts are to stand." The high court merely went thru the technical procedure of the trial. It had nothing to do with the question of whether the testimony presented justified the verdict. That is all that it can do when the present appeal from the decision of Judge Thayer denying the new trial demanded comes before it.

If some capitalist were on trial, of course, the court would quickly find an endless procession of errors on which to free him. But it is different when a worker faces the court. Then the judges of the high court blink themselves blind ignoring the fraudulent manner in which labor is declared guilty by, for the bar of the lower capitalist tribunals.

America's dollar diplomats in Europe think they can fool the workers on the other side of the Atlantic. Thus Councillor Poole, of Wall Street's embassy at Berlin, told a visiting delegation of Communist members of the German reichstag that "there was no danger of immediate execution of the two men, citing the possibility that they may be pardoned. Reports to the contrary he said were 'incorrect'."

What a fraud! What a typical bluff of American dollar diplomacy! Practiced on the self-satisfied officialdom of American labor, such tactics usually get satisfactory results. But Poole showed he does not understand European labor. Probably his eyes were opened a little when he read in the next issue of the Rote Fahna (Red Flag), official organ of the German Communist Party, that it considered "the American councillor's assurances were mere bluff" and urged the German workers to renew their protests against the scheduled executions. Labor in Germany has long struggled valiantly for a Soviet republic, that saw its martyrs go to death by the thousands, that saw other tens of thousands imprisoned on the slightest pretext, understands fully every characteristic of the capitalist beast with which it has to deal. It is well trained against the pitfalls that capitalist rule continually prepares for it. The same may be said, perhaps in slightly lesser degree, of the workers of every other west-European capitalist country.

The same must also be said of the workers of the United States. The Sacco-Vanzetti case should teach American labor its much needed lesson, that there are classes within the social system under which we all live, that there is a continuous war going on between those classes, that the capitalist class seeks with every weapon at its disposal to maintain its supremacy, while the working class struggles for the power that will enable it to achieve its emancipation.

Sacco and Vanzetti will be the victims of this class war if American labor does not use its class power to shield them. European labor, thru its ceaseless fight for Sacco and Vanzetti, should inspire the workers in the United States to enlist in ever greater and irresistible masses in this war against their historic enemy, that must be crowned with labor's triumph over this nation's ruthless ruling class.

Soviet Union Sets Fast Pace in Development of Its Industries

rallel with the realization of the electrification plan. The electro-technical industry is now on twice as high a level as in pre-war times. Moreover, industry pursued the course of adaptation to the peasantry. The restoration of the rural economy proceeded on the basis of the new land property relations. The new agricultural tax was followed by a co-operative movement that penetrated into the villages and by the birth of agricultural communes. The complete restoration could have been impossible without an enormous internal accumulation which was used to create a comparatively large floating capital. Industry is now actually yielding five hundred million rubles profits not including the amortization fund.

Industrialization.

The further development of the country's economy, he continued, will proceed on the slogan of industrialization. The industrial plan provided for eighteen per cent growth in the current year and twelve per cent next year. In spite of the defeatist affirmations of the opposition such an enormous pace has never been reached by any capitalist country whose yearly growth in industry reaches from one-fifteenth to four per cent.

In the current year one thousand million rubles will be invested for fundamental expenses to be directed primarily towards machine building, fuel, electrification, transport.

Coal Production.

Rykoff pointed out particularly the progress in the Don Basin where for the last two years the coal output has increased by fourteen millions tons as well as in the progress of electrification. New electrical stations are starting work this year.

The most important task in respect to industrial readjustment are the necessity to carry out fully the economy regime and the modification of the system of administration of the industrial organizations. Between industry and the rural economy there must exist close harmony as expressed in the party's agricultural policy. The opposition is presenting the situation in the rural districts in a wrong light instead of a dissolution of the middle layer we have in the country a rising of the general welfare of all groups of peasants including the consolidation of middle peasant masses. The percentage of peasant economy with out sowing has fallen from 6.9% in 1922 to 4.3% in 1925. Farming economies up to two dessiatins constituted 46% in 1922 while in 1925-26 they constituted 32%. Over the same period economies over ten dessiatins have increased from 12% to 3.3%. Well-to-do and employing peasants constitute 15% of all peasant farms and pay 47% of the whole agricultural tax, while from 25% to 30% of the peasant economics are altogether exempted from the tax.

Data Belies Private Capital Legend.

The legend of the opposition about private capital is belied by the data showing the part played by private capital in commerce: 1923-24, the gross trade in the hands of private capital amounted to 22%, in 1925-26 this percentage has fallen to 9%. A corresponding fall of from 57% (1923-24) to 39% (1925-26) has been observed in the retail trade. The part played by private capital in other parts of the national economy are at a minimum point. The policy of lowering prices must be continued. The demand of the opposition for high industrial prices means the alliance of the rich peasants with the town bourgeoisie and the disruption of the alliance of the workers and peasants, the destruction of the basis of industrialization and the defeat of the revolution.

The party will not permit a defeatist policy. Trotsky, the leader of the opposition, has forgotten that it is a good thing to be a defeatist during imperialist wars but a bad thing to be a defeatist when the proletariat is engaged in a war for the consolidation of its dictatorship.

Defeat Opposition on All Fronts.

In the conree of the debate the speakers, mostly provincial workers, emphasized the correctness of the theses on Rykoff's report, pointing out that the party and the Soviet power have, in the work of industrial construction achieved perfect unity of the workers, a fact, which is keenly felt locally where industrial construction is proceeding at a rapid pace.

The opposition suffered defeat on all fronts. Keeping silent at the conferences on economic questions where they most bitterly criticized the party, the opposition only confirm their bankruptcy.

As the economic difficulties that arose in the autumn of 1925 are being outlined, the attitude at first attracted by the opposition has gradually waned. The statements of the opposition have proved to be mistaken because they failed to take into consideration the rapid development of small and big industry. In the next period the attention of the party must center on questions of economic reconstruction, the development of local industry, the consolidation of local finance.

In characterizing the progress of industrial development of the U. S. S. R., the speakers pointed out that the development followed the line of consolidating the union of the proletariat and peasantry and stated that it will be possible to attain the tasks of industrialization only if such a union is maintained and secured

Trenton Unions Praise.

TRENTON, N. J., Oct. 29.—Labor union locals here have enthusiastically endorsed the motion picture presentation of the big Passaic textile strike which was shown here last night in the Central Y. M. C. A. Auditorium.

A capacity crowd packed the large auditorium, and hundreds had to be turned away. Wave after wave of enthusiastic applause swept the audience as the scenes of mass picketing were thrown on the screen, and when the long line of pickets appeared in gas masks and steel helmets following the gas bomb attacks by the police, the crowd of working class spectators went wild.

Cleveland Enthusiastic.

CLEVELAND, O., Oct. 29.—The Passaic strike picture went over big here last night at the Engineers'- Auditorium, Ontario and St. Clair street.

Local unions show so much enthusiasm over it, that it is extremely probable that it will be shown again in the local theaters. A Polish organization will also have a showing on October 31.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. Oct. 29.—Richard Evans, convicted of the murder of Policeman Edward C. Finegan in Chicago, today was denied a writ of error and supersedeas by the Supreme Court. He is under sentence to hang tomorrow.

GRAFT DODGES FOOTSTEPS OF RUM SNOOPERS

Ralph W. Stone, who succeeded Major Percy Owen as prohibition administrator in Chicago, today was accused in federal court of continuing the graft of sacramental wine permits which Owen is charged with sharing and for which he and ex-Judge Samuel Lowell B. Mason are now on trial.

Stone's name was brought into the testimony by Irving Friedman, former wine salesman, who swore that Stone had raised the price of illegal wine permits from $300 to $400 and granted them when the money was forthcoming.

Arguments over the admissibility as evidence of lists of spurious "congregations" to which the permits ostensibly were issued resulted in an adjournment of the trial until tomorrow, after Friedman had left the stand.

Federation of Labor Endorsing 200 Boss Aspirants for Office

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 29.—The A. F. of L. has conducted not campaign in behalf of its favorite capitalist candidates William Green announced in Germany the 300 "friends of labor" among them David I. Walsh of Massachusetts, who opposed the anti child labor bill which was endorsed by the federation.

If a considerable number of those endorsed win, the federation orists will claim the credit.

In Ohio the federation pronounces Senator Willis, republican, unfavorable, while the railroad brotherhoods favor him. Willi is a member of the "Ohio gang" that fed at the public crib during the Harding regime.

GEORGE IS NOW KING OF SEVEN SEPARATE STATES

But Actually He Has No More Power

(Special to The Daily Worker)

LONDON, Nov. 24.—Politicians and constitutional authorities in Britain are debating just what the implications of the new empire charter passed by the imperial conference just concluded in London mean. It is agreed that the sovereign status of the various commonwealths is recognized. The colonies are now bound together on an equal basis with the home government, thru the sole instrument of the king, who finds himself the sovereign head of seven separate state entities.

Contradictions.

Aside from the fact that his "state duties" become much larger, there are some obvious contradictions in the arrangement that are now coming under discussion. The expenses of the king's household are now borne by Britain only. They amount to several million dollars a year. It is the opinion of many that the colonies, now that the king is directly their own, should bear some of this expense.

There is also the question of defense. The only considerable military and naval force in the empire is that of Britain. Save for small contingents and a few ships of war, the six colonies depend entirely upon the British armed forces.

King Against Himself.

The king may have cause for embarrassment as the workings of the new arrangement comes to be tried. For example, as king of Canada, he may be called to sign a treaty with, say Washington, that is in disagreement with the government of England, of which he is also king.

The governor-generals of the colonies now have the status only of personal representatives of his majesty. In effect, it is the king that performs the duties of a sovereign in the colonies thru his representatives. A movement in England for the abolition of the monarchy would automatically dissolve the empire, since it is thru the king alone that the colonies are bound together.

The Real Bond.

But all these conundrums propounded by brilliant London lawyers entirely leave out of account the real forces that keep the empire, however loosely, still together.

The economic ties between the dominions and the home government are not to be left out of account. Nor is the necessity for united action on the part of the capitalists in all parts of the empire to be ignored. While the tendency towards dissolving the empire is without question growing because of the rapid development of the economics and special interests of the dominions, at the same time, and with particular reference to internal action, the ruling classes of all parts of the empire still have enough interests in common to hold them together.

The new empire arrangement with regard to the king has no more significance than is implied by the well-known powerlessness of the king in home affairs. He is a mere titular head in Van United Kingdom and remains so under the new colonial system.

The Queen Is Gone—But Not Forgotten

GREETINGS TO OUR PIONEERS

ONE of the greatest and most difficult tasks of our movement is the organization of the proletarian youth, and especially the proletarian children. Capitalism is controling all instruments of public education. It uses these instruments to estrange the children of the workers from their class. Instead of knowledge, the schools convey illusions and prejudices. Even the teaching of the elementaries of the so-called three R's, altho seemingly unadaptable to class education, is exploited by the examples and subjects used for the creation of a pro-capitalist ideology. Indeed, if we workers want to retain our own children as ideological parts of our class, if we want them to become militant fighters for the interests of our class, we must struggle with capitalist educational institutions for our children.

The accomplishment of this tremendous task is impossible without organizing the children themselves. It is not only necessary to convay to the children an understanding of their position in society, their duties, their prospects, but we must also teach them to fight and how to fight. It is in struggle that the rebellious spirit grows, that one learns to study the enemy, that one develops his strength and that one establishes class loyalty and self-confidence. The problem of winning the proletarian children for the proletariat in spite of the efforts of capitalism to ideologically kidnap them is, therefore, not only a problem of patient educational endeavors of proletarian parents, but it is also and primarily a problem of organizing the proletarian children.

They must be organized to systematize educational endeavors; they must be organized to be able to fight for their rights in the educational cooseaep institutions of capitalism; they must be organized to be kept away from the capitalist children's movement, which tho' they may not estrange them physically from their proletarian parents but surely lead into an ideological world which makes them enemies to the concepts and aspirations of their parents.

The organization of proletarian children, which fulfills the tasks outlined above, are the Pioneers. The Pioneers are made up of proletarian children, for their education and for their entertainment. The building up of the Pioneers must get much more aid from our party members and from our party than they have gotten heretofore.

Friday, November 26, there takes place two district conventions of Pioneers; one in Berkeley, for the California district, and one in Chicago, for the Illinois district. These conferences aim to establish a centralised organisation and direction of the Pioneer groups and their work in these district. These conferences will make possible systematic work in the field of proletarian children's organization. But these conferences also put up to the party and its members the duty of more energetic and more substantial support of this movement. The ideological growth of our party will guarantee this support.

We welcome these conferances of our Pioneers. We see in them another step forward for the revolutionary proletarian movement in the United States. We greet our Pioneers as comrades in arms.

Long live the Pioneers.

Agitprop Department,
Workers (Communist) Party.

Ulster Worried Over Change in Status of British Dominions

BELFAST, Nov. 24.—The Ulster govarnment will raise objections to the proposed reorganization of the British empire, as suggested by the imperial conference. It was decided at a meeting of the Ulster cabinet.

The Ulster government fears that the change of the title of the king, which would mention Ireland as a unit, may prejudice the status of Ulster, which still considers itself as a part of the United Kingdom.

Fascists Say Y. M. C. A. Is an Pernicious Bunch

ROME—The fascist party is now directing an attack on the Y. M. C. A., which it brands as a mask for internationalism. A party organ, Il Tevere says, of it: "This pernicious organization is an opponent of the view of fascism." It charges that the people are being politically corrupted by accepting charity of cheap hospitals, cheap meals, and free recreation facilities, a repetition of "the beastly error of the armistice period, when the people of the liberated regions had only the Americans of the Y. M. C. A., with their quantities of Star Spangled Banners, to thank, because of the scandalous lack of Italian organizations for assistance."

It urges that fascism build houses to take the place of the Y. M. C. A. buildings, like the "House of Fascism," in Bologna.

State Attorney Asks Hanging for Inmates Who Tried Jail Break

JOLIET, Ill., Nov. 24.—Hanging was demanded for all six convicts accused of slaying Deputy Warden Peter Klein during a jail break from the penitentiary last May.

State's Attorney James Burke of Will county told the jury at the conclusion of the trial that all were equally guilty and should be hanged.

Burke accused the defense of calling Nathan F. Leopold, Jr., slayer of Bobby Franks, to the stand "merely to gain notoriety." He said Leopold had "nothing to do with the case."

Russian Artist of Silent Stage Gets In

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—The Soviet Union has sent to this country not only a notable artist in the motion picture field but its most beautiful woman, in the opinion of a committee of artists, writers and film producers, in the person of Natalia Barrache. She comes under a contract with the First National Pictures and was accompanied by Richard A. Bowland, general manager of the organization.

Being a screen artist and not an actress of the speaking stage, the state department evidently felt that she would be silent enough on Russian affairs to make her entry to this country not an alarming threat to constituted government and established institutions. Anyway, she is in.

CHINA NATURALLY ACCEPTS RUSSIAN IDEAS ON WORLD

Educator Says People Look to Friend

(Special to The Daily Worker)

SEATTLE, Nov. 24.—That the Soviet principles are making headway in China to an extent way beyond the influence of Soviet persons or Soviet money was the statement made by Bishop Albert A. Gilman, president of Boone University at Wuchang, China in an address at the St. Nicholas school here.

Make Arrests.

This, he declared, was because the Chinese intelligentsia and students are atheistically inclined and the atheism of the Bolsheviks corresponds with their own point of view. Besides, with all the other nations of the world bent on the exploitation of China the friendly and sympathetic attitude of Soviet Russia stands out so prominently that it is but natural that awakening China should look to her.

Bishop Gilman said that if the leaders of the Cantonese army carry out their ideals there may be a stable government in China but the forsaking of them would simply prolong the chaotic condition.

Feng is Proletarian.

The Christian General Feng, he described as a proletarian in his philosophy with something of the attitude of Tolstoy toward poverty. In his eyes no one has any right to wealth while there are others who have nothing.

Dr. Gilman has spent 25 years in China and is not unfriendly to the rising nationalist movement there He might be classified as a pre-war democrat with liberal tendencies.

Now Orthodox Russian Incense, Like Czars, Will Go Up in Smoke

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—That the old Russian nobility and upper classes are having a hard time of it spiritually as well as materially is shown by the fact that members of the Russian Orthodox Church in this city will hereafter worship in one-half of the old St. Augustine's chapel on East Houston street, in the heart of the East Side. The property belongs to old Trinity parish, the wealth trustees of which have come to the aid of the spiritually homeless Russians by building a sound-proof wall to divide the chapel into two portions, on one side of which the orthodox services will be maintained, while on the other the Episcopal ritual will be observed. The Russians will pay the pauperizing rental of $1 a year, which Trinity can well afford to accept, in view of the fact that it has for decades drawn rentals from slum property, until the legislature at Albany threatened to incorporate the parish in its capacity of landlord.

The Russians are without other place of worship, since the court turned over the cathedral, fashionably located just off Fifth Avenue, to John Kedrovsky, archbishop under appointment of the schismatic Living Church of Russia, which is favorable to the Soviet. This left Metropolitan Platon, like his master, without a place to lay his head or his mitre. This was too realistic a form of christianity for the metropolitan, who has accepted the charity of Trinity in behalf of his congregation, which includes Prince Gegarin and the pianist, Rachmaninoff.

New Marriage Law Is Passed in Russia to Protect Dependents

MOSCOW, U. S. S. R., Nov. 24 Legal distinction between registered and non-registered marriages have been abolished by a law passed by the All-Russian Soviet executive committee.

The law means that non-registered marriages are on the same footing as registered marriages, and that the duties and responsibilities of man and wife are the same, the object being to protect the women and children.

Legal and material responsibilities are now not lessened by the fact that the marriages are not registered.

Spain Hits at Labor and Tends to Fascism

MOSCOW, U. S. S. R., Nov. 24.—President Kalinin of the Soviet Republic has informed the colonization committee of the Jewish people that the government will facilitate the formation of a Jewish territorial unit. He announced the formation of the Agrokustbank, with an initial capital of $75,000. It will finance the agricultural operations and divisions of the colonists. The bank will not be a state concern, but a majority of its shares will be held by the State Bank, the Industrial Bank and Peasants' Cooperative Bank, while minority shares may go to private investors and even to foreigners.

AMERICAN TRADE UNIONISTS URGED TO AID BRITISH COAL MINERS IN AN APPEAL FROM WORKERS OF RUSSIA

The following appeal, addressed to all left wing trade unionists in America, for aid for the British mine strikers is sent by the Woodworkers' section of the Red International of Labor Unions, Moscow:

To:

All Workers:

You are all aware of the distress among the miners and their wives and children. All the forces of the government, of the army, justice and of the employers are being directed towards smashing this epic strike and bringing the miners to their knees. The employers refuse to hear of negotiations; they demand a full surrender. In contact with the employers, the government is going to introduce the eight-hour day for the miners and is taking steps to sapply strike funds from unemployment funds, etc., in order to have some chance of confiscating strike funds.

I. F. T. U. Wants Interest.

With such difficult conditions to contend with, the British miners cannot even count on the support of their own Amsterdam International and its affiliated bodies. These bodies have demanded high rates of interest for a loan to the General Council, 4½ per cent on the distress of the miners—that is the I. F. T. U.'s brand of international class "solidarity."

Unionists Scabs.

Further, neither the council nor the I. F. T. U. has actually done anything to prevent their organisations from handling foreign coal. Millions of tons of coal per week imported into Britain will mean the conscious sabotage and smashing of the miners' strike. But the revolutionary proletariat the world over must not allow any such thing, for the British mine strike is of the most tremendous international significance.

A General Struggle.

The miners' struggle represents the general class struggle not only of the British but also of the international proletariat, and if their strike closer with defeat it will be the signal for a fresh and more furious attack of capitalism in all countries, without exception. The workers' class enemies are impatiently awaiting the shattering of the British strike.

The miners of Britain are isolated. Defeat awaits them if the revolutionary proletariat everywhere does not strain every effort to prevent any such thing from happening.

Thruout the strike the trade unions of the U. S. S. R. have given all the assistance they could to the British strikers. Up to date the miners have received 4,740,000, of that sum nearly 4,500,000 has been sent by the Russian unions. In face of the great threat to the strike the workers of Soviet Russia have resolved to levy themselves 1 per cent on their wages in favor of the cions of the strike. On September 5th, 3,000,000 rubles were sent on account of levies and contributions to come in.

Demand Action.

Comrades, we are confident that as the revolutionary spearhead of your unions, you will follow the example of the Russian workers and take every measure to carry out the vital slogan of the moment. "One per cent levy for the miners!" We ask you to have this matter discussed at general meetings in the workshop and factory, and to inform us of the results of the campaign you have undertaken.

With comradely greetings.

KARANOV,
Woodworkers' Union, Moscow.

Dry Agents Apologize for Seizing Steamship Belonging to Germany

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—The German steamer Carmen, seized 140 miles at sea by a prohibition destroyer and towed into New York, has been officially released and the coast guard officials at New York who seized her have apologized for it as "all a mistake."

According to a message to the German embassy here the Carmen carried a cargo of Scotch whiskey, bound from Bremen to Halifax, worth $5,000,000.

Soviet Republic Aids Jewish Colonization

MADRID, Nov. 24.—Spain's trend to fascism is shown by the government's action in setting up legal machinery to prevent strikes in the country. Under the department of labor there will be created joint committees of workers and employers, which will be held responsible for avoiding conflicts and empowered to impose penalties to enforce peace in the industries. The autocratic nature of this move is shown by the fact that the minister of labor not only appoints the committees but can at any time reverse their action. Radicals and liberals are looking for state labor unions as the government's next move in this direction.

BOSTON, Nov. 24.—Elihu Root, Jr., and Sharman L. # SUPREME COURT SHEARS POWER OF COMMISSION

Decisions Make Trade Body More Useless

(Special to The Daily Worker)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—The supreme court today extracted some more of the teeth of the federal trade commission.

The commission has not the power to require industrial concerne to divest themselves of the property of other companies acquired by them thru purchase where stifled competition is asserted by the commission, the court held in deciding the appeal of the Thatcher Manufacturing company of Philadelphia.

Commission's Order Squelched.

The Thatcher company acquired in 1920 the property of three rival companies. The third circuit court of appeals sustained an ordar of the commission requiring the company to divest itself and cease from the ownership of the assets, properties, rights and privileges of the rival concerns.

The decision applies also to another case, in which the Eastman Kodak company purchased other concerns.

Upholds Meat Combine.

In another decision the commission was reversed by the court in its order directing complete separation of the Western Meat company and the Nevada Packing company, formerly competitors in the California and Nevada meat market.

The trade commission declared this control was in violation of the Clayton anti-trust law prohibiting monopolies and restraints of interstate commerce, but the court held otherwise.

International Economic Conference Is to Meet Only for Consultations

(Special to The Daily Worker)

GENEVA, Nov. 24.—The International economic conference will amount to nothing more than a discussion of world economic problems and will have no power to either plan or carry out any agreement between nations, or to make recommendations.

This is revealed by the draft of the agenda just released, and approved by the preparatory committee. The agenda provides only for "consultation" among the delegates and prevents any definite action.

After this conference is held, it is hoped by leaders that another one will be arranged, possibly on May 4, which will have more power.

Want Russia Represented.

The place of meeting has not been decided, but it was definitely indicated it would be in some other place other than Geneva, in order that the Soviet Union can be represented. Delegates fully realize that a conference to discuss economic problems cannot be successful without Russian participation.

That each "economically important" nation send five delegates to the conference was recommended by the report to the league council. It further stated that the delegates should be chosen for their personal qualifications, rather than for any official capacity.

Three Divisions.

The program of the conference is divided into three divisions considération of present economic problems, consideration of economic factors and tendencies that affect the peace of the world, and factors dealing with commerce, industry, and agriculture

In the original agenda the matter of "inequalities in treatment of foreign nationals" was included but feat that the United States would not participate because of its attitude on immigration caused the wording to be changed to "economic treatment," instead of "inequalities of treatment."

TOOHEY BACK IN U. M. W. AFTER 16 MONTH EXPULSION

Left Winger Reinstated by Int'l Committee

(Special to The Daily Worker)

SCRANTON, Pa., Nov. 24. — It has been ascertained here that the committee representing the International Executive Board of the United Mine Workers of America, composed of John J. Kane, District 9, John Ohlenbill, District No. 2 and Dennis Brislin, District No. 1, appointed at a recent meeting of the International Executive Board to investigate the expulsion and conduct a hearing on the appeal of Pat Toohey, expelled militant miner, has handed down a decision in the case recommending reinstatement of Toohey with all former rights and privileges enjoyed prior to his expulsion.

First Time.

This decision has far-reaching political implications, inasmuch as the International has never yet reinstated a member expelled for political reasons.

This expulsion case is a result of the activities of the left wing during the anthracite strike. Cappellini, president of district No. 1, had Toohey and August Valentino, expelled from membership while they were serving a sentence in the Lackawanna county prison for strike activities.

No Compensation.

The decision of the International committee also specifies that Toohey be not accorded or permitted any compensation for the sixteen months time of employment and membership in the union, due to his former local union defying the district executive board when the board commanded the local to expel Toohey which the local refused to do.

'MUSN'T CONTAMINATE LIBERTY CRADLE WITH RADICAL', PLEADS MIKE

(Special to The Daily Worker)

BOSTON, Nov. 24.—"The cradle of liberty should not be contaminated by radicals," said Councilman Michael J. Ward of Roxbury in the first and only protest to be received by the mayor against permitting Anthony Bimba, Lithuanian editor, to speak at Faneuil hall, where the Declaration of Independence was signed.

"This man Bimba prides himself on being a Communist," said the outraged Mr. Ward, "and he come to Boston to preach that doctrine. I protest against his speaking there on the ground that it is a dangerous doctrine."

BALTIMORE AMALGAMATED CLOTHING WORKERS SCABBED ON CLOAKMAKERS BECAUSE OF CORRUPT OFFICIALDOM

BALTIMORE, Nov. 24.—Labor conditions here for the members of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers' Union are so miserable that most of them, instead of working at their own trade, are working on cloaks, scabbing on the striking New York cloakmakers. The deplorable situation in the shops under the corrupt Hillman bureaucracy was described here today by H. Sazor of New York, representative of the national needle trades section of the Trade Union Educational League, who is making a tour of needle trades centers.

Don't Work at Trade.

"In the A. C. W. there are about 3,000 members, with at least 10,000 of the trade unorganized," Sazor said. "Most of the 3,000, however, don't work at the trade. They work on cloaks at present. The run to cloaks was so great after the New York strike began that when it was decided to tax the A. C. W. makers with one dollar a week to help the strikers, the workers refused to pay.

"Take the tailors out of the cloak shops, instead of collecting the money from us," they argued."

Cohen is Responsible.

Sazor said that Sam Cohen, representative of the A. C. W. joint board, was largely responsible for sending the Baltimore tailors into scabbery. Cohen made the excuse that it was a correct policy to send union men into unorganized shops in order to help unionize the shops. But instead of sending them into the unorganized men's garment shops, he sent them to work on women's cloaks.

"Of course, it wasn't organization work that the A. C. W. did, but scabbing," continued Sazor. "However, it wasn't necessary even for Cohen to send the tailors. Reductions in wages in the A. C. W. organized shops have been so drastic that the tailors rushed into the cloak-making work as soon as the New York strikes brought the opportunity. They will go to work most anywhere in order to make a living!"

Presents T. U. E. L. Task.

Sazor emphasized the fact that the wage reductions and general demoralized conditions prevailing in the Amalgamated shops gives the left wing of the union a real opportunity to fight the Hillman-Beckerman-Levine machine. It is the task of the T. U. E. L. to create a militant movement against wage reductions. To clear the way, a strong opposition is being built up nationally against the false union leaders, who are responsible for the debacle into which the A. C. W. have fallen.

Organize the Women for Class Struggle

By VERA BUCH.

THERE need for the organized participation of the women folks in strikes is forcing itself more and more upon labor leaders. The unorganized woman is a millstone. Isolated from her husband's struggle, not understanding, seeing only that the pay envelope does not come in as usual, she sends her husband, with nagging and complaints, back to work. She, nor, on the other hand, a chance to know what the fight is all about, show her bor own place in the working class struggle, and to give him all that will fight to the death to win the union's demands.

All economic and social forces are pushing women more and more to awakened class-consciousness. The world war started an influx of women into the industries. Low wages of the men are driving them constantly in the same direction. This double exploitation of the shop and of the home forces the most backward section of the working class to rebel. But this smouldering discontent and rebellion must be utilized by explaining the issues at stake and by organizing the women for action.

Passaic Shows the Way.

The Passaic strike set a splendid example of what can be done on this field. The cloakmakers, inspired by Passaic, have organized their wives. Now the paper box makers on strike are awakened to the need of drawing in the women.

The fight of the women in Passaic merits earnest consideration. Labor leaders may well study the mayel of a strike that is still strong after ten months. The organized participation of the women had much to do with the remarkable vitality of this strike. There, from the beginning, the left wing leadership made special efforts to draw in the women.

They had their own mass meeting, where the issues of the strike and the problems of their own lives were explained to them. Then the Working Women's Councils were organized, which drew in not only the striking women but the wives of strikers and sympathizers. The United Council of Workingclass Housewives opened kitchens for the children, which the women themselves organized. The Women's Councils went in for strike work with scabs and on the picket line. They raised money for relief. The housewives of the strikers' children at Victory Playground. An organization of women has been built up which has not only been a power in the struggle, but which by the women will maintain after the strike is settled.

Cloakmakers Follow.

In the fourteenth week of the cloak makers' strike the union called the wives of the men to battle. It organized them into committees and set them to work at visiting scabs and generally stiff-ning up the strike. The women responded eagerly; at once they were a power in a great struggle; their confused, half-conscious yearnings and rebellions were crystallized into a conscious fight to win their husbands' demands. With the strike settled the women will keep their committees. The United Council of Workingclass Housewives is helping everywhere to organize the workers' wives for the workers' struggles.

Movements spread quickly, as the battles of the workers come thick and fast. The 3,000 paper box makers of New York City have been on strike for eight weeks against low wages and conditions of miserable exploitation. Women, most of them young girls, constitute 70 per cent of this union. Shoulder to shoulder with the men they have marched on the picket line, taken the blows of policemen's clubs and gone to jail.

Housewives Open Kitchen.

Pinched by the continuation of their strike, the union leaders, Calle, Barkowitz, George Powers and Henrietta Ray, called in the help of the United Council of Workingclass Housewives. Nov. 12 they came to the office of Kate Gitlow, the secretary of the organization, and asked her to help them in establishing a strikers' kitchen. She spoke at a mass meeting the following Saturday afternoon and immediately organized a committee of ten women and five men to conduct the kitchen. That was Saturday afternoon. On Monday the kitchen opened, with three women as managing committee. The strikers flocked into the Church of All Nations on lower Second avenue, New York, where it was housed. They were fed plentifully and well. They enjoyed the satisfaction of eating in their own union kitchen, the funds for which came from organized labor. In keeping up this kitchen, as well as in the other work of the strike, the women will be drawn in more and more.

Yes, the backward slaves, crushed by the century-long exploitation of the home and the new burdens of industry, are at last awakening. The women are learning that only by throwing themselves into the struggle for power which the working class is waging can they free themselves from those bonds which hamper their awakening drive for freedom, for knowledge and life.

GENERAL TRIES TO GET LIBERAL TEACHER FIRED

Is Inflamed at Expose of Society

By LAURENCE TODD,
Federated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—Fascist hullying of modern-minded teachers in the high schools of the national capital, attempted by Amos A. Fries, major-general in the army, chief of the chemical warfare service and commander of the American Legion in the District of Columbia, has met a setback.

The board of education, in executive session, has refused to act on a demand by Fries, couched in terms worthy of Mussolini, that Harry Flury, teacher of biology in the Eastern High School, be dismissed. The offense alleged against Flury is his authorship of a definition of socialism, printed in the Forum for October.

Protested Article.

Superintendent of Schools Ballou received a letter from Fries, signed "Major General, Commander of the American Legion," etc., calling attention to this definition and protesting against Flury's being retained as a teacher. Fries denied the truth of the indictment drawn by the teacher against American industrial society, which read:

"Socialism is a big question mark. It asks why, with all the wonderfully productive machinery and improved methods of organization, the workers are still slaves. It asks why civilization is so cruel and ugly. It asks why little children still toil in factories. It asks why those who create do not enjoy the advantages of what is created, why those who build automobiles walk, those who build Pullmans ride in boxcars, those who build palaces live in hovels. It asks: Is not this industrial civilization we have created a Frankenstein that has made itself our master?"

"Un-American Radical."

Fries wrote Superintendent Ballou that these sentiments were "in only slightly different form the statements of the Communists that our government is bad and should be overthrown, if necessary by force and violence. This is just the type of un-American radical that the American Legion and other patriotic organizations are bitterly opposed to."

He pompously demanded word from Ballou as to what he proposed to do about Flury, and said he would "await your reply before taking it up" with his patriotic crowd.

Called On the Carpet.

Ballou tried to serve the fascist cause, but lacked nerve. He called in Flury and asked him to explain his own opinions as to American industrial society. Flury asked Ballou whether he was being questioned by opinion either or by the superintendent of schools. When Ballou said he spoke in his official capacity, Flury smilingly replied that he never discussed political, religious or economic views in his capacity as a public school teacher, since that was clearly improper for a biology teacher. Ballou then told him to write the board of education on the question, since the Fries letter would be sent to the board for action in executive session. Ballou remarked that Flury was confronted by a "serious situation," and asked whether he had read Scott Nearing's book, "What Happens to Teachers Who Think." He was astonished when Flury replied that he had; in fact Scott Nearing had been his instructor in economics at the University of Pennsylvania.

A month passed. No word from Ballou to Flury that he was safe. No word from anyone. Finally a group of press correspondents heard of the fascist antics of Fries, and smoked out the fact that the board in secret session had decided to do nothing—at least for the present. Flury comes up next spring for salary increase; he may hear from the thought-controllers then.

Fries Notorious.

Some years ago Fries became notorious, and was reprimanded informally by Secretary Weeks for putting clerks to work at making the "Spiderweb Chart," a libellous document pretending to show that most of the liberal and humane organizations in America were connected with the Third International. Some weeks ago Secretary of State Kellogg denounced Fries for his insubordinate attempts to kill the pending treaty for abolition of the use of poison chemicals and bacteria in war.

WITH THE YOUNG WORKERS

CONDUCTED BY THE YOUNG WORKERS LEAGUE

Young Pioneers Find Work in Calumet Region

By PAUL A. BUCHA.

The Calumet steel district is located in the Calumet region at the head of Lake Michigan. As the name suggests, this region is a steel center. This is where Judge Gary and his like have many of their plants located. And as there are many steel plants many workers are employed, and all of them are unorganized.

However, during the great steel strike in 1919 this region was one that was most affected by it. Many Pioneers saw how the strikers were beat up by the police and militia. Four strikers were killed in this district during the strike, two of them ex-soldiers who fought in the "war for democracy." At the burial of those who were killed the strikers had a large parade. This shows that at that time there was some kind of organization among the strikers or steel workers. Since the strike the steel magnates have got the best of the workers and now the steel workers are unorganized and have no union.

The conditions of the steel workers in the Calumet district are very bad. This was shown by the explosion of one of the large mills in Gary, Ind. Many workers were killed just because the company was too lazy to repair a steam pipe which was leaky. This is only one incident where many workers are killed, but all over the Calumet region workers are being killed or injured not only by explosions, but by the machines where they work. These machines haven't any safety devices.

Child Labor in Mills.

In many of the mills there is child labor, where the children work in the same rotten conditions as the older workers. These children should really be at school, but it is impossible for their parents to send them there, because their parents, who are mostly steel workers, are unorganized and they get very low wages.

Even then the child laborer produces just as much, and even the he works in the same place as the older workers, he is given less wages, just because of his size. Many of these children are killed like their parents are.

All these children need to be organized, the Pioneers are here to do it. It is necessary to organize these children because the steel magnates have worked hard trying to stop the organization of the older workers and children and they have succeeded so far. The methods they used were those that most all bosses use the church and the schools for the children.

Many big bosses use the company unions to fool the older workers, while here Judge Gary is even afraid to organize a company union, because a company union would at least give the workers some idea of the need and meaning of organization. So Gary won't even organize a company union.

With all these rotten conditions in the Calumet region great labor struggles are bound to take place here in the future. The Young Pioneers will then be ready to take their places in the struggle. The great steel strike is an example for us. We are striving to better organize than during the strike, and we will do it.

Labor Leader and Royalty Welcomed By Bankers

At the recent banquet of the chamber of commerce of New York state there were present 700 of the leading big capitalists of this country, such names as John D. Rockefeller, Jr. heading the list. Besides that there was present the head of the labor agents of these gentlemen, Mr Wm. Green.

For the rest of the story we present our readers with two quotations from the pen of R. F. Forbes, financial writer of the Chicago Herald and Examiner.

1—"Time was when the New York chamber of commerce banquets were not addressed by any labor leader, or, for that matter by any representative of our farmers. The chamber used to be humbler of honoring royalty than of honoring trade unionists. It still entertains royalty. But the reception accorded trade unionism's representative was no less cordial than that accorded Queen Marie a few weeks ago."

2—"Mr. Green, by the way, made an address which resounded with vigorous common sense, enlightened tolerance, ringing patriotism."

Children Help Passaic Strike; See Free Movie

DENVER, Colo. — The Colorado Labor Advocate is lining up the Denver children to collect money for Passaic strike relief. In response to a call issued by the paper Mr. B. Hootan manager of the American Theatre has arranged a contest in which the child that turns in the largest number of "25c meals" before Dec. 13 will secure a pass good for two people which will admit the holder to American Theatre shows for a whole year.

Big Crowd Sees Picture.

SEATTLE, Nov. 21 (FP). — The showing of the Passaic strike film here under the auspices of the Labor College and a committee of the Central Labor Council drew out a large crowd of trade unionists and workers sympathizers. All of the proceeds above actual expenses go for the relief of the children of the strikers.

Death of 100,000 Babes Traced to Low Wages.

Poverty is an important factor in the annual deaths of 100,000 infants in this country less than one year of age, says Dr. Robert Morse Woodbury in a report issued by the United States children's bureau.

Current Events

By T. J. O'FLAHERTY

RICHARD EVANS, a young and helpless human derelict, was hanged in the Cook county jail last Friday morning for the killing of a policement, while young Evans was under the influence of moonshine. Evans was hanged because he had no money. Had he belonged to any of the several powerful gangs that operate here in Chicago he would be in no more danger of death than had he merely stolen a banana. This should be a lesso nfor those who might be tempted to imitate their betters in the prohibition enforcement department in the matter of violating law.

* * *

BEFORE a man can commit murder with impunity in this tough town he should first join a capitalist political organization, the Crowe-Barrett wing of the G. O. P. preferred. Having done this he should become a member of a "gang" and salt away some money. In the accumulation of the coin a little slaughter might be indispensable, but with the fruits of his toil and the political pull, nothing but the merest accident should prevent the aspiring citizen from dying in bed. Richard Evans paid the price of unpreparedness. Now, as Arthur Brisbane would say, if he only had a fleet of airplanes—

* * *

THIS is a democracy! Those who had their doubts should prepare to shed them now. Not that the average American—the kind that joins the Klan—has anything to shed. But on with the story. "A pair of pretty hands upon which a good many dollars' have been spent for manicuring, peeled potatoes today in the Campbell soup factory for 30 cents an hour." This is how the International News Service starts the tale about Miss Elinor Dorrance, 18-year-old daughter of John Dorrance, [illegible] Dr. Dorrance, [illegible] is a typical American girl, a typical All-American man. It is quite obvious that if the poor little rich girl must work for 30 measly cents an hour, even the her papa owns the factory, the rest of the help have no reason to kick.

ELINOR is starting at the bottom, she says, and we think she will enjoy there until the publicity dies out and millions of babies will take many more "drinks of, Campbell's soups. Then Elinor will quietly marry a bankrupt European count. "I'm proud of her," said Dr. Dorrance. "It's something of a relief these days to see a girl of the flapper age think of something else besides toe-ing, dancing, drinking and smoking." And a final paragraph: "Elinor recently returned from a select French finishing school at Sorbonne. She is the only unmarried daughter of Dr. Dorrance, whose wealth is estimated at fifty millions." Now, here is a chance for a soup-juggling factory worker to make fifty million dollars.

EARL CARROLL, the theatrical producer, could buy a carload of Moroccan girls for the price of one bathtub full of champagne. Since Earl was prohibited by a puritanical city government from expressing his gayety to his heart's content, he went to Europe and flew from Paris to Morocco to witness the marriage of the three sone of the Sultan to three daughters of the desert. Carroll is not wasting his time. What he saw there, in the way of nudity and abandon, should provide him with enough inspiration to rake in a million dollars from the bourgeoisie of New York without having to waste his champagne.

ANOTHER SECTION OF OPPOSITION IN ALL-UNION COMMUNST PARTY ADMITS ERRORS and PLEDGES SUPPORT TO C. C.

By JOHN PEPPER

(Special cable to The DAILY WORKER.)

MOSCOW, U. S. S. R., Oct. 31.—After the conclusion of the debate on Tomsky's report on the trade union question and the reporter's reply to the discussion the delegates of the fifteenth conference of the All-Union Communist Party unanimously approved the report.

Molotov, organization secretary of the party, then read a communication from the central committee and the central control commission concerning a declaration presented by Shliapnikoff and Medvedeff, abandoning all harmful fractional work.

It was then announced that all committees would be in session on Sunday afternoon and the conference would adjourn until Monday when Comrade Stalin would make his report on the internal party situation.

Opposition Statement.

The communication from the central committee and the central control commission reads:

"The central committee and central control commission with satisfaction inform all party members that Medvedeff and Shliapnikoff submitted statements to central control commission and central committee wherein they not only recognize the harmfulness of their fractional work but they also renounce the profoundly wrong views which they propagated. Accordingly the central committee and the central control commission can record the further decomposition of the opposition bloc which means complete and unqualified victory for the idea of the Leninist unity of the party."

The Statement.

The joint statement of Shliapnikoff and Medvedeff was published in the Pravda and was addressed to the Bolshevik Bureau of central committee and to the presidium of the central control commission and was dated October 29. It reads as follows:

"In the interest of the real unity of the party we openly declare: "Firstly, Medvedeff's letter to Bubnoff comrades contains many grossly erroneous views directed against certain party fundamental principles and running counter to Leninism and the principles of the Communist International.

Kid Themselves.

"Secondly, an important mistake in the letter is a passage referring to methods of work in the Comintern and an insulting reference to sections of the C. I. as 'boards of petty-bourgeois lackeys supported by Russian gold.' We regard those most important parts of the letter as grossly erroneous and unrepresentative of our true attitude towards the Comintern.

"Thirdly, we likewise regard the demand for the liquidation of the Profintern as mistaken. This formula we consider erroneous.

Against 2nd International.

"Fourthly, we resolutely and unqualifiedly support the Comintern and to resolutely oppose the second International. We consider the leaders of the modern social-democratic parties as betrayers of the interests of the workingclass and as agents of the bourgeoisie.

"Fifthly, we recognize that a series of such errors gave grounds for the charges brought against us in the columns of the 'Pravda' and 'Bolshevik.'

"Sixthly, we consider inadmissible the polemical tone and the serious strong expressions of Shliapnikoff's article in 'Bolshevik,' issue seventeen.

"Seventhly, in referring to case of Baku opposition' we addressed central committee and central control commission a whole series of strong statements verbally and in writing. We consider them erroneous.

"Eighthly, we resolutely and unqualifiedly condemn the fractional methods used by us and also condemn all organizational consolidation on the basis of views diverging from party decisions and where our adherents went

PROTEST STORM FROM EUROPE IS WORRYING U. S.

Labor Demands Sacco-Vanzetti be Freed

By LAURENCE TODD
(Federated Press)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—State department officials are visibly worried at the storm of protest with which European labor has greeted the refusal of Judge Thayer of Massachusetts to grant a new trial to Sacco and Vanzetti, whom organized workers throuout the world believe to be victims of Mitchell Palmer's "red raid" terrorism.

In the files of the state department are a dozen or more reports from distant foreign capitals, telling of demonstrations held by Communists and other organizations for the purpose of impressing upon the American government the demand of the workers abroad that the two men be given a new and fair trial.

Guard Paris Embassy.

Now comes the news from Paris that a heavy guard of armed police has been placed around the American embassy there, and that a special guard will escort Ambassador Herrick on his return from America.

The Quotidien and L'Oeuvre, two of the leading daily newspapers supporting the liberal political parties, have taken up the fight, along with the trade union organizations and other groups.

In Germany, Holland, Scandinavia and elsewhere the chorus of condemnation of textile-town justice in Massachusetts is growing and will soon

JAPAN AND BRITAIN IN CONSPIRACY

Make Desperate Trial to Stop Cantonese

(Special to The Daily Worker)

SHANGHAI, Oct. 31.—The backing of Japanese imperialism to the mythical Peking government in the new attempt to stop the advance of the Cantonese national revolution, is shown by the appointment of Peng-fu, known as a Japanese tool ever since 1919, when he forced a Japanese loan upon China, as finance minister.

Imperialists Desperate.

The imperialists are desperate, and are spurring their subsidized militarist Chinese lackeys into frantic endeavors to stop the northern sweep of the Cantonese.

The announcement that the Canton government would be moved to Wuhang and the making of Feng Yu-hsiang, head of the northern Chinese Kuomintchan armies now marching thru Klanss and Shensi, has impelled what the Cantonese believe to be a secret concord between Britain and Japan to exert all efforts to check the national revolution.

Kid Themselves.

Sun Chuan-fang, who recently was driven out of Kiukiang, and Wu Pei-fu, driven northward out of Hankow and Wuchang, are circulating reports that their forces are preparing a counter-attack to recapture these points.

Sun, indeed, claims that his men have retaken Kiangsi province and that the Cantonese are splitting up But this may be mere propaganda.

U. S. EMBASSY IN BERLIN SCARED BY SOLIDARITY IN BOSTON TRIAL CASE

(Special to The Daily Worker)

BERLIN, Oct. 31.—The American embassy here is becoming frightened at demonstrations by German workers against the Boston judge's decision denying the American comrades, Sacco and Vanzetti, a new trial.

Orders have been issued, it is announced, to place a guard around the embassy in case news comes here that Sacco and Vanzetti have been executed. American representatives evidently expect that they will be executed and are making preparations accordingly.

Two visits have been made to the embassy by Communist delegations, voicing the protest of the German workers against Judge Thayer's decision.

MILL WORKERS ON ELECTION BALLOT IN N. J.

Strikers in Passaic Are Candidates

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—A labor ticket has been placed on the ballot in the state of New Jersey for the coming election on November 2. All candidates on this ticket are members of the United Textile Workers of America and are striking members of the Passaic local. The following is the list of candidates:

Passaic county: for congress, 6th district, Gus Deak, chairman of the striking local; for congress, 7th district, Frank Giacomini, member of the executive board of the local; for general assembly, Frances Janicke, Anna Bresnak, Matyas Hadjna, Michael Elasik, and Aaron Zwerin.

Bergen county: for councilmen, Philip Maddalene; for assembly, John Di Santo, Mrs. Frances Ricardo, George Costello.

An intensive campaign has been started for these labor candidates. Many of the candidates of the old parties have withdrawn their names fearing defeat at the hands of the labor ticket. Special programs and state platforms have been printed by the labor campaign committee and are being distributed to the workers in Passaic in behalf of the labor candidates.

Laborers Saved from Sewer.

EVANSTON, Ill., Oct. 31.—Firemen and laborers last Friday rescued John Haer and J. S. Lewis from under eight feet of earth which had buried them in a sewer excavation in which they were working. The men, who were badly injured and nearly smothered, will recover. It took approximately 30 minutes to effect the rescue.

SOVIET WORKERS CONTRIBUTE ANOTHER HALF MILLION DOLLARS FOR RELIEF OF STRIKING MINERS OF BRITAIN

(Special Cable to The Daily Worker)

MOSCOW, U. S. S. R., Oct. 31.—On receipt of an appeal for immediate relief from A. J. Cook, secretary of the British Miners' Union, the Presidium of the Central Council of Trade Unions, transferred one million rubles (half a million dollars) to the striking miners' relief fund.

This brings the total raised by the workers and peasants of the Soviet Union for strike relief to about $4,000,000, which is considerebly more than the workers of all the rest of the world have contributed.

In his message to the Russian workers, Cook declared that the British miners are in a desperate plight and are actually starving. Collections are continuing energetically in the U. S. S. R.

BALDWIN ASKS SURRENDER TO MINE OWNERS

Demands Miners' Yield to Owners' Terms

LONDON, Oct. 31.—The attempt of the Trade Union Congress to compromise the fight of the British miners, in order to dodge their embassy there, and that a special guard will escort Ambassador Herrick on his return from America.

Demands Surrender.

Moreover, Baldwin made clear that the government demands nothing less than complete surrender from the miners. "There can be no return to the terms for settlement based upon the findings of the royal commission," which, indeed, the government has never considered.

Any settlement, said Baldwin, would have to be on the basis of "the events of the past six months." By this, Baldwin meant that the miners would have to admit defeat and accept the terms of the mine owners.

What this would mean, he went on, was that "the whole field, from which neither wages, hours nor district agreements, would be excluded."

Then Baldwin added: "There can be no question of a settlement based on nationalization of the mines."

WASHINGTON IS SENDING HARSH NOTE TO MEXICO FOR THE OIL INTERESTS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—Following a conference between Ambassador Sheffield, Secretary of State Kellogg, former Ambassador Charles Beecher Warren and Assistant Secretary of State Olds, it is learned that the U. S. government is sending a "stiff" note to the Mexican government concerning the Mexican land and oil laws.

This is in reply to Mexico's previous note answering U. S. protests at these laws as "confiscatory." Mexico declared that such was not the case, the laws simply being regulatory provisions for enforcing the Mexican constitution, and that if any injustice were done in enforcing the regulations, the matter would be remedied.

CHICAGO LABOR PAYS TRIBUTE TO 'GENE DEBS

Workers Enroll I. L. D. in Honor of Leader

Chicago workers of various political affiliations and beliefs gathered last Saturday night in Temple Hall to pay tribute to Eugene V. Debs, at a mass meeting held under the auspices of the International Labor Defense of which Debs was an executive member and enthusiastic supporter.

Over fifty workers signed up for the Debs Enrollment in the I. L. D. which is the best way to honor the memory of the noble fighter for the workingclass as James P. Cannon, secretary of the organization, stated in making his appeal to those present to carry on the work that Debs devoted a lifetime to.

The speakers were: Ralph Chaplinpoet, member of the I. W. W. and class war prisoner; Carl Haessler, managing editor of the Federated Press and class war prisoner; Hyman Schneid, general organizer of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America; C. E. ## Elizabeth, N. J. Backs up From Free Speech Ban Against Weisbord

NEW YORK CITY, Oct. 31.—As a result of police interference with a meeting at which Albert Weisbord, former Passaic strike leader, was scheduled to speak, the American Civil Liberties Union staged a free-speech test in Elizabeth, N. J., October 27. In response to a telegram from the union and a letter from Lonie F. Budenz, editor of Labor Age, denouncing the raid and demanding police protection, Mayor John P. Kenah officially authorized the free speech meeting.

Robert Dunn, a national committee member of the union; Lonie Budenz and Bishop Jones spoke on free speech, and Mr. Weisbord gave the address he was prevented from delivering by the raid.

Two police and two detectives, according to reports, entered Turn Hall in Elizabeth on October 22 while Weisbord was in the midst of a talk on "The Passaic Strike and the American Workers." Declaring that they had orders from "higher up" to halt the meeting, the officers cleared the hall. The mayor of Elizabeth, according to press reports, immediately denied any authorization of the raid. Orders to the police are said to have been inspired by the American Legion.

NINE HARD COAL MINERS DIE IN GAS EXPLOSION

Others Escape by Hair's Breadth

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Oct. 31.—The bodies of nine miners, killed when a gas explosion wrecked a section of number 7 colliery of the Susquehanna Collieries company, at Nanticoke, near here, have been brought to the surface.

Black Damp Gas.

The explosion rocked the mine shortly after the nine men entered, six others, on their way into the colliery, fled with the first report, and escaped injury. Eight rescue workers were overcome by black damp in attempting to reach the victims.

The bodies of seven identified were those of Anthony Kominski, 23, and Joseph Novak, 45. The other victims, still inside the mine, are Andrew Novak, 35; Louis Novak, 23; Joseph Bodarks, and Joseph Mikolenski.

Four of the victims were related, three being brothers and the fourth a son-in-law.

Fifteen miners were employed in the section of the mine wrecked by the explosion. The others were on their way in and would have been entombed also had the explosion occurred five minutes later.

U. S. BOSS OF GERMANY UNDER DAWES PLAN MAY O. K. LOAN TO FRANCE

BERLIN, Oct. 31.—Monday there will take place a discussion in the German cabinet on the plan arranged by Foreign Minister Briand of France, Herr von Hoesch, German ambassador to France, and Seymour Parker Gilbert, agent general for reparations, for an international loan to France with the German railroad bonds as security.

Some Germans fear that a loan big enough to satisfy France, will undermine the stability of German finance. In any case the American Seymour Parker Gilbert, who is practically dictator of Germany, will have the final say as.

SUPPORT LABOR PARTY TICKETS IN FOUR STATES

Capitalists Hurl Mud at Each Other

While the capitalist politicians are hurling mud at each other in their mad scramble for the spoils of office and boosting of their love for labor in order to win the votes of the workingclass, the workers in twelve states will have the opportunity today to go to the polls and cast their ballots for candidates who are pledged to represent the interests of labor if elected to office.

The Workers (Communist) Party has a ticket in the field in eight states and is supporting farmer-labor party candidates in four others.

(For list of candidates see page 4)

Wage Workers to Organize.

This state of Michigan is dominated by the automobile industry and principally by Henry Ford. This industry is notoriously open shop. The Communists are laying particular stress on the need for organizing the unorganized workers thruout the state into trade unions.

In Pennsylvania, the bomb of the Steel Trust and the greatest industrial state in the union, the Workers (Communist) Party is the only labor ticket in the field. Here, Gary and the coal operators are fastening the fetters of feudalism on the limbs of the workers. On the democratic side the ticket is headed by William B. Wilson, candidate for senate, an owner of scab mines and on the republican side the leader of the gang is the notorious Vare of Philadelphia.

In Socialist State.

In Massachusetts, the home of the (Communist) Party a bushy contest between both William G. Butler, the reactionary mill magnate and David I. Walsh, the corporation lawyer.

In the state of Colorado, there is a complete Communist ticket in the field.

In Illinois, now as notorious as Pennsylvania because of the slush fund quia the Communists are contesting the senatorial elections with the "insulated" twins, Brennan and Smith and Hue Magill, the "mail order" candidate of the multimillionaire Julius Rosenwald.

New York State.

In New York the Communists have a candidate for governor, lieutenant governor, attorney general and state comptroller in the field and candidate for the assembly in the borough of Manhattan, Bronx and Brooklyn.

The Workers (Communist) Party has a number of candidates on the ballot in Connecticut and Ohio.

Candidate for Senator.

In Ohio the Communists have a candidate for state senator on the ballot in the 41st district and for state assemblyman in the 21st district. In Allen and Washington counties the Communists are supporting the Farmer-Labor Party ticket.

Farmer-Labor candidates in Minnesota, Washington, Montana and North Dakota are receiving the support of the Workers (Communist) Party Unusual interest is aroused by the Farmer-Labor campaign in Sheridan county, eastern Montana where Charles Taylor, manager of the Producers' News is running for state senator. P. J. Wallace and Robert Lafferty are candidates for the Montana house of representatives.

The farmer-laborites have a complete county ticket in the field including Rodney Salisbury for sheriff Arthur Erickson for county attorney and Emma Crone for superintendent of schools.

Sheridan county has been branded by the reactionaries as "little Russia," but this has not bothered the farmers who have been well served by the Farmer-Labor Party officials during their terms of office. The ticket is almost certain to be successful.

C. E. Ruthenberg, general secretary of the Workers (Communist) Party will wound up the Communist campaign yesterday in Minneapolis.

Another Slush Quiz.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 29. A request to proceed immediately into Arizona for the purpose of conducting a slush fund hearing there, was forwarded today to Senator William H. King, democrat, of Salt Lake City, Utah, by Senator Reed, democrat of Mo., chairman of the senate slush fund committee.

POWER TRUSTS JOIN FORCES IN THE CAPITOL

Super-Lobby Is Created in Washington

WASHINGTON.—(FP)—In an editorial headed "Congress Watch Out," the current issue of the Journal of Electrical Workers and Operators calls attention to the fact that the Electric Power club, the Associated Manufacturers of Electrical Supplies and the Electrical Manufacturers' Council have merged into a new superlobbying organization called the National Electrical Manufacturers' association.

Permanent Lobby.

"From a brief prospectus of the new organization," says the Journal, "it is evident that formation of a high-powered and permanent lobby at Washington is intended. The president and guiding genius is Gerard Swope, president of the General Electric Co. . . . Analyzing the coming issues rightly, Swope and his crowd know that the real fight between them and the public will be fought out in the corridors and cloakrooms of the national capitol. Ostensibly the purpose of the new organization is to appear in behalf of its members before legislative committees, government bureaus and other bodies." We hope this is all.

The prospectus, the National Association of Manufacturers, which maintains expensive offices and a large staff at the capital, has an unsavory reputation as a lobbyist."

Convention of District 9 U. M. W. Raises Fee for Initiation Up to $50

MT. CARMEL, Pa., Oct. 31.—Increase of the initiation fee for inexperienced workers from $10 to $50 was approved by the District 9, United Mine Workers of America, convention. The anthracite delegates amended their constitution to that effect, providing, however, that members' sons may be admitted free.

The convention adjourned for the delegates to visit St. Mary's cemetery where the union erected a monument over the grave of Daniel Gallagher, father of the miners' certificate law, who died in 1906.

Business Depression Threatens as Result of Installment Craze

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.— Installment buying has become a national disease and is a menace to sound business, according to an interview with Senator James Couzens.

Many people, he asserted, are buying luxuries and doing without necessities in order to meet payments on purchases they have made. Investigation shows that many are escaping themselves medical and physical attention because of the pressure brought to bear by this disease.

The installment system adds to the cost of the article, not only for the purchaser on installment plans, but to others as well. Credit is costly.

"We are in danger of a business depression because of it," he said.

Denies Charges of big Wall Street Fund to Beat Insurgents

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 31.—The charges of Clyde A. Welb, republican state chairman of Indiana, that an $8,000,000 fund was pledged by "Wall Street internationalists" to defeat insurgents little band of "irreconcilables" were denied here today by the Rev. Joseph Myers, Jr., former Indiana secretary of the League of Nations Non-Partisan Association while testifying at Senator James A. Reed's one-man slush fund inquiry.

The Rev. Myers characterized Welb's charges as "poppycock" and "nonsense." The charges were the product of a "fevered imagination," Myers testified, as the association spent only $14,000 in the last year over the entire country, and did most of its work among school children.

The activities of Mrs. Hiram Tracy Wheel craft, one of Senator James I. Watson's campaign managers in the Indiana primary, organizing a "poison squad" were also presented. F. J. Prince and W. A. S. Douglas, testified Mrs. Wheatcraft, had told them of maintaining a "poison squad" of women in Indiana on a slogan of "victory gossip."

CARPET WORKERS NOT GUILTY BUT MUST GIVE BOND

Philadelphia Judge no Respecter of Facts

By J. O. BENTALL.
(Special to The Daily Worker)

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 31.—"Who threw that brick?" This is the important question that agitates the court in Kensington.

Four strikers were charged with the crime. They are Russell Gillespie, James McGinnis, Jr., Pat Connon and Charles Edelman. They had been arrested, brought to the hoosegow and jailed before the judge.

Not Identified.

Then at the crucial moment the cops who ducked the missile that came like a toss from Ignatz Mouse toward the head of Krazy Kat failed to identify the prisoners as the ones from whose hand the brick had sailed.

Otherwise everything went well for the boss and the scabs of the Philadelphia carpet mill, which has had no of the building strikes in the industry for over five weeks and which is still going strong.

Not Guilty—But Bonded.

Besides the eight hands from which said brick was thought to have issued there are over four million other hands in the barg called Philadelphia. Fifteen the witnesses knew that the eight hands belonging to the four arrested strikers did the tossing it would be rather embarrassing to pick on them. So said the attorney for the strikers.

Hitzroer reluctantly agreed to dismiss the case, but—

These four must be put under a peace bond so they will not throw bricks which they never threw. The picket line is solid and stronger than ever.

Gary Conference for Sacco and Vanzetti Redoubles its Efforts

GARY, Ind., Oct. 31.—At a well attended meeting of the Gary Sacco and Vanzetti Defense Conference the question of the adverse decision rendered in the case was taken up by the delegates. They decided to redouble their efforts in behalf of the two class-war prisoners and planned a mass meeting of protest for the near future.

A resolution was passed that said in part: "Having heard the report as to the present status of the case of our brothers, Sacco and Vanzetti and having carefully considered the new evidence presented by the counsel for the defense, especially the confession of one, Celestino Madeiros, and the affidavits of two former agents of the department of justice,

"We declare that it is impermissible to have two innocent men, as we believe Sacco and Vanzetti to be, murdered as a consequence of a decision by a prejudiced judge, who terms very important evidence as 'unimportant.'"

SO THIS IS HOW THE SOCIALISTS "WIN" ELECTION!

Baptize Fascist G. O. P. Democrat as "Comrade"

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 31.—The socialists of Philadelphia and the state of Pennsylvania take no chances when they nominate candidates for office. They mean to have them elected even before the vote is cast and they have discovered an ingenious way to do it.

A Precedent.

In the second assembly district the republicans and democrats have decided to throw off the mask and admit that there is no difference between them. So they agreed upon a fusion candidate in the person of Charles C. A. Baldi, Jr., whose father is a leading fascist largely controlling his young son in matters of political opinions and action.

Now the socialists are not to be sneezed at when it comes to ambition to make a noise about the number of members in legislature or city council. Numbers count with them.

The Trinity.

So they must be able to boast at least three members of the general assembly this coming season. Can they make good? We say they can. How do they do it? Easy. They simply wave their wand and nominate C. C. A. Baldi, Jr., and the trick is done.

That's one.

How the Trick is Done.

In the 18th district the republicans are in the saddle and the democrats have not a peep in, so they have separate candidates. The republicans nominate Samuel J. Ferry and the socialists slide in with them for the same man. That is easy. Now the republicans must have one more and so they nominate Harry Greeby. The socialists nominate Harry Greeby. And these are sure of election.

So the republicans elect these two and the fascist Baldi, Jr., and the socialists go out into the wide and innocent world and tell the workers that they have three members in the general assembly who fight the battles of the working class.

This method of getting socialist members elected is considered up-to-date and nifty, whatever else it may be.

EFFORT TO TAKE "JACK" FROM LEN, CONTINUES

Neat Egg of A Million Should be More Now

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Oct. 31.—Further progress was made today in the check-up before master in chancery Charles G. Briggle to fix the amount Gov. Len Small owes to the state of Illinois for unpaid interest on state funds during his term as state treasurer, when interest totals paid by 19 Illinois banks, totalling $61,000, were agreed upon by attorneys for the governor and Attorney General Oscar Carlstrom and ads. The hearing in the master court was then continued to December, but three conferences at Chicago between opposing counsel were arranged and the first set for Nov. 15.

Attorneys stated that about sixty banks remain to be checked. The state claims the governor is liable for $1,000,000 withheld while Small was state treasurer.

Fire Chiefs Exposed As Using Men to Get Rake-Off From Movie

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—President Baer and Secretary Richardson of the International Association of Firefighters have returned to Washington headquarters from the biennial convention of their organization at Philadelphia, under instructions to protest a grab which the fire chiefs' organization has made in connection with a fire fighters' moving picture film.

Resolutions adopted by the convention declare that altho the firemen in many cities of the United States and Canada have been called upon to volunteer their services in making this film, which is educational in character, the fire chiefs' organization is to receive 25 per cent of the net proceeds, while the firemen are to get nothing.

The fire chiefs' organization, known as the International Association of Fire Engineers, is about to meet in New Orleans. The fire fighters will deliver to them a message demanding an equal share in the proceeds of the moving picture.

THE DAILY WORKER

American Federation of Labor Faces Demands of Pan-Pacific Militants

By J. LOUIS ENGDAHL.

THE labor movements of three countries—the Soviet Union, Great Britain and Mexico—are exerting a growing influence on the American trade unions. This was clearly seen at the Detroit convention of the American Federation of Labor. Altho there was not a real left winger at Detroit, nevertheless, left wing issues, such as world trade union unity, recognition of the Union of Soviet Republics and the sending of delegates to the Union of Soviet Republics and to Mexico, to study the local conditions in these two countries, became live issues before the gathering.

During the months ahead, the labor unions in two, if not three additional countries, will exert an increasing influence on American organized labor. Australia and China, with probably Japan, are pushing into the ring of militant labor that now looms in conservative and complacent American labor, East and West.

Australian labor threw down the gauntlet to the American reaction, at its recent Third All-Australian Trade Union Congress, held at Sidney, in August, when it voted unanimously for a Pan-Pacific Labor Conference to be held at Canton, China, in May, next year.

This action was taken with the declaration that, "For the workers of the Pacific end of the world it is of the utmost importance that unity should be realised, but by perseverance we will win and unity will be achieved, and a basis will be laid for a new advance by the proletariat of the Pacific for victory over the exploiters."

The move for the Pan-Pacific Conference was started by the Australian trade unions, and it will have been held last July at Sidney. The first effort at sabotage came from the Australian Labor Party, that immediately called a rival conference to be held at Honolulu. Even the Australian Party proposals breathing the spirit of MacDonald labor imperialism, was rebuffed by the American Federation of Labor. The A. F. of L. executive council did not mention this question at the Detroit convention.

• • •

Realistically in developing the Pan-Pacific Conference seems to be lodged, not in the Third All-Australian Trade Union Congress that was not content with merely corresponding with the labor movements of other countries, but also sent its representatives to visit and consult with the workers' organizations in other lands. The declaration of the Third All-Australian Trade Union Congress on this subject takes into consideration:

"The increased competition and struggle for markets and raw materials in the borderlands of the Pacific—the last resort of declining world capitalism.

"The growth of military and naval competitions, which will inevitably lead to a new war, if not prevented by the militant and class conscious workers' movement.

"The split and disruption of international and many national trade union movements and at the same time an unprecedented concentration of capitalist forces against the workers.

"The growth of militant labor movement in the Far East, especially in China, greatly changing the situation on the Pacific resolves:

"1. To take an active part in the struggle towards international trade union unity, and to assist in calling a single world congress of all trade union organizations.

"2. To attend the Pan-Pacific Trade Union Conference to be called in Canton on the first of May, 1927.

"3. To issue an appeal to all workers of the Pacific pointing out that necessity of unification of their forces against international capitalism and its war preparations.

"4. To send greetings to the awakened Chinese working class and its trade unions.

"To accept the invitation of the All-Russian Council of Trade Unions, to send as soon as possible official trade union delegation to the Union of Soviet Republics."

Thus the Australian labor movement comes into open clash with the present regime in the A. F. of L., that rejects world trade union unity which must of necessity include labor in the Soviet Union, that joins in the promotion of nests of militarism in the shape of so-called Citizens' Military Training Camps and helps drive "the first rivet" in Wall Street's battleships, that adopts a passive attitude toward China's struggle against the world's imperialists, and refuses to send an American delegation to the Soviet Union.

Since the United States is the greatest imperialist country bordering the Pacific, the Pan-Pacific Trade Union Conference at Canton, China, the seat of the Chinese revolutionary government, will further expose the pro-imperialist and pro-Wall Street policies of the Green-Woll-Duncan regime in the A. F. of L. The apocalyptic phrases of the A. F. of L. toward the Chinese masses will no longer hold water as American gunboats slaughter Chinese workers, its complete side-stepping of the issue raised by the demands of the Filipino workers and peasants for independence will be unmasked, while from the Far East, from the mouths of the English-speaking workers of Australia, will come a new message to the workers of the United States telling of the tremendous advances made by the workers and peasants of the Soviet Union, a message that will make a speech by Dr. Sherwood Eddy look tame and inconsequential.

America's workers must be represented at the Canton Conference on May 1, 1927, with the consent of the A. F. of L. officialdom if possible, if not, then without it.

BURDEN OF HUGE SUMS SPENT BY VARE TO FALL ON WORKER IF HE WINS, NORRIS, REPUBLICAN, WARNS

(Special to The Daily Worker)

ALTOONA, Pa., Oct. 31.—Every dollar spent by the machine for the election of Boss Vare to the United States senate is an investment which the workers must pay with interest, the Vare will be their enemy, Sen. Norris of Nebraska told the people of Pennsylvania here.

Choosing a railroad shop town as the scene for his initial speech in defiance of Mellon, Coolidge and Vare, the republican told his audience that the workers always pay the bosses' bills.

Workers Must Pay.

"This investment for Vare must all be repaid with interest," he said. "In fact, the principal is repaid many times, and this payment must come thru some form or other of tribute from the average citizen. The farmer, the laboring man, the business and professional man must bear their share of the expense. Those who must pay for political debauchery in Pennsylvania live all over the United States. The men who works in the street in San Francisco, the man who toils in a shipyard in Maine, the laborer who picks cotton in the south, the farmer who tills the soil in the west, must each pay his share. There is no escape.

Graft Increases Burden.

"The burdens of the poor must be increased everywhere because of corruption in the primary in Pennsylvania, the selling of seats in the senate of the United States for cash to the special interests. There is no wonder, even if you put it entirely upon a financial basis, why the people of the country from Maine to Oregon, from Florida to Texas, are interested in the contamination of elections in the Keystone state."

Norris described the coming election of a Pennsylvania senator as the "most important that has ever been held in the state since the Declaration of Independence," because it involved the question of whether the people were determined to perpetuate governmental institutions of freedom.

About $3,000,000,000 was openly expended by the special interests in the recent primary, he said, because they had "a direct financial interest in the result. A seat in the United States senate was placed upon the auction block."

SEATTLE, Oct. 31.—(FP)—The Anchorage, Alaska, chamber of commerce has protested against the proposed withdrawal of a company of United States soldiers stationed there on the ground that this would leave the Alaska railroad without protection

G. O. P. IN GARY FORGETS TO BACK NEGRO 'LEADERS'

Leave Out Names in Publicity Matter

GARY, Ind., Oct. 31.—Self-appointed political "leaders" of the Negro race here, who have been boot-licking the K. K. K. republican party license they have been offered consideration on the republican ticket, received a shock this week when the republican ticket's posters were distributed. The posters contained the pictures of all the candidates except the Negroes.

Can't Understand It.

They can't understand why the republican leaders who have filled them full of nice sounding phrases and promised them backing of the party in their candidacies, in return for the delivery of the Negro vote, should "forget" to include their physiognomies on the official posters.

This is just one of the humorous things that are cropping out in the attempt of the K. K. K. republican party to get the Negro workers' vote here.

Old "New Day" Club.

An organization has just been formed called the "New Day Political Club." The DAILY WORKER reporter failed to get any information in regard to its aims from the leaders except the hint that it would support the democratic party. Observers can see nothing "new" in this organization.

Another organization is called the "Universal Negro Improvement Association," which is supporting old-line party candidates, and trying to befuddle the workers with the slogan "Men and Measures." This organization poses in an effort to select candidates friendly to the race, but are really backing its enemies.

SQUEALER TELLS STORY OF BIG LIQUOR GRAFT

Five Patriots Shared in the Boodle

What purported to be the inside story of how Major Percy Owen, former prohibition administrator of the Chicago district, was drawn into a gigantic conspiracy whereby thousands of gallons of sacramental wine were distributed for beverage purposes was told from the witness stand in federal court today by Owen and state Senator Lowell B. Mason on charges of conspiracy to violate the prohibition law.

The witness was Harry R. Schlan, a former bathhouse owner who became one of the leading figures in the so-called wine graft. The proposition that Owen be bribed to issue fraudulent permits, Schlan said, came from Louis Abelson, who with Schlan and four other defendants are to be government witnesses.

How Graft Was Divided.

"Abelson," Schlan said, "wanted to charge $1,000 for each permit but finally agreed on $300. Half of that was to be divided between Owen and myself, the other half to go to Abelson and the two prohibition agents who were to be named upon his recommendation. They were appointed by Owen after he had shot over the proposition and decided to come in with us."

After that, the witnesses swore sacramental wine dealers were issued permits, with the right to sell wine to any and all, saw Abelson first and after paying him were given permits by Owen.

OBREGON STATES HIS SUPPORT OF CALLES' POLICY

U. S. Catholics Should Keep Hands Off

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 31.—Arriving in Mexico City for a two-day visit, Ex-President Alvaro Obregon, announced his complete support of the policy of the Calles administration in regard to the church, labor and agrarian problems.

Concerning the interference of catholics in the United States in Mexican affairs and their aid to the catholic rebellion against the Mexican government, Obregon was very definite. "Our catholics are our own problem." He added that catholics in the own affairs and not meddle in Mexico's internal affairs.

Archbishop Francisco Orozco y Jimines of Guadalajara, has issued a statement saying that if the government does not recognize the citizenship of the clergy, the clergy is under no obligation to obey the laws of the government. He then went into bid United States should lend to their ing and is supposed to be trying to raise a rebellion.

Wintry Blizzards Add to Misery of Armenian Earthquake Survivors

LENINAKEN, Oct. 31.—A wintry blizzard swept over the wrecked houses and thru the rags of the hungry survivors of the devastating earthquake that rocked this region last week. Earth shocks continue intermittantly and, together with the chill blasts and the snow, beat down the already low morale of the homeless refugees.

The situation of the shelterless is very desperate. The most pitiful conditions exists among recent and prospective mothers. The earthquake ushered in seventy-two new babies and many more have been born on the plains where the homeless are encamped. While the Soviet government agencies and the Near East Relief are taxing their energies to bring comfort and food to the quake victims, the hardship they are enduring are of a kind to break the hardiest spirits.

Wrong United Front.

MONTREAL.—(FP)—The Canadian railway presidents practice the united front just as the railway unions do not, complains Pres. Tallon of Div. 4, railway employes department of the American Federation of Labor. In The Canadian Federated Railwayman Tallon writes that whenever the unions, whether shop crafts or train and engine service brotherhoods, wanted to negotiate they had to face the solid hostility of the Railway Assn. of Canada. This comprises 50 roads, though two of them, the Canadian National and the Canadian Pacific, have 90% of the mileage, and one is publicly owned.

BRITISH AND GERMAN INDUSTRIAL MAGNATES TO HOLD CONFERENCE

(Special to The Daily Worker)

BERLIN, Oct. 31.—The Federation of German Industries has received an invitation from the Federation of British Industries to attend a series of business parleys in London, the nature of which are understood to be similar to the meetings of German and British industrialists and financiers at Romsey, England, earlier this month.

It was just after the close of the Romsey meeting that the "international bankers" manifesto was announced, causing a stir thruout Europe and America.

don from the Nottingham district, and there are reports that he has received proposals from committees headed by Lord Derby, Lord Londonderry and Montague Norman, governor of the Bank of England. Cook gave evasive reply as to the truth of this, and some anxiety is felt that he and other miners' leaders may be weakening.

Coal Famine Acute.

Meanwhile, the coal famine is becoming acute, in spite of last foreign imports. Sir Alfred Mond, head of the big chemical trust, has warned the mine owners that they must settle the strike soon or his firm, one of the largest coal users, and others as well, will place contracts abroad for coal and leave the mine owners of England without this assured market.

No householder can now buy more than 200 pounds of coal each two weeks, and no one with more than 500 pounds on hand can buy any more.

European Coal Shortage.

PARIS, Oct. 31.—A fuel famine is spreading over Europe as a result of the British coal miners' strike. In France the iron and steel interests near the coast have been forced to draw on their emergency stocks.

Instead of the 10,000,000 tons imported from England last year, the flow of coal is now going from France to England in the form of bunker coal for British ships.

Profit of Scabbing Goes to Bosses.

German cities are also short from coal shipments to England and Austria reports that passenger traffic on the railways will have to be cut from lack of coal, while Belgium is also suffering a coal famine.

The greed of European coal dealers for spot cash favors can obtain by sending scab coal to England, is thus robbing the home markets of enough to properly supply the demand, and high prices are causing great sufferings among the working class.

CHAMORRO USES TERROR AGAINST LIBERAL REVOLT

U. S. Imperialism in Haste to Get Diaz

CORINTO, Nicaragua, Oct. 31.—Following up their declaration that the constitutional government of Nicaragua under Bautista Sacasa be re-established by force of arms against the combined forces of United States imperialism and the usurper, Emiliano Chamorro, the liberal party general, Beltran Sandoval, has landed a force at Porto Corazo on the west coast and called on all liberals to unite against Chamorro.

In the city of Leon Chamorro is arresting hundreds of liberal party supporters, which include most of the population, and carrying on a campaign of white terror, against which the foreign residents find it necessary to protect themselves by flying their national flags.

Lawrence Dennis, United States charge d'Affairs, fearing that the U. S. scheme to give a veneer to its domination by having Chamorro resign and his place taken by a confederate of his, Adolfo Diga, may find this if hasty action is not taken, has called officially on the Chamorro government, demanding that Chamorro resign and his present hand-picked congress be called to name Diaz as successor.

Mexico Bars Negroes From Entry; Influx From B. W. I. Reason

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 31.—An influx of Negroes from the West Indies, suspected as having been brought in by employers to lower labor standards in the state of Vera Cruz, and ignorance of unionism, has led to an official bar against them by the Mexican government. All will be stopped at ports and border points.

Many of the West Indian Negroes are suffering terrible unemployment, pitifully low wages and brutal oppression of British imperialism, and fro the most part are entirely unacquainted with unionism, even when the strict British rule permits them to exist. In many cases such unions as exist are controlled by traitors of their own race, and do little to advance standards.

Rumor Wu Pei-Fu Will Try to Recapture the City of Hankow, China

SHANGHAI, Oct. 31.—Resumption of warfare in the central Yangtze provinces appeared imminent today when reports were received from Hankow that Wu Pei-Fu, noted China warlord, was planning a counter-drive against the victorious Cantonese, who two weeks ago captured Hupeh province from Sun Feng-Chang, Wu's principal ally.

FRENCH WORKERS LOOSE SACCO-VANZETTI PROTEST WITH AMERICAN EMBASSY

(Special to The Daily Worker)

PARIS, Oct. 31.—Headed by the Communist Deputy Andre Berthon, a delegation of French workers called on the United States ambassy and lodged a vigorous protest against the execution of sentence upon Sacco and Vanzetti whom they declared were victims of an insidious frame-up engineered against the two Italian workers because of their working class activities.

sense of realities the accusing finger of responsibility is directed at the government in Washington led by Calvin Coolidge.

Europe knows that Coolidge was governor of Massachusetts when Sacco and Vanzetti were arrested, and that when president of the United States and seeking re-election he chose Butler, chief of the textile barons of Massachusetts, to manage his campaign.

Harrick Protests in Vain.

In spite of Ambassador Herrick's insistence that the Washington government has had nothing to do with this case, which Europe has coms to regard as a parallel to the persecution of Captain Alfred Dreyfus of the French army a generation ago, European liberals and workers do not believe him. Recently they have been justified by the disclosure in affidavits by former department of justice agents that they were active in prejudicing the fate of the two prisoners, during the trial.

Attorney general Sargent's failure to permit the defense to look at the files of the Boston office of the department has ripened the suspicion that the federal government was behind the case because these two Italian workmen were radicals and it wanted to get rid of radicals by any convenient means.

BAY STATE OPINION SHIFTS.

BOSTON, Oct. 31.—Massachusetts, or at least Boston, opinion seems to be shifting somewhat from its hostile attitude toward Sacco and Vanzetti toward the position that there must be something in the workers' claims of innocence after all.

The conservative republican Boston Herald contributes an editorial entitled, "We Submit ——." It begins "In our opinion Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti ought not to be executed on the warrant of the verdict returned by a jury on July 14, 1921. We do not know whether these men are guilty or not." And it reiterates its lack of sympathy with their political and economic views, continuing: "But as months have merged into years and the great debate over this case has continued, our doubts have solidified slowly into convictions, and reluctantly we have found ourselves compelled to reverse our original judgment. We hope the supreme judicial court will grant a new trial on the basis of new evidence not yet examined in open court. . . .

"We hope, in case our supreme bench finds itself unable legally to authorise a new trial, that our governor will call to his aid a commission of disinterested men of the highest intelligence and charactar to make an independent investigation in his behalf, and that the governor himself at first hand will participate in that examination, if, as a last resort. It shall be undertaken."

Lloyd George Paints Dark Future in Reply to "Whither England?"

LONDON, Oct. 31.—Lloyd George, speaking at a meeting in Wales, said England was passing thru a crisis and facing ruin, a condition to a realization of which he was "determined to rouse the nation"—to support Lloyd George.

"We are passing, with the coal strike, the greatest crisis since the war," said the former premier, "and one of the most dangerous perhaps in our industrial history."

George said that the trade balance was declining until this year, when it will be entirely vanished. "Then we will be forced to finance ourselves on foreign credit. We who were once the richest country in the world, are walking up to the offices of money lenders."

SOCIALISTS HEAR GERMAN WOMAN RELATE 'SUCCESS'

Reich Member Talks to Cleveland 'Old Guard'

By SADIE AMTER

(Special to The Daily Worker)

CLEVELAND, O., Oct. 31.—Miss Tony Sender, woman socialist member of the German Reichstag, spoke in Cleveland, Oct. 7, to the scattered forces and defunct membership of a one time thriving party. An audience of about fifty-four people occupied the first few rows in Moose Hall, all that is left of the socialist party in Cleveland.

Monarchists Join Hands.

She said that after the revolution that changed Germany from a monarchy to a republic there was no resistance at all on the part of the war generals and upholders of monarchy but that on the contrary they showed every desire to join hands with the socialists. "The socialists," she said "were against the submarine warfare knowing the that would bring America into the battle and that Germany would thereby lose. And when the war was ended with a defeated Germany, the revolution took place and the great task of the Socialist Germany was to bring work and give employment to millions of men and to do it as quickly as possible in order to avoid the greatest disaster of the world."

Miss Sender did not say what disaster that would have been but from her talk I gathered that the same thing would have happened to the socialist regime that happened to the Kerensky government in November of 1917, and it appears that every move of the Socialist Party of Germany from that time to the present was made for the sole purpose of heading off too much movement toward rebellion of the workingless and an overwhelming turn toward the left.

Germans Sentimental.

Speaking of the election of Hindenburg, Miss Sender declared that it was not a triumph for monarchy as many believed but merely a sentimental feeling on the part of the German people "for the old general who had fought so well during the war." Miss Sender went on to say that she did not think it was fair that the families of the princes of Germany should be allowed the enormous incomes when millions of the people are near starvation. She said that 22 families of the nobility use millions of dollars in income and, of course, the socialists are fighting this.

It was astonishingly clear listening to Miss Sender that the socialist party of Germany, where it is in the majority, can hope to be the exploited workingclass and that the so-called social gains of Germany were not worth fighting for. It is clear that what Germany achieved was a revolution changing it from a monarchy to a republic and that it is no nearer to the goal of a victorious workingclass than is America or France or England at the present time.

Praises Dawes Plan.

Miss Sender in her last sentence said that the German socialists look forward to a free and happy world but she said not one word of how this is to be brought about. It may be that she believes the Dawes plan is going to lead Germany to her goal for she said, "The Dawes plan is making it possible for Germany to pay reparations and also made a new reparations basis which it is possible for the German people to accept."

Cleveland Business Is Urged to Resume Trading With Russia

CLEVELAND, Oct. 31.—The chamber of commerce of this city is holding special sessions in order to discuss ways and means of increasing the foreign trade of manufacturers of this section of the country. About 200 manufacturers are attending the sessions and a lively interest is being taken in the question of Russian trade. Is it worth while dealing with Soviet Russia or is that vast country further to be avoided?

H. Parker Willis, professor of banking at Columbia University, who recently returned from a trip to Soviet Russia, is an advocate of trade with Soviet Russia. Mr. Willis pointed out that last year America stood first in the foreign trade of Soviet Russia, but this year has dropped to second place. "Last year we had 30 per cent of their trade and first place in it. This year we shall have second place and there are some who think it will not run higher than 9 per cent." Professor Willis gave as the reason the refusal of American bankers and manufacturers to grant credit. "Under proper conditions and under suitable safeguards the Russian trade field offers one of those new and almost unlimited opportunities for development which are only occasionally presented."

Rev. E. A. Walsh, who spent two years in Hoover's relief expedition, was the second speaker on trade with Soviet Russia. He pointed out that the Soviet government confiscated all private property at the time of the revolution and that therefore "business men who seek to trade with the

Co-operation and Trade Unionism

By JOHN HAMILTON.

Co-operative Disputes.

"The co-operators of 1860 upheld co-operation as superior to trade unionism altogether. In the co-operative era strikes and lockouts and unions of labor against capital were to be weeped one of the past." But, the conditions dictated by the general economic organization of capitalist society decide otherwise and the dispute and strike of the N. U. D. A. W. with the C. W. S. (May 13 to June 28, 1923) is a striking case in point. The matters in dispute were finally arbitrated upon by the Joint Committee of the T. U. C. and the Co-operative Union, and the result, according to the N. U. D. A. W., was that "the award gives the C. W. S. everything it asked for. Further, the Union believes that this award, which gives, against the weight of evidence, lower rates of wages than are being paid by any decent firm in the country, will convince its members that it is no use looking for justice from the Joint Committee." (Altogether during 1923, the General Council of the T. U. C. had been called upon to deal with sixty-seven disputes affecting Co-operative employes).

However, the whole dispute has not been without its results on Co-operative opinion. The Central Board of the Co-operative Union passed the following resolution on September 22, 1923: "That the time has arrived when the Co-operative Movement should seriously consider the question of how far the worker should have control of industry and what share should be given to the management. And that the matter be referred to the United Board for consideration and report."

held at Nottingham, at Whitsuntide, 1924, took a serious decision on this matter of wages to its employes; the following resolution being endorsed: "Any variation in trade board, industrial council, or interim reconstruction council's rates may be applied unless such variations are the subject of negotiation between the employers and the trade unions concerned but such negotiations shall not prevent the employers from putting into operation such variation at the expiration of fourteen days . . . In the case of any body of workers for whom there is more than one rate available, the societies shall always pay the higher rate unless an agreement has been given authorising a lower rate. Where Trade Union agreements (either national or district) have been made by representative bodies of employers and workers, the same rates should apply to Co-operative employes employed in the area covered by the agreement . . . (This Congress) declares that no scheme (for the settlement of disputes) which fails to conform to this principle will be acceptable to the Co-operative Congress."

This re-affirms the "proviso," one of the chief causes of the 1923 dispute, and one which was vigorously opposed by the Trade Unionist members of the Joint Committee of Trade Unionists and Co-operators.

An even more dangerous move, however, is the stipulation that agreements with private traders and trades shall apply also to Co-operative Societies. This destroys the Trade Union contention that Co-operative wages and conditions should be better than those in private employment. On this last point the Labor Adviser stated that the draft unions concerned were in agreement—thereby implying that the N. U. D. A. W. was not. The C. W. S. had recently been before the courts of arbitration, but this was withdrawn.

The Attitude of N. U. D. A. W.

The Easter, 1924, Annual Delegate Conference of N. U. D. A. W. declined to submit disputes to the Joint Committee of Trade Unionists and Co-operators until there is a re-organization of that body so as to provide "direct and equal representation of the Unions involved in the dispute." The Conference refused to accept on any account the principle of compulsory arbitration. There was considerable criticism of the Joint Committee, some sections requesting the T. U. C. to dissolve it, and to negotiate with the Co-operative Movement for more satisfactory machinery. The apparent difficulty being the desire of the C. W. S. to apply any variation in Trade Board and other rates automatically without consultation with the Unions concerned (to the commercial and dividend minded type of Co-operator the minimum rate is the maximum).

The N. U. D. A. W. has put forward new comprehensive wage claims so that altogether the labor problem is assuming very serious dimensions. On the question of wages and conditions of employment, as in the case of the proposed Co-operative daily, the regrettable fact emerges that the Co-operative Movement is tending to draw away from, rather than have a closer connection with Labor. In view of the coming social changes, the Movement will have to face the fact of the determination of the workers to secure a real voice in the control of workshop conditions. The British Movement is sadly lagging behind the continental movement in this connection. The Swiss Consumers' Union has set up workshop committees, and all matters affecting wages, conditions of employment, etc., must be referred to them for consideration before

EVERY PARTY ORGANIZATION MUST STAGE DEMONSTRATIONS TO BRING MESSAGE OF RUSSIA TO WORKERS

The Ninth Anniversary of the Russian revolution has a message of vast significance for the American working class—and there is a growing mass of workers who are ready to listen to this message and to understand and absorb it. It is up to our party, the bearer of the ideas that the Russian revolution and proletarian dictatorship represent to carry these lessons to the American working masses and to rally them in defense and support of the Soviet Union.

Preparations are being made by party organizations in all large cities for demonstrations in celebration of the Ninth Anniversary of the Russian revolution. But there are yet numbers of smaller party organizations where very little has been done in this direction. There is no excuse for any such situation. The Russian revolution campaign must penetrate every part of the country where we have any sort of party organization, no matter how small. Every single party unit, every single party comrade must get on the job and see that this is carried out.

Must Arrange Demonstration.

Every party organization must arrange some sort of Russian revolution demonstration for the early part of November. Wherever it is at all possible public mass meetings should be organized. If this cannot be done because of the lack of forces of the party organizations where there are but one or two units in a city then there must be arranged open meetings of these units and every effort made to attract workers to them. These meetings should be organized of Russian revolution demonstrations and celebrations. There is an opportunity for every party organization to do something and that something must not be left undone.

Slogans.

The chief slogans under which the Russian revolution is to be celebrated are:

THE RUSSIAN WORKERS HAVE SHOWN THE WAY TO FREEDOM FOR THE WORKERS!

THE CAPITALIST WORLD IS COLLAPSING! THE SOVIET UNION IS PROCEEDING FULL SPEED TOWARDS SOCIALISM!

FOR INTERNATIONAL TRADE UNION UNITY!

FOR A LABOR DELEGATION TO THE SOVIET UNION!

FOR DEFENSE AND RECOGNITION OF THE SOVIET UNION!

—Agitprop Department, Workers (Communist) Party of America.

GITLOW REPLIES TO SOCIALISTS' ATTACK ON W. P.

Declares S. P. Leaders Were Against Debs

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—Upon being shown a statement issued by the Socialist Party, denouncing the Workers (Communist) Party for announcing a meeting to honor the memory of Eugene V. Debs, Benjamin Gitlow, ex-Workers (Communist) Party candidate for governor and for many years associate of Debs in the Socialist Party, issued the following statement:

"The Workers (Communist) Party considers that in the death of Eugene V. Debs one of America's greatest working class leaders has died. His record was one of unflinching struggle against capitalism and on behalf of the working class. He was always on the left wing of the Socialist Party and in sharp disagreement with the policies of the leaders that at present predominate, Berger, Hillquit, Panken, Abe Cahan—these were always his political opponents within the party. Their opposition to Debs even reached to the point of violence.

"Altho he was their one great figure, it is only in the last few years that they permitted him to become a member of their National Executive Committee and in the presidential campaign of 1912, the state committee of the state of California refused to permit their candidate for president, to speak there because he was too "left" and too revolutionary for them. This incident is only one of many instances in which the conservative wing of the party expressed its antagonism and its fear of Debs' revolutionary character.

Debs Against Hillquit.

"Since the world war and the treachery of the Socialist Party leadership in the matter of the war and of the Russian revolution, the right wing—the wing of Berger, Hillquit, Panken and Abe Cahan—has been in undisputed control of the Socialist Party. Debs repeatedly denounced their actions and adopted policies contrary to the party's point of view. When they denounced Soviet Russia, Debs expressed his sympathy with Soviet Russia. When he went on trial the last time, he said, 'I am a Bolshevik from the crown of my head to the soles of my feet.'

Supported T. U. E. L.

"While the Socialist Party was fighting the Trade Union Educational League, Debs supported it. While the Socialist Party denounced the Friends of Soviet Russia, thus stabbing the victims of the Russian famine in the back, Debs accepted membership in the executive committee of the Friends of Soviet Russia. The Socialist Party attacked the International Labor Defense, Debs accepted a post on its executive committee. The Socialist Party attacked the left wing in the trade unions—Debs supported the left wing. In his last years as in his first, he was in direct contradiction to the Socialist Party's right wing leadership and only his old sentimental attachment to that party prevented his leaving it long after it ceased to fight for the things he represented and indeed became the enemy of causes for which he continued to fight.

Recognized His Honesty.

"Since the world war, the Socialist Party, under its present right wing leadership, has played a role antagonistic to the interest of the working class and with the death of Debs, who was used in a pitiful fashion in the last years to still give a revolutionary cloak to a counter revolutionary leadership, the last pretense to be a party such as Debs once tried to make it.

"The Communists, while repeatedly pointing out in open letters to Debs and in leaflets, that he was making a fatal mistake in staying with the Socialist Party, has always recognized his honesty and his revolutionary integrity. We have criticized his lack of political clarity and weakness in not openly breaking with his political opponents, we recognized as we always have the great role that Debs has played in the history of the American working class. He remained revolutionary when the official leaders of the Socialist Party went to the right wing and betrayed the interests of the workers. We had to break with the Socialist Party because of the treachery of its leadership but Debs did not have the strength in his declining years to make that break.

"The Socialist Party is dying but the revolutionary tradition he represented lives on in the Workers (Communist) Party. The Socialist Party will pass away and he forgotten but Debs will live on and the tradition he represented, corrected and developed will be carried on by the Workers (Communist) Party until the victory of the American working class is assured and we have a Workers' and Farmers' government and a Socialist order in the United States."

"The pen is mightier than the sword," provided you know how to use it. Come down and learn how in the letter correspondent's classes.

DAILY WORKER BOOSTER AFFAIRS BEING HELD THROUGOUT NATION BY WORKERS WHO ARE BEHIND DRIVE

Workers throout the nation are answering the call of The DAILY WORKER for assistance in maintaining the only labor daily in the United States, not only by personal contributions, but by planning and holding meetings, dances, and entertainments to raise funds.

Practically every local and nucleus in the country is holding such affairs, which not only draw party members but also enlist the patronage of party sympathizers and friends.

Reports from leaders in all of the districts tell of the wonderful spirit being displayed by the workers in boosting and staging the affairs. They are realizing the great need of The DAILY WORKER and what it means to the left movement. This realization is being displayed in the enthusiasm with which the affairs are being handled.

Many Events This Week.

During the next few days what appears to be an almost simultaneous outburst of DAILY WORKER booster affairs will be held. Many affairs have been planned for Saturday and Sunday, and for the first week of November.

In New York City the Harlem-Yorkville Section 4 will stage a splendid affair on Saturday night, October 30, at the Hungarian Workers' Home, 350 East 81st street. A splendid program has been arranged for the event, and the leaders predict that a huge crowd will attend. All of the proceeds go to the campaign. The DAILY WORKER Boosters' Club is also planning a series of affairs. The first will be held on November 6, when a dance and refreshments will be held.

Splendid Cleveland Affairs.

Nucleus 21 at Cleveland, Ohio, has made plans for an unusual entertainment for Sunday evening, October 31, at the Jates Hall, 6004 St. Clair avenue. This affair will include a musical concert, special entertainment feature, and a dance. A number by the Lithuanian chorus will be a feature. The event is being widely advertised and the entire labor movement is planning to attend, it is announced.

Sunday at Gary.

Gary, Indiana, nucleus is also planning a DAILY WORKER entertainment for Sunday. This will be given at the workers' hall, 215 West 13th street. A living newspaper will be a feature, besides many novel entertainment features.

The Milwaukee Central Street Nucleus, No. 1, will also be in the fight Sunday as far as DAILY WORKER boosting is concerned, with a social affair and dance. This is to be held Sunday night, October 31, at Miller, Hall, third floor. This affair will be a great success, nucleus leaders feel.

Plan Banquet.

A banquet is being planned in Grand Rapids which will be given over to boosting the paper in November. A definite date has not yet been decided upon, but arrangements are going ahead.

The Philadelphia district is planning a series of meetings. They are out to not only reach their goal of $3,000, but the leaders and members are determined to go over the top.

Boston Affair.

In Boston the celebration of the ninth anniversary of the Russian Revolution will be made a joint affair. Half of the proceeds at the celebration will go to swell The DAILY WORKER campaign fudd. It will be held on November 7.

The district in Superior, Wisconsin, has formed a booster club, and will hold several affairs, besides conducting a general knitting campaign.

Banquet in Denver.

In Denver, Colorado, where the workers have just finished erecting a new Labor Lyceum hall, the first big affair in the new building was a DAILY WORKER booster event. A banquet was held Sunday by members of the party, Young Workers' League, and sympathetic organizations. The main part of the banquet was given over to the "Keep The DAILY WORKER" campaign, and a sum of money was collected here.

Many other affairs will be held by the workers before the $50,000 is raised. And the workers have shown themselves ready to get behind these events, devoting time and energy, so there is no doubt that they will also be successful.

Big Enrollment in English Classes at N. Y. Workers' School

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—Owing to the organization of the Workers (Communist) Party there is an unprecedented demand for English courses at the Workers' School, and as a result of this demand eight courses in English are starting during the current week.

The instructors in charge of these courses include Ray Ovington, Sonia Ginsburg, Eli Jackson, Alli Karlson, Mack Rock, Pauline Rogers and Sonia Waidey. Of these instructors all but Ali Karlson were instructors for the Workers' School last year, and she is a former Rand School instructor.

These new English courses range all the way from elementary classes for those who have taken no previous courses in English and do not speak very much English to advanced courses.

The Workers' School uses its own methods and is creating its own textbooks to meet the needs of workers who wish to learn the English language.

Other courses included in the English department are the course in public speaking, with Carl Brodsky; the course in labor journalism (workers correspondence), with Harvey O'Connor; the instructor; the course in social interpretation of modern literature, with Eli Jacobson as instructor; the social background of Russian literature, J. Carter Instructor; professional writers' workshop, Michael Gold instructor, and additional courses by H. W. L. Dana and Y. F. Calverton are promised.

Another course of especial interest to foreign-born workers is in citizenship and naturalization, to be given on Monday nights, with Joseph Brodsky as the instructor.

Registration is now going on every afternoon and evening at the Workers' School, 108 East 14th street, New York

DISCUSS MASS. COMPENSATION LAW AT BOSTON

Woll Not Enthused at State Insurance

By BERT MILLER.

BOSTON, Oct. 31.—Under the progressive leadership of John A. Vanderwerwerk, president of the Massachusetts branch of the American Federation of Labor, the labor movement of Massachusetts is making a strenuous effort to place upon the statute books of that state a compensation law which shall include a number of far-reaching and progressive features.

At a hearing begun on Wednesday, October 27, at the Massachusetts state house a membership delegation of labor representatives from all parts of the state and also from the executive council of the A. F. of L. appeared, among the latter being a number of national vice-presidents, such as Woll, Frey and Duffy. Mr. Green was unable to be present. The fact that these prominent labor men are appearing on behalf of senate bill #5 shows what significance the local labor movement attaches to this bill.

Provides State Insurance.

The bill which is being advocated by the Massachusetts labor movement centers mainly around the feature of state insurance as against private insurance. The bill raises the minimum from $4 a week to $10 a week, the maximum from $16 to $21 a week, and the total payment from $4,000 to $7,000.

The bill lays out in specific form the compensation to be paid for particular insurance on a far higher basis than the present law. Penalties are provided for employers who fail to comply with the pfevisions of the bill and a bonding feature is also included. The present waiting period is eliminated and compensation is demanded from the date of injury.

Woll Half-Hearted.

Mr. Matthew Woll, vice-president of the American Federation of Labor, appeared. In support of the bill he argued that the state feature was a saving to both employer and employe alike, that it cut down the overhead cost of insurance from 40 to 4 per cent, and that it insured the solvency of the insurance fund. Mr. Woll's presentation was weak in comparison with the strength of the case for which he was pleading, and he failed to stand his ground when questioned by members of the insurance commission.

For instance, when questioned as to whether or not he would want the state to be financially liable for the solvency of the fund, he hemmed and hawed and did not answer the question directly. When asked whether he was in favor of self-insurance he again straddled the question, in spite of the fact that self-insurance offers the employes a convenient way out of tieing up with the state fund.

Would Aid Employers.

Another question which was put to Mr. Woll was whether he was in favor of physical ratings, whereby the employer determined for himself the basis of insurance on the strength of his past experience. Notwithstanding the fact that the employers would thus have a means of doctoring out their figures and cutting the cost of insurance Mr. Woll refused to come out flatly against this proposition.

Mr. Woll did not even come out flatly against the $16 maximum which at present exists, and stated that he had no opinion as to what the maximum ought to be. He also voiced no opinion on such an elementary question as the length of the waiting period. Mr. Woll's attitude thruout was one of justifying the bill on the basis of the service it would mean for the employers, and he said; "We are just as much concerned about protecting private property and the inviolability of private contracts as anybody else."

A Fitting Question.

Mr. Woll had, in fact, to be asked by a member of the commission as to whether or not he was speaking for the employers. The hearing will continue for the rest of Wednesday and Thursday. It is to be hoped that the other representatives of labor will speak more strongly in behalf of the progressive measure which is proposed.

Kenosha Will Have Celebration in Honor of Russian Revolution

Kotoff, the conductor of the Russian Workers' Chorus of Chicago, G. Grigoriev and others will participate. The principal speaker in English will be Alexander Bittelman, member of the C. E. C. of the Workers (Communist) Party. There will also be a Russian speaker. Stereopticon pictures of the revolution will be shown. Dancing will follow the program.

TAXI DRIVERS ARE VICTIMS OF EXPLOITATION

Milwaukee Company Is Horrible Example

By a Worker Correspondent

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 31.—Boynton Cab Co. that controls the city's cab system, keeps its employes on the verge of starvation, paying a miserable wage of from $6 to $15 a week.

Drivers are hired on the basis of 37 per cent commission which is so low that in order to make a living, one must work 12 to 14 hours a day and keep right at it for full 7 days, because to lay off a day means only one meal a day, or none.

After working a whole week waiting the pay day, you find in many cases that you have nothing coming, and if you have, it's very little. Always on the back of your check you will find that the company has held out on you for something you know nothing about. This of course is an every day occurrence.

Graft System.

The graft system is in full swing, everybody from the lowest strawboss to a manager, always expect something for nothing, and at the end you will find that the poor driver is generally the one to take the consequences. In order to get your 2 per cent raise to which every driver is entitled to after working 3 months, it will first cost you a lot of extra work for some punk who was hired to watch over you, or almost your week's wages.

Loyalty and Hard Work.

The main slogha of the company is hard work and loyalty. If you expect any promotion or increase in wages, which very seldom occurs, you must be a loyal and a hard workes.

At every one of the so-called "driver's meetings" you will see all the fat boys delivering slick slick speeches on how the company treats its employes and how it expects to treat them and so on, but never a word is mentioned as to how and where a driver will eat tomorrow, and for what. And never a word about an increase in wages or how the conditions of the drivers would be improved. As a matter of fact, the drivers have no say at all thruout the whole meeting. They just sit there and listen to the slick speeches where one would think that the drivers are making a fortune working for the company.

Worker Near Death From Carelessness in a Hospital Operation

By L. P. RINDAL.
(Worker Correspondent)

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 31.—Comrade Sid Bush is near death, it is reported at party headquarters, because of carelessness with which he was operated on at the county hospital for a tonsil operation. A vein was cut ont by mistake. Lack of care caused the wound to bleed all night, and now he is very weak and in a serious condition.

This is not the first time workers have suffered from carelessness at this hospital. During the world war, the misuse of imitation "606" caused the death of six workers. About a year ago, three working women died at the hospital on account of carelessness when they were given too great a dose of some poison before being operated on.

THREE PRIZES OFFERED WORKING CLASS WRITERS FOR BEST NEWS STORIES

Three splendid books will be given as prizes to the workers who send in the best worker correspondent stories between now and Nov. 2.

The first prize will be an intensely interesting and important book by Friedrich Engels, "The Peasant War in Germany." This is just off the press and is a classic in its first American publication. Who will be the worker correspondent to get this fine book?

The second prize will be that famous collection of vivid Red Cartoons. There are over seventy cartoons by seventeen leading proletarian artists.

For the third prize, the boardbound edition of the famous Russell-Nearing Debate has been selected. Bertrand Russell is known as an "intellectual giant" of England, and Scott Nearing has one of the keanest minds in America. It is a book worth having.

The prizes will be awarded Thursday, Nov. 3. Send in that story now that you have been thinking about. It may win a prize—and, anyway, your fellow workers want to read it!

RAISES MINERS' WAGES TO KEEP SCABS WORKING

Coal Demand Forces Concession

By GEORGE PAPCUN.
(Worker Correspondent)

PITTSBURGH Oct. 31.—The Pittsburgh Coal Co., after breaking the agreement with the coal miners in District 5 and using every means in trying to starve and terrorize the coal miners into going back on the 1917 scale, has now announced a raise in wages, in some cases even above the Jacksonville agreement. The notice says that the raise is only temporary, as it seems that the price of coal on the market has risen and that as soon as it will go down the wages will be adjusted accordingly.

To Keep Scabs.

Tho this is what the coal company is telling the men, it is not the real reason behind the raising of wages. A lot of miners were actually starved into working on the 1917 scale, but because of the British strike the demand for coal from across tho it is temporary, has opened up a lot of independent mines in the district. With the opening of these mines the Pittsburgh Coal Co. is losing even what scabs it did get to work for it. So, in trying to get the scabs from drifting away and leaving it flat, it has now announced the increase in wages.

Union's Choice.

If the district officials at this time would pursue a fighting policy of mass picketing the Pittsburgh Coal Co. would be sure to give in to the union in a very short time, and this is the only way that the district of the U. M. W. A. can put the union on the offensive against the operators.

MINER LEADERS JOIN DRIVE TO SELL MORE COAL

But They Neglect to Boost Union

By a Worker Correspondent.

PEORIA, Ill., Oct. 31.—The local association of commerce, in collaboration with leaders of the Peoria subdistrict of United Mine Workers, is in the midst of a campaign to sell more Peoria Bug coal in order to put more miners to work. The object of the association of commerce is to better business for storekeepers. Three million dollars more per year would be spent by the miners with local merchants if the miners worked full time.

Don't Mention Union.

It should be the aim of the local sub-district to put more union miners to work, but the word "union" is never mentioned by the campaign committee, just "Peoria dug coal." W. Warner Rye, president of the Peoria sub-district, really had the union miners at heart he would see to it that "union dug coal" was boosted and not cooperate with the local bankbitz, with the hope that in so doing the campaign would indirectly benefit the union miners he represents.

As one union miner puts it, "It's the little mines like the scab Hilltop mine that are getting the benefit of the campaign. Most of the union dug coal goes to the Rock Island road, which uses about a million tons a year. The railroad uses it because it makes better steam coal, and not because it is dug by union miners. If more union dug coal is sold it's because of the cold snap we are having."

Coal Dealers in On It.

A glance at the names of the men on the campaign sub-committee will reveal why the association of commerce is sponsoring this campaign. There is Herold Moffatt, sales manager for Dooley Bros. Coal Co.; Robert Ronk, superintendent for the Hanna City Mining Co., and George Deemy, superintendent for the Crescent Coal Co. What's the use of advertising unless it brings in more profits for yourself? The local operators expect to gain by the campaign. The miners, except for the union miners will be incidental.

As matters stand now, retail dealers report that they have not noticed any marked effects of the campaign so far. Peoria industrialists, long noted for their hatred of union labor, use scab coal because it pays them to do so. And even if scab coal from Kentucky would cost more, they would do it because of cheap labor and low freight rates, they would sooner use it then out union labor to work.

Still Hate Farrington.

Expressions of hatred for Frank Farrington are heard on every hand. The militant miners of this district are incensed over his betrayal, more particularly because of his statement that the miners of Illinois should accept a reduction in pay in order that union dug coal might compete with scab coal. A local miner sums up the case like this: "Frank Farrington is where he belongs, with the coal operators. He should take Fishwick and Sneed with him; they are his right-hand men and are as much in the mud now as he was. All this talk about a reduction in pay is bunk. Suppose we get only 50 cents a ton instead of $1.15, coal would be only about 50 cents a ton cheaper. That is not enough of a reduction to compete with scab coal. The only policy to pursue is a real trade unionist one, and that is organize the scab miners. Bring them up to our standard; do not lower ourselves to theirs."

Baltimore Socialist Candidates Approved By Capitalist Paper

By a Worker Correspondent.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 31.—The Baltimore Daily Post, the local edition of the Scripps-Howard newspaper syndicate, carried an editorial on Oct. 26 that should serve as a lesson for the American working class as to the true character of the socialist party.

The editorial entitled, "We Report to Our Readers," deals with the coming elections and endorses certain candidates regardless of party.

Some of the candidates endorsed are as follows: Addison E. Mullikin, republican, governor; for comptroller: The Post considers the following candidates equally qualified, one republican, one democrat, and James L. Smiley (preacher), socialist; appeals court clerk, a democrat, a republican, and John A. Baker, socialist; for senator: William A. Toole, socialist; for congress from third district, S. M. Neistat, socialist.

All in all we have in the company of 24 democrats and 22 republicans, 4 socialists.

No comments are necessary. When a capitalist news sheet considers the socialists on an equal plane with democratic and republican politicians and strikebreakers, all we can say is that at least the socialists are in the right company. Is any more proof of what

CHICAGO WORKER CORRESPONDENCE CLASS GETS DOWN TO WORK THIS FRIDAY, DON'T FAIL TO ATTEND!

Workers who desire to enter the Chicago class in Worker Correspondence, and who did not attend the first meeting last Friday, are urged to attend this Friday night without fail at the editorial rooms of The DAILY WORKER, 1113 W. Washington Blvd., third floor. The class starts at 8 o'clock and all are urged to be prompt so that no time will be lost.

Actual work in the class will start this Friday. At the first meeting the program of the class was discussed, but no study was done, so those that did not attend should not feel they have missed out on anything and therefore feel hesitant about coming this Friday. But everyone should come on Friday prepared to do some real work.

Bring Small Note-Book.

Members are asked to bring with them a small note-book, the size that will fit conveniently in their pockets. This will aid them in the work that is planned.

The main purpose of this class is to train the workers to write. And for that reason, practical experience will be given the members. The class will be conducted on a question and answer basis. Everyone will take part in the discussion. It is felt that more will be gained in the class in this way, than if lectures alone are given. Examples of work done by worker correspondents will be criticised in the class as a means of emphasizing good points and bad points in writing.

No Homework.

There will be no home work for the members to do, so that those who would be unable to find time to do spy work outside the class will not lose out in any of the work.

The class will meet every Friday night. Keep that date open!

N. Y. BOXMAKERS UNION CARRYING ON GOOD FIGHT

Police Recruit Scabs and Abuse Pickets

By ROLAND A. GIBSON.
(Worker Correspondent)

NEW YORK CITY, Oct. 31.—The strike of the paper box workers is now in its fourth week. The union is holding enthusiastic mass meetings every afternoon in the Church of All Nations, 9 Second Avenue, and the workers are picketing the shops daily.

The pickets are meeting greater opposition from the police than at any time since the strike began. Monday two pickets were brutally assaulted while they were peacefully picketing. When they were taken to court and testified that they had been molested by the police, the judge added insult to injury by fining each of them $5.

Police Help Bosses.

One of them, Morris Wray charges that one officer spit in his face and called him names while he was being detained in the Mercer St. police station. The officers who attacked and arrested them have made a large number of similar arrests since the strike began.

The police are also recruiting workers for the employers. The secretary of the union has observed cops on Wooster street asking workers if they wanted jobs.

Fail to Get Negroes to Scab.

The employers are endeavoring to bring in colored scabs to break the strike. A scab agency at 799 Broad way is handling this work for them. This agency has advertised in the papers for colored girls to "learn a well paying trade, $18 and $20 while learning." The victims do not know that if the strike is broken their wages will be forced down to the level that their fellow-workers will get if the union wins.

Very few of these scabs work long, however. When informed that there is a strike on and that the union does not discriminate against Negroes, most of them are willing to quit and look for work elsewhere. Frank Crosswaithe, special organizer for the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, addressed the strikers on this matter at Wednesday's mass meeting.

The union is now demonstrating its attack upon the shops that make up the Paper Box Manufacturers Association. This association is bent on breaking the union. The union's answer is a fight to the finish. Support is coming in from other unions, sollidarity is being made every day or two, and the union looks for an early break in the ranks of the employers.

Milwaukee Council Honors Debs, Lauds Labor Defense Work

By a Worker Correspondent.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Oct. 31.—At the last meeting of the Federated Trades Council here the delegates rose to their feet and stood in silence one minute in tribute to Eugene V. Debs.

At the meeting one of the delegates mentioned the fact that to pay tribute to Debs we would have to keep up his spirit toward saving the political prisoners freed, and that one of the latest activities of Debs was his work in the International Labor Defense, of which he was a committeeman.

INJUNCTION TO FORE IN OPEN SHOP CAMPAIGN

Cleveland Unions in a Serious Situation

By a Worker Correspondent

CLEVELAND, Oct. 31.—Another step in the fight of the open shoppers against the building trades of this city was taken when non-union painters and glaziers filed a petition for an injunction restraining the union men from interfering with the scabs in fulfilling their agreement with the contractors.

Last week, the contracters sought an injunction preventing the union leaders from calling the men off the job. Cited for contempt, the leaders declared that they had not ordered the men off the job and therefore could not order them back. These cases are pending and will be heard before the court of appeals. It affects the building work on the Ohio Bell Telephone building, on which 600 men are working.

Import Judges.

Three judges have been brought in to the city from out of town. The petition of the scab painters and glaziers will be heard by Judge Wenger, a brother of the federal court, the persons cited being the president of the Cleveland Federation of Labor and the officials of thirteen building trades locals.

Things have not stepped there. Men working on the old First National Bank building also went out on strike when two non-union painters were working on the job. At first the police allowed a large number of pickets, but finally they decided that no more than two could be allowed. Deputy sheriffs and police squads are guarding the place.

Serious Situation.

This is a serious situation for the building trades. Not by little the open shoppers, the chamber of commerce and the citizens' league are putting the foundation from under the unions. The unions, pretending to have unusual strength, are allowing this process to continue, evidently trusting to the courts to vindicate them.

The situation is very threatening. The open shoppers are clearly preparing for the fight in spring, and are doing everything in their power, both legal and extra-legal, to break down the unions. The unions, on the other hand, continue in their disorganized condition. The two building trades councils still hold away.

The first step, therefore, is for the rank and file not to let any obstacle remain in the way of merging the two councils. Neither persons nor things should be permitted to keep the workers in the two councils apart. There must be unity or the workers will face the fight against the bosses divided. The fight will be sharp, for the Cleveland open shoppers are determined to follow the way of the Detroiters, and obtain and maintain the open shop.

Company Union In Passaic Denounced by Union President

PASSAIC, N. J., Oct. 31.—Thomas McMahon, president of the United Textile Workers of America, denounced the company union as it exists in the textile mills of the Passaic district, at a mass meeting of strikers held in Belmont Park. He urged the workers to continue their fight against this menace until they were victorious.

"We have no use for company unions," said Mr. McMahon. "We must win recognition of our own union, the United Textile Workers of America, which has fought the battle of the workers for 41 years.

A NEW NOVEL OIL By Upton Sinclair

[Copyright, 1926, by Upton Sinclair]

X

Then one evening there was something in a magazine that Bunny wanted to read, and towards midnight he slipped away to his own cabin, and settled himself in his gold-plated bed, with hand-embroidered pink silk pillows, and a gold-plated or possibly solid gold lamp-shade at his head, and presently was far away—in Russia seeing the famine stragglers dying by the roadside, or maybe in Hungary, where they were putting down the social revolution by the simple plan of slaughtering everybody who believed in it; using, as always, machine-gun bullets made in American steel mills, and purchased with an American loan. Bunny was so much absorbed in these unhappy far-off things, that he did not hear the door of his cabin very softly opened, nor the key very gently turned on the inside. The first thing he noticed was the faint elusive sweet odor, and he gazed upon a vision standing by his bedside, clad in a purple kimono with huge red hibiscus flowers. The vision looked timorous, and had its two hands clasped in front of it, and it whispered in a voice he could hardly hear, "Bunny, may I talk to you a little?"

Of course Bunny had to say that it might, and the vision sank down on its knees by the bed, and gently one of the soft hands touched his, and the soft voice trembled, "Bunny, I'm so lonely and so unhappy! I don't know if you can understand what it means to a woman to be so lonely, but you are the first man I've wanted to trust for a long, long time. I know I shouldn't come like this but I have to tell you and why shouldn't men and women be frank with each other?"

Bunny didn't know any reason why they shouldn't and so they were. The substance of the frankness was that the dream of love had stirred once more in the soul of a woman who was utterly bewildered about life. He must not think that she was shallow or light, she had never done anything like this before and it was honest—the tears came into her eyes as she said it, and oh, please, please not to despise her, she wanted to be happy and there were so few people you could love. "Bunny, tell me, are you in love with any other woman?"

It might have been a kindness to tell her that he was; but this was his first adventure of the sort, and he told the truth, and it was like sunlight after an April shower, as the smile shone through her tears. There was a little catch in her voice, as she whispered, "I'm being silly, the tears will come, and they make a woman look so ugly, let me put out the light." So she pulled the little golden chain, and was no longer the least bit ugly, but only sweet-smelling, as she clung to his hand with her two hands and whispered, "Bunny, do you think you could love me just a little?"

He had to say it, somehow or other. "Mrs. Norman," he began—but she stopped him: "Thelma." He stammered, "Thelma—I hadn't thought—"

"I know, Bunny, I'm older than you; but look at these flappers, how empty their heads are! And believe me, I really do care for you, I would do anything for you, give you anything you wanted."

Bunny learned something from this incident. He knew that he had only to stretch out his arms and take her; and he knew what to do—Eunice Hoyt had taught him how to love a woman. He could have swept her into ecstacy and from that hour forth she would have been his slave, he could have had everything she owned; he might have mistreated her, used her money to keep other women, but still she would have been his slave. So now he could understand things that went on under his eyes, in this world that was a gambler's paradise. There were men who would not share Bunny's lofty indifference to luxury and power, but would go in deliberately to seduce Dame Fortune, turning their bodily charms and social graces into weapons of prey—there were many dames for them, lounge lizards, parlor snakes, tame cats, Romeos, sheiks. How many years had old August Norman slaved to build a great steel plant and a seagoing mansion in the ocean, and a ten times bigger one on the shore; and here all these treasures were magically incorporated in one feminine body, clad in—well, the kimono had slid off and there was a night dress so flimsy that it was nothing, and a faint sweet odor, and a pair of soft caressing arms, and lips pressing hot, moist kisses. "Bunny," whispered the voice, "I would marry you if you wanted me to. I would give you everything you asked for."

Bunny had learned from Eunice that when you are disposed to love, the lips can be seductive; he now learned from Mrs. Thelma—that when you are not so disposed, they are repellent. "You know," Thelma," he pleaded, "I don't happen to need anything."

"I know, and I'm a horrid vulgar thing. But I'm trying in my poor blundering way to make you understand that I do care for you, and you mustn't think ill of me!"

That gave him his lead, and he explained to her that he would never think ill of her; but he did not love her, he had thought of her as a friend. And so gradually her clasp relaxed, and she be sure to loathe her, he would never want to see her again. If there was no reason to quarrel because you did not happen to love. She was so abject, he was sorry for her, and he put out his hand to comfort her; but he saw at once that this would not do, she had caught his hand and was kissing it, and he was being tempted by his sympathy. Away back in the eighteenth century, one of the English poets had announced the discovery that pity moves the soul to love.

"Greeks" Bearing Gifts

It is always wise to look a gift horse in the mouth, the one should not trust his nose to such an animal. Not that a gift horse should be turned down. He might be boiled for glycerine.

According to news reports tucked away in inconspicuous corners of the capitalist press open shop coal operators are boasting of boosting the wages of their employes from 20 to 30 per cent. It seems as if there is a concerted plan on the part of the operators to make a gesture, calculated to convince the miners that a union is supers fluous.

Either the operators granted those wage increases thru fear of a revolt of their employes or they are doing it in order to forestall a campaign to organize their slaves into the United Mine Workers of America. Very likely the latter reason.

Just now there is great demand for American coal, chiefly because of the British coal strike. The operators can make enormous profits provided the coal diggers do not take advantage of the situation and demand a reasonable wage. But just as soon as the rush is over there is nothing to stop the coal barons from reducing the wages to the former level or lower. Nothing, except a union.

The operators are well aware of the fact that there is an election campaign on in the U. M. W. of A. with the Lewis machine fighting for its life. One of the slogans of the opposition to the Lewis machine is the organization of the unorganized. The operators do not fear an organization campaign so long as Lewis is in the saddle. But if the John Brophy ticket wins, an organization campaign is promised that aims to bring every miner in the United States into the union.

This is what the coal magnates are afraid of. And it is chiefly because of this fear that they are making this gesture to their non-union employes.

CAPTURED YAQUIS TO BE SENT TO ISLANDS AS LIFE PRISONERS

(Special to The Daily Worker)

NOGALES, Ariz., Oct. 29.—Three hundred and fifty men, women and children of the rebellious Yaqui tribe surrendered unconditionally to troops commanded by Col. Rafael Buelna at Nagoli, Sonora, according to advices reaching here thru Mexican military channels.

The Indian band, according to reports, was surprised by a troop of 75 soldiers and surrendered after only a few shots had been fired.

Due to the fact the Indians surrendered passively, officials declared the prisoners would not be killed, altho they will probably be taken to the felon colony on the Tres Marias Islands, from which no one returns.

The surrendering Yaquis were identified as a portion of the war party of Chief Juan Rivera, which has split into groups since his death in a battle at Oros recently.

Urges More Aid for Passaic Strike In Speech Over Radio

A strong plea for a continued flow of money to Passaic to bolster up the strikers in the fight against the company union, wage cuts, and police clubs was made by Rebecca Grecht, field organizer of the General Relief Committee of Textile Strikers, in a speech broadcast over the Chicago Federation of Labor radio station, WCFL.

Organizer Grecht told her "invisible audience" of the nine-months long struggle of 16,000 heroic striking textile workers against wage cuts, starvation wages, and the stubborn anti-union attitude of the textile bosses. She described the outrages against the workers, and explained the relief activities planned to relieve suffering.

Cultural Work in Unions.

Twenty-five speakers participated in the debate on Tomsky's report. The main subject discussed was the question of co-operation between those directing state enterprises and trade unionists in directing production and solving labor questions. Speakers also stressed the importance of cultural work in the trade unions.

Losevsky dwelt on the big tasks confronting the Proletkern in tearing away the labor masses from the influence of Amsterdam, to combat the efforts of the capitalists to sell the "American method" to the European workers.

Won by Soviet Spirit.

The European labor masses must be won by the spirit of the Soviet trade unions rather than by the spirit of the American trade union bureaucracy. In his concluding speech Tomsky declared: "Numerous speakers touched several questions on practical trade union work. These questions will come up at the coming trade union congress. Complex questions of industry and transportation are very difficult the tasks of Soviet administration and Soviet enterprises.

Trade Union Support.

"I can state that excellent support was given the administration by trade unionists on questions of organization and direction of production. There is an improvement in the standard of living of the workers and their cultural level has been raised. This calls forth a growing aspiration on the part of broad masses of workers to actively participate in socialist economic reconstruction. Organization of such mass initiative will be promoted by proposed workers' control commissions to industry according to Lenin's teaching, that ever broader proletarian masses should be drawn into state and economic reconstruction.

"The interests of young workers should be defended by trade unions and close co-operation should be established with the Communist Youth. Trade unions must increase the attention paid to the general education of the youth." After concluding his speech which was often interrupted by applause, the conference unanimously adopted Tomsky's theses.

Help For British Miners.

In an appeal to all working class organizations the Presidium points out that the British miners' struggle, which has already lasted six months with great stubbornness and pluck on the part of the strikers, has set a splendid example in the way to fight for working class interests. International organizations, such as the Amsterdam International and the Miners' International with which the miners are affiliated, completely betrayed them. The Red International of Labor Unions, the Miners' International Propaganda Committee and firstly their Soviet sections, named those organizations with which the British miners are not affiliated, fulfilled and are fulfilling to the end their class duty.

Victory for the miners is still possible if relief on a broad scale is intensified. No more important task exists than to help the British miners who the exhausted are yet struggling.

Union Membership Is Growing Says Tomsky

MOSCOW, Oct. 31.—This morning's session of the fifteenth conference of the All-Union Communist Party ended with the debate on Alexie Rykov's report in which forty-eight delegates took part. After the concluding speech the conference unanimously approved the theses presented by Rykoff.

The conference then heard a report by Tomsky on the activity in the labor unions and the immediate tasks in that field and then proceeded to a discussion. During the evening sessions the debates continued.

In the morning session on October 29 Rykoff, concluding speech pointed out that the practical proposals made by many speakers deserve consideration. Rykov declared that a comparison between the accumulation and expansion of the fundamental industrial capital of the Soviet Union and of the foreign capitalist states leads to the conclusion that our development is twice as rapid as abroad, except America.

A rational direction is necessary to ensure the continuance of such development. The greatest attention must be paid to the industrialization of each separate region of the U. S. S. R. The characteristic feature of the debates was the absence of parallel separate platforms on economic questions.

After their recent activities the opposition should have given here from the tribune the reasons for their separating themselves from the party. This was all the more necessary because the platform of the opposition is not only erroneous and inadmissible on principle but also demagogic and therefore dangerous for the party. The acceptance of the opportunist platform of the opposition would mean the rupture of the alliance between the workers and the peasants. The opposition ought to have declared at the conference if it intends to uphold or to drop that platform. The conference adopted in principle Rykoff's theses and named a committee for final editing.

Union Membership Grows.

Reporting on work in the trade unions Tomsky, with figures at hand, refuted the assertions of the opposition about the decline in the number of organized workers in the Soviet Union and the immense increase of non-proletarian elements in the Soviet apparatus. The total of organized workers was 8,768,200 as against 6,950,400 last year. The number of shop committees increased during the year from thirty to fifty-six thousand. The figures show in the clearest way the leading role of the proletariat in the trade unions and in the Soviet national economy and belie the assertions of the opposition about the character of the state apparatus of the U. S. S. R.

Mere Active.

In general, the workers have certainly been more active of late in the unions. The unions are stronger organizationally and financially. In the future the trade unions must pay more attention to the everyday matters in the worker's life. Referring to the Anglo-Russian Committee, Tomsky emphasized that the views of the opposition demanding the rupture of the committee were entirely wrong, pointing out that this would lead to masses of the revolutionary workers leaving the trade unions. The active support of foreign workers who are struggling against capitalism remains as ever one of the main tasks of the Soviet trade unions.

Barrymores. He grouched and growled this one of the biggest pieces of bukum that ever aroused thru. The only saving grace of the picture was that the scene was laid in Belgium and it was a pleasure to watch the guiltless air with which the simple folks sampled the juice of the grape. It was a story of a big-hearted business man who gave credit until it hurt so badly that the inevitable villain who had loaned him money threatened to squeeze him

NEVERTHELESS the general business man threw a little party it was a wild night outside. The snow fell and the wind carried thru the trees. As in the shooting of Dan McGrew, the dice rattled, opened and a fur-coated Polish Jew walked in. Christian crowds over him but the good-natured man made him be seated and regaled him with his best wine. I expected there would be dirty work at the crossroads. And there was. While the Jew was putting on his coat about to leave his host noticed a money belt around his waist. The simple-minded Jewish banker told him it was full of shining gold.

I felt right then that this Jew would never see Warsaw again. And he didn't. The generous man killed him and took the dough. Barrymore can write the thru a picture better than anybody I know of, and he made it quite clear that it does not pay to steal or even to kill. But what got my goat was that this murderer and robber, after carrying his daughter character of the state apparatus of to the altar of the Christ-ers, and nine, finally threw a fit, in the midst of which appeared the shadow of his victim. "I have suffered enough, I have repented," moaned the murderer. "Peace be to you," replied the shade of his victim. That was the end of it. I concluded that it is no safe to commit murder in Russia as in Chicago, provided you get your victim's money.

the supreme court of the United States; James F. Dunne, class war prisoner and executive secretary of the I. L. D. George Maurer, secretary of local Chicago of the I. L. D., was chairman of the meeting.

Tone of Speeches.

All the speakers dwelt on Debs' great contribution to the workingclass movement in America. The tone of the speeches was in sharp contrast to the sentimental slobbering of the socialist lawyers and ministers that officiated at the burial services in Terre Haute. Each speaker said something of the great battles that Debs fought on the industrial battlefields of America and pointed out that great as his love for the workingclass was, he lacerated the misleaders of labor with as bitter a tongue as ever coiled itself around the English language.

Challenge to Militarists.

C. E. Ruthenberg, the last speaker, told of Debs' challenge to the warcrazy imperialists of the United States in his historic Canton speech, which was delivered across from the workhouse where Ruthenberg was serving a year's term for mobilizing the workers of Ohio against the war.

Debs went down the line for his principles.

Debs was always on the side of those elements in the socialist party that were in favor of waging the class struggle militantly, as against the reformists. Ruthenberg read several excerpts from Debs' speeches and letters in proof of his contention.

Visited Debs in Prison.

After Ruthenberg was released from Sing Sing prison he visited Debs in Atlanta and explained to him the differences of opinion over policy that brought about the split in the socialist party. While Debs was in sympathy with the position of the Communists, there was one point that he could not agree to and that was the Communist position that a dictatorship of the workers was necessary during the transition period between capitalism and communism. Debs was always for the overthrow of capitalism, rule and establishment of a Communist society.

After the meeting James P. Cannon left for Detroit where a great Debs Memorial Meeting under the auspices of the I. L. D was to be held yesterday with prominent leaders of the Detroit Federation of Labor scheduled to speak with Comrade Cannon.

Debs Memorial Meet In Buffalo to Show Frame-up Protests

BUFFALO, N. Y., Oct. 29.—At the time when the capitalist courts have taken a vicious slap at the cause of the working-class prisoners by denying Sacco and Vanzetti the right to a new trial, it is expected that all workers and sympathizers with the labor movement will take every opportunity to show their opposition to the capitalist frame-up system and their solidarity with International Labor Defense, the organization which fights this menace. When one of the great leaders of the workers dies it becomes doubly necessary to demonstrate.

The workers of Buffalo have arranged such a demonstration in the form of a Gene Debs memorial meeting, which is to be held on Friday, November 2, at 8 p. m. in the Elmwood Music Hall.

Representatives of all elements in the radical and liberal movements are to speak.

The main speaker will be James P. Cannon, national secretary of the International Labor Defense. Eustace Reynolds, well-known radical attorney; Rev. Hahn, liberal pastor of the Salem Evangelical Church, and Herbert Benjamin, of the Workers (Communist) Party, will also speak.

It is expected that all Buffalo workers will attend, not only to pay respect to the memory of a great working-class leader, but also to perpetuate his spirit in the unceasing fight to defend the victims of capitalist frame-ups and class injustice.

STRIKE STRATEGY

By WILLIAM Z. FOSTER

ARTICLE III

CRAFT AND INDUSTRIAL STRIKES.

A major consideration of strike strategy is the broadening out of strikes and trade unions from the traditional craft basis to that of industry. Even as the ideological conceptions of the workers must be raised from the purely economic and opportunistic to the political and revolutionary, so must their organizations and struggle be expanded.

Craft unionism and craft strikes can no longer cope with American capitalism. The workers' fighting front must be broadened out to that of the industry or of whole groups of industries. Such a situation as that in the railroad shop mechanics' strike of 1922 when nine of the sixteen railroad craft unions stayed at work and helped to break the strike of the seven which struck, is a crime against the working class.

In the competitive state of industry the workers can and do use the craft strike effectively, at least so far as the skilled trades are concerned. But with the concentration of capital, the centralization of industry, and the elimination of skill, craft strikes become obsolete, even to protect the interests of the skilled workers. The question of organization by industry, which is emphasized by the growing demand of the unskilled unorganized for labor unions, becomes a burning necessity for skilled as well as unskilled. In American industry the craft strike is almost obsolete.

In the clothing trades, which are still competitive, and in localized trades such as building and printing, where the fact that all or most of the work has to be done on the spot gives the unions a special advantage, the craft strike still lingers and has some effect. But even in these industries it is fast becoming useless. In the big, highly organized industries it is almost a thing of the past.

The modern, effective type of strike is the national industrial strike. Even the conservative trade union leaders are forced to recognize this at least partially and they adopt some sort of an industrial organizational front by patching up various types of federation. Recent examples of national industrial strikes are those of the steel workers in 1919, the coal miners in 1920 and 1922, and the packing house workers in 1921. Many of the railroad strikes and wage movements show the same tendency.

Such wide struggles supersede the narrow, localized strikes which were formerly the type in these industries. The tendency is to counter the growing power of the employers in all the industries by involving greater numbers of workers of the most varied trades and callings in single actions against the employers.

The left wing organized in and around the T. U. E. L., must intensify this broadening out tendency, which is now being checked by the reactionary trade union leaders with their program of class collaboration and no fight against the employers. An important point in our strike strategy must be the elimination of the craft strike and the development of the national industrial strike.

This requires a corresponding broadening out of the workers' unions from a craft to an industrial basis and the mobilization of the unorganized millions into the trade unions. The realization of the two left wing slogans, "Amalgamation" and "Organize the Unorganized" is a vital pre-requisite for a successful strike strategy under present day conditions in the United States.

UNITING THE WORKERS' FORCES.

A FIRST consideration in strike strategy is the development of unity and solidarity among the workers involved in a given action against the employers. Potentially the workers constitute a tremendous force. The 26,000,000 or more organizable workers, when once united, will be irresistible. They will eventually sweep away the capitalist system.

But the obstacles to this unity are many and deep seated. It is more than a problem of simply bringing the masses into the unions and strikes. There are fundamental divisions in the ranks of the workers themselves that have to be overcome. The working class is far from being a homogeneous mass. It is divided against itself in regard to race, nationality, color, creed, age, sex, skill, etc.

The differences among the workers in these matters are of themselves great obstacles to the complete unification of the working class in its struggles against the employers. But the problem is still further complicated and rendered more difficult because the employers have learned skillfully to play upon these differences and to split up the workers disastrously on the basis of them.

Moreover, the employers are ably assisted in this policy by the reactionary trade union bureaucracy, who divide the workers' ranks by cultivating craft interests, betraying the unskilled, playing one nationality off against another, excluding from the unions Negroes, young workers, and women, etc. All these tendencies are fatal to success in strikes.

Our strike strategy must be skilled in checking and counteracting all such splitting tendencies and in uniting the workers, in spite of race, creed, color, nationality, skill, etc., into one unbreakable proletarian mass. To do this we must, briefly stated, have a three-phased policy, as follows:

(1) Education; we must carry on an intensive educational propaganda among the strikers or prospective strikers to acquaint and convince them of their common interests and to infuse them with a fighting solidarity against the employers. (2) Organization; we must insist upon a labor organization broad enough to take into its folds all the various working class elements involved in the struggle. (3) We must have a policy in the struggle which protects the interests of all these elements and which does not allow of any of them being sacrificed for the benefit of the others.

SKILLED AND UNSKILLED.

Employers are widely awake to the tremendous advantage to them of playing off the skilled workers against the unskilled. Especially during these days of a flourishing American Imperialism, when they are flush with super profits wrung from exploited peoples all over the world, are they able and willing to bribe the skilled workers with a few concessions in order to have them betray the unskilled.

The reactionary labor leaders are willing tools in furthering this employer strategy. Indeed, their traditional policy is to support the interests of the skilled labor aristocracy at the expense of the great masses of unskilled. This is their program before, during, and after strikes. They refuse to organize the unskilled; they refuse to support their demands in strikes; they systematically sell them out at the settlement conference table to the advantage of the skilled workers. Such an organized system of betrayal is the very essence of craft unionism.

This betrayal of the unskilled by the skilled (and of one group of skilled workers by another) is an ever present and menacing danger at all stages of a strike struggle. It must be combatted by applying the above-stated three phased policy of education, organization, and a defense of common interests.

The skilled workers must be taught the utter folly of their short-sighted policy, for the history of the American labor movement goes to show that this policy in the long run also sacrifices the interests of the skilled workers. They must be shown their identity of interests with the unskilled. The masses of unskilled must be brought into the unions in spite of the opposition of the right wing bureaucrats.

The demands of the strikers must fit the needs of all groups, and they must be adhered to at all costs. Uniting the skilled and unskilled workers, under present conditions in American industry, into an unbreakable unit of strikers is one of the greatest tasks of any strike strategy. But it must and can be accomplished by systematic application of the foregoing principles.

Labor Rejects Both Walsh and Nash

union manager and Wm. Green, president of the A. F. of L., with the endorsement of its executive council, circulating every local and central body in the state, in behalf of Walsh, and in a supposedly anti-Butler campaign.

Evenly Divided.

The refusal of the central labor bodies to endorse Walsh was by a line with the action taken by the federated convention of the Massachusetts state branch of the A. F. of L., which refused to endorse either Coolidge's Butler or millionaire Gardner's Walsh.

This refusal was not due to the progressiveness of the convention, but to the fact that both the Butlerites and the Walsh men were pretty evenly divided, with the Butler strength coming from the building trades unions who were fearful of "republican revenge" at the hands of the republican municipal and state politicians who are now in the saddle, and from the street carmens' unions who always have a big delegation at conventions, and who lick the boots of Butler, who besides owning textile mills, is heavily interested in street railway systems.

Convoy a Progressive.

The state branch executive committee of the A. F. of L. with the exception of the progressive Tom Conroy of Worcester, is dominated by Walsh men, and despite explicit instructions by the convention and by their own vote of several weeks ago, the resolution stating that the state convention does not endorse either candidate, and urging organized labor to refrain from endorsing either candidate, has not as yet been sent out to all the local unions—and the campaign is almost over. The withholding of the resolution is obviously a piece of work calculated to aid Walsh.

So alarmed are the Walsh labor skates over the rejection of their man, that John Kearney, Walsh's labor manager has decided to tour the state, speaking before the central labor unions that have rejected his candidate. In his talk before the Worcester C. L. U., Kearney cleverly failed to mention that about 15 injunctions were served against labor while Walsh was governor of Massachusetts. He failed to mention Col. Garret's millions behind Walsh, or that Walsh is the president of one bank and director of another and corporation counsel for the Boston and Maine railroad, etc.

Kearney, who is chairman of the Boston C. L. U. non-partisan campaign committee, is himself a democrat and his position as Walsh's manager is sufficient proof that these so-called non-partisan committees are simply auxiliaries to the democratic political machine, who utilized these labor committees like the janitor does a mop which he discards when worn.

Jack Walsh of the Railroad Shop men took the floor to tell of his experience as candidate for mayor on the democratic ticket. The republican democratic boss managed the campaign and had all the saying, while the local labor movement was used as sucker in furnishing the candidate and the money as well as the votes, while the regular democratic voters openly declared they would rather vote for republican candidate for mayor or scratch their ballots rather than vote for a labor man.

Shameful Ways.

Despite such shameful betrayals we witness the same treachery going on in this state. John Jerry Hodgson, ex-legislative agent for the Massachusetts State Federation of Labor, who in the course of his duties, time and again argued, debated and fought against William M. Butler before hearings, in committee rooms and elsewhere at the state house when Butler was a member of the Massachusetts legislature, is now stumping the state in behalf of his erstwhile enemy, Wm. M. Butler. But Kearney and the rest of his tribe who are boosting Walsh, are not doing it for love or in the interests of the labor movement, either.

In a scathing denunciation of Kearney and the rest of the labor fakers who sell themselves and bind the labor movement to the chariots of the capitalist political parties, William Haskings, eulogized Eugene V. Debs and contrasted Debs with the so-called labor leaders who sell themselves for a mess of pottage to the capitalist class. But the most militant and class conscious note was sounded in the speech of Secretary Thomas F. Conroy who finished by demanding that labor cease being the tail to capitalism's political kite and organize a labor party.

Ignore Organizing Textile Workers.

With conditions in the textile industry in Massachusetts in a most deplorable state, and the textile workers unorganized and disunited, the United Textile Workers' union, instead of sending an army of organizers into the state for the purpose of organizing the exploited textile workers, sends into Massachusetts five organizers to boost the Walsh campaign. These organizers of the U. T. W. are going to remain here only for campaign purposes and leave the state upon the conclusion of the campaign.

Violent Earthquake Recorded.

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 1.—An earthquake of "violent proportions" was recorded on the seismograph at St. Louis University last night, Father McElwane, seismologist, reported today. The tremor lasted 45 minutes, starting at 7:45 p. m. and ending at 8:30 p. m. The distance was estimated at 5,100 miles in a non-westerly direction, which would place its center of the west of British Columbia.

...AND IN ... CRIMINAL COURT

Rev. Norris Up Before ... on Arson Charges

CRIMINAL COURTROOM, Ill., Nov. 1.—Rev. J. Frank Norris, Fort Worth, Texas, Baptist pastor, charged with the murder of Chipps, millionaire oilman and prominent church member here, continued to put on trial "testimony" for his killing of D. E. Chipps, July 21, 1926.

J. Frank Norris, pastor of the First Baptist Church here, completed a bomb in the prosecution's case today by asking for a change of venue. But as a climax to a sensational day, took the prosecution off its feet.

Norris is charged by indictment with having murdered Chipps July 17 in the church study.

Norris Noted Gunman.

Today is not the first experience of Rev. Norris in a courtroom, or the Chipps killing not the first time he has been known to use a gun.

In 1913 he was accused of arson in the burning of his home. Later he was indicted on charges of burning his church. He also was accused of perjury in connection before a grand jury which investigated the home burning. He was acquitted on the perjury case on an instructed verdict, and was acquitted on one of the arson charges. The other was dismissed for insufficient evidence.

Stopped Preacher's Fine.

Several years ago Rev. Norris had some trouble with the late Bob Poe, veteran Fort Worth constable. Poe met the preacher on the street one day and slapped his face.

Norris pulled a gun and marched the constable to the church, where he kept him prisoner for some time, during which he talked matters over with Poe. At one time, also, he was shot by a castle rustler who attacked his father.

Rev. Norris repeatedly has told of the necessity of, his having to have gunmen to protect him.

Reports the Story of White Terror Rule in Queen Marie's Land

hours later, they demanded the addresses of my friends and, when I refused to give them, the beating with the rubber clubs was resumed. My hands were placed in iron clamps and burned with red hot irons and then the clamps were screwed into my hands until I fainted. I was thrown into a dungeon until the following morning."

Only Part of Story.

The Daily News correspondent also mentions the case of Pavel Tkatchenko who was assassinated while being transferred from one prison to another, details of which have been previously reported in The DAILY WORKER. These two typical cases mentioned by the Daily News are but an infinitesimal part of the Roumanian terror that has been responsible for the murder of not hundreds, but thousands of workers and peasants and that, at the time Queen Marie is making her triumphal and loan procuring tour of the United States, holds no less than 3,500 political prisoners in the jails of that sorry country.

Railroad and Flour Kings Fete Marie.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Nov. 1.—The railroad and flour magnates of the Twin Cities are having the time of their aristocratic lives being host to a real queen. At a luncheon today in St. Paul at the home of Louis Hill, son of the "Empire Builder," James Hill, the Washburns, Crosbys, Pillsburys and the whole family of northwestern capitalist wheat and railroad kings and queens were duly staggered by the queen's crown jewels displayed at table and drank a toast to King Ferdinand prior to a toast for their own Cal Coolidge.

The queen is officially the guest of Samuel Hill, former president of the Great Northern and a member of the Hill family. It is at his expense that Marie has been furnished with her luxurious special train and due to his influence that the train is carried over the various railroad lines at the nominal cost of $1.00 a road. The royal lady leaves for North Dakota where she will "study the lives of the farmers" by having a couple board her train here and there and talk about chickens and wheat.

Civil Liberties to Aid Injunction Fight of N. Y. Cloakmakers

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—If improvement is not marked on the picket lines of the striking New York cloakmakers after the mass protest meeting of the American Civil Liberties Union the organization announces it will conduct a picketing demonstration to bring a test case under the injunction into court. Wickoff H. Pitkin, New York attorney with the union, states that police evade the injunction issue by arresting pickets for disorderly conduct, not contempt of court. He charges that the injunction is a strike breaking weapon and has led to slugging. Pitkin is almost outlawed among the employers and Police Commissioner Enright.

Battle Many Obstacles in Struggle for Labor Unity in the Pacific

By J. LOUIS ENGDAHL.

GREAT obstacles and difficulties confront the militant labor movement which will hold a Pan-Pacific Trade Union Conference at Canton, China, May 1, 1927.

With the least of these is the color question, that must be overcome in order to bring together the white, brown and yellow workers of the nations bordering the world's greatest ocean.

That this issue must be fought out before any successful conference can be held was seen in the attitude of some sections of the Japanese labor movement, objecting to the gathering being held at the capital of the revolutionary government of South China.

Delegate J. S. Gordon, of the New South Wales Labor Council, reporting as secretary of the Third All-Australian Trade Union Congress, declared that the majority of invitations forwarded by the Australians to the Japanese workers' organizations had been returned. The Japanese government announced to the Australian labor officials that it refused to deliver them. The invitations were addressed mostly to the Japanese Rodo Kumiai Hyogikai (generally called Hyogikai). The labor organizations affiliated with this central body total 46 unions, having an estimated membership of about 30,000.

It is pointed out that this section of the Japanese working class unites the "left" or revolutionary elements in the trade union movement of Japan. The vicious police regulations, brought into being under labor baiting laws adopted by Mikado rule, are so extreme that trade unions with the merest left wing tendencies, have to work and meet semi-illegally. This section, however, is expected to give its hearty support to the purpose of the Pan-Pacific Conference and every effort will no doubt be made to develop the closest possible contact with it.

The other section of the organized Japanese labor movement, termed the Rodo-to, under the leadership of Suzuki, somehow received the invitation of the Australian workers, but turned it down under the plea that the Australian trade unions believed in the White Australia policy. The trade union officials point out that this is the policy of the Labor Party, that this policy is not supported by the trade unions, and that this issue must not be raised as an obstacle to Pan-Pacific Trade Union Unity. This section of the Japanese labor movement has no doubt raise the same question against the American Federation of Labor, revealing the inevitable clash that will take place when labor elements in different countries acquiesce in the imperialist policies of their own capitalist governments.

Thus the young labor's battles on the battle ground of the Pacific.

It will be an eventful day in international labor history when worker representatives from Japan, Australia, China and the United States sit down in the same conference and talk over their problems as members of the world labor movement. It is hoped that that this day will be May 1, 1927, at Canton, China.

Labor in Java, a subject colony of Holland, has always been known for its militancy. While Holland is heralded as one of Europe's boasted capitalist "democracies," the imperialists of this puppet nation have drowned in blood the workers' movement in Java. It now leads an illegal existence similar to that of the Japanese labor movement.

The story is repeated almost in whole for India, where the ruthless measures adopted by the British government to crush the great strikes that have taken place in this colony of the crown have required the whole attention of India's militant working class.

Mexico pleads poverty. But it has answered the invitation of the Australian workers. The Mexican Miners' Union has also replied. They pledge co-operation to the full extent of their ability. The workers of Mexico can be depended on to push their officials into active participation in the effort to secure Pan-Pacific Trade Union Unity. The same may be said concerning at least some of the countries of Central and South America.

One of the great inspirations that will help insure the success of the gathering is the rapidly developing trade union movement of China.

It is recognized that it will be most difficult to get the American Federation of Labor into action. The A. F. of L. officialdom only enters where it hopes to dominate. The imperialist policies of the present A. F. of L. leadership will certainly receive short shrift in the proposed Canton conference. The policies of the Greens, the Wolls and the Duncans of labor, on the carpet and met in the saddle at Canton. This will be true whether regular delegates speaking for the A. F. of L. officialdom are present or not.

The Australian Trade Union Congress has undertaken a tremendous task. Workers everywhere, who seek to advance the interests of their class, will wish them every success in their drive for unity of the workers in the nations bordering the Pacific. This should include an increasing interest by workers in the United States of America anxious to give their support to this ambitious project.

DEFENDS LEGAL LIMITATION OF LAND HOLDINGS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—Refusal of the Filipinos thru their legislature at Manila to repeal the land laws, under which no more than 2,500 acres can be owned by any one individual or corporation, is defended by Vicente G. Bunuan, director of the Philippine Press Bureau in Washington, in a statement on the rubber situation.

He frankly says that the desire of American capitalists to exploit the rubber-producing possibilities of the Philippines is one of the chief obstacles to the granting of independence to his people.

The Filipino, says Bunuan, want to help the Americans to solve their rubber supply problem. But they know, as all other peoples know, that "that country is happiest and most peaceful which has its national wealth evenly distributed."

This policy "reflects the conservation era of America's history, and was implanted in the Philippines by congress itself when it passed the Philippine organic act of 1902, which contained provisions even more restrictive than those in the present law."

He points but that rubber can be grown successfully on tracts smaller than the present law allows, and that there is no reason why a rubber company should not secure supplies of raw material from owners of adjacent tracts, just as the sugar centrals buy millions of dollars' worth from sugar owners, under contract.

Finally, he quotes a resolution delivered to Carmi Thompson, investigator for President Coolidge, by the Philippine legislature, in which the Filipinos declare that only independence will give them the powers necessary to "change our economic position" to make easy the coming to the islands of foreign capital. They refuse to permit the ownership of vast tracts of land by aliens or by corporations in which aliens own a majority of the stock.

MINING BARON CALLS DEMOCRAT SENATOR CROOK

PHOENIX, Ariz., Nov. 1.—Uneasy stirrings were manifest in the democratic party today following the testimony of James S. Douglas, mining capitalist, that he had spent more than $50,000 in furthering the campaigns of democratic candidates.

The admissions were made by Douglas as he testified before the inquiry being conducted by Senator William King of Utah.

Douglas created a sensation when he called Senator Cameron a crook.

When Cameron protested to Senator King, Douglas advanced toward him, shaking his fist and berating Cameron for championing a copper tariff bill.

Douglas also testified he had spent probably $50,000 in supporting the unsuccessful primary candidacy of R. E. Ellingwood, mining corporation attorney, who was defeated by Governor Hunt for nomination.

LaFollette Issues Statement.

MADISON, Wis., Nov. 1.—U. S. Senator Robert M. LaFollette, Jr., and his brother, Philip, issued a statement today that they would not support any of the announced candidates for governor in tomorrow's election, but would write in their choice. Irvin L. Lenroot, campaign manager for the LaFollette ticket in the primary, who announced support for Charles B. Perry for governor, had no authority to speak for the organization, but only for himself, the statement added.

Another "Investigation."

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—The Interstate commerce commission today ordered an investigation of the proposal of the railroads for a general readjustment of freight rates on pig iron and articles taking the same rate, between points in Central Freight Association territory and points in Trunk line and New England territory.

coiling. It seems that those who were most active in putting over the dry amendment found remunerative positions enforcing the law. And they enforced it for a consideration. Our bone-dry senator pulled down the tidy sum of $25,000 for using his influence with the prohibition director to secure permits for wine dealers at so much per gallon. Those wine dealers had to be rabbis with congregations. But some of those rabbis born such Hebrew names as O'Toole and MacFiggis and got away with it because they handed out the coin.

THE scorn that was once reserved for the liquor dealer is now hurled at the Anti-Saloon League. It has come to the point now where a prohibitionist is looked on with as much suspicion as a Bolshevist in Turkey. At least I once heard a rationalist (who was everything but that) tell a story of a visitor to Turkey who, noticing that the Turks did not look their dirty enemies straight in the face, asked: "Don't you fear robbers?" he asked. "Why no," answered the Turk, "there is no need for taking such precautions. There is not a Christian within one hundred miles of here."

STILL it is funny to see George E. Brennan, waging his campaign from a hospital cot and waging it very well. George is no Apollo. He is the living personification of a wet barrel. Had George faced the voters, in all probability they would have turned around and voted for the Andy Gumpchinned Frank L. Smith. For men are not in style any more, and Brennan has more chins than you could count on the fingers of both hands. But the funniest thing about the bed sheet campaign is that (according to rumor) it was Brennan's wooden leg that got scratched. If that is the case and George is elected, there may be a plague of wooden-legged candidates in the next elections. Anyhow it is more pleasant to talk to the voters in your nightshirt that climb the front porch to get them.

THE queen of Roumania is out of luck in Canada. Even the coyotes of Manitoba do not howl for her. The reason is that Canada has seen everything in the aristocratic line from the prince of Wales to Lord Thomas, political secretary of the National Union of Railwaymen. If the queen wants to see human beings doing the snake act in earnest she had better come to Chicago quick. Our four hundred are ready to wiggle down Michigan boulevard on their bellies to show how low they consider themselves in the presence of a queen. Glorious democracy!

THE three readers of The DAILY WORKER who vowed they would read it no more because they thought we did not do the right thing by our Aimee, should repent of their hasty vows now. If anything ever hung by a hair it is the evangelist's reputation. The religious confidence woman Hed her way brazenly the not successfully thru a lengthy trial and as if her god was nodding when he should be watching over the fortunes of his child, a trunk load of wearing apparel that was toted around the country by her media management was seized. The Hearst press did not have so much fun since it ran the stories of "Peaches," one by and the other against "Daddy" Browning. They dished pictures of peaches and kimonas all over the papers. If there are any evangelists left that have not been caught in some morality actions let them come forward and adore themselves!

UNITED STATES PLOTS UPON NICARAGUA

Bosses Native Puppets and Bulldozes Nation

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Nov. 1.—So far as a formal victory goes, United States imperialism is elated at getting Emiliano Chamorro, the unpopular dictator of Nicaragua, to resign. Not because the U. S. didn't want him. On the contrary, he was their willing servant, and his resignation is only another evidence of it.

Resignation Only a Trick.

The revolt against Chamorro made his position untenable any longer. The U. S. sought to prevent the seating of the constitutional president, Bautista Sacasa, and "to save their own interests by going thru the pretense of an election to choose a new president."

The U. S. charge d'affaires, Lawrence Dennis, is, however, the one who is to name the new president, and although the election is not held yet, it is rumored that one of Chamorro's lieutenants, Adolfo Diaz, will be the new president.

U. S. Will Recognize Its Lackey.

Dennis also announces that the United States will recognize Diaz as soon as the "election," controlled by Chamorro's oppressive party, will be over. The election is for a second, and short, term of office.

What all this pretty scheme may be used if the liberal party revolution secures a victory in its armed struggle for power against government troops. Moreover, the United States has threatened to land a large force of marines to dominate the situation.

MARS SENDS 84 LIGHT FLASHES BY LONDON GAZERS

Attempt at Radio Talks With Martians Fails

LONDON, Nov. 1.—The planet of Mars today responded far distant and not much a mystery to the dwellers of the earth as ever. The attempts by professional and amateur astronomers of London to gain telescopic intelligence from the Martian life were successful as were the radio experiments.

Heavy clouds interfered with the activity of astronomical observers upon the roofs of London and other parts of England during the night. Some clearly markings on the surface of the distant planet were distinguished, but all lasting markings were indistinct or almost wholly invisible most of the time.

Radio Fails.

All efforts to catch radio signals from Mars apparently were unsuccessful, including those of Doctor Robinson, psychic expert who handed in a message, in what was supposed to be the Martian language, to a radio company for transmission to the planet. It evoked no reply. The message was sent out from the Rugby radio station over a wave length of 10,240 meters.

Spiritist Tries.

Doctor Robinson said he was very much disappointed that he had not received a reply from the Martians in answer to his message. "Last year I had radio communication with the planet," he said, "sending and receiving messages while I was in a trance. I understand the Martians' language, which is a language of the brain."

Dr. Robinson's message last night read: "Opseti nipitia secomba."

Planet Changed.

GENEVA, Nov. 1.—Astronomers report that the Mars of today is quite different from the Mars observed two years ago. Professor Schaer of the Jungfrau Joch Observatory reports that, "Mars is a changed planet and now presents a very luminous pale yellow disc with its equatorial continents a dark brown color while the polar cap, which was very small in August, has now nearly disappeared."

Copper Monopoly in Exports Asks to Be Exempt from U. S. Law

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—Papers have been filed by the Copper Exporters, Inc., of 25 Broadway, New York, with the federal trade commission for exemption from the anti-trust laws in the exporting of copper and copper products from the United States. This exemption is permitted under the Webb-Pomerene export trade act.

C. F. Kelley of Anaconda Copper is president of the new trust, whose stockholders or members are: American Smelting and Refining Co., Inspiration Consolidated Copper Co., Mother Lode Coalition Mines Co., Nevada Consolidated Copper Co., New Cornelia Copper Co., Utah Copper Co., Anaconda Copper Mining Co., American Metal Co., Ltd., Nichols Copper Co. and United Verde Copper Co.

This combination was created to maintain the high retail cost of copper in the United States by limiting the domestic supply thru systematic exportation of surplus for dumping on foreign markets.

Tokyo to Retaliate Against Unfriendly Foreign Countries

TOKIO, Japan, Nov. 1.—The Japanese government has announced that provided the anti-Japanese exclusion acts now in force against Japanese in many lands are not repealed in Japan, will go into effect on Nov. 15, it was decided by the cabinet.

The new law gives the government power to prohibit banking and other activities against Japanese nationals.

ALBERTA WHEAT POOL SHOWS AN EXCELLENT GAIN

Rapid Growth Shown in Members and Business

By SCOTT NEARING, Fed. Press.

WINNIPEG, Nov. 1. — Canadian wheat pool farmers have closed another banner season, during which the Central Selling Agency disposed of 190,000,000 bushels of wheat. The last dividend on the 1925 crop, which has just been paid, totaled $5,500,000 or 2¼ cents per bushel.

Get Good Prices.

Wheat pool members thus received, for the 1925 crop, an initial payment of $1, two additional payments of 30 cents each per bushel and the final payment, making a total for No. 1 northern wheat of $1.42½ per bushel. This is considered by the farmers an excellent return as the 1924 crop was a large one.

During the three years of their existence, the wheat pools have handled: 1923 crop, 34,000,000 bushels (the Alberta pool alone); 1924 crop, 81,500,000 bushels (Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba), and 190,000,000 bushels of the 1925 crop for the three provinces, or more than double the quantity handled in the previous year. Membership in the pools has increased from 79,700 in July, 1924, to 137,500 members in July, 1926.

Buy Elevators.

Last year the pools inaugurated the policy of securing elevators by the simple process of deducting 3 cents per bushel on all grain handled for elevator purposes. This elevator fund has been used to secure 36 local elevators in Manitoba, 53 elevators in Alberta and 575 in Saskatchewan, or a total of 638 for the three pools. These elevators, like the other property of the pools, is paid for in cash; hence there are no bonds or mortgages.

In addition to the local elevators, the pools have terminal elevator facilities for handling 20,020,000 bushels of wheat at a time. With a small enlargement of these terminal facilities and quick turnover the pools will be able to handle their entire product.

Says U. S. Shipping Strength Inadequate for Present Business

BUFFALO, N. Y., Nov. 1.—While other nations are clamoring for shipping strength, America's merchant marine is capable only of carrying 80 per cent of her commerce and not the 50 per cent specified by congress, T. V. O'Connor, chairman of the shipping board declared today at a hearing on merchant marine matters.

FASCISTI SEARCH OUT REFUGEES FROM RULE IN FRANCE, EXTRADITE AND MURDER COMMUNIST WORKERS

By LOUIS DE PHILLIPIS.
(Special to The Daily Worker)

MONTE CARLO.—(By Mail.)—The fascist terror is not satisfied with its prey, a whole nation at its mercy, thousands of valiant working men and women crowding the regal prisons, numberless martyrs fallen under its fire and daggers. These are considered a trifle by the Italian fascist bourgeoisie. More proletarian blood must be shed and more victims must be added, and therefore they are resolved to operate even outside the national borders, wherever a trace of opposition to their bloody regime is found.

To this purpose, Mussolini, idol of the Italian bourgeoisie and symbol of life for Italian capitalism, has spread a net beyond the Italian frontier for vigilance over the hundreds of thousands of Italian refugees distributed in the greatest part over the French territory.

Fascisti agents are to be found wherever Italian workers are encountered. They receive instructions and orders from Rome thru the intermediary of the Italian consuls. The Italian consulates are regular agencies for espionage as well as for persecution and signalizing of the refugee's conduct and activities.

All that is diplomatically possible is done to obtain the extradition of active revolutionaries. For this purpose they instigate them for crimes simply invented by the Italian authorities. If a follow-up is impossible, and the reprosion of an individual is deemed necessary, a punitive expedition is made across the border.

Murder Commands.

Only recently, at Nice, in the proximity to the Italian frontier, a young comrade, Manzoni, was shot down in cold blood by the agents of Mussolini while he was walking quietly in the street. He was wounded by a bullet as she ran for aid.

The comrade was an active militant of the working class and loved by those who knew him. His murder had been ordered in Italy to "form an example."

In accosting him, his assailants asked but a brief question: "Have you finally decided to wear a black shirt?"

"Never," he answered.

It is then that the murderers pulled out their guns and shot him.

Press Suppresses Slaying.

The French bourgeois press, under the pretext of not wanting to "disturb the action of the police," does not mention a word about the murder.

But the worker population is indignant and more categorically than ever they demand the expulsion of the fascists from French territory.

On the contrary, the national bloc shuts its eyes in regard to fascists, while, obeying the dictates of the duce, it deports Italian workers incessantly.

This fact points out the necessity of the workers of all countries to unite against the united front of the

Rumors of Ferdinand's Illness Are Persistent

BERLIN, Nov. 1.—Reports of the illness of King Ferdinand still persist in Bucharest, notwithstanding official denials and the king's own ambulance to the Queen stating he was in good health, according to dispatches received here today.

The denials were given new impetus by the fact that the King was not present at the cabinet meeting, the occasion of the cabinet's birthday. This ceremony was performed by officials by the cabinet, and thus the king's absence from said function has given a prolonged lease and not participate in public functions.

Daily Worker Booster Not Disturbed by Fine

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 1.—The case of Benny Siegal, who was arrested for selling DAILY WORKER certificates, resulted in a fine of $3.50 with a warning that the act be not repealed.

Siegal is one of the active hustlers for The DAILY WORKER and expects to get subs and renewals with the certificates as long as he pleases and predicts that before he puts away his cane for good he will have six bucks in his fist from the judgment's yearly sub to The DAILY WORKER. So some day court will be delayed till nincomer finds out from the pages of The DAILY WORKER how the revolution is jogging in the American cosmopolitan.

SLAVE FOR LOW WAGES BUT GLORY IN CHANCE TO 'KEEP DAILY WORKER'

Many examples of how workers who are slaving for wages that give them a bare subsistence feel that they are not too poor to help keep The DAILY WORKER in its present campaign are coming in.

Herbert Benjamin reports one example: "I raised $57 in a small meeting in Endicott last night for The DAILY WORKER. The significance of this fact will be realized, as I realize it, when I say that of the eleven members who contributed this amount the nine largest contributors are slaving in the Endicott-Johnson shoe factory at from $12 to $22 a week and must support large families on their wages."

One member of this group, he reports, lost an arm in a machine in the factory, and has nine children to support. But he glories in the privilege to help in the campaign.

This is the spirit that will keep alive the only working class daily in America!

...ORKERS SCHOOL PREPARES PARTY FUNCTIONARIES

Courses Are Designed to Develop Leaders.

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—The core of the large number of courses offered by the New York Workers School this year is to be found in the group of courses that have been designated, "Elementary Party Training Course," and the group entitled, "Advanced Party Training Course." These are especially designed to train party functionaries; to raise the theoretical level of the party membership and to prepare workers for proper service to the labor movement.

Training Needed.

The Workers Party has entered into a period of increased and intensified activity. After a period of defeat and isolation, it has won several notable successes, is breaking down the isolation from which it suffered and is now actually engaged in organizing workers, leading certain strikes and developing progressive trends in their important unions as well as taking part in various united front movements. All these matters place new responsibilities upon members of the party.

They are called upon to make swift decisions on practical matters of policy—decisions implying both a knowledge of our fundamental doctrine and of the concrete problems is found in a proper theoretical training combined with the requisite practical experience.

Prepare Leaders.

Another cause of the special importance of the combination party training courses is the fact that the party reorganization has created a great need for additional functionaries since the new form of organization requires many more functionaries than did the old. Therefore the school is bending all its energies towards the training of such functionaries.

The Courses.

The party training courses include the following combinations:

Elementary Party Training Course—Marxism-Leninism, B. D. Wolfe, instructor; History of the American Communist Party, William Z. Weinstone, instructor; American Communist Party Organization, Jack Stachel, instructor; Theory and Practice of Work in Trade Unions, Bert Gitlow, instructor; American Economic and Political History, D. Benjamin, instructor; History of the American Working Class, Arthur C. Calhoun, instructor; Elements of the Marxian Economics, instructor to be announced; American Labor Problems, a symposium course.

Advanced Party Training Courses—American Today (Problems of Marxism in America), Bertram D. Wolfe; Theory and Practice of Work in Trade Unions, Benjamin Gitlow; History of the Comintern, W. W. Weinstone; History of the American Working Class, Arthur C. Calhoun; Communist Party Organization, Jack Stachel; Historical Materialism, J. Mindel; Advanced Marxian Economics, Harry Wicks.

Starts in November.

All of these courses are starting during the first two weeks in November and workers should register now during afternoon or evening at the school or send for free catalog to Bertram D. Wolfe, Director of the Workers' School, 108-108 E. 14th Street, New York City.

Power Company Using Insurance Scheme as Collaboration Bait

SEATTLE, Nov. 1.—(FP)— Manifestation of the spirit of company-unionism is revealed in the recent action of the Puget Sound Power & Light Co. in taking out a group insurance policy involving approximately $5,400,000 covering 3,000 of its 3,600 employes. The company pays part of the premium for each employe. The policies provide for permanent disability and old age pensions. It is stated that no compulsion will be exercised in signing up the workers.

The Puget Sound company is one of the largest electric light and power monopolies in the northwest. It has an agreement with the electricians' union covering linemen and a limited number of skilled workers.

...ESTITUTE NO LONGER CREDIT MARTIAN BEINGS

Astronomer Dismisses old Fantastic Notion

While guessing scientists no longer concern themselves as to the existence of intelligent life on the planet Mars, that Mars may have long since left the "inhabited" list, the connected by pseudo-scientists on Mars with...motely akin to those with which we are familiar; and, third, that Mars is a "dying world," a planet that has had its day and that is now grown cold, losing its power of gravitation and its atmosphere with the general conclusion to be drawn that if animal life ever existed there, it has had its day.

More Closely.

This, by and large, is the result of further investigations made of the intriguing planet in the last few days at Yerkes Observatory in Williams Bay, Wisconsin. At present, Mars is as close to the earth as it will be for fifteen years, 43,000,000 miles, and affords excellent opportunities for astronomers who, however, are far more interested in making calculations as to the physical conditions of the neighbor orb than they are in trying to find further evidence of the kind of life that many people would be eager to hear announced as existing there.

Possible Vegetation.

The astronomers, however, do not dismiss the possibility of the existence of vegetable life on Mars, altho even with regard to this there is considerable dispute. The belief that there is such life is based on color changes observed on the planet and that the so-called "canals" may be strips of vegetation. This is opposed by astronomers who are of the opinion that both the color changes and the markings taken for canals are due to atmospheric shiftings and possible volcanic activity.

Sociology Professor Tells Strikers They Need Union to Fight

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—Leroy Bowman, professor of sociology at Columbia University, characterised conditions in the paper box industry at "rotten" in an address before striking workers of that industry.

Mr. Brown said that as a member of the Teachers' Union he is a part of the labor movement and the struggle to "clean up the glaring evils in the civilization of today."

"You box workers are struggling against sweatshop conditions in New York," declared Professor Bowman. "Your demands for a 44-hour week, extra pay for overtime and union recognition are mere elemental demands which other workers have long enjoyed," the speaker maintained. "Organize, stick together until you have won this strike."

Mr. Bowman told the strikers that "freedom does not pervade the atmosphere of America. Freedom comes to a group of people only after they have come to fruition in the children it improbable that such mind will ever hood and youth, or make it largely organized to advance their interests."

Lack of Funds Holds up Palmer Probe 'Till After the Elections

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1. — Senator Borah's committee which was authorized last June to probe the handling of the alien property in this country by Mitchell Palmer, Garvin, Harry Daugherty, Thos. Miller and other custodians, will be unable to get funds for its work until the regular session of the senate begins in December.

Mitchell Palmer, Joseph F. Tumulty, J. Harry Covington, a number of former democratic congressmen and some former national committeemen are likely to be summoned to testify in connection with big transactions in alien property during the Wilson administration.

Prof. Kegley said that sticky candies and those made from uncooked ma... also show the greatest contamination.

...UNIONIZATION SHOULD FOLLOW COAL ACTIVITY

Owners Must Produce At Any Cost Now

By PATRICK

(Worker Correspondent.)

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Nov. 1.— The price of coal in Pittsburgh as in every place else is mounting higher and higher. The Terminal Coal & Coke company here refuses to sell even at $10.00 a ton. The only way they are willing to sell ahead is at a "blind price," meaning that the buyer will be willing to pay any price that is asked at the time of delivery.

The companies are holding all their coal for foreign buyers who, in foreign cities at not being able to get coal, are outbidding each other. Italy, Norway, Sweden, all of South America and other European countries are entirely dependent on other nations for their coal. Germany cannot furnish enough scab coal to England and still supply home market. England has gone to self because of the British miners' strike, therefore all countries are turning to America, willing to buy at any price just to get the coal.

Admit Price to Raise.

All of the companies claim that the price of coal will not go down, but mount even higher. In the Westmoreland and Connelsville fields an increase in wages will go into effect Nov. 1.

The Keystone Coal & Coke company, the Greensburg Coal company, the Irwin Gas Coal company, and the Berwin White Coal company have posted notices of an increase in wages.

Many of these non-union mines have raised the wages higher than, and some almost as high, as the Jacksonville agreement.

However, W. G. Warden, chairman of the board of directors of the Pittsburgh Coal company, whose mine pays 26 cents more than the Jacksonville agreement, says the company has no intention of again resuming the ass of organised labor. He says that when the demand drops back, the wages will be reduced accordingly.

The cry of all mines is for coal by fair means or foul. They must have coal to carry on their industries. The coal operators know this and are making their prices to suit themselves. The increased wages in the non-union mines are only a sham. They will be lowered again as soon as the supply of coal is disposed off and the demand lessened.

If the miners do not know this, it is time they woke up and looked around them. They cannot let themselves be lulled to sleep by this sudden increase.

Where is Lewis?

Suppose America now joined the British miners with their own demand for a living wage and union organization of unorganized fields, now at the crucial moment when coal is desperately needed. Would not the coal operators be forced to give in to recognize the union and assure the miners of continually receiving the wages they are now getting at this temporary short prosperous period?

Why does not Lewis and his flunkeys use the splendid opportunities offered? Why does Lewis continue to keep quiet? But the miners know that Lewis has never yet done anything for their good. If they want anything, if they want to be assured of a living wage they must go after it themselves, and fight without Lewis.

Why don't you write it up? It may be interesting to other workers.

Desire to Write is Only Qualification Necessary to Enter Correspondence Class

The Chicago class in worker correspondence which gets actively under way this Friday night, is open to all workers, regardless of affiliations. The only qualification a member of the class needs are that he or she be a worker and has the desire to learn how to write news stories.

Any worker in Chicago who has this desire is urged to attend the meeting of the class on Friday in the editorial offices of The DAILY WORKER, 1113 West Washington Blvd. (third floor), at 8 o'clock.

The object of the class is to develop in the workers the ability to put the things that happen in their industrial life in news story form so that all workers can know what is going on. It is the aim to develop first class news writers out of the class members.

Workers do not have to have the ability to write fine literature to get results. The class is primarily designed for those who want training in writing. The "question and answer" method will be used in the instruction so that everyone will get as much as possible from the course. Actual pieces of work by correspondents will be criticised in order to demonstrate errors and good points in the work.

CLASS IN LABOR NEWS WRITING AT N. Y. SCHOOL

Worker Correspondence to be Stressed

By a Worker Correspondent

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—One of the most important courses offered at the Workers School this year is labor journalism (Workers Correspondence) with Harvey O'Connor as instructor.

The course aims to prepare editors and contributors for our union journals, reporters and correspondents for the Party press, and editors and contributors for the factory newspapers. It trains workers in shop, mill and factory to report the news of the industrial struggle in its everyday phases. The technique of simple, direct newswriting, of organizing, editing and managing shop papers and of preparing material for use in the labor press is its main object.

Labor and shop papers will be studied closely and students will prepare copy for actual publication. Noted labor editors are scheduled to speak on various phases of the labor press. Because this is essentially a laboratory course, knowledge of elementary English composition is required.

The course covers the necessary training not merely for those who wish to contribute occasional articles in the form of workers' correspondence, but also those who are likely to become editors of trade union journals or left wing papers and for the conducting of publicity campaigns for strikes or left wing fights, organizing drives, relief work, etc. One does not have to be a fine writer, an elegant stylist, in order to take this course. Plain working class English for working class readers is the best style that proletarian journalists can develop.

The course begins on Monday, November 8, at 8 P. M. and runs for a period of three months. Registration can be made any afternoon or evening at the headquarters of the Workers School, 108 East 14th St., New York City. Register for the course in Labor Journalism today.

MORE MINES INCREASE WAGES, PRICE OF COAL ALSO IS SOARING UP.

By ROMA

(Worker Correspondent)

MOUNDSVILLE, W. Va., Nov. 1.—Two other non-union mines have followed the policy of the Panama mine of this city, and the McKeefrey mine of McKeefrey, a short distance from here, and increased the wages of the miners to equal the scale of the Jacksonville agreement. These last two mines were the Consolidated Fuel company of Crespo and the Woco Coal company of Woodlawn.

This new wage scale affects about 800 miners.

To date, the three remaining mines in the immediate locality, namely, the Parro Run mine, the Glendale mine, and the First Street mine have not announced any wage increase.

The price of domestic coal soared again at the Panama mine yesterday to 15 cents per bushel. This makes a total rise of seven cents per bushel since the announcement of the wage increase, a rise of five cents a bushel October 23 and an increase of two cents this week.

Needless to say, the coal operators' profits are not going to suffer any because of any increase in wages the underpaid miners might receive.

DAIRY WORKERS IN BOSTON NEED HELP OF UNIONS

By a Worker Correspondent.

BOSTON, Nov. 1.—The Milk Wagon Drivers and Creamery Workers Union, Local 380, of Boston has issued an appeal to all members of organized labor to aid them in their fight against the lockout by the Alden Brothers Creamery company. The union has been fighting the lockout since July 27 and financial assistance is needed to enable the workers to maintain the fight. Workers are also asked to patronize only fair dairies in Boston.

Donations may be sent to Matthew A. Dahn, secretary-treasurer, 1334 Tremont street, Boston. One hundred and twenty-two men are affected.

Broke Its Word.

The lockout occurred when the Alden company broke its word to the union and refused to renew the contract with the organization, announcing the adoption of the open shop.

The company has been delivering milk with the aid of police, who guard the scabs. The police at first even delivered the milk, but this was stopped after vigorous protest of the union.

Fair dealers of Boston and vicinity, include: Brown and Conant, Whiting Milk companies, Francis S. Cummins company, Seven Cake Dairy company, Wm. B. Driscoll and company, J. E. Holden, Cashin Milk company, Herlihy brothers, J. F. McAdams and brothers, Deerfoot Farms, Maple Farms Milk company, Cosgrove dairy, and Curley St. Farms.

BRICKLAYERS' UNION WINS WAGE RAISES IN NEARLY ALL CENTERS BUT FAILS IN SHORTENING HOURS

Policies and Programs
The Trade Union Press
Strikes—Injunctions
Labor and Imperialism

By LELAND OLDS, Federated Press

(Continued) portion of the bricklayers' union in raising the wage of its organized members is shown in a U. S. department of labor report. In 16 of the 40 cities covered by the report union rates for bricklayers were materially higher May 1, 1926, than in the previous year. No cut in union wages is recorded.

The 1926 report showed an advance over 1925 in bricklayer wages in 12 cities. Taking the two years together, bricklayers have secured wage increases in 25 of the 40 cities. In 25 cities bricklayer wages are today above those in 1920.

No Shorter Hours Gained.

The 1926 report shows no gain to record the shorter working week. In fact Charleston, S. C., in which the 44-hour week was established in 1925, fell back to 48 hours. With this exception the 44-hour week is general.

Cities in which bricklayers have secured increases since 1915: Indianapolis, Baltimore, Birmingham, Boston, Cincinnati, Dallas, Jacksonville, Memphis, New Haven, New York, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Providence and St. Paul. Two cities have been brought to the $1.75 an hour minimum. These are New York and St. Louis. For both cities this is a gain of 50 per cent over 1920 and 150 per cent over 1915.

Minimum hourly rates for union bricklayers in 15 cities in 1915, 1920 and 1926 were:

| City | 1915 | 1920 | 1926 |
|---|---|---|---|
| Baltimore | $0.625 | $1.25 | $1.625 |
| Boston | .65 | 1.00 | 1.40 |
| Chicago | .75 | 1.25 | 1.50 |
| Cleveland | .65 | 1.25 | 1.50 |
| Dallas | .375 | 1.125 | 1.625 |
| Denver | .75 | 1.25 | 1.50 |
| Detroit | .65 | 1.25 | 1.50 |
| Kansas City | .75 | 1.125 | 1.50 |
| Los Angeles | .75 | 1.25 | 1.375 |
| Minneapolis | .65 | 1.25 | 1.25 |
| New Orleans | .625 | 1.00 | 1.25 |
| New York | .70 | 1.25 | 1.75 |
| Philadelphia | .625 | 1.20 | 1.625 |
| Pittsburgh | .70 | 1.125 | 1.625 |
| St. Louis | .70 | 1.25 | 1.75 |
| San Francisco | .375 | 1.25 | 1.375 |
| Seattle | .75 | 1.25 | 1.375 |
| Washington | .625 | 1.00 | 1.625 |

Lowest Rate $1.00 an Hour.

In 35 of the 40 cities the bricklayers' union has secured minimum rates of $1.00 or more per hour. The lowest rate is $1 an hour in Charleston. In no other city is the union rate below $1.25 and only six cities have this relatively low rate. These are Fall River, Milwaukee, New Orleans, Ohio and Providence.

The average of the 40 cities was $1.468 an hour. This is an increase of 4 per cent over the 1925 average, of 24½ per cent over 1920 and 117 per cent over 1913. Atlanta bricklayers have the record increase over 1913 with an advance from $0.45 to $1.40 or 211 per cent.

BRICKMAKERS OF NEW YORK NEED HELP IN STRIKE

40,000 Workers in Four Months Battle

By ESTHER LOWELL
Federated Press

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—(FP)— The strike of 40,000 clockmakers of New York yields organized labor's strongest and best assistance. The births in its fourth month and has been embraced by the American Federation of Labor convention with requests for full financial aid.

Workers Hungry.

Clockmakers have been denied wages to bolster pit chest most other people of workers, but the fact is that many of the strikers and their families are actually hungry and their union cannot give them cent help. Rises and strike costs have depleted the union treasury.

At a press luncheon given by the Manufacturers' Labor Conference Bureau of New York unions to help the clockmakers' fight against the vicious injunction, Louis Hyman — chairman general strike committee—pointed out the trickery by which the union had been led into a conference which it thought would bring peace and which the manufacturers tried to turn into a complete rout of all union demands, which would mean the return of sweatshop production.

State Federation Backing.

John Sullivan, president State Federation of Labor and honorary chairman of the conference, told how the International Ladies' Garment Workers' union had grown and how it had always been one of the most generous to contribute to other unions in distress. He told Hyman to remind manufacturers who try to label the strikers' demands as "communistic" that the A. F. of L. had gone out of its regular order of convention business to endorse the strike and that the participation in the conference to mount the state federation was backing the fight for union conditions in the clothing industry.

Tariff Bogey Forces G. O. P. to Move for Ending Mill Strike

PASSAIC, N. J. Nov. 1.—Senator Borah has arranged a conference with Julius Forstmann, president of the Forstmann and Huffmann mills, on the question of settling the nine months' old strike, according to a dispatch from Washington.

The Passaic strike has taken no new aspects with the approach of elections and the political significance of a recent manifesto of international bankers and industrialists condemning protective tariffs.

The situation as it exists today in the woolen mills of the Passaic district is being used as one of the most forceful arguments against a protective tariff. In spite of the high duty on wool, the woolen industry is in a worse shape than any other in the country with the possible exception of the coal industry.

Republicans, it is said, are fearing that they will be kicked on the sore spots of the Passaic strike, when the fight over the reduction of the tariff comes up in congress.

Consequently a renewed effort to get the strike settled before congress meets doubtless will be made.

Plasterers' Local Aids Passaic Mill Strike With $680

PASSAIC, N. J., Nov. 1.—The general relief committee, 743 Main Ave., announced today the receipt this morning of a check for $680 from the Operative Plasterers' and Cement Finishers' International Association, Local No. 90, as the result of a membership assessment for Passaic strike relief. The check was accompanied by a letter expressing confidence in the ultimate victorious outcome of the strike, and promising financial and moral support to the very end.

Thrilled by Passaic Movie, Cleveland to Start Clothes Drive

CLEVELAND, O., Nov. 1.—Blasted by the tremendous success attending the presentation here of the Passaic strike motion picture, the Conference for Passaic Strike Relief, which includes in its membership most of the local A. F. of L. and independent unions, decided last night to launch a drive for the collection of clothing and staple food, in response to the urgent appeals from the strike zone for immediate relief aid.

RAILROADS SHOWING BIG PROFIT INCREASE AS MORE WORK IS BEING FORCED OUT OF THEIR EMPLOYES

Railroad profits are again bringing joy to the heart of the investing class. With eight months' profits running more than 12 per cent ahead of last year the entire transportation industry is practically assured of an annual return on the enormous $21,175,000,000 valuation exceeding the maximum 5½ permitted under the transportation act.

Railroad profits thru August totaled $744,944,169 compared with $664,127,658 in the first eight months of 1925. That means a cool $80,000,000 additional profit already in hand. The profit so far this year is reckoned at the annual rate of 4.61 per cent on the rate making valuation.

August Returns Big.

The returns for August exceeded those of any previous August on record and lacked only $4,000,000 of being the largest profits reported by the carriers in any month in their history. According to the New York Times: "It is general expected by railroad men that they will be exceeded by both September and October." The August profit was at the annual rate of 6.2 per cent on the rate making valuation.

How railroad workers are co-operating to make these tremendous profits possible is shown in the fact that while railroad receipts have increased by $189,562,410, railroad expenses have increased by only $82,954,132. The ratio of expenses to revenues has fallen from 75.6 per cent to 74.2 per cent.

Decrease Costs.

The operating proots of some of the more important carriers for the first eight months of 1926 and 1925 were:

Some Climb High.

The owners of some of these roads are enjoying increases in profits far above the average. Thus Norfolk & Western 1926 profits are running 55 per cent ahead of 1925. Other roads in which the increases are large include Santa Fe 31 per cent; Northern Pacific, 36 per cent; Chesapeake & Ohio, 32 per cent; Southern Pacific, 21 per cent, and Baltimore & Ohio, 20 per cent.

Several roads are apparently securing larger profits as a result of the increased efficiency of their shop forces. Santa Fe, with an increase of about $8,000,000 in business, has reduced the cost of equipment maintenance by about $1,444,000. Baltimore & Ohio, with an increase of more than $10,000,000 in business, is spending no more for maintenance of equipment than in 1925. And Norfolk & Western, with the largest increase in profits, has handled $10,000,000 or 15 per cent more business with an expenditure for maintenance of equipment reduced 4 per cent or by nearly $1,000,000.

N. Y. JEWELRY STRIKE WINNING STRIKE DEMANDS

Novelty Workers Force Big Shops to Sign

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—The jewelry novelty workers' strike, which began as a sympathy on Monday, Oct. 25, is practically won. The biggest shop in the trade has signed the union agreement and the other employers are rapidly falling in line.

About 800 workers and 40 shops were involved in the walkout, which was authorized at a meeting of Local 17, International Jewelry Workers' Union, on Oct. 23. Tribert, Kunsman and Fishel, 36 Sixth Ave., was the first to settle with the union. About 100 men from this shop joined the strike and 60 girls also became members of the union automatically because the contract provides that all workers shall be hired thru the union employment bureau.

Anthony Capraro, manager of the union, is signing contracts with the other employers as fast as he can. The contract provides for a 44-hour week, a 10 per cent wage increase, lunch and washit for overtime, no more than one apprentice to 10 workers, six holidays with pay, equal division of work, and the abolition of home work—no work to be given out of the shop.

The workers in this branch of the jewelry industry are engaged in the manufacture of white metal, aluminum and silver imitation jewelry, toilet sets, Spanish combs, celluloid earrings and bracelets, buckles and millinery ornaments.

Interborough Still Persecuting "Sub" Strike Leadership

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—Pending legal argument which is to take place Nov. 6, Supreme Court Justice Mitchell declined to issue an injunction against Edward F. Lavin and other leaders of the Interborough Rapid Transit subway strike, closed some time ago, because there was no "immediate threat of violence."

Counsel for Lavin and the rest, told the court that the application did not purport to prevent a strike as it declared, but sought to stop anybody from inducing employes of the company from joining the Amalgamated Association of Railway Employes.

There was no law, counsel for the subway strike leaders held, to enjoin any man from persuading other engaged in labor that it was to their advantage to join a regularly organized labor body.

$50 CHAMPAGNE GRACE CAPITOL OF WASHINGTON

Political Plaroop Shows Great Expenditures

By BERTRAM B. WOLFE

SEATTLE, Wash., (By mail)—With cuspidors costing $47.75 each it will be a pleasure to expectorate within the limits of the state capitol building in Olympia—after the new furnishings here being contracted for by the state capitol commission, and the sandwort which is so proud of having the "largest" and the "greatest" and the "best" in everything will be able to boast of the most luxurious receptacles for saliva and tobacco juice of any public building in the United States.

$50 for Waste Baskets.

Waste baskets will make even the chubbiest trash feel genteel, for the new waste baskets are being bought at $46 each. Umbrella stands will be too good to put any but dry umbrellas into them and wet ones with Arctics be parked outside when the new $322 umbrella holders adorn the halls of the $7,000,000 building that houses the dignity of the state government.

Only the best quality hats should be permitted to hang on the hat racks that cost $146 each, $637,000 will be spent by the State last Thursday on new hat racks for Secretaries for the proper carrying on of the government's activities.

Novel Buying Method.

Instead of calling for bids for the necessary furnishing on a competitive basis the state officials adopted the novel procedure of (to quote the Governor) "asking these firms how much they would give us for $648,900 . . ." In many cases the unhappy bidders had their necessity and the prices in order to reach the required sum.

For example, if the state asks: How many cuspidors will you give us for $5,000? it would be insulting to offer 1,667 cuspidors at $3.00 each since it would imply an inordinate amount of spitting on the part of those who rule the destinies of the evergreen state. Consequently, the the discreet company that won the contract for cuspidors sold three-dollar cuspidors at what the governor estimates them to be worth) for $47.50 each which would make only 101 cuspidors for $5,000.

Hartley 'Loses Control.

Of course Governor Hartley would have to post notices in every car to point these facts out—there is usually honor among those who award public contracts and those who get them — were it not for the fact that there is a bitter fight in the republican party here and Governor Hartley has just lost control of the State machine to the anti-Hertleyites, and is trying to get revenge.

Hartley is one of the lumber barons of this state where lumber is king. Back of the squabble appears to be a scramble for the richly timbered state lands in which Hartley got the short end of the deal. He attacked the land commissioner Clark V. Savidge alleging that he had disposed of public lands too cheaply.

He attacked "extravagant expenditures" on the State University and recalled two of the regents appointing others. With that the battle was on. From the standpoint of issues raised, Hartley seems to have gotten the better of the argument. But all of the Seattle papers have attacked him as an enemy of education and the republican machine has just been captured by his rivals.

Plan Democratic Combine

There are rumours that his bunch may combine with the democrats to elect Savidge speaker of the lower house of the State legislature. Be that as it may, the democrats are profiting by the confusion in republican ranks. Martin Flynic of the United Mine Workers supported Hartley, while William B. Short of the State Federation of Labor supported his opponents. The general reaction of the workers and farmers here, particularly the latter, is one of disgust at the whole spectacle and will probably result in the strengthening of the Farmer-Labor Party here, which was considerably weakened in the La-Follette election.

Especially among the farmers the farmer-labor party is making rapid progress. It has the support of the Washington Progressive Farmers under the leadership of William Bouck.

J. F. Freeman, a dirt-farmer of Tonasket, Okanagan County, is the party's nominee for Senator against Wesley Jones, republican running for re-election and Scott Bullitt, democrat.

Bootleg War Breaks Out in Herrin, Ill.

HERRIN, Ill., Nov. 1.—Four national guard officers were here today surveying the situation and observing the feeling resulting from the two killings yesterday in the Shapethalton gang feud. The guard observers will visit Marion, Harrisburg and Benton later and report to their superiors in Springfield.

A bootlegging feud was said to be responsible for the killings.

Oil

By Upton Sinclair

One has to think these matters out in advance, and have a standard of conduct. Bunny had made up his mind that at most they be entertained it would be truly lovely and how the child would relish the reason told him that he and how Charlie Norman's mother, it would only be an intrigue and neither of them would be happy very long. So he said gently, that he thought she had better go; and slowly and sadly she gathered up the kimono from the floor, and rose to her feet. "Bunny," she said, "people have nasty minds. If they hear about this, they will make it horrid."

"Don't think of it," he answered. "I shall not tell."

He heard the door softly opened, and softly closed again; and he turned on the light, and locked the door—never again would he fail to take that precaution at a house-party! For a while he paced the floor, thinking over his alarming experience. He told himself, with becoming modesty, that it wasn't because he was irresistibly fascinating; but in this new pagan civilization women were so startled by an encounter with chastity, it struck them as something celestial, superhuman.

Next morning the scantiest maid had her first natural blush in many years when she encountered the young Adonis on deck. But she soon got over it, and they talked about Theosophy, and spiritually as ever, and were perfectly good friends; he called her Thelma and Charlie did not even make a joke. But on the way home Bertie wanted to know all about it, had Mrs. Norman made love to him, and how much? And when Bunny blushed, she laughed at him, and was provoked because he was silly and wouldn't tell. She decided that of course they had had an affair. That was all right, there had been other affairs on board the "Siren"—the lights were dim in the central hall-way, so that you needn't be recognised as you flitted from door to door. "But don't imagine she'll ever marry you," added Bertie sagely. "She talks a lot of rehearsination bunk, but she hangs onto her Occidental Steel bonds for this incarnation!"

XI

Occidental Steel had a bad slump in the market a few days after this, and Bertie was worried—asking a proprietary interest in the concern. She asked Dad about it, and he said it was "just manipulation." But right away a lot of other stocks went tumbling including Ross Consolidated and then Dad said there were fools who would gamble and bid stocks up, and then they had to come down. But the trouble continued to spread over the country, and there were reports of big concerns, and even banks, in trouble. There was panic in the air, and Dad and "Verne" held anxious consultations, and stopped all their development work, and laid off several hundred men; "pulling in their horns," as Dad phrased it. There was plenty of money in the banks, Dad said, but only the big fellows had the use of it; "Verne" was in a rage with some bankers in Angel City who had "thrown him down." It was the "Big Five," at their old tricks of trying to freeze out the Independents. Wouldn't they just like to get Ross Consolidated in a hole, and buy it up for five or ten millions!

Bunny had a talk with Mr. Irving, who told him that it was the Federal Reserve system at work; a device of the big Wall Street banks, a supposed-to-be government board, but really just a committee of bankers, who had the power to create unlimited new paper money in times of crisis. This money was turned over to the big banks, and in turn loaned by them to the big industries whose securities they held and must protect. So, whenever a panic came, the big fellows were saved, while the little fellows went to the wall.

In this case it was the farmers who were being "deflated." They were unorganized, and had no one to protect them; they had to dump crops onto the market and the prices were tumbling—literally millions of farmers would be bankrupt before this year was by. But the price of manufactured goods would not drop to the same extent because the big trusts, having the Wall Street banks behind them, could hold onto their stocks. Bunny took this explanation to his father, who passed it on to Mr. Roscoe, who said it was exactly right, by Jess; he knew the bunch that had their fingers in the till of the Federal Reserve bank here on the coast, and they were buying up everything in sight, the blankety-blank-blanks, but they weren't going to get the Roscoe-Ross properties.

Money was so scarce, Bertie could not have a new car, despite the fact that she had damaged hers in a collision; and Dad talked economy at meal-times, until Aunt Emma took to feeding them on hash made from yesterday's roast! Shortage everywhere, and worry in people's faces, and hints of bankruptcy and unemployment in the newspapers—they tried their best to hide it, but it leaked out between the lines.

Then a funny thing happened. A big limousine with a chauffeur drove up before the Ross home one summer evening and out stepped a stately personage in snow white flannels; a tall young man with yellow hair and a solemn visage—Eli Watkins, by heck! He shook hands all around—he had developed the manners of an archbishop—and then asked for a private conference with Dad. He was taken into the "den" and half an hour later came out smiling, and bowed himself away; and Dad said nothing until he was alone with Bunny, and then his face expanded into a grin and he chuckled, by Judas Priest, Eli had gone into the real estate business! He had found a block on the outskirts of the city which was exactly the size for the temple which the angel of the Lord had commanded him to build; or rather he had found some real estate snbdividers who had a pull with the city board of supervisors, and had got permission to create a block of this unprecedented size. So the word of the Lord had been vindicated and the golden temple was to arise. But for some reason unknown the Lord had failed to tip off Eli to the panic, and here he was "stuck," just like any common, unholy businessman, with a payment on his hundred and seventy-five thousand dollar tract nearly a month overdue. The collections at the revivals had fallen off, and the Lord had made it manifest that He desired Eli to employ some other method of raising funds.

"What did he want of you, Dad?"

"The Lord had revealed to him that I would take a second mortgage on the property. But I told him the Lord had failed to reveal where I was to get the cash. I gave him five hundred to help him over."

"Good God, Dad! I thought we were economizing!"

"Well, Eli pointed out that he had blessed that first well on the Paradise tract, and that was why we had got all the oil. You can see, it would 'a been sort of blasphemy if I'd denied it."

"But Dad, you know you don't believe in Eli Watkins' bunk!"

"I know, but that fellow has got a tremendous following, and we might need him some day, you can't be sure. If there should come a slack election, here or at Paradise, we might get our money back many times by getting Eli to endorse our tickets."

The American Sovereign

We are not referring to the "queen of Roumania, to John D. Rockefeller or to Henry Ford. We have in mind the American voter. For he is king, tho he will punch the clock as usual and experience a palpitation of the heart when the boss catches him grinning over the Toiler," while stealing a smoke in the factory rest room. However, we make the distinction between the American voter who votes his election preference from Biarritz, France, or from his mountain lodge in the Pyrnees and the corrugated toiler who remembers when his gas bill was only $1.25 whereas now it is $1.35. We are talking about the working class voter.

Communists and their political ancestors in the revolutionary movement have been pounding sound advice into the head of Mr. Toiler Slave for several decades. On election day we take out the hammer as well as the hammer. With the latter we knock spots out of the capitalists and their political Punch and Judy men, while with the former we call on the workers to go to the polls and mark their ballots for working class candidates. The workers are hard of hearing and the capitalists have heads made of solid rubber. So far, we have not made much of an impression on either. But we are not about as pessimistic as a bunch of college students going to a party.

"Time and tide wait for no man," says the proverb, but we can learn this old saw over to the efficiency magazines. The tide of evolution is always flowing in the direction of revolution and time has been plenty of patience. Bone-heads and gold-lined pockets can no more save the capitalist system than King Canute's broom.

Today the American voter is king. He will go to the polls and record either for the republican highwayman or for the democratic confidence man. Comparatively few will vote for the Communist candidates. But the only candidates in the field that offer the worker a way out of his industrial slavery and economic misery. It is an axiom that "revolutions never take place until the pains of rebellion are less than the pains of obedience." This does not mean to imply that revolutionists will lay low until labor labors in pain and delivers itself of a revolution. On the contrary the very fact that revolutionists are certain of the inevitable collapse of capitalism, is the best reason why they should prepare the workers for the taking over of power. This is where we are in favor of "preparedness." preparedness for and by the working class.

Today the workers of the United States will cast the overwhelming majority of their votes for the candidates of their masters. But tomorrow will follow, and the struggle for existence under capitalism will convince the workers of the soundness of the Communist program that now fails on deaf ears.

The fate of the capitalist system will not be settled at the ballot box, but no other residue than the certainty that the capitalists will get no good cure there it will not.

Workers! Vote for the Communist candidates today, but tomorrow and tomorrow preach the gospel of struggle against the capitalist system, help to organize your fellow workers into trade unions, agitate for a labor party and join the Workers (Communist) Party.

Need Revolution in School System

dare to face the thought of training teachers who will have their eyes turned to the living world—to the changing, evolving community that is found about children. We have not been as intelligent or as realistic in our dealing with our children as a production foreman is in dealing with his raw materials.

"Hence, our real American educational problem is that of getting a new mind operative in the whole community; a mind that will not be so hostile to the implications of science; a mind that will welcome rational changes in the basis of facts and honest interpretation of facts. A mind that will permit intelligence to play thru industry, and politics, and morality, thru the processes by which education either develops real mind in children or stultifies instructs."

Food Royal Hunts U. S. Scab Coal

need in order to keep the wheels of industry moving in Great Britain, which "fairly" wheels were engaged in strenuous demands.

Mussolini, of course, wants to keep the Italian navy ready to wreak any revolt against the dictatorship any day he has watched developments in the British struggle for he knows full well that a miners' victory would bring his own defeat by Italy's outraged workers nearer.

Using Italian Ships.

The British and Italian navies placed direct contracts with several of the largest coal companies in the United States. Mussolini also arranged for use of Italian ships to carry coal from these ports to Britain to help deliver a smashing blow to the striking miners.

In July the British admiralty placed a contract for 1,000,000 tons of high volatile coal for the British navy and that order has been repeated at last once since that time.

Early in August the British steamer Minnie de Larringea came to Norfolk for coal for the British admiralty. It was the first time that coal was carried from a foreign country to supply the needs of the British Empire's navy.

Coal for British Navy.

Norfolk's newspapers featured this striking situation in both their news and editorial columns, the "Ledger-Dispatch," an afternoon newspaper, running this news item:

"The first time that coal was carried from a foreign country to supply the needs of the British Empire's navy.

"The first British navy is coming to America for its coal, a thing unprecedented in its glamorous and glorious past. The British steamer Minnie de Larringea, cleared yesterday for Barry Roads, loaded with a cargo of coal, whose name will receive the proceeds of another cargo purchased to replace that which the British navy obtained from the Italian navy."

Holds Scrutiny with Coal.

"But this time, however, boat, either British or Italian, has steamed from Norfolk, Newport News or Baltimore, with its holds bursting with "scab" coal to help support British capitalist control of the destinies of one-sixth of the world's people.

"Italy, too, has been vitally affected by the British miners' strike. She depends on other nations for her fuel supply. British miners supplied most of that coal before the strike.

Coal to Italy and Britain.

So scores of Italian ships are coming to Baltimore and to Hampton Roads to carry coal to Italy and to Britain. Even transports are being pressed into use. Only a few days ago the Italian transport Pianone carried 10,000 tons of "scab" coal from Baltimore to Italy. For a year she had remained inactive at the Italian naval station at Spezia. The government, however, pressed her into service and assigned her to the Cooperativa Garibaldi, of Genoa, which is supposed to represent the "Federation of Italian Seamen."

This "Federation of Italian Seamen," of course, is a federation run by the government and not by the seamen of Italy.

The seamen who brought the Pianone here were refused shore leave for the sailors of Italy are now slaves of Mussolini and not free men.

New Orleans Strike of Boilermakers Still Going; Bosses Weaken

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 1.—(FP)—The boilermakers' strike is still unsettled and at the present time it looks as if the employing interests are weakening. P. S. Dubus, representing a dozen or more iron foundries involved officially attended a meeting of the union and renewed the offer of 80 cents an hour for boilermakers and 48 cents an hour for helpers. The union turned down the proposition by a vote of 53 to 44.

MORE OPERATORS PAY UNION RATE IN CENTRAL PA.

By ART SHIELDS, Federated Press.

CLEARFIELD, Pa., Oct. 31.—Defiant of Peabody Coal Co. and the Erie Railroad by the central Pennsylvania miners' ins pat open-shop operators on the defensive. The Bituminous Mining Co., a neighboring concern with 600 workers, has posted notices that the union scale will hereafter be paid—a raise of $1 1-3 per copt over the 1917 scale.

This company, unlike the Peabody, withholds union recognition in favor of a company union, but United Mine Workers' organizers are pressing on it hard and expect to have it in the fold soon. One of its four mines has been on strike since it broke its contract months ago.

More Operators Hard Pressed.

Another company embarrassed by the union drive that President Brophy has initiated is the Allegheny River Mining Co., with a thousand employes. It devoted much of the last issue of its bi-weekly employes' paper to an attack on the union. But it cannot explain to the men why the Jacksonville scale—that it has attacked since it broke its contract—is so easily paid by the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western, which reopened its mines with 700 employes near hy on the river a week ago.

And so many of its men have quit recently that it is taking men off immediately ships. Forty-two men from Italy were brought in from Ellis Island in the last few days.

Union Stronger.

Practically all revival of mining operations in the district now are under the union scale. Five to six thousand men are back at work in reopened mines. This revival has strengthened the union for its drive into non-union territories in the district. As men go off the relief lists and begin paying dues the result is obvious.

Regrets Lack of Control.

President Brophy realises that the revival is temporary, and follows the withdrawing of West Virginia competition into the export channels created by the British strike. He regrets that affairs over which his district has no control bring work to the American mines at the expense of his British brother. The fact within his control is that union wages be paid for all work done in central Pennsylvania and he is having unexpected success at that.

Big Bankers and Big Business Celebrate Prosperity Claims

Dwight W. Morrow of J. P. Morgan and company's bank, speaking at the University of Chicago, declared that before the end of next year he expected the restoration of gold standards in both France and Italy.

At a banquet in the Palmer House, Otto M. Reynolds of the Continental and Commercial National bank, said he used to oppose loans to Europe when he thought they would not be used for "constructive purposes." He thinks there has been a change and now supported loans.

Edward S. Jordan, president of the Jordan Motor company, at the University of Chicago meeting, declared:

"I think that the most impressive fact in the last year's experience in business is the fact that the industry shipped over 700,000 automobiles to foreign countries."

ROY E. BERGENGREN, who speaks during the session on Co-operative Banking, is the national secretary of the Credit Union Extension Bureau, with offices in Boston. Mr. Bergengren, more than any other one man in the field, is responsible for the new credit unions, laws now on the statute books of 25 of the states in the Union. His office also maintains a clearing house for information in all phases of the credit union work.

DRY SENATOR IN ILLINOIS HIT AS GRAFT GATHERER

The plea of Lowell B. Mason, dry, state senator from Oak Park, that the government reveal its evidence against him on a charge of conspiracy to violate the prohibition law before his fight for re-election is decided Tuesday, was granted in federal court.

Mason and Major Percy Owen, one-time prohibition administrator of the Chicago district, are on trial together.

Taxed $300 Each.

Stone testified that his first connection with the alleged conspiracy was made in 1924 when Frank Loveland, a wine dealer whose name has been brought into the trial repeatedly, complained to him that dealers were being taxed $300 for each permit on the pretense that the money was to be used for political purposes. Loveland, Stone said, was willing to do that, but had been disturbed by a demand for $5,000 in a lump sum.

"I advised him to quit paying out his money and told him I thought I could get permits for him in a legal way at a cost of not more than 3 cents a gallon," Stone continued.

The Grafters Agree.

"Not long after that Senator Mason came to my office and told me what connection I had with the prohibition office and what my practice was. The upshot of our conversation was that Mason and I should look after the legal end of things while Mason used his political influence to gain entree to the prohibition office."

Stone said that he then interviewed the dealers and arranged with them to get permits at $300 each, the dealers to get the first shipment before they paid anything.

Dividing Up.

"The first time I went to Mason's office to divide up I carried $3,000," the former administrator went on. "Mason had told me that I should not pay anything out myself, but that we would divide it ourselves. Pay day was to be every Wednesday, and I was to get $50 as my share of each $300 paid.

The latter two are former prohibition agents who also are under indictment in the alleged conspiracy.

STRIKE STRATEGY

By WILLIAM Z. FOSTER

ARTICLE IV.

American and Foreign-Born.

To unite the many nationalities employed in American industry, with their mass of different languages, religions, national prejudices, etc., into a solid, rebellious proletarian mass, constitutes a major problem in strike strategy. The most difficult phase of it is to unite the American-born workers with those who are foreign-born. (For practical purposes we will state the problem thus although, to be more accurate, it is to unite the Americans and the foreign-born workers of the earlier immigrations with those workers of the later immigrations),

The Americans are mostly skilled workers. They commonly hold the best jobs and are favored in many ways by the employers. They are hard to organize. They strike badly and they scab easily. Their role in the struggles in the basic unorganized industries has been to shamelessly betray the militant foreign-born workers. This is the history of many great strikes in the textile, rubber, steel, packing, and other industries.

The Americans rationalise their class treason by a nationalistic contempt for the foreign-born, by charges that the latter are maneuvering to get the Americans' jobs, etc. The employers do all possible to intensify this nationalistic snobbery, and the mind-patriotic trade union bureaucrats feed this chauvinistic maw.

This grave problem is a diminishing quantity. The barriers between the foreign-born and native workers are breaking down. Immigration is practically shut off and few new foreign-born workers are coming into the industries. Those there now are learning the language and winning their way to the skilled jobs. In many cases Americans are entering the industries en masse as unskilled workers. Still more important, the children of the immigrants are growing up and going into the industries. Thoroly Americanized, they are a real bridge between the American and foreign-born workers.

But the problem is still an exceedingly difficult one. It must be boldly met and solved. Educational propaganda and a loyal defense of the economic interests of the various language groups are the foundations of a successful policy. While adopting every technical device for meeting the special needs and difficulties of the respective nationalities among the strikers, such as language speakers and publicity, nationalistic demogogy must be ruthlessly eliminated and the whole strike shot through with a true spirit of internationalism capable of shattering all national antipathies and prejudices and of uniting the strikers into an ideological whole so far as the strike aims are concerned.

The splendid international spirit of the Lawrence, Paterson, Passaic, and many other strikes conducted by the left wing show that the language and nationality difficulties can be overcome.

The strike strategist must especially understand the role of the young workers in great struggles in present-day American industry. As stated above, they are the bridges between the American and foreign-born workers. They are destined to play a continually more important role in mass strikes. In the strikes of the Passaic textile workers and the New York furriers they were the deciding factor. A successful strike strategy must include the systematic development of the youth as strike leaders.

Whites and Blacks.

The unification of the Negroes and white workers into common struggles against their employers is an urgent task of our strike strategy. The Negro workers are a growing factor in the industries. In the packing industry they are a decisive element, and they are fast becoming so in many other industries.

The policy of the employers is to develop the Negroes as a great reserve army of strikebreakers. They refuse to give the Negroes employment in many industries and trades unless they come in as strikebreakers. They force them to accept the lowest wages and the most terrible working conditions. They leave no stone unturned to exploit the deep race antagonism between whites and blacks in order to force the Negro to scab. And in many great strikes, such as for example the 1919 steel strike, where at least 50,000 Negroes were brought into the mills during the strike, they are only too successful.

The Negro intellectuals work hand in hand with the employers in carrying out this policy. So do the reactionary trade union leaders. Their policy of excluding Negroes from the unions, of barring their advance to better jobs in industry, and of generally feeding the race prejudices of the whites, dovetails exactly with the aim of the employers to drive the Negro worker into scabbery.

This program of the employers, the strike strategist must relentlessly combat. At all costs the Negro workers must be united with the whites to make common cause against the exploiters. But this can only be accomplished by complete suppression of race antagonism, and by a loyal defense of the Negro workers' interests. This is easier said than done.

The whites are stubborn in their prejudices, and it is not surprising that, after innumerable betrayals by reactionary trade union leaders and in view of the oppression they suffer from the whites on all sides, the Negro workers are suspicious of even the most sincere white union leaders and slow to hearken to their words. But this is no insuperable obstacle. More and more the Negroe workers are realising the necessity for trade union organisation. The formation recently of the Brotherhood of Railway Porters is only one sign of many. Negroes are splendid strikers, as has been demonstrated time and again in the Miners' and other unions where the whites have given them half a chance to function as unionists.

The problem of uniting them firmly with the white workers will never be accomplished until they are admitted freely to all the unions, until the organised white workers remove every bar against their securing the better grades of work, until they are whole-heartedly received by the white workers as loyal proletarian comrades in the great struggle for working class emancipation. The strike strategist must never lose sight of the problem of the Negro worker in American industry.

Unemployed and Employed.

The question of the unity of the unemployed with the employed, especially during periods of deep industrial depression, is a matter of the most vital consequence in the working out of a successful strike strategy. The policy of the employers in this respect is simple and brutal. They try to drive a wedge between the unemployed and the employed, to make the unemployed a hunger-driven mass ready to take the jobs of the employed when they venture to strike in defense of their standards of living.

As usual, the reactionary trade union leaders, with their traditional policy of abandoning the unemployed to their own devices, assist the employers in using them as a weapon against the employed workers. Many a strike has been lost from this cause.

A task of the strike strategist is to unite the unemployed and the employed in a common fight against the employers. But as in the case of so many problems of strike strategy, work on the solution of this task must be started long before the outbreak of a particular strike, and even before the development of the industrial crisis, with its vast army of unemployed. It must be a settled policy in the unions to identify the interests of the employed with those of the unemployed. There must be a whole series of measures fought for, such as the shorter work day and work-week, equal division of work, etc., which tends to eliminate the number of unemployed.

The unions must never drop the fight for state relief for the unemployed. And when the industrial crisis comes and mass unemployment develops, the unemployed must be organized to fight for relief. Their organisation must be saturated with a no-scab ideology. The trade unions must stay in the closest co-operation with these organisations of the unemployed, joining in their demonstrations and fighting for their demands.

In Great Britain it has been demonstrated how, by the use of this policy, the fight of the unemployed can be linked up with that of the employed, the army of unemployed made "blacking proof," and the employers thus robbed of this great weapon in the class struggle. American strike strategists must not neglect to learn this valuable lesson.

COOLIDGE REPUDIATED AT POLLS

Republican Party Faces Loss of Power in Senate

The talismanic powers of the Coolidge myth were proved as potent for the G. O. P. ... Tuesday as the incantations of a medicine man howling for rain in a desert. "Coolidge and Prosperity," the slogan of the Republican Party sent the voters flishing thru their jeans for the evidence and not finding it they took out their pencils and marked Coolidge off the political map so far as his chances for succeeding himself as president are concerned.

Exchange of Flunkeys.

It is quite true that the masses did not better themselves by exchanging republicans for democrats. It was another scene in the old see-saw between the "ins" and the "outs" with the latter depending for success on the short memories of the workers who rarely can look back beyond two years.

The only thing the masses recollected was that this boasted prosperity on which the G. O. P. banked was not theirs; that Mellon, Gary, Morgan and Butler had a monopoly on it and that they could not be any worse off under the democrats than under the republicans. They are right but that's all.
